

lonely planet

India

lonely planet

India

India

How to Use This eBook

4 easy-to-use sections

1

PLAN YOUR TRIP

Your planning tool kit

Photos & suggestions to help you create the perfect trip.

2

ON THE ROAD

Your complete guide

Expert reviews, easy-to-use maps and insider tips.

3

UNDERSTAND

Get more from your trip

Learn about the big picture, to make sense of what you see.

4

SURVIVAL GUIDE

Your at-a-glance guide

Vital practical information to help you have a smooth trip.

Look for these symbols to quickly identify listings:

- | | |
|--|--|
|  Sights |  Eating |
|  Activities |  Drinking |
|  Courses |  Entertainment |
|  Tours |  Shopping |
|  Festivals & Events |  Information & Transport |
|  Sleeping | |

All reviews are ordered in our authors' preference, starting with their most preferred option. Additionally:

Sights are arranged in the geographic order that we suggest you visit them, and within this order, by author preference.

Eating and Sleeping reviews are ordered by price range (budget, midrange, top end) and within these ranges, by author preference.

These symbols give vital information for each listing:

-  Must-visit recommendation
-  Sustainable or green recommendation
- FREE No payment required

- | | |
|--|---|
|  Telephone number |  Vegetarian selection |
|  Opening hours |  Family-friendly |
|  Parking |  Pet-friendly |
|  Nonsmoking |  Bus |
|  Air-conditioning |  Ferry |
|  Internet access |  Tram |
|  Wi-fi access |  Train |
|  Swimming pool | |

For symbols used on maps, see the Map Legend at the end of this eBook.

The key to the perfect trip

Lonely Planet eBooks make trip planning and on-the-road travelling easier than ever

1. Discover amazing experiences

Gorgeous photos of top sights with links to author recommendations help you plan where to go.

2. Content when you need it

Downloading eBooks on the road is simple, and you can carry as many guides as you need.

3. Plan your perfect trip

Search for destinations, bookmark favourites and add notes to customise your guide.

4. Essential online travel info

Links to the best business and travel websites bring all the info you need into one place.

Features you'll love while on the road...

Map links to reviews mean you can find info quickly.

Zoom-in maps make it easy to navigate in a new place.

Offline maps mean no data-roaming charges.

To get the most out of the maps in this guide, use the zoom function on your device, or visit <http://media.lonelyplanet.com/ebookmaps> to grab a PDF of the maps.

Contents

PLAN YOUR TRIP

Welcome to India

India's Top 17

Need to Know

If You Like

Month by Month

Itineraries

Booking Trains

Trekking

Yoga, Spas & Spiritual Pursuits

Volunteering

Travel with Children

Regions at a Glance

ON THE ROAD

DELHI

Sights

Activities

Tours

Courses

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping

Gurgaon \(Gurugram\)

Sights

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking

Entertainment

Shopping

RAJASTHAN

Rajasthan Highlights

Eastern Rajasthan

Jaipur

Walking Tour: Pink City

Around Jaipur

Bharatpur & Keoladeo National Park

Alwar

Sariska Tiger Reserve & National Park

Ajmer

Pushkar

Ranthambhore National Park

Udaipur & Southern Rajasthan

Bundi

Kota

Chittorgarh \(Chittor\)

Udaipur

Around Udaipur

Northern Rajasthan \(Shekhawati\)

Mt Abu

Nawalgarh

Jhunjhunu

Fatehpur

Mandawa

Jaisalmer, Jodhpur & Western Rajasthan

Jodhpur

Around Jodhpur

Jaisalmer

Around Jaisalmer

Bikaner

Around Bikaner

PUNJAB & HARYANA

Punjab & Haryana Highlights

Chandigarh

Around Chandigarh

Pinjore Gardens

Morni Hills

Punjab

Anandpur Sahib

Amritsar

Patiala

Sirhind

India-Pakistan Border At Attari-Wagah

Pathankot

Bathinda

Faridkot

Kapurthala

Haryana

Kurukshetra \(Thanesar\)

Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary

Surajkund

JAMMU & KASHMIR (INCLUDING LADAKH)

Jammu & Kashmir \(including Ladakh\) Highlights

Ladakh

Leh

Around Leh Southeast

Markha Valley & Rumbak

Nubra Valley

Pangong Tso

Tso Moriri Loop

Leh to Kargil

Kargil & Zaskar

Kargil

Suru Valley

Zaskar

The Kashmir Valley

Srinagar

Pahalgam & Aru

Gulmarg

Naranag & Lake Gangabal

Sonamarg

Jammu & Southern Kashmir

Jammu

Around Jammu

HIMACHAL PRADESH

Himachal Pradesh Highlights

Southern Himachal Pradesh

Shimla

Naldehra & Around

Kinnaur

Rampur

Sarahan

Sangla Valley

Rekong Peo

Kalpa

Rekong Peo to Sumdo

Central Himachal Pradesh

Mandi

Rewalsar Lake

Tirthan & Banjar Valleys

Bhuntar

Parvati Valley

Kullu

Naggur

Manali

Around Manali

Western Himachal Pradesh

Dharamsala

McLeod Ganj

Around McLeod Ganj

Dharamsala to Mandi

Chamba Valley

Lahaul & Spiti

Lahaul

Spiti

AGRA & THE TAJ MAHAL

Agra

Sights

Activities

Tours

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Shopping

Around Agra

UTTAR PRADESH

Uttar Pradesh Highlights

Varanasi

Sarnath

Gorakhpur

Kushinagar

Sunauli & the Nepal Border

Lucknow

Ayodhya & Around

Allahabad

Western Uttar Pradesh

Mathura

Vrindavan

UTTARAKHAND

Uttarakhand Highlights

Rishikesh

Haridwar

Rajaji Tiger Reserve

Dehra Dun

Mussoorie

The Char Dham

Uttarkashi

Joshimath

Around Joshimath

Valley of Flowers & Hem Kund

Corbett Tiger Reserve

Nainital

Almora

Around Almora

Kausani

Bageshwar

Pithoragarh

Munsyari

KOLKATA (CALCUTTA)

Sights

Activities

Courses

Tours

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping

WEST BENGAL & DARJEELING

Sunderbans Tiger Reserve

Mandarmani

Up the Hooghly

Bishnupur

Shantiniketan

Nabadwip & Mayapur

Murshidabad & Berhampore

Siliguri & New Jalpaiguri

Jaldhpara Wildlife Sanctuary

Kurseong

Darjeeling

Singalila Ridge Trek

Kalimpong

BIHAR & JHARKHAND

Patna

Vaishali

Kesariya

Motihari

Raxaul

Gaya

Bodhgaya

Rajgir

Nalanda

Ranchi

Betla \(Palamau\) National Park

SIKKIM

Gangtok

Rumtek

Tsomgo \(Changu\) Lake

Gangtok to Mangan

Far North Sikkim

Namchi

Ravangla \(Rabongla\)

Temi Tea Garden

Pelling

Khecheopalri Lake

Yuksom

Dzongri & Gocha La The Khangchendzonga Trek

Tashiding

Kuluk & Rinchenpong

NORTHEAST STATES

Northeast States Highlights

Assam

Guwahati

Around Guwahati

Tezpur

Nameri National Park

Kaziranga National Park

Jorhat

Majuli Island

Sivasagar

Dibrugarh

Manas National Park

Arunachal Pradesh

Itanagar

Central Arunachal Pradesh

Western Arunachal Pradesh

Nagaland

Dimapur

Kohima

Northern Nagaland

Manipur

Imphal

Mizoram

Aizawl

Tripura

Agartala

Udaipur

Neermahal & Melaghar

Meghalaya

Shillong

Garo & Jaintia Hills

Cherrapunjee \(Sohra\)

ODISHA

Odisha Highlights

Bhubaneswar

Around Bhubaneswar

Southeastern Odisha

Puri

Konark

Chilika Lake

Gopalpur-on-Sea

Southwestern Odisha

Koraput

Around Koraput

Rayagada

Northern & Northeastern Odisha

Pushpagiri Ruins

Bhitarkanika Wildlife Sanctuary

MADHYA PRADESH & CHHATTISGARH

Gwalior

Orchha

Khajuraho

Panna Tiger Reserve

Bhopal

Sanchi

Around Sanchi

Pachmarhi

Indore

Ujjain

Mandu

Maheshwar

Omkareshwar

Jabalpur

Kanha Tiger Reserve

Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve

Pench Tiger Reserve

Raipur

Sirpur & Around

Jagdalpur

Around Jagdalpur

GUJARAT

Ahmedabad \(Amdavad\)

Around Ahmedabad

Vadodara \(Baroda\)

Around Vadodara

Bhavnagar

Blackbuck National Park

Palitana

Diu

Somnath

Gir National Park & Wildlife Sanctuary

Junagadh

Gondal

Jamnagar

Around Jamnagar

Bhuj

Around Bhuj

Mandvi

Little Rann of Kachchh

MUMBAI (BOMBAY)

Sights

Activities

Courses

Tours

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping

MAHARASHTRA

Nasik

Around Nasik

Aurangabad

Around Aurangabad

Ellora

Ajanta

Jalgaon

Nagpur

Around Nagpur

Konkan Coast

Matheran

Lonavla

Karla & Bhaja Caves

Pune

Around Pune

Kolhapur

GOA

Panaji \(Panjim\)

Old Goa

Mapusa

Candolim

Calangute & Baga

Anjuna

Assagao

Vagator & Chapora

Morjim

Aswem

Mandrem

Arambol \(Harmal\)

Margao

Chandor

Colva

Benaulim

Agonda

Palolem

Patnem

KARNATAKA & BENGALURU

Bengaluru \(Bangalore\)

Around Bengaluru

Mysuru \(Mysore\)

Around Mysuru

Bandipur National Park

Nagarhole National Park

Kodagu \(Coorg\) Region

Hassan

Belur \(Beluru\)

Halebid

Sravanabelagola

Mangaluru \(Mangalore\)

Dharmasthala

Udupi

Malpe

Jog Falls

Gokarna

Hampi

Around Hampi

Hosapete \(Hospet\)

Hubballi \(Hubli\)

Badami

Around Badami

Vijapura \(Bijapur\)

Bidar

TELANGANA & ANDHRA PRADESH

Telangana & Andhra Pradesh Highlights

Hyderabad

Telangana

Bhongir

Warangal

Palampet

Andhra Pradesh

Vijayawada

Around Vijayawada

Nagarjunakonda

Visakhapatnam

Around Visakhapatnam

Tirumala & Tirupati

Around Tirumala & Tirupati

KERALA

Kerala Highlights

Southern Kerala

Thiruvananthapuram \(Trivandrum\)

Around Trivandrum

Kovalam

Varkala

Kollam \(Quilon\)

Around Kollam

Alappuzha \(Alleppey\)

Around Alleppey

Kottayam

Around Kottayam

The Western Ghats

Periyar Wildlife Sanctuary

Munnar

Around Munnar

Central Kerala

Kochi \(Cochin\)

Around Kochi

Thrissur \(Trichur\)

Around Thrissur

Northern Kerala

Kozhikode \(Calicut\)

Wayanad Region

Kannur & Around

Bekal & Around

Lakshadweep

TAMIL NADU & CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu & Chennai Highlights

Chennai \(Madras\)

Northern Tamil Nadu

South of Chennai

Mamallapuram \(Mahabalipuram\)

Kanchipuram

Vellore

Tiruvannamalai

Gingee \(Senji\)

Puducherry \(Pondicherry\)

Auroville

Central Tamil Nadu

Chidambaram

Kumbakonam

Thanjavur \(Tanjore\)

Trichy \(Tiruchirappalli\)

Southern Tamil Nadu

Chettinadu

Madurai

Rameswaram

Kanyakumari \(Cape Comorin\)

The Western Ghats

Kodaikanal \(Kodai\)

Around Kodaikanal

Coimbatore

Around Coimbatore

Coonoor

Kotagiri

Ooty \(Udhagamandalam\)

Mudumalai Tiger Reserve

ANDAMAN ISLANDS

Port Blair

Around Port Blair

Havelock Island

Neil Island

Middle & North Andaman

Little Andaman

UNDERSTAND

Understand India

India Today

History

The Way of Life

Spiritual India

Delicious India

The Great Indian Bazaar

The Arts

Sacred Architecture

India's Wildlife & Parks

The Landscape

SURVIVE

Scams

Contaminated Food & Drink

Credit-Card Con

Druggings

Gem Scams

Overpricing

Photography

Theft

Touts & Commission Agents

Transport Scams

Women & Solo Travellers

Women Travellers

Solo Travellers

Directory AZ

Accommodation

Customs Regulations

Electricity

Embassies & Consulates

Insurance

Internet Access

Language Courses

Legal Matters

LGBTI Travellers

Maps

Money

Opening Hours

Post

Public Holidays

Safe Travel

Telephone

Time

Toilets

Tourist Information

Travellers with Disabilities

Visas

Transport

Getting There & Away

Getting Around

Health

Before You Go

In India

Language

Behind the Scenes

Our Writers

Welcome to India

A land of remarkable diversity – from ancient traditions and artistic heritage to magnificent landscapes and culinary creations – India will ignite your curiosity, shake your senses and warm your soul.

Natural Splendour

From the towering icy peaks of the northern mountains to the sun-washed beaches of the southern coast, India's dramatic terrain is breathtaking. Along with abundant natural beauties, exquisite temples rise majestically out of pancake-flat deserts and crumbling fortresses peer over plunging ravines. Aficionados of the great outdoors can scout for big jungle cats on wildlife safaris, paddle in the shimmering waters of beautiful beaches, take blood-pumping treks high in the Himalaya, or simply inhale pine-scented air on a meditative forest walk.

Glorious Gastronomy

Brace yourself – you're about to take one of the wildest culinary trips of your travelling life. Here you'll fry, simmer, sizzle, knead, roast and flip across a deliciously diverse repertoire of dishes. The hungry traveller can look forward to a tasty smorgasbord of regionally distinct recipes, all with their own traditional preparation techniques and presentation styles – from the competing flavours of masterfully marinated meats and thalis to the simple splendour of vegetarian curries and deep-sea delights.

Explore the Unexpected

India tosses up the unexpected. This can be challenging, particularly for the first-time visitor: the poverty is confronting, Indian bureaucracy can be exasperating and the crush of humanity may turn the simplest task into a frazzling epic. Even veteran travellers find their nerves frayed at some point; yet this is all part of the India ride. With an ability to inspire, frustrate, thrill and confound all at once, adopting a 'go with the flow' attitude is wise if you wish to retain your sanity. Love it or loathe it – and most travellers see-saw between the two – to embrace India's unpredictability is to embrace its soul.

Sacred Celebrations

Spirituality is the common characteristic painted across the vast and varied canvas that is contemporary India. The multitude of sacred sites and rituals are testament to the country's long, colourful, and sometimes tumultuous, religious history. And then there are its festivals! India hosts some of the world's most divine devotional celebrations – from formidable city parades celebrating auspicious events on the religious calendar to simple village harvest fairs that pay homage to a locally worshipped deity.

Taj Mahal | DOUG PEARSON / GETTY IMAGES ©

Why I Love India

By Sarina Singh, Writer

The moment I start to think I'm right on the precipice of unravelling one of India's deep mysteries, it has an uncanny way of reminding me that it would take more than just a few lifetimes to do so. Indeed, demystifying India is a perpetual work in progress. And that is precisely what makes the country so deeply alluring for me. The constant exploration. The playful unpredictability. And knowing that, just when it's least expected, you can find yourself up close and personal with moments that have the power to alter the way you view the world and your place in it.

India's Top 17

Taj Mahal

Exquisite tomb that's as much a monument to love as it is to death, the Taj Mahal is arguably the world's most beautiful building, and has been enshrined in the writings of Tagore and Kipling. Built by Emperor Shah Jahan in adoration of his third wife, Mumtaz Mahal, this milky-white marble mausoleum is inlaid with calligraphy, precious and semiprecious stones and intricate floral designs representing eternal paradise, and is the pinnacle of Mughal architecture as well as romance.

Taj Mahal | ELENA-STUDIO / GETTY IMAGES ©

Top Experiences

Otherworldly Hampi

Magnificent, even in ruins, Hampi was once the cosmopolitan Vijayanagar, capital of a powerful Hindu empire, spread across an emerald-green and terracotta-red landscape. Its temples and royal structures combine sublimely with the terrain: giant rocks balance on slender pedestals near an ancient elephant garage; temples tuck into crevices between boulders; and wicker coracles float by rice paddies and bathing buffalo near a gargantuan bathtub for a former queen. As the sunset casts a rosy glow over the dreamy landscape, you might just forget what planet you're on.

Hampi | PIKOSO.KZ / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Ladakh's Moonscapes

As you head north, the air grows cooler and crisper, and you reach quaint, historic hill stations, summer escapes that are ringed by snow-capped peaks. In Ladakh cultural influences came not by coasts but via mountain passes. Tibetan Buddhism thrives, and multilayered monasteries emerge from the forest or steep cliffs as vividly and poetically as the sun rises over Khangchendzonga. Weathered prayer flags flutter in the wind, the soothing sound of monks chanting reverberates in meditation halls, and locals abound with holy offerings, all in the shadow of the mighty Himalaya.

Shanti Stupa | ARMMPHOTO / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Caves of Ajanta

They may have been ascetics, but the 2nd-century-BC monks who created the Ajanta caves certainly had an eye for the dramatic. The 30 rock-cut forest grottoes punctuate the side of a horseshoe-shaped cliff, and originally had individual staircases leading down to the river. The architecture and towering stupas made these caves inspiring places to meditate and live, but the real bling came centuries later, in the form of exquisite carvings and paintings depicting the Buddha's former lives. Renunciation of the worldly life was never so serenely sophisticated.

Caves of Ajanta | SANDEEP SKPHOTOGRAPHYS / GETTY IMAGES ©

Top Experiences

Backwaters of Kerala

It's like heading into a dream, lazily navigating the tropically radiant backwaters of Kerala: what is probably India's most laid-back state has 900km of interconnected rivers, lakes, canals and lagoons lined with the swaying palms of thick coconut groves and picturesque villages. One of the most popular and scenic ways to peruse these parts is by cruising on a teak-and-palm-thatch houseboat. Drift along the waterways – as the sun sinks behind the trees, while snacking on succulent Keralan seafood, later falling asleep under a twinkling night sky – and forget all about life on land for a while.

Backwaters of Kerala | DIMTRY RUKHLENKO / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Architectural Mumbai

In a way that is quintessentially Indian, Mumbai absorbs influences into its midst and inventively makes them its own. The result is a heady architectural melange of buildings with a raft of design influences. The art deco and modern towers lend the city its cool, but it's the eclectic Victorian-era structures – the neo-Gothic, Indo-Saracenic and other old flourishes – that have significantly added to Mumbai's magic. All those spires, gables, arches and onion domes, set off by lofty palms and leafy banyans, are apt embellishments for this movie star city.

Mumbai | SNEHAL JEEVAN PAILKAR / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Safaris

Tiger and leopard spotting in India is very much a matter of luck and timing, but thousands do experience the thrill of seeing a big cat roaming in the wild. Even if you don't, it's a pleasure to simply wander through one of India's many beautiful temple- and ruin-dotted forest reserves observing spotted deer, peacocks and langur monkeys, while colourful birds and butterflies flit overhead. Or for a completely different safari experience, hop aboard a 'ship of the desert'. At towns such as Jaisalmer or Bikaner, you can ride on lolling camelback through desert scrub, stopping at night to camp among a rippled ocean of sand dunes and under a shedload of stars.

Chital at Bandipur National Park | VINOD V CHANDRAN / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Cuppa in a Hill Station

India's valleys, deserts and palm-lined beaches are full of wonders, but come summer it can get darn hot down there. India's erstwhile princes and British colonials used to escape the heat by heading to the cool mountain refuges, such as Darjeeling, and the hill stations still serve up lush forests and crisp mountain air. So, curl up under a blanket with a steaming cup of local tea and watch birds swooping across misty hillsides, broody clouds drifting over bulbous tea trees and village kids running through mountain fog and meadow wildflowers.

Darjeeling | JANE SWEENEY / GETTY IMAGES ©

Top Experiences

Holy Varanasi

Welcome to Varanasi, a city full of life and death, and one of India's most revered sacred cities. Pilgrims flock here to worship, take a holy dip in the Ganges River, or cremate loved ones. Hindus believe the waters of the Ganges cleanse away sins, while dying here is deemed particularly propitious as it offers emancipation from the arduous life-and-death cycle. Varanasi will swiftly sweep you into its dizzying spiritual whirlwind – just take a deep breath and immerse yourself in pondering the meaning of life, death...and beyond.

Dashashwamedh Ghat | SAIK03P / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Goan Beaches

With nodding palms on one side of the sugar-white sands and lapping powder-blue waves on the other, Goa's coastline is lined by beautiful beaches and has an easy-going hedonistic atmosphere that's like nowhere else in India. It's not an undiscovered paradise: this cool coastal strip bustles with fellow travellers, vendors and beach-shack eateries. It's a slice of paradise that appeals to social creatures and fans of creature comforts who like their seafood fresh and their holidays easy.

Palolem Beach | CRAIG PERSHOUSE / GETTY IMAGES ©

Top Experiences

Jaisalmer's Desert Mirage

A gigantic, golden sandcastle that rises like a mirage from the desert of Rajasthan, the 'Land of Kings', Jaisalmer's 12th-century citadel is romantically picturesque. This sandstone fort, with its crenellated ramparts and undulating towers, is a fantastical structure, elegantly blending in with the toffee-gold hues of its desert environs. Inside, a royal palace, atmospheric old havelis (traditional residences), delicately chiselled Jain temples and skinny lanes all conspire to create one of the country's best places to get lost.

Jaisalmer's 12th-century citadel | DMITRY RUKHLENKO / GETTY IMAGES ©

Top Experiences

Cheeky Khajuraho

Care to see a nine-person orgy? Couples imaginatively intertwined? Hot nymphs? Khajuraho is the place! Some say the sensuous carvings on Khajuraho's temples depict the Kama Sutra, or Tantric practices for initiates; others, that they're educational models for children or allegories for the faithful. But pretty much everyone agrees that they're delightfully mischievous. Once the initial titillation wanes, you'll notice that the carving and architecture of these historic temples are remarkably skilled and multifariously mind stirring.

Khajuraho | WAJ / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Epic Rail Journeys

A long train journey across India, from sun-baked plains to lime-green rice paddies, is an epic experience. Domestic flights are increasingly popular, but as the estimated 25 million daily train passengers can attest, you can't soak up India's dramatically diverse landscape and mingle with so many people on a plane. It's a chance to leisurely chit-chat over a hot cup of chai, or gaze out of the window at the passing land and people, listening to the click-clacking soundtrack of the rattling rails.

Nilgiri Mountain Railway | DZERKACH VIKTAR / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Delhi

India's capital bears the mighty remnants of former empires, from great Mughal tombs to grandiose British-era mansions. There's so much to see here: the crumbling splendour of Old Delhi – with the Jama Masjid, Red Fort and its havelis (ornately decorated residences), the ancient forts of Tughlaqabad and Purana Qila, and the wonders of Qutb Minar and Mehrauli Archaeological Park. Add to this the city's many fine eateries, with offerings from street food to modern Indian, superb museums and amazing shopping, and it's easy to see why Delhi mesmerises many.

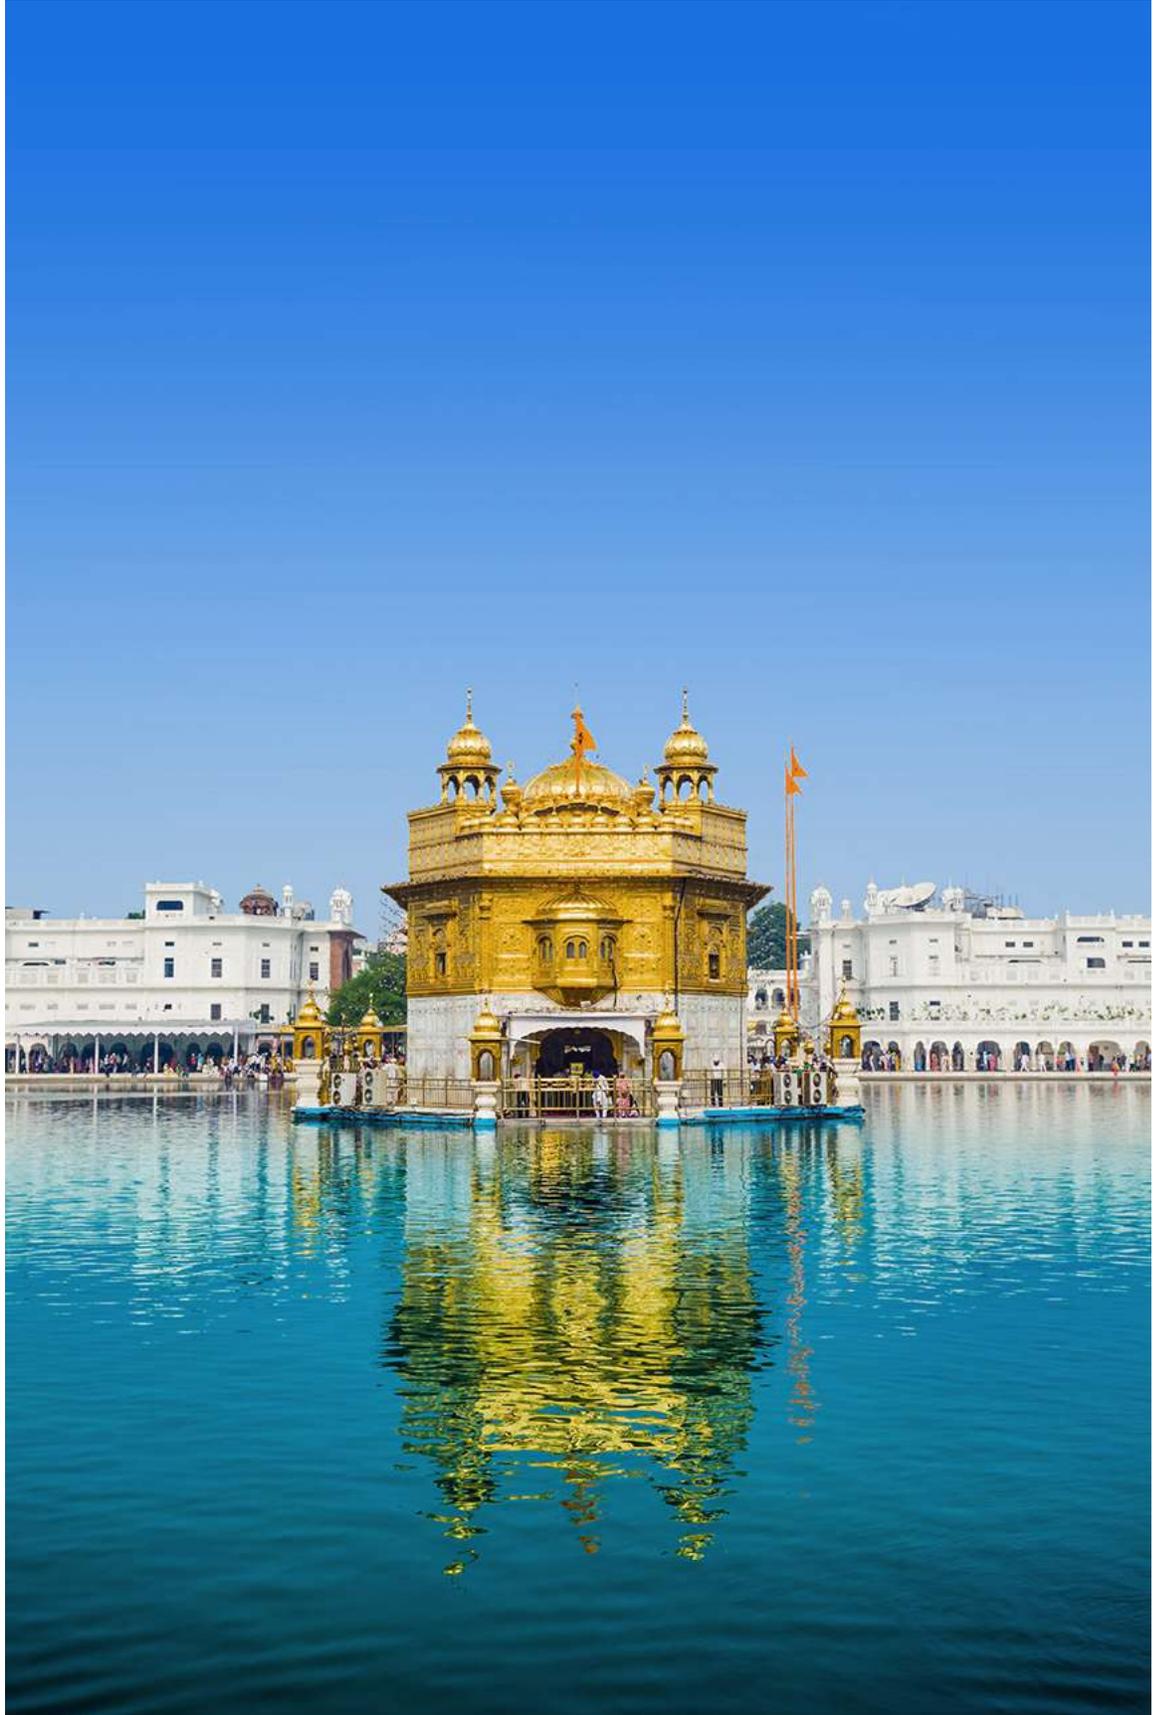

Jama Masjid | SAIK03P / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Amritsar's Golden Temple

The Golden Temple in Amritsar, is the Sikhs' holiest of shrines, and has a magical atmosphere. Seeming to float atop a glistening pool named for the 'nectar of immortality', the temple is truly golden (the lotus-shaped dome is gilded in the real thing). Even when crowded with pilgrims it has a graceful tranquillity, with the sounds of kirtan (Sikh devotional singing) and birds chirping outside, and the mirror-like sacred pool that surrounds it.

Amritsar's Golden Temple | SAIK03P / SHUTTERSTOCK©

Top Experiences

French-Flavoured Puducherry

A place where you can gorge on yoga, pain au chocolat, Hindu gods and colonial-era architecture all at once is a tres bien proposition. In this former French colony, yellow houses line cobblestone streets, grand cathedrals are adorned with architectural frou-frou, and the croissants are the real deal. But Puducherry's also a Tamil town – with all the history, temples and hustle and bustle that go along with that – and a classic retreat town, too, with the Sri Aurobindo Ashram at its heart.

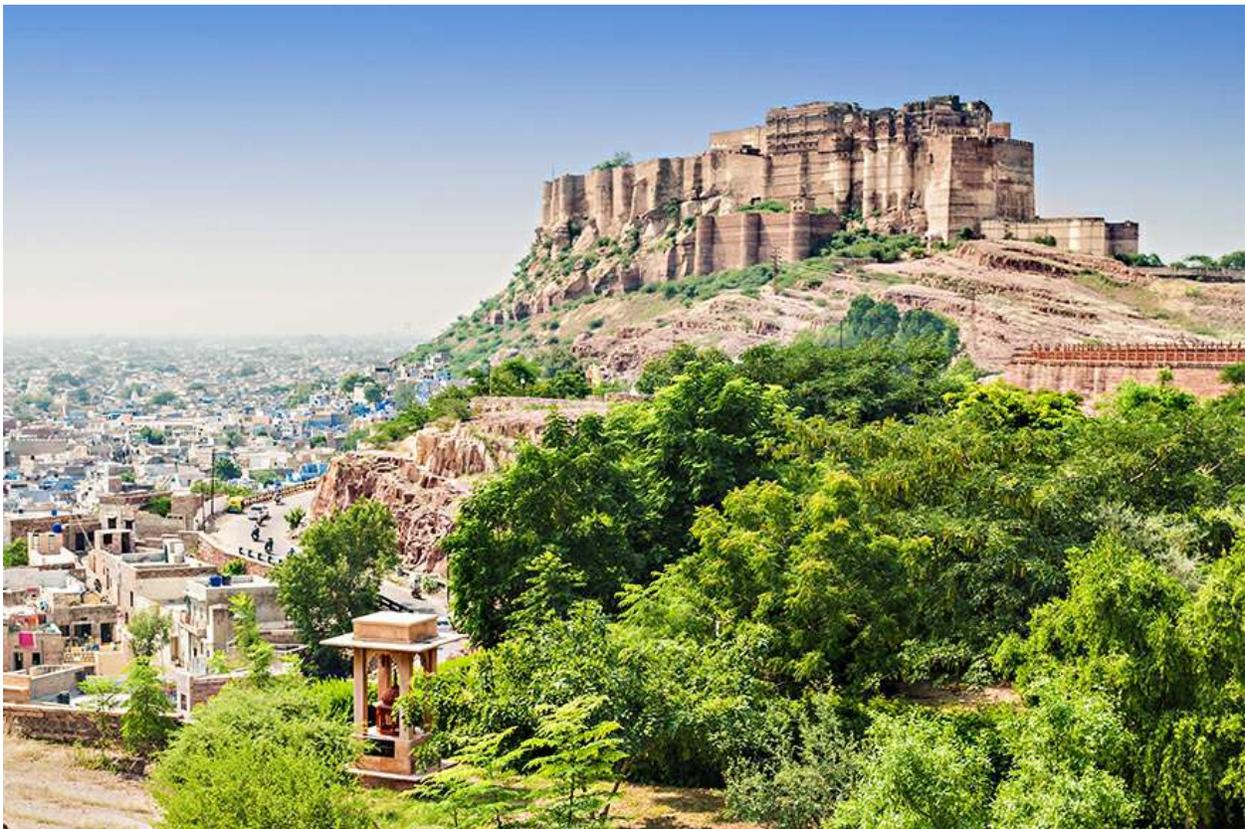

Notre Dame des Anges | MARTCHAN / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Top Experiences

Mighty Mehrangarh, Jodhpur

India has many inconceivably magnificent fortresses, but Jodhpur's Mehrangarh is among the finest, rearing up from its rocky outcrop. Like others, its huge doorways were built to accommodate elephants and its entryways designed to confuse invaders, but this is one of the most imposing settings of them all (though there's a lot of competition). India's forts typically tower above their surroundings like fantastical story-book visions, but Mehrangarh has the added glory of mesmerising views down to Jodhpur, Rajasthan's magical-looking blue city.

Mehrangarh | SAIK03P / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Need to Know

Currency

Indian rupees (₹)

Languages

Hindi, English

Visas

More than 100 nationalities can obtain a 30-day e-Tourist visa; this is valid from the day you arrive. For longer trips, you'll need to obtain a six-month tourist visa, valid from the date of issue, not the date of arrival in India.

Money

There are ATMs in most towns; carry cash as backup. Mastercard and Visa are the most widely accepted credit cards.

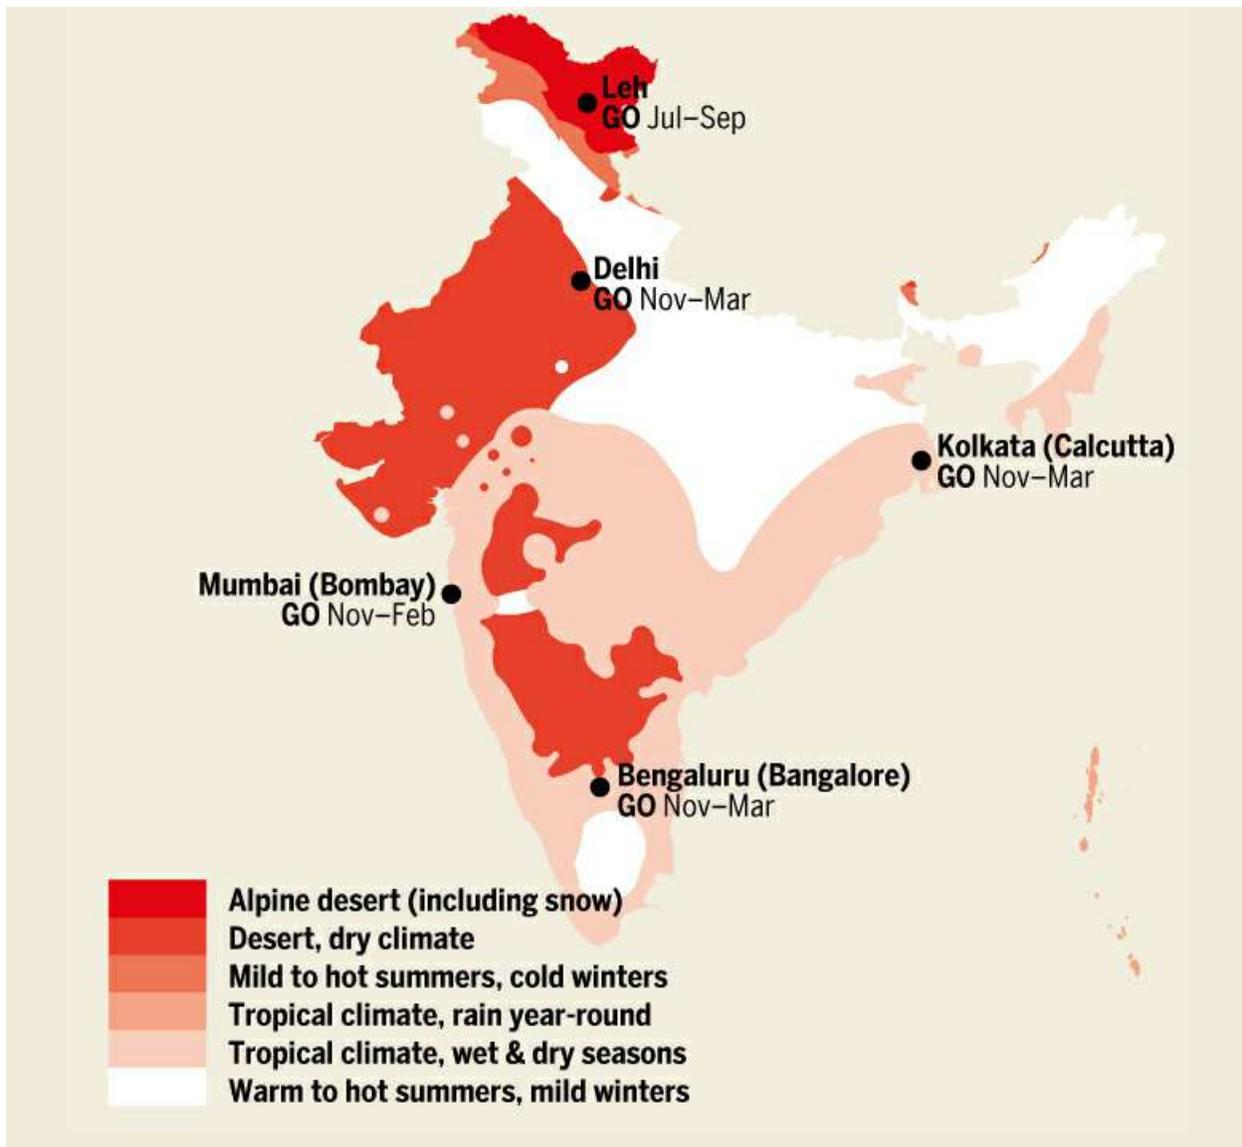

Mobile Phones

Roaming connections are excellent in urban areas, poor in the countryside and the Himalaya. Local prepaid SIMs are widely available; they involve some straightforward paperwork and sometimes a wait of up to 24 hours for activation.

Time

India Standard Time (GMT/UTC plus 5½ hours)

When to Go

High Season (Dec–Mar)

- ➔ Pleasant weather – warm days, cool nights. Peak tourists. Peak prices.
- ➔ December and January bring chilly nights in the north.
- ➔ Temperatures climb steadily from February.

Shoulder Season (Jul–Nov)

- ➔ Passes to Ladakh and the high Himalaya open from July to September.
- ➔ Monsoon rain-showers persist through to September.
- ➔ The southeast coast and southern Kerala see heavy rain from October to early December.

Low Season (Apr–Jun)

- ➔ April is hot; May and June are scorching. Competitive hotel prices.
- ➔ From June, the monsoon sweeps from south to north, bringing draining humidity.
- ➔ Beat the heat (but not the crowds) in the cool hills.

Useful Websites

Lonely Planet (www.lonelyplanet.com/india) Destination information, the Thorn Tree Travel Forum and more.

Incredible India (www.incredibleindia.org) Official India tourism site.

Templenet (www.templenet.com) Temple talk.

Rediff News (www.rediff.com/news) Portal for India-wide news.

World Newspapers (www.world-newspapers.com) Links to India's English-language publications.

Important Numbers

From outside India, dial your international access code, India's country code (📞91), then the number (minus the initial '0').

Country code	📞91
International access code	📞00
Emergency (Ambulance/Fire/Police)	📞112

Exchange Rates

Australia	A$1	₹51
Canada	C$1	₹51
Euro zone	€1	₹73
Japan	¥100	₹61
New Zealand	NZ$1	₹48
UK	UK£1	₹85

US

US$1

₹69

For current exchange rates see www.xe.com

Daily Costs

Budget: Less than ₹3000

- Dorm bed: ₹400–600
- Double room in a budget hotel: ₹400–700
- All-you-can-eat thalis (plate meals): ₹120–300
- Bus and train tickets: ₹300–500

Midrange: ₹4000–9000

- Double hotel room: ₹1500–5000
- Meals in midrange restaurants: ₹600–1500
- Admission to historic sights and museums: ₹500–1000
- Local taxis/autorickshaws: ₹500–2000

Top End: More than ₹9000

- Deluxe hotel room: ₹5000–22,000
- Meals at superior restaurants: ₹2000–5000
- First-class train travel: ₹1000–8000
- Renting a car and driver: ₹1800 upwards per day

Opening Hours

Opening hours are year-round for banks, offices and restaurants; many sights keep summer and winter opening hours.

Banks (nationalised) 10am–2pm/4pm Monday to Friday, to noon/1pm/4pm Saturday; closed second and fourth Saturday of month.

Restaurants 8am–10pm or lunch noon–3pm, dinner 7pm–10pm or 11pm

Bars & Clubs noon–12.30am

Shops 10am–7pm or 8pm, some closed Sunday

Markets 10am–7pm in major cities, usually with one closed day; rural markets may be once weekly, from early morning to lunchtime

Post Offices 9.30am–5pm Monday to Saturday

Arriving in India

Indira Gandhi International Airport Prepaid taxis cost from ₹450 to the centre, while radio cars are around ₹100 to ₹200 more; express buses every 20 minutes (₹100); airport express metro trains (₹60/100 Sunday/Monday to Saturday) link up with the metro system. If you're transferring from terminal 1 to 3 allow at least three hours; the shuttle bus can take an hour.

Chhatrapati Shivaji International Airport Prepaid taxis cost ₹680/820 (non-AC/AC) to Colaba and Fort and ₹400/480 to Bandra. For the train (but not during 6am to 11am rush hour), take an autorickshaw (₹18/km) to Andheri train station and then the Churchgate or CST train (₹10, 45 minutes). From Colaba, an UberGo is around ₹385 off-peak.

Kempegowda International Airport Metered AC taxis to the centre cost ₹750 to ₹1000, including the airport toll of ₹120. Air-conditioned Vayu Vajra buses run very regularly to/from the airport to destinations around the city; fares start at ₹180.

Chennai International Airport Suburban trains to central Chennai run every 15 minutes (₹10) from 4.53am to 11.43pm from Tirusulam station at the airport. Prepaid taxis cost ₹450 to ₹600.

Getting Around

Transport in India is frequent and inexpensive, though not always fast. Consider domestic flights or sleeper trains as an alternative to long, uncomfortable bus rides.

Air Flights available to most major centres and state capitals; cheap flights with budget airlines.

Train Frequent services to most destinations; inexpensive tickets available, even on sleeper trains.

Bus Buses go everywhere; some destinations are served 24 hours but longer routes may have just one or two buses a day.

If You Like...

Cycling

Bengaluru & Karnataka Go for a peaceful roll around the ruins of Bidar Fort and nearby Bahmani tombs.

Odisha Bike around the beautiful scenery, with good roads and very little traffic in Odisha's tribal country, around Koraput.

Padum Valley Mountain bikes are now available to rent through ZAP in Zanskar.

Buddhist stupa in Padum | ILONA SAPOZHNIKOVA / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Forts & Palaces

India's architecture tells a tale of conquest, domination and inordinate riches.

Rajasthan Nowhere matches the Land of Kings for romantic splendour, with Jaisalmer, Jodhpur, Amber and lace-like Udaipur.

Maharashtra The land of Shivaji has defensive masterpieces including Daulatabad, and Janjira, an island fortress.

Hyderabad The rugged Golconda Fort complements the many ethereal palaces of the City of Pearls.

Delhi This historically strategic city has imperial forts like other places have traffic islands.

Ladakh Leh and Stok palaces are like mini versions of Tibet's fantastical Potala Palace.

Mysuru The majestic Mysuru Palace is the former residence of Mysuru's maharajas.

Grand Temples

No one does temples like India – from psychedelic Technicolor Hindu towers to silently grand Buddhist cave temples and Amritsar's gold-plated fairy-tale Sikh shrine.

Tamil Nadu A temple wonderland, with towering, fantastical structures that climb to the sky in busy rainbows of sculpted deities.

Golden Temple The queen of Sikh temples rises like a shining gem over a pool in Amritsar.

Rajasthan Jain temples at Jaisalmer, Ranakpur and Mt Abu offer some of India's most mind-blowingly intricate carvings.

Khajuraho Exquisite carvings of deities, spirits, musicians, regular people, mythological beasts – and sex. Lots of sex.

Tawang Gompa The world's second-largest Buddhist monastery, in Arunachal Pradesh, is set against snowy peaks.

South Sikkim Gigantic Buddhist and Hindu sculptures rise unforgettably above three forested foothill ridges at Namchi and Ravangla, backed by a horizon of white-topped Himalayan peaks.

Ajanta Ancient, vast, sculpted caves. Because monks like beautiful sculpture, too.

Delhi The almost-psychedelic structure of Akshardham versus the simplicity of the all-faith Bahai House of Worship.

Odisha The Sun Temple at Konark, with a vast, splendid stone chariot of the sun god Surya that features intricate erotic imagery.

Kailasa Temple, Ellora | ALEXANDER MAZURKEVICH / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Ancient Ruins

You can wander back through time throughout India, with the legacy of countless cultures and empires scattered across cities and countryside: you don't get to be a 5000-year-old civilisation without having lots of these around.

Hampi Rosy-hued temples and palaces of the mighty capital of Vijayanagar are scattered among otherworldly looking boulders and hilltops.

Mandu Many of the tombs, palaces, monuments and mosques on Mandu's 20-sq-km green plateau are among India's finest Afghan architecture.

Nalanda This Unesco-listed, 1600-year-old university once enrolled 10,000 monks and students. Its monasteries, temples and stupas are still elegant in ruins.

Delhi Conquered and built up repeatedly over the past 3000 years, Delhi is packed full of the monumental ruins of ancient powerhouses.

Fatehpur Sikri A ghostly abandoned Mughal city, close to Agra and the Taj Mahal.

Maharashtra Magnificent rock-cut Buddhist temple caves.

City Sophistication

India's cities are a world away from life in small towns or the countryside. With booming economies and millennia of sophistication under their belts, India's cities have vibrant arts scenes, excellent restaurants and heaps of style.

Mumbai Home of Bollywood, Mumbai has it all: fashion, film stars, fine dining, glamorous bars and (along with Delhi) the country's best art galleries.

Delhi Urban sophisticate Delhi is famous for its cultural life, with regular festivals, plus exceptional shopping, museums, street food and swish restaurants.

Kolkata \(Calcutta\) Renowned for its poetry and poetics, Kolkata also has fabulous colonial-era architecture and a lively arts scene.

Bengaluru \(Bangalore\) This IT hub has a boozy nightlife with microbreweries, gastropubs and rock bars full of locals looking to party.

Chennai \(Madras\) Towering temples, elegant bars, swish hotels, fabulous shopping and a booming restaurant scene.

Bazaars

Indian megamalls are popping up like monsoon frogs, but the bazaar – with its spices and gold, garbage and flowers – is still where it's at.

Old Delhi The Mughal-era bazaars feel like a direct link with the past, selling everything from gold to ball bearings, plus some of India's finest street food.

Goa Tourist flea markets are huge on the north coast, while Panaji (Panjim) and Margao bazaars make for excellent wandering.

Mumbai The megalopolis's old, characterful markets are firmly divided: Mangaldas (fabric), Zaveri (jewellery), Crawford (produce) and Chor (random antique bits).

Hyderabad The colourful, swarming streets around the Charminar sell bangles, birds, vegetables, wedding saris, antiques and much more.

Mysuru Devaraja Market is about 125 years old and filled with about 125 million flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Ahmedabad Manek Chowk proffers fresh-produce market by day and heaving night market by night, with copperware and textiles sold in the streets around it.

Beaches

India has some stunning stretches of paradisiacal coast, with tall palms and powdery white sand, while elsewhere the shoreline is more tinselled, with plenty of personality, people-watching and snack carts.

Kerala Varkala is backed by beautiful sea-cliffs and has a busy backpacker scene, Kovalam is a pretty resort with a golden bay, while more deserted Thottada is shaded by nodding palms.

Goa Even when overrun with travellers, the beaches are still lovely somehow. Mandrem and Palolem are two of the prettiest.

Havelock Island In the Andaman Islands, one of the world's most gorgeous beaches has clear, aquamarine water lapping against white powder.

Gokarna Originally for Goa overflow, Gokarna's beautiful beaches are part of a sacred ancient village.

Boat Tours

India's waterways are a wonderful escape, and from canoes to steamships to houseboats, there are lots of ways to experience India's aquatic side.

Kerala Languorous drifting on the backwaters around Alappuzha \(Alleppey\), canoe tours from Kollam \(Quilon\) and bamboo-raft tours in Periyar Wildlife Sanctuary.

Goa Dolphin- and croc-spotting tours on the Mandovi River; cruise to a secluded beach by outrigger fishing boat.

Andaman Islands See mangroves, rainforest and reefs with 50 types of coral at Mahatma Gandhi Marine National Park.

Uttar Pradesh Navigate UP's chaotic holiness with dawn tours of Varanasi's ghats and sacred river cruises in Chitrakut, Mathura and Allahabad.

Assam Four- to 10-night steamboat cruises are offered along the mighty Brahmaputra River as it meanders through the Northeast.

Odisha Spot rare Irrawaddy dolphin as you tour Chilika Lake, Asia's largest brackish lagoon.

Traveller Enclaves

Sometimes you just want to find the like-minded, exchange stories and discuss strange bowel events. There are places for that.

Hampi The stunning beauty of Hampi's landscape and architecture makes everyone want to stay for a while.

Goa Traveller magnet and beach haven, with Palolem and (cheaper) Arambol as its chief enclaves.

Rishikesh In the mountains, this is a major international traveller yoga centre, whether you're a devotee or a newbie.

Sudder St, Kolkata The accommodation on Kolkata's tourist lane is grungy but great for meeting fellow travellers.

McLeod Ganj Because who doesn't want to be near the Dalai Lama?

Pushkar Travellers, pilgrims, camels: everyone converges on this Rajasthan town for the Camel Fair, but pilgrims and travellers head to its picture-perfect lake year-round.

Delhi Love it or hate it, almost every India traveller passes through Delhi's Paharganj at some point, and the capital's hostels are the newest traveller hot spots.

Puducherry Ex-French, popular yoga-ashram hangout with a refreshing European feel, boho boutiques and chilled cafes.

Parvati Valley People hang out for weeks or months enjoying the laidback pleasures and ethereal beauty of this Himalayan valley.

Yoga, Ayurveda & Spiritual Pursuits

Bihar Bodhgaya is the place of Buddha's enlightenment, with temples from across the globe and Buddhist meditation courses.

Kerala The southern state is where ayurveda originated, and there's a herbal-oil-based treatment on almost every corner.

Rishikesh One of India's most popular places to salute the sun, with lessons for every level.

McLeod Ganj Home of the Dalai Lama and India's capital of Tibetan Buddhism, with a big meditation, yoga, philosophy and holistic medicine scene.

Mysuru K Pattabhi Jois developed Ashtanga yoga here, and this is still a great centre for taking long or short courses, whatever your experience.

Puducherry A big yoga and ashram hangout, there are various schools, teacher training and a yoga festival.

Ladakh Many places do meditation courses or drop-ins and anyone can join in at a Buddhist monastery.

Arts & Crafts

Practically every town, village and neighbourhood here has its own tradition of devotional painting, silk weaving, camel-hide decorating, mirrored embroidering, or other art you won't find anywhere else.

Gujarat Some of India's finest textiles and embroidery are found in the tribal villages of Kachchh, where traditional craft has been practised for centuries.

Rajasthan India's textile traditions are legion. Villages in Rajasthan specialise in embroidery with tiny mirrors: like jewellery for your clothes.

Bihar Folk paintings known as Mithila (or Madhubani) colourfully depict village scenes; more readily available in Delhi than locally.

Tamil Nadu The Tamil tradition of sculpting bronze figures of Nataraja, the cosmic dancer, is about 1000 years old, and the silks and saris from Kanchipuram are renowned too.

Kashmir Famous for its handwoven carpets and jewel-bright papier mâché.

Month by Month

TOP EVENTS

Holi, February or March

Ganesh Chaturthi, August or September

Onam, August or September

Navratri & Dussehra, September or October

Diwali, October or November

January

Post-monsoon cool lingers throughout the country, with downright cold in the mountains. Pleasant weather and several festivals make it a popular time to travel (book ahead!), while Delhi hosts big Republic Day celebrations.

Free India

Republic Day commemorates the founding of the Republic of India on 26 January 1950; the biggest celebrations are in Delhi, which holds a huge military parade along Rajpath, and the Beating of the Retreat ceremony three days later. There are pigeon races in Old Delhi.

Kite Festival

Sankranti, the Hindu festival marking the sun's passage into Capricorn, takes place on either 14 or 15 January, and is celebrated in many ways across India – from banana-giving to cockfights. But it's the mass kite-flying in Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh and Maharashtra that's most spectacular.

Southern Harvest

The Tamil festival of Pongal, equivalent to Sankranti, marks the end of the harvest season. Families prepare pots of pongal (a mixture of rice, sugar, dhal and milk), symbolic of prosperity and abundance, then feed them to decorated and adorned cows.

Pilgrimage, Size: Extra-Large

The huge Hindu pilgrimage, Kumbh Mela, takes place every three years, rotating between four different locations. All involve mass devotion – mass as in tens of millions of people. The next ritual group bathings are in Prayag (2019) and Haridwar (2021/22).

February

This is a good time to be in India, with balmy weather in most non-mountainous areas. It's still peak travel season; sunbathing and skiing are still on.

Celebrating Saraswati

On Vasant Panchami, Hindus dress in yellow and place books, musical instruments and other educational objects in front of idols of Saraswati, the goddess of learning, to receive her blessing. The holiday sometimes falls in February.

Tibetan New Year

Losar is celebrated by Tantric Buddhists all over India – particularly in Himachal Pradesh, Sikkim, Ladakh and Zaskar – for 15 days. Losar is usually in February or March, though dates can vary between regions.

Skiing the Northern Slopes

Jammu and Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh and Uttarakhand have some fine skiing and snowboarding for all levels. Snow season tends to be January to March; February's a safe bet.

Shivaratri

This day of Hindu fasting recalls the tandava (cosmic victory dance) of Lord Shiva. Temple processions are followed by the chanting of mantras and anointing of linga (phallic images of Shiva). Shivaratri can also fall in March.

Taj Mahotsav

This 10-day carnival of culture, cuisine and crafts is Agra's biggest and best party. Held at Shilpgram, the festival features more than 400 artisans from all over India, a potpourri of folk and classical music, and dances from various regions and enough regional food to induce a curry coma.

Snowboarding in Gulmarg, Kashmir | JULIAN LOVE / GETTY IMAGES ©

March

The last month of the travel season, March is full-on hot in most of the country, with rains starting in the northeast. Wildlife is easier to spot as animals come out to find water.

Holi

One of North India's most ecstatic festivals; Hindus celebrate the beginning of spring according to the lunar calendar, in February or March, by throwing coloured water and gulal (powder) at anyone within range. Bonfires the night before symbolise the demise of demoness Holika. (Upcoming dates: 2 March 2018, 21 March 2019, 10 March 2020.)

Wildlife-Watching

When the weather warms up, water sources dry out and animals venture into the open to find refreshment: your chance to spot elephants, deer and, if you're lucky, tigers and leopards. Visit www.sanctuaryasia.com for detailed info.

Rama's Birthday

During Rama Navami, which lasts anywhere from one to nine days, Hindus celebrate Rama's birth with processions, music, fasting and feasting, enactments of scenes from the Ramayana and, at some temples, ceremonial weddings of Rama and Sita idols. (Upcoming dates: 26 March 2018, 14 April 2019, 2 April 2020.)

Mahavir's Birthday

Mahavir Jayanti commemorates the birth of Jainism's 24th and most important tirthankar (teacher and enlightened being). Temples are decorated and visited, Mahavir statues are given ritual baths, processions are held and offerings are given to the poor. (Upcoming dates: 29 March 2018, 17 April 2019, 6 April 2020.)

April

The heat has officially arrived in most places, which means you can get deals and avoid tourist crowds. The Northeast, meanwhile, is wet, but it's peak time for visiting Sikkim and upland West Bengal.

Easter

The Christian holiday marking the Crucifixion and Resurrection of Jesus Christ is celebrated simply in Christian communities with prayer and good food. (Upcoming dates: 1 April 2018, 21 April 2019, 12 April 2020.)

May

It's hot almost everywhere. Really hot. Festivals take a back seat as humidity builds up, awaiting the release of the rain. Hill stations are hopping, though, and in the mountains it's pre-monsoon trekking season.

Buddha's Birthday

The celebration of Buddha's birth, nirvana (enlightenment) and parinirvana (total liberation from the cycle of existence, or passing away), Buddha Jayanti is quiet but moving: devotees dress simply, eat vegetarian food, listen to dharma talks and visit monasteries or temples. (Upcoming dates: 22 May 2018, 12 May 2019, 30 April 2020.)

Ramadan (Ramazan)

Thirty days of dawn-to-dusk fasting mark the ninth month of the Islamic calendar. Muslims traditionally turn their attention to God, with a focus on prayer and purification. Ramadan begins around 16 May 2018, 6 May 2019 and 24 April 2020.

Northern Trekking

May and June, the months preceding the rains in the northern mountains, are good times for trekking, with sunshine and temperate weather. Consider Himachal Pradesh, Kashmir (but not Ladakh) and Uttarakhand.

Mango Madness

Mangoes are indigenous to India, which is why they're so ridiculously good here (seriously, it's ridiculous). The season starts in March; in May the fruit is sweet, juicy and everywhere.

June

June is low, low season for travellers in India on account of the heat, but a good time to trek up north. The rainy season, or pre-monsoon extreme heat, has started just about everywhere else.

Eid al-Fitr

Muslims celebrate the end of Ramadan with three days of festivities. Prayers, shopping, gift-giving and, for women and girls, mehndi (henna designs) may all be part of the celebrations. (Upcoming dates: 15 June 2018, 5 June 2019, 24 May 2020.)

LUNAR CALENDAR

Many festivals follow the Indian lunar calendar (a complex system based on astrology) or the Islamic calendar (which falls about 11 days earlier each year), and therefore change annually relative to the Gregorian calendar. Contact local tourist offices for festival dates.

July

All going well, it should be raining almost everywhere now, with many remote roads being swept away. Consider visiting Ladakh, where the weather's surprisingly fine, or do a rainy-season meditation retreat, an ancient Indian tradition.

Odisha Festival of Chariots

Rath Yatra (Chariot Festival) sees effigies of Lord Jagannath (Vishnu incarnated as lord of the world) and his siblings carried through towns on vast, colourful chariots, most famously in Puri, Odisha (Orissa). Millions come to see them. (Upcoming dates: 14 July 2018, 4 July 2019, 23 June 2018.)

August

Monsoon should be still going strong, but this is prime time to visit Ladakh. Some travellers love tropical areas, such as Kerala or Goa, this time of year: the jungles are lush, green and glistening in the rain, and rainfall is sometimes only a few hours a day.

Independence Day

This public holiday on 15 August celebrates India's independence from Britain in 1947. Celebrations include flag-hoisting ceremonies and parades. The biggest celebrations are in Delhi, where the Prime Minister addresses the nation from the Red Fort and there's pigeon racing and kite flying in Old Delhi.

Krishna's Birthday

Janmastami celebrations can last a week in Krishna's birthplace, Mathura; elsewhere the festivities range from fasting to puja (prayers) and offering sweets, to drawing elaborate rangoli (rice-paste designs) outside the home. Janmastami is held August/September. (Upcoming dates: 15 August 2018, 3 September 2019, 23 August 2020.)

Parsi New Year

Parsis celebrate Pateti, the Zoroastrian new year, especially in Mumbai. Houses are cleaned and decorated with flowers and rangoli, the family dresses up and eats special fish dishes and sweets, and offerings are made at the Fire Temple.

Eid al-Adha

Muslims commemorate Ibrahim's readiness to sacrifice his son to God by slaughtering a goat or sheep and sharing it with family, the community and the poor. (Upcoming dates: 22 August 2018, 12 August 2019, 31 July 2020.)

Onam

In August or September, Onam is Kerala's biggest cultural celebration, when the entire state celebrates the golden age of mythical King Mahabali for 10 days. (Upcoming dates: 24 August 2018, 10 September 2019, 30 August 2020.)

Snake Festival

The Hindu festival Naag Panchami venerates snakes as totems against flooding and other evils. It's dedicated to Ananta, the serpent upon whose coils Vishnu rested between universes. Women return to their family homes and fast. (15 August 2018, 5 August 2019, 25 July 2020).

Brothers & Sisters

On Raksha Bandhan (Narial Purnima), which means 'protective tie', girls tie amulets known as rakhis to the wrists of brothers and close male friends to protect them in the coming year. Brothers reciprocate with gifts and promises to take care of their sisters. (Upcoming dates: 26 August 2018, 15 August 2019, 3 August 2020.)

September

The rain is now petering out (with temperatures still relatively high), and the monsoon is usually finished in places such as Rajasthan. The second trekking season begins mid-month in the Himalaya and runs through October.

Ganesh Chaturthi

Hindus celebrate the 10-day Ganesh Chaturthi, the celebration of the birth of the much-loved elephant-headed god, with verve, particularly in Mumbai, Hyderabad and Chennai. Clay idols of Ganesh are paraded through the streets before being ceremonially immersed in rivers, tanks (reservoirs) or the sea. (Upcoming dates: 13 September 2018, 2 September 2019, 22 August 2020.)

Muharram

Shiite Muslims commemorate the martyrdom of the Prophet Mohammed's grandson Imam Hussain, an event known as Ashura, with fasting, beautiful processions and a month of grieving and remembrance. Sunni Muslims also mark this, but with fasting and celebrations marking when Moses (Moosa) fasted because Allah saved the Israelites from their enemy in Egypt. (Upcoming dates: 21 September 2018, 10 September 2019, 29 August 2020.)

October

This is when the travel season starts to kick off in earnest. October, aka shoulder season, brings festivals, mostly good weather with reasonably comfy temperatures, and lots of post-rain greenery and lushness.

Gandhi's Birthday

The national holiday of Gandhi Jayanti is a solemn celebration of Mohandas Gandhi's birth, on 2 October, with prayer meetings at his cremation site in Delhi, Raj Ghat.

Let it Rain

Water bodies are full up after the rains, making for spectacularly thundering white-water falls. This is also the season for rafting in some areas; visit www.indiarafting.com.

Durga Puja

The conquest of good over evil is exemplified by the goddess Durga's victory over buffalo-headed demon Mahishasura. Celebrations occur around the time of Dussehra, particularly in Kolkata, where thousands of images of the goddess are displayed then ritually immersed in rivers and water tanks.

Navratri

The exuberant Hindu 'Festival of Nine Nights' leading up to Dussehra celebrates the goddess Durga in all her incarnations. Festivities, in September or October, are particularly vibrant in West Bengal, Maharashtra and Gujarat; in Kolkata, Durga images are ritually immersed in rivers and tanks. (Upcoming dates: 9 October 2018, 29 September 2019, 17 October 2020.)

Dussehra

Colourful Dussehra celebrates the victory of the Hindu god Rama over the demon-king Ravana and the triumph of good over evil. Dussehra is big in Kullu, where more than 200 village deities are carried into the town on palanquins and festivities go on for a week. (Upcoming dates: 19 October 2018, 8 October 2019, 25 October 2020.)

Pushkar Camel Fair

Held during Kartika (the eighth Lunar month, usually October or November), this fair attracts around 200,000 people, bringing some 50,000 camels, horses and cattle. It's a swirl of colour, magic and mayhem, thronged with musicians, mystics, tourists, camera crews, traders, devotees and animals.

November

The climate is blissful in most places, still hot but not uncomfortably so, but the southern monsoon is sweeping Tamil Nadu and Kerala.

Diwali

In the lunar month of Kartika, Hindus celebrate Diwali for five days. There's massive build up to this, and on the day people exchange gifts, light fireworks, and light lamps to lead Lord Rama home from exile. One of India's prettiest and noisiest festivals. (Upcoming dates: 7 November 2018, 27 October 2019, 14 November 2020.)

Guru Nanak's Birthday

Nanak Jayanti, birthday of Guru Nanak, founder of Sikhism, is celebrated with prayer, kirtan (devotional singing) and processions for three days, especially in Punjab and Haryana. The festival may also be held on 14 April, possibly Nanak's actual 1469 birth date.

December

December is peak tourist season for a reason: it's an escape from the cold elsewhere, you're guaranteed glorious weather (except for the chilly mountains), the humidity's low, the mood is festive and the beach rocks.

The Prophet Mohammed's Birthday

The Islamic festival of Eid-Milad-un-Nabi celebrates the birth of the Prophet Mohammed with prayers and processions, especially in Jammu and Kashmir. It falls around 1 December 2017, 21 November 2018, and 10 November 2019.

Birding

Many of India's 1250-plus bird species perform their winter migration from November to January or February, and excellent birdwatching spots are peppered across the country; www.birding.in is an excellent resource.

Camel Treks in Rajasthan

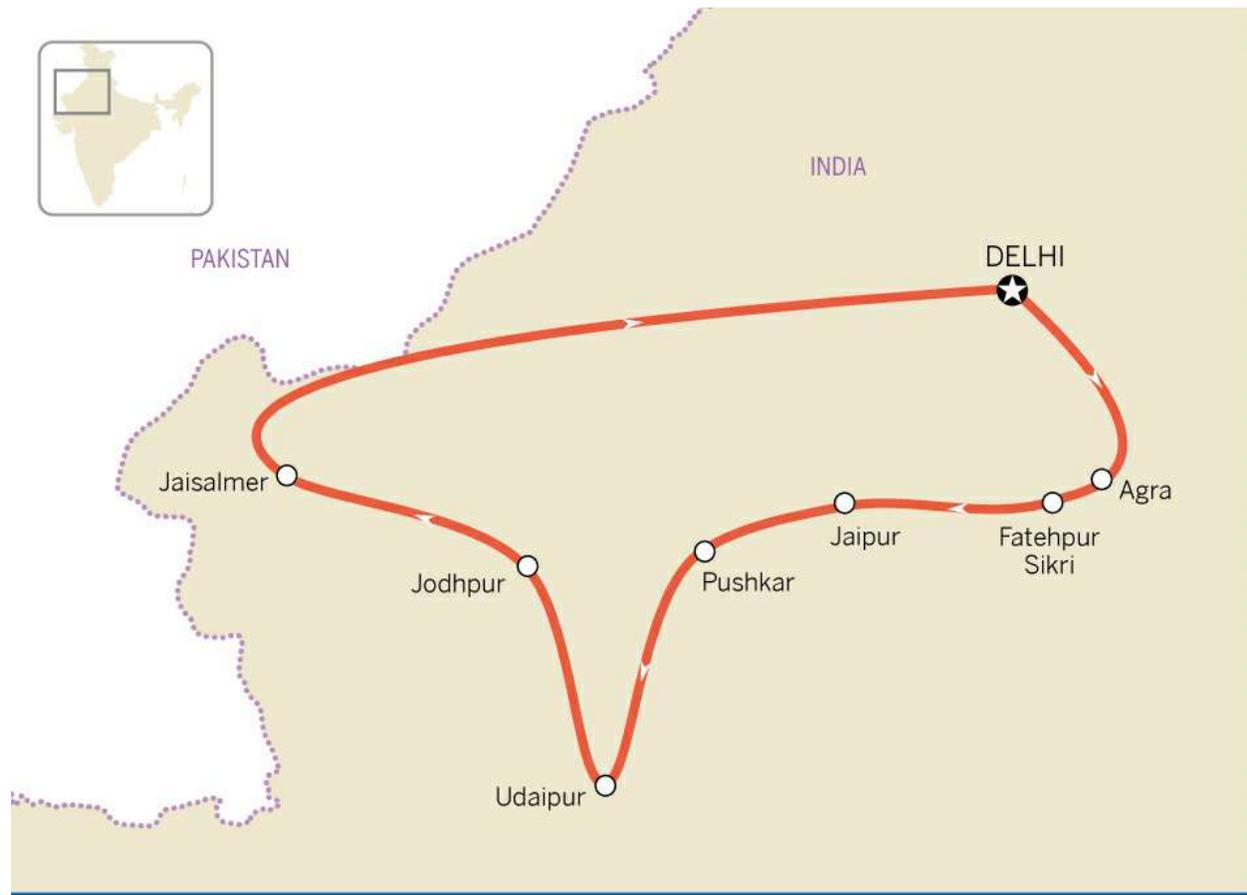

The cool winter (November to February) is the time to mount a camel and ride through the Rajasthani desert. Setting out from Jaialmer or Bikaner, you can explore the Thar Desert and sleep under a shedload of stars.

Christmas

Christian Goa comes alive in the lead-up to Christmas, midnight Masses are held on 24 December, and Christmas Day is celebrated with feasting and fireworks.

Itineraries

Golden Triangle & the Land of the Kings

2 WEEKS

This might be a well-worn trail, but there's a reason for that. The Golden Triangle of Delhi, Agra and Jaipur combines some of India's most jaw-dropping sights, and the princely splendours of Rajasthan make for a natural extension to the trip.

Kick off in Delhi, visiting the tumult of Old Delhi with its Mughal-era Red Fort and Jama Masjid, and taking it easy wandering Lodi Gardens, and Humayun's Tomb. Next, catch a train to Agra and see how beautiful the Taj Mahal, the world's most extravagant monument to love, really is. Explore Agra Fort and devote a day to nearby Fatehpur Sikri, a ghostly Mughal city. Continue on to the Pink City Jaipur, and devote several days to its whirlwind of bazaars, the City Palace, Hawa Mahal, and the Amber Fort.

Loop back to Delhi, or travel on to Pushkar for a few days of chilling out around lakeside temples, then take time to stay lakeside, go boating and explore elegant Udaipur. Next visit magnificent hilltop Kumbhalgarh and the temple at Ranakpur, en route to Jodhpur. See the Blue City unfurled beneath you from the mighty battlements of Mehrangarh Fort. Finish off in fortified Jaisalmer and go all Lawrence of Arabia on camelback through the dunes, sleeping under a firmament of stars. Finally, loop back to Delhi, with one last cycle ride through Old Delhi, an early morning trip to the ruins of Qutb Minar, or shopping in its amazing emporiums, markets and boutiques.

Itineraries

Six Months North & South

6 MONTHS

Tourist visas last six months, allowing you explore some of the highlights of the north and south, as well as going off the track.

Kick off by exploring Delhi before riding the rails north to Amritsar, to see Sikhism's most holy site, the glittering Golden Temple. Connect through Chandigarh to the laid-back vibes of Shimla. From this classic hill station you can roam northwest to Buddhist Dharamsala, home of the Dalai Lama, or Manali, starting point for the beautiful, thrilling but gruelling overland journey to rugged Ladakh (July to September), gateway to the high Himalaya. When you've had your fill of mountain air, head south for some yoga in Rishikesh, and descend to Agra, to see the vision-like Taj Mahal. Next go south Khajuraho, with its risqué temples, and scan the jungle for tigers in Bandhavgarh National Park. Continue to the holy city of Varanasi for a boat trip along the sacred Ganges.

You can meander on detours as you train it eastwards to Kolkata (Calcutta), bustling capital of West Bengal. Swing north as far as Darjeeling or Sikkim for sweeping Himalayan views, then drift down the coast to the temple towns of Konark and Puri in Odisha (Orissa). Consider a flight to transport you south and through the Looking Glass to Chennai (Madras) for a different kind of India.

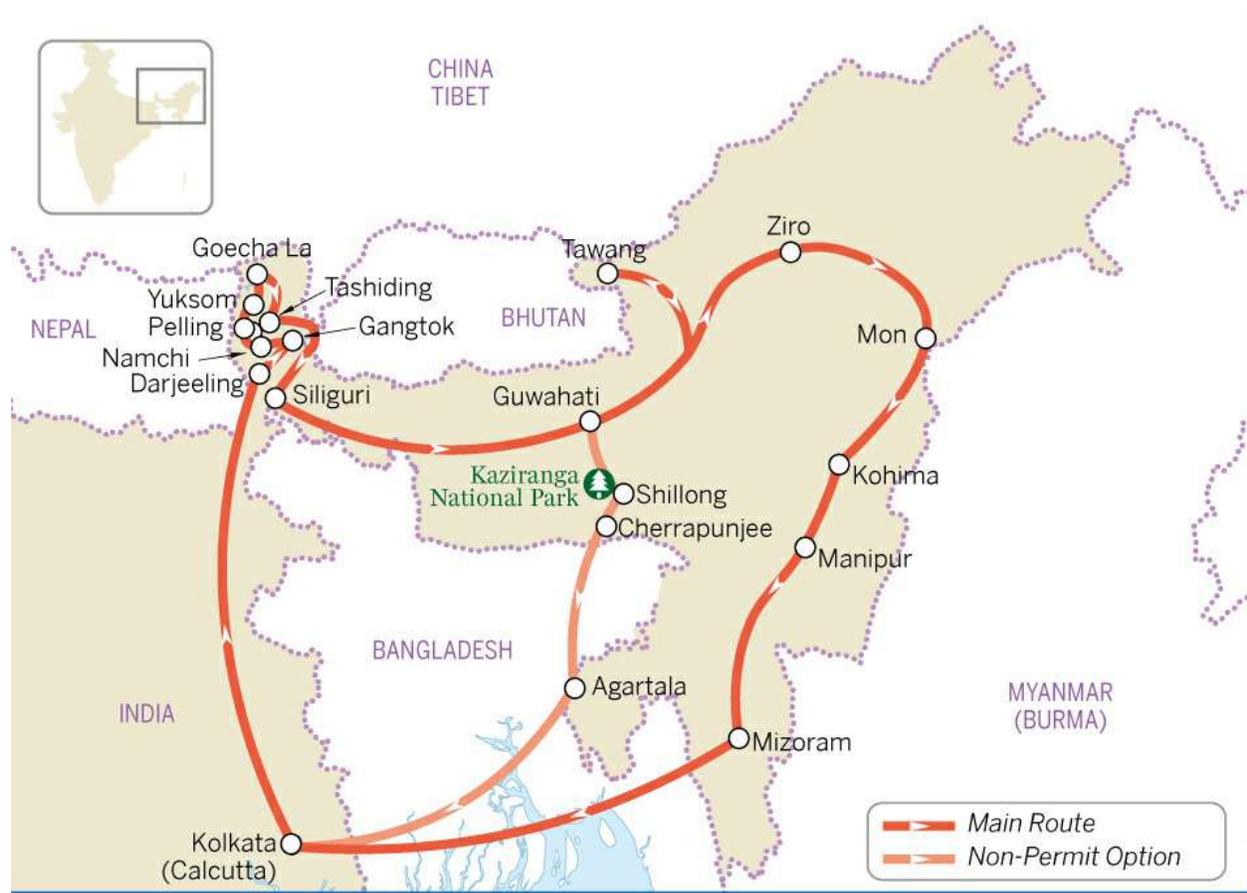

From here you have a chance to visit the wonders of Mamallapuram (Mahabalipuram), for temple carvings; Puducherry (Pondicherry), for colonial-era heritage combined with contemporary charm; and Madurai, for deity-encrusted temple towers. At this point, you've more than earned a long stay at Kerala's beaches, before taking a trip inland to nostalgic Mysuru to see how maharajas lived.

Continuing north, head to Hampi, where temples and ruined cities are strewn among the boulders, then get a second dose of beach life on the coast of Goa. Wine, dine and go Bollywood-crazy in Mumbai (Bombay), fast-paced capital of the west coast; then admire the glory of the cave paintings and carvings at Ajanta and Ellora.

Finish on a high in Rajasthan with its the coloured-city triple – pink Jaipur, blue Jodhpur and white Udaipur. There might just be time to detour to the fascinating temples, exquisite embroidery villages and nature reserves of Gujarat, before closing the circle with a last train ride to Delhi.

Itineraries

Mountains & Tribal Culture

1 MONTH

Sikkim and the Northeast States, with their incredible mountain scenery, are still a well-kept secret for many travellers. Insurgencies and permit restrictions have long put off visitors, but India's last frontier is slowly opening up to the outside world. From Kolkata, you can go north to Darjeeling, see astounding Himalayan vistas in Sikkim then visit the world of India's hill tribes. Advance planning is essential – permits are mandatory and there are security risks to consider.

Starting in Kolkata, make your first stop genteel Darjeeling – here you can sample India's finest teas and pick up a permit for Sikkim, one of India's most serene quarters. Gangtok, the Sikkimese capital, is the starting point for jeep rides to historic Buddhist temples set amid dramatic scenery. Veer to Namchi to see the giant statues of Shiva and Padmasambhava, and to Pelling for inspiring views of the white-peaked Khangchendzonga and the beautiful Pemayangtse Gompa, ringed by gardens and monks' cottages. Take the weeklong trek from Yuksom to Goecha La, a 4940m pass with incredible views, then exit Sikkim via Tashiding, with more wonderful views and another stunning gompa, before travelling to Siliguri for the journey east.

Arrange tours for the Northeast States (including permits for Arunachal Pradesh) in Guwahati or online. Then head from Guwahati to Arunachal Pradesh to pay your respects at the stunning Buddhist monastery at Tawang, before exploring the tribal villages around Ziro, where the elders have dramatic facial tattoos and piercings. A visit to Nagaland opens up fascinating tribal villages around Mon – featuring a rugged countryside dotted by traditional longhouses and remote settlements – and the capital Kohima, with its WWII relics. Going south, there's a fair chance of encountering Meitei culture in Manipur and Mizo culture in Mizoram, before you fly back to Kolkata.

Alternately, you could also try this classic loop (Arunachal permits not required): from Guwahati, head to Kaziranga National Park to spot rare rhinos. Detour to sleepy Shillong, and hike to the waterfalls and incredible living root bridges of Cherrapunjee. Drive on to Agartala, the capital of Tripura, before returning to Kolkata by air or overland through Bangladesh.

Itineraries

The Spiritual Centre

3 WEEKS

There is a wealth of fantastical temples all over India, but this temple-hopping trip around the central plains will take in some of the most fabulous.

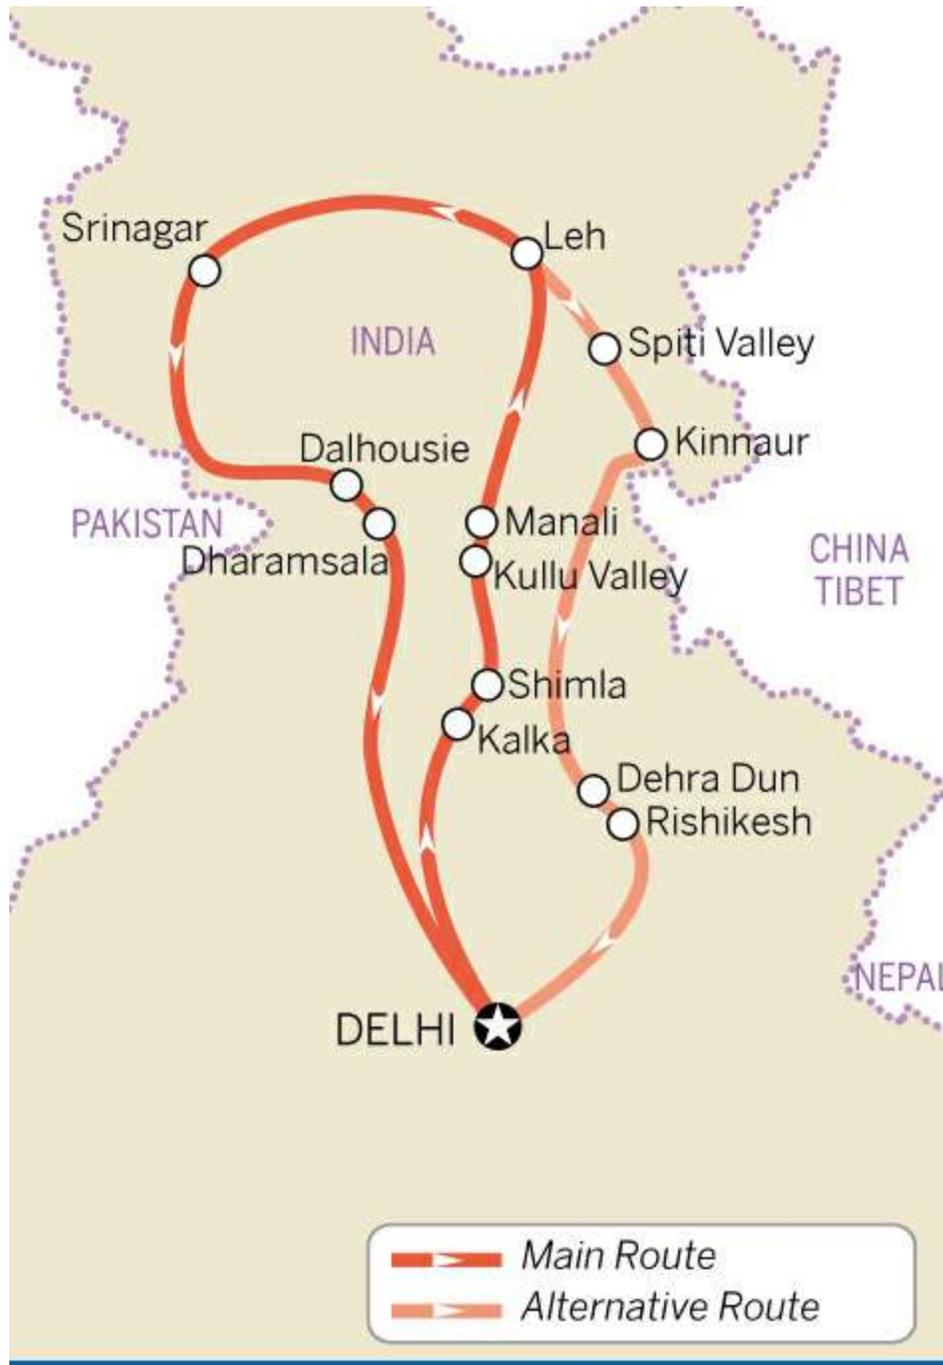

Start amid the chaos and rich cultural life of Kolkata, then swap the big-city bustle for the peace and legendary spirituality of Bodhgaya, where the Buddha attained enlightenment. Roll across the plains to Sarnath, where the Buddha first taught the dharma.

Move onto one of Hinduism's most sacred spots, the city of Varanasi. See the rituals on the banks of the River Ganges, then ramble to the Hindu temples of Khajuraho, which seethe with erotic carvings. Head southwest to Sanchi, where Emperor Ashoka first embraced Buddhism, then zip through Bhopal to Jalgaon, jumping-off point for the carving-filled caves of Ajanta.

Next, detour into Rajasthan; stop off in whimsical Udaipur, with its lakes and palaces, then explore the Jain temples of Ranakpur or Mt Abu, with incredible virtuoso carving in milk-white marble. Continue to Pushkar, curled around its sacred lake, then make a trip to nearby Ajmer, one of India's key Islamic pilgrimage sites. Take a final stop in atmospheric Jaipur, then end the trip in Delhi, with its magnificent Islamic ruins, and hear mesmerising devotional songs at the holy sufi shrine of Hazrat Nizamuddin.

Itineraries

Himalayan Adventures

The soul-feeding Himalayan views you'll see on this mountainous loop will stay with you forever.

Start by riding the rails from Delhi to Kalka, to board the cute-as-a-button narrow-gauge train to colonial-era Shimla. From here you can start your mountain exploration gently with some rambles around the hills, then join the traveller pilgrimage north to the Kullu Valley, stepping up a gear with some adventurous mountain activities.

From the hill resort of Manali, embark on the thrilling, winding, two-day journey to Leh in Ladakh (July to September), to hike to dramatic Buddhist monasteries and trekking peaks. For a short loop, continue from Leh to Kargil and on to Kashmir (checking first that it's safe to travel). Stay on a Srinagar houseboat, then loop through Jammu to elegant Dalhousie, and soak up Buddhist culture in nearby Dharamsala, before returning to Delhi.

With more time to spare, head southeast from Leh into the dramatic Spiti Valley, where ancient monasteries blend into the arid landscape. Ride the rattletrap bus to rugged Kinnaur, with its plunging landscapes, and make stops in Dehra Dun and Rishikesh to soak up some Hindu culture, before finishing in Delhi.

Itineraries

Southern Beaches

2 WEEKS

This is a laid-back meander to relax on some of India's finest beaches and chill out in charismatic coastal towns.

Start in Mumbai and people-watch, amble and sample bhelpuri (crisp noodle salad) at Girgaum Chowpatty beach. Take a boat trip to the rock-cut temples on Elephanta Island, then travel south by train to beach-blessed Goa.

Take your pick from tropical sandy stretches of Arambol, Vagator and Palolem, then continue along the coast to the sacred town of Gokarna. Now for a change of pace; head inland to Hampi, with its serene Vijayanagar ruins, and witness the zenith of medieval stone carving in the Hoysala temples of Belur and Halebid. Return by train to Mangalore to dine on spectacular seafood, then chug south to the lovely, laid-back town of Kochi (Cochin), a melting-pot mix of influences from as far afield as China and the Middle East, with its signature Chinese fishing nets along the seafront.

Cruise Kerala's languorous backwaters from Alappuzha (Alleppey), before dipping your toes in the warm waters around beach resorts Varkala or Kovalam. Make your last stop Thiruvananthapuram (Trivandrum), home to fascinating, often-overlooked museums, before closing the loop with a flight back to Mumbai.

Itineraries

A Southern Loop

3 WEEKS

Chennai, the happening capital of the south, is the easiest starting point for exploring India's southern tip. Ideal timing weatherwise is from October to February, when the weather is balmy and neither too hot or hitting the monsoon.

Kick off with some firey thalis in Chennai, then see intricate temple carvings in Mamallapuram, one-time home of the Pallava kings.

Next, head for relaxed ambling around the colonial-era architecture and churches of French-flavoured Puducherry, before leaving the coast behind and heading inland to the temple towns of Tamil Nadu: take in the boulder-covered Trichy (Tiruchirappalli), and Madurai, with its soaring, deity-covered gopurams (temple towers). From here, it's easy to zip down to Kanyakumari, the southernmost point of India.

Time to unwind: kick back on the coast at sand-dusted Kovalam or Varkala, then trade the sand for jungle fronds in steamy Periyar Wildlife Sanctuary, trying to spot the elusive tigers and herds of wild elephants, or take a trip up to Munnar, Kerala's emerald-green centre of tea plantations, for tranquil rambles in the hills. En route back to Chennai visit colourful Mysuru, with its fabulously flamboyant maharaja's palace and giant stone Nandi (bull statue).

Plan Your Trip

Booking Trains

In India, riding the rails has a romance all of its own. The Indian rail network snakes almost all over the country, almost all the time, and trains have seats to suit every size of wallet. However, booking can be a hassle – booking online is usually best.

Train Classes

Air-Conditioned 1st Class (1AC)

The most expensive class, with two- or four-berth compartments with locking doors and meals included.

Air-Conditioned 2-Tier (2AC)

Two-tier berths arranged in groups of four and two in an open-plan carriage. Bunks convert to seats by day and there are curtains, offering some privacy.

Air-Conditioned 3-Tier (3AC)

Three-tier berths arranged in groups of six in an open-plan carriage with no curtains; popular with Indian families.

AC Executive Chair (ECC)

Comfortable, reclining chairs and plenty of space; usually on Shatabdi express trains.

AC Chair (CC)

Similar to the Executive Chair carriage but with less-fancy seating.

Sleeper Class (sl)

Open-plan carriages with three-tier bunks and no AC; the open windows afford great views.

Unreserved/reserved 2nd Class (II/SS or 2S)

Wooden or plastic seats and a lot of people – but cheap!

Booking Online

Bookings currently open 120 days before departure (this is subject to change) for long-distance trains, sometimes less for short-haul trips. Seats fill up quickly – reserve at least a week ahead where possible, though shorter journeys are usually easier to obtain.

Express and mail trains form the mainstay of Indian rail travel. Not all classes are available on every train, but most long-distance services have general (2nd-class) compartments with unreserved seating and more comfortable reserved compartments, usually with the option of sleeper berths for overnight journeys. Sleeper trains offer the chance to travel huge distances for not much more than the price of a midrange hotel room.

Shatabdi express trains are same-day services with seating only; Rajdhani express trains are long-distance overnight services between Delhi and state capitals with a choice of 1AC, 2AC, 3AC and 2nd class. More expensive sleeper categories provide bedding. In all classes, a padlock and a length of chain are useful for securing your luggage to baggage racks.

These websites are useful for online international bookings.

Cleartrip (www.cleartrip.com) A reliable private agency and the easiest way to book; accepts international MasterCard and Visa credit cards. Can only book direct journeys. If booking from outside India before you have a local mobile number, a work-around is to enter a random number, and use email only to communicate.

IRCTC (www.irctc.co.in) Government site offering bookings for regular trains and luxury tourist trains; Mastercard and Visa are accepted.

Make My Trip (www.makemytrip.com) Reputable private agency; accepts international cards. Again, you'll need an Indian mobile number. You'll then need to create an IRCTC User ID: choose a User ID (username), put in your name, birth date and address. For the 'Pincode' (postcode) '123456' will work. For the State choose 'Other'.

Yatra (www.yatra.com) Books flights and trains; accepts international cards.

RAILWAY RAZZLE DAZZLE

You can live like a maharaja on one of India's luxury train tours, with accommodation on board, tours, admission fees and meals included in the ticket price.

Palace on Wheels (www.palaceonwheels.net) Eight- to 10-day luxury tours of Rajasthan, departing from Delhi. Trains run on fixed dates from September to April; the fare per person for seven nights starts at US$6500/4890/4325 (in a single/double/triple cabin). Try to book 10 months in advance.

Royal Rajasthan on Wheels (www.royalrajasthanonwheels.co.in) Runs lavish one-week trips from October to March, starting and finishing in Delhi. The fare per person per night starts from US$875/625 for single/twin occupancy in deluxe suites.

Deccan Odyssey (www.deccan-odyssey-india.com) Seven nights covering the main tourist spots of Maharashtra and Goa. Fares per person start at US$5810/4190 (Indian tourists ₹371,900/268,360) for single/double occupancy. There are also several other shorter luxurious trips on offer.

Golden Chariot (www.goldenchariottrain.com) Seven-night tours seeing the south in sumptuous style from October to March, starting in Bengaluru (Bangalore). Fares per person start at single/double US$5530/4130 (Indian tourists ₹182,000/154,000).

Mahaparinirvan Express (aka Buddhist Circuit Special; www.railtourismindia.com) Running September to March to Buddhist sites over eight days, starting in Delhi, with overnight stays in hotels. Rates start from US$1155/945 per person in 1st class/AC 2 Tier class. The trip includes Nepal (the visa fee is not included in the price).

Reservations

You must make a reservation for all chair-car, executive chair-car, sleeper, 1AC, 2AC and 3AC carriages. No reservations are required for general (2nd-class) compartments. Book well ahead for overnight journeys or travel during holidays and festivals. Waiting until the day of travel to book is not recommended.

Train Passes

IndRail passes permit unlimited rail travel for a fixed period, ranging from half a day to 90 days, but offers limited savings and you must still make reservations. Sample prices are US$19/43/95 (sleeper/2AC, 3AC & chair car/1AC) for 24 hours. The easiest way to book these is through the IndRail pass agency in your home country – click on the Passenger Info/Tourist Information link on www.indianrailways.gov.in/railwayboard for further details.

Plan Your Trip

Trekking

India has world-class trekking opportunities, particularly in the Himalaya, where staggering snow-clad peaks, traditional tribal villages, sacred Hindu sites, ancient Buddhist monasteries and blazing fields of wildflowers are just some of the features that create extraordinary mountain experiences. Hit the trails for easy half-day jaunts or strenuous multiweek expeditions.

Best Treks

The Himalaya

Jammu & Kashmir The moonscape ranges rising in Ladakh offer some incredible trails, including routes through the popular Markha Valley and wildly beautiful Zaskar region.

Himachal Pradesh Alpine adventures are easily accessible, including on treks from McLeod Ganj to Bharmour, between the Parvati and Pin Valleys, and on the Buddhist-infused Homestay Trail in the Spiti region.

Uttarakhand Enjoy the pristine splendour of the Kauri Pass, Milam Glacier and Har-ki-Dun treks or join pilgrims en route to sacred religious sites such as Kedarnath Temple or Hem Kund.

Sikkim Gaze at Khangchendzonga (8598m), the world's third-highest mountain, on the Goecha La trek.

South India

Karnataka Explore the serene hills and forests of Kodagu.

Kerala Go in search of tigers, elephants and deer at Periyar Wildlife Sanctuary.

Tamil Nadu Head to Kodaikanal, which has some lovely forest hikes along misty trails, prettier and more laid-back hiking hill-station base than Ooty.

Trail Tips

The commercial trekking industry is much less developed in India than in neighbouring Nepal. Thus many places still feel wild and relatively unspoilt. Still, on most routes, you can hire porters or pack animals to haul your gear. If you go with a trekking company, some gear may be supplied. Specify everything that's included beforehand, and get it in writing if possible.

Wherever you go, make sure you have any permits you may need.

Monitor your health – Acute Mountain Sickness is a serious risk on trails over 3000m.

And beware of herding dogs; they're famously aggressive.

Route Planning

Detailed maps of the Indian Himalaya are difficult to buy in-country. Some maps found online are good enough for planning, and even navigating if you're experienced at reading them. For Ladakh, pricey 1:300,000 scale maps can be bought in Leh; some maps from the 1:200,000 Leomann series are often available in Manali and McLeod Ganj.

On popular pilgrims' trails, it's impossible to get lost, but less-travelled tracks can fork or vanish altogether, so hiring a local guide can be wise.

For information on climbing Himalayan summits over 6000m, check the website of the Indian Mountaineering Foundation (www.indmount.org).

Getting High Safely

Throughout the Himalaya, plan in some extra days to acclimatise while en route to high-altitude destinations. These mountains deserve your respect – don't try to trek beyond your physical or technical abilities.

Peak Bagging

Mountaineers need permission from the Indian Mountaineering Foundation ( 011-24111211; www.indmount.org; 6 Benito Juarez Rd, New Delhi) in Delhi to climb most peaks over 6000m. Expedition fees vary, rising with the height of the peak and number of people on your team. Fortunately, permits for quite a few high 'trekking' summits cost only US$30 to US$100, particularly in Ladakh, Lahaul, Spiti and Sikkim; among them is Stok Kangri (6120m), an affordable but rewarding taste of high-altitude mountaineering.

Packing

- ➔ Bring gear and clothing that are appropriate for the conditions you expect to encounter.
- ➔ On well-established trails, heavy hiking boots are overkill, but on remote mountain tracks they can be lifesavers.
- ➔ First-aid and water-purification supplies are often essential.
- ➔ Rain gear is a must, and warm layers are crucial for comfort at altitude.
- ➔ Remember sunscreen!

Trekking Ethics

- ➔ Follow low-impact trekking practices (you know the mantra – take only photographs, leave only footprints).
- ➔ Cook over stoves, since local people rely on limited fuel-wood sources.
- ➔ Respect local cultural sensibilities by dressing modestly; ask permission before snapping photos; remember that while locals' hospitality may be endless, their food supply might not be; and refrain from giving gifts to children.

MOST ADVENTUROUS TREKS

The isolated, northeast mountain state of Arunachal Pradesh is an adventurous destination for experienced trekkers. One of the top spots to check out is Namdapha National Park, which is bogglingly rich in biodiversity.

When to Go

With India's diverse topography, the best trekking times depend on the region.

May–June This is a good time for mountain trekking, but also high season for domestic Indian travellers. Trails to holy Hindu sites can be packed.

Mid-July–mid-September During monsoon, trekking in the wrong place can be deadly. Ladakh and Spiti stay pretty dry. Uttarakhand's famous Valley of Flowers National Park unfurls a dazzling botanical carpet.

Mid-September–mid-November Post-monsoon, searing blue skies usually bless the Himalaya. While nights may dip below freezing, days are usually sunny and warm. Facilities often close for winter, so check in advance to see what will be open.

December–March February is the only month where you can attempt the hazardous Chadar Trek, walking along a frozen river to the Zaskar region.

April Head for the hill stations, as it's ripping hot down low and usually still snow-packed up high.

Plan Your Trip

Yoga, Spas & Spiritual Pursuits

India offers a profound spiritual journey for those so inclined, and even sceptical travellers can enjoy the benefits of trips to spas and yoga centres.

What to Choose

Ashrams

India has plentiful ashrams – places of communal living established around the philosophies of a guru (spiritual guide or teacher). You can arrange to stay for an extended period, living by the rules of particular organisation.

Ayurveda

Ayurveda is the ancient science of Indian herbal medicine and holistic healing, based on natural plant extracts, massage and therapies to treat body and mind.

Meditation

Many centres in Buddhist areas offer training in vipassana (mindfulness meditation) and Buddhist philosophy; many require a vow of silence and abstinence from tobacco, alcohol and sex.

Spa Treatments

India's spas offer an enticing mix of international therapies and local techniques based on ancient ayurvedic traditions.

Yoga

Yoga's roots lie in India and you'll find hundreds of schools following different disciplines to suit all levels of skill and commitment.

You can practise yoga almost everywhere, from beach resorts to mountain retreats. In 2014, at India's initiative, the UN adopted a resolution declaring 21 June International Yoga Day.

Karnataka

Mysuru The birthplace of Ashtanga yoga; there are centres all over the state.

Kerala

Sivananda Yoga Vedanta Dhanwantari Ashram Renowned for longer courses; near Trivandrum.

Maharashtra

Kaivalyadhama Yoga Hospital Yogic healing in Lonavla.

Ramamani Iyengar Memorial Yoga Institute Advanced courses; in Pune.

Mumbai

Yoga Institute Daily and longer-term programs.

Yoga House Hatha yoga in a lovely setting.

Yogacara More hatha yoga.

Tamil Nadu

International Centre for Yoga Education & Research Has 10-day introductory courses and advanced training in Puducherry.

Krishnamacharya Yoga Mandiram Chennai-based yoga courses, therapy and training.

Andaman Islands

Flying Elephant Yoga and meditation in tropical surroundings on Havelock Island.

Goa

Himalaya Yoga Valley Popular training school; Mandrem.

Swan Yoga Retreat Retreat in a soothing jungle location; Assagao.

Himalayan Iyengar Yoga Centre Courses in Arambol.

Bamboo Yoga Retreat Beachfront yoga; Patnem.

Uttarkhand

Rishikesh Take your pick from centres and ashrams offering yoga for all levels.

Woman practising yoga | MANUELFROMMADRID / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Ashrams

Many ashrams ('places of striving') are headed by charismatic gurus. Some tread a fine line between spiritual community and personality cult. Many gurus have amassed fortunes collected from devotees, and others have been accused of sexually exploiting their followers. Always check the reputation of any ashram you wish to join.

Most ashrams offer philosophy, yoga or meditation courses, and visitors are usually required to adhere to strict rules. A donation is appropriate to cover your expenses.

Kerala

Matha Amrithanandamayi Mission Amrithapuri-based; famed for its female guru Amma, ‘The Hugging Mother’.

Maharashtra

Brahmavidya Mandir Ashram (GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 07152-288388; shared r ₹150;

🕒 6am-noon & 2-7pm) Established by Gandhi’s disciple Vinoba Bhave; in Sevagram.

Sevagram Ashram Founded by Gandhi; in Sevagram.

Osho International Meditation Resort Follows the sometimes controversial teachings of Osho; based in Pune.

Tamil Nadu

Sri Aurobindo Ashram Puducherry ashram founded by Sri Aurobindo.

Sri Ramana Ashram Founded by Sri Ramana Maharshi; in Tiruvannamalai.

Kolkata

Belur Math Ramakrishna Mission headquarters, founded by Swami Vivekananda.

Ayurveda

Ayurveda – Indian herbal medicine – aims to restore balance in the body.

Goa

Shanti Ayurvedic Massage Centre A centre in Mandrem.

Karnataka

Ayurvedagram (Bengaluru) In a garden setting.

Soukya (Bengaluru) Ayurveda and yoga.

Indus Valley Ayurvedic Centre (Mysuru) Therapies from ancient scriptures.

Swaasthya (Coorg) Retreats and therapies.

Kerala

Dr Franklin's Panchakarma Institute (Chowara) South of Kovalam.

Eden Garden (Varkala) Treatments and packages.

Santhigiri Ayurveda Centre (Kollam) Seven- to 21-day packages and day treatments. Branch at Kumily.

Ayur Dar (Kochi) Treatments of one to three weeks.

Himachal Pradesh

Men-Tsee-Khang \(Tibetan Medical & Astrological Institute\) The primary authority on Tibetan medicine and has its HQ and two clinics in McLeod Ganj, plus nearly 50 other clinics across India.

Ayuskama Ayurvedic Clinic (Bhagsu) Dr Arun Sharma gives highly rated treatments and courses for would-be practitioners.

Tamil Nadu

Sita (Puducherry) Ayurveda and yoga.

Sivananda Yoga Vedanta Centre (Madurai) Classes and training in central Madurai, plus courses and teacher training at its ashram.

Mamallapuram Lots of yoga classes (of varying quality). In Kovalam village nearby; has beach yoga and annual surf and yoga festival.

Uttar Pradesh

Swasthya Vardhak (Varanasi) Ayurveda.

Madhya Pradesh

Kairali Spa Ayurveda in Orchha.

Ayur Arogyam Expert ayurvedic treatments in Khajuraho.

Maharashtra

Yogacara Ayurveda and massage.

Ayurvedic treatment | MILA SUPINSKAYA GLASHCHENKO / SHUTTERSTOCK ©

Buddhist Meditation

Whether for an introduction or more advanced study, there are India-wide courses and retreats. McLeod Ganj is the main centre for the study of Tibetan Buddhism; public teachings or audiences are given by both the Dalai Lama and the 17th Karmapa.

Himachal Pradesh

Library of Tibetan Works & Archives Serious Buddhist philosophy courses in McLeod Ganj.

Himachal Vipassana Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎9218414051; www.sikhara.dhamma.org; Dharamkot; 🕒 Apr–mid-Nov) Strict 10-day retreats in Dharamkot, near McLeod Ganj.

Tushita Meditation Centre Ten-day silent retreat courses and drop-in meditation sessions; Dharamkot.

Deer Park Institute Courses and workshops on Buddhist and Indian philosophy, and meditation retreats led by Buddhist masters; in Bir.

Jammu & Kashmir

Mahabodhi Centre Various vipassana courses and drop-in sessions in Leh.

Bihar

Root Institute for Wisdom Culture Courses from two to 21 days; in Bodhgaya.

International Meditation Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎0631-2200707; bsatyapala@gmail.com; per day incl accommodation & food ₹500) Informal 10-day courses; Bodhgaya.

Mumbai

Global Pagoda Vipassana courses from one to 10 days; on Gorai Island.

Global Pagoda, Mumbai | SAIK03P / GETTY IMAGES ©

Maharashtra

Vipassana International Academy Holds 10-day vipassana courses in Igatpuri.

Andhra Pradesh

Numerous Burmese-style vipassana courses, including the Vipassana International Meditation Centre near Hyderabad, Dhamma Vijaya near Eluru, and Dhamma Nagajjuna (Nagarjuna Sagar).

Spa Treatments

From solo practitioners to opulent spas, there are choices nationwide. Be cautious of dodgy one-on-one massages by private (often unqualified) operators – seek recommendations and trust your instincts.

Madhya Pradesh & Chhattisgarh

Jiva Spa Massages, scrubs and wraps in beautiful surrounds in Gwalior.

Mumbai

Antara Spa (GOOGLE MAP);  022-66939999; www.theclubmumbai.com; 197 DN Nagar, Andheri West; 1hr massage ₹2975-3320;  10am-7.30pm) International treatments.

Palms Spa Renowned Colaba spa.

Uttarkhand

Haveli Hari Ganga In Haridwar, overlooking the Ganges.

Kolkata

Vedic Village Touted to have the finest medical spa in the country; near Kolkata.

Karnataka

Emerge Spa Pampering Asian-influenced treatments near Mysuru.

Goa

Humming Bird Spa For all kinds of pampering; in Palolem.

Uttar Pradesh

Aarna Spa Ayurveda, aromatherapy and pampering in Varanasi.

Kerala

Neeleshwar Hermitage Beachfront ecoresort near Bekal.

Plan Your Trip

Volunteering

India may be beautiful, rich in culture and history, but poverty and hardship are the harsh reality for many people. Many travellers want to try to do something to help, and charities and aid organisations across the country welcome committed volunteers.

How to Volunteer

Choosing an Organisation

Choose an organisation that can specifically benefit from your abilities and skills.

Time Required

How much time you can devote to a project? You're more likely to be of help if you commit for at least a month, ideally more.

Money

Giving your time for free is only part of the story; most organisations expect volunteers to cover their accommodation, food and transport.

Working 9 to 5

Make sure you understand what you are signing up for; many organisations expect volunteers to work full-time, five days a week.

Transparency

Ensure that the organisation you choose is reputable and transparent about how it spends its money. Where possible, get feedback from former volunteers.

Aid Programs

There are numerous opportunities for volunteers in India. It may be possible to find a placement after you arrive, but charities and nongovernment organisations (NGOs) generally prefer volunteers who have applied in advance and been approved for the kind of work involved. Reputable organisations may insist on a criminal background check for working with children. Ethical Volunteering (www.ethicalvolunteering.org) provides useful guidelines for choosing an ethical sending agency.

As well as international organisations, local charities and NGOs often have opportunities, though it can be harder to assess the work that these organisations are doing. For listings of local agencies, check www.ngosindia.com or contact the Delhi-based Concern India Foundation ( ;  011-64598584; www.concernindiafoundation.org; A-52 Amar Colony, Lajpat Nagar IV;  Lajpat Nagar).

The following programs are just some of many that may have opportunities for volunteers; contact them in advance to arrange a placement. Note that Lonely Planet does not endorse any organisations that we do not work with directly, so it is essential that you do your own thorough research before agreeing to volunteer with any organisation.

Caregiving

If you have medical experience, there are numerous opportunities to provide health care and support for the most vulnerable in Indian society.

Kolkata

Missionaries of Charity St Teresa's charity (Mother Theresa's Motherhouse) places volunteers in hospitals and homes for impoverished children and adults.

Calcutta Rescue (;  033-22175675; www.calcuttarecue.org; 4th fl, 85 Collin St) Placements for medical and health professionals in Kolkata and other parts of West Bengal.

Maharashtra

Sadhana Village (GOOGLE MAP); ☎020-25380792; www.sadhana-village.org; 1, Priyankit, Lokmanya Colony, Paud Rd) Pune residence for disabled adults; has a minimum commitment of two months for volunteers.

Rajasthan

Marwar Medical & Relief Society (☎0291-2545210; www.mandore.com; Dadwari Lane, c/o Mandore Guesthouse) NGO running educational, health, environmental and other projects in villages in the Jodhpur district. Short- or long-term volunteers are welcome.

Community

Many community volunteer projects work to provide health care and education to villages.

Bihar & Jiharkhand

Root Institute for Wisdom Culture Occasional placements to train local Bodhgaya health workers.

Delhi

Hope Project A broad-based community project, welcoming short- or long-term volunteers who can offer childcare, medical, ELT, IT or other skills.

Karnataka

Kishkinda Trust Volunteers needed to assist with sustainable community development; in Hampi.

Madhya Pradesh & Chhattisgarh

Orchha Home-Stay Offers volunteer placements in varied roles to help rural villagers; Orchha.

Mumbai

Slum Aid (www.slumaid.org) Working in Mumbai slums to improve lives; placements from two weeks to six months.

Rajasthan

URMUL Trust (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2523093; www.urmul.org; Ganganagar Rd, Urmul Bhawan, Bikaner) Provides primary health care and education to desert dwellers in arid western Rajasthan. Volunteer placements (minimum one month) are available in English teaching, health care and other work.

Seva Mandir (📞 0294-2451041; www.sevamandir.org; Old Fatehpura, Udaipur) NGO working in southern Rajasthan on projects including afforestation, water resources, health, education, and empowerment of women and village institutions.

Himachal Pradesh

Lha Arranges placements at a host of projects with the Tibetan community, including for language teachers and healthcare or IT professionals; in McLeod Ganj.

West Bengal

Human Wave (📞 033-26854904; www.humanwaveindia.org; Mankundu) Short-term placements on community development and health schemes around West Bengal.

Makaibari Tea Estate Kurseong-based; volunteers assist with primary school teaching, health work and organic farming.

HELPING TIBETAN REFUGEES

Since 1959, more than 100,000 Tibetan refugees have fled to India to escape persecution. Newly arrived refugees require extensive support and there are often volunteering opportunities in McLeod Ganj, and other areas with large Tibetan populations.

Teaching

Many Buddhist schools need teachers of English for long-term placements; enquire locally in Sikkim, Himachal Pradesh, West Bengal and Ladakh. Teaching experience is preferred. Ask questions if organisations do not require safety checks for adults working with children.

Himachal Pradesh

Learning & Ideas for Tibet Based in McLeod Ganj; current needs are for teachers of English, French, German, Mandarin, Japanese and computer skills, to work with Tibetan refugees.

West Bengal & Darjeeling

Hayden Hall Offers minimum two-month opportunities for volunteers with medical, teaching and business experience; in Darjeeling.

Jammu & Kashmir

Druk Padma Karpo School Buddhist monastery school in Ladakh (Shey) with long-term placements (May to September only) for English teachers.

Phuktal Gompa Accepts short-term EFL teaching volunteers; Zanskar.

Csoma's Room This Hungarian outfit takes teachers (as well as restorers) in Zangla.

Working with Children

Various charities provide support for disadvantaged children. Travellers should ask questions if organisations do not require safety checks for adults working with children.

Delhi

Salaam Baalak Trust Volunteer English teachers, doctors, counsellors and computer experts provide education and support for street children.

Reality Tours & Travel Slum education projects; volunteers should have relevant professional or academic qualifications. Minimum three months.

Torch (MAP GOOGLE MAP); torchdelhi.wixsite.com/torch; 30D Nizamuddin Basti, Nizamuddin West;  JLN Stadium) Works with homeless children, and looks for volunteers who can help with art activities, music and writing.

Goa

Mango Tree Goa Opportunities in Mapusa for volunteer nurses and teaching assistants to help impoverished children.

El Shaddai Placements helping impoverished and homeless children; one-month minimum commitment; Assagao.

Uttar Pradesh

Learn for Life Society Volunteer opportunities at a small Varanasi school for disadvantaged children.

Himachal Pradesh

Kullu Project Places volunteers in schools, orphanages and other organisations working with disadvantaged kids in the Kullu Valley.

Rogpa ( ;  9857973026; www.tibetrogpa.org; Mithanala Rd, off Bhagsu Rd;  9am-5pm Mon-Sat) Volunteers provide childcare for Tibetan families; McLeod Ganj.

Working with Women

India has a range of local charities working to empower and educate women.

Rajasthan

Sambhali Trust In Jodhpur; volunteers needed to teach and help organise workshops for disadvantaged women.

Tamil Nadu

RIDE Works to empower village women and welcomes volunteers; Kanchipuram.

AGENCIES OVERSEAS

International volunteering agencies abound, and it can be tricky trying to assess which ones are worthwhile. Agencies offering the chance to do whatever you want, wherever you want, are almost always tailoring projects to the volunteer rather than finding the right volunteer for the work that needs to be done. Look for projects that will derive real benefits from your skills. To find agencies in your area, read Lonely Planet's Volunteer: A Traveller's Guide.

Himalayan Education Lifeline Programme (HELP; www.help-education.org)

British-based charity organising placements for volunteer teachers at schools in Sikkim.

Indicorps (www.indicorps.org) Matches volunteers to projects across India, particularly in social development.

Jamyang Foundation (www.jamyang.org) Arranges volunteer placements for experienced teachers in Buddhist nunneries in Zaskar and Himachal Pradesh.

Voluntary Service Overseas (VSO; www.vso.org.uk) British organisation offering long-term professional placements in India and worldwide.

Workaway (www.workaway.info) Connects people with hotels, guesthouses, organic farms, restaurants and more, where they will get free accommodation and food in return for working five days a week.

Environment & Conservation

To help with environmental education and sustainable development, there are a range of local organisations.

Andaman Islands

ANET Volunteers assist with environmental activities from field projects to general maintenance.

Reef Watch Marine Conservation Marine conservation non-profit organisation accepts volunteers for anything from beach clean-ups to fish surveys. Contact them directly to discuss possibilities.

Himachal Pradesh

Ecosphere This multifaceted sustainable-development NGO in Kaza has openings for short- and long-term volunteers including clean-energy projects and cafe work.

Kullu Project (9418102083; www.kulluproject.org) Places volunteers with Great Himalayan National Park community groups developing organic farming and local products.

Karnataka

Rainforest Retreat Organic farming, sustainable agriculture and waste management are catchphrases at this lush hideaway amid spice plantations; check the website for volunteering options; in Coorg.

Maharashtra

Nimbkar Agricultural Research Institute (02166-220945; www.nariphaltan.org; Phaltan-Lonand Rd, Tambmal, Phaltan) Offers internships in sustainable agriculture lasting two to six months for agriculture, engineering and science graduates; Phaltan.

Tamil Nadu

Keystone Foundation Kotagiri-based, offers occasional opportunities to help improve environmental conditions, working with Indigenous communities.

Working with Animals

Seeing all those stray dogs can make you want to help out: you're in luck, opportunities for animal lovers are plentiful.

Andhra Pradesh

Blue Cross of Hyderabad A shelter with more than 1300 animals; volunteers help care for animals or work in the office.

Goa

International Animal Rescue Rescues and looks after dogs, cats and other animals; volunteers are welcome, but must have evidence of rabies vaccination.

Mumbai

Welfare of Stray Dogs (GOOGLE MAP ;  022-64222838; www.wsdindia.org; Yeshwant Chambers, B Bharucha Marg, Kala Ghoda) Volunteers can work with the animals, manage stores or educate kids in school programs.

Rajasthan

Animal Aid Unlimited In Udaipur, accepts volunteers to help injured, abandoned or stray animals.

Tamil Nadu

Madras Crocodile Bank A reptile conservation centre in Vadanemmelai with openings for volunteers (minimum two weeks).

Arunachala Animal Sanctuary Travellers are welcome to help; just show up. Potential openings for longer-term volunteers; in Tiruvannamalai.

Design & Restoration

There are various places where those with architectural and building skills can help.

Tamil Nadu

ArcHeS Aims to preserve the architectural and cultural heritage of Chettinadu; openings for historians, geographers and architects, usually for around three to four months; Kothamangalam.

Jammu & Kashmir

Csoma's Room (<http://csomasroom.kibu.hu>) Volunteers restore and preserve traditional architecture in Zanskar.

Plan Your Trip

Travel with Children

Fascinating and thrilling; India will be even more astounding for children than for their wide-eyed parents. The scents, sights, and sounds of India will make for an unforgettable adventure and one that most kids will take in their stride.

Best Regions for Kids

Rajasthan

Vibrant festivals, medieval forts, fairy-tale palaces, camel rides across desert dunes and a well-oiled tourist infrastructure for hassle-free travel. For older kids there's the thrill of the incredible Flying Fox (zip wires) at Jodhpur.

Goa

Palm-fringed, white-sand beaches and inexpensive exotic food; an ideal choice for family holidays, whatever the budget.

Uttar Pradesh

The picture-perfect Taj Mahal and the nearby abandoned city of Fatehpur Sikri will set young imaginations ablaze.

Kerala

Canoe and houseboat adventures, surf beaches, Arabian Sea sunsets, snake boat races, wildlife-spotting and elephant festivals.

Himachal Pradesh

Pony and yak rides around colonial-era hill stations, rafting, horse riding, tandem paragliding (kids can do it), walks and canyoning around Manali.

India for Kids

Travel with children in India is usually a delight, though you (and your kids) may have to get used to being the centre of attention. Locals will thrill at taking a photograph or two beside your bouncing baby. This may prove tiring and disconcerting, but you can always politely decline.

As a parent on the road in India, the key is to remain firm, even if you feel you may offend a well-meaning local by doing so. The attention your children will inevitably receive is almost always good-natured; kids are the centre of life in many Indian households, and your own will be treated just the same. Hotels will almost always come up with an extra bed or two, and restaurants with a familiar meal.

Children's Highlights

Best Fairy-tale Splendours

Jaisalmer Enjoy playing knights around the world's biggest sandcastle, Jaisalmer's centuries-old fort, and take a camel ride in the Thar Desert.

Delhi Run around magnificent forts, explore Lodi Gardens and Mehrauli, or try hands-on exhibits and ride in a toy train at the National Rail Museum.

Ranthambhore National Park Step into a Jungle Book world, home to a monkey kingdom, and hop aboard a jeep to scout for Shere Khan.

Udaipur Go boating on the lake, take a horse-riding excursion, and explore fairy-tale palaces.

Orchha Wander the crumbling palaces and battlements of little-known Orchha.

Madhya Pradesh The land of Kipling's Jungle Book, with jungles, and tiger-spotting safaris.

Best Natural Encounters

Tiger parks, Madhya Pradesh Delve deep into the jungle or roam the plains at the tiger parks of Kanha, Pench or Bandhavgarh. You might not see a tiger, but there's plenty of other wildlife worth spotting.

Elephants, Kerala In Periyar, kids can spot wild elephants.

Dolphins, Goa Splash out on a dolphin-spotting boat trip from almost any Goan beach to see them cavorting among the waves.

Hill-station monkeys Head up to Shimla (Himachal Pradesh) or Matheran (Maharashtra) for close (but not too close...they can be vicious!) encounters with cheeky monkeys.

Lions, Gujarat Go on safari through Gir National Park at dusk or dawn and spot the only Asiatic lions in existence.

Keoladeo National Park, Rajasthan Take a bike ride to spot myriad multi-hued birdlife in this reserve.

Mudumalai Tiger Reserve, Tamil Nadu Visit an elephant camp where the park's working elephants (many rescued and unfit to return to the wild) are fed and washed.

Funniest Forms of Transport

Autorickshaw, anywhere Bump thrillingly along at top speed in these child-scale vehicles.

Bike, Delhi Pedal around on a DelhiByCycle tour; for older children who are competent riders, or toddlers who can fit in a child seat.

Toy Train, Darjeeling Ride the cute-as-a-button steam toy train between Kurseong and Darjeeling, past colourful mountain villages and rushing waterfalls.

Hand-pulled rickshaw, Matheran From this monkey-infested hill station, you can continue to the village on horseback or in a hand-pulled rickshaw.

Houseboat, Alappuzha (Alleppey) Go boating on Kerala's beautiful backwaters, with lots of interesting stops en route. If you hit town on the second Saturday in August, take the kids along to see the spectacular Nehru Trophy boat race.

Best Coastal Kickbacks

Palolem, Goa Plump for a beachfront palm-thatched hut and take it easy at beautiful Palolem beach, with Goa's shallowest, safest waters.

Patnem, Goa Kick back at peaceful Patnem, with its nice sand beach and cool, calm, child-friendly beach restaurants.

Havelock Island Splash about in the shallows at languid Havelock Island, part of the Andaman Island chain, where there's also sensational diving possibilities.

Planning

Before you Go

- ➔ Look at climate charts; choose your dates to avoid the extremes of temperature that may put younger children at risk.
- ➔ Visit your doctor to discuss vaccinations, health advisories and other health-related issues involving your children well in advance of travel.
- ➔ For more tips on travel in India, and firsthand accounts of travels in the country, pick up Lonely Planet's Travel with Children or visit the Thorn Tree Forum at lonelyplanet.com.

What to Pack

You can get these items in many parts of India too:

- ➔ Disposable or washable nappies, nappy rash cream (Calendula cream works well against heat rash too), extra bottles, wet wipes, infant formula and canned, bottled or rehydratable food.
- ➔ A fold-up baby bed or the lightest possible travel cot you can find (companies such as KidCo make excellent pop-up tent-style beds), since hotel cots may prove precarious. Don't take a stroller/pushchair, as this will be impractical to use as pavements are often scarce. A much better option is a backpack, for smaller kids, so they're lifted up and out of the daunting throng, plus with a superb view.
- ➔ A few less-precious toys that won't be mourned if lost or damaged.
- ➔ A swimming jacket, life jacket or water wings for the sea or pool.
- ➔ Good sturdy footwear.
- ➔ Audiobooks, for whiling away long journeys.
- ➔ Insect repellent, mosquito nets, hats and sun lotion.

Eating

- ➔ If you're travelling in the regions of India, such as Rajasthan, Himachal Pradesh, Goa, Kerala, or the big cities, you'll find it easy to feed your brood. In major cities and more touristy towns there's always a wide range of international cuisines on offer.
- ➔ While on the road, easy portable snacks such as bananas, samosas, puri (puffy dough pockets), white-bread sandwiches and packaged biscuits (Parle G brand are a perennial hit) are available.
- ➔ Many children will delight in paneer (unfermented cheese) dishes, simple dhals (mild lentil curries), creamy kormas, buttered naans (tandoori breads), pilaus (rice dishes) and Tibetan momos (steamed or fried dumplings).

➔ Few children, no matter how culinarily unadventurous, can resist the finger-food fun of a vast South Indian dosa (paper-thin lentil-flour pancake).

Accommodation

➔ India offers such an array of accommodation options – from beach huts to five-star bubbles – that you're bound to be able to find something that will appeal to the whole family.

➔ The swish upmarket hotels are almost always child-friendly, but so are many upper midrange hotels, whose staff will usually rustle up an extra mattress or two; some places won't mind cramming several children into a regular-sized double room along with their parents.

➔ The very best five-stars come equipped with children's pools, games rooms and even children's clubs, while an occasional night with a warm bubble bath, room service, macaroni cheese and a banquet of satellite TV will revive even the most disgruntled young traveller's spirits.

On the Road

➔ Travel in India, be it by taxi, local bus, train or air, can be arduous for the whole family. Concepts such as clean public toilets, changing rooms and safe playgrounds are rare in much of the country. Public transport is often extremely overcrowded so plan fun, easy days to follow longer bus or train rides.

➔ Pack plenty of diversions (iPads or laptops with a stock of movies downloaded make invaluable travel companions, as do audiobooks, plus the good old-fashioned story books, cheap toys and games available widely across India).

➔ If you are hiring a car and driver – a sensible and flexible option – and you require safety capsules, child restraints or booster seats, bring these with you or make this absolutely clear to the hiring company as early as possible. Don't expect to find these items readily available. And finally, don't be afraid to tell your driver to slow down and drive responsibly.

Health

➔ The availability of a decent standard of health care varies widely in India. Talk to your doctor at home about where you will be travelling to get advice on vaccinations and what to include in your first-aid kit.

➔ Access to health care is better in traveller-frequented parts of the country where it's almost always easy to track down a doctor at short notice (most hotels will be able to recommend a reliable one).

➔ Prescriptions are quickly and cheaply filled over the counter at numerous pharmacies, often congregating near hospitals.

➔ Diarrhoea can be very serious in young children. Seek medical help if it is persistent or accompanied by fever; rehydration is essential. Heat rash, skin complaints such as impetigo, insect bites or stings can be treated with the help of a well-equipped first-aid kit or resources from a local pharmacy.

Regions at a Glance

From 21st-century chic to remote tribal villages, from palm-fringed backwaters to knife-edge mountain ranges, and from ancient temples to jungle-tangled fortresses, India's regions are an astounding cocktail of contrasts, colour and experiences.

Regions at a Glance

Delhi

Delhi is a city where you can travel back in time, from the magnificent ruins of imperial cities to the futuristic satellite city of Gurgaon, while feasting on everything from modern Indian to street food and experiencing shopping heaven in Delhi's bazaars and emporiums.

Regions at a Glance

Rajasthan

Rajasthan's forts and palaces are the epic riches of this 'Land of Kings' , while their royal hunting reservations are now national parks, ripe for spotting tigers and other wildlife. You'll also find princely legacies in Rajasthan's bazaars, from miniature paintings to traditional puppets.

Regions at a Glance

Punjab & Haryana

Besides the stunning Golden Temple, the Punjab has palaces and follies, and the region is also home of butter chicken, basmati rice, naan, tarka dhal, and the tandoor (clay oven). The Attari-Wagah border crossing is worth a trip for its fabulous transborder pomp.

Regions at a Glance

Jammu & Kashmir (including Ladakh)

From alpine Kashmir to the moonscapes of Ladakh and Zaskar, be humbled by the awesome scale of nature and take high-altitude hikes through Buddhist villages. Such beauty inspires spirituality; mantras fill Ladakh's gompas, pilgrims converge on Amarnath's ice lingam and Sufi spirituality suffuses Srinagar.

Regions at a Glance

Himachal Pradesh

High Himalayan passes and plunging valleys make for great trekking, climbing, motorcycling, paragliding and skiing. The scenery is consistently awe-inspiring, and the cultural variety huge, from colourful Hindu festivals to ancient Buddhist monasteries.

Regions at a Glance

Agra & the Taj Mahal

Agra's Mughal architecture is the height of imperial virtuosity. The Taj Mahal is so famous that it's as familiar as an old friend, yet its ethereal beauty will make you catch your breath. And don't miss out on other local masterpieces, such as Akbar's Mausoleum or the mighty Agra Fort.

Regions at a Glance

Uttar Pradesh

Uttar Pradesh contains ancient Islamic cities, two of Buddhism's most sacred pilgrimage centres, and two of the seven sacred cities of Hinduism. The Ganges River and its tributaries flow across UP, lined with holy ghats (ceremonial steps).

Regions at a Glance

Uttarakhand

Trekkers can take their pick from temples, sacred lakes, remote glaciers and rolling alpine meadows. Head to Rishikesh for a spiritual tune-up, and seek snow leopards, Asiatic black bears, brown bears and blue sheep in the national parks.

Regions at a Glance

Kolkata (Calcutta)

Once the British Indian capital, Kolkata is full of colonial-era architecture, but the modern city mingles chaos and culture in an enticing and very Indian mix. Cuisine here is renowned across the subcontinent, with the focus on fresh fish and prawns.

Regions at a Glance

West Bengal & Darjeeling

Darjeeling is the quintessential Indian hill station, offering spectacular Himalayan views, and historic accommodation. Take a trip to West Bengal to spot an awesome Royal Bengal tiger.

Regions at a Glance

Bihar & Jharkhand

Bodhgaya, where Buddha attained enlightenment, is a magnet for Buddhist pilgrims, while the Unesco-listed ruins of the ancient Nalanda university are just one of many early Buddhist relics. Jharkhand's serene Betla (Palamau) National Park is famous for its wild pachyderms.

Regions at a Glance

Sikkim

This former kingdom pimples its lushly forested ridges with Tibetan-style Buddhist monasteries, surreal Hindu temples and the odd gleaming mega-statue. Behind rises a thrilling panorama of Himalayan peaks, the mesmerising presence of Khangchendzonga focussing the lenses of photographers and the energies of energetic trekkers.

Regions at a Glance

Northeast States

This area is home to some of India's most enigmatic tribes, and the one-horned Indian rhino is just one of the local roll-call of exotic animals on this wild frontier.

Regions at a Glance

Odisha

Odisha's dazzling temples tell a captivating tale of rulers who spared no expense in their veneration of the divine. The tribal markets of Onkadelli and Chatikona offer fascinating opportunities to mingle, and there are tiger reserves, crocodile-filled mangrove forests and coastal wetlands.

Regions at a Glance

Madhya Pradesh & Chhattisgarh

Madhya is home to some of India's top tiger habitats, with good prospects of sightings. And while you're looking for tigers you'll see plenty of other wildlife too.

Regions at a Glance

Gujarat

Here you can see Asia's only wild lions and India's only wild asses, as well as Gujarati embroiderers, weavers, printers and dyers producing some of India's finest textiles. Or join Hindu and Jain pilgrims on treks up stunning, temple-topped peaks.

Regions at a Glance

Mumbai (Bombay)

Blending British grandeur and Indian flamboyance, Mumbai's architecture is a fabulous fusion of styles. Flavours from India and beyond mingle here, from local snacks to global flavours. Spot Bollywood stars and beautiful people as you dance till dawn in sleek bars and neon-filled nightclubs.

Regions at a Glance

Maharashtra

Ajanta and Ellora hide exquisite cave paintings and rock sculptures, while the Konkan Coast has some of the most secluded beaches in India. Nasik is the epicentre of India's burgeoning wine industry, producing exciting vintages that are starting to cause a real stir.

Regions at a Glance

Goa

Goa's beaches are no secret, but with palms swaying overhead and golden sand under your feet, it doesn't matter; there are still spots to escape the crowds. Add fresh seafood, and beautiful colonial-era architecture, and you can see what all the fuss is about.

Regions at a Glance

Karnataka & Bengaluru

The temples of Karnataka overflow with carved embellishments, while the Nilgiri Biosphere Reserve is home to one of Asia's biggest populations of elephants, plus tigers and leopards. The table is laden too, with everything from Udupi vegetarian thalis to Mangalorean seafood.

Regions at a Glance

Telangana & Andhra Pradesh

Hyderabad's past splendours and contemporary style make it one of India's most engaging cities, while its famed biryani and spicy veggie dishes provide a rich cuisine. Ancient Buddhist remains are dotted throughout the region, and Tirumala is a major Hindu pilgrimage site.

Regions at a Glance

Kerala

The inlets and lakes of Kerala's backwaters are a peaceful retreat from the modern age. Back on land is a fine assortment of wildlife-filled national parks, while the Keralan kitchen offers delicate dishes flavoured with coconut and spices.

Regions at a Glance

Tamil Nadu & Chennai

Age-old tradition collides with cosmopolitan flair in Chennai, while Tamil Nadu's intricately carved, colour-bursting temples attract pilgrims from all over India. Escape into the Western Ghats' cool, Raj-era hill stations, or crash out in Puducherry's peaceful, pretty French Quarter.

Regions at a Glance

Andaman Islands

With lush greenery, pristine waters and golden coastline, the Andaman Islands are an ideal place to chillout on sun-warmed sands. This prime snorkelling and diving destination is excellent for first-timers and veterans, and is culturally fascinating, with many tribal groups.

Delhi

Sights

Activities

Tours

Courses

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping

Gurgaon \(Gurugram\)

Delhi

☞ 011 / POP 25.7 MILLION / ELEV 293M

Why Go?

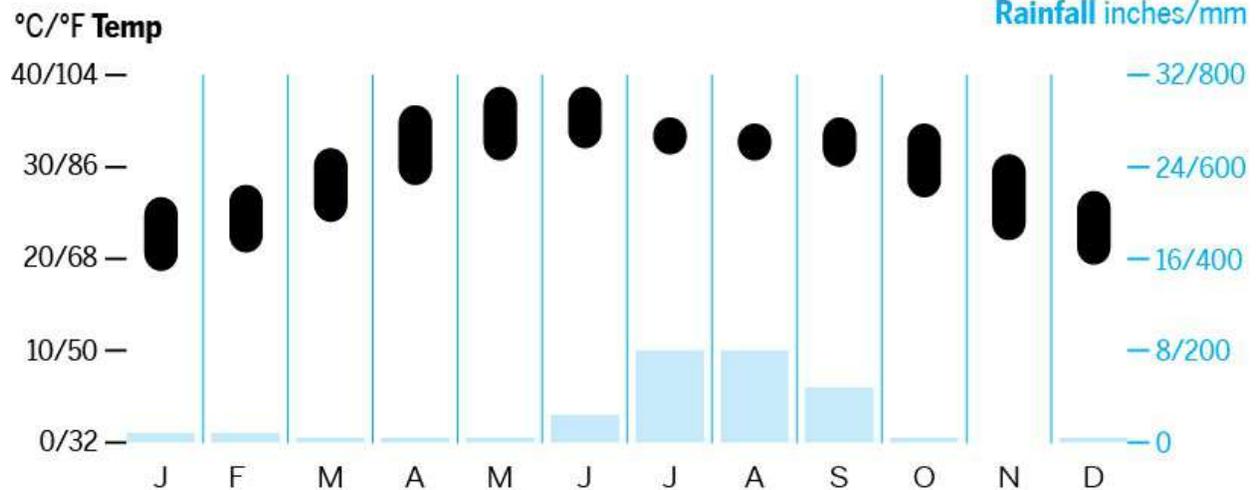

Delhi is a city where time travel is feasible. Step aboard your time machine (the sleek and efficient metro) and you can go from Old Delhi, where labourers haul sacks of spices and jewellers weigh gold on dusty scales, to modern New Delhi, with its colonial-era parliament buildings and penchant for high tea. Then on to the future: Gurgaon, a satellite city of skyscraping offices and glitzy malls.

This pulsating metropolis has a bigger population than Australia, and is one of the world's most polluted cities. But woven into its rich fabric are moments of pure beauty: an elderly man threading temple marigolds; Sufi devotional songs; a boy flying a kite from a rooftop.

So don't be put off. Delhi is a city that has been repeatedly ravaged and reborn, with vestiges of lost empires in almost every neighbourhood. There's so much to experience here, it's like a country in itself.

When to Go

Delhi

- ➔ Oct–Mar Delhi at its best: it's warm with clear skies, but morning fog can play havoc with flight schedules.
- ➔ May–Aug The months to avoid – hot, humid and uncomfortable.
- ➔ Jun–Sep Monsoon season sees high temperatures and regular rain – a sticky combination.

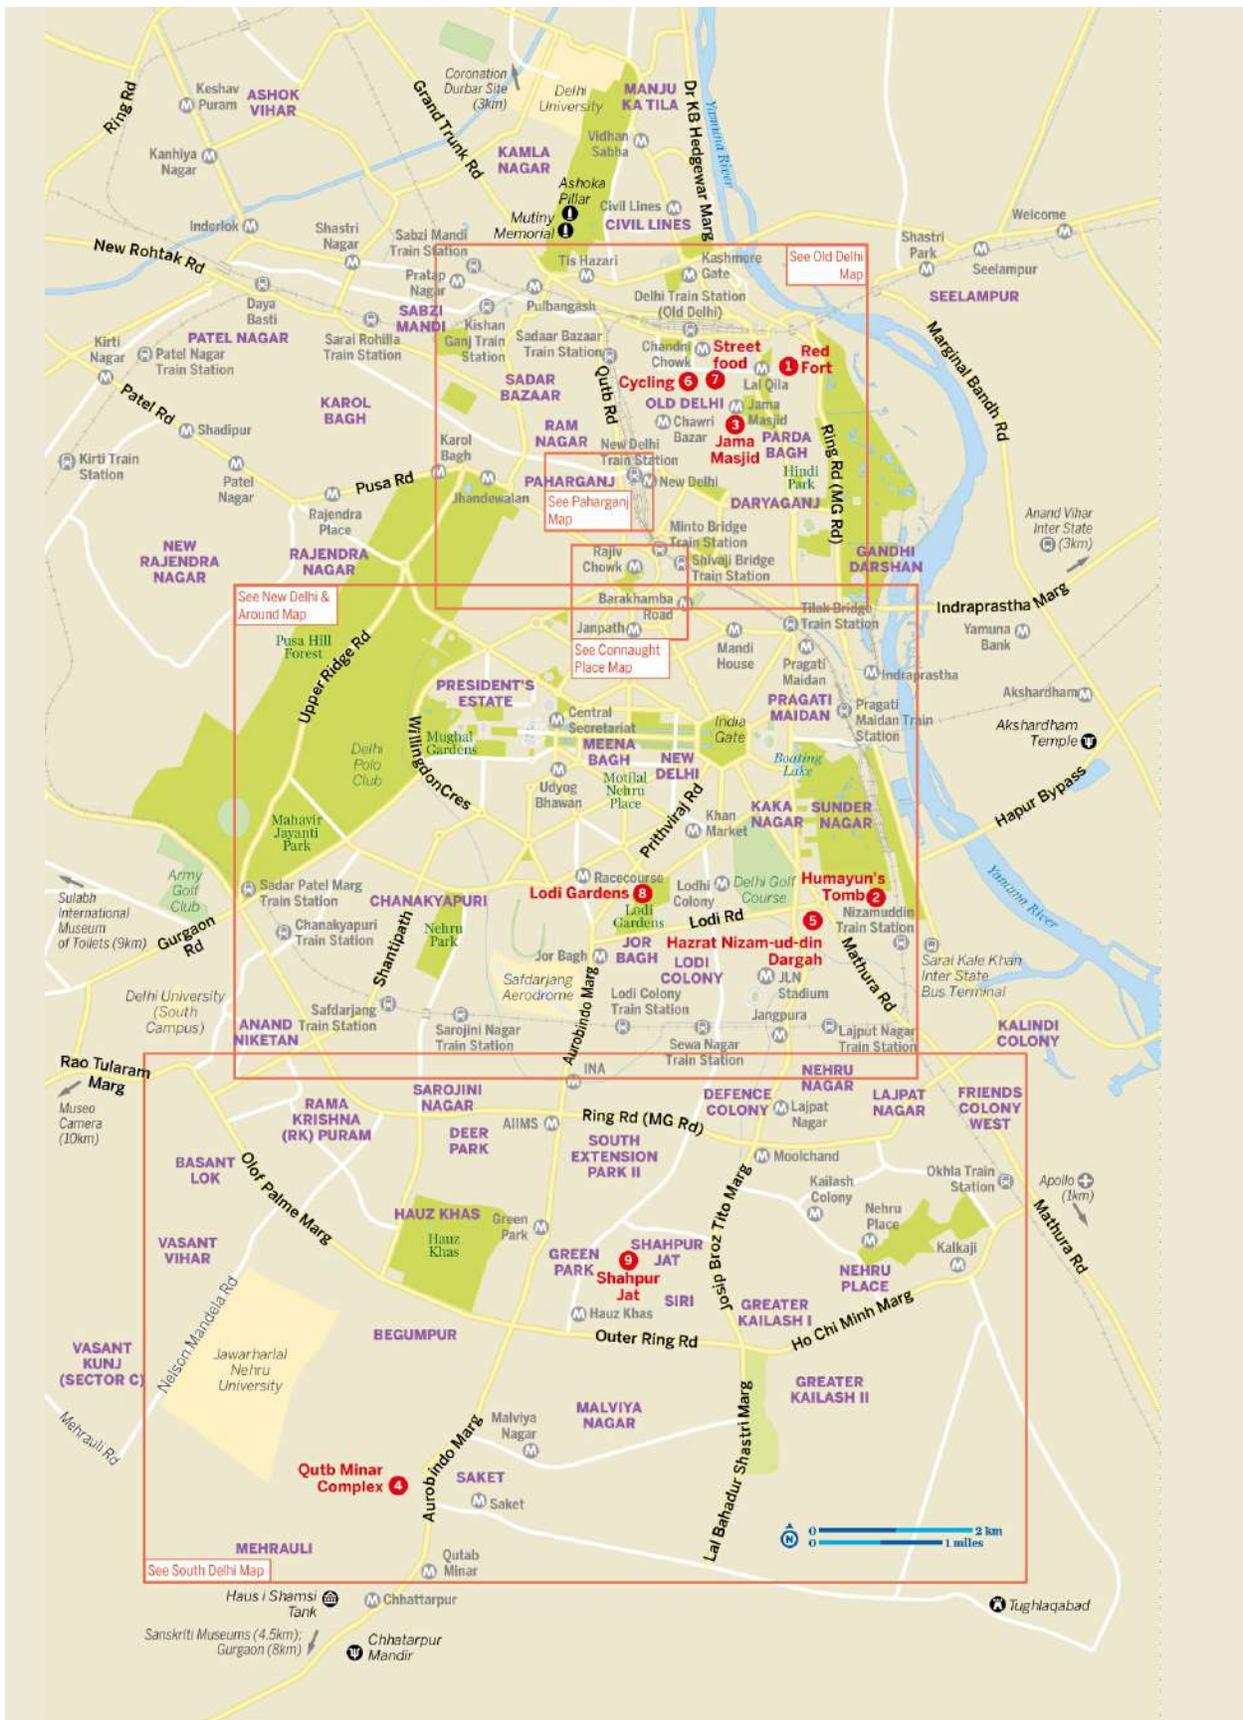

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ Bukhara
- ➔ Indian Accent
- ➔ Masala Library
- ➔ Cafe Lota
- ➔ Andhra Pradesh Bhawan Canteen
- ➔ Amaranta

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Lodhi
- ➔ Manor
- ➔ Madpackers Hostel
- ➔ Stops @ The President
- ➔ Haveli Dharampura

Delhi Highlights

- 1 Red Fort Exploring this Mughal masterpiece, imagining its former traumas and splendours.
- 2 Humayun's Tomb Enjoying the architectural virtuosity and mirror-image gardens of Delhi's most spectacular resting place.
- 3 Jama Masjid Experiencing the serenity of the 'Friday Mosque', with its wide open courtyard.
- 4 Qutb Minar Complex Visiting Delhi's first Islamic city at sunrise.
- 5 Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah Drinking in the mystical, magical atmosphere and hearing qawwali (Islamic devotional singing) at this hallowed Sufi shrine.
- 6 Cycling Taking a rollicking, eye-opening bike ride through Old Delhi at dawn.
- 7 Street food Sampling some of Old Delhi's flavour-packed street food, such as Gali Paratha Wali's stuffed breads with attitude.
- 8 Lodi Gardens Roaming around Delhi's favourite tree-shaded, tomb-dotted park.
- 9 Shahpur Jat Browsing contemporary Indian fashion designs at this independently minded village.

History

Delhi is said by Hindus to be the site of ancient Indraprastha, home of the Pandavas in the Mahabharata. Excavations near the Purana Qila have revealed evidence of human habitation dating back 3000 years. The name Delhi is linked to the Maurya king Dhilu, who ruled the region in the 1st century BC, but for most of its existence, the city has been known by the multiple different names given to it by its conquerors.

The first city for which clear archaeological evidence remains was Lal Kot, or Qila Rai Pithora, founded by the Hindu king Prithviraj Chauhan in the 12th century. The city fell to Afghan invaders in 1191, and for the next 600 years, Delhi was ruled by a succession of Muslim sultans and emperors. The first, Qutub-ud-din Aibak, razed the Hindu city and used its stones to construct Mehrauli and the towering Qutb Minar.

Qutub-ud-din Aibak's 'Mamluk' (Slave) dynasty was quickly replaced by the Khilji dynasty, following a coup. The Khiljis constructed a new capital at Siri, northeast of Mehrauli, supplied with water from the royal tank at Hauz Khas. Following another coup, the Tughlaq sultans seized the reins, creating a new fortified capital at Tughlaqabad, and two more cities – Jahanpura and Firozabad – for good measure.

The Tughlaq dynasty fell after Tamerlane stormed through town in 1398, opening the door for the Sayyid and Lodi dynasties, the last of the Delhi sultanates, whose tombs are scattered around the Lodi Gardens. The scene was set for the arrival of the Mughals. Babur, the first Mughal emperor, seized Delhi in 1526, and a new capital rose at Shergarh (the present-day Purana Qila), presided over by his son, Humayun.

Frantic city building continued throughout the Mughal period. Shah Jahan gained the Peacock Throne in 1627 and raised a new city, Shahjahanabad, centred on the Red Fort. The Mughal city fell in 1739, to the Persian Nadir Shah, and the dynasty went into steep decline. The last Mughal emperor, Bahadur Shah Zafar, was exiled to Burma (Myanmar) by the British for his role in the 1857 First War of Independence; there were some new rulers in town.

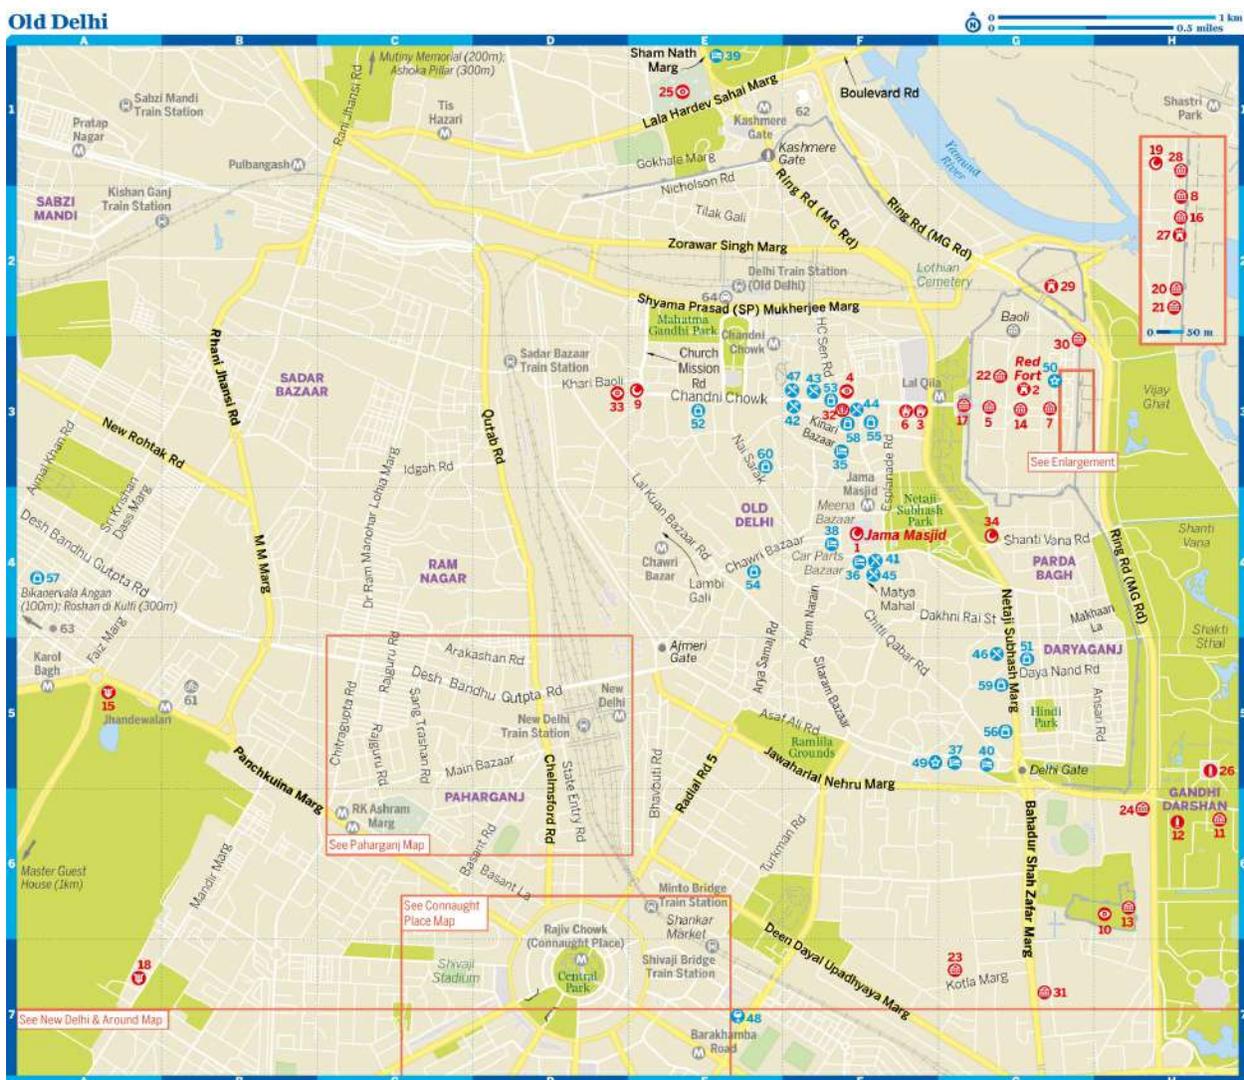

When the British shifted their capital to Delhi from increasingly rebellious Calcutta in 1911, it was time for another bout of construction. The architect Edwin Lutyens drew up plans for a new city of wide boulevards and stately administrative buildings to accommodate the colonial government – New Delhi was born.

In 1947 Partition – the division of India and Pakistan – saw Delhi ripped apart as many inhabitants fled to the north and migrants flooded inwards, a trauma from which some say the city has never recovered. The modern metropolis certainly faces other challenges too – traffic, population, crime and the deepening chasm between rich and poor. However, the city on the Yamuna River continues to flourish, with its new satellite cities spreading Delhi further and further outwards.

Sights

Most sights in Delhi are easily accessible by metro, though to reach some you'll have to take a rickshaw or taxi from the stop, even though it bears the same or similar name to the sight, eg Qutb Minar and Tughlaqabad. Note that many places are closed on Monday.

Old Delhi

Top Sights

1	Jama Masjid	F4
2	Red Fort	G3

Sights

3	Bird Hospital	F3
4	Chandni Chowk	F3
5	Chatta Chowk	G3
6	Digambara Jain Temple	F3
7	Diwan-i-Am	G3
8	Diwan-i-Khas	H2
9	Fatehpuri Masjid	E3
10	Feroz Shah Kotla	H6
11	Gandhi Darshan	H6
12	Gandhi Memorial	H6
13	Hawa Mahal	H6
14	Indian War Memorial Museum	G3
15	Jhandewalan Hanuman Temple	A5
16	Khas Mahal	H2
17	Lahore Gate	G3
18	Lakshmi Narayan Temple	A7
19	Moti Masjid	H1
20	Mumtaz Mahal	H2
21	Museum of Archaeology	H2
22	Museum on India's Struggle for Freedom	G3
23	National Bal Bhavan	G7
24	National Gandhi Museum	H6
	Naubat Khana	G3
25	Nicholson Cemetery	E1
26	Raj Ghat	H5
27	Rang Mahal	H2
28	Royal Baths	H1
29	Salimgarh	G2
30	Shahi Burj	G3
31	Shankar's International Dolls Museum	G7
32	Sisganj Gurdwara	F3
33	Spice Market	D3
34	Sunehri Masjid	G4

Sleeping

35	Haveli Dharampura	F3
36	Hotel Bombay Orient	F4
37	Hotel Broadway	G5
38	Hotel New City Palace	F4
39	Maidens Hotel	E1
40	Stops @ The President	G5

Eating

41	Al-Jawahar	F4
	Chor Bizarre	G5
42	Gali Paratha Wali	F3
43	Haldiram's	F3
44	Jalebiwala	F3
45	Karim's	F4
	Lakhori	F3
46	Moti Mahal	G5
47	Natraj Dahi Balle Wala	F3

Drinking & Nightlife

48	24/7	E7
----	----------------------	----

Entertainment

49	Delite Cinema	F5
50	Sound & Light Show	G3

Shopping

51	Aap Ki Pasand (San Cha)	G5
52	Ballimaran	E3
53	Chandni Chowk	F3
54	Chawri Bazaar	E4
55	Dariba Kalan	F3
56	Daryaganj Kitab Bazaar	G5
57	Karol Bagh Market	A4
58	Kinari Bazaar	F3
59	Musical Instrument Shops	G5
60	Nai Sarak	E3

Transport

	Delhi Transport Corporation	F1
	Haryana Roadways	F1

61	Jhandewalan Cycle Market	B5
62	Kashmere Gate Inter State Bus Terminal	F1
63	Lalli Motorbike Exports	A4
64	Prepaid Autorickshaws	E2
	Punjab Roadways	F1
	Rajasthan Roadways	F1
	Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation	F1
	Uttar Pradesh Roadways	F1
	Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation	F1

Old Delhi

'Old Delhi' is roughly equivalent to the the Mughal city of Shahjahanabad. The main drag is Chandni Chowk, stretching from Red Fort to Fatehpur Masjid, which is a cacophonous tumult of noise, colour and traffic. Narrow lanes spiderweb off the street, lined by brilliantly colourful bazaars. The easiest way to get around is by cycle rickshaw or on foot.

★ Red Fort

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹30/500, with museum ticket ₹35/500, video ₹25, audio guide in Hindi/English or Korean ₹69/115; 🕒 dawn-dusk Tue-Sun, museums 10am-5pm; M Chandni Chowk)

Founded by Emperor Shah Jahan and just a few decades older than the Palace of Versailles in France, this fort took 10 years to construct (1638–48). It had the decapitated bodies of prisoners built into the foundations for luck, and is surrounded by an 18m-high wall. It once overlooked the Yamuna River, which has now shrunk to some distance away. A tree-lined waterway, known as nahr-i-bihisht (river of paradise), ran out of the fort and along Chandni Chowk, fed by the Yamuna.

Shah Jahan never took up full residence here, after his disloyal son, Aurangzeb, imprisoned him in Agra Fort.

The last Mughal emperor of Delhi, Bahadur Shah Zafar, was flushed from the Red Fort in 1857 and exiled to Burma (Myanmar) for his role in the First War of Independence. The British destroyed buildings and gardens inside the fortress walls and replaced them with ugly barrack blocks for the colonial army.

The fort is the setting for an evening sound and light show (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.theashokgroup.com; Tue-Fri ₹60, Sat & Sun ₹80; 🕒 in Hindi/English 7/8.30pm Feb-Apr, Sep & Oct, 7.30/9pm May-Aug, 6/7.30pm Nov-Jan), narrated by Amitabh Bachchan.

The audio guide tour, by acclaimed company Narrowcasters, is worthwhile as it brings the site to life.

Red Fort

HIGHLIGHTS

The main entrance to the Red Fort is through 1 Lahore Gate – the bastion in front of it was built by Aurangzeb for increased security. You can still see bullet marks on the gate, dating from 1857, the First War of Independence, when the Indian army rose up against the British.

Walk through the Chatta Chowk (Covered Bazaar), which once sold silks and jewellery to the nobility; beyond it lies 2 Naubat Khana, a russet-red building, which houses Hathi Pol (Elephant Gate), so called because visitors used to dismount from their elephants or horses here as a sign of respect. From here it's straight on to the 3 Diwan-i-Am, the Hall of Public Audiences. Behind this are the private palaces, the 4 Khas Mahal and the 5 Diwan-i-Khas. Entry to this Hall of Private Audiences, the fort's most expensive building, was only permitted to the officials of state. The artificial stream the Nahr-i-Behisht ('stream of paradise') used to run a cooling channel of water through all these buildings. Nearby is the 6 Moti Masjid (Pearl Mosque) and south is the 7 Mumtaz Mahal, housing the Museum of Archaeology, or you can head north, where the Red Fort gardens are dotted by palatial pavilions and old British barracks. Here you'll find the 8 baoli, a spookily deserted water tank. Another five minutes' walk – across a road, then a railway bridge – brings you to the island fortress of 9 Salimgarh.

TOP TIPS

- To avoid crowds, get here early or late in the day; avoid weekends and public holidays.
- An atmospheric way to see the Red Fort is by night; you can visit after dark if you attend the nightly Sound & Light Show.

Lahore Gate

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

HISTORIC BUILDING

The main gate to the Red Fort is hidden by a defensive bastion built in front by Shah Jahan's son Aurangzeb. During the struggle for independence, nationalists promised to raise the Indian flag over the gate, an ambition that became a reality on 15 August 1947. The Prime Minister makes a speech here every Independence Day.

Chatta Chowk

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Covered Bazaar; MAP GOOGLE MAP)

In the Red Fort, this imperial bazaar used to cater to royal women and glitter with silk and jewels for sale. Today's wares are rather more mundane souvenirs.

Naubat Khana

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Drum House; MAP GOOGLE MAP)

At the eastern end of Chatta Chowk in the Red Fort, the arched 'Drum House' once accommodated royal musicians and served as parking for royal horses and elephants.

Indian War Memorial Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

Upstairs at Naubat Khana is the Indian War Memorial Museum, which contains ferocious-looking and fascinating historical weaponry.

Museum on India's Struggle for Freedom

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

Housed in ugly British-built barracks in the Red Fort, the Museum on India's Struggle for Freedom tells the story of the struggle against the British that led to Independence.

Salimgarh

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

Across a bridge from the Red Fort, this fort was established by Salim Shah Suri in 1546, so predates its grander neighbour. Salimgarh was later used as a prison, first by Aurangzeb and later by the British; you can visit the ruined mosque and a small museum.

Diwan-i-Am

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

In the Red Fort, this arcade of sandstone columns was the hall of public audience, where the emperor greeted guests and dignitaries from a throne on the raised marble platform, which is backed by fine pietra-dura (inlaid stone) work that features Orpheus, incongruously, and is thought to be Florentine.

Diwan-i-Khas

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

In the Red Fort, this Hall of Private Audience was used for bowing and scraping to the emperor. Above the corner arches to the north and south is inscribed in Urdu, 'If there is paradise on the earth – it is this, it is this, it is this'. Nadir Shah looted the legendary jewel-studded Peacock Throne from here in 1739. Bahadur Shah Zafar became the last Mughal emperor here in May 1857, but was tried (here, again) by the British seven months later following the First War of Independence (Indian Uprising), and exiled.

South of the Diwan-i-Khas is the dainty Khas Mahal (Special Palace; MAP GOOGLE MAP), containing the emperor's private apartments, shielded from prying eyes by lace-like carved marble screens. An artificial stream, the nahr-i-bihisht (river of paradise), once flowed through the apartments to the adjacent Rang Mahal (Palace of Colour; MAP GOOGLE MAP), home to the emperor's chief wife. The exterior of the palace was once lavishly painted; inside is an elegant lotus-shaped fountain.

Mumtaz Mahal

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

South of the Rang Mahal in the Red Fort is this pavilion, thought to have been built for Arjumand Banu Begum (also known as Mumtaz Mahal) – the Taj Mahal is her mausoleum. Today it houses the Museum of Archaeology (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun), with imperial objects from those of Akbar to the rose-water sprinklers and calligraphy of the last emperor, Bahadur Shah.

Royal Baths

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Closed to the public, the royal hammams in the Red Fort once contained a sauna and hot baths for the royal family.

Moti Masjid

MOSQUE

(Pearl Mosque; MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This small white mosque in the Red Fort was built by Aurangzeb as his private place of worship. The outer walls align with the fort walls, while the inner walls are askew to align with Mecca. It is closed to visitors.

Shahi Burj

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The Shahi Burj, in the Red Fort, is a three-storey octagonal tower that was Shah Jahan's favoured workplace. From here he planned the running of his empire. In front of the tower is what remains of an elegant formal garden, centred on the Zafar Mahal, a sandstone pavilion surrounded by a deep, empty water tank.

Chandni Chowk

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; M Chandni Chowk)

Old Delhi's main drag is lined by Jain, Hindu and Sikh temples, plus a church, with the Fatehpuri Masjid at one end. Tree-lined and elegant in Mughal times, the thoroughfare is now mind-bendingly chaotic, with tiny little ancient bazaars tentacling off it. In the Mughal era, Chandni Chowk centred on a pool that reflected the moon, hence the name, 'moonlight place'. The main street is almost impossible to cross, full as it is of cars, hawkers, motorcycles, rickshaws and porters.

Digambara Jain Temple

JAIN TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chandni Chowk; 🕒 6am-noon & 6-9pm; M Chandni Chowk)

Opposite the Red Fort is the red sandstone Digambara Jain Temple, built in 1658. It houses a fascinating bird hospital (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chandni Chowk) donations appreciated; 🕒 10am-5pm; M Chandni Chowk) established in 1956 to further the Jain principle of preserving all life, treating 30,000 birds a year. Squirrels and vegetarian birds are admitted; predators are treated as outpatients. Remove shoes and leather items before entering the temple.

Sunehri Masjid

MOSQUE

(Golden Mosque; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Chandni Chowk)

Built in 1721, this mosque has gilded domes, hence its name. In 1739, the Persian invader Nadir Shah stood on the roof and watched his soldiers massacre thousands of Delhi's inhabitants.

Sisganj Gurdwara

SIKH TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chandni Chowk)

The icing-sugar-white 18th-century Sisganj Gurdwara marks the martyrdom site of the ninth Sikh guru, Tegh Bahadur, executed by Aurangzeb in 1675 for resisting conversion to Islam. A banyan tree marks the spot where he was killed.

Fatehpuri Masjid

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chandni Chowk; 🕒 5am-9.30pm; M Chandni Chowk)

Built by Fatehpuri Begum, one of Shah Jahan's wives, this 17th-century mosque is a haven of tranquillity after the frantic streets outside. The central pool was taken from a noble house, hence the elaborate shape. After the 1857 uprising the mosque was sold to a Hindu nobleman by the British for ₹19,000 and returned to Muslim worship in exchange for four villages 20 years later.

★ Jama Masjid

MOSQUE

(Friday Mosque; MAP GOOGLE MAP; camera & video each ₹300, tower ₹100; 🕒 non-Muslims 8am-1hr before sunset, minaret 9am-5.30pm; M Chawri Bazaar)

A beautiful pocket of calm at the heart of Old Delhi's mayhem, India's largest mosque is built on a 10m elevation, towering above the surrounding hubbub. It can hold a mind-blowing 25,000 people. The marble and red-sandstone 'Friday Mosque' was Shah Jahan's final architectural triumph, built between 1644 and 1658. The four watchtowers were used for security. There are two minarets standing 40m high, one of which can be climbed for amazing views. All of the three gates allow access to the mosque.

The eastern gate was originally for imperial use only. Buy a ticket at the entrance to climb 121 steps up the narrow southern minaret (notices say that unaccompanied women are not permitted). From the top of the minaret, you can see how architect Edwin Lutyens incorporated the mosque into his design of New Delhi – the Jama Masjid, Connaught Place and Sansad Bhavan (Parliament House) are in a direct line.

Visitors should remove their shoes at the top of the stairs. There's no charge to enter the mosque, but you'll have to pay the camera charge whether you want to use your camera or not.

Raj Ghat

MONUMENT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 10am-8pm; M Jama Masjid) FREE

On the banks of the Yamuna River, this peaceful park contains a simple black-marble platform marking the spot where Mahatma Gandhi was cremated following his assassination in 1948. This memorial (MAP GOOGLE MAP; M Jama Masjid) is a thought-provoking spot, inscribed with what are said to have been Gandhi's final words, Hai Ram (Oh, God). Every Friday (the day he died) commemorative prayers are held here at 5pm, as well as on 2 October and 30 January, his birth and death anniversaries.

Across Kisan Ghat Rd is the Gandhi Darshan (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Kisan Ghat Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat; 🚏 (M) Indraprastha), a pavilion displaying photos relating to the Mahatma. Nearby memorials commemorate where Jawaharlal Nehru, Indira Gandhi and Rajiv Gandhi were cremated.

National Gandhi Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23310168; <http://gandhimuseum.org>; Raj Ghat; 🕒 9.30am-5.30pm Tue-Sun; 🚏 (M) Jama Masjid) FREE

An interesting museum preserving some of Gandhi's personal belongings, including his spectacles and even two of his teeth. Movingly and somewhat macabrely, also here are the dhoti, shawl and watch he was wearing when he was assassinated, and one of the bullets that killed him.

Feroz Shah Kotla

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Bahadur Shah Zafar Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn dusk; 🚏 (M) ITO)

Firozabad, the fifth city of Delhi, was built by Feroz Shah Tughlaq in 1354, the first city here to be built on the river. Only the fortress remains, with crumbling walls protecting the Jama Masjid (Friday mosque), a baoli (stepwell), and the pyramid-like Hawa Mahal (MAP GOOGLE MAP), topped by a 13m-high sandstone Ashoka Pillar inscribed with 3rd-century-BC Buddhist edicts. There's an otherworldly atmosphere to the ruins.

On Thursday afternoon, crowds gather at the mosque to light candles and incense and leave bowls of milk to appease Delhi's djinns (invisible spirits), who are said to occupy the underground chambers beneath the mosque. Shoes should be removed when entering the mosque and Hawa Mahal.

Shankar's International Dolls Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-3316970; www.childrensbooktrust.com; Nehru House, 4 Bahadur

Shah Zafar Marg; adult/child ₹17/6; 🕒 10am-6pm Tue-Sun; 🚇 (ITO)

Set up by K Shankar Pillai, a political cartoonist, who started collecting dolls in 1950, this museum has an impressive if quirky collection of 6500 costumed dolls from 85 countries.

National Bal Bhavan

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.nationalbalbhavan.nic.in; Kotla Marg; adult/child ₹20/free; 🕒 9am-5.30pm Tue-Sat; 🚇 (Mandi House)

Delhi's children's museum is a charming hodgepodge, with a polychrome-painted toy train ride, parrots, guinea pigs, rabbits and a small aquarium.

Nicholson Cemetery

CEMETERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lala Hardev Sahai Marg; 🕒 8am-6pm Apr-Sep, 9am-5pm Oct-Mar; 🚇 (Kashmere Gate)

Close to Kashmere Gate, this fascinating, forgotten cemetery is the last resting place for hundreds of Delhi's colonial-era residents, many of whom perished in childhood. The most famous (ex)-resident is the eponymous Brigadier General John Nicholson, who died from injuries sustained during the 1857 First War of Independence. He had a formidable reputation, and was so admired by some of his troops that he inspired a religious cult, but he was also contemptuous of the 'natives' and sadistically violent towards his adversaries.

Take the metro to see the British-erected Mutiny Memorial (GOOGLE MAP; Rani Jhansi Rd; 🚇 (Pulbangash) and Ashoka Pillar (GOOGLE MAP; Rani Jhansi Rd; 🚇 (Kashmere Gate), transported here by Feroz Shah.

Coronation Durbar Site

MONUMENT

(GOOGLE MAP; Shanti Swaroop Tyagi Marg; 🚇 (Model Town)

This historical oddity is worth seeking out if you like exploring forgotten corners. Around 10km north of Old Delhi, a lone obelisk marks the site where King George V was declared emperor of India in 1911, and where the great durbars (fairs) were held to honour India's British overlords in 1877 and 1903. A few marble busts of British officials and a mammoth statue of George V decorate the neighbouring park. Take an autorickshaw from the metro.

Lakshmi Narayan Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Birla Mandir; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mandir Marg; 🕒 4.30am-1.30pm & 2.30-9pm;

M Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

This Orissan-style temple was erected by the wealthy industrialist BD Birla in 1939; the main shrine honours Lakshmi, goddess of wealth. Gandhi inaugurated the complex as a temple for all castes; a sign on the gate says 'Everyone is Welcome'.

Jhandewalan Hanuman Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Link Rd, Jhandewalan; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Jhandewalan)

This temple is not to be missed (it's actually hard to miss) if you're in Karol Bagh. Take a short detour to see the 34m-high Hanuman statue that soars above the train tracks. Getting up close, there are passageways through the mouths of demons to a series of atmospheric, deity-filled chambers.

THE PIGEONS OF OLD DELHI

Pigeon rearing (kabootar bazi) is a popular hobby in Old Delhi, among those who can afford it – it costs from ₹5000 per bird. Some pigeons are trained to fight, some are fast, some are noted for their endurance. The practice first gained popularity during Mughal rule, when the birds were used for communication, and when Shahjahanabad was first built there were rival pigeon clubs all over the city. It's said that Nadir Shah's Delhi massacre was sparked after a row over the sale of a pigeon between one of his soldiers and a local fancier. Today there are still so many keepers that flying has to follow a timetable so that flocks don't clash. There are strict hierarchies among the owners; it takes more than 20 years to become a Khalifa (master pigeon keeper). The most spectacular event, of pigeon racing (haqaana), takes place on Republic Day.

Connaught Place Area

Connaught Place

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  Rajiv Chowk)

This confusing circular shopping district was named after George V's uncle, the Duke of Connaught, and fashioned after the Palladian colonnades of Bath. Greying, whitewashed, colonaded streets radiate out from the central circle of Rajiv Chowk, with blocks G to N in the outer circle and A to F in the inner circle. Today they mainly harbour brash, largely interchangeable but popular bars, and international chainstores, plus a few good hotels and restaurants. Touts are rampant.

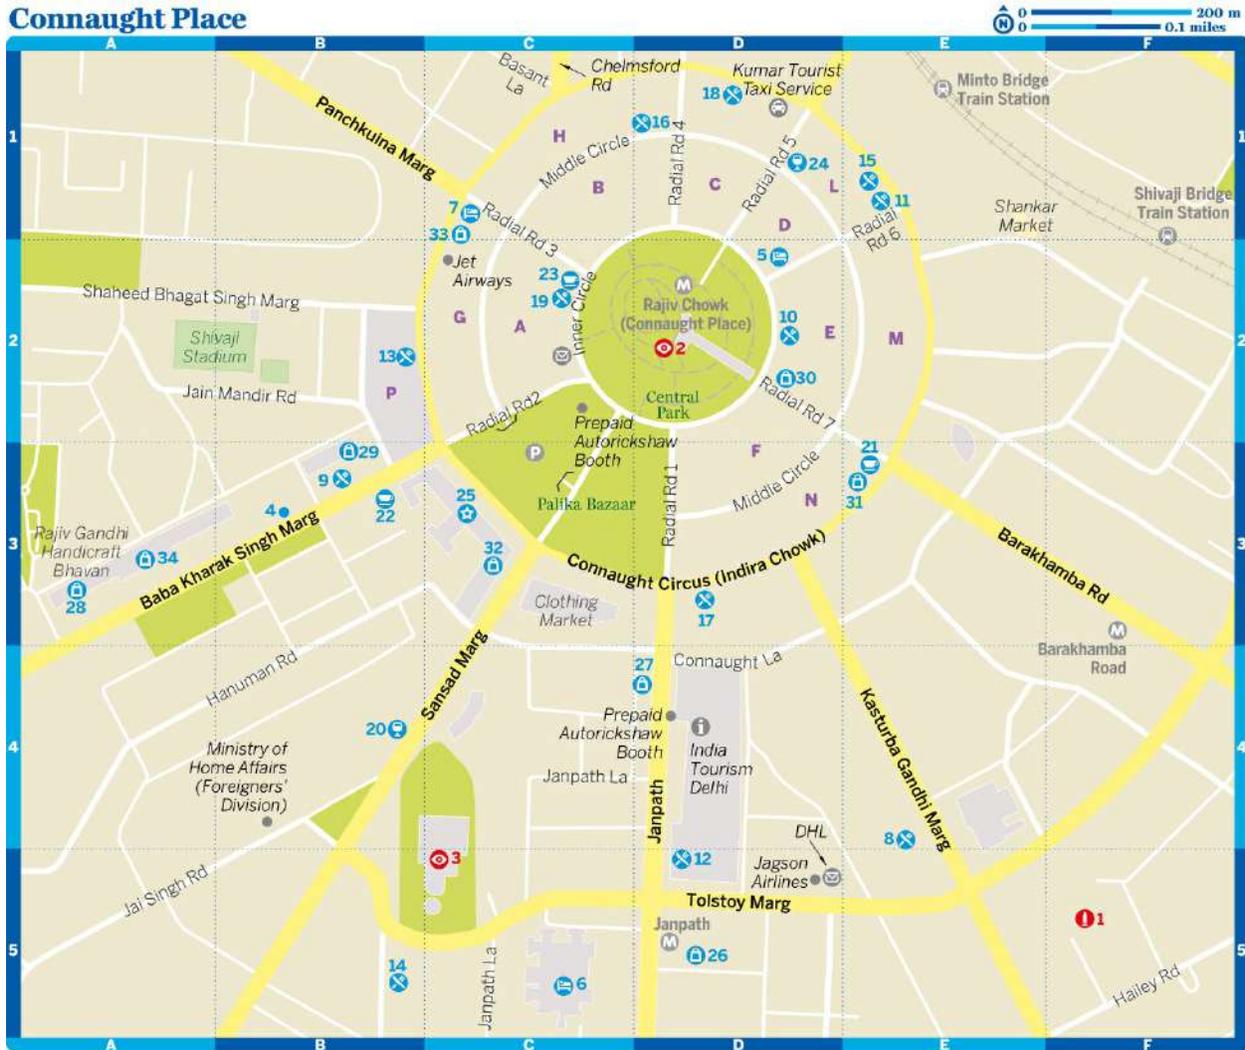

Jantar Mantar

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sansad Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹25/200, video ₹25;  dawn-dusk;  Patel Chowk)

This is one of five observatories built by Maharaja Jai Singh II, ruler of Jaipur. Constructed in 1725, Jantar Mantar (derived from the Sanskrit word for 'instrument', but which has also become the Hindi word for 'abracadabra') is a collection of curving geometric buildings that are carefully calibrated to monitor the movement of the stars and planets.

Connaught Place

Connaught Place

Sights

- | | |
|------------------------------------|----|
| 1 Agrasen ki Baoli | F5 |
| 2 Connaught Place | D2 |
| 3 Jantar Mantar | C5 |

Activities, Courses & Tours

- | | |
|---|----|
| 4 Delhi Tourism & Transport Development Corporation Booth | B3 |
|---|----|

Sleeping

- | | |
|--|----|
| 5 Hotel Palace Heights | D2 |
|--|----|

6	Imperial	C5
7	Radisson Blu Marina	C1

Eating

8	Caara Cafe	E4
9	Coffee Home	B3
10	Farzi Cafe	D2
11	Haldiram's	E1
12	Hotel Saravana Bhavan	D5
13	Hotel Saravana Bhavan	B2
14	Kerala House	B5
15	Naturals	E1
16	Nizam's Kathi Kabab	D1
17	Rajdhani	D3
18	Sagar Ratna	D1
19	Wenger's	C2
	Zāffrān	D2

Drinking & Nightlife

	1911	C5
20	Aqua	B4
	Atrium, Imperial	C5
21	Cha Bar	E3
22	Indian Coffee House	B3
23	Keventer's Milkshakes	C2
24	Unplugged	D1

Entertainment

25	Regal Cinema	C3
----	------------------------------	----

Shopping

26	Central Cottage Industries Emporium	D5
27	Janpath & Tibetan Markets	D4
28	Kamala	A3
29	Khadi Gramodyog Bhawan	B3
30	M Ram & Sons	D2
31	Oxford Bookstore	E3
32	People Tree	C3
33	Rikhi Ram	C1
34	State Emporiums	A3

Agrasen ki Baoli

MONUMENT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hailey Lane; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Janpath)

This atmospheric 14th-century step-well was once set in the countryside, till the city grew up around it; 103 steps descend to the bottom, flanked by arched niches. It's a remarkable thing to discover among the office towers southeast of Connaught Place. It's garnered more attention since it was used as a shelter by Aamir Khan in the 2015 movie PK.

New Delhi & Around

★ Humayun's Tomb

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mathura Rd; Indian/foreigner/under 15 ₹30/500/free, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M JLN Stadium)

Humayun's tomb is sublimely well proportioned, seeming to float above its symmetrical gardens. It's thought to have inspired the Taj Mahal, which it predates by 60 years. Constructed for the Mughal emperor in the mid-16th century by Haji Begum, Humayun's Persian-born wife, the tomb marries Persian and Mughal elements, with restrained decoration enhancing the architecture. The arched facade is inlaid with bands of white marble and red sandstone, and the building follows strict rules of Islamic geometry, with an emphasis on the number eight.

The tomb has had six years of restoration, and a new visitor centre is due to open at the site. The surrounding gardens contain the tombs of the emperor's favourite barber – an entrusted position given the proximity of the razor to the imperial throat – and Haji Begum. This was where the last Mughal emperor, Bahadur Shah Zafar, took refuge before being captured and exiled by the British in 1857.

To the right as you enter the complex, Isa Khan's tomb (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk) is a fine example of Lodi-era architecture, constructed in the 16th century. Further south is the monumental Khan-i-Khanan's tomb, plundered in Mughal times to build Safdarjang's tomb.

★ Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah

SHRINE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Lodi Rd; 🕒 24hr; M JLN Stadium)

Visiting the marble shrine of Muslim Sufi saint Nizam-ud-din Auliya is Delhi's most mystical, magical experience. The dargah is hidden away in a tangle of bazaars selling rose petals, attars (perfumes) and offerings, and on Thursday evenings from sunset you can hear Sufis singing qawwali (Islamic devotional singing), amid crowds of devotees. The ascetic Nizam-ud-din died in 1325 at the ripe old age of 92. His doctrine of tolerance made him popular not only with Muslims, but with Hindus, Sikhs and Buddhists as well.

Later kings and nobles wanted to be buried close to Nizam-ud-din, hence the number of nearby Mughal tombs. Other tombs in the compound include the graves of Jahanara (daughter of Shah Jahan) and the renowned Urdu poet Amir Khusru. Scattered around the surrounding alleyways are more tombs and a huge baoli (step-well). Entry is free, but visitors may be asked to make a donation.

A tour with the Hope Project, which ends at the shrine, is recommended for some background.

New Delhi & Around

New Delhi & Around

📍 Top Sights

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Gurdwara Bangla Sahib | D1 |
| 2 | Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah | G5 |
| 3 | Humayun's Tomb | H4 |

📍 Sights

- | | | |
|----|---|----|
| 4 | Bara Gumbad | E4 |
| 5 | Crafts Museum | G2 |
| 6 | Gandhi Smriti | E4 |
| 7 | India Gate | F2 |
| 8 | Indira Gandhi Memorial Museum | D4 |
| 9 | Isa Khan's Tomb | H4 |
| 10 | Khairul Manazil | G3 |
| 11 | Khan-i-Khanan's Tomb | H5 |

12	Lodi Gardens	E5
13	Mohammed Shah's Tomb	E5
14	Mughal Gardens	C2
15	National Gallery of Modern Art	F3
16	National Museum	E3
17	National Rail Museum	B5
18	National Zoological Gardens	G3
19	Nehru Memorial Museum	C3
	Nehru Planetarium	C3
20	North Secretariat	D2
21	Purana Qila	G3
22	Rajpath	E2
23	Rashtrapati Bhavan	C2
24	Rashtrapati Bhavan Museum	C2
25	Safdarjang's Tomb	D5
26	Sansad Bhavan	D2
27	Sikander Lodi's Tomb	E4
28	South Secretariat	D2

Activities, Courses & Tours

	Aura	F4
29	Delhi Golf Club	G4
30	Hope Project	G5
	Lodhi Spa	G5
31	Torch	H5

Sleeping

32	Bloom Rooms @ Link Rd	G6
33	Claridges	E4
34	Devna	G3
35	Lodhi	G5
36	Lutyens Bungalow	E5
37	Zaza Stay	H5

Eating

38	Alkauser	B3
	Altitude Cafe	F5
39	Andhra Pradesh Bhawan Canteen	F2
40	Basil & Thyme	G4
41	Bukhara	A4
42	Cafe Lota	G2

Chicken Inn	F3
43 Chor Bizarre	F3
44 Dhaba	E4
Diva Spiced	F5
45 Gujarat Bhawan	C4
Gulati	F3
Havemore	F3
46 Karim's	G5
47 Kebab Stands	G4
48 La Bodega	F4
49 Lodi Garden Restaurant	E5
50 Masala Library	E2
51 Nagaland House	E4
52 Pandara Market	F3
Perch	F4
Pindi	F3
53 Sagar Ratna	C4
54 Sana-di-ge	B4
Sodabottleopenerwala	F4
55 Triveni Terrace Cafe	F1

Drinking & Nightlife

Café Turtle	H5
Café Turtle	F4

Entertainment

56 Habitat World	F5
57 India International Centre	E4

Shopping

58 Aap Ki Pasand (San Cha)	C4
Anand Stationers	F4
Anokhi	C4
Anokhi	F4
59 Anokhi	H5
Bahrison's	F4
Fabindia	F4
60 Fabindia	F5
Full Circle Bookstore	F4
Kama	F4
61 Khan Market	F4

62 Meharchand Market	F5
Mehra Bros	F4
OCM Suitings	F4
63 Sunder Nagar Market	G3
The Shop	F5

i Information

64 Archaeological Survey of India	E3
65 Australian High Commission	C4
66 Bangladeshi High Commission	A5
67 Bhutanese Embassy	B5
68 British High Commission	C4
69 Canadian High Commission	B5
70 Chinese Embassy	C4
71 Dr Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital	C1
72 East West Medical Centre	E4
73 French Embassy	C4
74 German Embassy	B5
75 India Post	D1
76 Irish Embassy	B4
77 Israeli Embassy	E4
78 Japanese Embassy	C5
79 Malaysian High Commission	C5
80 Myanmar Embassy	C4
81 Nepali Embassy	F1
82 Netherlands Embassy	B5
83 New Zealand High Commission	B5
84 Pakistani Embassy	C4
85 Sikkim House	B4
86 Singaporean High Commission	B5
87 Sri Lankan High Commission	C3
88 US Embassy	C4

Transport

89 Bikaner House	F3
90 Chanderlok House	E1
91 Himachal Bhawan	G1
92 Himachal Pradesh Tourism Development Corporation	E1
93 Metropole Tourist Service	G6
94 Prepaid Autorickshaws	H5
Rajasthan Tourism	F3

Lodi Gardens

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Lodi Rd; 🕒 6am-8pm Oct-Mar, 5am-8pm Apr-Sep; M Khan Market or Jor Bagh)

Delhi's loveliest escape was originally named after the wife of the British Resident, Lady Willingdon, who had two villages cleared in 1936 in order to landscape a park to remind her of home. Today named after their Lodi-era tombs, the gardens, favoured getaway for Delhi's elite and courting couples, contain the 15th-century Bara Gumbad (MAP GOOGLE MAP) tomb and mosque, the strikingly different tombs of Mohammed Shah (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; M Khan Market) and Sikander Lodi (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; M JLN Stadium), and the Athpula (eight-piered) bridge across the lake, which dates from Emperor Akbar's reign.

Rajpath

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; M Central Secretariat)

Rajpath (Kingsway) is a vast parade linking India Gate to the offices of the Indian government. Built on an imperial scale between 1914 and 1931, this complex was designed by Edwin Lutyens and Herbert Baker, and underlined the ascendancy of the British rulers. Yet just 16 years later, the Brits were out on their ear and Indian politicians were pacing the corridors of power.

At the western end of Rajpath, the official residence of the president of India, Rashtrapati Bhavan, now partially open to the public via guided tour, is flanked by the mirror-image dome-crowned North Secretariat (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; M Central Secretariat) and South Secretariat (MAP GOOGLE MAP), housing government ministries. The Indian parliament meets nearby at the Sansad Bhavan (Parliament House; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sansad Marg), a circular, colonnaded edifice at the end of Sansad Marg.

At Rajpath's eastern end is mighty India Gate (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Rajpat 🕒 24hr; M Central Secretariat). This 42m-high stone memorial arch, designed by Lutyens, pays tribute to around 90,000 Indian army soldiers who died in WWI, the Northwest Frontier operations and the 1919 Anglo-Afghan War.

Rashtrapati Bhavan

HISTORIC BUILDING

(President's House; MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 011-23015321; www.presidentofindia.nic.in/visit-to-rashtrapati-bhavan.htm; ₹50, online reservation required; 🕒 9am-4pm Fri-Sun; M Central Secretariat)

Formerly home to the British Viceroy, the President's House has 340 rooms, with 2.5km of corridors, and it's fascinating to take a peek inside. Your guided visit takes in the domed Durbar Hall, the intimate presidential library and the gilded Ashoka Hall.

Rashtrapati Bhavan Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 011-23792177; www.presidentofindia.nic.in; gate 30, Mother Theresa Crescent Rd; tour ₹50; 🕒 9am-4pm Fri-Sun; M Patel Chowk)

Occupying the presidential stables and garages, this swish museum has state-of-the-art displays including a virtual-reality walk with Gandhi and 3D images of presidential speeches, plus vehicles, such as a Mercedes given to Rajiv Gandhi by the King of Jordan. Book ahead online.

Mughal Gardens

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 usually 9.30am-4pm Tue-Sun mid-Feb-mid-Mar; M Central Secretariat) FREE

The extravagance of these glorious gardens is such that Mountbatten, India's last viceroy, was said to have employed 418 gardeners. There are fountains, cypress, bougainvillea, climbing roses, symmetrical lawns and wandering peacocks. If you're in town when the gardens are in flower (the same months they're open), they're not to be missed.

National Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 011-23019272; www.nationalmuseumindia.gov.in; Janpath; Indian/foreigner ₹20/650, camera Indian/foreigner ₹20/300; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun, free guided tour)

10.30am & 2.30pm Tue-Fri, 10.30am, 11.30am & 2.30pm Sat & Sun;  Central Secretariat)

This glorious if dusty museum is full of treasures. Mind-bogglingly ancient, sophisticated figurines from the Harappan civilisation, almost 5000 years old, include the remarkable Dancing Girl, and there are also some fine ceramics from the even older Nal civilisation. Other items include Buddha relics, exquisite jewellery, miniature paintings, medieval woodcarvings, textiles and musical instruments.

Allow at least two hours. Bring identification to obtain an audio guide (included in the foreigner ticket price; ₹150 extra for Indian tourists). There's also a cafe.

National Gallery of Modern Art

GALLERY

( ;  011-23386111; www.ngmaindia.gov.in; Jaipur House, Dr Zakir Hussain Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹20/500;  10am-5pm Tue-Sun;  Khan Market)

Housed in the Maharaja of Jaipur's domed former palace (built in 1936), Delhi's flagship art gallery displays collections tracing the development of Indian art from the mid-19th century to the present day, from 'Company Paintings' created by Indian artists to please their British rulers to the artworks of Nobel Prize-winner Rabindranath Tagore. Photography is prohibited.

Gandhi Smriti

MUSEUM

( ;  011-23012843; 5 Tees Jan Marg;  10am-5pm Tue-Sun, closed every 2nd Sat of month;  Racecourse) FREE

This poignant memorial to Mahatma Gandhi is in Birla House, where he was shot dead on the grounds by a Hindu zealot on 30 January 1948, after campaigning against intercommunal violence.

The house itself is where Gandhi spent his last 144 days. The exhibits include rooms preserved just as Gandhi left them, a detailed account of his life and last 24 hours, and vivid miniature dioramas depicting scenes from his life.

Indira Gandhi Memorial Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-23010094; 1 Safdarjang Rd; 🕒 9.30am-4.45pm Tue-Sun;

M Racecourse) FREE

In the residence of controversial former prime minister Indira Gandhi is this interesting museum devoted to her life and family, India's Kennedys. It displays her personal effects, including the blood-stained sari she was wearing when she was assassinated in 1984. Many rooms are preserved as they were, providing a window into the family's life. An exhibit at the rear charts the life of Indira's son, Rajiv, who met a similarly violent end and was assassinated in 1991.

Nehru Memorial Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-23016734; www.nehrumemorial.nic.in; Teen Murti Rd; 🕒 9am-

5.30pm Tue-Sun; M Udyog Bhawan) FREE

Built for the British commander-in-chief and previously called 'Flagstaff House', the stately Teen Murti Bhawan was later the official residence of Jawaharlal Nehru (India's first prime minister). It's now a museum devoted to Nehru's life and work; the bedroom, study and drawing room are preserved as if he'd just popped out.

On the grounds is a 14th-century hunting lodge, built by Feroz Shah, and a more recent planetarium (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-23014504; www.nehruplanetarium.org; 45min show adult/child ₹60/40; 🕒 shows English 11.30am & 3pm, Hindi 1.30pm & 4pm), which has shows about the stars in Hindi and English.

Purana Qila

FORT

(Old Fort; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-24353178; Mathura Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹5/200, video ₹25, sound & light show adult/child ₹100/50; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Pragati Maidan)

The unimaginatively named 'Old Fort' is where Mughal Emperor Humayun met his end in 1556, tumbling down the steps of the Sher Mandal, which he used as a library. The fort had been built by Afghan ruler Sher Shah (1538–45), during his brief ascendancy over Humayun. It's well worth a visit, with its peaceful garden studded with well-preserved ancient red-stone monuments, including the intricately patterned Qila-i-Kuhran Mosque (Mosque of Sher Shah).

A popular boating lake has been created from Purana Qila's former moat, with pedalos for hire.

Across busy Mathura Road are more relics from the city of Shergarh, including the beautiful Khairul Manazil mosque (MAP GOOGLE MAP), still used by local Muslims and favoured haunt of flocks of pigeons.

Crafts Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 011-23371641; Bhairon Marg; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun; 🚇 Pragati Maidan) FREE

Much of this lovely museum is outside, including tree-shaded carvings and buildings. Displays celebrate the traditional crafts of India, with some beautiful textiles on display indoors, such as embroidery from Kashmir and cross-stitch from Punjab. Highlights include an exquisite reconstructed Gujarati haveli (traditional house). Artisans sell their products in the rear courtyard. The museum includes the excellent Cafe Lota and a very good shop.

National Rail Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 011-26881816; Service Rd, Chanakypuri; adult/child ₹20/10, video ₹100; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun; 🚇 Safdarjung)

A contender for one of Delhi's best (and best-value) museums, the National Rail Museum has steam locos and carriages spread across 11 acres. Among the venerable bogies are the former Viceregal Dining Car, and the Maharaja of Mysore's rolling saloon. The new indoor gallery includes some hands-on exhibits, a miniature railway, and three simulators (weekends only). A toy train (adult/child ₹20/10) chuffs around the grounds.

National Zoological Gardens

ZOO

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 011-24359825; www.nzpnnewdelhi.gov.in; Mathura Rd; adult/child India ₹40/20, foreigner ₹200/100, camera/video ₹50/200, battery-operated vehicle adult/child ₹67/34; 🕒 9am-4.30pm Sat-Thu, to 4pm Oct-Mar; M Pragati Maidan)

Founded in 1952, this is a vast green space in the city, covering 86 hectares. Kept in reasonable conditions are lions, tigers, elephants, hippos, rhinos, spectacular birds and monkeys. You can hire battery-operated vehicles to get around.

Safdarjang's Tomb

TOMB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Aurobindo Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Jor Bagh)

Built by the Nawab of Avadh for his father, Safdarjang, this grandiose, highly decorative mid-18th-century tomb is an example of late Mughal architecture. There were insufficient funds for all-over marble, so materials to cover the dome were taken from the nearby mausoleum of Khan-i-Khanan, and it was finished in red sandstone.

Khan-i-Khanan's Tomb

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹15/200; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Jangpura)

This is the monumental tomb of a poet and minister in Akbar's court. Khan-i-Khanan had it built for his wife in 1598, and was buried here himself in 1627. It was later plundered to build nearby Safdarjang's tomb, and more of its decoration was stripped in the 19th century.

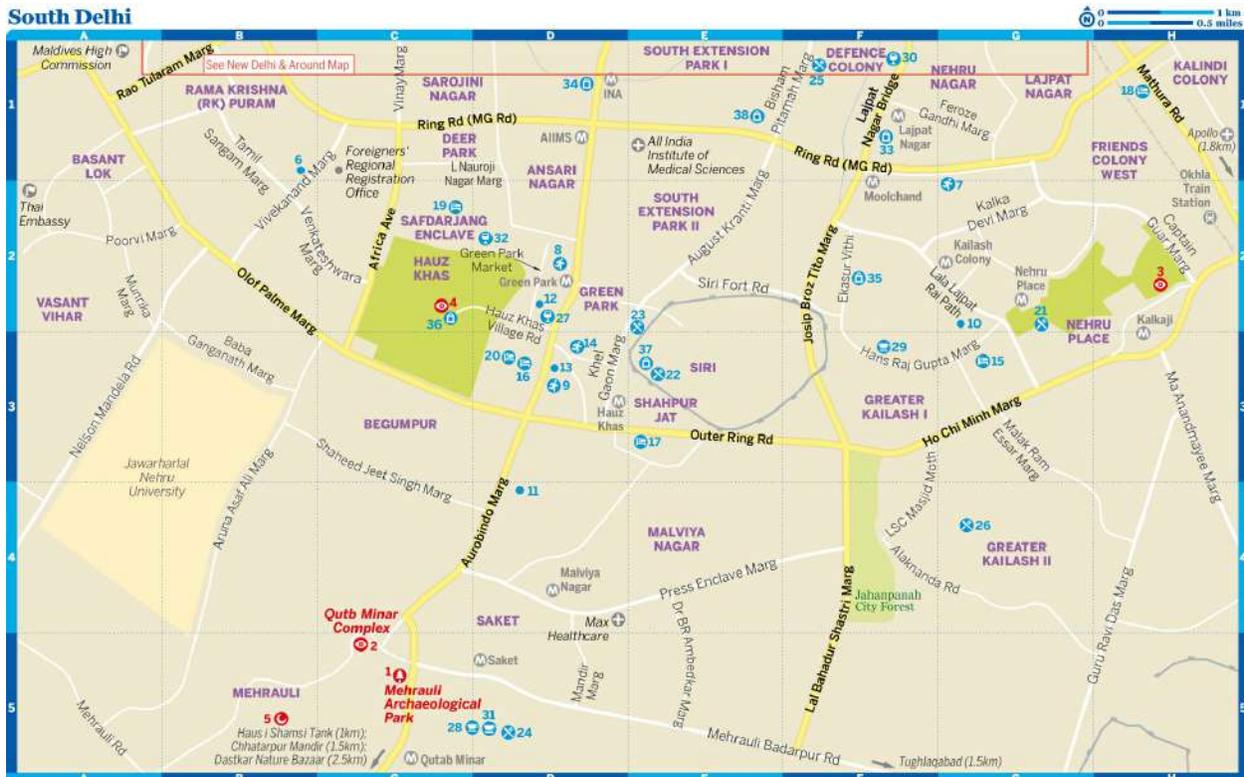

★ Gurdwara Bangla Sahib

SIKH TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Ashoka Rd; 🕒 4am-9pm; M Patel Chowk)

This magnificent, huge, white-marble gurdwara (Sikh temple), topped by glinting golden onion domes, was constructed at the site where the eighth Sikh guru, Harkrishan Dev, stayed before his 1664 death. Despite his tender years, the six-year-old guru tended to victims of Delhi's cholera and smallpox epidemic, and the waters of the large tank are said to have healing powers. It's full of colour and life, yet tranquil, and live devotional songs waft over the compound.

South Delhi

📍 Top Sights

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Mehrauli Archaeological Park | C5 |
| 2 | Qutb Minar Complex | C5 |

📍 Sights

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 3 | Bahai House of Worship | H2 |
| | Feroz Shah's Tomb | C2 |
| 4 | Hauz Khas | C2 |
| 5 | Hijron ka Khanqah | B5 |
| | Iron Pillar | C5 |
| | Qutb Minar | C5 |
| | Quwwat-ul-Islam Masjid | C5 |

📍 Activities, Courses & Tours

6	Central Hindi Directorate	B1
7	Concern India Foundation	G2
8	Kerala Ayurveda	D2
9	Saffron Palate	D3
10	Sivananda Yoga	G2
11	Sri Aurobindo Ashram	D4
12	Studio Abhyas	D2
13	Tushita Meditation Centre	D3
14	Yoga Studio	D3

Sleeping

15	Bed & Chai	G3
16	Jugaad Hostel	D3
17	Madpackers Hostel	E3
18	Manor	H1
19	Scarlette	C2
20	Treetops	D3

Eating

	Coast	C2
21	Epicuria	G2
22	Greenr	E3
	Indian Accent	H1
23	Potbelly	E2
24	Rose Cafe	D5
	Sagar Ratna	F1
25	Swagath	F1
26	Swagath	G4

Drinking & Nightlife

	Anandini Tea Room	E3
27	Bandstand	D2
28	Blue Tokai	C5
29	Café Turtle	F3
30	Ek Bar	F1
	Hauz Khas Social	C2
31	Jugmug Thela	D5
	Kunzum Travel Cafe	C2
32	Piano Man Jazz Club	D2
	Summer House	D2

Shopping

Anokhi	F2
Claymen	C2
33 Delhi Musical Stores	F1
34 Dilli Haat	D1
35 Greater Kailash I: M-Block & N-Block Markets	F2
36 Hauz Khas Village	C2
37 NeedleDust	E3
Nimai	E3
38 Timeless	E1

South Delhi

Hauz Khas

AREA

(  ;  dawn-dusk;  Green Park)

Built by Sultan Ala-ud-din Khilji in the 13th century, Hauz Khas means 'noble tank', and its reservoir once covered 28 hectares. It collected enough water during the monsoon to last Siri Fort throughout the dry season. Today it's much smaller, but still a beautiful place to be, thronged by birds and surrounded by parkland. Alongside it are the ruins of Feroz Shah's 14th-century madrasa (religious school) and tomb (  ;  Green Park), which he had built before his death in 1388.

To reach the lake shore, cut through the adjacent Deer Park (daylight hours), which has more ruined tombs and a well-stocked deer enclosure. There are numerous Lodi-era tombs scattered along the access road to Hauz Khas Village, and in nearby Green Park.

Bahai House of Worship

TEMPLE

(Lotus Temple;   ;  011-26444029; www.bahaihouseofworship.in; Kalkaji;  9am-7pm Tue-Sun Apr-Sep, to 5.30pm Oct-Mar;  Kalkaji Mandir)

Designed for tranquil worship, Delhi's beautiful Lotus Temple offers a rare pocket of calm in the hectic city. This architectural masterpiece was designed by Iranian-Canadian architect Fariburz Sahba in 1986. It is shaped like a lotus flower, with 27 delicate-looking white-marble petals. The temple was created to bring faiths together; visitors are invited to pray or meditate silently according to their own beliefs. The attached visitor centre tells the story of the Bahai faith. Photography is prohibited inside the temple.

Chhatarpur Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

(Shri Adya Katyayani Shakti Peeth Mandir; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-26802360; www.chhattarpurmandir.org; Main Chhatarpur Rd; 🕒 4am-midnight; 🚶 Chhatarpur)

India's second-largest temple (after Akshardham), this impressive sandstone and marble complex dates from 1974, and is dedicated to the goddess Katyayani (one of the nine forms of Parvati). There are dozens of shrines with towering South Indian gopurams (temple towers), and an enormous statue of Hanuman stands guard over the compound. Weekdays tend to be fairly sedate, but it gets crowded at weekends and during the Navratri celebrations in September/October.

Other Areas

★ Akshardham Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-43442344; www.akshardham.com; National Hwy 24, Noida turning; temple admission free, exhibitions ₹170, water show ₹80; 🕒 temple 9.30am-6.30pm Tue-Sun, exhibitions 9.30am-5pm, water show after sunset; 🚶 Akshardham)

In the eastern suburbs, the Gujarati Hindu Swaminarayan Group's Akshardham Temple was built in 2005, and is breathtakingly lavish. Artisans used ancient techniques to carve the pale red sandstone into elaborate reliefs, including 20,000 deities, saints and mythical creatures. The centrepiece is a 3m-high gold statue of Bhagwan Shri Swaminarayan.

The complex includes a boat ride through 10,000 years of Indian history, animatronics telling stories from the life of Swaminarayan, and musical fountains.

Sulabh International Museum of Toilets

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-25031518; www.sulabhtoiletmuseum.org; Sulabh Complex, Mahavir Enclave, Palam Dabri Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Apr-Sep, 10.30am-5pm Oct-Mar; 🚇 Janakpuri West) 🍃 FREE

More than half of India's 1.2 billion people still don't have a toilet in their homes, but since 1970 the Sulabh NGO has worked to address India's sanitation issues, constructing new public toilets and developing 'scavenger-free' pour-flush toilets – it's long been illegal for people to work as manual scavengers in order to empty untreated waste, but this caste-defined task is still prevalent in many areas. The organisation also educates, and their small, quirky museum traces the history of the water closet from 2500 BC to modern times. Take a rickshaw from the metro stop.

Sanskriti Museums

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; www.sanskritifoundation.org; Anandagram, Mehrauli Gurgaon Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Fri; 🚇 Arjanganrh) FREE

On the way to Gurgaon, this little-known, well-kept place contains museums devoted to 'everyday art' and Indian terracotta and textiles. Much of the museum is outside and covers 7 acres. Objects such as kitchenware and hookahs are works of art, and there are expressive terracotta sculptures and intricate textiles from Gujarat, Rajasthan, Kashmir and Bengal.

Activities

Delhi Golf Club

GOLF

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-24307100; www.delhigolfclub.org; Dr Zakir Hussain Marg; 18 holes weekdays/weekends Indian ₹6000/8000, foreigner US$100/150; 🕒 dawn-dusk; 🚇 Khan Market)

Carved out of the undergrowth in 1931, this golf club now covers 220 acres and is a spectacular place to tee off, with beautiful, well-tended fairways, peacocks and Mughal tombs. Weekends are busy.

Kerala Ayurveda

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-41754888; www.ayurvedancr.com; E-2 Green Park Extn; 1hr synchronised massage with steam ₹1500, sirodhara ₹3000; 🕒 8am-8pm; 📍 Green Park)

Treatments from sarvang ksheerdhara (massage with buttermilk) to sirodhara (warm oil poured on the forehead).

Aura

SPA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 8800621206; www.aurathaispa.com; Middle Lane, Khan Market; 1hr dry/oil massage ₹1400/2800; 🕒 10am-9pm; 📍 Khan Market)

Glitzy spa offering Thai-inspired massages and treatments. There are also branches at Karol Bagh, GK1, GK2 and Green Park.

DELHI'S TOP FESTIVALS

To confirm exact dates contact India Tourism Delhi.

Republic Day (🕒 26 Jan) A spectacular military parade in Rajpath.

Beating of the Retreat (🕒 29 Jan) More military pageantry in Rajpath.

St.Art Street art festival from December to March.

Independence Day (🕒 15 Aug) India celebrates its Independence from Britain.

Dussehra (Durga Puja; 🕒 Sep/Oct) Hindu celebration of good over evil with parades of colourful effigies.

Qutb Festival (🕒 Oct/Nov) Sufi singing and classical music and dance at the Qutb Minar complex.

Diwali (Festival of Light; 🕒 Oct/Nov) Fireworks across the city for the Festival of Light.

Delhi International Arts Festival (DIAF; www.diaf.in; 🕒 Nov/Dec) Exhibitions, performing arts, film, literature and culinary events.

Tours

★ Reality Tours & Travel

TOURS

(📞 9818227975; <http://realitytoursandtravel.com>; 2hr tour ₹850; 🕒 10am-6pm)

Long-established in Mumbai, the highly professional Reality Tours are now offering tours of Delhi, including the excellent Sanjay Colony tour – a visit to a slum area of Delhi (no photographs permitted out of respect for locals' privacy). The tour guides are knowledgeable and friendly, and 80% of profits go to supporting development projects in the colony.

★ DelhiByCycle

CYCLING

(📞 9811723720; www.delhibycycle.com; per person ₹1850; 🕒 6.30-10am)

Founded by a Dutch journalist, these cycle tours are the original and the best, and a thrilling way to explore Delhi. Tours focus on specific neighbourhoods – Old Delhi, New Delhi, Nizamuddin, and the banks of the Yamuna – and start early to miss the worst of the traffic. The price includes chai and a Mughal breakfast. Child seats are available.

★ Salaam Baalak Trust

WALKING

(SBT; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23584164; www.salaambaalaktrust.com; Gali Chandiwali, Paharganj; suggested donation ₹200; M Ramakrishna Ashram Marg) 🌿

Founded on the proceeds of Mira Nair's 1988 film about the life of street children, Salaam Bombay!, this charitable organisation offers two-hour 'street walks' guided by former street children, who will show you firsthand what life is like for Delhi's homeless youngsters. The fees help the Trust assist street children.

Intach

WALKING

(📞 011-41035557; www.intachdelhichapter.org; tour ₹200)

Intach runs walking tours with expert guides, exploring different areas, such as Chandni Chowk, Nizamuddin, Hauz Khas and Mehrauli. Custom walks can also be arranged.

Delhi Heritage Walks

WALKING

(www.delhiheritagewalks.com; 3hr walk ₹500)

Fascinating walks led by knowledgeable guides around Mehrauli, Old Delhi, Tughlaqabad and more.

Delhi Metro Walks

WALKING

(www.delhimetrowalks.com; half- to full-day group walks per person ₹300-600)

Delhi-wallah Surekha Nurain shares her extensive knowledge about architecture, history and culture on recommended group or private tours, visiting both mainstream sights and off-the-beaten-track locations. She has several specially themed walks for families.

Street Connections

WALKING

(www.walk.streetconnections.co.uk; 3hr walk ₹500; 🕒 9am-noon Mon-Sat) 🌿

This fascinating walk through Old Delhi is guided by former street children who have been helped by the Salaam Baalak Trust. It explores the hidden corners of Old Delhi, starting at Jama Masjid and concluding at one of the SBT shelters.

Hope Project

WALKING

( ; 📞 011-24357081; www.hopeprojectindia.org; 127 Hazrat Nizamuddin; 1½ walk suggested donation ₹300;  JLN Stadium) 🌿

The Hope Project guides interesting walks around the Muslim basti (slum) of Nizamuddin. Take the walk in the afternoon to end at the qawwali (Islamic devotional singing) at the Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah, or at the more intimate session at the shrine of Hazrat Inayat Khan on Friday. Wear modest clothing.

Peteindia

WALKING

(www.peteindia.org; 2hr tour ₹750)

An NGO offering guided walks around the central area that's home to Delhi's magicians, puppeteers and circus performers, also known as the tinsel slum

(the 'Kathputli Colony'). It's not the best organised tour but nonetheless a unique opportunity to see some of the performers, subject of the 2015 documentary Tomorrow We Disappear, and discover more about their communities.

Ho Ho Bus Service

TOURS

(Hop-on, Hop-off; 📞1280; <http://hohodelhi.com>; Indian/foreigner ₹350/700, two-day ticket ₹600/1200; 🕒departures 8.30am-2.40pm Tue-Sun)

The Delhi Tourism & Transport Development Corporation runs the air-conditioned Ho Ho Dilli Dekho bus service, which circuits the major sights every 45 minutes or so from 8.30am to 6.30pm, with the last stop at Jantar Mantar at 6.45pm (last departure at 2.40pm). Buy tickets from the booth (MAP GOOGLE MAP) near the DTTDC office.

Courses

Sivananda Yoga

HEALTH & WELLBEING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.sivananda.org.in; A41 Kailash Colony; suggested donation per class ₹400;  Kailash Colony)

This excellent ashram offers courses and workshops for both beginners and the advanced, plus drop-in classes ranging from one to two hours. On Sunday there is a free introductory drop-in class.

Yoga Studio

YOGA

(Seema Sondhi; MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.theyogastudio.info; 43 D-Block Hauz Khas; 4/8/12 classes ₹2200/3200/3700, drop in ₹800;  Hauz Khas)

Seema Sondni's 75-minute classes practise various forms of Ashtanga Vinyasa. From beginners to advanced practioners: contact in advance so you can attend an appropriate class.

Studio Abhyas

MEDITATION, YOGA

( ;  011-26962757; www.abhyastrust.org; F-27 Green Park;  Green Park
Yoga and meditation classes and Vedic chanting, for practitioners at any level; also offer children's classes.

Sri Aurobindo Ashram

MEDITATION, YOGA

( ;  011-26567863; www.sriurobindoashram.net; Aurobindo Marg;  Ha Khas)

Ashram offering free yoga and meditation classes for serious practitioners.

Tushita Meditation Centre

MEDITATION

( ;  011-26513400; www.tushitadelhi.com; 9 Padmini Enclave; by donation
 6.30-7.30pm Mon & Thu;  Hauz Khas)

Guided Tibetan/Buddhist meditation sessions.

Saffron Palate

COOKING

( ;  9971389993; www.saffronpalate.com; R21 Hauz Khas Enclave; cooking class without/with market visit ₹6000/8000;  varies;  Hauz Khas)

Recommended 2½-hour Indian cookery classes, where you eat the food afterwards, are run by Neha Gupta in her family home. You can also arrange a 4½-hour course including a market visit.

Central Hindi Directorate

LANGUAGE

( ;  011-26178454; <http://hindinideshalaya.nic.in/english>; West Block VII, RK Puram, Vivekanand Marg; 60hr basic course ₹6000)

Runs certificate and diploma courses in Hindi; basic courses last 60 hours, with three classes a week.

Sleeping

Delhi hotels range from wallet-friendly dives to lavish five-stars; wherever you are on the scale, it's wise to book ahead, and reconfirm 24 hours before arrival. Most places offer airport pick-up, arranged in advance.

Hotel rooms above ₹1500 per night attract a 8.4% service tax, a 15% luxury tax and nominal Krishi Kalyan Cess (a national agriculture initiative) and Swaccha Bharat Abhiyan Cess (a national sanitation and infrastructure initiative) charges of 0.05% each.

Old Delhi

★ Stops @ The President

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-41056226; www.gostops.com; 4/23B Asaf Ali Rd; dm ₹500-800, d ₹3000; 📶 @ 📶; 🚇 New Delhi)

This is one of the best of Delhi's new breed of hostels, in a great location on the edge of Old Delhi, with a brightly tiled kitchen, lounge areas, three friendly dogs, and comfortable, clean dorms and rooms.

Hotel New City Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-23279548; www.hotelnewcitypalace.in; 726 Jama Masjid; r ₹700; 📶; 🚇 Chawri Bazaar)

A palace it's not, but this mazelike hotel has an amazing location overlooking the Jama Masjid. Rooms aren't big, and have small, hard beds with greying sheets, but some have windows and views. The bathrooms (squat toilets) could do with a good scrub, but staff are friendly.

Hotel Bombay Orient

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-43101717; Matya Mahal; s/d from ₹970/1430, with AC ₹1370/1830; 📶; 🚇 Jama Masjid)

Opposite famous restaurant Karim's in Old Delhi, this is a friendly place to stay and you'll be in the thick of it. Rooms are clean and tidy, but ask to see a few before you commit. Bookings are recommended.

Hotel Broadway

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-43663600; www.hotelbroadwaydelhi.com; 4/15 Asaf Ali Rd; s/d in breakfast from ₹3250/4805; 📶 @ 📶; 🚶 New Delhi)

The Broadway was Delhi's first high-rise when it opened in 1956. Today it's comfortable, quirky, and in a great Old Delhi location. It's worth staying here for the restaurant Chor Bizarre and Thugs bar. Some rooms have old-fashioned wood panelling, while others have been quirkily kitted out by French designer Catherine Lévy. Ask for one with views over Old Delhi.

★ Haveli Dharampura

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23263000; www.havelidharampura.com; 2293 Gali Guliyani; d from ₹13,640; 📶 @ 📶; 🚶 Jama Masjid)

This is a beautiful restored haveli, full of Mughal atmosphere and centred around a courtyard. Rooms have grandiose polished-wood beds, but it's worth paying for a larger room, as the smallest are a little cramped. The excellent restaurant, Lakhori, serves historic Mughal recipes, and there's kathak dancing Friday to Sunday evenings.

Maidens Hotel

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23975464; www.maidenshotel.com; 7 Sham Nath Marg; r from ₹19,840; 📶 @ 📶 📶; 🚶 Civil Lines)

Oberoi-owned Maidens is a grand heritage hotel dating from 1903 – a creamy neoclassical confection fronted by pea-green lawns. Lutyens stayed here while supervising the building of New Delhi, and the high-ceilinged rooms have a colonial-era charm but contemporary comforts. There are two restaurants, a pool and a bar.

PRICE RANGES

The following price ranges refer to a double room with private bathroom and are inclusive of tax.

$ less than ₹1500

$$ ₹1500–5000

$$$ more than ₹5000

Paharganj & Around

Love it or hate it, this hectic traveller hub is no oasis of serenity. But it is packed with hotels, trinket shops, and restaurants of every cuisine, and is convenient for New Delhi Railway Station/Airport metro.

If your hotel is on the the Main Bazaar or Arakashan Rd, taxi drivers can make it all the way to the door, though they may be reluctant as it's so congested. If you're having issues, ask to be dropped at Chhe Tooti Chowk and complete your journey on foot.

You can walk to the Main Bazaar in minutes from Ramakrishna Ashram Marg metro. The New Delhi metro is more convenient for Arakashan Rd, which is around 10 minutes' walk from the stop, over a bridge.

Paharganj

Paharganj

📍 Activities, Courses & Tours

1 Salaam Baalak Trust C2

🏠 Sleeping

2 Backpacker Panda A3

3 Bloom Rooms @ New Delhi C1

4 Cottage Ganga Inn B2

5 Diya A2

6 Hotel Amax Inn B1

7 Hotel Godwin Deluxe B1

8 Hotel Hari Piorko B2

9 Hotel Namaskar B2

10 Hotel Rak International B2

11	Metropolis Tourist Home	A2
12	Zostel	C1

Eating

13	Brown Bread Bakery	B2
	Cafe Fresh	A2
14	Everest Bakery	C2
	Malhotra	A2
15	Narula Bakery	B3
16	Shimtur	B2
17	Sita Ram Dewan Chand	A2
18	Tadka	B3

Drinking & Nightlife

19	Gem	C2
20	Karen Cafe	B1
21	Metro Bar	A3
22	My Bar	A3
23	Sam's Bar	B2

Shopping

24	Main Bazaar	C2
----	-----------------------------	----

★ Backpacker Panda

HOSTEL $

( GOOGLE MAP ; <http://backpackerpanda.com>; dm 8-bed ₹400, 6-bed ₹450;  ; Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

A great alternative to Paharganj's less-than-fancy cheap hotels, Panda offers bright, clean dorms (one is female only) with attached bathrooms, charge points, lockers, windows, clean linen and comfortable mattresses. It's close to the metro. Win-win!

★ Hotel Amax Inn

HOTEL $

( GOOGLE MAP ;  011-23543813; www.hotelamax.com; 8145/6 Arakashan Rd; s/d/tr fro ₹850/950/1350;    ;  New Delhi)

In a lane off chaotic Arakashan Rd, the Amax is a long-running traveller favourite, with clean, occasionally stuffy, good-value budget rooms. Staff are friendly, and clued up about traveller needs, and there's a small greenery-fringed terrace. The triple (Room 403) opening onto the rooftop has the added advantage of a window and a nicely stencilled wall.

Zostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-39589005; www.zostel.com/zostel/Delhi; 5 Arakashan Rd; 6-8-bed dm ₹549, d ₹1499; 📶; 🚶 New Delhi)

Part of the Zostel chain, this place is shabbier than some of Delhi's other backpacker hostels. However, it's got the obligatory cheerful murals, the dorms are a pretty good deal, and it's a friendly place to meet other backpackers.

Hotel Namaskar

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23583456; www.namaskarhotel.com; 917 Chandiwalan, Main Bazaar; r ₹400-650, with AC ₹700; 📶; 🚶)

Up a narrow alley opposite the Dayal Boot House, this long-running traveller cheapo is run by two amiable brothers and offers a friendly welcome. It may be humid and noisy, but the rooms get a fresh coat of powder-pink paint annually, which gives it a fresher feel than many of its peers.

Cottage Ganga Inn

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23561516; www.cottagegangainn.com; 1532 Bazar Sangtrashan; s. from ₹1000/1300; 📶; 📧; 🚶 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

Quieter than most Paharganj choices, this place is tucked in a courtyard off the Main Bazaar, next to a nursery school. It's clean, calm, comfortable and good value. Rooms at the front have windows and cost more.

Hotel Rak International

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23562478; www.hotelrakinternational.com; 820 Main Bazaar, Chowk Bawli; s/d ₹650/750, with AC ₹850/950; ❄️; 🚶 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

Hotel Rak International is off the Main Bazaar (so it's quieter) and overlooks a little square and temple. The modest rooms at this popular place are a good choice in this price range, with marble floors and bathrooms, plus, unusually, twin rooms and...windows! The pricier rooms overlook the square.

★ Bloom Rooms @ New Delhi

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-40174017; <http://bloomrooms.com>; 8591 Arakashan Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹2200/2900; ❄️ @ 📶; 🚶 New Delhi)

Bloom Rooms' white-and-yellow, pared-down designer aesthetic is unlike anything else in the 'hood. Plus there are soft pillows, comfortable beds, good wi-fi and free mineral water. Its Re restaurant is a bit gloomy but the food is tasty.

Diya

B&B $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9811682348; <http://stay.streetconnections.co.uk>; Tilak St; s/d incl breakfast ₹2000/2750; 📶; 🚶 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

The kind of place you'd really like kept secret, this is like a South Delhi guesthouse, but on a Paharganj backstreet, and has three lovely, well-cared-for rooms, one with a balcony. There's also a shared kitchen. It's run by Street Connections, and the staff and management are former street kids from the Salaam Baalak Trust. Reservations are essential. Great for solo women.

Hotel Hari Piorko

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Main Bazaar; r ₹1450-1850; ❄️ 📶; 🚶 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

It's worth paying just that bit extra to have a fish tank in your room – this is the only hotel in Delhi, to our knowledge, with this option. Even without the fish tanks, this is a good choice – the pricier rooms are also more spacious. There's the Fire & Ice restaurant too, with a balcony overlooking the Main Bazaar.

Hotel Godwin Deluxe

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23613797; www.godwinhotels.com; 8501 Arakashan Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹3000/3250; 🌳 @ 📶; 🚇 New Delhi)

Run by the same owners as the Grand Godwin next door, Godwin Deluxe offers similar good service, and comfortable, spacious, clean rooms.

Metropolis Tourist Home

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23561794; www.metropolistouristhome.com; 1634-5 Main Bazaar; from ₹2000; 🌳 @ 📶; 🚇 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

A long-standing favourite in the backpacking district, this hotel has comfortable, renovated rooms decorated in a hundred shades of brown. The slightly pricey rooftop restaurant feels almost European, with its greenery, low lights and foreign clientele.

Connaught Place & Around

★ Imperial

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23341234; www.theimperialindia.com; Janpath; r from ₹24,300; 🌳 @ 📶 🌳; 🚇 Janpath)

Classicism meets art deco at the Imperial, which dates from 1931 and was designed by FB Blomfield, an associate of Lutyens. Rooms have high ceilings, flowing curtains, French linen and marble baths. There's the temple-like Thai restaurant Spice Route; the 1911 bar is highly recommended; and the Atrium cafe serves the perfect high tea.

The hallways and atriums are lined with the hotel's venerable 18th- and 19th-century art collection.

Hotel Palace Heights

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-43582610; www.hotelpalaceheights.com; 26-28 D-Block; s/d ₹8100/8650; 🌳 @ 📶; 🚇 Rajiv Chowk)

This small-scale boutique hotel offers some of busy Connaught Place's nicest rooms, with gleaming white linen, and caramel and amber tones. There's an excellent restaurant, Zāffrān (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-43582610; Hotel Palace Heights, 26-28 D-Block; mains ₹350-650; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 6.30-11.30pm; 🚇 Rajiv Chowk).

Radisson Blu Marina

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-46909090; www.radisson.com/hotels/indnedl; 59 G-Block; s/d ₹10,000/11,000; 🌐 @ 📶; 🚇 Rajiv Chowk)

Connaught Place's swishest choice, the Radisson feels pleasingly luxurious, with sleek, stylish, all-mod-con rooms, the Great Kebab Factory, and a cool bar, the Connaught, where you can sip drinks under hanging red lamps.

West Delhi

Master Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-28741089; www.master-guesthouse.com; R-500 New Rajendra Nagar; s/d incl breakfast from ₹2071/3270; 🌐 @ 📶; 🚇 Rajendra Place)

In a quiet suburban area, this smart and polished home is a tight ship run by the knowledgeable Ushi and Avnish, and has three tastefully furnished rooms with spotless bathrooms. There's a leafy rooftop terrace.

Shanti Home

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-41573366; www.shantihome.com; A-1/300 Janakpuri; s/d incl breakfast from ₹5500/6500; 🌐 @ 📶; 🚇 Uttam Nagar East)

In west Delhi, this small boutique place is close to the metro and offers beautifully decorated rooms that get gradually swisher the more you spend. There are spacious lounge areas, an excellent, lantern-lit rooftop restaurant, a gym, cooking classes and spa service.

New Delhi

Bloom Rooms @ Link Rd

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-41261400; bloomrooms.com; 7 Link Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹2900/3700; 📶 @ 📶; 🚇 Jangpura)

A few minutes' walk from the metro, this is a quiet and convenient spot for Khan Market, Humayun's Tomb and Lodi Gardens. Bloom Rooms' designer white-and-yellow aesthetic is pleasingly Scandi-esque. Pillows are soft, wi-fi is fast, and there's a branch of Amici, a respected local Italian restaurant.

★ Lodhi

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-43633333; www.thelodhi.com; Lodi Rd; r from ₹21,800; 📶 📶 📶; 🚇 JLN Stadium)

The Lodhi is one of Delhi's finest luxury hotels, with huge, lovely rooms and suites. Each room has a balcony with private plunge pool, and those on the upper floors have great views, some over to Humayun's Tomb. Attention to detail is superb. There's also a top-notch spa (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-43633333; www.thelodhi.com; Lodhi Hotel, Lodi Rd; 1hr massage from ₹3800; 🚇 JLN Stadium).

Claridges

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-39555000; www.claridges.com; 12 Aurangzeb Rd; d from ₹13,050; 📶 @ 📶 📶; 🚇 Racecourse)

Fronted by manicured green lawns, elegant Claridges was built in 1952. Colonial-era-styled rooms have all comforts, and there are some excellent dining options, including romantic Mediterranean Sevilla, with its curtained pavilions, and imagine-you're-on-the-highway Dhaba (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-39555000; The Claridges, 12 Aurangzeb Rd; dishes ₹700-2000; 🕒 12.30-2.30pm & 7-11.30pm; 🚇 Racecourse), with traditional Punjabi food.

Zaza Stay

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-47373450; www.zaza.co.in; G54, Nizamuddin West; s/d incl breakfast ₹4000/5000)

Owned by a couple who have their own homewares brand, this guesthouse has beautifully decorated rooms with leafy outlooks in Nizamuddin; a quiet and restful area, but still close to the Dargah and Humayun's Tomb.

Lutyens Bungalow

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-24611341; www.lutyensbungalow.co.in; 39 Prithviraj Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹6500/8000; ❄️ @ 📶 🛏️; 📍 Racecourse)

A rambling bungalow with a colonial feel, surrounded by verandahs and hanging lamps, this family-run guesthouse has a wonderful garden, with lawns, flowers and fluttering parakeets. Rooms are pleasant, with wooden furnishings and an old-fashioned vibe, and it's a particularly good place to stay with kids because of the unusual amount of rambling space.

South Delhi

★ Madpackers Hostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; S39-A 3rd fl, Panchsheel Park Sth; 6-14-bed dm ₹650-850; ❄️ 📶; 📍 Hauz Khas)

A friendly, relaxed hostel with a bright and airy sitting room that's one of the best places in town to hang out and meet like-minded travellers. It has mixed dorms (with one female-only) and graffitied walls, and it's in a leafy area of south Delhi.

Jugaad Hostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mohamed Pur; dm ₹600-800, r ₹2400)

In a nicely untouristed if out-of-the-way area, this is a great hostel close to a huge Friday market. There are dorms including a women-only dorm, private rooms, swing chairs on the rooftop and a friendly, helpful welcome.

Bed & Chai

HOSTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.bedandchai.com; R55 Hans Raj Gupta Marg; dm ₹850, d without/witl bathroom from ₹2500/3100)

For a quiet stay, this French-owned guesthouse has simple rooms, decorated with flashes of colour and some quirky, original design touches. There's a dorm, a roof terrace and, of course, excellent chai.

Treetops

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9899555704; baig.murad@gmail.com; R-8B Hauz Khas Enclave; s/d from ₹2500/3500; ❄️ 📶; 🚇 Hauz Khas)

Motor-journalist-novelist-philosopher Murad and his hobby-chef wife Tannie have a gracious home. To stay here feels rather like visiting some upper-crust relatives from another era. There are two large rooms opening onto a leafy rooftop terrace; the smaller room downstairs is cheaper but can feel less private. Evening meals are available.

★ Manor

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-26925151; www.themanordelhi.com; 77 Friends Colony (West); d ir breakfast from ₹11,000; ❄️ @ 📶)

With only 16 rooms, this boutique hotel oozes privacy and elegance. Set amid manicured lawns off Mathura Rd, the Manor has large rooms with contemporary furnishings in soothing earth colours and offering the utmost comfort. The restaurant, Indian Accent, is one of Delhi's best.

★ Devna

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-41507176; www.tensundernagar.com; 10 Sunder Nagar; s/d ₹5450/5800; ❄️ @ 📶)

Devna has lots of charm, with antique wooden furniture, photographs of maharajas, and works of art. The upstairs rooms open onto small terraces, with views over the pretty courtyard garden, and it's close to the expansive grounds of Delhi's zoo.

Scarlette

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-41023764; www.scarlettenewdelhi.com; B2/139 Safdarjung Enclave from ₹7000; ❄️ 📶)

In serene, leafy Safdarjung Enclave, close to Hauz Khas Village and the Deer Park, Scarlette is a maison d'hôtes (guesthouse) with four rooms, plus an apartment, decorated with beautiful artistic flair by the French textile-designer owner. It's a good choice for solo women.

Airport Area & Beyond

Delhi's Aerocity is a convenient area of big hotels, only 4km from the airport – ideal if you're only stopping over for a night. It's served by the Delhi Aerocity metro stop. Take your pick from brands such as Hotel Pullman, Lemon Tree, and the super-luxurious Hilton-run Andaz Delhi; the cheapest option is the Hotel Delhi Aerocity. There are also a few choices in nearby Vasant Kunj.

See www.newdelhiairport.in for details of several sleeping options at the airport..

MAJNU-KA-TILLA

Majnu-ka-Tilla is an enclave that has served as a base for Tibetan refugees since around 1960. It's a popular alternative traveller hub for those who prefer something more relaxed than Paharganj, with a laid-back, little Lhasa vibe. It's named after a local hermit boatman who was nicknamed 'crazy' (majnu) and who met Guru Nanak, the founder of Sikhism, here on a small hill (tilla); the nearby 18th-century Majnu-ka-Tilla Gurdwara was built to commemorate the Guru's sojourn here.

Majnu-ka-Tilla's streets are too narrow for traffic, and it's close to the Yamuna River. There's a monastery here, and plenty of maroon-robed Buddhist monks and Tibetans. There are also rather a lot of beggars, but the streets have a small-town, safe-feeling vibe.

Cheapie Ga-Kyegu House (GOOGLE MAP); ☎011-23815196; gakyeguhouse@hotmail.com; H-158, Block 7, Tibetan Colony; r ₹700, without bathroom ₹550; 📶; 🚏Vidhan Sabha) has some bargain rooms with Yamuna River views. Friendly Wongdhen House (GOOGLE MAP); ☎011-23816689; 15-A New Tibetan Colony; r ₹800-1000, without bathroom ₹500; 📶; 🚏Vidhan Sabha) has simple, shabby rooms and a good restaurant; next-door Lhasa House (GOOGLE MAP); ☎011-23939888; lhasahouse@rediffmail.com; 16 New Aruna Nagar; r ₹500-1000; 🚏Vidhan Sabha) is better value. Ama (GOOGLE MAP); H40, New Aruna Nagar; 🕒7am-9.30pm; 📶; 🚏Vidhan Sabha) and Kham Cafe (GOOGLE MAP ; New Aruna Nagar; ☎7am-7.30pm; 🚇Vidhan Sabha) are splendid places to chill over coffee, and below Ama is good-value Akama (GOOGLE MAP ; ☎9am-7.30pm; 🚇Vidhan Sabha), selling Tibetan artefacts. Two good eating options are Tee Dee (GOOGLE MAP ; 32 New Aruna Nagar; dishes ₹60-210; ☎8.30am-10.30pm; 🚇Vidhan Sabha) and long-running and popular Dolma House (GOOGLE MAP ; Block 10, New Tibetan Colony; dishes ₹70-180; ☎7am-10pm). For a refreshing change, try Korean Kori's (Tsampa Café; GOOGLE MAP ; Tsampa House, 18-19 New Camp; dishes ₹80-290; ☎7.30am-10pm; 📶).

To reach here, take the metro to Vidhan Sabha, from where shared auto-/cycle-rickshaws (₹40/20) will take you to the enclave on KB Hedgewar Marg. Ask for the 'wrong side'.

Eating

Old Delhi

★ Jalebiwala

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dariba Corner, Chandni Chowk; jalebis per 100g ₹50; 🕒 8am-10pm; M L Qila)

Century-old Jalebiwala does Delhi's – if not India's – finest jalebis (deep-fried, syrupy dough), so pig out and worry about the calories tomorrow.

★ Gali Paratha Wali

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gali Paratha Wali; parathas ₹15-35; 🕒 7am-11pm; M Jama Masjid)

This lane off Chandni Chowk has been serving up delectable parathas (traditional flat bread) fresh off the tawa (hotplate) for generations, originally serving pilgrims at the time of the Mughals. Choose from a spectacular array of stuffings, from green chilli and paneer to lemon and banana.

Natraj Dahi Balle Wala

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 1396 Chandni Chowk; plates ₹50; 🕒 10.30am-11pm; M Chandni Chowk)

This tiny place with the big red sign and the big crowds is famous for its dahi bhalle (fried lentil balls served with yoghurt and garnished with chutney) and deliciously crispy aloo tikki (spiced potato patties).

Haldiram's

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 1454/2 Chandni Chowk; mains ₹70-180; 🕒 10am-10.30pm; M Chandni Chowk)

This clean, bright cafeteria-cum-sweet-shop is a popular stop for its top-notch dosas (large South Indian savoury crêpes), and thalis, and it also sells namkin (savouries) and mithai (sweets) to eat on the hoof. There's a popular branch at Connaught Place (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 6 L-Block, Connaught Place; snacks ₹70-230; 🕒 8.30am-10.30pm; 🚇 Rajiv Chowk).

★ Karim's

MUGHLAI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Gali Kababyan; mains ₹120-400; 🕒 9am-12.30am; 🚇 Jama Masjid)

Just off the lane leading south from Jama Masjid, Karim's has been delighting carnivores since 1913. Expect meaty Mughlai treats such as mutton burrah (marinated chops), delicious mutton Mughlai, and the breakfast mutton and bread combo nahari. There are branches all over town, including at Nizamuddin West (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 168/2 Jha House Basti; dishes ₹120-400; 🕒 8am-10pm Tue-Sat; 🚇 JLN Stadium), but this location is the oldest and best.

Al-Jawahar

MUGHLAI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Matya Mahal; mains ₹60-350; 🕒 7am-midnight; 🚇 Jama Masjid)

Although overshadowed by its famous neighbour, Karim's, Al-Jawahar is also fantastic, serving up tasty Mughlai cuisine at formica tables in an orderly dining room, and you can watch breads being freshly made at the front. Kebabs and mutton curries dominate the menu, but it also does good butter chicken and korma.

Lakhori

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Haveli Dharampura, 2293 Gali Guliyan; tasting menus veg/non-veg ₹1800/2200, other dishes around ₹400-600; 🕒 10am-10.30pm; 📶; 🚇 Jama Masjid)

A different experience in the old city, this restored haveli is a labour of love by politician Vijay Goel, and it's good to see one of Old Delhi's grand havelis finally get some TLC. The restaurant is especially atmospheric in the evening, with tables in the courtyard and Mughlai and local recipes on the menu.

Moti Mahal

MUGHLAI $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-23273661; 3704 Netaji Subhash Marg; mains ₹290-620; 🕒 noon-midnight)

There's only one true Moti Mahal, and this been open for six generations – it's full of charm, with a stuck-in-time atmosphere; it'd make a perfect film set for Wes Anderson. Delhi-ites rate the place for its superior butter chicken and dhal makhani. There's live qawwali (Islamic devotional singing) Wednesday to Monday from 8pm to 11.30pm.

Chor Bizarre

KASHMIRI $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-23273821; Hotel Broadway, 4/15 Asaf Ali Rd; mains ₹325-500; 🕒 noon-3pm & 7.30-11pm; 📍 New Delhi)

A dimly lit cavern filled with bric-a-brac, including a vintage car, Chor Bizarre (meaning 'thieves market') offers delicious and authentic Kashmiri cuisine, including wazwan, the traditional Kashmiri feast.

FOOD & DRINK TAXES

Drinks taxes ratchet your bill up by 20% (alcoholic) or 12.5% (nonalcoholic), and restaurants also levy 12.5% VAT on food, plus AC places have to charge a 14% service tax on the 'service' element of your bill. Many also add a 10% service charge. So be aware that all up you may have to pay around 30% or more above what's shown on the menu.

Paharganj & West Delhi

Paharganj is the main backpacker hub, and its restaurants proffer a wide-ranging mishmash of global cuisine ranging from pizza to banana pancakes. There are more cheap eats in the bazaars at Karol Bagh.

★ Sita Ram Dewan Chand

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 2243 Chuna Mandi; half-/full plate ₹30/55; 🕒 8am-5pm; 📍 Ramakrishn Ashram Marg)

A family-run hole-in-the-wall serving inexpensive portions of just one dish – chole bhature (spicy chickpeas), accompanied by delicious, freshly made, puffy, fried bread. It's a traditional breakfast but many people are partial to some at any time of day.

Narula Bakery

BAKERY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; sandwiches ₹15-25; 🕒 9am-10pm; 📍 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

A tip-top takeaway bakery if you're looking for a bargain lunch, this place has veg, cheese and corn or paneer kulcha sandwiches.

Everest Bakery

NEPALI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chandiwalan; dishes ₹50-250; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📍 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

This chilled little fan-cooled place off the Paharganj main drag offers the usual every-sort cuisine, but including momos and impressive salads. There's also a real Italian coffee machine, a rare beast in Paharganj.

Brown Bread Bakery

BAKERY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Ajay Guest House, 5084-A, Main Bazaar; snacks ₹65-150; 🕒 7am-11pm; 📶; 📍 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

A popular traveller hang-out, with a rustic, wicker-heavy interior, organic Brown Bread has simple food that hits the spot, with omelettes, pizzas, lots of different breads and very good chips.

Bikanervala Angan

FAST FOOD $

(GOOGLE MAP; 82 Arya Samaj Rd, Karol Bagh; mains ₹35-170; 🕒 11am-10.30pm; 📍 Karol Bagh)

This small but buzzing Karol Bagh canteen is a useful pitstop for South Indian treats, fast food and snacks. Thalīs start at ₹165.

Roshan di Kulfi

ICE CREAM $

(GOOGLE MAP; Ajmal Khan Rd, Karol Bagh; kulfi around ₹70; 🕒 8.30am-9.30pm; 📍 Karol Bagh)

A Karol Bagh institution for its scrumptious special pista badam kulfi (frozen milk dessert with pistachio, almond and cardamom). It's around 500m northwest of Karol Bagh metro.

★ Shimtur

KOREAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 3rd fl, Navrang Guesthouse, Tooti Galli; meals ₹240-500; 🕒 10am-11pm;  Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

It takes determination to find this place: take the turning for the Hotel Rak International, opposite which is the grotty, unsigned Navrang Guesthouse. Follow the stairs to its rooftop and you'll find a small, bamboo-lined, softly lit terrace. The Korean food is fresh and delicious here. Try the bibimbap (rice bowl with a mix of vegetables, egg and pickles; ₹240). Beer is available (₹170).

Cafe Fresh

VEGETARIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Laxmi Narayan St; dishes ₹115-240; 🕒 8am-11pm;   Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

This cafe has veg appeal, catering to a mix of Indians and foreigners; it's an attractively calm place to retreat (down a few steps) from the busy street.

Tadka

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 4986 Ramdwara Rd; mains ₹150-190; 🕒 8.30am-10.30pm;  Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

Named for everyone's favourite dhal, Tadka is a reliable vegetarian choice, serving up perfectly fine paneer dishes and other veg treats (ordinary/special thali ₹200/280) under whirring fans.

Malhotra

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 1833 Laxmi Narayan St; mains ₹80-425; 🕒 7am-11pm; )

One street back from the Main Bazaar chaos, Malhotra is a reliable local choice, popular with locals and foreigners, with a good menu of set breakfasts and North Indian standards, such as mattar paneer (pea and cottage cheese curry).

Connaught Place

★ Naturals

ICE CREAM $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 8 L-Block, Connaught Place; cup/cone ₹65, double scoop ₹130; 🕒 11am-midnight; M Rajiv Chowk)

Founder Mr Kamath's dad was a mango vendor in Bangalore, which apparently inspired his love of fruit. He went on to start Naturals, with its wonderfully creamy, fresh flavours, such as watermelon, coconut, (heavenly) mango and roasted almond.

★ Hotel Saravana Bhavan

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 46 Janpath; dishes ₹95-210, thali ₹210; 🕒 8am-11pm; M Janpath)

Fabulous dosas, idlis and other South Indian delights. This is the biggest and the best of Delhi's Saravana Bhavan branches, and you can see dosas being made in the back. Also offers great South Indian coffee.

Kerala House

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 3 Jantar Mantar Rd; meals ₹50; 🕒 8-10am, 12.30-3pm & 7-9.45pm; M Patel Chowk)

The Kerala staff canteen is open to the public and tasty meals here are a lip-smacking bargain, including unlimited rice, fish curry, fish fry, sambar, a couple of veg dishes and pickle.

Coffee Home

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Baba Kharak Singh Marg; meals ₹50-150; 🕒 11am-8pm; M Shivaji Stadium)

With a shaded garden eating area, and a spacious interior under whirring fans, Coffee Home is always busy with office workers lingering over chai and feasting on South Indian snacks such as masala dosa. It is handily located next to the government emporiums.

Hotel Saravana Bhavan

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 15 P-Block, Connaught Place; mains ₹95-210; 🕒 8am-11pm; M Rajiv Chowk)

Delhi's best thali is served up in unassuming surroundings – a simple Tamil canteen on the edge of Connaught Place. There are queues every meal time to sample the splendid array of richly spiced veg curries, dips, breads and condiments that make it onto every thali plate.

Wenger's

BAKERY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 16 A-Block, Connaught Place; snacks ₹30-100; 🕒 10.45am-7.45pm; M Rajiv Chowk)

Legendary Wenger's was opened by a Swiss couple in 1926, and has been baking up a storm ever since. Come for cakes, sandwiches, biscuits and savoury patties.

Nizam's Kathi Kabab

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 5 H-Block, Connaught Place; kebabs ₹80-270; 🕒 11.30am-11pm; M Rajiv Chowk)

This takeaway eatery creates masterful kebabs, biryani and kati rolls (kebabs wrapped in a hot paratha). It's always busy with meat-loving hoards, but there are also paneer, mushroom and egg options available so vegies don't have to miss out.

★ Masala Library

MODERN INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 21A Janpath; tasting menu ₹2600; 🕒 noon-2.45pm & 7pm-1am; M Janpath)

Restaurateur Zorawar Kalra has brought his Masala Library to Delhi (the first was in Mumbai), with creative cooking that adds a dash of magic to your meal, with molecular cuisine and dishes such as coconut and mango amuse-bouche disguised as a bird's nest and levitating chocolate balls. Arrive hungry and try the 19-course tasting menu.

★ Rajdhani

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-43501200; 1/90 P-Block, Connaught Place; thalis ₹475; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 7-11pm; 📍 Rajiv Chowk)

Thalis fit for a king. Treat yourself with food-of-the-gods vegetarian thalis that encompass a fantastic array of Gujarati and Rajasthani dishes.

Farzi Cafe

MODERN INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9599889700; 38 E-Block, Connaught Place; mains ₹360-560; 🕒 noon-12.30am; 📍 Rajiv Chowk)

This buzzy CP joint signifies the Delhi foodie penchant for quirkiness, with all sorts of 'molecular gastronomy' and unusual fusion dishes such as butter chicken bao (in a bun). It's only ₹85 for Kingfisher beer, and there are banta (traditional homemade fizzy pop) cocktails. There's live Sufi, Hindi and pop music on Friday and Saturday nights from 10pm.

Chor Bizarre

KASHMIRI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23071574; Bikaner House, Pandara Rd; mains ₹325-500; 🕒 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm; 📍 Khan Market)

In the beautifully restored colonial-era Bikaner House, Chor Bizarre ('Thieves' Market') is a new branch of the famous Old Delhi restaurant. The interior is full of quirky old-fashioned charm, and the menu includes authentic, delicious dishes such as Kashmiri haaq (spinach with chilli).

New Delhi & Around

New Delhi, with its dazzlingly opulent five-star hotels, malls and upmarket enclaves around Khan Market, Lodi Rd and Mathura Rd, is where to head if you feel like a swanky meal, with a fabulously wide mix of cuisines.

★ Andhra Pradesh Bhawan Canteen

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 1 Ashoka Rd; dishes ₹130-160, thalis ₹110; 🕒 8-10.30am, noon-3pm & 7.30-10pm; M Patel Chowk)

A hallowed bargain, the canteen at the Andhra Pradesh state house serves cheap and delicious unlimited South Indian thalis to a seemingly unlimited stream of patrons. Come on Sunday for the fabled Hyderabad biryani (₹200).

★ Triveni Terrace Cafe

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 205 Tansen Marg, Mandi House; dishes ₹55-220; 🕒 10am-7.30pm; M Mandi House)

Run by the same folks in charge of the Craft Museum's Cafe Lota, this is a focus for Delhi's arty set, with good-value tasty Indian meals and snacks, such as chilli toast, and nice seating on a leafy terrace overlooking a grassy amphitheatre or inside in a fan-cooled room.

Gujarat Bhawan

GUJARATI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 11 Kautilya Marg, Chanakypuri; breakfast ₹60, thali ₹110-140; 🕒 8-10am 12.30-2.30pm & 7.30-10pm; M Racecourse)

The Gujarat Staterun canteen is nothing fancy, but serves up nourishing, plentiful, cheap-as-chips vegetarian home-style Gujarati thalis.

Kebab Stands

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah; kebabs from ₹30; 🕒 noon-11pm; M JLN Stadium)

The alley in front of Hazrat Nizam-ud-din Dargah becomes a hive of activity every evening as devotees leave the shrine in search of sustenance. Canteen-style kebab houses cook up lip-smacking beef, mutton and chicken offerings at bargain prices, with biryani and roti as filling side orders.

Nagaland House

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 29 Dr APJ Abdul Kalam Rd; thalis ₹120-200; 🕒 noon-2pm & 7.30-10pm;

M Racecourse)

The Nagaland canteen is a simple room overlooking a tangle of palm trees and is worth seeking out for punchy pork offerings, with dishes such as pork with bamboo shoots and a Naga-style pork thali. Veg and chicken thalis are also available.

★ Cafe Lota

MODERN INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Crafts Museum; dishes ₹215-415; 🕒 8am-10pm; M Pragati Maidan)

Bamboo slices the sunlight into flattering stripes at this outdoor restaurant offering delicious cooking with a twist. Sample their take on fish and (sweet potato) chips, or palak patta chaat (crispy spinach, potatoes and chickpeas with spiced yoghurt and chutneys), as well as amazing desserts and breakfasts. It's great for kids.

Caara Cafe

CAFE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 1204569000; British Council, 17, Kasturba Gandhi Marg; mains ₹160-350; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, 8am-6pm Sun)

In the British Council is this most serene, light-filled cafe, hung with Brit art from their collection, so you can sip tea and coffee and nibble on healthy-looking cakes, vegetable curry and salads against the backdrop of a few Damian Hirsts.

★ Sodabottleopenerwala

PARSI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Khan Market; dishes ₹85-900; 🕒 noon-11pm; M Khan Market)

The name is like a typical trade-based Parsi surname, the place emulates the Iranian cafes of Mumbai, and the food is authentic Persian, including vegetable berry pulav, mixed-berry trifle and lagan nu custer (Parsi wedding custard).

★ Alkauser

STREET FOOD $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.alkausermughlaifood.com; Kautilya Marg; kebabs from ₹170, biryani

from ₹280; 🕒 6-10.30pm)

The family behind this hole-in-the-wall takeaway earned their stripes cooking kebabs for the Nawabs of Lucknow in the 1890s. The house speciality is the kakori kebab, a pâte-smooth combination of lamb and spices, but other treats include biryani and perfectly prepared lamb burra (marinated chops) and murg malai tikka (chicken marinated with spices and paneer).

Epicuria

FOOD HALL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Nehru Place; fast-food dishes ₹100-300;  Nehru Place)

This is a food court where you can select fast food from a variety of outlets, including Karim's, Khanchacha, Sagar Ratna and more. You buy a card for ₹500 then pay with it at any outlet – if there's change you can get the money back from the cashier. It also houses some more formal restaurants, including Italian Fio and Dhaba by Claridges.

Sagar Ratna

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; The Ashok, 50B, Diplomatic Enclave; dishes ₹240-350; 🕒 8am-11pm)

Considered the best of all the Sagar Ratna locations around town, this venerable South Indian restaurant is always buzzing with families, couples and kitty parties, and does a great line in dosas, idlis, uttapams (savoury rice pancakes) and thalis. There are other branches in Connaught Place (MAP and Defence Colony (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Defence Colony Market; dishes ₹115-170; 🕒 8am-11pm;  Lajpat Nagar).

GOOGLE MAP ; 15-K Block, Connaught Place; dishes ₹115-170; 🕒 8am-11pm;  Rajiv Chowk)

★ Sana-di-ge

MANGALOREAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-40507777; 24/48 Commercial Centre, Malcha Marg; mains ₹345-900; 🕒 noon-3.45pm & 7-11.30pm)

Fresh fish is flown in daily from Mangalore to this buzzing restaurant in the diplomatic district. There are an intimate three levels, decorated with geometric screens and with a terrace and bar. Food is wonderful and authentic, so head here for anjali fry, crab pepper fry, marvai (clams) or the signature elaneer payasam.

★ Bukhara

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-26112233; ITC Maurya, Sardar Patel Marg; mains ₹800-2600; 🕒 12.30-2.45pm & 7-11.45pm)

One of Delhi's best restaurants, this hotel eatery with low seating and crazy-paving walls serves wow-factor Northwest Frontier-style cuisine, with silken kebabs and its famous Bukhara dhal. Reservations are essential.

Perch

INTERNATIONAL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Khan Market; snacks & dishes ₹110-950, wine by the glass ₹300-650, cocktails ₹450-650; 🕒 11.30am-1am; 📶; 🚇 Khan Market)

The coolification of upscale shopping enclave Khan Market continues apace with Perch, a wine bar-cafe that's all pared-down aesthetic, waiters in pencil-grey shirts, soothing music, international wines and pleasing international snacks such as Welsh rarebit and tiger prawn with soba noodles.

La Bodega

MEXICAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-43105777; 29, 1st fl, Middle Lane, Khan Market; dishes ₹325-925; 🕒 noon-midnight; 🚇 Khan Market)

This chic-yet-cool restaurant has big windows over leafy views, and offers interesting Mexican street food in small plates such as duck tacos with refried beans, pico de gallo and guacamole, as well as quesadillas or burritos with chicken and interesting salads.

Basil & Thyme

ITALIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sundar Nagar Market; mains ₹465-745; 🕒 11am-11pm; 🚇 Khan Market)

This elegant icon has shifted locales but still buzzes with expats and locals, who flock to dine on delicate Mediterranean flavours (no alcohol), in a serene, leafy setting.

Lodi Garden Restaurant

MEDITERRANEAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 011-24652808; Lodi Rd; mains ₹600-1400; 🕒 12.30pm-12.30am; M Jor Bagh)

This garden restaurant is mostly about ambience: there are lanterns dangling from the trees, tables in curtained pavilions and wooden carts. Although not quite as impressive as the surroundings, the menu traverses Europe and the Middle East, and there's a popular Sunday brunch.

Pandara Market

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pandara Rd; mains ₹400-800; 🕒 noon-1am; M Khan Market)

This is the enduring go-to place for excellent Mughlai and Punjabi food. Prices, standards and atmosphere are high along the strip. For quality food, try Gulati (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pandara Market; mains ₹385-685; 🕒 noon-midnight; M Khan Market), Havemore (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pandara Market; mains ₹375-725; 🕒 noon-2am; M Khan Market), Pindi (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pandara Market; mains ₹330-570; 🕒 noon-midnight; M Khan Market) or Chicken Inn (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pandara Market; mains ₹380-700; 🕒 noon-midnight; M Khan Market).

South Delhi

There are some fantastic independent restaurants tucked into the southern suburbs of Hauz Khas, Shahpur Jat, Saket and Mehrauli.

Potbelly

NORTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 116C Shahpur Jat Village; mains ₹250-420, thalis ₹250; 🕒 12.30-11pm; M Hauz Khas)

It's a rare treat to find a Bihari restaurant in Delhi, and this artsy, shabby-chic place with fabulous views has authentic thalis and dishes such as litti chicken (whole-wheat balls stuffed with sattu and served with khada masala chicken).

★ Indian Accent

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-26925151; Manor, 77 Friends Colony (West); dishes ₹725-1425, tasting menu nonveg/veg ₹2995/3095)

In the boutique hotel Manor, chef Manish Mehrotra creates inspired modern Indian cuisine, where seasonal ingredients are married in surprising and beautifully creative combinations. The tasting menu is astoundingly good, with wow-factor combinations such as tandoori bacon prawns or paper dosa filled with wild mushroom and water chestnuts. Book well ahead.

Rose Cafe

CAFE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-29533186; 2 Westend Marg, Saidullajab; dishes ₹299-520; 🕒 noon-9pm; M Saket)

Almost opposite the fake Dilli Haat market, 'Delhi Haat', an unprepossessing building harbours the Rose Cafe, prettily pale blue and pink. It's all cake stands and freshly prepared Mediterranean and comfort food, with heart-warming dishes such as shepherd's pie, pancakes and all-day breakfasts.

Swagath

SOUTH INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; M9 M-Block Market; dishes ₹300-1300; 🕒 noon-11.45pm; M Kailash Colony)

Serving supremely scrumptious Indian seafood (especially crab, prawns, lobster and fish), Swagath will take you on a culinary tour through the fishing villages of South India in inauthentically smart surroundings. There are several branches, including at Defence Colony Market (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 14 Defence Colony Market; dishes ₹365-1300; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; M Lajpat Nagar).

Coast

SOUTH INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; above Ogaan, Hauz Khas; dishes ₹360-580; 🕒 noon-midnight; M Green Park)

A light, bright restaurant on several levels, with views over the parklands of Hauz Khas, chic Coast serves light South Indian dishes, such as avial (vegetable curry) with pumpkin erisher (with black lentils), plus tacos, salads and hit-the-spot mustard-tossed fries.

Drinking & Nightlife

Delhi's ever-growing cafe scene has given rise to some cafes with artisanal coffee beans, coffee menus and Turkish pastries. The city's bar and live-music choices are also burgeoning, though licences rarely extend later than 12.30am. For the latest places to go at night, check the hip and informative Little Black Book (littleblackbookdelhi.com) or Brown Paper Bag (bpbweekend.com/delhi). For gigs, check Wild City (thewildcity.com).

Cafes

★ Blue Tokai

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Khasra 258, Lane 3 West End Marg, Saidulajab; 🕒 9am-8.30pm; M Sake

In an unlikely, tiny lane behind the fake Dilli Haat shopping centre ('Delhi Haat'), Blue Tokai produces and grinds its own amazing coffee; you can get serious caffeine hits such as nitrogen-infused cold brew – there's even a tasting menu. Snacks include 'no leaf salad with pumpkin'.

Feeling more like San Francisco than a dusty Mehrauli lane, it's full of hipster Delhi-ites saying things like 'that is so millennial!'

★ Atrium, Imperial

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Janpath; 🕒 8am-11.30pm; M Janpath)

Is there anything more genteel than high tea at the Imperial? Sip tea from bone-china cups and pluck dainty sandwiches and cakes from tiered stands, while discussing the latest goings-on in Shimla and Dalhousie. High tea is served in the Atrium from 3pm to 6pm daily (weekday/weekend ₹1200/1500 plus tax).

Indian Coffee House

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 2nd fl, Mohan Singh Place, Baba Kharak Singh Marg; 🕒 9am-9pm; M Ra Chowk)

Indian Coffee House has faded-to-the-point-of-dilapidated charm, with the waiters' plummage-like hats and uniforms giving them a rakish swagger. You can feast on finger chips and sandwiches like it's 1952, and the roof terrace is a tranquil spot to linger.

Jugmug Thela

TEAHOUSE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Khasra 258, Westend Marg, Saidulajab; 🕒 10am-8.30pm; M Saket)

A hidden surprise in a tiny back lane, this is an artisanal tea specialist styled as a streetside tea stall. They have more than 180 herbs and spices to work with, and serve delicious ayurvedic teas and fine blends such as Kinnow and Rose Earl Grey, iced teas and coffees, plus organic coffee and homebaked cookies.

Keventer's Milkshakes

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 17 A-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 9am-11pm; M Rajiv Chowk)

Keventer's has a cult following for its legendary creamy milkshakes (₹100), slurped out of milk bottles on the pavement in front of the stand.

Café Turtle

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Full Circle Bookstore, Khan Market; 🕒 9.30am-8.30pm; M Khan Market)

Allied to the Full Circle Bookstore, this brightly painted boho cafe gets busy with chattering bookish types, and is ideal when you're the mood for coffee and cake in cosy surroundings, with a leafy outdoor terrace as well. There are branches in GK1's N-Block Market (MAP GOOGLE MAP; N-Block Market, Greater Kailash I; 🕒 8.30am-8.30pm; M Kailash Colony) and Nizamuddin East (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 8 Nizamuddin East Market, Full Circle Bookstore; 🕒 8.30am-8.30pm; M Jangpura).

Kunzum Travel Cafe

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.kunzum.com; T49 Hauz Khas Village; 🕒 11am-7.30pm Tue-Sun; 📶
M Green Park) 🌿

Quirky Kunzum has a pay-what-you-like policy for the self-service French-press coffee and tea, and sells its own brand of travel guides to Delhi. There's free wi-fi and travel books and magazines to browse.

Bars

★ 1911

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Imperial Hotel, Janpath; 🕒 11am-12.45am; M Janpath)

The Imperial, built in the 1930s, resonates with bygone splendour. This bar is a more recent addition, but still riffs on the Raj. Here you can sip the perfect cocktail (around ₹900) amid designer-clad clientele, against a backdrop of faded photos and murals of maharajas.

★ Piano Man Jazz Club

CLUB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; <http://thepianoman.in>; B 6 Commercial Complex, Safdarjung Enclave; 🕒 noon-3pm & 7.30pm-12.30am)

The real thing, this popular, atmospheric place with proper-musos is a dim-lit speakeasy with some excellent live jazz performances.

★ Bandstand

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Aurobindo Market; 🕒 noon-1am; 📶; M Green Park)

This popular place is near Hauz Khas and has a great glass-covered terrace with views over the tombs of Green Park. It's also one of Delhi's live-music venues, with gigs from 9pm on Thursday and Sunday.

★ Ek Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; D17, 1st fl, Defence Colony; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 6pm-12.30am; M Lajpat Nagar)

On the upper floors of a building in the exclusive area of the Defence Colony, this place has stylish, kooky decor in deep, earth-jewel colours, serious mixology (drinks ₹250 to ₹800) showcasing Indian flavours (how about a gin and tonic with turmeric?), modern Indian bar snacks, nightly DJs, and a see-and-be-seen crowd.

★ Unplugged

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-33107701; 23 L-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 noon-midnight; M Rajiv Chowk)

There's nowhere else like this in Connaught Place. You could forget you were in CP, in fact, with the big garden, wrought-iron chairs and tables, and swing seats, all under the shade of a mother of a banyan tree hung with basket-weave lanterns. In the evenings there are regular live gigs, anything from alt-rock to electro-fusion. A Kingfisher costs ₹100.

Hauz Khas Social

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 9A & 12 Hauz Khas Village; 🕒 10.30am-midnight; M Green Park)

This chilled-out place is a Hauz Khas hub, and has large rooms with plate-glass windows overlooking lush greenery. There are cocktails and snacks, and a busy smokers' terrace. There's also regular live music and DJs.

Summer House

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 1st fl, Aurobindo Place Market; 🕒 11am-1am; M Green Park)

Close to Hauz Khas, this roomy, rustic 1st-floor bar has a spacious terrace and is a popular, lively evening haunt for a mixed crowd of men and women. There's regular live music. A Kingfisher costs ₹175.

24/7

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lalit Hotel, Maharaja Rajit Singh Marg; 🕒 24hr; M Barakhamba Rd)

The 24-hour lobby bar at the Lalit Hotel is the perfect spot for a welcome-to-Delhi drink after a long flight.

Aqua

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Park Hotel, 15 Sansad Marg; 🕒 11am-midnight; 📶; M Janpath)

If you feel the need for some five-star style after visiting Jantar Mantar or shopping in Connaught Place, Aqua is an ideal place to flop, forget the world outside, and sip cocktails by the pool.

Karen Cafe

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Arakashan Rd; 🕒 9am-11pm; M New Delhi)

An escape from the fraught street level, this tiny rooftop cafe has a few tables and a good viewpoint for overlooking the street. It's decorated with Bob Marley posters, wicker chairs and hanging lamps, and, while the service is slow and the food basic, it's as chilled as you'll get on this strip.

Sam's Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; 🕒 11am-1am; M Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

Sam's Bar is more laid-back than most Paharganj bars, and a good choice for a drink and a chat, with a mixed crowd of men and women, locals and foreigners. There are snacks and a range of local (₹150 Kingfishers) and international beers and spirits.

Gem

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 1050 Main Bazaar, Paharganj; 🕒 11am-12.30am; M Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

This wood-panelled dive is the kind of place you can forget what time of day it is – a dark, long-standing Paharganj hang-out that's popular with (male) locals and other travellers; bottles of local beer cost from ₹140. The upstairs area has more atmosphere.

My Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar, Paharganj; 🕒 11am-12.30pm; M Ramakrishna Ashram Mar

A dark and dingy bar, this place is lively, loud and fun, with a cheery, mixed crowd of backpackers and locals, who may even start dancing... There are several other branches, in CP and Hauz Khas. Drinks are ₹70 to ₹300 (beer from ₹85).

Metro Bar

BAR

( ; 19 Panchkuian Rd; 🕒 11am-1am;  Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

Tucked around the corner from the Ramakrishna Ashram Marg metro station is a row of much-of-a-muchness bars that are favoured by local businessmen, with not particularly talented female singers belting out requests from the clientele. Metro Bar is the pick of the bunch – fun and friendly, with good Indian food.

Entertainment

Music & Cultural Performances

Habitat World

LIVE PERFORMANCE

( ; 📞 011-43663333; www.habitatworld.com; India Habitat Centre, Lodi Rd;  Jor Bagh)

This is an important Delhi cultural address, with art exhibitions, performances and concerts, mostly free. They also arrange regular Delhi walks.

India International Centre

LIVE PERFORMANCE

( ; 📞 011-24619431; www.iicdelhi.nic.in; 40 Max Mueller Marg;  Khan Market)

The IIC is a key location for a sector of Delhi society, usually elderly intellectuals. Although the club is for members only, the public is welcome to the regular, quality, free exhibitions, talks and concerts.

Cinemas

Delite Cinema

CINEMA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-23272903; www.delitecinemas.com; 4/1 Asaf Ali Rd; M New Delh

Founded in 1954 as the tallest building in Delhi, the Delite was renovated in 2006 and it's no ordinary cinema, with a painted dome and Czech chandeliers. It's a great place to see a masala picture (full-throttle Bollywood, a mix of action, comedy, romance and drama), with famous extra-large samosas available in the interval.

Regal Cinema

CINEMA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; front/back stalls ₹80/100, balcony ₹100/120; M Rajiv Chowk)

With a regular turnaround of Bollywood hits, this Connaught Place cinema, open since 1932, is a popular place to catch the latest releases. As of 2017 it also includes the Delhi branch of Madame Tussauds.

KUSHTI

Wander the districts north of Kashmere Gate in Old Delhi and you may notice a disproportionately high number of muscular men. No, it's not your imagination. This dusty quarter is the favoured stomping ground for Delhi's traditional mud wrestlers. Kushti, or pehlwani, is a full-contact martial art, fusing elements of yoga and philosophy with combat and intense physical training.

Young men enrol at akharas (training centres) in their early teens, and follow a strict regimen of daily exercise, climbing ropes, lifting weights and hauling logs to build up the necessary muscle bulk for this intensely physical sport. Even diet and lifestyle is strictly controlled; sex, tobacco and alcohol are forbidden, and wrestlers live together in rustic accommodation under the supervision of a coach who doubles as spiritual guide.

Bouts take place on freshly tilled earth, adding an extra element of grit to proceedings. As with other types of wrestling, the aim is to pin your opponent to the ground, but fights often continue until one wrestler submits or collapses from exhaustion. At regional championships, wrestlers compete for golden gadas (ceremonial clubs), a tribute to the favoured weapon of Hanuman, patron deity of wrestling.

Most akharas welcome spectators at the daily dawn and dusk training sessions, so long as this doesn't interfere with training. Seek permission first to avoid offending these muscle-bound gents – the blog <http://kushtiwrestling.blogspot.com> is a good introduction to the sport and the main akharas.

Shopping

Meharchand Market

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Lodi Colony)

Across the road from the government housing of the Lodi Colony, this is a long strip of small boutiques selling homewares and clothes. Shops include Fabindia (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 11am-8pm; M Lodhi Colony), the Shop (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Meharchand Market; 🕒 10am-8pm Mon-Sat, 11am-6pm Sun), and stand-out eateries are the organic Altitude Cafe (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 116 Meharchand Market; mains ₹340-580; 🕒 8am-5pm; 📶) and Asian-tapas restaurant Diva Spiced (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 79-80 Meharchand Market, Lodi Colony; tapas ₹320-560, mains ₹390-1200 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm).

Timeless

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-46056198; 46 Housing Society, Part I, South Extension; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Hidden in a back lane (ask around), Timeless has a devoted following for its quality coffee-table books on topics from Indian textiles to architecture.

Delhi Musical Stores

MUSIC

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 23276909; www.indianmusicalinstruments.com; C99 Lajpat Nagar; 🕒 11am-8pm Mon-Sat; M Lajpat Nagar)

Delhi Musical Stores has a fine choice of tablas, harmoniums, sitars and more.

Aap Ki Pasand (San Cha)

DRINKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 15 Netaji Subhash Marg; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Specialists in the finest Indian teas, from Darjeeling and Assam to Nilgiri and Kangra. You can try before you buy, and teas come lovingly packaged in drawstring bags. There's another branch at Santushti Shopping Complex (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-264530374; www.sanchatea.com; Santushti Shopping Complex, Racecourse Rd; 🕒 10am-6.30pm Mon-Sat; 🚇 Racecourse).

Daryaganj Kitab Bazaar

MARKET

(Book Market; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 8am-6pm Sun)

Come Sunday, books spread across the pavements for around 2km from Delhi Gate northwards to the Red Fort, and a shorter distance west along Jawaharlal Nehru Marg. Rummage for everything from Mills & Boon to vintage children's books. It's best to arrive early, as it gets busy.

Anokhi

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.anokhi.com; 32 Khan Market; 🕒 10am-8pm; 🚇 Khan Market)

Anokhi specialises in block-print clothes and homewares, showcasing traditional designs with a modern design sensibility. There are branches at the Santushti Shopping Complex (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.anokhi.com; Santushti Shopping Complex; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat; 🚇 Racecourse) and N-Block Market (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.anokhi.com; N-Block Market, Greater Kailash I; 🕒 10am-8pm; 🚇 Kailash Colony), with a discount store in Nizamuddin East (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.anokhi.com; Nizamuddin East; 🕒 10am-8pm Mon-Sat).

OCM Suitings

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-24618937; Khan Market; 🕒 11am-8pm Mon-Sat; 🚇 Khan Market)

Men's wool suits from ₹9500 (including material) and ankle-length skirts from ₹550 (excluding material). Suits are ready in around seven to 10 days.

Musical Instrument Shops

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Netaji Subhash Marg; 🕒 approx 10am-8pm Mon-Sat)

For competitively priced instruments, inspect the instrument shops along Netaji Subhash Marg in Daryaganj.

Rikhi Ram

MUSIC

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23327685; www.rikhiram.com; 8A G-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 noon-8pm Mon-Sat; 🚇 Rajiv Chowk)

A beautiful old shop selling professional classic and electric sitars, tablas and more.

Old Delhi

Main Bazaar

HANDICRAFTS, CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Paharganj; 🕒 10am-9pm Tue-Sun; 🚇 Ramakrishna Ashram Marg)

The backpacker-oriented bazaar that runs through Paharganj sells almost everything you want, and a whole lot more. It's great for buying presents, clothes, inexpensive jewellery bits and bobs, and luggage to put everything in as you're leaving India, or for hippy-dippy clothes to wear on your trip. Haggle with purpose.

Karol Bagh Market

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 approx 10am-7pm Tue-Sun; 🚇 Karol Bagh)

Favoured for clothes and wedding shopping, this market shimmers with all things sparkly, from dressy lehanga choli (skirt-and-blouse sets) to princess-style shoes. There are also electronics at Gaffar market (head here if you need a cracked phone screen replaced) and chrome motorcycle parts.

OLD DELHI'S BAZAARS

Old Delhi's bazaars are a bamboozling, sensual whirlwind, combining incense, spices strong enough to make you sneeze, rickshaw fumes, brilliant colours, and hole-in-the-wall shops packed with goods that shimmer and glitter. This is less retail therapy, more heightened reality. The best time to visit is midmorning or later in the day, when the streets are less busy.

Whole districts here are devoted to individual items. Chandni Chowk (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ⌚ 10am-7pm Mon-Sat;  Chandni Chowk) is all clothing, electronics and break-as-soon-as-you-buy-them novelties. For silver jewellery, head for Dariba Kalan (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ⌚ approx 10am-8pm;  Chawri Bazaar), the alley near the Sisganj Gurdwara. Off this lane, the Kinari Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Kinari Bazaar; ⌚ 11am-8pm;  Jama Masjid), literally 'trimmings market', is famous for zardozi (gold embroidery), temple trim and wedding turbans. Running south from the old Town Hall, Nai Sarak (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ⌚ approx 10am-8pm;  Jama Masjid) is lined with stalls selling saris, shawls, chiffon and lehanga, while nearby Ballimaran (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Ballimaran; ⌚ 10am-8pm;  Chandni Chowk) has sequined slippers and fancy, curly-toed jootis (traditional slip-on shoes). For gorgeous wrapping paper and wedding cards, head to Chawri Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ⌚ 10am-7pm), leading west from the Jama Masjid.

Beside the Fatehpuri Masjid, on Khari Baoli, is the nose-numbing Spice Market (Gadodia Market; MAP GOOGLE MAP); Khari Baoli;  Chandni Chowk), ablaze with piles of scarlet-red chillis, ginger and turmeric roots, peppercorns, cumin, coriander seeds, cardamom, dried fruit and nuts. There's a constant trail of workers carrying huge sacks on their heads, and the spices in the air are so strong that everyone keeps sneezing.

Connaught Place

★ Central Cottage Industries Emporium

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 011-23326790; Janpath; ⌚ 10am-7pm;  Janpath)

This government-run multilevel store is a wonderful treasure trove of fixed-price, India-wide handicrafts. Prices are higher than in the state emporiums, but the selection of woodcarvings, jewellery, pottery, papier mâché, stationery, brassware, textiles (including shawls), toys, rugs, beauty products and miniature paintings makes it a glorious one-stop shop for beautiful crafts. Downstairs there's the Smoothie Factory cafe.

★ Kamala

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Baba Kharak Singh Marg; ⌚ 10am-7pm Mon-Sat;  Rajiv Chowk)

Crafts, curios, textiles and homewares from the Crafts Council of India, designed with flair and using traditional techniques but offering some contemporary, out-of-the-ordinary designs.

★ People Tree

HANDICRAFTS, CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Regal Bldg, Sansad Marg; 🕒 11am-7pm; M Rajiv Chowk) 🍃

This hole-in-the-wall shop sells fixed-price, fair-trade, ubercool T-shirts with funky Indian designs and urban attitude, as well as bags, jewellery and Indian-god cushions.

★ State Emporiums

HANDICRAFTS, CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Baba Kharak Singh Marg; 🕒 11am-1.30pm & 2-6.30pm Mon-Sat; M Shiv Stadium)

Handily in a row are these regional treasure-filled emporiums. They may have the air of torpor that often afflicts governmental enterprises, but shopping here is like travelling around India – top stops include Kashmir, for papier mâché and carpets; Rajasthan, for miniature paintings and puppets; Uttar Pradesh, for marble inlay work; Karnataka, for sandalwood sculptures; Tamil Nadu, for metal statues; and Odisha, for stone carvings.

Janpath & Tibetan Markets

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Janpath; 🕒 11.30am-7pm Mon-Sat; M Rajiv Chowk)

These twin markets sell shimmering mirrorwork embroidery, colourful shawls, Tibetan bric-a-brac, brass Oms and dangly earrings. There are some good finds if you rummage through the junk, and if you haggle you can get some excellent bargains.

Khadi Gramodyog Bhawan

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Baba Kharak Singh Marg; 🕒 10.30am-8pm; M Rajiv Chowk) 🍃

Known for its excellent khadi (homespun cloth), including good-value shawls, plus handmade paper, incense, spices, henna and lovely natural soaps.

M Ram & Sons

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-23416558; 21 E-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 10.30am-8pm; M Rajiv Chowk)

A popular Delhi tailor, offering suits from ₹8000. Tailoring is possible in 24 hours.

Oxford Bookstore

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; N81 Connaught Place; 🕒 10am-9.30pm Mon-Sat, 11am-9.30pm Sun; M Rajiv Chowk)

A swish but somewhat soulless bookstore, where you could nevertheless browse for hours. Staff are not as knowledgeable as at other Delhi bookshops, although it sells good gifts, such as handmade paper notebooks. The attached Cha Bar (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Oxford Bookstore, N81 Connaught Place; 🕒 10am-9.30pm Mon-Sat, 11am-9.30pm Sun; M Rajiv Chowk) is a buzzing meeting spot.

New Delhi

★ Khan Market

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 approx 10.30am-8pm Mon-Sat; M Khan Market) 🍃

Khan Market is Delhi's most upmarket shopping enclave, the most expensive place to rent a shop in India, and is favoured by the elite and expats. Its boutiques focus on fashion, books and homewares, and it's also a good place to eat and drink.

For handmade paper, check out Anand Stationers (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Khan Market; 🕒 10am-8pm Mon-Sat, noon-6pm Sun; M Khan Market), or try Mehra Bros (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Khan Market; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Thu & Sat, 10am-8pm Fri, 11am-6pm Sun; M Khan Market) for cool papier-mâché ornaments. Literature lovers should head to Full Circle Bookstore (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.fullcirclebooks.in; 23 Khan Market; 🕒 9.30am-8.30pm; M Khan Market) and Bahrison's (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.booksatbahri.com; Khan Market; 🕒 10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 11.30am-7.30pm Sun; M Khan Market). For Indian clothes and homewares, hit Fabindia (MAP GOOGLE MAP Khan Market; 🕒 10.30am-9.30pm; 🚇 Khan Market) and Anokhi, and for elegantly packaged ayurvedic remedies, browse Kama (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 22A Khan Market; 🕒 10.30am-8.30pm; 🚇 Khan Market).

Sunder Nagar Market

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Mathura Rd; 🕒 approx 10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat)

Long-time genteel and sleepy Sunder Nagar has turned increasingly chic. It's long specialised in Indian and Nepali handicrafts, replica 'antiques', furniture and fine Indian teas, but much-loved restaurant Basil & Thyme has moved here, and there's the cool watering hole, No 8.

WORTH A TRIP

SHAHPUR JAT

A 1km rickshaw ride northeast from Hauz Khas metro, the urban village of Shahpur Jat is one of the best places in Delhi to buy upmarket independent designer threads. Stores to seek out include Nimai (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-64300113; 416 Shahpur Jat Village; 🕒 11am-7.30pm; 🚇 Hauz Khas) for one-of-a-kind costume jewellery and NeedleDust (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.needledust.com; 40B, ground fl, Shahpur Jat; 🕒 10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 11am-6.30pm Sun; 🚇 Hauz Khas) for embroidered leather shoes, and there are some choice independent restaurants, such as artsy Bihari Potbelly, and vegan organic Greenr (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 7042575339; mains ₹250-375; 🕒 11am-7.30pm; 📶; 🚇 Hauz Khas). For superb fine tea tastings head to Anandini Tea Room (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 12A, DDA Flats; 🕒 11am-7pm; 🚇 Hauz Khas).

South Delhi

★ Dilli Haat

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Aurobindo Marg; foreigner/Indian ₹100/20; 🕒 10.30am-10pm; 🚇 INA)

This open-air food-and-crafts market is a cavalcade of colour and sells regional handicrafts from all over India; bargain hard. With lots of food stands, it's also a good place to sample cheap, delicious regional specialities – try food from Nagaland or Tamil Nadu (dishes are around ₹70 to ₹100).

★ Hauz Khas Village

HANDICRAFTS, CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 11am-7pm Mon-Sat; M Green Park)

It's not as hip as it was a few years ago, but still well worth a browse. This arty little enclave has narrow lanes crammed with boutiques selling designer Indian clothing, handicrafts, contemporary ceramics, handmade furniture and old Bollywood movie posters. Shops to seek out include Claymen (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 24 Hauz Khas Village; 🕒 hours vary), Maarti, Ogaan and Bodice.

Dastkar Nature Bazaar

MARKET

(GOOGLE MAP; <http://dastkar.org>; Andheria Modh; 🕒 10am-7pm Tue-Sun; M Chhatarpur)

Not-for-profit NGO Dastkar promotes regional crafts, and its outdoor craft bazaar holds monthly themed events, showcasing cutting-edge regional culture, craft and food.

Greater Kailash I: M-Block & N-Block Markets

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 approx 10am-8pm Wed-Mon; M Kailash Colony)

A two-part midrange shopping enclave with swanky boutiques and posh eateries, best known for Fabindia, which has several branches here. Also check out clothes store Anokhi.

i Information

DANGERS & ANNOYANCES

Delhi is relatively safe in terms of petty crime, though pickpocketing can be a problem in crowded areas so keep your valuables safe.

Train Station Hassle

Touts at New Delhi train station endeavour to steer travellers away from the legitimate International Tourist Bureau and into private travel agencies where they earn a commission. Touts often tell people that their tickets are invalid, there's a problem with the trains, or say they're not allowed on the platform. They then 'assist' in booking expensive taxis or 3rd-class tickets passed off as something else. You're particularly vulnerable when arriving tired at night. As a rule of thumb: don't believe anyone who approaches you trying to tell you anything at the train station, even if they're wearing a uniform or have an official-looking pass.

Women Travellers

Delhi has, unfortunately, a deserved reputation as being unsafe for women. Precautions include never walking around in lonely, deserted places, even during daylight hours, keeping an eye on your route so you don't get lost (download a map that you can use offline) and taking special care after dark – ensure you have a safe means of transport home with, for example, a reputable cab company or driver.

Touts

Taxi-wallahs at the airport and around tourist areas frequently act as touts for hotels, claiming that your hotel is full, poor value, dangerous, burnt down or closed, or that there are riots in Delhi. Any such story is a ruse to steer you to a hotel where they will get a commission. Insist on being taken to where you want to go – making a show of writing down the registration plate number, and phoning the autorickshaw/taxi helpline may help. Men who approach you at Connaught Place run similar scams to direct you to shops and tourist agents, often 'helpfully' informing you that wherever you're headed is closed.

INTERNET ACCESS

Almost all hotels and many cafes offer free wi-fi access these days.

MEDIA

For printed listings see the weekly calendar pamphlet Delhi Diary (₹30), which is available at local bookshops. Motherland (www.motherlandmagazine.com) is a stylish bi-monthly cultural magazine.

To check out what's on, see the ubercool Little Black Book (www.littleblackbookdelhi.com) or Brown Paper Bag (brownpaperbag.in/delhi). Don't miss the Delhi Walla blog (www.thedelhiwalla.com), a wonderful window into Delhi's daily life.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Pharmacies are found on most shopping streets and in most suburban markets. Hospitals:

All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS; GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-65900669; www.aiims.edu; Ansari Nagar; M AIIMS)

Apollo Hospital (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-29871090; www.apollohospdelhi.com; Mathura Rd, Sarita Vihar; M Sarita Vihar)

Dr Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23365525; www.rmlh.nic.in; Baba Kharak Singh Marg; M Patel Chowk)

East West Medical Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-24690429; www.eastwestrescue.com; 37 Prithviraj Rd; M Racecourse)

Max Healthcare (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-26515050; Press Enclave Rd, Saket; M Saket)

POST

There are post offices all over Delhi that can handle letters and parcels (most with packing services nearby). Poste restante is available at the New Delhi office of India Post (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23743602; Gole Dakhana, Baba Khar Singh Marg; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat); ensure mail is addressed to GPO, New Delhi – 110001. There is a convenient India Post branch at Connaught Place (GOOGLE MAP; 6 A-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 8am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; M Rajiv Chowk).

Courier services may be arranged through DHL (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 011-23737587; ground fl, Mercantile Bldg, Tolstoy Marg; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat; M Rajiv Chowk) at Connaught Place.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Archaeological Survey of India Next door to the National Museum, the Archaeological Survey of India stocks publications about India's main archaeological sites.

India Tourism Delhi (Government of India; GOOGLE MAP; ☎011-23320005, 011-23320008; www.incredibleindia.org; 88 Janpath; 🕒9am-6pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat; 🚇Janpath) This is the only official India Tourism office, apart from the booth at the airport. Ignore touts who (falsely) claim to be associated with this. It's a useful source of advice on Delhi, getting out of Delhi, and visiting surrounding states. Has free Delhi maps and brochures, and publishes a list of recommended agencies and B&Bs. Come here to report tourism-related complaints.

i Getting There & Away

AIR

Indira Gandhi International Airport is about 14km southwest of the centre. International and domestic flights use gleaming Terminal 3. Terminal 1 is reserved for low-cost carriers. Free shuttle buses (present your boarding pass and onward ticket) run between the two terminals every 20 minutes, but can take much longer. Leave at least three hours between transfers to be safe.

The arrivals hall at Terminal 3 has 24-hour foreign exchange, ATMs, prepaid taxi and car-hire counters, tourist information, a pharmacy, bookshops, cafes and a Plaza Premium Lounge (☎011-61233922; s/d 3 hr US$37/52, 6 hr 52/66) with short-stay rooms (there's another of these at Terminal 1 arrivals).

You'll need to show your boarding pass to enter the terminal. At check-in be sure to collect tags for all your carry-on bags and ensure these are stamped as you go through security.

Delhi's airport can be prone to thick fog from November to January (often disrupting airline schedules) – it's wise to allow a day between connecting flights during this period.

Air India (☎1800 1801407; www.airindia.com)

Jagson Airlines (GOOGLE MAP ; ☎011-23721593; www.jagsongroup.in; Vandana Bldg, 11 Tolstoy Marg; 🕒10am-6pm Mon-Sat; 🚇Janpath)

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-39893333; www.jetairways.com; 11/12 G-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 9.30am-6pm Mon-Sat; 🚇 (M) Rajiv Chowk)

SpiceJet (📞 1800 1803333; www.spicejet.com)

BUS

Most travellers enter and leave Delhi by train, but buses are a useful option to some destinations and if the trains are booked up.

Most state-run services leave from the large Kashmere Gate Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT; MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23860290; 🚇 (M) Kashmere Gate) in Old Delhi, accessible by metro. Offices at the terminal: Delhi Transport Corporation (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23370210; www.dtc.nic.in)

Haryana Roadways (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23868271; www.hartrans.gov.in)

Punjab Roadways (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-44820000; www.punbusonline.com)

Rajasthan Roadways (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23386658, 011-23864470; Counter 36, Kashmere Gate Inter State Bus Terminal)

Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23864470; <http://rsrtc.rajasthan.gov.in>)

Uttar Pradesh Roadways (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-23868709)

Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-2622363; www.upsrtc.com)

The Anand Vihar Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT; GOOGLE MAP) has some services to Nainital and Kumaun in Uttarakhand. Some cheaper buses to destinations in Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan leave from the Sarai Kale Khan Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT; GOOGLE MAP) on the ring road near Nizamuddin train station.

Arrive at least 30 minutes ahead of your departure time. You can avoid the hassle by paying a little more for private deluxe buses that leave from locations in central Delhi – enquire at travel agencies or your hotel for details. You can also book tickets or check information on Cleartrip (www.cleartrip.com), Make My Trip (www.makemytrip.com) or Goibibo (www.goibibo.com).

There are buses to Agra, but considering the traffic at either end, you're better off taking the train. Himachal Pradesh Tourism Development Corporation (HPTDC; MAP GOOGLE MAP; hptdc.gov.in; Chanderlok Building, 36 Janpath; MJanpath) runs buses from Himachal Bhawan (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞011-23716689; Sikandra Rd; MMandi House) to Manali (₹1300, nine hours) and Shimla (₹900, 10 hours) at 6.30pm. Tickets are sold at Himachal Bhawan and Chanderlok House (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞011-23325320; 36 Janpath).

Himachal Road Transport Corporation (HRTC; 📞011-23868694; www.hrtc.gov.in) also has AC buses starting from Himachal Bhawan, to Shimla (₹935, seven daily) and to Manali (₹1430, 7pm). These stop at the ISBT Kashmiri Gate an hour later.

Rajasthan Tourism (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞011-23381884; www.rtdc.com; Bikaner House, Pandara Rd; MKhan Market) runs deluxe buses from Bikaner House (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞011-23383469; Pandara Rd; MKhan Market), near India Gate, to the following destinations:

- ➔ Ajmer Volvo ₹1200, nine hours, three daily
- ➔ Jaipur non AC/super deluxe/Volvo ₹400/625/900, six hours, every one to two hours
- ➔ Jodhpur Volvo ₹1625, 11 hours, two daily
- ➔ Udaipur Volvo ₹1800, 15 hours, one daily

Women receive a discount of 30% on all Rajasthan Tourism bus prices.

TRAIN

There are three main stations in Delhi: (Old) Delhi train station (aka Delhi Junction) in Old Delhi, New Delhi train station near Paharganj, and Nizamuddin train station, south of Sunder Nagar. Make sure you know which station your train is leaving from.

The best option for foreign travellers is to visit the helpful International

Tourist Bureau (ITB; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 011-23405156; 1st fl, New Delhi Train Station; 🕒 24hr). The entrance to the ITB is before you go onto platform 1 (on the Paharganj side of New Delhi train station), via a staircase just to the right of the entrance to the platform. Do not believe anyone who tells you it has shifted, closed or burnt down – this is a scam to divert you elsewhere. Walk with confidence and ignore all ‘helpful’ or ‘official’ approaches. The ITB is a large room with about 10 or more computer terminals – don’t be fooled by other ‘official’ offices.

When making reservations here, you can pay in cash (rupees) only. Bring your passport.

When you arrive, take a ticket from the machine that gives you a place in the queue. Then complete a reservation form – ask at the information counter to check availability. You can then wait to complete and pay for your booking at the relevant counter. This is the best place to get last-minute bookings for quota seats to popular destinations, but come prepared to queue.

There's also a public Train Reservation Office (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 Chelmsford Rd; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun) closer to Connaught Place, but touts here are notorious for targetting travellers.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM DELHI

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	FREQUENCY	DEPARTU & TRAIN STATION
Agra	12280 Taj Exp	100/370 (A)	3	1 daily	7am NZM
	12002 Bhopal Shatabdi	515/1010 (B)	2	1 daily	6am NDLS
Amritsar	12029/12013 Swarna/Amritsar Shatabdi	790/1620 (B)	6	1-2 daily	7.20am/4.3 NDLS
Bengaluru	22692 Bangalore Rajdhani	2960/4095/6775 (C)	34	4 weekly	8.50pm NZ
Chennai	12434 Chennai Rajdhani	2795/3860/6355 (C)	28	2 weekly	3.55pm NZ

	12622 Tamil Nadu Exp	780/2040/2990 (D)	33	1 daily	10.30pm N
Goa (Madgaon)	12432 Trivandrum Rajdhani	3385/4730/7815 (C)	26	3 weekly	10.55am N
	12780 Goa Exp	170/540/740 (D)	27	1 daily	3pm NZM
Haridwar	12017 Dehradun Shatabdi	595/1190 (B)	4½	1 daily	6.45am NC
Jaipur	12958 ADI Swama Jayanti Rajdani	1210/1660/2755 (C)	4½	1 daily	7.55pm NC
	12916 Ashram Exp	235/590/825 (D)	5	1 daily	3.20pm DL
	12015 Ajmer Shatabdi	355/740 (B)	4½	1 daily	6.05am NC
Kalka (for Shimla)	12011 Kalka Shatabdi	640/1295 (B)	4	2 daily	7.40am NC
Khajuraho	12448 UP Sampark Kranti Exp	365/955/1350 (D)	10½	1 daily	8.10pm NZ
Lucknow	12004 Lucknow Swran Shatabdi	885/1850 (B)	6½	1 daily	6.10am NC
Mumbai	12952 Mumbai Rajdhani	2085/2870/4755 (C)	16	1 daily	4.45pm NC
	12954 August Kranti Rajdani	2085/2870/4755 (C)	17½	1 daily	4.50pm NZ
Udaipur	12963 Mewar Exp	415/1095/1555 (D)	12½	1 daily	7pm NZM
Varanasi	12560 Shivganga Exp	415/1100//1565 (D)	12½	1 daily	6.55pm NC

Train stations: NDLS – New Delhi; DLI – Old Delhi; NZM – Hazrat Nizamuddin

Fares: (A) 2nd class/chair car; (B) chair car/1st-class AC; (C) 3AC/2AC/1st-class AC; (D) sleeper/3AC/2AC

Getting Around

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

Whatever time your flight arrives, it's a good idea to book a hotel in advance and notify staff of your arrival time – some places may allow you to check in early. Organised city transport runs to/from Terminal 3; a free shuttle bus runs every 20 minutes between Terminal 3 and Terminal 1.

➔ Pre-arranged Pick-ups Hotels offer pre-arranged airport pick-up, but these are usually more expensive than arranging a taxi yourself – however, it may be worth it to ease your arrival. You'll pay extra to cover the airport parking fee (up to ₹220) and ₹100 charge to enter the arrivals hall. To avoid the entry fee, drivers may wait outside Gates 4 to 6.

➔ Metro The Airport Express line (www.delhimetrorail.com) runs every 10 to 15 minutes from 5.15am to 11.40pm, completing the journey from Terminal 3 to New Delhi train station in around 20 minutes (International/domestic terminal–New Delhi, ₹60/50). It's usually empty because it's a separate line from the rest of the metro. You can use a smart card, or buy a token for the other lines at Airport station; check with customer services.

➔ Bus Air-conditioned buses run from outside Terminal 3 to Kashmere Gate ISBT every 10 minutes, via the Red Fort, LNJP Hospital, New Delhi Station Gate 2, Connaught Place, Parliament St and Ashoka Rd.

➔ Taxi In front of the arrivals buildings at Terminal 3 and Terminal 1 are Delhi Traffic Police Prepaid Taxi counters (☎ complaints 56767, women's helpline 1091; www.delhitrafficpolice.nic.in) offering fixed-price taxi services. You'll pay about ₹350 to New or Old Delhi, and ₹450 to the southern suburbs in a battered old black-and-yellow taxi. There's a 25% surcharge between 11pm and 5am. Travellers have reported difficulty in persuading drivers to go to their intended hotel. Firmly insist that the driver takes you to your chosen destination and only surrender your voucher when you arrive where you want.

You can also book a prepaid taxi at the Megacabs counter (☎ 011-41414141; www.megacabs.com) at both the international and domestic terminals. It costs ₹600 to ₹700 to the centre, but you get a cleaner car with air-con.

AUTORICKSHAW & TAXI

Local taxis (recognisable by their black and yellow livery) and autorickshaws have meters but these are effectively ornamental as most drivers refuse to use them. Delhi Traffic Police run a network of prepaid autorickshaw booths, where you can pay a fixed fare, including 24-hour stands at the New Delhi, Old Delhi (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 24hr) and Nizamuddin (MAP GOOGLE MAP) train stations; elsewhere, you'll need to negotiate a fare before you set off.

Other booths are outside the India Tourism Delhi office (GOOGLE MAP ; 88 Janpath; 🕒 11am-8.30pm) and at Central Park (GOOGLE MAP) Connaught Place.

Fares are invariably elevated, especially for foreigners, so haggle hard, and if the fare sounds too outrageous, find another cab. For an autorickshaw ride from Connaught Place, fares should be around ₹30 to Paharganj, ₹60 to the Red Fort, ₹70 to Humayun's Tomb and ₹100 to Hauz Khas. However, it will be a struggle to get these prices. Visit www.taxiautofare.com for suggested fares for these and other journeys. To report overcharging, harassment, or other problems take the licence number and call the Auto Complaint Line on 011-42400400/25844444.

Taxis typically charge twice the autorickshaw fare. Note that fares vary as fuel prices go up and down. From 11pm to 5am there's a 25% surcharge for autorickshaws and taxis.

Kumar Tourist Taxi Service (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-23415930; www.kumarindiatours.com; 14/1 K-Block, Connaught Place; 🕒 9am-9pm) is a reliable company; a day of Delhi sightseeing costs from ₹2000 (an eight-hour and 80km limit applies).

Metropole Tourist Service (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 011-24310313; www.metrovista.co.in; 224 Defence Colony Flyover Market; 🕒 7am-7pm) is another reliable and long-running taxi service, and good value, charging ₹1500 for up to 80km for one day's car and driver hire, plus ₹100/15 per hour/kilometre thereafter.

Shared electric rickshaws are also a possibility, which means cheaper fares, but only if you're going in the same direction as other passengers.

Radiocabs

You'll need a local mobile number to order a radiocab, or ask a shop or hotel to assist you. These air-conditioned cars are clean, efficient, and use reliable meters, usually charging ₹23 at flagfall then ₹23 per kilometre. Try Easycabs (☎ 011-43434343; www.easycabs.com) or Quickcabs (☎ 011-45333333; www.quickcabs.in).

Taxi & Auto Apps

Car-sharing services Uber (www.uber.com) and Ola Autos & Cabs (www.olacabs.com) have transformed travel around Delhi. If you have a local number and a smartphone, download these apps and you can arrange pick-ups from your exact location (though the car/auto will sometimes stop a little way away), then pay the electronically calculated fee in cash when you complete the journey and thus side-stepping much haggling. Uber was banned in 2014 following an assault by one of its drivers but checks have been improved since.

BUS

With the arrival of the metro, travellers rarely use Delhi's public buses, which can get crowded, but there are several useful routes, including the Airport Express bus (₹75) and Bus GL-23, which connects the Kashmere Gate and Anand Vihar bus stations. AC fares are ₹10 to ₹25.

CYCLE-RICKSHAW

Cycle-rickshaws are useful for navigating Old Delhi and the suburbs, but are banned from many parts of New Delhi, including Connaught Place. Negotiate a fare before you set off – expect to pay around ₹10 per kilometre.

METRO

Delhi's metro (☎ 011-23417910; www.delhimetrorail.com) is superb: fast and efficient, with signs and arrival/departure announcements in Hindi and English. Trains run from around 6am to 11pm and the first carriage in the direction of travel is reserved for women only. Trains can get insanely busy at peak commuting times (around 9am to 10am and 5pm to 6pm) – avoid travelling with luggage during rush hour if at all possible (however, the Airport Express is always empty, as it's separate from the other lines).

Tokens (₹8 to ₹50) are sold at metro stations. There are also one-/three-day 'tourist cards' (₹150/300, ₹50 deposit, ₹30 refundable when you return it) for unlimited short-distance travel, and a Smart Card (₹150, ₹50 deposit, ₹30 refundable), which can be recharged for amounts from ₹200 to ₹1000 – these make fares 10% cheaper than paying by token.

Because of security concerns, all bags are X-rayed and passengers must pass through an airport-style scanner.

GREATER DELHI

★ Qutb Minar Complex

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 011-26643856; Indian/foreigner ₹30/500, video ₹25, Decorative Light Show Indian/foreigner ₹20/250, audio guide ₹100; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Qutab Minar)

If you only have time to visit just one of Delhi's ancient ruins, make it this. The first monuments here were erected by the sultans of Mehrauli, and subsequent rulers expanded on their work, hiring the finest craftsmen and artisans to set in stone the triumph of Muslim rule. The Qutb Festival of Indian classical music and dance takes place here every October/November. To reach the complex, take the metro to Qutab Minar station, then take an autorickshaw for the 1km to the ruins.

Qutb Minar

TOWER

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The Qutb Minar that gives the complex its name is an unmissable, soaring Afghan-style victory tower and minaret, erected by sultan Qutb-ud-din in 1193 to proclaim his supremacy over the vanquished Hindu rulers of Qila Rai Pithora. Ringed by intricately carved sandstone bands bearing verses from the Quran, the tower stands nearly 73m high and tapers from a 15m-diameter base to a mere 2.5m at the top.

Quwwat-ul-Islam Masjid

MOSQUE

(Might of Islam Mosque; MAP GOOGLE MAP)

At the foot of the Qutb Minar stands the first mosque to be built in India. An inscription over the east gate states that it was built with materials obtained from demolishing '27 idolatrous temples'. As well as intricate carvings that show a clear fusion of Islamic and pre-Islamic styles, the walls of the mosque are studded with sun disks, shikharas and other recognisable pieces of Hindu and Jain masonry. This was Delhi's main mosque until 1360.

Iron Pillar

TOWER

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  Qutab Minar)

In the courtyard of the Quwwat-ul-Islam Masjid is a 6.7m-high iron pillar that is much more ancient than any of the surrounding monuments. It hasn't rusted over the past 1600 years, due to both the dry atmosphere and its incredible purity. A six-line Sanskrit inscription indicates that it was initially erected outside a Vishnu temple, possibly in Bihar, in memory of Chandragupta II, who ruled from AD 375 to 413. Scientists are at a loss as to how the iron was cast using the technology of the time.

★ Mehrauli Archaeological Park

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  dawn-dusk;  Qutab Minar) FREE

There are extraordinary riches scattered around Mehrauli, with more than 440 monuments – from the 10th century to the British era – dotting a forest and the village itself. In the forest, most impressive are the time-ravaged tombs of Balban and Quli Khan, his son, and the Jamali Khamali mosque, attached to the tomb of the Sufi poet Jamali. To the west is the 16th-century Rajon ki Baoli, Delhi's finest step-well, with a monumental flight of steps.

At the northern end of Mehrauli village is Adham Khan's Mausoleum, which was once used as a British residence, then later as a police station and post office. Leading northwards from the tomb are the pre-Islamic walls of Lal Kot.

To the south of the village are the remains of the Mughal palace, the Zafar Mahal, once in the heart of the jungle. Next door to it is the Sufi shrine, the Dargah of Qutb Sahib. There is a small burial ground with one empty space that was intended for the last king of Delhi, Bahadur Shah Zafar, who died in exile in Burma (Myanmar) in 1862. South of here is a Lodi-era burial ground for hijras (transvestites and eunuchs), Hijron ka Khanqah (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Kalka das Marg; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Qutab Minar). The identity of those buried here is unknown, but it's a well-kept, peaceful place, revered by Delhi's hijra community. A little further south are Jahaz Mahal ('ship palace', also built by the Mughals) and the Haus i Shamsi tank (GOOGLE MAP ; off Mehrauli-Gurgaon Rd).

You can reach the forested part of the park by turning right from the metro station onto Anuvrat Marg and walking around 500m. A good way to explore the ruins is by guided walking tour.

★ Tughlaqabad

FORT

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk; M Tughlakabad)

This magnificent 14th-century ruin, half reclaimed by jungle and gradually being encroached on by villages, was Delhi's third incarnation, built by Ghiyas-ud-din Tughlaq. The sultan poached workers from the Sufi saint Nizam-ud-din, who issued a curse that shepherds would inhabit the fort. However, it's monkeys rather than shepherds that have taken over. There are fantastic emerald-green views. Interlinking underground rooms were used as storehouses. To reach the fort, take an autorickshaw from the Tughlakabad metro (one way/return ₹80/160).

Gurgaon (Gurugram)

The area of Gurgaon (Gurugram) is said to have been presented to Guru Dronacharya in gratitude for his teaching by its rulers, the Kaurava and Pandava, hence its recent Mahabharata-inspired name change to Gurugram. Delhi's foremost satellite city was once a collection of villages and farmland, but its fortunes changed when the car company Maruti Suzuki India Limited set up a manufacturing base here in the 1970s. Change accelerated in the 1990s, and Gurgaon is now a booming new town, a concrete-laden development of telecommunications companies, call centres, malls, office blocks and hotels, with India's third-highest income per capita.

Sights

Sultanpur National Park

NATIONAL PARK

(<http://haryanaforest.gov.in/SultanpurNationalPark.aspx>; Sultanpur; foreigner/Indian ₹40/5, camera/video ₹25/500; 🕒 7am-4.30pm)

It's incredible to think that Gurgaon is only 15km away from Sultanpur National Park. These wetlands shimmer with local and visiting migratory birds, including kingfishers, flamingoes, geese, teal and storks. It's best to get here in early morning, and you can stay overnight at government-run Rosy Pelican Tourist Complex (📞 0120-4355020; r from ₹2175). The easiest way to get here is by taxi from Gurgaon.

Museo Camera

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9810009099; www.indiaphotoarchive.org; T-23/5, DLF Phase III; requested donation per person ₹300; Rapid Metro Phase III)

This wonderful museum grew out of the collection of Indian photographer Aditya Arya, with the oldest photographs here dating to the 1880s. Meet the Sinar – the Rolls-Royce of cameras – and the same model of Hasselblad that went to the moon and back. You can also see some incredible early photos, dating to the 1850s.

Sleeping

Gurgaon is full of five-star and luxury business hotels, catering to the many business travellers who stay here, as well as to holidaymakers who fancy luxurious accommodation that's less expensive than in Delhi's city centre, and close to the area's many luxury malls. There is also a smattering of guesthouses and humbler hotels.

Harry's Bed & Breakfast

B&B $$

( 987169996, 9810158515; www.harrysbedandbreakfast.com; Plot 40, Silver Oaks Avenue, DLF 1; s/d ₹2300/2800;  ;  Sikanderpur)

The unmistakable aromas of southern spices welcome you into this Tamil-owned B&B in a quiet corner of Gurgaon. Spacious, well-lit rooms have plush interiors and en suite bathrooms, and there's complimentary wi-fi and a sumptuous breakfast. One room comes kitted out with its own tiny garden. With notice, the hosts can rustle up a full Tamil meal.

★ Tikli Bottom

HOTEL $$$

(www.tiklibottom.com; Manender Farm, Gairatpur Bas; s/d incl full board ₹12,000/21,000;

Around 50km south of central Delhi, this peachy Lutyens-style bungalow surrounded by wooded hills, run by a British couple, seems to come from another era, one of toasted teacakes, lawns and chintz. There are four high-ceilinged guest rooms and spacious lounges, plus a beautiful pool with hill views overlooked by a pagoda.

You can also come here for a day, hang out for lunch (adult/aged 12 to 18/under 12 ₹1750/800/300) and explore the countryside with its rambling chickens and emus. For day visitors wanting to swim, the day charge for a room is ₹4500.

Trident

HOTEL $$$

( www.tridenthotels.com; 443, Udyog Vihar, Phase V, Sector 19; r from ₹15,500;   ;  IFFCO Chowk)

A contemporary palace, with Mughal-style domes and reflection pools, this has huge rooms and all facilities, and offers good value compared with city-centre five stars. There are excellent eating options and a separate Sunday brunch for kids as well as adults.

Eating

Gurgaon has many great places to eat, though only in the midrange to top-end price brackets, and as it's all so new, places can feel rather soulless. However, not only are there some great hotel restaurants, but there's also DLF Cyber Hub, which is dedicated entirely to gastronomy.

Fat Lulu's

PIZZA $$

( 0124-4245497; Cross Point DLF City IV, DLF Galleria Rd, Gurgaon; pizzas from ₹425;  11.30am-11pm)

A delightful little eatery opposite the popular Galleria Market, Fat Lulu's has thin-crust pizzas loaded with toppings, from classic Italian to those with an Indian twist (chicken tikka masala). It has a quirky and colourful dining room that will appeal to those who like a bit of ambience on the side.

DLF Cyber Hub

INTERNATIONAL $$

( GOOGLE MAP; www.dlfcyberhub.com; DLF Cyber City, Phase II, NH8; mains from ₹200;  most restaurants 11am-midnight; Rapid Metro DLF Cyber City)

This is a food court par excellence, and you'll find any type of cuisine you fancy here. Standouts include Sodabottleopenerwala, for Parsi cuisine; the cool Gurgaon Social, with private rooms; Farzi Cafe, for molecular cuisine and cheap beer; the People & Co for live comedy; Yum Yum Cha for funky decor and pan-Asian food; and Sion 7 for craft beer brewed on site.

★ Amaranta

SEAFOOD, INDIAN $$$

( 0124-2451234; The Oberoi, 443 Udyog Vihar, Phase V; mains ₹1900-2100;  12.30-3pm & 7pm-midnight;  IFFCO Chowk)

The Oberoi Gurgaon's swish restaurant wins plaudits for its creative Indian cuisine. Its seafood is outstanding, flown in daily from the coast, but for the full experience try a seven- or nine-course tasting menu (veg/non-veg ₹4000/5900).

Drinking

Gurgaon has lots of drinking and nightlife options, particularly at DLF Cyber Hub and along Golf Course Rd, and is popular with middle-class locals for a night out, with plenty of bars and restaurants offering live music. DLF Cyber Hub also includes a popular comedy club, the People & Co. As in Delhi, most places only open until 12.30am.

Entertainment

Kingdom of Dreams

THEATRE

(📞0124-4528000; www.kingdomofdreams.in; Auditorium Complex, Sector 29; Culture Gully ₹599 refundable on a purchase, shows from ₹1099 Tue-Fri, ₹1199 Sat & Sun; 🕒12.30pm-midnight Tue-Fri, noon-midnight Sat & Sun, showtimes vary; 🚏IFFCO Chowk)

An entertainment extravaganza for lovers of Bollywood cinema, Kingdom of Dreams offers an out-and-out sensory assault. You can take in one of three musicals at the Nautanka Mahal, supported by world-class techno-wizardry, as the cast swing, swoop and sing from the rafters. There's a free shuttle here from the metro every 15 minutes.

Shopping

Gurgaon offers a certain kind of shopping heaven, whole streets lined by flashy malls, with lots of big-name labels and chainstores, plus a few local independent names to spice up the mix, such as Atelier Mon

(www.ateliermon.com; 27/4, Deodar Marg, Block A, Sector 26A; 🕒11am-6pm Mon-Sat; 🚏Sikanderpur).

Transport

Rapid Metrorail Gurgaon

METRO

(<http://rapidmetrogurgaon.com/home>; fare ₹20)

This 5km circular track has trains running every five minutes, and connects Sikanderpur with DLF Cyber City.

Rajasthan

Rajasthan Highlights

Eastern Rajasthan

Jaipur

Walking Tour: Pink City

Around Jaipur

[Bharatpur & Keoladeo
National Park](#)

Alwar

[Sariska Tiger Reserve &
National Park](#)

Ajmer

Pushkar

Ranthambhore National Park

Udaipur & Southern Rajasthan

Bundi

Kota

Chittorgarh \(Chittor\)

Udaipur

Around Udaipur

[Northern Rajasthan
\(Shekhawati\)](#)

Mt Abu

Nawalgarh

Jhunjhunu

Fatehpur

Mandawa

[Jaisalmer, Jodhpur & Western
Rajasthan](#)

Jodhpur

Around Jodhpur

Jaisalmer

Around Jaisalmer

Bikaner

Around Bikaner

Rajasthan

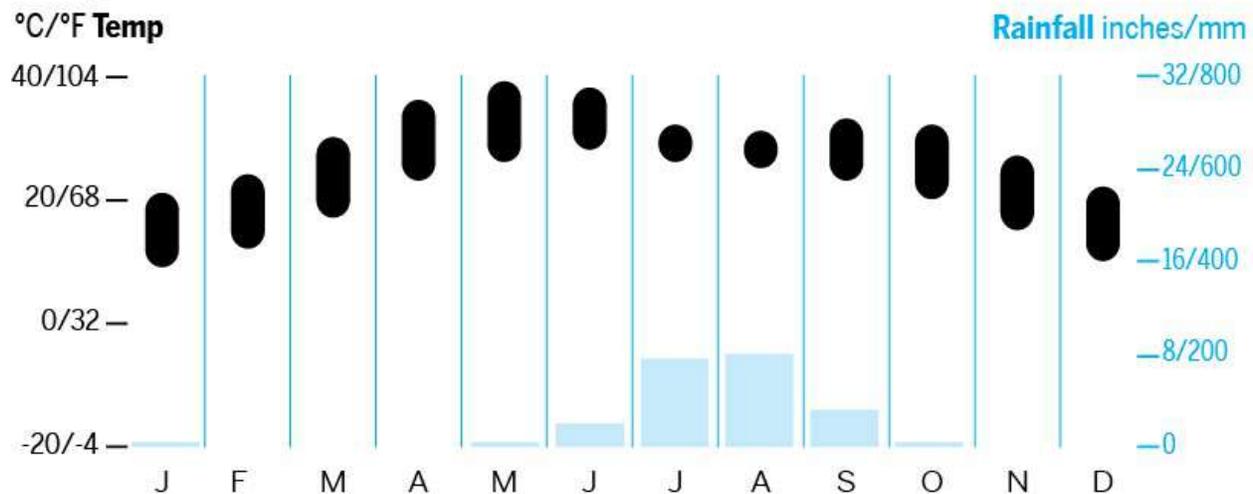

Why Go?

It is said there is more history in Rajasthan than in the rest of India put together. Welcome to the Land of the Kings – a realm of maharajas, majestic forts and lavish palaces. India is littered with splendid architecture, but nowhere will you find fortresses quite as magnificent as those in Rajasthan, rising up imperiously from the landscape like fairy-tale mirages or adventure movie sets.

As enchanting as they are, though, there is more to this most royal of regions than its architectural wonders. This is also a land of sand dunes and jungle, of camel trains and wild tigers, of glittering jewels, vivid colours and vibrant culture. There are enough colourful festivals here to fill a calendar, while the shopping and cuisine are nothing short of spectacular. In truth, Rajasthan just about has it all – it is the must-see state of India, brimming with startling, thought-provoking and, ultimately, unforgettable attractions.

When to Go

Jaipur

- ➔ Dec–Feb Pleasant day time temperatures, but can get cold at night. Peak tourists, peak prices.
- ➔ Sep–Nov Feb & Mar Warm nights suit many visitors fleeing colder climates.
- ➔ Apr–Aug April and June are hot awaiting the monsoon, which brings the rain in July and August.

Best Forts & Palaces

- ➔ Jaisalmer
- ➔ Jodhpur
- ➔ Bundi
- ➔ Chittorgarh

Best Heritage Hotels

- ➔ Rambagh Palace
- ➔ Pal Haveli
- ➔ Taj Lake Palace

- ➔ Bundi Vilas
- ➔ Laxmi Niwas Palace
- ➔ Hotel Castle Mandawa

Rajasthan Highlights

1 Jaisalmer Wandering the bustling alleys of the honey-coloured fort, then riding a camel among desert dunes.

2 Pushkar Making a lakeside pilgrimage to Rajasthan's holiest town.

3 Ranthambore National Park Searching for tigers in the ravines and forests.

4 Mehrangarh Taking in the views of the Blue City from the imposing ramparts of Jodhpur's mighty fortress.

- 5 Udaipur Kicking back in Rajasthan's romantic idyll with palaces and a picturesque lake.
- 6 Pink City Wandering the colourful bazaars of Jaipur and the marvellous Amber Fort.
- 7 Bundi Resting up in this town with its low-key backpacker vibe, fairy-tale palace and a solemn fort.
- 8 Shekhawati Admiring the whimsical frescos adorning the crumbling havelis.

History

Rajasthan is the ancestral home of the Rajputs, warrior clans who claim to originate from the sun, moon and fire, and who have controlled this part of India for more than 1000 years. While they forged marriages of convenience and temporary alliances, pride and independence were always paramount, and this lack of unity led to the Rajputs becoming vassals of the Mughal empire.

Mughal rule of Rajasthan was marked by rebellion, uprisings and tragedy, as whole cities committed jauhar (ritual mass suicide) rather than submit to the Mughals. Nevertheless, As the Mughal empire declined, the Rajputs clawed back their independence and signed treaties with the British allowing individual Rajput kingdoms to operate as independent princely states under the umbrella of British rule.

At Independence, Rajasthan's many maharajas were allowed to keep their titles and property holdings and were paid an annual stipend commensurate with their status to secure their participation in the union. However, this favourable arrangement lapsed in the 1970s and Rajasthan submitted fully to central control.

EASTERN RAJASTHAN

Jaipur

📍 0141 / POP 3.05 MILLION

Enthralling, historical Jaipur, Rajasthan's capital, is the gateway to India's most flamboyant state.

The city's colourful, chaotic streets ebb and flow with a heady brew of old and new. Careering buses dodge dawdling camels, leisurely cycle-rickshaws frustrate swarms of motorbikes, and everywhere buzzing autorickshaws watch for easy prey. In the midst of this mayhem, the splendours of Jaipur's majestic past are islands of relative calm evoking a different pace and another world.

At the city's heart, the City Palace continues to house the former royal family; the Jantar Mantar, the royal observatory, maintains a heavenly aspect; and the honeycomb Hawa Mahal gazes on the bazaar below. And just out of sight, in the arid hill country surrounding the city, is the fairy-tale grandeur of Amber Fort, Jaipur's star attraction.

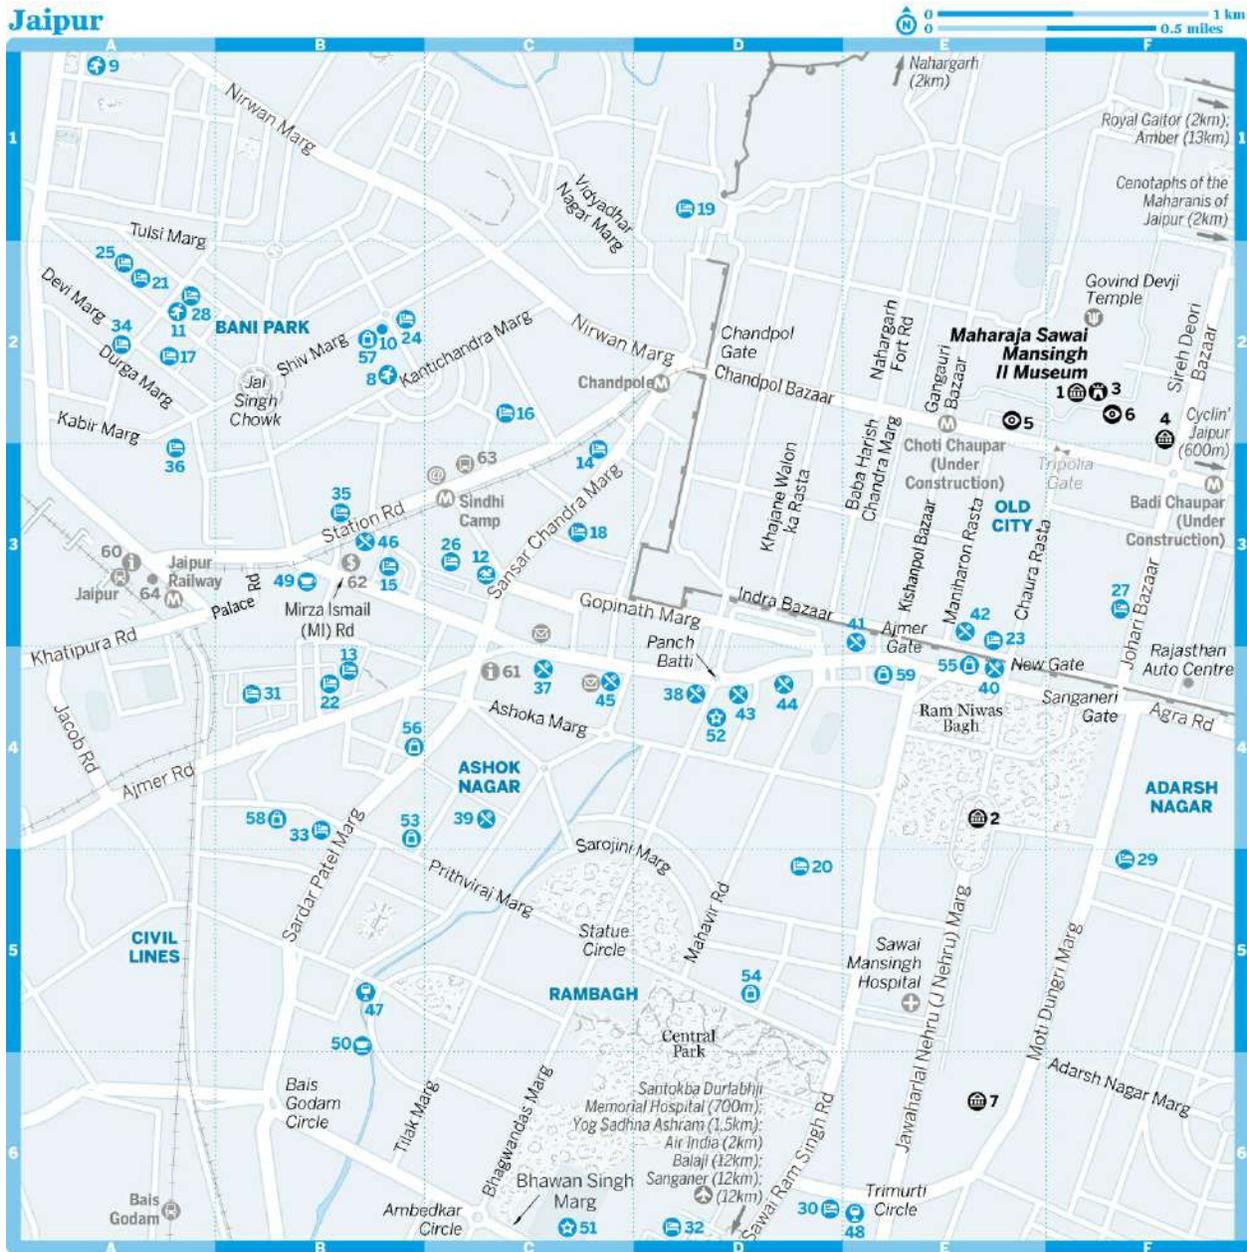

History

Jaipur is named after its founder, the great warrior-astronomer Jai Singh II (1688–1743), who came to power at age 11 after the death of his father, Maharaja Bishan Singh. Jai Singh could trace his lineage back to the Rajput clan of Kachhwahas, who consolidated their power in the 12th century. Their capital was at Amber (pronounced 'amer'), about 11km northeast of present-day Jaipur, where they built the impressive Amber Fort.

The kingdom grew wealthier and wealthier, and this, plus the need to accommodate the burgeoning population and a paucity of water at the old capital at Amber, prompted the maharaja in 1727 to commence work on a new city – Jaipur.

Northern India's first planned city, it was a collaborative effort using Singh's vision and the impressive expertise of his chief architect, Vidyadhar Bhattacharya. Jai Singh's grounding in the sciences is reflected in the precise symmetry of the new city.

In 1876 Maharaja Ram Singh had the entire Old City painted pink (traditionally the colour of hospitality) to welcome the Prince of Wales (later King Edward VII). Today all residents of the Old City are compelled by law to preserve the pink facade.

Jaipur

Top Sights

1	Maharaja Sawai Mansingh II Museum	F2
---	---	----

Sights

2	Central Museum	E4
3	City Palace	F2
4	Hawa Mahal	F2
5	Iswari Minar Swarga Sal	E2
6	Jantar Mantar	F2
7	SRC Museum of Indology	E6

Activities, Courses & Tours

8	Charak Ayurveda	B2
9	Kerala Ayurveda Kendra	A1
10	Kripal Kumbh	B2
11	Madhavanand Girls College	A2
12	Mansingh Hotel	C3
	RTDC	A3
	Vintage Jeep Tour	B4

Sleeping

13	All Seasons Homestay	B4
14	Alsisar Haveli	C3
15	Atithi Guest House	B3
16	Dera Rawatsar	C2
17	Hotel Anuraag Villa	A2
18	Hotel Arya Niwas	C3
19	Hotel Bissau Palace	D1
20	Hotel Diggi Palace	D5
21	Hotel Meghniwas	A2
22	Hotel Pearl Palace	B4
23	Hotel Sweet Dream	E3
24	Jaipur Inn	B2
25	Jas Vilas	A2
26	Karni Niwas	C3
27	LMB Hotel	F3
28	Madhuban	A2
29	Nana-ki-Haveli	F5
30	Narain Niwas Palace Hotel	D6

31	Pearl Palace Heritage	B4
32	Rambagh Palace	D6
33	Roadhouse Hostel Jaipur	B4
34	Shahpura House	A2
35	Tony Guest House	B3
36	Vinayak Guest House	A3

Eating

	Anokhi Café	B4
37	Copper Chimney	C4
38	Dāsaprakash	D4
39	Four Seasons	C4
40	Ganesh Restaurant	E4
	Handi Restaurant	C4
	Hotel Sweet Dream	E3
41	Indian Coffee House	E3
	Jaipur Modern Kitchen	B4
	Jal Mahal	D4
	Little Italy	B4
	LMB	F3
42	Mohan	E3
43	Natraj	D4
44	Niro's	D4
45	Old Takeaway the Kebab Shop	C4
	Peacock Rooftop Restaurant	B4
46	Rawat Kachori	B3
	Surya Mahal	D4

Drinking & Nightlife

47	100% Rock	B5
48	Bar Palladio	E6
49	Café Coffee Day	B3
50	Curious Life	B5
	Lassiwala	D4
	Polo Bar	D6

Entertainment

51	Polo Ground	C6
52	Raj Mandir Cinema	D4

Shopping

53 Anokhi	B4
Crossword	B4
54 Fabindia	D5
55 Gem-Testing Laboratory	E4
Inde Rooh	B4
56 Jaipur Modern	B4
57 Kripal Kumbh	B2
58 Mojari	B4
59 Rajasthali	E4
Silver Shop	B4

Information

RTDC Tourist Office	C3
60 RTDC Tourist Office	A3
61 RTDC Tourist Office Main branch	C4
62 Thomas Cook	B3

Transport

63 Main Bus Station	C3
64 Reservation Office	A3
Reservation Office	C3

Sights

Old City (Pink City)

The Old City (often referred to as the Pink City) is both a marvel of 18th-century town planning, and a place you could spend days exploring – it's the beating heart of Jaipur.

Avenues divide the Pink City into neat rectangles, each specialising in certain crafts, as ordained in the Shilpa Shastra (ancient Hindu texts). The main bazaars in the Old City include Johari Bazaar, Tripolia Bazaar, Bapu Bazaar and Chandpol Bazaar.

The whole is partially encircled by a crenellated wall punctuated at intervals by grand gateways. The major gates are Chandpol (pol means ‘gate’), Ajmer Gate and Sangneri Gate.

★ City Palace

PALACE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0141-4088888; www.royaljaipur.in; Indian/foreigner incl camera ₹130/500, guide from ₹300, audio guide free, Royal Grandeur tour Indian/foreigner ₹2000/2500; 🕒 9.30am-5pm)

A complex of courtyards, gardens and buildings, the impressive City Palace is right in the centre of the Old City. The outer wall was built by Jai Singh II, but within it the palace has been enlarged and adapted over the centuries. There are palace buildings from different eras, some dating from the early 20th century. It is a striking blend of Rajasthani and Mughal architecture.

The price of admission includes entry to Royal Gaitor and the Cenotaphs of the Maharanis, as well as to Jaigarh, a long climb above Amber Fort. This composite ticket is valid for two days and costs Indians an extra ₹60 on top of City Palace entry (no extra cost for foreigners).

Mubarak Mahal

Entering through Virendra Pol, you’ll see the Mubarak Mahal (Welcome Palace), built in the late 19th century for Maharaja Madho Singh II as a reception centre for visiting dignitaries. Its multiarched and colonnaded construction was cooked up in an Islamic, Rajput and European stylistic stew by the architect Sir Swinton Jacob. It now forms part of the Maharaja Sawai Mansingh II Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP), containing a collection of royal costumes and superb shawls, including Kashmiri pashmina. One remarkable exhibit is Sawai Madho Singh I’s capacious clothing; it’s said he was a cuddly 2m tall, 1.2m wide and 250kg.

The Armoury

The Anand Mahal Sileg Khana – the Maharani’s Palace – houses the Armoury, which has one of the best collections of weapons in the country. Many of the ceremonial items are elegantly engraved and inlaid, belying their grisly purpose.

Diwan-i-Khas (Sarvatobhadra)

Set between the Armoury and the Diwan-i-Am art gallery is an open courtyard known in Sanskrit as Sarvatobhadra. At its centre is a pink-and-white, marble-paved gallery that was used as the Diwan-i-Khas (Hall of Private Audience), where the maharajas would consult their ministers. Here you can see two enormous silver vessels, each 1.6m tall and reputedly the largest silver objects in the world.

Diwan-i-Am Art Gallery

Within the lavish Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audience) is this art gallery. Exhibits include a copy of the entire Bhagavad Gita (scripture) handwritten in tiny script, and miniature copies of other holy Hindu scriptures, which were small enough to be easily hidden in the event that zealot Mughal armies tried to destroy the sacred texts.

Pitam Niwas Chowk & Chandra Mahal

Located towards the palace's inner courtyard is Pitam Niwas Chowk. Here four glorious gates represent the seasons – the Peacock Gate depicts autumn, the Lotus Gate signifies summer, the Green Gate represents spring, and finally the Rose Gate embodies winter.

Beyond this chowk (square) is the private palace, the Chandra Mahal, which is still the residence of the descendants of the royal family and where you can take a 45-minute Royal Grandeur guided tour of select areas.

★ Jantar Mantar

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹50/200, guide ₹200, audio guide ₹100; 🕒 9am-4.30pm)

Adjacent to the City Palace is Jantar Mantar, an observatory begun by Jai Singh II in 1728 that resembles a collection of bizarre giant sculptures. Built for measuring the heavens, the name is derived from the Sanskrit yanta mantr, meaning 'instrument of calculation', and in 2010 it was added to India's list of Unesco World Heritage Sites. Paying for a local guide is highly recommended if you wish to learn how each fascinating instrument works.

Jai Singh liked astronomy even more than he liked war and town planning. Before constructing the observatory he sent scholars abroad to study foreign constructs. He built five observatories in total, and this is the largest and best preserved (it was restored in 1901). Others are in Delhi, Varanasi and Ujjain. No traces of the fifth, the Mathura observatory, remain.

A valid Amber Fort/Hawa Mahal composite ticket will also gain you entry.

★ Hawa Mahal

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Sireh Deori Bazaar; Indian/foreigner incl camera ₹50/200, guide ₹200, audio guide Hindi/English ₹115/170; 🕒 9am-5.30pm)

Jaipur's most distinctive landmark, the Hawa Mahal is an extraordinary pink-painted delicately honeycombed hive that rises a dizzying five storeys. It was constructed in 1799 by Maharaja Sawai Pratap Singh to enable ladies of the royal household to watch the life and processions of the city. The top offers stunning views over Jantar Mantar and the City Palace in one direction and over Sireh Deori Bazaar in the other.

There's a small museum (open Saturday to Thursday), with miniature paintings and some rich relics, such as ceremonial armour, which help evoke the royal past.

Claustrophobes should be aware that the narrow corridors can sometimes get extremely cramped and crowded inside the Hawa Mahal.

Entrance is from the back of the complex. To get here, return to the intersection on your left as you face the Hawa Mahal, turn right and then take the first right again through an archway. Shopkeepers can show you another way – past their shops!

A valid Amber Fort composite ticket will also gain you entry.

DON'T MISS

HEAVEN-PIERCING MINARET

Iswari Minar Swarga Sal

NOTABLE BUILDING

(Heaven-Piercing Minaret; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒 9am-4.30pm)

Piercing the skyline near the City Palace is this unusual minaret, erected in the 1740s by Jai Singh II's son and successor Iswari. The entrance is around the back of the row of shops fronting Chandpol Bazaar – take the alley 50m west of the minaret along the bazaar or go via the Atishpol entrance to the City Palace compound, 150m east of the minaret. You can spiral to the top of the minaret for excellent views.

Iswari ignominiously killed himself by snakebite (in the Chandra Mahal) rather than face the advancing Maratha army – his 21 wives and concubines then did the necessary noble thing and committed jauhar (ritual mass suicide by immolation) on his funeral pyre.

A valid Amber Fort/Hawa Mahal composite ticket will also gain you entry.

New City

By the mid-19th century it became obvious that the well-planned city was bulging at the seams. During the reign of Maharaja Ram Singh (1835–80) the seams ruptured and the city burst out beyond its walls. Civic facilities, such as a postal system and piped water, were introduced. This period gave rise to a part of town very different from the bazaars of the Old City, with wide boulevards, landscaped grounds and grand European-influenced buildings.

Central Museum

MUSEUM

(Albert Hall; MAP GOOGLE MAP; J Nehru Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹40/300, audio guide Hindi/English ₹115/175; 🕒 9am-6pm)

This museum is housed in the spectacularly florid Albert Hall, south of the Old City. The building was designed by Sir Swinton Jacob, and combines elements of English and North Indian architecture, as well as huge friezes celebrating the world's great cultures. It was known as the pride of the new Jaipur when it opened in 1887. The grand old building hosts an eclectic array of tribal dress, dioramas, sculptures, miniature paintings, carpets, musical instruments and even an Egyptian mummy.

SRC Museum of Indology

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 24 Gangwell Park, Prachyavidya Path; Indian/foreigner incl guide ₹40/100

 8am-6pm)

This ramshackle, dusty treasure trove is an extraordinary private collection. It contains folk-art objects and other pieces – there's everything from a manuscript written by Aurangzeb and a 200-year-old mirror work swing from Bikaner to a glass bed (for a short queen). The museum is signposted off J Nehru Barg.

City Edge

Surrounding the city are several historic sites including forts, temples, palaces and gardens. Some of these can be visited on the way to Amber Fort.

Nahargarh

FORT

(Tiger Fort; GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200;  10am-5pm)

Built in 1734 and extended in 1868, this sturdy fort overlooks the city from a sheer ridge to the north. The story goes that the fort was named after Nahar Singh, a dead prince whose restless spirit was disrupting construction. Whatever was built in the day crumbled in the night. The prince agreed to leave on condition that the fort was named for him. The views are glorious and there's a restaurant that's perfect for a beer.

The best way to visit is to walk or take a cycle-rickshaw (₹50 from MI Rd) to the end of Nahargarh Fort Rd, then climb the steep, winding 2km path to the top. To drive, you have to detour via the Amber area in a circuitous 8km round trip.

A valid Amber Fort/Hawa Mahal composite ticket will also gain you entry.

Royal Gaitor

HISTORIC SITE

(Gatore ki Chhatryan; GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹40/100;  9am-5pm)

The royal cenotaphs, just outside the city walls, beneath Nahargarh, are an appropriately restful place to visit and feel remarkably undiscovered. The stone monuments are beautifully and intricately carved. Maharajas Pratap Singh, Madho Singh II and Jai Singh II, among others, are honoured here. Jai Singh II has the most impressive marble cenotaph, with a dome supported by 20 carved pillars.

Jai Mahal

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP); Water Palace; 🕒 closed to the public)

Near the cenotaphs of the maharanis of Jaipur, and beautifully situated in the watery expanse of Man Sagar, is this dreamlike palace. It's origins are uncertain, but it was believed to have been extensively restored if not built by Jai Singh II (1734). It's accessed via a causeway at the rear, and is undergoing restoration under the auspices of the Jal Tarang (www.jaltarang.in) project.

Cenotaphs of the Maharanis of Jaipur

HISTORIC SITE

(Maharani ki Chhatri; GOOGLE MAP); Amber Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹40/100; 🕒 9am-5pm)

Located between Jaipur and Amber, 5km from the centre, the cenotaphs of the maharanis of Jaipur are worth a visit for a stroll.

Galta

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Squeezed between cliffs in a rocky valley, Galta is a desolate, if evocative, place. The temple houses a number of sacred tanks, into which some daring souls jump from the adjacent cliffs. The water is claimed to be several elephants deep and fed from a spring that falls through the mouth of a sculpted cow.

There are some original frescos in reasonable condition in a chamber at the end of the bottom pool, including those depicting athletic feats, the maharaja playing polo, and the exploits of Krishna and the gopis (milkmaids).

It is also known as the Monkey Temple and you will find hundreds of monkeys living here – bold and aggressive macaques and more graceful and tolerable langurs. You can purchase peanuts at the gate to feed to them, but be prepared to be mobbed by teeth-barring primates.

Although only a few kilometres east of the City Palace, Galta is about 10km by road from central Jaipur. An autorickshaw should charge around ₹300 return with waiting time, a taxi will charge at least ₹600.

On the ridge above Galta is the Surya Mandir (Temple of the Sun God; GOOGLE MAP), which rises 100m above Jaipur and can be seen from the eastern side of the city. A 2.5km-long walking trail climbs up to the temple from Suraj Pol, or you can walk up from the Galta side. There are hazy views over the humming city.

Activities

Several hotels will let you use their pool for a daily fee; try those at Narain Niwas Palace Hotel and Mansingh Hotel (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sansar Chandr Marg; nonguests ₹350; 🕒 7am-8pm).

Kerala Ayurveda Kendra

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4022446; www.keralaayurvedakendra.com; 32 Indra Colony, Ban Park; 🕒 9am-9pm)

Is Jaipur making your nerves jangle? Get help through ayurvedic massage and therapy. Treatments include sirodhara (₹1500/2400 for 50/90 minutes), where medicated oil is steadily streamed over your forehead to reduce stress, tone the brain and help with sleep disorders. Massages (male therapist for male clients and female for female clients) cost from ₹500 for 55 minutes.

It offers free transport to/from your hotel.

Charak Ayurveda

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2205628; www.charakayurveda.com; E-7 Kantichandra Marg, Ban Park; 🕒 9am-2pm & 3-7pm Mon-Sat, 9am-1pm Sun)

A full range of ayurvedic treatments are available. Massages start at ₹500.

Yog Sadhna Ashram

YOGA

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9314011884; www.yogsadhnaindia.org; Bapu Nagar; 🕒 Wed-Mon)

Free classes take place among trees off University Rd (near Rajasthan University) and incorporate breathing exercises, yoga asanas (postures) and exercise. Most of the classes are in Hindi, but some English is spoken in the 7.30am to 9.30am class. You can visit for individual classes, or register for longer courses.

Madhavanand Girls College

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; C19 Behari Marg, Bani Park; 🕒 6-7am)

This college runs free casual yoga classes every day in both Hindi and English. Very convenient if you happen to be lodging in Bani Park – the college is next door to Madhuban hotel.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Jaisalmer Desert Festival (🕒 Jan/Feb) A chance for moustache twirlers to compete in the Mr Desert contest.

Gangaur (🕒 Mar/Apr) A festival honouring Shiva and Parvati's love, celebrated statewide but with fervour in Jaipur.

Mewar Festival Udaipur's version of Gangaur, with free cultural events and a colourful procession down to the lake.

Teej (🕒 Jul/Aug) Jaipur and Bundi honour the arrival of the monsoon and Shiva and Parvati's marriage.

Dussehra Mela (🕒 Oct/Nov) Commemorates Rama's victory over Ravana (the demon king of Lanka). It's a spectacular time to visit Kota – the huge fair features 22m-tall firecracker-stuffed effigies.

Marwar Festival Celebrates Rajasthani heroes through music and dance; one day is held in Jodhpur, the other in Osian.

Pushkar Camel Fair The most famous festival in the state; it's a massive congregation of camels, horses and cattle, pilgrims and tourists.

Courses

Jaipur Cooking Classes

COOKING

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9928097288; www.jaipurcookingclasses.com; 33 Gyan Vihar, Nirman Nagar, near Ajmer Rd; class veg/nonveg from ₹2000/3700)

Popular cooking classes with chef Lokesh Mathur, who boasts more than 25 years' experience working in the restaurant and hotel business. Classes cover both classic dishes and Rajasthani menus and can be veg or nonveg. After a three-hour lesson, you sit down for a lunch or dinner of what you've prepared. Lokesh's kitchen is outside the western outskirts of Jaipur.

Call ahead for exact directions for your autorickshaw driver.

Kripal Kumbh

ART

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0141-2201127; B18A Shiv Marg, Bani Park)

Advance bookings are essential for these free lessons in blue pottery. Lessons aren't possible during the monsoon, from late June to mid-September.

There's also a showroom (MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0141-2201127; www.kripalkumbh.com; B18A Shiv Marg, Bani Park;  9.30am-6pm Mon-Sat).

Dhamma Thali Vipassana Meditation Centre

HEALTH & WELLBEING

(GOOGLE MAP ;  0141-2680220; www.thali.dhamma.org; courses by donation)

This serene vipassana meditation centre is tucked away in the hilly countryside near Galta, a 12km drive east of the city centre. It runs courses in meditation for both beginners and more advanced students throughout the year. Courses are usually for 10 days, during which you must observe noble silence – no communication with others.

Tours

Cyclin' Jaipur

CYCLING

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 7728060956; www.cyclinjaipur.com; 4hr tour ₹2000; 🕒 tour 6.45am)

Get up early to beat the traffic for a tour of the Pink City by bike, exploring the hidden lanes, temples, markets and food stalls of Jaipur. It's a unique and fun way to learn about the workings and culture of the city. Breakfast and refreshments during the tour are included, and helmets are provided on demand.

Tours start at Karnot Mahal, on Ramganj Chaupar in the Old City. Tailor-made walking and food tours are also available.

Vintage Jeep Tour

SIGHTSEEING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9829404055, 0141-2373700; www.pearlpalaceheritage.com/exclusive-vintage-jeep-tour-jaipur; Lane 2, 54 Gopal Bari; per person ₹2500; 🕒 9am-5.30pm)

A fun way to explore Jaipur's major sights (including Amber and the City Palace) is by jeep – a genuine US Army 1942 Ford Jeep. With a dedicated driver and a guide on board, you are guaranteed to be part of a small tour group (maximum three guests), giving great flexibility. Admission prices and lunch costs are not included.

RTDC

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 2200778; tours@rtdc.in; RTDC Tourist Office, Platform 1, Jaipur Train Station; half-/full-day tour ₹400/500; 🕒 8am-6.30pm Mon-Sat)

Full-day tours (9am to 6pm) take in all the major sights of Jaipur (including Amber Fort), with a lunch break at Nahargarh. The lunch break can be as late as 3pm, so have a big breakfast. Rushed half-day tours (8am to 1pm, 11.30am to 4.30pm, and 1.30pm to 6.30pm) still squeeze in Amber. The tour price doesn't include admission charges.

Departing at 6.30pm, the Pink City by Night tour (₹700) explores several well-known sights and includes dinner at Nahargarh.

Tours depart from Jaipur train station; the company also picks up and takes bookings from the RTDC Hotel Teej, RTDC Hotel Gangaur and the tourist office at the main bus station.

Walking Tour Pink City

START NEW GATE

END AJMER GATE

LENGTH 4.5KM; THREE TO FIVE HOURS

Entering the old city from 1 New Gate, turn right into 2 Bapu Bazaar, inside the city wall. Brightly coloured bolts of fabric, jootis (traditional shoes) and aromatic perfumes make the street a favourite destination for Jaipur's women. At the end of Bapu Bazaar you'll come to 3 Sanganeri Gate. Turn left into 4 Johari Bazaar, the jewellery market, where you will find jewellers, goldsmiths and artisans doing highly glazed meenakari (enamelwork), a speciality of Jaipur.

Continuing north you'll pass the famous 5 LMB Hotel, the 6 Jama Masjid, with its tall minarets, and the bustling 7 Badi Chaupar. Be very careful crossing the road here. To the north is 8 Sireh Deori Bazaar, also known as Hawa Mahal Bazaar. The name is derived from the spectacular 9 Hawa Mahal, a short distance to the north. Turning left on 10 Tripolia Bazaar, you will see a lane leading to the entrance to the Hawa Mahal. A few hundred metres west is the 11 Tripolia Gate. This is the main entrance to the 12 Jantar Mantar and 13 City Palace, but only the maharaja's family may enter here. The public entrance is via the less ostentatious Atishpol (Stable Gate), a little further along.

After visiting the City Palace complex, head back to Tripolia Bazaar and resume your walk west past 14 Iswari Minar Swarga Sal, which is well worth the climb for the view. Cross the bazaar at the minaret and head west. The next lane on the left is 15 Maniharon Rasta, the best place to buy colourful lac (resin) bangles.

Back on Tripolia Bazaar, continue west to cross Choti Chaupar to Chandpol Bazaar until you reach a traffic light. Turn left into 16 Khajane Walon ka Rasta, where you'll find marble and stoneware carvers at work. Continue south until you reach a broad road just inside the city wall, 17 Indra Bazaar. Follow the road east towards 18 Ajmer Gate, which marks the end of the tour.

Sleeping

Jaipur accommodation pretty much covers all bases, and travellers are spoiled for choice in all budget categories. From May to September, most midrange and top-end hotels offer bargain rates, dropping prices by 25% to 50%.

Around MI Road

★ Hotel Pearl Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 0141-2373700, 9414236323; www.hotelpearlpalace.com; Hari Kishan Somani Marg, Hathroi Fort; dm ₹400, r with AC ₹1310-1910;   )

The dependable Pearl Palace continues to surprise. Ongoing renovations means many excellent rooms simply defy their ordinary tariffs. There's quite a range of rooms to choose from – small, large, some with AC or fan cooling, and all are spotless. Services include money changing, city tours and travel arrangements, and the hotel boasts the excellent Peacock Rooftop Restaurant. Advance booking is recommended.

Karni Niwas

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2365433, 9929777488; www.hotelkarniniwas.com; C5 Motilal At: Marg; r ₹1000, with AC ₹1500; 📶 @ 📶)

This friendly hotel has clean, cool and comfortable rooms, often with balconies. There's no restaurant, but there are relaxing plant-decked terraces to enjoy room service on. And being so central, restaurants aren't far away. The owner shuns commissions for rickshaw drivers; free pick-up from the train or bus station is available.

Roadhouse Hostel Jaipur

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9945522299; www.roadhousehostels.com; D-76 Shiv Heera Path; dm/s/d ₹300/1000/1200; 📶 @ 📶)

This bright and friendly hostel is in a quiet residential part of town, but it's not too far from all the restaurants on MI Rd. Six- and eight-bed dorms are spotless and air-conditioned and there are a couple of private rooms. There is a free-use kitchen and games room, and management will help with transport tickets.

There's a handy rickshaw stand at the end of the road.

Tony Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9928871717; www.facebook.com/tonyguesthousejaipur; 11 Station Road; dm/s/d ₹180/280/340, r with bathroom ₹600; 🚶 @ 📶)

This friendly choice on a busy road is well set up for travellers and backpackers on a tight budget, with a rooftop garden, honest travel advice, internet and free-flowing chai. Rooms are extremely basic, some with plywood partition walls, and only one has a private bathroom, although it's with a cold-water shower. The common shower is hot.

★ Atithi Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2378679; www.atithijaipur.com; 1 Park House Scheme Rd; s/d ₹1200/1310, with AC ₹1530/1750; 📶 @ 📶)

This nicely presented modern guesthouse, well situated between MI and Station Rds, offers strikingly clean, simple rooms dotted around a quiet courtyard. It's central but peaceful, and the service is friendly and helpful. Meals are available (the thali is particularly recommended) and you can have a drink on the very pleasant rooftop terrace.

Pearl Palace Heritage

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-4106599, 9772558855; www.pearlpalaceheritage.com; Lane 2, 5-Gopal Bari; r ₹3260-3815; 📶 📶)

The second hotel for the successful Pearl Palace team is a midrange property boasting some very special characteristics. Stone carvings adorn the halls and each spacious room vibrantly recreates an individual cultural theme, such as a village hut, a sandstone fort, or a mirror-lined palace boudoir. Modern luxuries and facilities have been carefully integrated into the appealing traditional designs.

Dera Rawatsar

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2200770; www.derarawatsar.com; D194 Vijay Path; r incl breakfast ₹4500-5500, ste ₹8000; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Situated in a quiet suburban street and yet close to the bus station, this tranquil hotel is managed by three generations of women of a gracious Bikaner noble family. The hotel has a range of lovely decorated rooms, sunny courtyards, and offers home-style Indian meals. It is an excellent choice for young families and solo female travellers.

All Seasons Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2369443, 9460387055; www.allseasonshomestayjaipur.com; 63 Hathroi Fort; s/d from ₹1600/1700, deluxe ₹2000; 📶 📶)

Ranjana and her husband Dinesh run this welcoming homestay in their lovely bungalow on a quiet backstreet behind Hathroi Fort. There are 10 pristine guest rooms, two of which have small kitchens for longer stays. There's a pleasant lawn, home-cooked meals and cooking lessons. Advance booking is recommended.

Nana-ki-Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2615502; www.nanakihaveli.com; Fateh Tiba; r ₹1800-3000; 🌳 @ 📶)

Tucked-away off Moti Dungri Marg is this tranquil place with attractive, comfortable rooms decorated with traditional flourishes (discreet wall painting, wooden furniture). It's hosted by a lovely family and is a good choice for solo female travellers. It's fronted by a relaxing lawn and offers home-style cooking and discounted rooms in summer.

Hotel Arya Niwas

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4073456; www.aryaniwas.com; Sansar Chandra Marg; s ₹1635-2725, d ₹2350-3110; 🌳 @ 📶)

Just off Sansar Chandra Marg, behind a high-rise tower, this very popular travellers' haunt has a travel desk, bookshop and yoga lessons. For a hotel of 92 rooms it is very well run, though its size means it's not as personal as smaller guesthouses. The spotless rooms vary in layout and size so check out a few.

Outside, there's an extensive terrace facing a soothing expanse of lawn. The self-service vegetarian restaurant doesn't sell beer, but you can bring your own.

Alsisar Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2368290; www.alsisar.com; Sansar Chandra Marg; s/d from ₹7605/10,530; 🌳 @ 📶 🛁)

This genuine heritage hotel housed in a gracious 19th-century mansion is set in beautiful green gardens, and boasts a lovely swimming pool and grand dining room. Its bedrooms don't disappoint either, with elegant Rajput arches and antique furnishings. Though a little impersonal, perhaps because it hosts many tour groups, occasional discounts can be found by booking directly online.

Hotel Diggi Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2373091; www.hoteldiggipalace.com; off Sawai Ram Singh Rd; s/ incl breakfast from ₹4000/5000; ❄️ @)

About 1km south of Ajmer Gate, this former residence of the thakur (nobleman) of Diggi is surrounded by vast shaded lawns. Once a budget hotel, the more expensive rooms are substantially better than the cheaper options. Management prides itself on using organic produce from the hotel's own gardens and farms in the restaurant.

Bani Park

The Bani Park area is relatively peaceful, away from the main roads, about 2km west of the Old City (northwest of MI Rd).

Vinayak Guest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2205260; vinayakguesthouse@yahoo.co.in; 4 Kabir Marg, Bani Park; r ₹500-1100; ❄️ 📶)

This welcoming guesthouse is actually in a small, quiet street behind busy Kabir Marg, very convenient to the train station. There is a variety of different rooms and tariffs; those with air-con also have great renovated bathrooms and are your best option. The vegetarian restaurant on the rooftop gets good reports.

★ Madhuban

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2200033; www.madhuban.net; D237 Behari Marg; s/d/ste from ₹2290/2615/3865; ❄️ @ 📶 🛁)

Madhuban has bright, antique-furnished, spotlessly clean rooms, plus a private enclosed garden for alfresco meals. The vibrantly frescoed restaurant serves Rajasthani specialities in addition to Continental and North Indian dishes, and sits beside the courtyard plunge pool. The relatively peaceful locale of Bani Park makes this place a comfortable stay. Bus and train station pick-up available.

Hotel Anuraag Villa

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2201679; www.anuraagvilla.com; D249 Devi Marg; s/d ₹1080/1310, with AC from ₹1800/1970; 🌿 @ 📶)

This quiet and comfortable option has no-fuss, spacious rooms and an extensive lawn where you can find some quiet respite from the hassles of sightseeing. It has a highly commended vegetarian restaurant with its kitchen on view, and efficient, helpful staff.

Jaipur Inn

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9829013660, 0141-2201121; www.jaipurinn.com; B17 Shiv Marg, Bani Park; r from ₹1500-2000; 🌿 @ 📶)

Once a budget travellers' favourite, this is now a midrange hotel offering an assortment of eclectic and individual rooms. Inspect a few before settling in. Plus points include the helpful manager and several common areas where travellers can make a coffee, use the wi-fi, or grab a meal. Yoga and Bollywood dance lessons can be had on the rooftop.

Hotel Meghniwas

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-4060100; www.meghniwas.com; C9 Sawai Jai Singh Hwy; r/ste ₹5760/8220; 🌿 @ 📶 🚰)

In a building erected by Brigadier Singh in 1950 and run by his gracious descendants, this very welcoming hotel has comfortable and spotless rooms, with traditional carved-wood furniture and leafy outlooks. The standard rooms are spacious, and although it's on a major road it is set well back behind a leafy garden. There's a first-rate restaurant and an inviting pool.

Jas Vilas

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2204638; www.jasvilas.com; C9 Sawai Jai Singh Hwy; s/d incl breakfast from ₹6250/6960; 🌿 @ 📶 🚰)

This small but impressive hotel was built in 1950 and is still run by the same charming family. It offers spacious rooms, most of which face the large sparkling pool set in a romantic courtyard. Three garden-facing rooms are wheelchair accessible. In addition to the relaxing courtyard and garden, there is a cosy dining room and helpful management.

Shahpura House

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2203069; www.shahpura.com; D257 Devi Marg; s/d/ste from ₹7140/8330/9520; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Elaborately built and decorated in traditional style, this heritage hotel offers immaculate rooms, some with balconies, featuring murals, coloured-glass lamps, flat-screen TVs, and even ceilings covered in small mirrors (in the suites). This rambling palace boasts a durbar hall (royal reception hall) with a huge chandelier, and a cosy cocktail bar.

There's also an inviting swimming pool and an elegant rooftop terrace restaurant that stages cultural shows.

Old City

Hotel Sweet Dream

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2314409; www.hotelsweetdreamjaipur.in; Nehru Bazaar; s/d ₹900/1150, with AC from ₹1600/1850; 📶 📶)

Probably the best option right inside the Old City, and one of Jaipur's better budget hotels. Several of the rooms have been renovated and enlarged (reducing the overall room count). There are increasing amenities the higher up the price scale (and rickety elevator) you go. There's a bar plus an excellent rooftop terrace restaurant.

Hotel Bissau Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2304391; www.bissaupalace.com; outside Chandpol; r ₹3270-6540; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

This is a worthy choice if you want to stay in a palace on a budget. It's actually just outside the city walls, less than 10 minutes' walk from Chandpol

(a gateway to the Old City). There's a swimming pool, a handsome wood-panelled library and three restaurants. The hotel has oodles of heritage atmosphere, with antique furnishings and mementos.

Rambagh Environs

Rambagh Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2385700; www.tajhotels.com; Bhawani Singh Marg; r from ₹43,560; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

This splendid palace was once the Jaipur pad of Maharaja Man Singh II and his glamorous wife Gayatri Devi. Veiled in hectares of manicured gardens, the hotel – run by the luxury Taj Group brand – has fantastic views across the immaculate lawns. More expensive rooms are naturally the most sumptuous.

Nonguests can join in the magnificence by dining in the lavish restaurants or drinking tea on the gracious verandah. At least treat yourself to a drink at the spiffing Polo Bar.

Narain Niwas Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2561291; www.hotelnarainniwas.com; Narain Singh Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹8425/10,530, deluxe d ₹13,455; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

In Kanota Bagh, just south of the city, this genuine heritage hotel has wonderful ramshackle splendour. There's a lavish dining room with liveried staff, an old-fashioned verandah on which to drink tea, and antiques galore. The standard rooms are in a garden wing and aren't as spacious as the high-ceilinged deluxe rooms, which vary in atmosphere and amenities.

Out back you'll find a large secluded pool (nonguests ₹300 for two hours between 8am and 4pm), a heavenly spa, and sprawling gardens complete with peacocks.

Around MI Rd

Indian Coffee House

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MI Rd; coffee ₹20-40, snacks ₹35-60; 🕒 6am-9pm)

Set back from the street, down an easily missed alley, this traditional coffee house (a venerable co-op-owned institution) offers a pleasant cup of filtered coffee in very relaxed surroundings. Aficionados of Indian Coffee Houses will not be disappointed by the fan-cooled, pale-green ambience. Inexpensive *pakor*as (deep-fried battered vegetables) and dosas grace the menu.

Jai Mahal

ICE CREAM $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MI Rd; cups & cones ₹30-120; 🕒 10am-11pm)

This great little ice-cream parlour has been going since 1952. There are around 50 flavours to choose from, but if it's hot outside, it's hard to beat mango. There are also plenty of other ice-cream concoctions, including sundaes and banana splits, many with fanciful names.

Old Takeaway the Kebab Shop

KEBAB $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 151 MI Rd; kebabs ₹90-180; 🕒 6-11pm)

One of several similarly named roadside kebab shops on this stretch of MI Road, this one (next to the mosque) is the original (so we're told) and the best (we agree). It knocks up outstanding tandoori kebabs, including paneer sheesh, mutton sheesh and tandoori chicken. Like the sign says: a house of delicious nonveg corner.

Rawat Kachori

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Station Rd; kachori ₹30, lassi ₹50, sweets per kg ₹350-850; 🕒 6am-10pm)

Head to this popular takeaway with an attached restaurant for delicious Indian sweets and famous kachori (potato masala in a fried pastry case), a scrumptious savoury snack. A salty or sweet lassi or a delicious milk crown (fluffy dough with cream) should fill you up for the afternoon.

★ Peacock Rooftop Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2373700; Hotel Pearl Palace, Hari Kishan Somani Marg; mains ₹175-340; 🕒 7am-11pm)

This multilevel rooftop restaurant at the Hotel Pearl Palace gets rave reviews for its excellent yet inexpensive cuisine (Indian, Chinese and Continental) and fun ambience. The attentive service, whimsical furnishings and romantic view towards Hathroi Fort make it a first-rate restaurant. In addition to the dinner menu, there are healthy breakfasts and great-value burgers, pizzas and thalis for lunch.

It's wise to make a booking for dinner.

Four Seasons

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2375450; D43A Subhash Marg; mains ₹125-295; 🕒 11am-3.30p & 6.30-11pm; ❄️ 🍷)

Four Seasons is one of Jaipur's best vegetarian restaurants. It's a popular place with dining on two levels and a glass wall to the busy kitchens. There's a great range of dishes on offer, including tasty Rajasthani specialities, South Indian dosas, Chinese fare, and a selection of thalis and pizzas. No alcohol.

Anokhi Café

INTERNATIONAL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4007245; 2nd fl, KK Square, C-11 Prithviraj Marg; mains ₹250-350; 🕒 10am-7.30pm; 📶 🍷)

This relaxing cafe with a fashionable organic vibe is the perfect place to come if you're craving a crunchy, well-dressed salad, a quiche or a thickly filled sandwich – or just a respite from the hustle with a latte or an iced tea. The delicious organic loaves of bread are made to order and can be purchased separately.

Handi Restaurant

NORTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MI Rd; mains ₹220-440; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 6-11pm)

Handi has been satisfying customers since 1967, with scrumptious tandoori and barbecue dishes and rich Mughlai curries. In the evenings it sets up a smoky kebab stall at the entrance to the restaurant. Good vegetarian items are also available. No beer.

It's opposite the main post office, tucked at the back of the Maya Mansions.

Surya Mahal

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0141-2362811; MI Rd; mains ₹130-310, thalis ₹240-350; 🕒 8am-11pm; ❄️ 🍷)

This popular option near Panch Batti specialises in South Indian vegetarian food; try the delicious masala dosa and the tasty dhal makhani (black lentils and red kidney beans). There are also Chinese and Italian dishes, and good ice creams, sundaes and cool drinks.

Natraj

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0141-2375804; MI Rd; mains ₹150-250, thalis ₹250-520; 🕒 9am-11pm; ❄️ 🍷)

Not far from Panch Batti is this classy vegetarian place, which has an extensive menu featuring North Indian, Continental and Chinese cuisine. Diners are blown away by the potato-encased 'vegetable bomb' curry. There's a good selection of thalis and South Indian food – the paper masala dosa is delicious – as well as a great array of Indian sweets.

Dāsaprakash

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0141-2371313; 5 Kamal Mansions, MI Rd; mains ₹115-240, thalis ₹310-345; 🕒 9am-10.30pm; ❄️ 🍷)

Part of a renowned chain established in 1921, Dāsaprakash specialises in vegetarian South Indian cuisine, including thalis and several versions of dosa and idli (spongy, round, fermented rice cake). Afterwards you can choose from a wonderful selection of cold drinks and over-the-top ice-cream sundaes.

★ Niro's

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2374493; MI Rd; mains ₹250-500; 🕒 10am-11pm; ❄️)

Established in 1949, Niro's is a long-standing favourite on MI Rd that, like a good wine, only improves with age. Escape the chaos of the street by ducking into its cool, clean, mirror-ceilinged sanctum to savour veg and nonveg Indian cuisine with professional service. Classic Chinese and Continental food are available, but the Indian menu is definitely the pick.

Even locals rave about the butter chicken and rogan josh. Beer and wine are served.

Copper Chimney

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2372275; Maya Mansions, MI Rd; mains ₹300-475, thali veg/nonveg ₹490/575; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 6.30-11pm; ❄️)

Copper Chimney is casual, verging on elegant, and is definitely welcoming, with the requisite waiter army and a fridge of cold beer. It offers excellent veg and nonveg Indian cuisine (with generous servings), including aromatic Rajasthani specials. Continental and Chinese food is also on offer, as is a small selection of Indian wine, but the curry-and-beer combos are hard to beat.

Little Italy

ITALIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4022444; 3rd fl, KK Square, Prithviraj Marg; mains ₹300-500; 🕒 noon-10pm; ❄️)

The best Italian restaurant in Jaipur, Little Italy is part of a small national chain that offers excellent vegetarian pasta, risotto, and wood-fired pizzas in cool, contemporary surroundings. The menu is extensive and includes some Mexican items, plus first-rate Italian desserts. It's licensed and there's an attached sister concern, Little India, with an Indian and Chinese menu.

Jaipur Modern Kitchen

MEDITERRANEAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4113000; www.jaipurmodern.com; 51 Sardar Patel Marg, C-Scheme; mains ₹300-550; 🕒 11am-11pm; ❄️ 🍷 🌿)

In addition to the homewares and fashion, Jaipur Modern boasts this super Mediterranean cafe showcasing organic ingredients and supporting local sustainable agriculture. The tasty pizzas, pasta, momos and wraps are all made in-house. There's even a special emphasis on locally grown quinoa; the Q menu features soups, appetisers, mains and desserts, all containing the versatile seed.

Old City

Ganesh Restaurant

NORTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Nehru Bazaar; mains ₹100-160; 🕒 9am-11.30pm; 🍷)

This pocket-sized outdoor restaurant is in a fantastic location on the top of the Old City wall near New Gate. The chef is in a pit on one side of the wall, so you can check out your pure vegetarian food being cooked. If you're looking for a local eatery with fresh tasty food such as paneer butter masala, you'll love it.

There's an easy-to-miss signpost, but no doubt a stallholder will show you the narrow stairway.

Mohan

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 144-5 Nehru Bazaar; mains ₹25-150, thali ₹80; 🕒 9am-10.30pm; 🍷)

Tiny Mohan is easy to miss: it's a few steps down from the footpath on the corner of the street. It's basic, cheap and a bit grubby, but the thalis, curries (half-plate and full plate) and snacks are freshly cooked and very popular.

LMB

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2560845; Johari Bazaar; mains ₹210-320; 🕒 8am-11pm; ❄️ 🍷)

Laxmi Misthan Bhandar, LMB to you and me, is a vegetarian restaurant in the Old City that's been going strong since 1954. A welcoming air-conditioned refuge from frenzied Johari Bazaar, LMB is also an institution with its singular decor, attentive waiters and extensive sweet counter. Now it is no longer purely sattvik (pure vegetarian), you can now order meals with onion and garlic.

Popular with both local and international tourists, try the Rajasthan thali (₹540) followed by the signature kulfa (₹100, a fusion of kulfi and falooda with dry fruits and saffron).

Hotel Sweet Dream

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2314409; www.hotelsweetdreamjaipur.in; Nehru Bazaar; mains ₹130-285; 🍷)

This hotel in the Old City has a splendid restaurant on the roof with views down to bustling Nehru Bazaar. It's a great place to break the shopping spree and grab a light lunch or a refreshing makhania lassi (₹140) made with fresh fruits and curd. The menu includes pizza and Chinese, but the Indian is best.

Drinking & Nightlife

★ Lassiwala

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MI Rd; lassi small/large ₹25/50; 🕒 7.30am until sold out)

This famous, much-imitated institution is a simple place that whips up fabulous, creamy lassis in clay cups. Get here early to avoid disappointment! Will the real Lassiwala please stand up? It's the one that says 'Shop 312' and 'Since 1944', directly next to the alleyway. Imitators spread to the right as you face it.

★ Curious Life

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2229877; www.facebook.com/curiouslifecoffeeoasters; P25 Yudhisthira Marg, C-Scheme; coffees from ₹75; 🕒 9am-10pm; 📶)

The latest coffee trends brew away in this showcase of Indian hipster-hood. Single-origin, espresso, French press, AeroPress, V60 pour over – you name it, and you'll find it brewing here among the predominantly 20-something crowd. There are also cold brews, smoothies, shakes and muffins, all underscored by a curiously retro soundtrack.

★ Bar Palladio

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-2565556; www.bar-palladio.com; Narain Niwas Palace Hotel, Narain Singh Rd; cocktails ₹500-700; 🕒 6-11pm)

This cool bar-restaurant boasts an extensive drinks list and an Italian food menu (mains ₹350 to ₹400). The vivid blue theme of the romantic Orientalist interior flows through to candlelit outdoor seating, making this a very relaxing place to sip a drink, snack on bruschetta and enjoy a conversation. Il Teatro is an occasional live-music event at the bar – see the website for dates.

100% Rock

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Shikha, Yudhishtir Marg, C-Scheme; pint of beer/cocktails from ₹190/300; 🕒 11am-12.30am; 📶)

Attached to, but separate from Hotel Shikha, this is the closest thing there is to a beer garden in Jaipur, with plenty of outdoor seating as well as air-conditioned side rooms and a clubby main room with a small dance floor. Two-for-one beer offers are common, making this popular with local youngsters.

Polo Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Rambagh Palace Hotel, Bhawan Singh Marg; 🕒 noon-midnight)

This spiffing watering hole adorned with polo memorabilia boasts arched, scalloped windows framing the neatly clipped lawns. A bottle of beer costs from ₹400 according to the label, a glass of wine starts at ₹550, and cocktails cost from ₹600. Delicious snacks are also available throughout the day.

Café Coffee Day

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Country Inn & Suites, MI Rd; coffees ₹80-150; 🕒 10am-10pm)

The franchise that successfully delivers espresso to coffee addicts, as well as the occasional creamy concoction and muffin, has several branches in Jaipur. In addition to this one, sniff out the brews at Paris Point on Sawai Jai Singh Hwy (aka Collectorate Rd), at the central museum, and near the exit point at Amber Fort.

Entertainment

Jaipur isn't a big late-night party town, though many of its hotels put on some sort of evening music, dance or puppet show. English-language films are occasionally screened at some cinemas – check the cinemas and local press for details.

Raj Mandir Cinema

CINEMA

( ;  0141-2379372; www.therajmandir.com; Baghwandas Marg; tickets ₹12400;  reservations 10am-6pm, screenings 12.30pm, 3pm, 6.30pm & 10pm)

Just off MI Rd, Raj Mandir is the place to go to see a Hindi film in India. This opulent cinema looks like a huge pink cream cake, with a meringue auditorium and a foyer somewhere between a temple and Disneyland. Bookings can be made one hour to seven days in advance at windows 9 and 10.

Advance booking is your best chance of securing a seat, but forget it in the early days of a new release. Alternatively, sharpen your elbows and join the queue when the current booking office opens 45 minutes before curtain up. Avoid the cheapest tickets, which seat you very close to the screen.

Chokhi Dhani

LIVE PERFORMANCE

(;  0141-5165000; www.chokhidhani.com; Tonk Rd; adult/child incl Rajasthani thali from ₹600/350;  6-11pm)

Chokhi Dhani, meaning 'special village', is a mock Rajasthani village 20km south of Jaipur, and is a fun place to take kids. There are open-air restaurants, where you can enjoy a tasty Rajasthani thali, plus a bevy of traditional entertainment – dancers, acrobats, snack stalls – and adventure-park-like activities for kids to swing on, slide down and hide in.

There are more expensive tickets depending on which dining experience you opt for. A return taxi from Jaipur, including waiting time, will cost about ₹800.

Polo Ground

SPECTATOR SPORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 ticket info 0141-2385380; Ambedkar Circle, Bhawan Singh Marg)

Maharaja Man Singh II indulged his passion for polo by building an enormous polo ground next to Rambagh Palace, which is still a polo-match hub today. A ticket to a match also gets you into the lounge, which is adorned with historic photos and memorabilia. The polo season extends over winter. Contact the Rajasthan Polo Club for info about tickets.

Shopping

Jaipur is a shopper's paradise. Commercial buyers come here from all over the world to stock up on the amazing range of jewellery, gems, textiles and crafts that come from all over Rajasthan. You'll have to bargain hard, particularly around major tourist sights.

Many shops can send your parcels home for you – often cheaper than if you do it yourself.

The city is still loosely divided into traditional artisans' quarters. Bapu Bazaar is lined with saris and fabrics, and is a good place to buy trinkets. Johari Bazaar and Sireh Deori Bazaar are where many jewellery shops are concentrated, selling gold, silver and highly glazed enamelwork known as meenakari, a Jaipur speciality. You may also find better deals for fabrics with the cotton merchants of Johari Bazaar.

Kishanpol Bazaar is famous for textiles, particularly bandhani (tie-dye). Nehru Bazaar also sells fabric, as well as jootis (traditional shoes), trinkets and perfume. The best place for bangles is Maniharon Rasta.

Plenty of factories and showrooms are strung along the length of the road to Amber, between Zorawar Singh Gate and the Park Regis Hotel, to catch the tourist traffic. Here you'll find huge emporiums selling block prints, blue pottery, carpets and antiques. Note that these shops are used to busloads of tourists swinging in to blow their cash, so you'll need to wear your bargaining hat.

Rickshaw-wallahs, hotels and travel agents will be getting a hefty cut from any shop they steer you towards. Many unwary visitors get talked into buying things for resale at inflated prices, especially gems. Beware of these get-rich-quick scams.

Jaipur Modern

FASHION & ACCESSORIES

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4112000; www.jaipurmodern.com; 51 Sardar Patel Marg, C-Scheme; 🕒 11am-11pm)

This contemporary showroom offers local arts and crafts, clothing, homewares, stationary and fashion accessories. The staff are relaxed (no hard sell here) and if you are not in the mood to shop, there's a great cafe serving Lavazza coffee and Mediterranean snacks.

Inde Rooh

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9829404055, 9929442022; www.inderooh.com; Hotel Pearl Palace, H. Kishan Somani Marg; 🕒 10.30am-10.30pm)

This tiny outlet in the Hotel Pearl Palace highlights the talents of Jaipur's traditional block printers blended with contemporary design. Handmade and stitched, the quality and value of the women's and menswear compares well with Jaipur's more famous fashion houses. Homewares are also available.

Rajasthali

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MI Rd; 🕒 11am-7.30pm Mon-Sat)

This state-government-run emporium, opposite Ajmer Gate, is packed with quality Rajasthani artefacts and crafts, including enamelwork, embroidery, pottery, woodwork, jewellery, puppets, block-printed sheets, miniatures, brassware, mirrorwork and more. Scout out prices here before launching into the bazaar; items can be cheaper at the markets, but the quality is often higher at the state emporium for not much more money.

Anokhi

CLOTHING, TEXTILES

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.anokhi.com; 2nd fl, KK Square, C-11 Prithviraj Marg; 🕒 9.30am-8pm Mon-Sat, 11am-7pm Sun)

Anokhi is a classy, upmarket boutique selling stunning high-quality textiles such as block-printed fabrics, tablecloths, bed covers, cosmetic bags and scarves, as well as a range of well-designed, beautifully made clothing that combines Indian and Western influences. There's a wonderful little cafe on the premises and an excellent bookshop in the same building.

Fabindia

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0141-4015279; www.fabindia.com; B 4 E- Prithviraj Road; 🕒 11am-9pm)

A great place to coordinate colours with reams of rich fabrics, plus furniture and home accessories. You can also find organically certified garments, beauty products and condiments. Located opposite Central Park, gate number 4.

Silver Shop

JEWELLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Pearl Palace, Hari Kishan Somani Marg; 🕒 6-10pm)

A trusted jewellery shop backed by the hotel management that hosts the store. A money-back guarantee is offered on all items. Find it under the peacock canopy in the hotel's Peacock Rooftop Restaurant.

Crossword

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 1st fl, KK Square, Prithviraj Marg; 🕒 11am-9pm)

Crossword is an excellent bookshop with all sorts of fiction and nonfiction, including the latest best sellers, pictorial books and books on Indian history. Music CDs and DVDs are also available. There is a cafe and restaurant in the same building.

Mojari

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0141-2377037; D-67 Shiv Heera Marg; 🕒 10am-6.30pm)

Named after the traditional decorated shoes of Rajasthan, Mojari is a UN-supported project that helps rural leatherworkers, traditionally among the poorest members of society. A wide variety of footwear (₹300 to ₹1000) is available, including embroidered, appliquéd and open-toed shoes, mules and sandals. There's a particularly good choice for women, plus a small selection of handmade leather bags and purses.

SHOPPING FOR GEMS

Jaipur is famous for precious and semiprecious stones. There are many shops offering bargain prices, but you do need to know your gems. The main gem-dealing area is around the Muslim area of Pahar Ganj, in the southeast of the Old City. Here you can see stones being cut and polished in workshops tucked off narrow backstreets.

One of the oldest scams in India is the gem scam, where tourists are fooled into thinking they can buy gems to sell at a profit elsewhere. To receive an authenticity certificate, you can deposit your gems at the gem-testing laboratory (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0141-2568221; www.gtljaipur.info; Rajasthan Chamber Bhawan, MI Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat) between 10am and 4pm, then return the following day between 4pm and 5pm to pick up the certificate. The service costs ₹1050 per stone, or ₹1650 for same-day service, if deposited before 1pm.

Information

INTERNET ACCESS

Internet cafes are thin on the ground, but almost all hotels and guesthouses provide wi-fi and/or internet access.

Mewar Cyber Café (GOOGLE MAP ; Station Rd; per hour ₹30; 🕒 7am-11pm) Near the main bus station.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Most hotels can arrange a doctor on-site.

Santokba Durlabhji Memorial Hospital (SDMH; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2566251; www.sdmh.in; Bhawan Singh Marg) Private hospital, with 24-hour emergency department, helpful staff and clear bilingual signage. Consultancy fee ₹400.

Sawai Mansingh Hospital (SMS Hospital; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2518222, 0141-2518597; Sawai Ram Singh Rd) State-run, but part of Soni Hospitals group (www.sonihospitals.com). Before 3pm, outpatients go to the CT & MRI Centre; after 3pm, go to the adjacent Emergency Department.

MONEY

There are plenty of places to change money, including numerous hotels, and masses of ATMs, most of which accept foreign cards.

Thomas Cook (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2360940; Jaipur Towers, MI Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6pm) Changes cash and travellers cheques.

POST

DHL Express (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2361159; www.dhl.co.in; G8, Geeta Enclave, Vinobha Marg; 🕒 10am-8pm) Look for the sub-branch on MI Rd then walk down the lane beside it to find DHL Express. For parcels, the first kilogram is expensive, but each 500g thereafter is cheap. All packaging is included in the price. Credit cards and cash accepted.

Main Post Office (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-2368740; MI Rd; 🕒 8am-7.45pm Mon-Fri 10am-5.45pm Sat) A cost-effective and efficient institution, though the back-and-forth can infuriate. Parcel-packing-wallahs in the foyer must first pack, stitch and wax seal your parcel for a small fee before sending.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Jaipur Vision and Jaipur City Guide are two useful, inexpensive booklets available at bookshops and some hotel lobbies (where they are free). They feature up-to-date listings, maps, local adverts and features.

RTDC Tourist Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0141-5155137; www.rajasthantourism.gov.in; former RTDC Tourist Hotel, MI Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6pm Mon-Fri) Has maps and brochures on Jaipur and Rajasthan. Additional branches at the airport (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2722647; Airport; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Fri), Amber Fort (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2530264; 🕒 9.30am-5pm Mon-Fri), Jaipur train station (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2200778; Jaipur Train Station, platform 1; 🕒 24hr) and the main bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-5064102; Main Bus Station, platform 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri).

i Getting There & Away

AIR

Jaipur International Airport (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2550623; www.jaipurairport.com) is located 12km southeast of the city.

It's possible to arrange flights to Jaipur from Europe, the US and other places, via Delhi. A few direct flights run to Bangkok and Singapore and the Gulf.

Air India (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2743500, airport 0141-2721333; www.airindia.com; Nehru Place, Tonk Rd) Daily flights to Delhi and Mumbai.

IndiGo (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9212783838; www.goindigo.in; Terminal 2, Jaipur International Airport) Flights to Ahmedabad, Bengaluru (Bangalore), Chennai (Madras), Delhi, Hyderabad, Kolkata (Calcutta), Mumbai and Pune.

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2725025, 1800 225522; www.jetairways.com; Airport; 🕒 5.30am-9pm) Flights to Delhi and Mumbai.

SpiceJet (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9871803333; www.spicejet.com; Terminal 2, Jaipur International Airport; 🕒 6am-7pm) Daily flights to Delhi.

Scoot (📞 8000016354; www.scoot.com) Three weekly flights to Singapore.

Thai Smile (📞 Thailand +662-11888888; www.thaismileair.com) Three weekly flights to Bangkok.

BUS

Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation (RSRTC, aka Rajasthan Roadways) buses all leave from the main bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP Station Rd; left luggage per bag per 24hr ₹10), picking up passengers at Narain Singh

Circle (where you can also buy tickets). There's a left-luggage office at the main bus station, as well as a prepaid autorickshaw stand.

Ordinary buses are known as 'express' buses, but there are also 'deluxe' buses (coaches, really, but still called buses), which vary a lot but are generally much more expensive and comfortable (usually with air-con but not always) than ordinary express buses. Deluxe buses leave from Platform 3, tucked away in the right-hand corner of the bus station. Unlike ordinary express buses, seats can be booked in advance from the reservation office (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0141-5116032; Main Bus Station).

With the exception of those going to Delhi (half-hourly), deluxe buses are much less frequent than ordinary buses.

MAIN BUSES FROM JAIPUR

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	FREQUENCY
Agra	261-289, AC 470-573	5½	11 daily
Ajmer	150, AC 316	2½	at least hourly
Bharatpur	195, AC 410	4½	at least hourly
Bikaner	334, AC 596	5½-7	hourly
Bundi	216	5	5 daily
Chittorgarh	339, AC 585	7	6 daily
Delhi	273, AC 800	5½	at least hourly
Jaisalmer	593	14	2 daily
Jhunjhunu	181, AC 321	3½-5	half-hourly
Jodhpur	340, AC 741	5½-7	every 2 hours
Kota	252	5	hourly
Mt Abu (Abu Road)	486, AC 866	10½-13	6 daily
Nawalgarh	145, AC 258	2½-4	hourly
Pushkar	161	3	daily
Udaipur	420, AC 914	10	6 daily

CAR & MOTORCYCLE

Most hotels and the RTDC tourist office can arrange a car and driver.

Depending on the vehicle, costs are ₹9 to ₹12 per kilometre, with a minimum rental rate equivalent to 250km per day. Also expect to pay a ₹200 overnight charge, and note that you will have to pay for the driver to return to Jaipur even if you are not returning.

Rajasthan Auto Centre You can hire, buy or fix a Royal Enfield Bullet (and lesser motorbikes) at Rajasthan Auto Centre, the cleanest little motorcycle workshop in India. To hire a 350cc Bullet costs ₹600 per day (including helmet) within Jaipur.

TRAIN

The reservation office (MAP GOOGLE MAP;  enquiries 131, reservations 135;  8am-2pm & 3-8pm) is to your left as you enter Jaipur train station. It's open for advance reservations only (more than five hours before departure). Join the queue for 'Freedom Fighters and Foreign Tourists' (counter 769).

For same-day travel, buy your ticket at the northern end of the train station at Platform 1, window 10 (closed 6am to 6.30am, 2pm to 2.30pm and 10pm to 10.30pm).

Station facilities on Platform 1 include an RTDC tourist office, Tourism Assistance Force (police), a cloakroom for left luggage (₹16 per bag per 24 hours), retiring rooms, restaurants and air-con waiting rooms for those with 1st-class and 2AC train tickets.

There's a prepaid autorickshaw stand and local taxis at the road entrance to the train station.

Services include the following:

- ➔ Agra sleeper ₹185, 3½ to 4½ hours, nine daily
- ➔ Ahmedabad sleeper ₹350, nine to 13 hours, seven daily (12.30am, 2.20am, 4.25am, 8.40am, 11.45am, 2.20pm and 8.35pm)
- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) sleeper ₹90, two hours, 21 daily
- ➔ Bikaner sleeper ₹275, 6½ to 7½ hours, three daily (12.45am, 4.15pm, 9.45pm)
- ➔ Delhi sleeper ₹245, 4½ to six hours, at least nine daily (1am, 2.50am,

4.40am, 5am, 6am, 2.35pm, 4.25pm, 5.50pm and 11.15pm), more on selected days

➔ Jaisalmer sleeper ₹350, 12 hours, three daily (11.10am, 4.15pm and 11.45pm)

➔ Jodhpur sleeper ₹250, 4½ to six hours, 10 daily (12.45am, 2.45am, 6am, 9.25am, 11.10am, 11.25am, 12.20pm, 5pm, 10.40pm and 11.45pm)

➔ Ranthambhore NP (Sawai Madhopur) sleeper ₹180, two to three hours, at least nine daily (12.30am, 5.40am, 6.40am, 11.05am, 2pm, 4.50pm, 5.35pm, 7.35pm and 8.45pm), more on selected days

➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹270, seven to eight hours, three daily (6.15am, 2pm and 11pm)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM JAIPUR

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE TIME	ARRIVAL TIME	FARE (₹)
Agra (Cantonment)	19666 Udaipur-Kurj Exp	6.15am	11am	185/510 (A)
Agra (Fort)	12035 Jaipur-AF Shatabdi	7.05am	10.35am	505/1050 (D)
Ahmedabad	12958 Adi Sj Rajdhani	12.30am	9.40am	1130/1580 (B)
Ajmer (for Pushkar)	12195 Ajmer-AF Intercity	9.40am	11.50am	100/325 (C)
Bikaner	12307 Howrah-Jodhpur Exp	12.45am	8.15am	275/705 (A)
Delhi (New Delhi)	12016 Ajmer Shatabdi	5.50pm	10.40pm	570/1205 (D)
Delhi (S Rohilla)	12985 Dee Double Decker	6am	10.30am	505/1205 (D)
Jaisalmer	14659 Delhi-JSM Exp	11.45pm	11.40am	350/935 (A)
Jodhpur	22478 Jaipur-Jodhpur SF Exp	6am	10.30am	515/625 (E)
Sawai Madhopur	12466 Intercity Exp	11.05am	1.15pm	180/325/560 (F)

Udaipur	19665 Jaipur–Udaipur Exp	11pm	6.45am	270/715 (A)
---------	-----------------------------	------	--------	-------------

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC, (B) 3AC/2AC, (C) 2nd-class seat/AC chair, (D) AC chair/1AC, (E) AC chair/3AC, (F) sleeper/AC chair/3AC

Getting Around

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

There are no bus services from the airport. An autorickshaw/taxi costs at least ₹350/450. There's a prepaid taxi booth inside the terminal.

AUTORICKSHAW

Autorickshaw drivers at the bus and train stations might just be the pushiest in Rajasthan. Use the fixed-rate prepaid autorickshaw stands instead. Keep hold of your docket to give to the driver at the end of the journey. In other cases be prepared to bargain hard – expect to pay at least ₹80 from either station to the Old City.

CYCLE-RICKSHAW

You can do your bit for the environment by flagging down a lean-limbed cycle-rickshaw rider. Though it can be uncomfortable watching someone pedalling hard to transport you, this is how they make a living. A short trip costs about ₹50.

PUBLIC TRANSPORT

Jaipur Metro ( 0141-2385790; www.jaipurmetrorail.info) currently operates about 10km of track, known as the Pink Line, and nine stations. The track starts southwest of the Pink City in Mansarovar, travels through Civil Lines, and currently terminates at Chandpole. At the time of writing, the continuation of this track through the Pink City from Chandpole to Badi Chaupar was under construction. Fares are between ₹5 and ₹15.

TAXI

There are unmetered taxis available, which will require negotiating a fare.

Metro Cabs ( 0414-4244444; www.metrocabs.in; flagfall incl 2km ₹50, then per km ₹10-12, plus per min ₹1, night surcharge 10pm-6am 25%; 🕒 24hr) Taxis can hired for sightseeing for four-/eight-hour blocks for ₹700/1350.

Around Jaipur

Amber

The magnificent, formidable, honey-hued fort of Amber (pronounced 'amer'), an ethereal example of Rajput architecture, rises from a rocky mountainside about 11km northeast of Jaipur, and is the city's must-see sight.

Amber was the former capital of Jaipur state. It was built by the Kachhwaha Rajputs, who hailed from Gwalior, in present day Madhya Pradesh, where they reigned for over 800 years. The construction of the fort, which was begun in 1592 by Maharaja Man Singh, the Rajput commander of Akbar's army, was financed with war booty. It was later extended and completed by the Jai Singhs before they moved to Jaipur on the plains below.

The town of Amber, below the fort, is also worth visiting, especially the Anokhi Museum of Hand Printing. From the museum you can walk around the ancient town to the restored Panna Meena Baori (step-well) and Jagat Siromani Temple (known locally as the Meera Temple).

Sights

★ Amber Fort

FORT

(GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹100/500, night entry ₹100, guide ₹200, audio guide ₹200-250;

 8am-6pm, last entry 5.30pm, night entry 7-9pm)

This magnificent fort comprises an extensive palace complex, built from pale yellow and pink sandstone, and white marble, and is divided into four main sections, each with its own courtyard. It is possible to visit the fortress on elephant-back, but animal welfare groups have criticised the keeping of elephants at Amber because of reports of abuse, and because carrying passengers can cause lasting injuries to the animals.

As an alternative, you can trudge up to the fort from the road in about 10 minutes, or take a 4WD to the top and back for ₹400 (good for up to five passengers), including a one-hour wait time. For night entry, admission for foreigners drops to the Indian price.

However you arrive, you will enter Amber Fort through the Suraj Pol (Sun Gate), which leads to the Jaleb Chowk (Main Courtyard), where returning armies would display their war booty to the populace – women could view this area from the veiled windows of the palace. The ticket office is directly across the courtyard from the Suraj Pol. If you arrive by car you will enter through the Chand Pol (Moon Gate) on the opposite side of Jaleb Chowk. Hiring a guide or grabbing an audio guide is highly recommended, as there are very few signs and many blind alleys.

From Jaleb Chowk, an imposing stairway leads up to the main palace, but first it's worth taking the steps just to the right, which lead to the small Siladevi Temple, with its gorgeous silver doors featuring repoussé (raised relief) work.

Heading back to the main stairway will take you up to the second courtyard and the Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audience), which has a double row of columns, each topped by a capital in the shape of an elephant, and latticed galleries above.

The maharaja's apartments are located around the third courtyard – you enter through the fabulous Ganesh Pol, decorated with beautiful frescoed arches. The Jai Mandir (Hall of Victory) is noted for its inlaid panels and multimirrored ceiling. Carved marble relief panels around the hall are fascinatingly delicate and quirky, depicting cartoon-like insects and sinuous flowers. Opposite the Jai Mandir is the Sukh Niwas (Hall of Pleasure), with an ivory-inlaid sandalwood door and a channel that once carried cooling water right through the room. From the Jai Mandir you can enjoy fine views from the palace ramparts over picturesque Maota Lake below.

The zenana (secluded women's quarters) surrounds the fourth courtyard. The rooms were designed so that the maharaja could embark on his nocturnal visits to his wives' and concubines' respective chambers without the others knowing, as the chambers are independent but open onto a common corridor.

The Amber Sound & Light Show (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0141-2530844; Kesar Kiyari complex; Indian/foreigner ₹100/200; 🕒English 7.30pm, Hindi 8.30pm) takes place below the fort in the complex near Maota Lake.

Jaigarh

FORT

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹50/100, car ₹50, Hindi/English guide ₹200/300; 🕒9am-5pm)

A scrubby green hill rises above Amber and is topped by the imposing Jaigarh, built in 1726 by Jai Singh. The stern fort, punctuated by whimsical-hatted lookout towers, was never captured and has survived intact through the centuries. It's an uphill walk (about 1km) from Amber and offers great views from the Diwa Burj watchtower. The fort has reservoirs, residential areas, a puppet theatre and the world's largest wheeled cannon, Jaya Vana.

During the Mughal empire, Jaipur produced many weapons for the Mughal and Rajput rulers. The cannon, a most spectacular example, was made in the fort foundry, which was constructed in Mughal times. The huge weapon dates from 1720, has a barrel around 6m long, is made from a mix of eight different metals and weighs 50 tonnes. To fire it requires 100kg of gunpowder, and it has a range of 30km. It's debatable how many times this great device was used.

A sophisticated network of drainage channels feed three large tanks that used to provide water for all the soldiers, residents and livestock living in the fort. The largest tank has a capacity for 22.8 million litres of water. The fort served as the treasury of the Kachhwahas, and for a long time people were convinced that at least part of the royal treasure was still secreted in this large water tank. The Indian government even searched it to check, but found nothing.

Within the fort is an armoury and museum, with the essential deadly weapons collection and some royal knick-knacks, including interesting photographs, maps of Jaigarh, spittoons, and circular 18th-century playing cards. The structure also contains various open halls, including the Shubhat Niwas (Meeting Hall of Warriors), which has some weather-beaten sedan chairs and drums lying about.

Admission is free with a valid ticket from the Jaipur City Palace that is less than two days old.

Anokhi Museum of Hand Printing

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2530226; Anokhi Haveli, Kheri Gate; adult/child ₹80/25; 🕒 10.30am-4.30pm Tue-Sat, 11am-4.30pm Sun, closed May–mid-Jul)

This interesting museum in a restored haveli documents the art of hand-block printing, from old traditions to contemporary design. You can watch masters carve unbelievably intricate wooden printing blocks and even have a go at printing your own scarf or T-shirt. There's a cafe and gift shop, too.

Sleeping

★ Mosaics Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0141-2530031, 8875430000; www.mosaicsguesthouse.com; Siyaram Ki Doongri; s/d incl breakfast ₹3300/3800; 📶 @ 📶)

Get away from it all at this gorgeous arty place (the French owner is a mosaic artist and will show off his workshop) with four lovely rooms and a rooftop terrace with beautiful fort views. Set-price Franco-Indian meals cost ₹800/1000 for veg/nonveg. It's about 1km past the fort near Kunda Village – head for Siyaram Ki Doongri, where you'll find signs.

WORTH A TRIP

ABHANERI

Abhaneri is home to one of Rajasthan's most spectacular step-wells. With around 11 visible levels (depending on groundwater level) of zigzagging steps, the 10th-century Chand Baori (GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk) is an incredible geometric wonder.

Flanking the well is a small crumbling palace, where royals used to picnic and bathe in private rooms (water was brought up by ox-power).

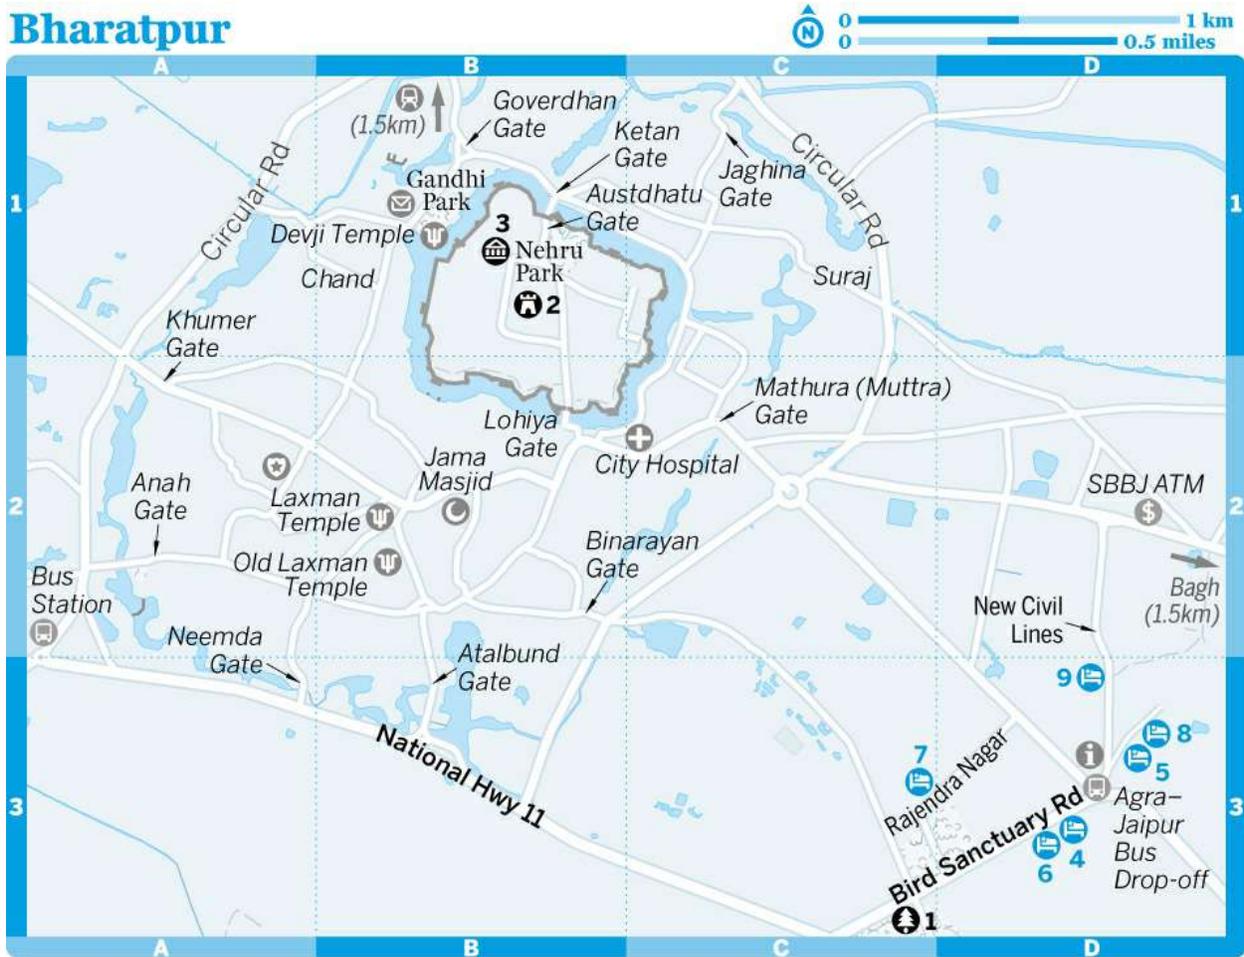

Abhaneri is about 95km from Jaipur and about 10km from National Hwy 21, the main Agra–Jaipur highway. From Jaipur catch a bus to Sikandra (₹70, 1½ hours), from where you can hop in a crowded share taxi (₹10) for the 5km trip to Gular. From Gular catch a share taxi or minibus to Abhaneri (another 5km and ₹10). If you have your own transport, Abhaneri and its step-well is a worthwhile stop between Jaipur and Agra/Bharatpur.

Bharatpur & Keoladeo National Park

📍05644252,350 / POP 252,350

Bharatpur is famous for its wonderful Unesco-listed Keoladeo National Park, a wetland and significant bird sanctuary. Apart from the park, Bharatpur also has a few historic vestiges, though it wouldn't be worth making the journey for these alone. The town is dusty, noisy and not particularly visitor-friendly. Bharatpur hosts the boisterous and colourful Brij Festival just prior to Holi celebrations.

Bharatpur

📍 Top Sights

1 Keoladeo National Park C3

📍 Sights

2 Lohagarh B1

3 Museum B1

🛏 Sleeping

4 Birder's Inn D3

5 Falcon Guest House D3

6 Hotel Sunbird D3

7 Kiran Guest House C3

8 New Spoonbill Guesthouse D3

Flexible category 3

State Bank of India ATM

D3

 Sights*Lohagarh

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP) FREE

The still-inhabited, 18th-century Lohagarh, or Iron Fort, was so named because of its sturdy defences. Despite being somewhat forlorn and derelict, it is still impressive, and sits at the centre of town, surrounded by a moat. There's a northern entrance, at Austdhatu (Eight-Metal) Gate – apparently the spikes on the gate are made of eight different metals – and a southern entrance, at Lohiya Gate.

Maharaja Suraj Mahl, constructor of the fort and founder of Bharatpur, built two towers, the Jawahar Burj and the Fateh Burj, within the ramparts to commemorate his victories over the Mughals and the British. The fort also contains three much decayed palaces within its precincts.

One of the palaces, centred on a tranquil courtyard, houses a museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹20/100, photography prohibited inside museum; 🕒 9.45am-5.15pm Tue-Sun). Upstairs is a ragtag display of royal artefacts, including weaponry. More impressive is the Jain sculpture gallery, which includes some beautiful 7th- to 10th-century pieces. The most spectacular feature of the museum, however, is the palace's original hammam (bathhouse), which retains some fine carvings and frescos.

Keoladeo National Park

This tremendous bird sanctuary and national park (MAP GOOGLE MAP):

Indian/foreigner ₹75/500, video ₹600/900, guide per hour ₹150, bike/mountain-bike/binoculars rental per day ₹25/40/100; 🕒 6am-6pm Apr-Sep, 6.30am-5pm Oct-Mar) has long been recognised as one of the world's most important bird breeding and feeding grounds. In a good monsoon season over one-third of the park can be submerged, hosting more than 360 species within its 29 sq km. The marshland patchwork is a wintering area for aquatic birds, including visitors from Afghanistan, Turkmenistan, China and Siberia. The park is also home to deer, nilgai (antelope) and boar, which can be readily spotted.

Keoladeo originated as a royal hunting reserve in the 1850s. It continued to supply the tables of the maharajas with fresh game until as late as 1965. In 1982 Keoladeo was declared a national park and it was listed as a World Heritage Site in 1985.

By far the best time to visit this park is October to February, when you should see many migratory birds. At other times it can be dry and relatively bird-free.

Visiting the Park

Park admission entitles you to one entrance per day. One narrow road (no motorised vehicles are permitted past checkpoint 2) runs through the park, but a number of tracks and pathways fan out from it and thread their way between the shallow wetlands. Generally speaking, the further away from the main gate you go, the more interesting the scenery, and the more varied the wildlife becomes.

Only the government-authorized cycle-rickshaws (recognisable by the yellow license plate) are allowed beyond checkpoint 2, and they can only travel along the park's larger tracks. You don't pay an admission fee for the drivers, but they charge ₹100 per hour; some are very knowledgeable.

An excellent way to see the park is by hiring a bicycle at the park entrance. Having a bike is a wonderfully quiet way to travel, and allows you to avoid bottlenecks and take in the serenity on your own. However, we recommend that lone female travellers who wish to cycle do so with a guide (who will cycle alongside you), as we've had more than one report of lone women being harassed by young men inside the park in recent years.

You get a small map with your entrance ticket, though the park isn't big, so it's difficult to get lost.

Sleeping

There are plenty of sleeping options, suiting all budgets, near the park on Bird Sanctuary Rd, so don't feel pressured by touts at Bharatpur's train or bus stations.

New Spoonbill Guesthouse

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  05644-223571, 7597412553; www.hotelspoonbill.com; Gori Shankur Colony; s/d ₹700/800, with AC ₹1100/1200;   )

Owned and run by the same family as the original Spoonbill Hotel down the road, this place has simple but smart rooms, each with a small terrace. The larger rooms are great, with lots of windows. The dining room looks onto the garden and delicious home-cooked meals are available.

Royal Guest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9414315457; www.royalguesthousebharatpur.com; B-15 New Civil Line near Saras Circle; r ₹300-900;   )

Rooms at the Royal are all very clean and fresh, and the rooftop restaurant is cosy, making the whole place feel more like a homestay than a guesthouse. Guests can use a kitchen for self-catering, and have free access to the internet. The ultrakeen management, who live on the premises, do money changing and run a sister operation, Royal Farmhouse, 3.5km from here.

Falcon Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  05644-223815; falconguesthouse@hotmail.com; Gori Shankur Colony; s/d from ₹600/800, r with AC ₹1200-1500;  )

The Falcon may well be the pick of a bunch of hotels all in a row and all owned by the same extended family. It's a well-kept, snug place to stay, run by the affable Mrs Rajni Singh. There is a range of comfortable, good-sized rooms at different prices, including a family room. The best rooms have balconies.

Kiran Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05644-223845; www.kiranguesthouse.com; 364 Rajendra Nagar; ₹400-800, with AC ₹1100; ❄️)

Managed by eager-to-please brothers, this guesthouse delivers great value, with seven simple, clean and spacious rooms and a pleasant rooftop where you can eat tasty home cooking. It's on a quiet road not far from Keoladeo park. Nature guiding and free pick-up from the Bharatpur train and bus stations are offered.

★ Hotel Sunbird

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05644-225701; www.hotelsunbird.com; Bird Sanctuary Rd; s/d from ₹2100/2550, ste ₹2950; ❄️ 📶)

This popular, well-run place close to the Keoladeo park entrance may look modest from the road, but out back boasts a lovely garden (with bar) and spacious rooms with balconies. Rooms are clean and comfortable and the restaurant dishes up a good range of tasty veg and nonveg dishes. Packed lunches and guided tours for the park are available.

★ Birder's Inn

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05644-227346; www.birdersinn.com; Bird Sanctuary Rd; r incl breakfa from ₹3500; ❄️ @ 📶 🚿)

The Birder's Inn is a popular, long-standing base for exploring the national park. There is a multicuisine restaurant and a small pool to cool off in. The rooms are airy, spacious and nicely decorated, and are set far back from the road in well-tended gardens. Guides from the hotel are available for Keoladeo.

Information

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 10am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat)

Near Gandhi Park.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 05644-222542; Saras Circle; 🕒 9am-5pm)

On the crossroads about 700m from the national park entrance; has a free map of Bharatpur and Keoladeo National Park.

Getting There & Away

BUS

Buses running between Agra and Jaipur will drop you by the tourist office or outside the Keoladeo park entrance if you ask.

Services from Bharatpur bus station (GOOGLE MAP) include the following:

- ➔ Agra non-AC/AC ₹68/171, 1½ hours, half-hourly around the clock
- ➔ Alwar ₹136, four hours, hourly until 8pm
- ➔ Deeg ₹39, one hour, hourly until 8pm
- ➔ Delhi ₹192, five hours, half-hourly from 6am to 7pm, then hourly until 11pm
- ➔ Fatehpur Sikri ₹28, 45 minutes, half-hourly around the clock
- ➔ Jaipur ₹195, 4½ hours, half-hourly around the clock

TRAIN

The train station (GOOGLE MAP) is about 4km from Keoladeo and the main hotel area; a rickshaw should cost around ₹70.

- ➔ Agra 2nd-class seat/sleeper/3AC ₹60/150/510, 1½ to two hours, nine daily between 4.45am and 8.10pm

➔ Delhi 2nd-class seat/sleeper/3AC ₹95/180/510, three to four hours, 12 trains daily, plus three other services on selected days

➔ Jaipur 2nd-class seat/sleeper/3AC ₹110/150/510, three to four hours, nine daily between 2am and 10pm

➔ Ranthambhore NP (Sawai Madhopur) 2nd-class seat/sleeper/3AC ₹135/180/560, two to three hours, 10 daily between 1am and 9.40pm. These trains all continue to Kota (four hours) from where you can catch buses to Bundi.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM BHARATPUR

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Agra (Cantonment)	19666 Udz-Kurj Exp	9.46am	10.55am	150/510 (A)
Delhi (Hazrat Nizamuddin)	12059 Kota-Jan Shatabdi	9.25am	12.30pm	135/415 (B)
Jaipur	19665 Kurj-Udaipr Exp	6.55pm	10.50pm	150/510 (A)
Sawai Madhopur	12904 Golden Temple Mail	10.30am	12.55pm	180/560 (A)

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC, (B) 2nd-class/AC chair

Getting Around

A cycle- or autorickshaw from the bus station to the main hotel area should cost around ₹40 (add an extra ₹30 from the train station).

WORTH A TRIP

SURAJ MAHL'S PALACE, DEEG

Suraj Mahl's Palace

PALACE

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200; 🕒9.30am-5.30pm Sat-Thu)

At the centre of Deeg – a small, rarely visited, dusty tumult of a town about 35km north of Bharatpur – stands the incongruously glorious Suraj Mahl's Palace, edged by stately formal gardens. It's one of India's most beautiful and carefully proportioned palace complexes. Pick up a map and brochure at the entrance; photography is not permitted in some of the bhavans (buildings).

Built in a mixture of Rajput and Mughal architectural styles, the 18th-century Gopal Bhavan is fronted by imposing arches to take full advantage of the early-morning light. Downstairs is a lower storey that becomes submerged during the monsoon as the water level of the adjacent tank, Gopal Sagar, rises. It was used by the maharajas until the early 1950s, and contains many original furnishings, including faded sofas, huge punkas (cloth fans) that are over 200 years old, chaise longues, a stuffed tiger, elephant-foot stands, and fine porcelain from China and France.

In an upstairs room at the rear of the palace is an Indian-style marble dining table – a stretched oval-shaped affair raised just 20cm off the ground. Guests sat around the edge, and the centre was the serving area. In the maharaja's bedroom is an enormous 3.6m by 2.4m wooden bed with silver legs.

Two large tanks lie alongside the palace, the aforementioned Gopal Sagar to the east and Rup Sagar to the west. The well-maintained gardens and flowerbeds, watered by the tanks, continue the extravagant theme with over 2000 fountains. Many of these fountains are in working order and coloured waters pour forth during the monsoon festival in August.

The Keshav Bhavan (Summer or Monsoon Pavilion) is a single-storey edifice with five arches along each side. Tiny jets spray water from the archways and metal balls rumble around in a water channel imitating monsoon thunder. Deeg's massive walls (which are up to 28m high) and 12 vast bastions, some with their cannons still in place, are also worth exploring. You can walk up to the top of the walls from the palace.

Other bhavans (in various states of renovation) include the marble Suraj Bhavan, reputedly taken from Delhi and reassembled here, the Kishan Bhavan and, along the northern side of the palace grounds, the Nand Bhavan.

Deeg is an easy day trip (and there's nowhere good to stay) from Bharatpur or Alwar by car. All the roads to Deeg are rough and the buses crowded. Frequent buses run to and from Alwar (₹60, 2½ hours) and Bharatpur (₹28, one hour).

Alwar

📍0144 / POP 341,430

Alwar is perhaps the oldest of the Rajasthani kingdoms, forming part of the Matsya territories of Viratnagar in 1500 BC. It became known again in the 18th century under Pratap Singh, who pushed back the rulers of Jaipur to the south and the Jats of Bharatpur to the east, and who successfully resisted the Marathas. It was one of the first Rajput states to ally itself with the fledgling British empire, although British interference in Alwar's internal affairs meant this partnership was not always amicable.

Alwar is the nearest town to Sariska Tiger Reserve and National Park and boasts a fascinating museum, but it sees relatively few tourists.

Sights

City Palace

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Vinay Vilas Mahal; GOOGLE MAP)

Under the gaze of Bala Quila fort sprawls the colourful and convoluted City Palace complex, with massive gates and a tank reflecting a symmetrical series of ghats and pavilions. Today most of the complex is occupied by government offices, overflowing with piles of dusty papers and soiled by pigeons and splatters of paan (a mixture of betel nut and leaves for chewing).

Hidden within the City Palace is the excellent Alwar Museum ( GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹50/100; 🕒 9.45am-5.15pm Tue-Sun).

The museum's eclectic exhibits evoke the extravagance of the lifestyle of the maharajas: stunning weapons, stuffed Scottish pheasants, royal ivory slippers, erotic miniatures, royal vestments, a solid silver table, and stone sculptures, such as an 11th-century sculpture of Vishnu.

Somewhat difficult to find in the Kafkaesque tangle of government offices, the museum is on the top floor of the palace, up a ramp from the main courtyard. There should be plenty of people around to point you in the right direction and from there you can follow the signs.

Cenotaph of Maharaja Bakhtawar Singh

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP)

This double-storey edifice, resting on a platform of sandstone, was built in 1815 by Maharaja Vinay Singh, in memory of his father. To gain access to the cenotaph, take the steps to the far left when facing the palace. The cenotaph is also known as the Chhatri of Moosi Rani, after one of the mistresses of Bakhtawar Singh who performed sati (self-immolation) on his funeral pyre – after this act she was promoted to wifely status.

Bala Quila

FORT

(GOOGLE MAP)

This imposing fort stands 300m above Alwar, its fortifications hugging the steep hills that line the eastern edge of the city. Predating the time of Pratap Singh, it's one of the few forts in Rajasthan built before the rise of the Mughals, who used it as a base for attacking Ranthambhore. Mughal emperors Babur and Akbar have stayed overnight here, and Prince Salim (later Emperor Jehangir) was exiled in Salim Mahal for three years.

Now in ruins, the fort houses a radio transmitter station and parts can only be visited with permission from the superintendent of police. However, this is easy to get: just ask at the superintendent's office in the City Palace complex. You can walk the very steep couple of kilometres up to the fort entrance or take a 7km rickshaw ride.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Aravali Clarks Inn

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP);  0144-2332316; www.clarksinn.in; Nehru Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹2500/3000, ste ₹6000;    )

One of the town's best choices, this conveniently located hotel has recently come under the patronage of Clarks Inn and is undergoing refurbishment. Rooms are large and well furnished and boast big bathrooms. The multicuisine Bridge restaurant is one of the best in town, and there's a bar. The pool is summer only.

Turn left out of the train station and it's about 300m down the road.

Hotel Hill View

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0144-2700989; www.hillviewalwar.com; 19 Moti Dungri Rd; r from ₹2100; 📶📶)

Rooms at this centrally located hotel vary so much that you may prefer a cheaper 'deluxe' to a pricier 'super deluxe'; inspect a few before deciding. The same management runs three Inderlok restaurants in town, including one here, so the food is good. The attached bar may or may not be an advantage depending on the clientele.

It is found south of the city centre on the road that encircles Moti Dungri.

RTDC Hotel Meenal

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0144-2347352; meenal@rtdc.in; Topsingh Circle; s/d ₹900/1100, with AC ₹1100/1300; 📶)

A respectable option with tidy yet bland rooms typical of the chain. It's located about 1km south of town on the way to Sariska, so it's quiet and leafy, though a long way from the action.

Prem Pavitra Bhojnalaya

INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9314055521; near Hope Circle; mains ₹75-100; 🕒 10.30am-4pm & 6.30-10pm; 🍴)

Alwar's renowned restaurant has been going since 1957. In the heart of the old town, it serves fresh, tasty pure-veg food – try the delicious aloo parathas (bread stuffed with spicy potato) and palak paneer (unfermented cheese cubes in spinach puree). The servings are big; half-serves are available. Finish off with the famous kheer (creamy rice pudding).

You have to pay 10% extra to eat in the air-conditioned section – but it is worth it. Turn right out of the bus station, take the first left (towards Hope Circle) and it's on your left after 100m.

Information

State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur

BANK

(GOOGLE MAP); Company Bagh Rd; 🕒 9.30am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 12.30pm Sat)

Changes major currencies and travellers cheques and has an ATM. Near the bus stand.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 0144-2347348; Nehru Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Helpful centre (if actually open when it should be) offering a map of Alwar and information on Sariska. Near the train station.

Getting There & Around

A cycle-rickshaw between the bus and train stations costs ₹80. Look out for the shared taxis (₹10) that ply fixed routes around town. They come in the form of white minivans and have the word 'Vahini' printed on their side doors. One handy route goes past Aravali Clarks Inn, the tourist office and the train station before continuing on to the bus station and terminating a short walk from the City Palace complex.

A return taxi to Sariska Tiger Reserve will cost you around ₹1500.

BUS

The Alwar bus station (GOOGLE MAP) is on Old Bus Stand Rd, near Manu Marg. Services:

- ➔ Bharatpur ₹128, four hours, hourly from 5am to 8.30pm
- ➔ Deeg ₹87, 2½ hours, hourly from 5am to 8.30pm
- ➔ Delhi ₹176, four hours, every 20 minutes from 5am to 9pm
- ➔ Jaipur ₹160, four hours, half-hourly from 6am to 10.30pm
- ➔ Sariska ₹35, one hour, half-hourly from 6am to 10.30pm

TRAIN

The train station (GOOGLE MAP) is fairly central, on Naru Marg. Around a dozen daily trains leave for Delhi (sleeper/3AC ₹180/560, three to four hours) throughout the day.

It's also three to four hours to Jaipur (sleeper/3AC ₹180/510) from here. Sixteen trains depart daily and prices are almost identical to those for Delhi.

Sariska Tiger Reserve & National Park

 0144

Enclosed within the dramatic, shadowy folds of the Aravalli Hills, the

Sariska Tiger Reserve & National Park ( 0144-2841333;

www.rajasthanwildlife.in; Indian/foreigner ₹105/570, vehicle ₹250;  morning safari 7-10.30am, evening safari 2-5.30pm Nov-Feb, timings vary by 30min Mar-Jun & Oct, no safaris Jul-Sep, tickets on sale an hour before entry time) is a tangle of remnant semideciduous jungle and craggy canyons sheltering streams and lush greenery. It covers 866 sq km (including a core area of 498 sq km), and is home to peacocks, monkeys, majestic sambars, nilgai, chital, wild boars and jackals.

Unfortunately, despite its name, you're unlikely to spot a tiger in Sariska. It is, however, still a fascinating sanctuary. The best time to spot wildlife is November to March, and you'll see most wildlife in the evening. The park is closed to safaris from 1 July to 30 September. Your chances of spotting wildlife at this time is minimal, in any case, and the park is only open for temple pilgrimage.

Sights

Besides wildlife, Sariska has some fantastic sights within the reserve or around its peripheries, which are well worth seeking out. If you take a longer tour, you can ask to visit one or more of these. Some are also accessible by public bus.

Kankwari Fort

FORT

Deep inside the sanctuary, this imposing small jungle fort, 22km from Sariska, offers amazing views over the plains of the national park, dotted with red mud-brick villages. A four- to five-hour 4WD safari (one to five passengers plus mandatory guide) to Kankwari Fort from the Forest Reception Office near the reserve entrance costs ₹2600, plus guide fee (₹300).

This fort is the inaccessible place that Aurangzeb chose to imprison his brother, Dara Shikoh, Shah Jahan's chosen heir to the Mughal throne, for several years before he was beheaded.

Bhangarh

HISTORIC SITE

Around 55km from Sariska, beyond the inner park sanctuary and out in open countryside, is this deserted, well-preserved and notoriously haunted city. Founded in 1631 by Madho Singh, it had 10,000 dwellings, but was suddenly deserted about 300 years ago for reasons that remain mysterious. Bhangarh can be reached by a bus (₹39) that runs twice daily through the sanctuary to nearby Golaka village. Check what time the bus returns, otherwise you risk getting stranded.

SARISKA'S TIGER TALE

Sariska Tiger Reserve took centre stage in one of India's most publicised wildlife dramas. In 2005 an Indian journalist broke the news that the tiger population here had been eliminated, a report that was later confirmed officially after an emergency census was carried out.

An inquiry into the crisis recommended fundamental management changes before tigers be reintroduced to the reserve. Extra funding was proposed to cover relocation of villages within the park as well as increasing the protection force. But action on the recommendations has been slow and incomplete despite extensive media coverage and a high level of concern in India.

Nevertheless, a pair of tigers from Ranthambhore National Park were moved by helicopter to Sariska in 2008. By 2010, five tigers had been transferred. However, in November 2010 the male of the original pair was found dead, having been poisoned by local villagers, who are not supportive of the reintroduction. The underlying problem: the inevitable battle between India's poorest and ever-expanding village populace with the rare and phenomenally valuable wildlife on their doorstep. Plans to relocate and reimburse villagers inside the park have largely failed to come to fruition, and illegal marble mining and clashes between cattle farmers and park staff have remained a problem.

In early 2012 the first cubs were sighted. At the time of writing, Sariska's tiger population was thought to be 14.

Only time will tell if this reintroduction is successful – inbreeding in the small population is an understandably high concern. Despite much vaunted successes for Project Tiger (www.projecttiger.nic.in) at a national level, Sariska remains a sad indictment of tiger conservation in India, from the top government officials down to the underpaid forest guards.

Tours

Private cars, including taxis, are limited to sealed roads heading to the temple and are allowed only on Tuesday and Saturday. The best way to visit the park is by gypsy (open-topped, six-passenger 4WD), which can explore off the main tracks. Gypsy safaris start at the park entrance, and vehicle plus driver hire is ₹2100 for a three-hour safari; the vehicles can take up to five people (including guide). The bigger 20-seat canters cost ₹5000 for the vehicle and driver, but offer a much diminished experience. Guides are mandatory (₹300 for three hours).

Bookings can be made at the Forest Reception Office ( 0144-2841333; www.rajasthanwildlife.in; Jaipur Rd;  ticket sales 6.55-7.30am & 1-3pm Nov-Jan, timings vary by 30min Mar-Jun & Oct), where buses will drop you.

Sleeping

RTDC Hotel Tiger Den

HOTEL $$

( 0144-2841342; tigerden@rtdc.in; s/d incl breakfast ₹1860/2645, with AC ₹2505/3290, ste ₹4780; )

Hotel Tiger Den isn't fancy – a cement block fronted by a lawn and backed by a rambling garden. It's best feature is that it is very close to the reserve entrance. On the plus side the management is friendly, there is a bar, and the rooms have balconies with a pleasant outlook. Bring a mosquito net or repellent.

Hotel Sariska Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(📞 7073474870; www.thesariskapalace.in; r incl breakfast ₹8400, ste from ₹13,500; 🌳 📶 🛏)

Near the reserve entrance is this imposing former hunting lodge of the maharajas of Alwar. There's a driveway leading from opposite the Forest Reception Office. Rooms have soaring ceilings and soft mattresses, and those in the annexe by the swimming pool have good views. The Fusion Restaurant here serves expensive Indian and Continental dishes, as well as hosting a buffet (lunch/dinner ₹750/900).

Sariska Tiger Heaven

HOTEL $$$

(📞 9251016312; www.sariskatigerheaven.com; r incl all meals from ₹7500; 🌳 📶 🛏)

This isolated place about 3km west of the bus stop at Thanagazi village has free pick-up on offer. Rooms are set in stone-and-tile cottages and have big beds and windowed alcoves. It's a tranquil, if overpriced, place to stay. Staff can arrange 4WDs and guides to the reserve.

i Getting There & Away

Sariska is 35km from Alwar, a convenient town from which to approach the reserve. There are frequent (and crowded) buses from Alwar (₹35, one to 1½ hours, at least hourly) and on to Jaipur (₹129, four hours). Buses stop in front of the Forest Reception Office.

Ajmer

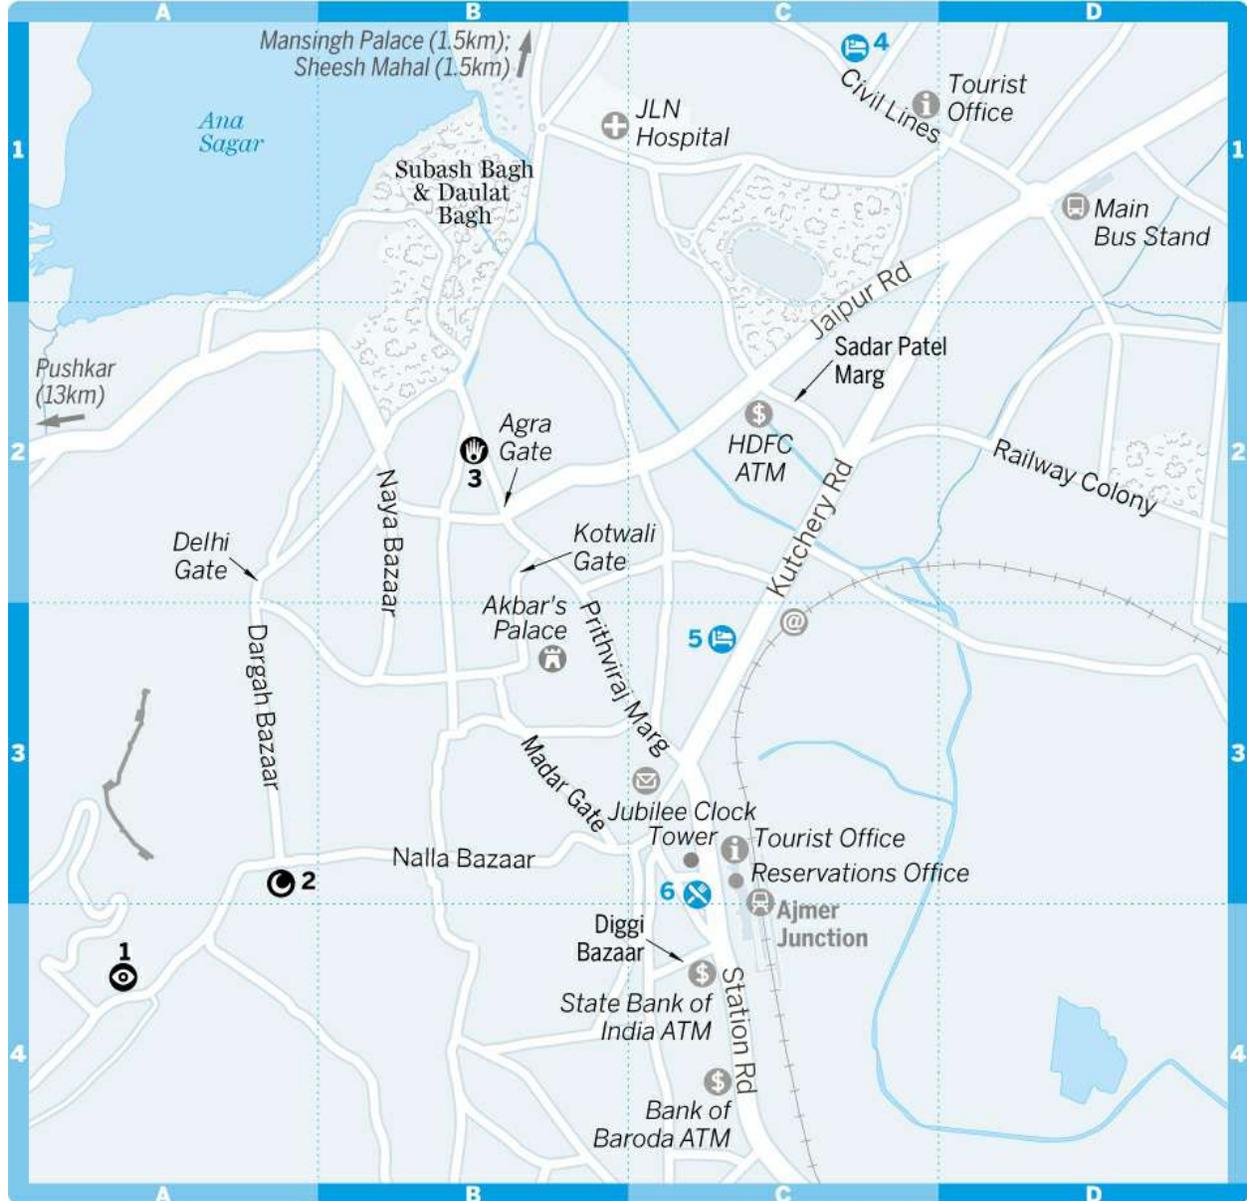

📞 0145 / POP 542,330

Ajmer is a bustling, chaotic city, 130km southwest of Jaipur and just 13km from the Hindu pilgrimage town of Pushkar. It surrounds the expansive lake of Ana Sagar, and is itself ringed by rugged Aravalli Hills. Ajmer is Rajasthan's most important site in terms of Islamic history and heritage. It contains one of India's most important Muslim pilgrimage centres, the shrine of Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chishti, who founded the Chishtiya order, the prime Sufi order in India. As well as some superb examples of early Muslim architecture, Ajmer is also a significant centre for the Jain religion, possessing an amazing golden Jain temple. However, with Ajmer's combination of high-voltage crowds and traffic, especially during Ramadan and the anniversary of the saint's death, most travellers choose to use Ajmer as a stepping stone to laid-back Pushkar.

Ajmer

0 500 m
0 0.25 miles

Ajmer

📍 Sights

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Adhai-din-ka-Jhonpra | A4 |
| 2 | Dargah of Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chishti | A3 |
| 3 | Nasiyan (Red) Temple | B2 |

🏠 Sleeping

4 Badnor House C1

5 Haveli Heritage Inn C3

Eating

6 Madina Hotel C3

Sights

Dargah of Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chishti

ISLAMIC SHRINE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.dargahajmer.com; ⌚ 4am-9pm summer, 5am-9pm winter)

This is the tomb of Sufi saint Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chishti, who came to Ajmer from Persia in 1192 and died here in 1236. The tomb gained its significance during the time of the Mughals – many emperors added to the buildings here. Construction of the shrine was completed by Humayun, and the gate was added by the Nizam of Hyderabad. Mughal emperor Akbar used to make the pilgrimage to the dargah from Agra every year.

You have to cover your head in certain parts of the shrine, so remember to take a scarf or cap – there are plenty for sale at the colourful bazaar leading to the dargah, along with floral offerings and delicious toffees.

The main entrance is through Nizam Gate (1915). Inside, the green and white mosque, Akbari Masjid, was constructed in 1571 and is now an Arabic and Persian school for religious education. The next gate is called the Shahjahani Gate, as it was erected by Shah Jahan, although it is also known as 'Nakkarkhana', because of the two large nakkharas (drums) fixed above it.

A third gate, Buland Darwaza (16th century), leads into the dargah courtyard. Flanking the entrance of the courtyard are the degs (large iron cauldrons), one donated by Akbar in 1567, the other by Jehangir in 1631, for offerings for the poor.

Inside this courtyard, the saint's domed tomb is surrounded by a silver platform. Pilgrims believe that the saint's spirit will intercede on their behalf in matters of illness, business or personal problems, so the notes and holy string attached to the railings around are thanks or requests.

Pilgrims and Sufis come from all over the world on the anniversary of the saint's death, the Urs, in the seventh month of the Islamic lunar calendar. Crowds can be suffocating.

Bags must be left in the cloakroom (₹10 each, with camera ₹20) outside the main entrance.

Nasiyan (Red) Temple

JAIN TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Prithviraj Marg; ₹10; 🕒 8.30am-5.30pm)

This marvellous Jain temple, built in 1865, is also known as the Golden Temple, due to its amazing golden diorama in the double-storey temple hall. The intricate diorama depicts the Jain concept of the ancient world, with 13 continents and oceans, the golden city of Ayodhya, flying peacock and elephant gondolas, and gilded elephants with many tusks. The hall is also decorated with gold, silver and precious stones. It's unlike any other temple in Rajasthan and is well worth a visit.

Adhai-din-ka-Jhonpra

HISTORIC SITE

(Two-and-a-Half-Day Building; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Beyond the Dargah of Khwaja Muin-ud-din Chishti, on the town outskirts, are the extraordinary ruins of the Adhai-din-ka-Jhonpra mosque. According to legend, construction in 1153 took only 2½ days. Others say it was named after a festival lasting 2½ days. It was originally built as a Sanskrit college, but in 1198 Mohammed of Ghori seized Ajmer and converted the building into a mosque by adding a seven-arched wall covered with Islamic calligraphy in front of the pillared hall.

Sleeping & Eating

Haveli Heritage Inn

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-2621607; www.haveliheritageinn.com; Kutchery Rd; r ₹1340-300 🏠 @)

Set in a 140-year-old haveli, this welcoming city-centre oasis is arguably Ajmer's best midrange choice. The high-ceilinged rooms are spacious (some are almost suites), simply decorated, air-cooled and set well back from the busy road. There's a pleasant, grassy courtyard and the hotel is infused with a family atmosphere, complete with home-cooked meals.

Badnor House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-2627579; www.badnorhouse.com; Savitri Girl's College Rd, Civil Lines; s/d incl breakfast ₹2600/3000; 🏠 📶)

This guesthouse provides an excellent opportunity to stay with a delightful family and receive down-to-earth hospitality. There are three heritage-style doubles and an older-style, spacious and comfortable self-contained suite with private courtyard. The host is also an occasional travel photographer.

Mansingh Palace

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-2425956; www.mansinghhotels.com; Circular Rd; r from ₹4200, ste ₹7000; 🏠 @ 📶 🚰)

This modern place, on the shores of Ana Sagar about 3km from the centre, is rather out of the way, but has attractive and comfortable rooms, some with views and balconies. The hotel has a shady garden, a bar and a good restaurant, the Sheesh Mahal.

Madina Hotel

NORTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Station Rd; mains ₹30-100; 🕒 9am-11pm)

Handy if you're waiting for a train (it's opposite the station), this simple, open-to-the-street eatery cooks up cheap veg and nonveg fare, with specialities such as chicken Mughlai and rumali roti (huge paper-thin chapati).

Sheesh Mahal

MULTICUISINE $$

(GOOGLE MAP; Circular Rd; mains ₹150-375; 🕒 noon-3pm & 7-10.30pm)

This upmarket restaurant, located in Ajmer's top hotel, the Mansingh Palace, offers excellent Indian, Continental and Chinese dishes, as well as a buffet when the tour groups pass through. The service is slick, the air-con is on the chilly side, and the food is very good; it also boasts a bar.

Information

JLN Hospital

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2625500; Daulat Bagh; 🕒 24hr)

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP; Prithviraj Marg; 🕒 10am-1pm & 1.30-6pm Mon-Sat)

Less than 500m from the train station.

Satguru's Internet

INTERNET

(GOOGLE MAP; 60-61 Kutchery Rd; per hr ₹30; 🕒 9am-10pm)

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; Ajmer Junction Train Station; 🕒 9am-5pm)

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2627426; RTDC Hotel Khadim; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Fri)

Getting There & Away

For those pushing on to Pushkar, haggle hard for a private taxi – ₹350 is a good rate.

BUS

Government-run buses leave from the main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) in Ajmer, from where buses to Pushkar (₹14, 30 minutes) also leave throughout the day. In addition to these buses, there are less-frequent ‘deluxe’ coach services running to major destinations such as Delhi and Jaipur. There is a 24-hour cloakroom at the bus stand (₹10 per bag per day).

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)
Agra	392	10
Ahmedabad	543	13
Bharatpur	330	7
Bikaner	267	7
Bundi	184	5
Chittorgarh	195, AC 348	5
Delhi	404, AC 1096	8½
Jaipur	148, AC 314	2½
Jaisalmer	458	11
Jodhpur	205, AC 445	6
Udaipur	285, AC 542	9

TRAIN

Ajmer is a busy train junction. To book tickets, go to booth 5 at the train station’s reservations office (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun).

Services include the following:

- ➔ Agra (Agra Fort Station) sleeper/AC Chair ₹275/570, 6½ hours, three daily (2.10am, 12.50pm and 3pm)
- ➔ Chittorgarh sleeper/3AC ₹180/560, three hours, at least six daily (1.25am, 2.15am, 1pm, 4.10pm, 8.30pm and 9.05pm)
- ➔ Delhi (mostly to Old Delhi or New Delhi stations) 2nd-class seat/sleeper ₹165/300, eight hours, 11 daily around the clock
- ➔ Jaipur 2nd-class seat/sleeper/AC chair ₹100/150/325, two hours, at least 24 throughout the day
- ➔ Jodhpur sleeper/3AC ₹185/510, four to five hours, two direct daily (1.40pm and 2.25pm)

- ➔ Mt Abu (Abu Road) sleeper ₹245, five hours, 12 daily
- ➔ Mumbai sleeper ₹495, around 19 hours, three daily (6.35am, 9.20am and 12.40pm)
- ➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹245, five hours, four daily (1.25am, 2.15am, 8.25am and 4.10pm)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM AJMER

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Agra (Agra Fort Station)	12988 Ajmer-SDAH Exp	12.50pm	6.50pm	275/695 (A)
Delhi (New Delhi)	12016 Ajmer Shatabdi	2.05pm	10pm	720/1530 (B)
Jaipur	12991 Udaipur-Jaipur Exp	11.30am	1.30pm	100/325/440 (C)
Jodhpur	15014 Ranighat Express	1.40pm	5.35pm	185/510 (A)
Udaipur	09721 Jaipur-Udaipur SF SPL	8.25am	1.15pm	140/245/490/560 (D)

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC, (B) AC chair/1AC, (C) 2nd-class seat/AC chair/1AC, (D) 2nd-class seat/sleeper/AC chair/3AC

Pushkar

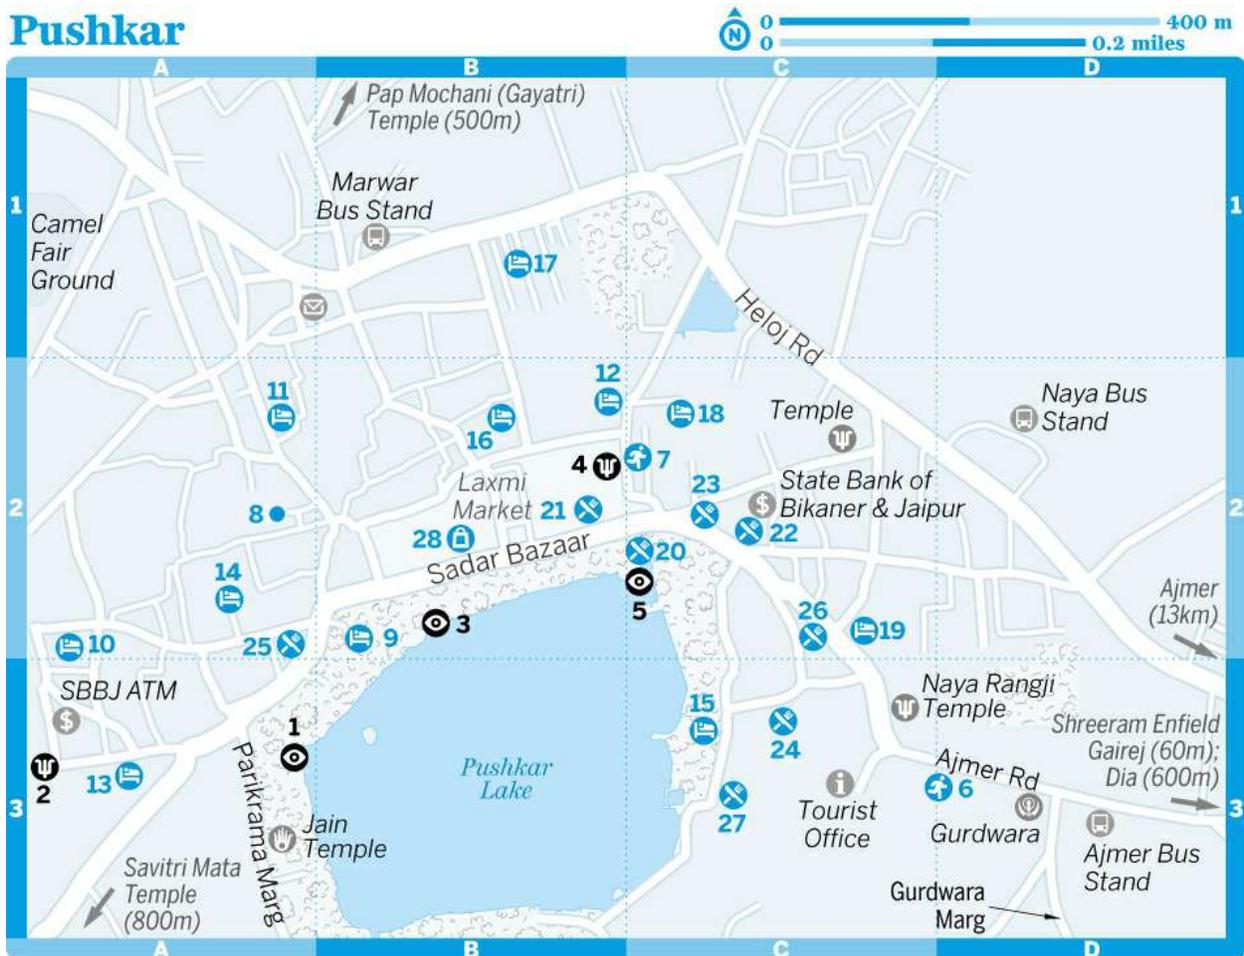

📍0145 / POP 21,630

Pushkar has a magnetism all of its own – it’s quite unlike anywhere else in Rajasthan. It’s a prominent Hindu pilgrimage town and devout Hindus should visit at least once in their lifetime. The town curls around a holy lake, said to have appeared when Brahma dropped a lotus flower. It also has one of the world’s few Brahma temples. With 52 bathing ghats and 400 milky-blue temples, the town often hums with puja (prayers), generating an episodic soundtrack of chanting, drums and gongs, and devotional songs.

The result is a muddle of religious and tourist scenes. The main street is one long bazaar, selling anything to tickle a traveller’s fancy, from hippy-chic tie-dye to didgeridoos. Despite the commercialism and banana pancakes, the town remains enchantingly small and authentically mystic.

Pushkar is only 11km from Ajmer, separated from it by rugged Nag Pahar (Snake Mountain).

Pushkar

📍 Sights

1	Brahma Ghat	A3
2	Brahma Temple	A3
3	Gandhi Ghat	B2
4	Old Rangji Temple	B2
5	Varah Ghat	C2

Activities, Courses & Tours

Cooking Bahar	A2
6 Government Homeopathic Hospital	D3
7 Roshi Hiralal Verma	C2
8 Saraswati Music School	A2

Sleeping

9 Bharatpur Palace	B2
10 Hotel Akash	A2
11 Hotel Everest	A2
12 Hotel Kanhaia Haveli	B2
13 Hotel Navaratan Palace	A3
14 Hotel Paramount Palace	A2
15 Hotel Pushkar Palace	C3
16 Hotel Tulsi Palace	B2
17 Hotel White House	B1
18 Inn Seventh Heaven	C2
19 Shyam Krishna Guesthouse	C2

Eating

20 Falafel Wrap Stalls	C2
21 Honey & Spice	B2
22 Naryan Café	C2
23 Om Baba Restaurant	C2
24 Om Shiva Garden Restaurant	C3
25 Out of the Blue	A2
26 Shri Vankatesh	C2
Sixth Sense	C2
27 Sunset Café	C3

Shopping

28 Sadar Bazaar	B2
---------------------------------	----

Sights

Fifty-two bathing ghats surround the lake, where pilgrims bathe in the sacred waters. If you wish to join them, do so with respect. Remember, this is a holy place: remove your shoes and don't smoke, kid around or take photographs.

Some ghats have particular importance: Vishnu appeared at Varah Ghat (MAP GOOGLE MAP) in the form of a boar, Brahma bathed at Brahma Ghat (MAP GOOGLE MAP), and Gandhi's ashes were sprinkled at Gandhi Ghat (Gau Ghat; MAP GOOGLE MAP), formerly Gau Ghat.

Pushkar boasts hundreds of temples, though few are particularly ancient, as they were mostly desecrated by Aurangzeb and subsequently rebuilt.

Old Rangji Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Old Rangji Temple is close to the bazaar and is often alive with worshippers.

Savitri Mata Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Saraswati Temple; GOOGLE MAP; ropeway return trip ₹92; 🕒 ropeway 9.30am-7.30pm)

The ropeway makes the ascent to the hilltop Saraswati Temple a breeze. The temple overlooks the lake and the views are fantastic at any time of day. Alternatively, you could take the one-hour trek up before dawn to beat the heat and capture the best light.

Brahma Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Pushkar's most famous temple is the Brahma Temple, said to be one of the few such temples in the world as a result of a curse by Brahma's consort, Saraswati. The temple is marked by a red spire, and over the entrance gateway is the hans (goose symbol) of Brahma. Inside, the floor and walls are engraved with dedications to the dead.

Pap Mochani (Gayatri) Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP)

The sunrise views over town from Pap Mochani (Gayatri) Temple, reached by a track behind the Marwar bus stand, are well worth the 30-minute climb.

Activities

Government Homeopathic Hospital

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Ajmer Rd; 1hr full-body massage ₹500; 🕒 9am-1pm & 4-6pm)

For a noncommercial massage-treatment experience, try the ayurvedic department at the small and basic Government Homeopathic Hospital.

Roshi Hiralal Verma

REIKI, YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9829895906; Ambika Guest House, Laxmi Market)

Offers reiki, yoga and shiatsu; costs depend on the duration and nature of your session.

PUSHKAR CAMEL FAIR

Pushkar Camel Fair

FAIR

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 Oct/Nov)

Come the month of Kartika, the eighth lunar month of the Hindu calendar and one of the holiest, Thar camel drivers spruce up their ships of the desert and start the long walk to Pushkar in time for Kartik Purnima (Full Moon). Each year around 200,000 people converge here, bringing with them some 50,000 camels, horses and cattle.

The place becomes an extraordinary swirl of colour, sound and movement, thronged with musicians, mystics, tourists, traders, animals, devotees and camera crews.

Trading begins a week before the official fair (a good time to arrive to see the serious business), but by the time the RTDC mela (fair) starts, business takes a back seat and the bizarre sidelines (snake charmers, children balancing on poles etc) jostle onto centre stage. Even the cultural program seems peculiar, with contests for the best moustache, and most beautifully decorated camel. Visitors are encouraged to take part: pick up a program from the RTDC office and see if you fancy taking part in the costumed wedding parade, or join a Visitors versus Locals sports contest such as traditional Rajasthani wrestling.

It's hard to believe, but this seething mass is all just a sideshow. Kartik Purnima is when Hindu pilgrims come to bathe in Pushkar's sacred waters. The religious event builds in tandem with the camel fair in a wild, magical crescendo of incense, chanting and processions to dousing day, the last night of the fair, when thousands of devotees wash away their sins and set candles afloat on the holy lake.

Although fantastical, mystical and a one-off, it must be said that it's also crowded, touristy, noisy (light sleepers should bring earplugs) and occasionally tacky. Those affected by dust and/or animal hair should bring appropriate medication. However, it's a grand epic, and not to be missed if you're anywhere within camel-spitting distance.

The fair usually takes place in November, but dates change according to the lunar calendar.

Courses

Saraswati Music School

MUSIC

( ;  Birju 9828297784, Hemant 9829333548; saraswati_music@hotmail.com; Mainon ka Chowk)

Teaches tabla (drums), flute, harmonium, singing, and kathak (classical dance) and Bollywood dance. For music, contact Birju, who's been playing for around 20 years, and charges from ₹350 for two hours. He often conducts evening performances (7pm to 8pm), and also sells instruments. For dance, contact Hemant.

Cooking Bahar

COOKING

( ;  0145-2773124; www.cookingbahar.com; Mainon ka Chowk; 2-3hr class ₹1100)

Part of the Saraswati Music School family, Deepa conducts cooking classes that cover three vegetarian courses.

Sleeping

Owing to Pushkar's star status among backpackers, there are far more budget options than midrange, though many budget properties have a selection of midrange-priced rooms. At the time of the camel fair, prices multiply up to three-fold or more, and it's essential to book several weeks ahead.

★ Hotel Everest

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9414666958, 0145-2773417; www.pushkarhoteleverest.com; off Sadar Bazaar; r ₹300-850, with AC ₹1000-1150; 📶 @ 📶)

This welcoming budget hotel is nestled in the quiet laneways north of Sadar Bazaar. It's run by a friendly father-and-son team who can't do too much for their appreciative guests. The rooms are variable in size, colourful and spotless, and the beds are comfortable. The rooftop is a pleasant retreat for meals or just relaxing with a book.

Hotel Tulsi Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8947074663; www.hoteltulsipalacepushkar.com; VIP Rd, Holika Chowk; r ₹500-700, with AC ₹1000-1500; 📶)

Tulsi Palace is a great budget choice with a variety of bright and airy rooms around a central courtyard. The attached Little Prince Cafe on the 1st-floor verandah serves Continental breakfasts and Indian lunch and dinner, and boasts prime street-life views. The friendly staff will help with your transport needs.

Hotel White House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772147; www.pushkarwhitehouse.com; off Heloj Rd; r ₹350-950 with AC ₹1000-1500; 📶 @ 📶)

This place is indeed white, with spotless rooms. Some are decidedly on the small side, but the nicest are generous and have balconies to boot. There is good traveller fare and green views from the plant-filled rooftop restaurant. It's efficiently run by a woman and her two sons. Yoga is offered, as is a welcome brew of mango tea for every guest.

Hotel Akash

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772498; filterboy21@yahoo.com; Badi Basti; d ₹600, s/d without bathroom ₹300/500; 📶)

A simple budget place with keen young management and a large tree sprouting up from the courtyard to shade the rooftop terrace. Rooms are basic fan-cooled affairs that open out to a balcony restaurant good for spying on the street below.

Bharatpur Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772320; bharatpurpalace_pushkar@yahoo.co.in; Sadar Bazaar; ₹400-1000, without bathroom ₹250-600; ❄️)

This rambling building occupies one of the best spots in Pushkar, on the upper levels adjacent to Gandhi Ghat. It features aesthetic blue-washed simplicity: bare-bones rooms with unsurpassed views of the holy lake. The rooftop terrace (with restaurant) has sublime vistas, but respect for bathing pilgrims is paramount for intended guests.

Room 1 is the most romantic place to wake up: it's surrounded on three sides by the lake. Rooms 9, 12, 13 and 16 are also good.

Shyam Krishna Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772461; skguesthouse@yahoo.com; Sadar Bazaar; s/d ₹400/700, without bathroom ₹300/500; 📶)

Housed in a lovely old blue-washed building with lawns and gardens, this guesthouse has ashram austerity and genuinely friendly management. Some of the cheaper rooms are cell-like, though all share the simple, authentic ambience. The outdoor kitchen and garden seating are a good setting for a relaxing meal of hearty vegetarian fare, but watch out for passing troops of monkeys.

Hotel Paramount Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772428; www.pushkarparamount.com; r ₹200-1000; 📶)

Perched on the highest point in Pushkar overlooking an old temple, this welcoming hotel has excellent views of the town and lake (and lots of stairs). The rooms vary widely; the best (106, 108, 109) have lovely balconies, stained-glass windows and are good value, but the smaller rooms can be dingy. There's a dizzyingly magical rooftop terrace.

Hotel Navaratan Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772145; www.navratanpalace.com; s/d incl breakfast ₹800/90 with AC ₹1000/1200; 🌐 📶 🚶)

Located close to the Brahma Temple, this hotel has a lovely enclosed garden with a fabulous pool (₹100 for nonguests), children's playground and pet tortoises. The rooms, crammed with carved wooden furniture, are clean and comfortable but small.

★ Inn Seventh Heaven

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-5105455; www.inn-seventh-heaven.com; Choti Basti; r ₹1350-3300; 🌐 @ 📶)

Enter this lovingly converted haveli through heavy wooden doors into an incense-perfumed courtyard, with a marble fountain in the centre and surrounded by tumbling vines. There are just a dozen individually decorated rooms situated on three levels, all with traditionally crafted furniture and comfortable beds. Rooms vary in size, from the downstairs budget rooms to the spacious Asana suite.

On the roof you'll find the excellent Sixth Sense restaurant, as well as sofas and swing chairs for relaxing with a book. Early booking (two-night minimum, no credit cards) is recommended.

Hotel Kanhaia Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772146; www.pushkarhotelkanhaia.com; Choti Basti; r ₹400-600 with AC ₹1500-1800; 🌐 📶)

Boasting a vast range of rooms, from budget digs to suites, you are sure to find a room and price that suits. Rooms get bigger and lighter, with more windows, the more you spend. Some rooms have balconies, while all have cable TV. There is a multicuisine restaurant with views on the rooftop.

Dia

B&B $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-5105455; www.diahomestay.com; Panch Kund Marg; r incl breakfast ₹3550-4950; 🌿 @ 📶)

This beautifully designed B&B by the folks at Inn Seventh Heaven has five very private doubles a short walk from town. The rooms are straight out of a design magazine and will have you swooning (and extending your booking). You can dine here at the cosy rooftop restaurant or head to the Sixth Sense restaurant at Inn Seventh Heaven.

Hotel Pushkar Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-2772001; www.hotelpushkarpalace.com; s/d/ste incl breakfast ₹7715/8310/17,805; 🌿 @)

Once belonging to the maharaja of Kishangarh, the top-end Hotel Pushkar Palace boasts a romantic lakeside setting. The rooms have carved wooden furniture and beds, and all rooms above the ground floor, and all the suites, look directly out onto the lake: no hotel in Pushkar has better views. A pleasant outdoor dining area overlooks the lake.

Ananta Spa & Resort

RESORT $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0145-3054000; www.anantahotels.com; Leela Sevri, Ajmer Rd; r incl breakfast from ₹6000; 🌿 @ 📶 🚿)

The arrival of Ananta, an (almost) five-star resort sprawling on 3.5 hectares in the rugged ranges 4km from Pushkar, heralds a new era in pilgrimages. Lucky pilgrims zip from reception to the Balinese-style cottages on golf buggies. Rooms are spacious and fully appointed, but most guests will gravitate to the luscious pool, spa, games room, restaurant, lounge or bar.

Pushkar has plenty of atmospheric eateries with lake views, and menus reflecting backpacker tastes and preferences. Strict vegetarianism, forbidding even eggs, is the order of the day.

Naryan Café

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mahadev Chowk, Sadar Bazaar; breakfast from ₹100; 🕒 7.30am-10pm)

Busy any time of day, this is particularly popular as a breakfast stop: watch the world go by with a fresh coffee (from ₹40) or juice (from ₹80) and an enormous bowl of homemade muesli, topped with a mountain of fruit.

Shri Vankatesh

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Choti Basti; mains ₹60-100; 🕒 9am-10pm)

Head to this no-nonsense local favourite and tuck into some dhal, paneer or kofta, before mopping up the sauce with some freshly baked chapatis and washing it all down with some good old-fashioned chai. The thalis (₹70 to ₹150) are excellent value, too. Watch your food being cooked or head upstairs to people-watch the street below.

Falafel Wrap Stalls

MIDDLE EASTERN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sadar Bazaar; wraps ₹70-130; 🕒 7.30am-10.30pm)

Perfect for quelling a sudden attack of the munchies, and a big hit with Israeli travellers, these adjacent roadside joints knock up a choice selection of filling falafel-and-hummus wraps. Eat them while sitting on stools on the road or devour them on the hoof.

Out of the Blue

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sadar Bazaar; mains ₹170-280; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

Distinctly a deeper shade of blue in this sky-blue town, Out of the Blue is a reliable restaurant. The menu ranges from noodles and momos (Tibetan dumplings) to pizza, pasta, falafel and pancakes. A nice touch is the street-level espresso coffee bar (coffees ₹60 to ₹80) and German bakery.

Sixth Sense

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Inn Seventh Heaven, Choti Basti; mains ₹100-200; 🕒 8.30am-4pm & 6-10pm; 📶)

This chilled rooftop restaurant is a great place to head to even if you didn't score a room in the popular hotel. The pizza and the Indian seasonal vegetables and rice are all serviceable, as is the filter coffee and fresh juice. Its ambience is immediately relaxing and the pulley apparatus that delivers food from the ground-floor kitchen is very cunning.

Save room for the desserts, such as the excellent homemade tarts.

Om Shiva Garden Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0145-2772305; www.omshivagardenrestaurant.com; mains ₹140-250; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

This traveller stalwart near Naya Rangji Temple continues to satisfy, with wood-fired pizzas and espresso coffee featuring on its predominately Italian and North Indian menu. It's hard to pass on the pizzas, but there are also some Mexican and Chinese dishes and 'German bakery' items to try.

Honey & Spice

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Laxmi Market, off Sadar Bazaar; mains ₹90-250; 🕒 8am-5.30pm; 📶)

Run by a friendly family, this tiny wholefood breakfast and lunch place has delicious South Indian coffee and homemade cakes. Even better are the salads and hearty vegetable combo stews served with brown rice – delicious, wholesome and a welcome change from frequently oil-rich Indian food.

Sunset Café

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹80-250; 🕒 7.30am-midnight; 📶)

Right on the eastern ghats, this cafe has sublime lake views. It offers the usual traveller menu, including curries, pizza and pasta, plus there's a German bakery serving reasonable cakes. The lakeside setting is perfect at sunset and gathers a crowd.

Om Baba Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0145-2772858; off Sadar Bazaar; mains ₹130-220; 🕒 8.30am-11pm)

Om Baba Rooftop Restaurant serves all the traveller favourites so common in the neighbourhood (pizza, pasta, falafel, hummus), but it's the views from the rooftop that sets this place apart.

Shopping

Sadar Bazaar

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Pushkar's Sadar Bazaar is lined with enchanting little shops and is a good place for picking up gifts. Many of the vibrant Rajasthani textiles originate from Barmer, south of Jaisalmer. There's plenty of silver and beaded jewellery catering both to local and foreign tastes, including some heavy tribal pieces. As Pushkar is touristy, you'll have to haggle.

The range of Indian-music CDs makes this market an excellent place to sample local tunes.

Information

Foreign-card-friendly ATMs and unofficial money changers are dotted around Sadar Bazaar.

State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur Changes travellers cheques and cash. The SBBJ ATM (GOOGLE MAP) accepts international cards.

Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP ; off Heloj Rd; 🕒 9.30am-5pm Mon-Fri)

Near the Marwar bus stand.

State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur

BANK

(SBBJ; GOOGLE MAP ; Sadar Bazaar; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 12.30pm Sat)

Changes travellers cheques and cash. The SBBJ ATM accepts international cards.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0145-2772040; Hotel Sarovar; 🕒 10am-5pm)

Free maps and camel fair programs.

DANGERS & ANNOYANCES

Beware of anyone giving you flowers to offer a puja (prayer): before you know it you'll be whisked to the ghats in a well-oiled hustle and asked for a personal donation of up to ₹1000. Other priests do genuinely live off the donations of others and this is a tradition that goes back centuries – but walk away if you feel bullied and always agree on a price before taking a red ribbon (a 'Pushkar passport') or flowers.

During the camel fair, Pushkar is besieged by pickpockets working the crowded bazaars. You can avoid the razor gang by not using thin-walled day packs and by carrying your pack in front of you. At any time of year, watch out for rampaging motorbikes ridden by inconsiderate youths in the bazaar.

i Getting There & Away

Pushkar's tiny train station is so badly connected it's not worth bothering with. Use Ajmer junction train station instead.

A private taxi to Ajmer costs around ₹300 (note that it's almost always more expensive in the opposite direction). When entering Pushkar by car there is a toll of ₹20 per person.

BUS

Frequent buses to/from Ajmer (₹14, 30 minutes) depart from the Naya Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP), and also from the Ajmer Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP) on the road heading eastwards out of town. Most other buses leave from the Naya Bus Stand, though some may still use the old Marwar Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP) (but not RSRTC buses).

Local travel agencies sell tickets for private buses – you should shop around. These buses often leave from Ajmer, but the agencies should provide you with free connecting transport. Check whether your bus is direct, as many services from Pushkar aren't. And note, even if they are direct buses they may well stop for some time in Ajmer, meaning it's often quicker to go to Ajmer first and then catch another bus from there.

BUSES FROM PUSHKAR (NAYA BUS STAND)

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	FREQUENCY
Bikaner	225	6	hourly
Bundi	200	6	daily (11am)
Jaipur	160	4	7 daily (7.15am, 7.45am, 8am, 8.30am, 9.30am, 2pm & 4pm)
Jodhpur	185	5	3 daily (8am, 10.30am & 12.30pm)

Getting Around

There are no autorickshaws in central Pushkar, but it's a breeze to get around on foot. If you want to explore the surrounding countryside, you could try hiring a motorbike (₹400 per day) from one of the many places around town. For something more substantial, try Shreeram Enfield Gairej ( GOOGLE MAP; Ajmer Rd; Enfield Bullet hire per day ₹700, deposit ₹50,000), which hires Enfield Bullets and sells them.

Ranthambhore National Park

 07462

This famous national park (GOOGLE MAP; www.rajasthanwildlife.in;  Oct-Jun) is the best place to spot wild tigers in Rajasthan. Comprising 1334 sq km of wild jungle scrub hemmed in by rocky ridges, at its centre is the 10th-century Ranthambhore Fort. Scattered around the fort are ancient temples and mosques, hunting pavilions, crocodile-filled lakes and vine-covered chhatris (burial tombs). The park was a maharajas' hunting ground until 1970, a curious 15 years after it had become a sanctuary.

Seeing a tiger (around 52 to 55 in 2016) is partly a matter of luck; leave time for two or three safaris to improve your chances. But remember there's plenty of other wildlife to see, including more than 300 species of birds.

It's 10km from Sawai Madhopur (the gateway town for Ranthambhore) to the first gate of the park, and another 3km to the main gate and Ranthambhore Fort.

Activities

Safaris take place in the early morning and late afternoon, starting between 6am and 7am or between 2pm and 3.30pm, depending on the time of year. Each safari lasts for around three hours. The mornings can be exceptionally chilly in the open vehicles, so bring warm clothes.

The best option is to travel by gypsy (six-person, open-topped 4WD; Indian/foreigner ₹730/1470). You still have a chance of seeing a tiger from a canter (20-seat, open-topped truck; ₹510/1250), but other passengers can be very rowdy.

Be aware that the rules for booking safaris (and prices) are prone to change. You can book online through the park's official website (www.rajasthanwildlife.in), or go in person to the safari booking office, which is inconveniently located 1.5km from Hammir Circle, in the opposite direction to the park. And to be sure of bagging a seat in a vehicle, start queuing at least an hour (if not two) before the safaris are due to begin – meaning a very early start for morning safaris! Booking with hotels is much simpler, but be aware that they add commission to the rates.

Sights

Ranthambhore Fort

FORT

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 6am-6pm) FREE

From a distance, the magical 10th-century Ranthambhore Fort is almost indiscernible on its hilltop perch – as you get closer, it seems almost as if it is growing out of the rock. It covers an area of 4.5 sq km, and affords peerless views from the disintegrating walls of the Badal Mahal (Palace of the Clouds), on its northern side. The ramparts stretch for more than 7km, and seven enormous gateways are still intact.

To visit the on the cheap, join the locals who go there to visit the temple dedicated to Ganesh. Shared 4WDs (₹40 per person) go from the train station to the park entrance – say ‘national park’ and they’ll know what you want. From there, other shared 4WDs (₹20 per person) shuttle to and from the fort, which is inside the park. Alternatively hire your own gypsy (and driver) for about ₹1000 for three hours through your hotel.

Sleeping

Hotel Aditya Resort

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9414728468; www.hoteladityaresort.com; Ranthambhore Rd; r ₹400-700, with AC ₹900; 🌳 @ 📶)

This friendly place is one of the better of the few ultracheapies along Ranthambhore Rd. There are just six simple, unadorned rooms (get one with an outside window; only a couple have air-conditioning), and a basic rooftop restaurant. The staff will help with safari bookings, but be sure to ask how much they are charging for the service.

★ Hotel Ranthambhore Regency

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 07462-221176; www.ranthambhor.com; Ranthambhore Rd; s/d incl all meals from ₹6500/7500; 🌳 @ 📶 🛁)

A very professional place that caters to tour groups but can still provide great service to independent travellers. It has immaculate, well-appointed rooms (think marble floors, flat-screen TVs etc), which would rate as suites in most hotels. The central garden with an inviting pool is a virtual oasis, and there's a pampering spa next to the restaurant.

Tiger Safari Resort

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 07462-221137; www.tigersafariresort.com; Ranthambhore Rd; r incl breakfast ₹1800-2200; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

A reasonable midrange option, with spacious doubles and 'cottages' (larger rooms with bigger bathrooms) facing a garden and small pool. The management is adept at organising safaris, wake-up calls and early breakfasts before the morning safari. As per the other hotels, a commission is added for this service, so ask for a breakdown of the costs.

Ankur Resort

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 07462-220792; www.ankurresorts.com; Ranthambhore Rd; s/d incl all meals ₹3500/4000, cottages ₹4000/5000; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Ankur Resort is good at organising safaris, wake-up calls and early breakfasts for tiger spotters. Standard rooms are fairly unadorned, but clean and comfortable with TVs. The cottages boast better beds, a fridge and settee, and overlook the surrounding gardens and pool.

★ Khem Villas

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 07462-252099; www.khemvillas.com; Khem Villas Rd; s/d incl all meals ₹12,000/14,000, tents ₹19,000/23,000, cottages ₹21,000/25,000; 📶 @ 📶)

Set in 9 hectares of organic farmland and reforested land, this splendid ecolodge was created by the Singh Rathore family, the driving force behind the conservation of tigers at Ranthambhore. The accommodation ranges from colonial-style bungalow rooms to luxury tents and sumptuous stone cottages. Privacy is guaranteed – you can even bathe under the stars.

In addition to jungle safaris, Khem Villas runs a river safari (₹5000 for two people) on the Chambal river where you can see gharial and mugger crocodiles plus numerous bird species.

Information

There's an ATM just by Hammir Circle, as well as others by the train station.

Ranthambore Adventure Tours

TRAVEL AGENCY

(GOOGLE MAP);  9414214460; ranthambhoretours@rediff.mail.com; Ranthambhore Rd)

Safari agency that gets good reviews.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP);  07462-220808; Train Station;  9.30am-6pm Mon-Fri)

Has maps of Sawai Madhopur, and can offer suggestions on safaris.

Safari Booking Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP);  5.30am-3.30pm)

Seats in gypsies and canters can be reserved on the website, though a single gypsy (with a premium price) and five canters are also kept for direct booking at the Forest Office. Located 500m from the train station.

Getting There & Away

There are very few direct buses to anywhere of interest, so it's always preferable to take the train.

TRAIN

Sawai Madhopur junction station is near Hammir Circle, which leads to Ranthambhore Rd.

➔ Agra (Agra Fort Station) sleeper ₹210, six hours, three daily (11.10am, 4.10pm, 11.15pm)

➔ Delhi 2nd-class/sleeper/3AC ₹190/260/660, 5½ to eight hours, 13 daily

➔ Jaipur 2nd-class seat/sleeper/3AC ₹100/180/560, two hours, 11 to 13

daily

→ Keoladeo NP (Bharatpur) 2nd-class/sleeper/3AC ₹95/180/560, 2½ hours, 12 to 13 daily

→ Kota (from where you can catch buses to Bundi) 2nd-class/sleeper/3AC ₹90/180/560, one to two hours, hourly

Getting Around

Bicycle hire (around ₹40 per day) is available in the main bazaar.

Autorickshaws are available at the train station; it's ₹50 to ₹100 for an autorickshaw from the train station to Ranthambhore Rd, depending on where you get off. Many hotels will pick you up from the train station for free if you call ahead.

If you want to walk, turn left out of the train station and follow the road up to the overpass (200m). Turn left and cross the bridge over the railway line to reach a roundabout (200m), known as Hammir Circle. Turn right here to reach the safari booking office (1.5km) or left to find accommodation.

UDAIPUR & SOUTHERN RAJASTHAN

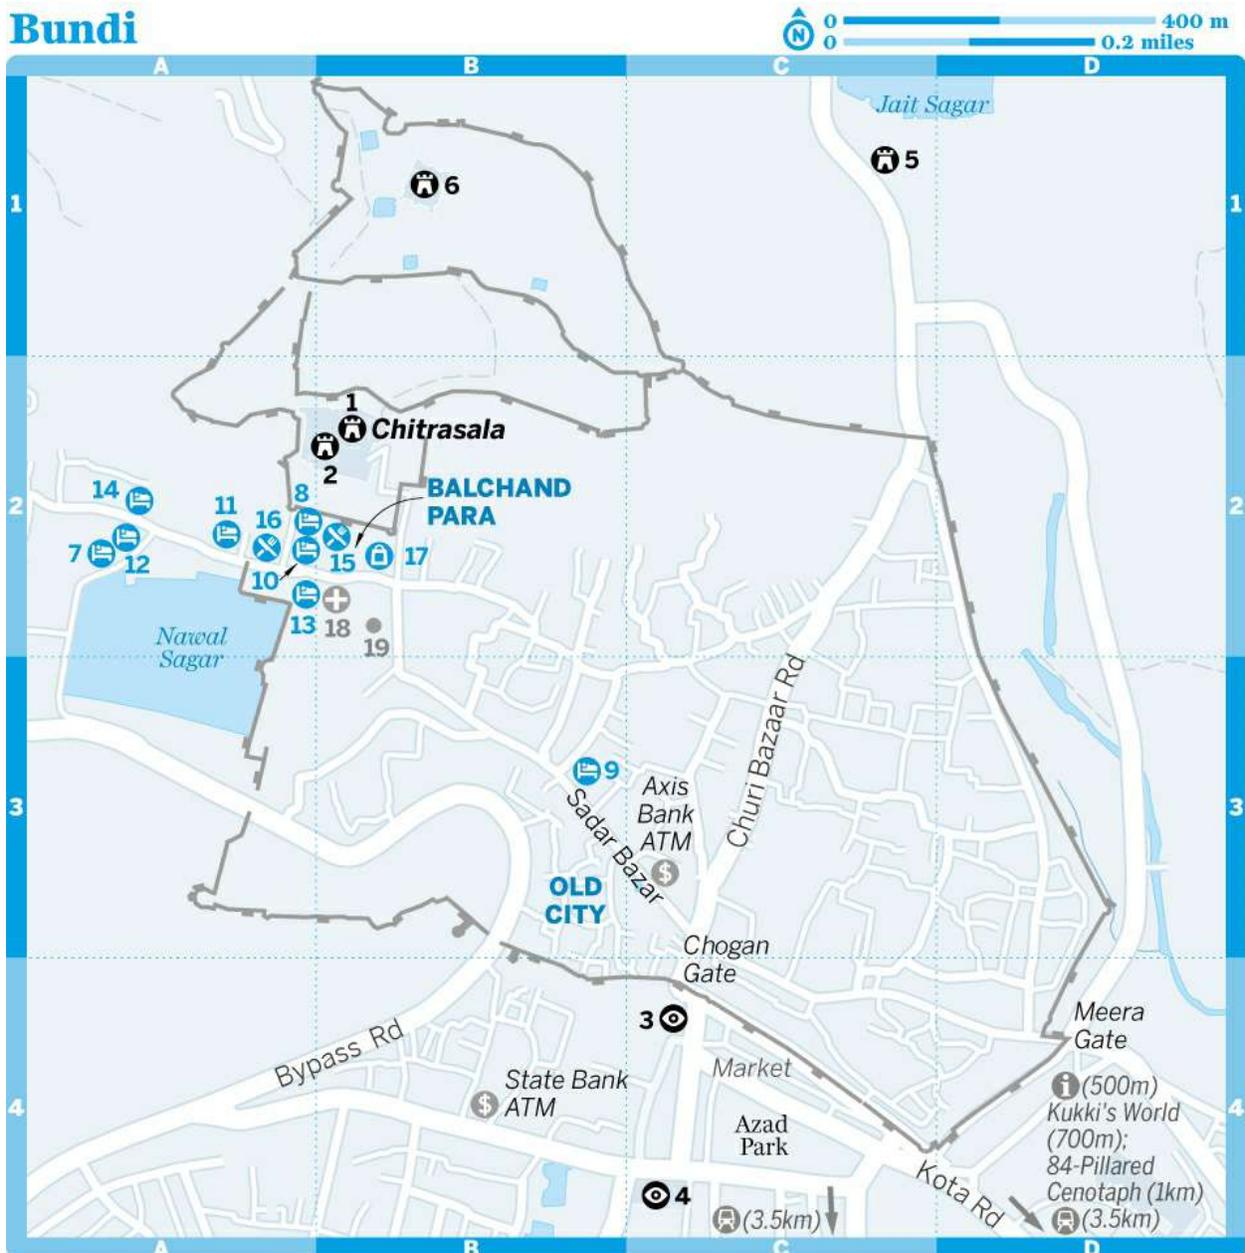

Bundi

📍0747 / POP 103,290

A captivating town with narrow lanes of Brahmin-blue houses, lakes, hills, bazaars, and a temple at every turn, Bundi is dominated by a fantastical palace of faded parchment cupolas and loggias rising from the hillside above the town. Though an increasingly popular traveller hang-out, Bundi attracts nothing like the tourist crowds of places such as Jaipur or Udaipur. Few places in Rajasthan retain so much of the magical atmosphere of centuries past.

Bundi came into its own in the 12th century when a group of Chauhan nobles from Ajmer were pushed south by Mohammed of Ghori. They wrested the Bundi area from the Mina and Bhil tribes and made Bundi the capital of their kingdom, known as Hadoti. Bundi was generally loyal to the Mughals from the late 16th century on, but it maintained its independent status until incorporated into the state of Rajasthan after 1947.

Bundi

Bundi

📍 Top Sights

1 Chitrasala

B2

📍 Sights

2 Bundi Palace

B2

3 Nagar Sagar Kund

C4

4	Raniji-ki-Baori	C4
5	Sukh Mahal	C1
6	Taragarh	B1

Sleeping

7	Annpurna Haveli	A2
8	Bundi Vilas	A2
9	Dev Niwas	B3
10	Haveli Braj Bhushanjee	A2
11	Haveli Katkoun	A2
12	Hotel Bundi Haveli	A2
13	Kasera Heritage View	A2
14	Shivam Tourist Guest House	A2

Eating

	Bundi Vilas	A2
15	Morgan's Place	B2
16	Rainbow Cafe	A2

Shopping

17	Yug Art	B2
----	-------------------------	----

Information

18	Ayurvedic Hospital	B2
19	Roshan Tour & Travel	B2

Sights

Bundi has around 60 beautiful baoris (step-wells), some right in the town centre. The majesty of many of them is unfortunately diminished by their lack of water today – a result of declining groundwater levels – and by the rubbish that collects in them which no one bothers to clean up. The most impressive, Raniji-ki-Baori (Queen's Step-Well; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒 9.30am-5pm), is 46m deep and decorated with sinuous carvings, including the avatars of Lord Vishnu. The Nagar Sagar Kund (MAP)

GOOGLE MAP) is a pair of matching step-wells just outside the old city's Chogan Gate.

Three sights around town, the Raniji-ki-Baori, 84-Pillared Cenotaph (GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒 9.30am-5pm) and Sukh Mahal, can be visited using a composite ticket (Indian/foreigner ₹75/350) – a great saving if you plan to visit two or more of these sights.

Bundi Palace

PALACE

(Garh Palace; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian palace/fort/camera ₹80/100/50, foreigner palace, for & camera ₹500; 🕒 8am-6pm)

This extraordinary, partly decaying edifice – described by Rudyard Kipling as ‘the work of goblins rather than of men’ – almost seems to grow out of the rock of the hillside it stands on. Though large sections are still closed up and left to the bats, the rooms that are open hold a series of fabulous, fading turquoise-and-gold murals that are the palace’s chief treasure. The palace is best explored with a local guide (₹700 half-day), who will be charged ₹100 to enter.

The palace was constructed during the reign of Rao Raja Ratan Singh (r 1607–31) and added to by his successors. Part of it remained occupied by the Bundi royals until 1948.

If you are going up to Taragarh as well as the palace, get tickets for both at the palace entrance. Once inside the palace’s Hathi Pol (Elephant Gate), climb the stairs to the Ratan Daulat or Diwan-e-Aam (Hall of Public Audience), with a white marble coronation throne. You then pass into the Chhatra Mahal, added by Rao Raja Chhatra Shabji in 1644, with some fine but rather weathered murals. Stairs lead up to the Phool Mahal (1607), the murals of which include an immense royal procession, and then the Badal Mahal (Cloud Palace; also 1607), with Bundi’s very best murals, including a wonderful Chinese-inspired ceiling, divided into petal shapes and decorated with peacocks and Krishnas.

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Umaid Mahal; 🕒 8am-6pm)

Within the Bundi Palace complex is the Chitrasala, a small 18th-century palace built by Rao Ummed Singh. To find it, exit through the palace's Hathi Pol (Elephant Gate) and walk round the corner uphill. Above the palace's garden courtyard are several rooms covered in beautiful paintings. There are some great Krishna images, including a detail of him sitting up a tree playing the flute after stealing the clothes of the gopis (milkmaids).

The back room to the right is the Sheesh Mahal, badly damaged but still featuring some beautiful inlaid glass, while back in the front room there's an image of 18th-century Bundi itself.

Taragarh

FORT

(Star Fort; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ₹100, camera/video ₹50/100; 🕒 8am-5pm)

This ramshackle, partly overgrown 14th-century fort, on the hilltop above Bundi Palace, is a wonderful place to ramble around – but take a stick to battle the overgrown vegetation, help the knees on the steep climb and provide confidence when surrounded by testosterone-charged macaques. To reach it, just continue on the path up behind the Chitrasala.

Jait Sagar

LAKE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Round the far side of the Taragarh hill, about 2km north from the centre of town, this picturesque, 1.5km-long lake is flanked by hills and strewn with pretty lotus flowers during the monsoon and winter months. At its near end, the Sukh Mahal (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒 9.30am-5pm) is small summer palace surrounded by terraced gardens where Rudyard Kipling once stayed and wrote part of Kim.

Tours

Keshav Bhati

TOURS

( 9414394241; bharat_bhati@yahoo.com)

Keshav Bhati is a retired Indian Air Force officer with a passion for Bundi. He is also an official tour guide with an encyclopaedic knowledge of the region and is highly recommended. Tour prices are negotiable.

Kukki's World

TOURS

(;  9828404527; www.kukkisworld.com; 43 New Colony; half-/full-day tour for 2 people US$56/78)

OP 'Kukki' Sharma is a passionate amateur archaeologist who has discovered around 70 prehistoric rock-painting sites around Bundi. His trips get you out into the villages and countryside, which he knows like the back of his hand. You can visit his collection of finds and select sites from his laptop at his house (about 300m south of the tourist office) beforehand.

Sleeping

Shivam Tourist Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  9460300272, 0747-2447892; Balchand Para; s/d ₹450/500, r with AC ₹800-1000)

This guesthouse is run by an energetic young couple who are keen to help travellers get the most from their stay in Bundi. Rooms are simple but comfortable and spotless; the better rooms are upstairs. There is an all-veg rooftop restaurant, cooking and henna-design classes are offered, plus they can help with booking transport.

Annpurna Haveli

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  0747-2447055, 9602805455; www.annpurnahavelibundi.com; Balchand Para; r ₹800, r with breakfast & AC ₹1200;  )

Annpurna is a very peaceful family-run guesthouse of just six rooms opposite Nawal Sagar. The simple and clean rooms are a great budget choice, and the best rooms have lake views. Home-cooked meals are enjoyed either in the dining room or on the roof in fine weather.

★ Haveli Braj Bhushanjee

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2442322, 9783355866; www.kiplingsbundi.com; Balchand Para; ₹1500-6000; ❄️ 📶)

This rambling 200-year-old haveli is run by the very helpful and knowledgeable Braj Bhushanjee family, descendants of the former prime ministers of Bundi. It's Bundi's first guesthouse and an enchanting place with original stone interiors, a private garden, splendid rooftop views, beautiful, well-preserved murals, and all sorts of other historic and valuable artefacts.

The terrific range of accommodation includes some lovely, modernised rooms that are still in traditional style. It's a fascinating living museum where you can really get a feel for Bundi's heritage. The haveli is opposite the Ayurvedic Hospital, though the main entrance is around the corner.

★ Hotel Bundi Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9929291552, 0747-2447861; www.hotelbundihaveli.com; Balchand Para; ₹1300-4750; ❄️ 📶)

The exquisitely renovated Bundi Haveli leads the pack in terms of contemporary style and sophistication. Spacious rooms, white walls, stone floors, colour highlights and framed artefacts are coupled with modern plumbing and electricity. Yes, it's very comfortable and relaxed and there's a lovely rooftop dining area boasting palace views and an extensive, mainly Indian menu (mains ₹100 to ₹280).

Dev Niwas

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2442928, 8233345394; www.jagatcollection.com; Maaji Sahib-k Haveli; r ₹870-1300, with AC ₹3050, ste ₹4350; ❄️ 📶) 🌿

Dev Niwas is a fine haveli, just off the busy Sadar Bazaar. Inside is a peaceful oasis with courtyards and open-sided pavilions. Rooms are all very different, yet they are all comfortably furnished and fitted with modern bathrooms. The open-sided restaurant has cushion seating and there are great views of the fort.

Bundi Vilas

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2444614, 9214803556; www.bundivilas.com; r incl breakfast ₹4000-5000; ❄️ @ 📶)

This 300-year-old haveli up a side alley has been tastefully renovated with golden Jaisalmer sandstone, earth-toned walls and deft interior design. The five deluxe and two suite rooms exude period character yet boast excellent bathrooms. Set in the lee of the palace walls, this guesthouse has commanding views of the town below and palace above from the rooftop terrace restaurant.

Kasera Heritage View

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9983790314, 0747-2444679; www.kaseraheritageview.com; s/d from ₹800/1000, r with breakfast & AC from ₹2000; ❄️ @ 📶)

A revamped haveli, Kasera has an incongruously modern lobby, but offers a range of slightly more authentic rooms. The welcome is friendly, it's all cheerfully decorated, the rooftop restaurant has great views, and discounts of 20% to 30% are offered in summer. The owners' sister haveli, Kasera Paradise, just below the palace, has the same contact details and rates.

Haveli Katkoun

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2444311, 9414539146; www.katkounhavelibundi.com; s/d ₹700/1200, r incl breakfast & AC ₹2400; ❄️ 📶)

Just outside the town's western gate, Katkoun is a completely revamped haveli with friendly family management who live downstairs. It boasts large, spotless rooms offering superb views on both sides, to either the lake or palace, and has a good rooftop restaurant (mains ₹65 to ₹200), known for its Indian nonveg dishes.

Eating

★ Bundi Vilas

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2444614; www.bundivilas.com; Balchand Para; mains ₹210-250, set dinners ₹700; 🕒 7.30-10am, 1-3pm & 7-10pm; 📶 🍴)

The most romantic restaurant in Bundi welcomes visitors from other hotels. Dine in the sheltered yet open-sided terrace, or on the rooftop with uninterrupted views of the fort. It's wise to book for dinner as spots are limited for the candlelit experience beneath the floodlit palace. The set dinner offers several courses of exquisite food and wine is available.

Bundi Vilas has its own farm on the outskirts of Bundi that supplies much of its fresh fruit and vegetables. Do try the homemade jams if you get the chance.

Morgan's Place

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kasera Paradise Hotel; mains ₹130-240; 🕒 9am-10pm; 📶)

Morgan's Place is a relaxed (possibly overly relaxed) rooftop restaurant with good espresso (coffees ₹60 to ₹100). If you're in the mood for caffeine, don't mind climbing lots of stairs, and aren't in a hurry, then it delivers. It also serves fresh juice, respectable pizza and pasta, and falafel.

Rainbow Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9887210334; mains ₹120-260, thalis ₹250-500; 🕒 7am-11pm; 📶)

Bohemian ambience with chill-out tunes, floor-cushion seating, good snacks and special lassis. You need to be patient, but food eventually emerges from the tiny kitchen. Located on the rooftop of the town's western gate and caged off from marauding macaques with a bamboo trellis.

Shopping

Yug Art

ART

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.yugartbundi.com; near Surang Gate; portrait postcard ₹800-1600, comics from ₹3000; 🕒 10am-7.30pm)

Many art shops will offer you Rajasthani miniatures, but Yug Art offers to put you into one. Provide a photo and you can be pictured on elephant-back or in any number of classical scenes. Alternatively, Yug will record your India trip in a unique travel comic – you help with the script and he'll provide the artwork.

THE MINI-MASTERPIECES OF KOTA & BUNDI

Some of Rajasthan's finest miniature and mural painting was produced around Bundi and Kota, the ruling Hada Rajputs being keen artistic patrons. The style combined the dominant features of folk painting – intense colour and bold forms – with the Mughals' concern with naturalism.

The Bundi and Kota schools were initially similar, but developed markedly different styles, though both usually have a background of thick foliage, cloudy skies and scenes lit by the setting sun. When architecture appears it is depicted in loving detail. The willowy women sport round faces, large petal-shaped eyes and small noses – forerunners of Bollywood pin-ups.

The Bundi school is notable for its blue hues, with a palette of turquoise and azure unlike anything seen elsewhere. Bundi Palace in particular hosts some wonderful examples.

In Kota you'll notice a penchant for hunting scenes with fauna and dense foliage – vivid, detailed portrayals of hunting expeditions in Kota's once thickly wooded surrounds. Kota's City Palace has some of the best-preserved wall paintings in the state.

i Information

Head to Sadar Bazar to find ATMs.

Ayurvedic Hospital

HOSPITAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0747-2443708; Balchand Para; 🕒 9am-1pm & 4-6pm Mon-Sat, 9-11am Sun)

This charitable hospital prescribes natural plant-based remedies. There are medicines for all sorts of ailments, from upset tummies to arthritis, and many of them are free.

Roshan Tour & Travel

TRAVEL AGENCY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; internet per hr ₹40; 🕒 8am-10pm)

Travel agency that books train tickets, exchanges currency and has an internet cafe. Located 300m south of the palace.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0747-2443697; Kota Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6pm Mon-Fri)

Offers bus and train schedules, free maps and helpful advice.

Getting There & Away

BUS

For Ranthambhore, it's quicker to catch the train or a bus to Kota, then hop on a train to Sawai Madhopur.

Direct services from Bundi bus stand (GOOGLE MAP):

- ➔ Ajmer ₹186, four hours, hourly
- ➔ Jaipur ₹216, five hours, hourly
- ➔ Jodhpur ₹376, eight hours, five per day
- ➔ Kota ₹39, 40 minutes, every 15 minutes
- ➔ Pushkar ₹200, 4½ hours, two daily
- ➔ Sawai Madhoper ₹120, five hours, three daily

TRAIN

Bundi station is 4km south of the old city. There are no daily trains to Jaipur, Ajmer or Jodhpur. It's better to take a bus, or to catch a train from Kota or Chittorgarh.

- ➔ Agra (Agra Fort Station) sleeper ₹160, 12½ hours, daily (5.35pm)

- ➔ Chittorgarh sleeper ₹180, 2½ to 3½ hours, three to five daily (2.08am, 2.24am, 7.05am, 9.16am and 11pm)
- ➔ Delhi (Hazrat Nizamuddin) sleeper ₹325, eight to 12 hours, two daily (5.48pm and 10.35pm)
- ➔ Sawai Madhopur sleeper ₹180, 2½ to five hours, three daily (5.35pm, 5.48pm and 10.35pm; the last train is the fastest)
- ➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹220, five hours, daily (12963 Mewar Express; 2.08am)

Getting Around

An autorickshaw from town to the train station costs ₹70 by day and ₹100 to ₹120 at night.

Kota

 0744 / POP 1 MILLION

An easy day trip from Bundi, Kota is a gritty industrial and commercial city on the Chambal, Rajasthan's only permanent river. You can take boat trips on the river here, for bird- and crocodile-watching, or explore the city's old palace.

Sights

City Palace

PALACE, MUSEUM

(Kotah Garh; www.kotahfort.com; Indian/foreigner ₹100/300;  10am-4.30pm)

The City Palace, and the fort that surrounds it, make up one of the largest such complexes in Rajasthan. This was the royal residence and centre of power, housing the Kota principedom's treasury, courts, arsenal, armed forces and state offices. The palace, entered through a gateway topped by rampant elephants, contains the offbeat Rao Madho Singh Museum, where you'll find everything for a respectable Raj existence, from silver furniture to weaponry, as well as perhaps India's most depressingly moth-eaten stuffed trophy animals.

The oldest part of the palace dates from 1624. Downstairs is a darbar (royal audience) hall with beautiful mirrorwork, while the elegant, small-scale apartments upstairs contain exquisite, beautifully preserved paintings, particularly the hunting scenes for which Kota is renowned.

To get here, it's around ₹40 in an autorickshaw from the bus stand, and at least ₹70 from the train station.

Activities

Boat Trips

BOATING

(per person 5min/1hr ₹60/1300, max 6 people; 🕒 10.30am-dusk)

A lovely hiatus from the city is a Chambal River boat trip. The river upstream of Kota is part of the Darrah National Park and once you escape the city it's beautiful, with lush vegetation and craggy cliffs on either side. Boats start from Chambal Gardens (Indian/foreigner ₹2/5), 1.5km south of the fort on the river's east bank.

Trips provide the opportunity to spot a host of birds, as well as gharials (thin-snouted, fish-eating crocodiles) and muggers (keep-your-limbs-inside-the-boat crocodiles).

Sleeping

Palkiya Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(📞 0744-2387497; www.palkiyahaveli.com; Mokha Para; s/d ₹2725/3315; 🏠 📶)

This exquisite haveli has been in the same family for 200 years. Set in a deliciously peaceful corner of the old city, about 800m east of the City Palace, it's a lovely, relaxing place to stay, with welcoming hosts, a high-walled garden and a courtyard with a graceful neem tree.

There are impressive murals and appealing heritage rooms, and the food is top-notch.

Information

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

( 0744-2327695; RTDC Hotel Chambal;  9.30am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Has free maps of Kota and helpful staff. Turn left out of the bus stand, right at the second roundabout and it's on your right.

Getting There & Away

BUS

Services from the main bus stand (on Bundi Rd, east of the bridge over the Chambal River) include the following:

- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) ₹230, four to five hours, at least 10 daily
- ➔ Bundi ₹35, 40 minutes, every 15 minutes throughout the day
- ➔ Chittorgarh ₹184, four hours, half-hourly from 6am
- ➔ Jaipur ₹240, five hours, hourly from 5am
- ➔ Udaipur ₹350 to ₹400, six to seven hours, at least 10 daily

TRAIN

Kota is on the main Mumbai–Delhi train route via Sawai Madhopur, so there are plenty of trains to choose from, though departure times aren't always convenient.

- ➔ Agra (Fort) sleeper ₹225, five to nine hours, three to four daily (7.30am, 9.50am, 2.40pm and 9pm)
- ➔ Chittorgarh sleeper ₹150, three to four hours, three to four daily (1.10am, 1.25am, 6.05am and 8.45am)
- ➔ Delhi (New Delhi or Hazrat Nizamuddin) sleeper ₹315, five to eight hours, almost hourly

- ➔ Jaipur sleeper ₹225, four hours, six daily (2.55am, 7.40am, 8.55am, 12.35pm, 5.35pm and 11.50pm), plus other trains on selected days
- ➔ Mumbai sleeper ₹490, 14 hours, five daily fast trains (7.45am, 2.25pm, 5.30pm, 9.05pm and 11.45pm)
- ➔ Sawai Madhopur 2nd-class seat/sleeper ₹125/180, one to two hours, more than 24 daily
- ➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹245, six hours, one or two daily (1.10am and 1.25am)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM KOTA

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Agra	19037/19039 Avadh Exp	2.40pm	9.50pm	225/600/850 (A)
Chittorgarh	29020 Dehradun Exp	8.45am	11.35am	150/715/1180 (C)
Delhi (Hazrat Nizamuddin)	12903 Golden Temple Mail	11.05am	6.45pm	315/805/1115/1855 (E)
Jaipur	12955 Mumbai–Jaipur Exp	8.55am	12.40pm	225/580/780/1275 (E)
Mumbai	12904 Golden Temple Mail	2.25pm	5.20am	490/1275/1805/3035 (E)
Sawai Madhopur	12059 Shatabdi	5.55am	7.03am	125/370 (D)
Udaipur	12963 Mewar Exp	1.25am	7.15am	245/580/780/1275 (E)

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC/2AC, (B) sleeper, (C) sleeper/2AC/1AC, (D) 2nd class/AC chair, (E) sleeper/3AC/2AC/1AC

Getting Around

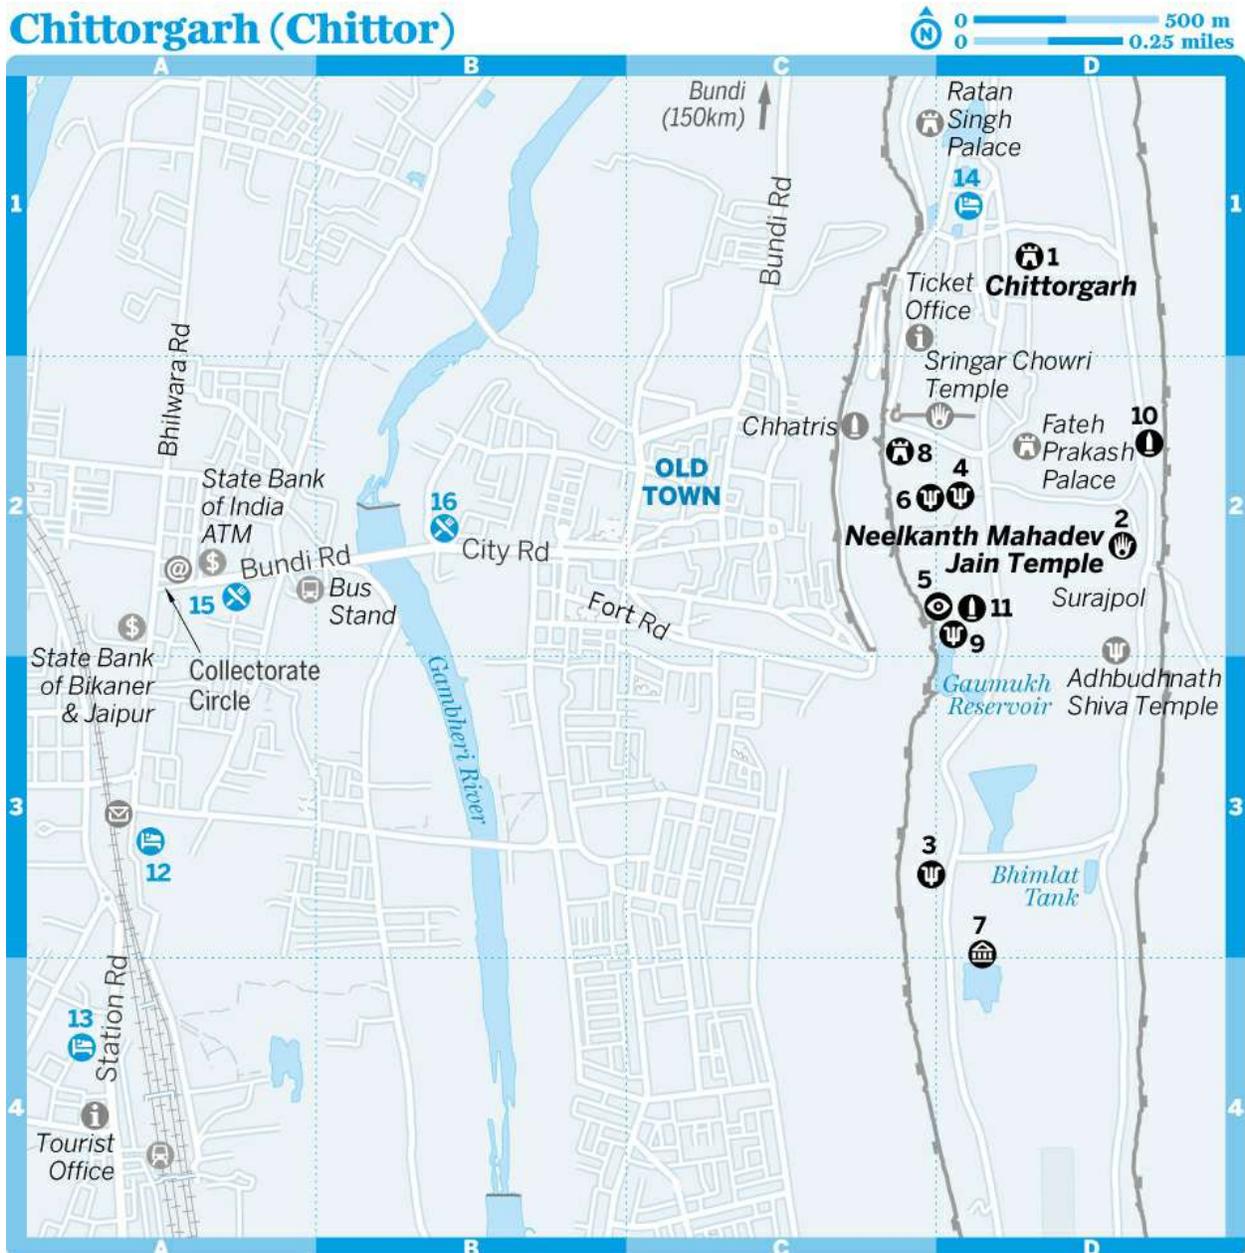

Minibuses and shared autorickshaws link the train station and main bus stand (₹10 per person). A private autorickshaw costs around ₹50.

Chittorgarh (Chittor)

Chittorgarh (the fort, garh, at Chittor) is the largest fort complex in India, and a fascinating place to explore. It rises from the plains like a huge rock island, nearly 6km long and surrounded on all sides by 150m-plus cliffs.

Its history epitomises Rajput romanticism, chivalry and tragedy, and it holds a special place in the hearts of many Rajputs. Three times (in 1303, 1535 and 1568) Chittorgarh was under attack from a more powerful enemy; each time, its people chose death before dishonour, performing jauhar. The men donned saffron martyrs' robes and rode out from the fort to certain death, while the women and children immolated themselves on huge funeral pyres. After the last of the three sackings, Rana Udai Singh II fled to Udaipur, where he established a new capital for Mewar. In 1616, Jehangir returned Chittor to the Rajputs. There was no attempt at resettlement, though it was restored in 1905.

Chittorgarh (Chittor)

Chittorgarh (Chittor)

Top Sights

- 1 Chittorgarh D1

- 2 Neelkanth Mahadev Jain Temple D2

Sights

- 3 Kalika Mata Temple C3

4	Kumbha Shyam Temple	D2
5	Mahasati	D2
6	Meera Temple	C2
7	Padmini's Palace	D3
8	Rana Kumbha Palace	C2
9	Samidheshwar Temple	D2
10	Tower of Fame	D2
11	Tower of Victory	D2

Sleeping

12	Hotel Pratap Palace	A3
13	Hotel Shree Ji	A4
14	Padmini Haveli	D1

Eating

15	Chokhi Dhani Garden Family Restaurant	A2
16	Saffire Garden Restaurant	B2

Sights

★ Chittorgarh

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, Sound & Light Show (in Hindi) ₹100; 🕒 dawn-dusk, Sound & Light Show dusk)

A zigzag ascent of more than 1km starts at Padal Pol and leads through six gateways to the main gate on the western side, the Ram Pol (the former back entrance). Inside Ram Pol is a still-occupied village (turn right here for the ticket office (GOOGLE MAP)). The rest of the plateau is deserted except for the wonderful palaces, towers and temples that survive from the fort's heyday, along with a few recent temples. A loop road runs around the plateau.

A typical vehicular exploration of the fort takes two to three hours. Licensed guides charging around ₹400 for up to four hours are available for either walking or autorickshaw tours, usually at the ticket office.

Meera & Kumbha Shyam Temples

Both of these temples southeast of the Rana Kumbha Palace (MAP GOOGLE MAP) were built by Rana Kumbha in the ornate Indo-Aryan style, with classic, tall sikharas (spires). The Meera Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP) the smaller of the two, is now associated with the mystic-poetess Meerabai, a 16th-century Mewar royal who was poisoned by her brother-in-law but survived due to the blessings of Krishna. The Kumbha Shyam Temple (Temple of Varah; MAP GOOGLE MAP) is dedicated to Vishnu and its carved panels illustrate 15th-century Mewar life.

Tower of Victory

The glorious Tower of Victory (Jaya Stambha; MAP GOOGLE MAP), symbol of Chittorgarh, was erected by Rana Kumbha in the 1440s, probably to commemorate a victory over Mahmud Khilji of Malwa. Dedicated to Vishnu, it rises 37m in nine exquisitely carved storeys, and you can climb the 157 narrow stairs (the interior is also carved) to the 8th floor, from where there's a good view of the area.

Below the tower, to the southwest, is the Mahasati (MAP GOOGLE MAP) area, where there are many sati (self-immolation) stones – this was the royal cremation ground and was also where 13,000 women committed jauhar in 1535. The Samidheshwar Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), built in the 6th century and restored in 1427, is nearby. Notable among its intricate carving is a Trimurti (three-faced) figure of Shiva.

Gaumukh Reservoir

Walk down beyond the Samidheshwar Temple and at the edge of the cliff is a deep tank, the Gaumukh Reservoir, where you can feed the fish. The reservoir takes its name from a spring that feeds the tank from a gaumukh (cow's mouth) carved into the cliffside.

Padmini's Palace

Continuing south, you reach the Kalika Mata Temple (MAP)

GOOGLE MAP), an 8th-century sun temple damaged during the first sacking of Chittorgarh and then converted to a temple for the goddess Kali in the 14th century. Padmini's Palace (MAP GOOGLE MAP) stands about 250m further south, beside a small lake with a central pavilion. The bronze gates to this pavilion were carried off by Akbar and can now be seen in Agra Fort.

Surajpol & Tower of Fame

Surajpol, on the fort's east side, was the main gate and offers fantastic views across the cultivated plains. Opposite is the Neelkanth Mahadev Jain Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP). A little further north, the 24m-high Tower of Fame (Kirtti Stambha; MAP GOOGLE MAP), dating from 1301, is smaller than the Tower of Victory. Built by a Jain merchant, the tower is dedicated to Adinath, the first Jain tirthankar (one of the 24 revered Jain teachers) and is decorated with naked figures of various other tirthankars, indicating that it is a monument of the Digambara (sky-clad) order. A narrow stairway leads up the seven storeys to the top. Next door is a 14th-century Jain temple.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Padmini Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9414734497, 9414110090; www.thepadminihaveli.com; Annapoorna Temple Rd, Shah Chowk, Village, Chittorgarh Fort; r/ste incl breakfast ₹4000/5000; 📶 @ 📶)

This fabulous guesthouse with charming, enthusiastic and well-informed hosts is the only accommodation within the fort. Stylish rooms boast granite bathrooms and traditional decoration, and open onto the communal courtyard of the haveli. The hosts are official Chittorgarh guides and they live on-site, providing Italian coffee and homemade meals and jams.

There are only six rooms, three standard and three suites, so booking is advised. This white-washed haveli with a large black door can be hard to find in the labyrinthine laneways of the village, so call first.

Hotel Shree Ji

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9413670931, 01472-249131; hotelshtreeji@gmail.com; Station Rd; s/d from ₹1800/2000; 🌳 📶)

A cheerful and efficient business hotel, just 300m from the train station, and a world away from the lacklustre hotels near the bus station. Rooms are bright and spotless and come with complimentary morning tea, newspaper and bottle of water. The restaurant serves an inexpensive thali in the evening.

Hotel Pratap Palace

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01472-240099; www.hotelpratappalacechittaurgarh.com; off Maharaj Pratap Setu Marg; r ₹1500, with AC ₹1800-4500; 🌳 @ 📶)

This hotel has a wide range of rooms, though its business as a lunch stop for bus groups takes precedence over its accommodation enterprise. Even the more expensive rooms suffer from poor maintenance, and cleanliness standards could be higher. There's a large multicuisine restaurant that produces buffets for tour groups. Try and order à la carte if you can.

The owners also run village tours, horse rides and the upmarket Hotel Castle Bijaipur out of town.

Hotel Castle Bijaipur

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(📞 01472-240099; www.castlebijaipur.co.in; r from ₹8700; 🌳 📶 🚰)

This fantastically set 16th-century palace is an ideal rural retreat 41km by road east of Chittorgarh. It's a great place to settle down with a good book, compose a fairy-tale fantasy or just laze around. Rooms are romantic and luxurious, and there's a pleasant garden courtyard and an airy restaurant serving Rajasthani food. It's popular with tour groups.

Reservations should be made through the website or through Chittorgarh's Hotel Pratap Palace. The owners can arrange transfer from Chittor as well as horse and 4WD safaris, birdwatching, cooking classes, massage and yoga.

Chokhi Dhani Garden Family Restaurant

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9413716593; Bundi Rd; mains ₹80-150, thalis ₹110-290; 🕒 9am-10.30pm; ❄️ 🍴)

This fan-cooled roadside dhaba (snack bar) with extra seating in the back does a good-value selection of vegetarian dishes, including filling thalis and a variety of North and South Indian dishes.

Saffire Garden Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; City Rd; mains ₹100-170; 🕒 8am-10pm; ❄️)

Sit at tables on the small, tree-shaded lawn or inside the air-conditioned room at the back, and tuck into a variety of standard, but tasty enough, Indian and Chinese dishes.

i Information

ATMs can be found near Collectorate Circle.

State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur (SBBJ; GOOGLE MAP; Bhilwara Rd; 🕒 9.30am-4pm Mon-Fri, to noon Sat) ATM and money changing.

Mahavir Cyber Cafe

INTERNET

(GOOGLE MAP; Collectorate Circle; per hour ₹40; 🕒 8am-10pm)

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01472-241089; Station Rd; 🕒 10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat)

Friendly and helpful, with a town map and brochure.

i Getting There & Away

BUS

There are no direct buses to Bundi; take the train instead. Services from the Chittorgarh bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) include the following:

➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) ₹197, AC ₹350, four hours, hourly until mid-afternoon

- ➔ Jaipur ₹339, AC ₹667, seven hours, around every 1½ hours
- ➔ Kota ₹184, four hours, half-hourly
- ➔ Udaipur ₹120, with AC ₹255, 2½ hours, half-hourly

TRAIN

- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) sleeper ₹150, three hours, five to seven daily (12.35am, 2.50am, 8.20am, 10.10am, 7.30pm, 7.45pm and 11.30pm)
- ➔ Bundi sleeper ₹150, two to 3½ hours, three daily (1.50pm, 3.35pm and 8.50pm)
- ➔ Delhi (Delhi Sarai Rohilla or Hazrat Nizamuddin) sleeper ₹380, 10 hours, two daily fast trains (7.30pm and 8.50pm)
- ➔ Jaipur sleeper ₹220, 5½ hours, four daily (12.35am, 2.45am, 8.20am and 8.35am)
- ➔ Sawai Madhopur sleeper ₹210, four to nine hours, three daily (1.50pm, 3.35pm and 8.50pm; the latest is the quickest)
- ➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹150, two hours, six daily (4.25am, 5.05am, 5.33am, 6.35am, 4.50pm and 7.25pm)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM CHITTORGARH

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Ajmer (for Pushkar)	12991 Udaipur-Jaipur Exp	8.20am	11.25am	120/410/550 (A)
Bundi	29019 MDS-Kota Exp	3.35pm	5.45pm	160/735/1200 (B)
Delhi (Hazrat Nizamuddin)	12964 Mewar Exp	8.50pm	6.35am	370/975/1380/2325 (C)
Jaipur	12991 Udaipur-Jaipur Exp	8.20am	1.30pm	160/545/750 (A)
Sawai Madhopur	29019 MDS-Kota Exp	3.35pm	9.25pm	210/735/1200 (B)
Udaipur	19329 Udaipur City	4.50pm	7.15pm	160/530/735/1200

Fares: (A) 2nd-class seat/AC chair/1st-class seat, (B) sleeper/2AC/1AC, (C) sleeper/3AC/2AC/1AC

Getting Around

A full tour of the fort by autorickshaw should cost around ₹400 return. You can arrange this yourself in town.

Udaipur

 0294 / POP 451,735

Beside shimmering Lake Pichola, with the ochre and purple ridges of the wooded Aravalli Hills stretching away in every direction, Udaipur has a romance of setting unmatched in Rajasthan and arguably in all India. Fantastical palaces, temples, havelis and countless narrow, crooked, timeless streets add the human counterpoint to the city's natural charms. For the visitor there's the tranquillity of boat rides on the lake, the bustle and colour of ancient bazaars, a lively arts scene, the quaint old-world feel of its better hotels, endless tempting shops and some lovely countryside to explore on wheels, feet or horseback.

Udaipur's tag of 'the most romantic spot on the continent of India' was first applied in 1829 by Colonel James Tod, the East India Company's first political agent in the region. Today the romance is wearing slightly thin as ever-taller hotels compete for the best view and traffic clogs ancient thoroughfares.

Udaipur was founded in 1568 by Maharana Udai Singh II following the final sacking of Chittorgarh by the Mughal emperor Akbar. This new capital of Mewar had a much less vulnerable location than Chittorgarh. Mewar still had to contend with repeated invasions by the Mughals and, later, the Marathas, until British intervention in the early 19th century. This resulted in a treaty that protected Udaipur from invaders while allowing Mewar's rulers to remain effectively all-powerful in internal affairs. The ex-royal family remains influential and in recent decades has been the driving force behind the rise of Udaipur as a tourist destination.

Udaipur

 Sights

1 Badi Pol

B2

2	Bagore-ki-Haveli	B2
3	City Palace	B3
4	City Palace Museum	B3
5	Crystal Gallery	B3
6	Durbar Hall	B4
7	Government Museum	B3
8	Jagdish Temple	B2
9	Lal Ghat	B2
10	Sheetla Mata Gate	C4
11	Tripolia Gate	B3

Activities, Courses & Tours

	Art of Bicycle Trips	B1
	Ashoka Arts	B1
12	Ayurvedic Body Care	B2
13	Lake Pichola Boat Trips	B4
	Millets of Mewar	A1
14	Prakash Yoga	B1
15	Prem Musical Instruments	B1
16	Shashi Cooking Classes	B1
	Sushma's Cooking Classes	B2

Sleeping

17	Amet Haveli	A2
18	Dream Heaven	A1
19	Fateh Prakash Palace Hotel	B4
20	Hotel Baba Palace	C1
21	Hotel Gangaur Palace	B1
22	Hotel Krishna Niwas	B2
23	Jagat Niwas Palace Hotel	B2
24	Jaiwana Haveli	B2
25	Lal Ghat Guest House	B2
26	Nukkad Guest House	B1
	Poonam Haveli	B2
27	Pratap Bhawan	B2
28	Rangniwas Palace Hotel	D4
29	Shiv Niwas Palace Hotel	B4
30	Taj Lake Palace	A4
31	Udai Garh	B2
32	Udai Kothi	A2

Eating

33	Ambrai	A2
34	Cafe Edelweiss	B1
	Charcoal	B2
	Jagat Niwas Palace Hotel	B2
35	Little Prince	A1
	Mayur Rooftop Cafe	C1
36	Millets of Mewar	A1
37	Queen Cafe	A1

Drinking & Nightlife

	Jaiwana Bistro Lounge	B2
38	Jheel's Ginger Coffee Bar	B1
39	Paps Juices	B1
40	Sunset Terrace	B4

Entertainment

41	Dharohar	B2
42	Mewar Sound & Light Show	C3

Shopping

43	Sadhna	C1
----	------------------------	----

Sights

★ City Palace

PALACE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.eternalmewar.in; adult/child ₹30/15; ⌚ 9am-11pm)

Surmounted by balconies, towers and cupolas towering over the lake, the imposing City Palace is Rajasthan's largest palace, with a facade 244m long and 30.4m high. Construction was begun in 1599 by Maharana Udai Singh II, the city's founder, and it later became a conglomeration of structures (including 11 separate smaller palaces) built and extended by various maharanas, though it still manages to retain a surprising uniformity of design.

You can enter the complex through Badi Pol (Great Gate; MAP GOOGLE MAP) at the northern end, or the Sheetla Mata Gate (MAP GOOGLE MAP) to the south. Tickets for the City Palace Museum are sold at both entrances. Note: you must pay the ₹30 City Palace entrance ticket in order to pass south through Chandra Chowk Gate, en route to the Crystal Gallery or Rameshwar Ghat for the Lake Pichola boat rides, even if you have a City Palace Museum ticket.

Inside Badi Pol, eight arches on the left commemorate the eight times maharanas were weighed here and their weight in gold or silver distributed to the lucky locals. You then pass through the three-arched Tripolia Gate (MAP GOOGLE MAP) into a large courtyard, Manek Chowk. Spot the large tiger-catching cage, which worked rather like an oversized mousetrap, and the smaller one for leopards.

★ City Palace Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; adult/child ₹250/100, camera or video ₹250, guide ₹250, audio guide ₹200; 🕒 9.30am-5.30pm, last entry 4.30pm)

The main part of the City Palace is open as the City Palace Museum, with rooms extravagantly decorated with mirrors, tiles and paintings, and housing a large and varied collection of artefacts. It's entered from Ganesh Chowk, which you reach from Manek Chowk.

The City Palace Museum begins with the Rai Angan (Royal Courtyard), the very spot where Udai Singh met the sage who told him to build a city here. Rooms along one side contain historical paintings, including several of the Battle of Haldighati (1576), in which Mewar forces under Maharana Pratap, one of the great Rajput heroes, gallantly fought the army of Mughal emperor Akbar to a stalemate.

As you move through the palace, highlights include the Baadi Mahal (1699), where a pretty central garden gives fine views over the city. Kishan (Krishna) Vilas has a remarkable collection of miniatures from the time of Maharana Bhim Singh (r 1778–1828). The story goes that Bhim Singh's daughter Krishna Kumari drank a fatal cup of poison here to solve the dilemma of rival princely suitors from Jaipur and Jodhpur who were both threatening to invade Mewar if she didn't marry them. The Surya Choupad boasts a huge, ornamental sun – the symbol of the sun-descended Mewar dynasty – and opens into Mor Chowk (Peacock Courtyard) with its lovely mosaics of peacocks, the favourite Rajasthani bird.

The southern end of the museum comprises the Zenana Mahal, the royal ladies' quarters built in the 17th century. It now contains a long picture gallery with lots of royal hunting scenes (note the comic strip-style of the action in each painting). The Zenana Mahal's central courtyard, Laxmi Chowk, contains a beautiful white pavilion and a stable of howdahs, palanquins and other people-carriers.

Crystal Gallery

GALLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; City Palace Complex; adult/child incl audio guide & drink ₹550/350, photography prohibited; 🕒 9am-7pm)

The Crystal Gallery houses rare crystal that Maharana Sajjan Singh (r 1874–84) ordered from F&C Osler & Co in England in 1877. The maharana died before it arrived, and all the items stayed forgotten and packed up in boxes for 110 years. The extraordinary, extravagant collection includes crystal chairs, sofas, tables and even beds. The rather hefty admission fee also includes entry to the grand Durbar Hall (MAP GOOGLE MAP; City Palace Complex). Tickets are available at the City Palace gates or the Crystal Gallery entrance.

Government Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹20/100; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

Entered from Ganesh Chowk, this museum has a splendid collection of jewel-like miniature paintings of the Mewar school and a turban that belonged to Shah Jahan, creator of the Taj Mahal. Stranger exhibits include a stuffed monkey holding a lamp. There are also regal maharana portraits in profile, documenting Mewar's rulers along with the changing fashions of the moustache.

★ Lake Pichola

LAKE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Limpid and large, Lake Pichola reflects the grey-blue mountains on its mirror-like surface. It was enlarged by Maharana Udai Singh II, following his foundation of the city, by flooding Picholi village, which gave the lake its name. The lake is now 4km long and 3km wide, but remains shallow and dries up completely during severe droughts. The City Palace complex, including the gardens at its southern end, extends nearly 1km along the lake's eastern shore.

Boat trips (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Rameshwar Ghat; adult/child 10am-2pm ₹400/200, 3-5pm ₹700/400; 🕒 10am-5pm) leave roughly hourly from Rameshwar Ghat, within the City Palace complex (note, you have to pay ₹30 to enter). The trips make a stop at Jagmandir Island, where you can stay for as long as you like before taking any boat back. Take your own drinks and snacks, though, as those sold on the island are extortionately expensive. You can also take 25-minute boat rides from Lal Ghat (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (₹250 per person) throughout the day without the need to enter the City Palace complex: it's worth checking in advance what time the popular sunset departure casts off.

Jagmandir Island

ISLAND

(GOOGLE MAP)

The palace on Jagmandir Island, about 800m south of Jagniwas, was built by Maharana Karan Singh II in 1620, added to by his successor Maharana Jagat Singh, and then changed very little until the last few years when it was partly converted into another (smaller) hotel. When lit up at night it has more romantic sparkle to it than the Lake Palace. As well as the seven hotel rooms, the island has a restaurant, bar and spa, which are open to visitors.

With its entrance flanked by a row of enormous stone elephants, the island has an ornate 17th-century tower, the Gol Mahal, carved from bluestone and containing a small exhibit on Jagmandir's history, plus a garden and lovely views across the lake.

Boat trips leave roughly hourly from Rameshwar Ghat, within the City Palace complex (note, you have to pay ₹30 to enter). The trips make a stop at Jagmandir Island, where you can stay for as long as you like before taking any boat back. Take your own drinks and snacks, though, as those sold on the island are extortionately expensive.

Jagdish Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 5.30am-2pm & 4-10pm)

Reached by a steep, elephant-flanked flight of steps, 150m north of the City Palace's Badi Pol, this busy Indo-Aryan temple was built by Maharana Jagat Singh in 1651. The wonderfully carved main structure enshrines a black stone image of Vishnu as Jagannath, Lord of the Universe. There's also a brass image of the Garuda (Vishnu's man-bird vehicle) in a shrine facing the main structure.

Bagore-ki-Haveli

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹40/80, camera ₹50; 🕒 9.30am-5.30pm)

This gracious 18th-century haveli, set on the water's edge in the Gangaur Ghat area, was built by a Mewar prime minister and has since been carefully restored. There are 138 rooms set around courtyards, some arranged to evoke the period during which the house was inhabited, while others house cultural displays, including – intriguingly enough – the world's biggest turban.

The haveli also houses a gallery featuring a fascinating collection of period photos of Udaipur and a surreal collection of world-famous monuments carved out of polystyrene.

Sajjan Garh

PALACE

(Monsoon Palace; GOOGLE MAP)

Perched on top of a distant hill like a fairy-tale castle, this melancholy, neglected late-19th-century palace was constructed by Maharana Sajjan Singh. Originally an astronomical centre, it became a monsoon palace and hunting lodge. Now government owned, it's in a sadly dilapidated state, but visitors stream up here for the marvellous views, particularly at sunset. It's 5km west of the old city as the crow flies, about 9km by the winding road.

At the foot of the hill you enter the 5-sq-km Sajjan Garh Wildlife Sanctuary (GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹50/300, car ₹200). A good way to visit is with the daily sunset excursion in a minivan driven by an enterprising taxi driver who picks up tourists at the entrance to Bagore-ki-Haveli at Gangaur Ghat every day at 5pm. The round trip costs ₹300 per person, including waiting time (but not the sanctuary fees). His minivan has 'Monsoon Palace—Sajjangarh Fort' written across the front of it. Alternatively, autorickshaws charge ₹400 including waiting time for a round trip to the sanctuary gate, which they are not allowed to pass. Taxis ferry people the final 4km up to the palace for ₹150 per person.

Vintage & Classic Car Collection

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; Garden Hotel, Lake Palace Rd; adult/child ₹250/150, lunch or dinner ₹230;  9am-9pm)

The maharanas' car collection makes a fascinating diversion, for what it tells about their elite lifestyle and for the vintage vehicles themselves. Housed within the former state garage are 22 splendid vehicles, including a seven-seat 1938 Cadillac complete with purdah system, the beautiful 1934 Rolls-Royce Phantom used in the Bond film Octopussy, and the Cadillac convertible that whisked Queen Elizabeth II to the airport in 1961. The museum is a 10-minute walk east along Lake Palace Rd.

Activities

Krishna Ranch

HORSE RIDING

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9828059505; www.krishnaranch.com; full day incl lunch ₹1200)

Situated in beautiful countryside near Badi village, 7km northwest of Udaipur, and run by the owners of Kumbha Palace guesthouse. Experienced owner-guide Dinesh Jain leads most trips himself, riding local Marwari horses through the surrounding hills. There are also attractive cottages at the ranch.

Prakash Yoga

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2524872; inside Chandpol; class by donation; 🕒 classes 8am & 7pm)

A friendly hatha yoga centre with hour-long classes. The teacher has more than 20 years' experience. It's tucked inside Chandpol, near the footbridge, but well signed.

Ayurvedic Body Care

AYURVEDA, MASSAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2413816; www.ayurvedicbodycare.com; 38 Lal Ghat; 🕒 9.30am-8.30pm)

A small and popular old-city operation offering ayurvedic massage at reasonable prices, including a 20-minute head or back massage (₹350) and a 50-minute full-body massage (₹850). It also sells ayurvedic products such as oils, moisturisers, shampoos and soaps.

ANIMAL AID UNLIMITED

Animal Aid Unlimited

VOLUNTEERING

(📞 9352511435, 9602055895; www.animalaidunlimited.com; Badi Village)

Animal Aid's spacious refuge treats around 200 street animals a day (mainly dogs, donkeys and cows) and answers more than 3000 emergency rescue calls a year. The refuge welcomes volunteers and visitors: you can visit between 9am and 4pm without needing to call first, though avoid lunchtime (1pm to 2pm). The refuge is in Badi village, 7km northwest of Udaipur.

A round trip by autorickshaw, including waiting time, costs around ₹350 to ₹400. Call Animal Aid Unlimited if you see an injured or ill street animal in Udaipur.

Courses

Shashi Cooking Classes

COOKING

( ;  9929303511; www.shashicookingclasses.blogspot.com; Sunrise Restaurant, 18 Gangaur Ghat Rd; 4hr class ₹1500;  classes 10.30am & 5.30pm)

Readers rave about Shashi's high-spirited classes, teaching many fundamental Indian dishes. Classes go for 3½ to four hours and include a free recipe booklet.

Sushma's Cooking Classes

COOKING

( ;  7665852163; www.cookingclassesinudaipur.com; Hotel Krishna Niwas 35 Lal Ghat; 2hr class ₹1000)

A highly recommended cooking class run by the enthusiastic Sushma. Classes offer up anything from traditional Rajasthani dishes and learning how to make spice mixes, through bread-making to the all-important method of making the perfect cup of chai.

Prem Musical Instruments

MUSIC

( ;  9414343583; 28 Gadiya Devra; per hr ₹700;  10.30am-6pm)

Rajesh Prajapati (Bablu) is a successful local musician who gives sitar, tabla and flute lessons. He also sells and repairs those instruments and can arrange performances.

Ashoka Arts

ART

( ; Hotel Gangaur Palace, Ashoka Haveli, Gangaur Ghat Rd; per hr ₹200)

Learn the basics of classic miniature painting from a local master.

Tours

Art of Bicycle Trips

CYCLING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP);  8769822745; www.artofbicycletrips.com; 27 Gadiya Devra, inside Chandpol; half-day tour ₹1950)

This well-run outfit offers a great way to get out of the city. The Lakecity Loop is a 30km half-day tour that quickly leaves Udaipur behind to have you wheeling through villages, farmland and along the shores of Fateh Sagar and Badi Lakes. Other options include a vehicle-supported trip further afield to Kumbhalgarh and Ranakpur. Bikes are well maintained and all come with helmets.

Millets of Mewar

WALKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP);  8890419048; www.milletsofmewar.com; Hanuman Ghat; per person ₹1000, min 2 people)

Health-food specialists Millets of Mewar organises 2½-hour city tours on which you can meet local artisans who live and work in Udaipur. Tours should be booked a day in advance; they leave from the restaurant at 10am.

Festivals & Events

Holi

RELIGIOUS

(🕒 Feb/Mar)

If you're in Udaipur in February/March, you can experience the festival of Holi, Udaipur-style, when the town comes alive in a riot of colour.

Mewar Festival

RELIGIOUS

(🕒 Mar/Apr)

Holi is followed in March/April by the procession-heavy Mewar Festival – Udaipur's own version of the springtime Gangaur festival.

Sleeping

Many budget and midrange lodgings cluster close to the lake, especially on its eastern side in Lal Ghat. This area is a tangle of streets and lanes close to the City Palace. It's Udaipur's tourist epicentre and boasts numerous eateries and shops. Directly across the water from Lal Ghat, Hanuman Ghat has a slightly more local vibe and often better views, though you're certainly not out of the touristic zone.

Lal Ghat

Lal Ghat Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2525301; lalghat@hotmail.com; 33 Lal Ghat; dm ₹200, r ₹1000, without bathroom ₹750, with AC ₹2000; 🚫 @ 📶)

This mellow guesthouse by the lake was one of the first to open in Udaipur, and it's still a sound choice, with an amazing variety of older and newer rooms. Accommodation ranges from a spruce, nonsmoking dorm (with curtained-off beds and lockers under the mattresses) to the best room, which sports a stone wall, a big bed, a big mirror and air-con.

Most rooms have lake views and those in the older part of the building generally have more character. There's a small kitchen for self-caterers.

Nukkad Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2411403; nukkad_raju@yahoo.com; 56 Ganesh Ghati; s/d without bathroom ₹100/200, r ₹300-500; @ 📶)

Nukkad has clean and simple fan-cooled good-value rooms, plus a sociable, breezy, upstairs restaurant with very good Indian and international dishes. You can join afternoon cooking classes and morning yoga sessions (by donation) without stepping outside the door – just don't stay out past curfew or get caught washing your clothes in your bathroom.

★ Jagat Niwas Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2420133, 0294-2422860; www.jagatniwaspalace.com; 23-25 La Ghat; r ₹2000-3185, with lake view ₹4860-8100; 🚫 @ 📶)

This leading midrange hotel set in two converted lakeside havelis takes the location cake, and staff are efficient and always courteous. The lake-view rooms are charming, with carved wooden furniture, cushioned window seats and pretty prints. Rooms without a lake view are almost as comfortable and attractive, and considerably cheaper.

The building is full of character, with lots of pleasant sitting areas, terraces and courtyards, and it makes the most of its position with a picture-perfect rooftop restaurant

Jaiwana Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2411103, 9829005859; www.jaiwanahaveli.com; 14 Lal Ghat; r from ₹3265; 🌐 @ 📶)

Professionally run by two helpful, efficient brothers, this smart midrange option has spotless, unfussy rooms with good beds, TVs and attractive block-printed fabrics. Book a corner room for views. The rooftop restaurant has great lake views and Indian food (mains ₹140 to ₹300), plus there's a mod cafe on the ground floor.

Hotel Baba Palace

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2427126; www.hotelbabapalace.com; Jagdish Chowk; r/deluxe r incl breakfast ₹2250/2750; 🌐 @ 📶)

This slick hotel has sparkling, fresh rooms with decent beds behind solid doors and there's a lift. It's eye to eye with Jagdish Temple, so many of the rooms have interesting views; all have air-conditioning and TVs, some have delightfully canopied beds. On top there's the popular Mayur Rooftop Cafe. Free train station or airport pick-ups available.

Hotel Krishna Niwas

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2420163, 9414167341; www.hotelkrishnaniwas.com; 35 Lal Ghat ₹1500-2000; 🌐 @ 📶)

Run by an artist family, Krishna Niwas has smart, clean, all air-con rooms; those with views are smaller, and some come with balconies. There are splendid vistas from the rooftop, and a decent restaurant. You can also try your own cooking after taking one of the popular cooking lessons here.

Pratap Bhawan

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2560566; www.pratapbhawanudaipur.com; 12 Lal Ghat; r ₹1450 2250; ❄️ 📶)

A curving marble staircase leads up from the wide lobby to large rooms with good, big bathrooms and, in many cases, cushioned window seats. A deservedly popular place, even if recent price hikes have spun the place slightly out of the budget category. The rooftop Charcoal restaurant is nice for sitting out at night.

Poonam Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2410303; www.hotelpoonamhaveli.com; 39 Lal Ghat; r incl breakfast ₹3215; ❄️ @ 📶)

A fairly modern place decked out in traditional style, friendly Poonam has 16 spacious, spotlessly clean rooms with marble floors, big beds, TVs and spare but tasteful decor, plus pleasant sitting areas. None of the rooms enjoy lake views, but the rooftop restaurant does, and also boasts wood-fired pizzas among the usual Indian and traveller fare.

Hotel Gangaur Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2422303; www.ashokahaveli.com; Ashoka Haveli, 339 Gangaur Ghat Rd; s ₹400-2000, d ₹500-2500; ❄️ @ 📶)

This elaborate, faded haveli is set around a stone-pillared courtyard, with a wide assortment of rooms on several floors. It's gradually moving upmarket and rooms range from windowless with flaking paint to bright and recently decorated with lake views. Many have wall paintings and window seats.

The hotel also boasts an in-house palm reader, art shop, art school, and a rooftop restaurant.

Udai Garh

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9660055500, 0294-2421239; www.udaigarhudaipur.in; 21 Lal Ghat; r incl breakfast ₹2600-3400; 🏠 📶 🛏)

Set just back from the lakeshore, Udai Garh is an oasis of peace, with a central courtyard and spacious rooms. Unfortunately the rooms don't quite capture a lake view, but the wonderful rooftop, with a neat swimming pool and delightful restaurant, certainly does.

Hanuman Ghat

Dream Heaven

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2431038; www.dreamheaven.co.in; Hanuman Ghat; r ₹400-1200 🏠 @ 📶)

This higgledy-piggledy building boasts clean rooms with wall hangings and paintings. Bathrooms are smallish, though some rooms have a decent balcony and/or views. The food at the rooftop restaurant (dishes ₹100 to ₹150), which overlooks the lake, is fresh and tasty; it's the perfect place to chill out on a pile of cushions and the only place to pick up wi-fi.

Amet Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2431085; www.amethaveliudaipur.com; Hanuman Ghat; s/d from ₹4165/4760; 🏠 @ 📶 🛏)

A 350-year-old heritage building on the lakeshore, with delightful rooms featuring cushioned window seats, coloured glass and little shutters. They're set around a pretty courtyard and pond. Splurge on one with a balcony or giant bath tub. One of Udaipur's most romantic restaurants, Ambrai, is part of the hotel.

Udai Kothi

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2432810; www.udaikothi.com; Hanuman Ghat; r ₹6500-10,000; 🏠 @ 📶 🛏)

A bit like a five-storey wedding cake, Udai Kothi is a glittery, modern building (there's an elevator) with lots of traditional embellishments – cupolas, interesting art and fabrics, and window seats in some rooms, marble bathrooms and carved-wood doors in others – and thoughtful touches such as bowls of floating flowers throughout. Rooms are pretty, individually designed and well equipped.

The apex is the rooftop terrace, where you can dine well at the restaurant and swim in Udaipur's best rooftop pool (nonguests ₹500).

City Palace

Shiv Niwas Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2528016; www.hrhotels.com; City Palace Complex; r ₹18,000-103,000; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

This hotel, in the former palace guest quarters, has opulent common areas such as its pool courtyard, bar and lawn garden. Some of the suites are truly palatial, filled with fountains and silver, but the standard rooms are poorer value. Go for a suite, or just for a drink, meal or massage. Rates drop dramatically from April to September.

Fateh Prakash Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2528016; www.hrhotels.com; City Palace Complex; r/premier s ₹23,000/45,000; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Built in the early 20th century for royal functions, the Fateh Prakash has luxurious rooms and gorgeous suites, all comprehensively equipped and almost all looking straight out onto Lake Pichola. Views aside, the general ambience is a little less regal than at Shiv Niwas Palace Hotel – although the Sunset Terrace bar is a great place for an evening drink.

Taj Lake Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2428800; www.tajhotels.com; r from ₹38,250; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

The icon of Udaipur, this romantic white-marble palace seemingly floating on the lake is extraordinary, with open-air courtyards, lotus ponds and a small, mango-tree-shaded pool. Rooms are hung with breezy silks and filled with carved furniture. Some of the cheapest overlook the lily pond rather than the lake; the mural-decked suites will make you truly feel like a maharaja.

Other Areas

★ Krishna Ranch

COTTAGE $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9828059505, 9828059506; www.krishnaranch.com; s/d incl meals from ₹2000/2500; 📶) 🌿

This delightful countryside retreat has five cottages set around the grounds of a small farm. Each comes with attached bathroom (with solar-heated shower), tasteful decor and farm views. All meals are included and are prepared using organic produce grown on the farm. The ranch is 7km from town, near Badi village, but there's free pick-up from Udaipur.

It's an ideal base for the hikes and horse treks that the management – a Dutch-Indian couple – organises from here, though you don't have to sign up for the treks to stay here.

Rangniwas Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0294-2523890; www.rangniwaspalace.com; Lake Palace Rd; s ₹1090-1420, d ₹1310-1635, ste ₹3050-4360; 📶 📶 📶)

This 19th-century palace boasts plenty of heritage character and a peaceful central garden with a small pool shaded by mature palms. The quaint rooms in the older section are the most appealing, while the suites – full of carved wooden furniture and boasting terraces with swing seats or balcony window seats overlooking the garden – are a delight.

Udaipur has scores of sun-kissed rooftop restaurants, many with mesmerising lake views. The fare is not always that inspiring or varying, but competition keeps most places striving for improvement.

Lal Ghat

Cafe Edelweiss

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 73 Gangaur Ghat Rd; coffee from ₹60, sandwiches from ₹140; 🕒 8am-8pm; 📶)

The Savage Garden restaurant folks run this itzy cafe with baked goods and coffee. Offerings included sticky cinnamon rolls, blueberry chocolate cake, spinach-and-mushroom quiche or apple strudel, muesli or eggs for breakfast, and various sandwiches.

★ Jagat Niwas Palace Hotel

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2420133; 23-25 Lal Ghat; mains ₹250-325; 🕒 7am-10am, noon 3pm & 6-10pm)

A wonderful, classy, rooftop restaurant with superb lake views, delicious Indian cuisine and excellent service. Choose from an extensive selection of mouth-watering curries (tempered for Western tastes) – mutton, chicken, fish, veg – as well as the tandoori classics. There's a tempting cocktail menu, Indian wine and the beer is icy cold. Book ahead for dinner.

Charcoal

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8769160106; www.charcoalpb.com; Pratap Bhawan, 12 Lal Ghat; mains ₹140-480; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

As the name implies, barbecue and tandoor specials feature at this innovative rooftop restaurant. There are plenty of vegetarian and juicy meat dishes on offer and the homemade soft corn tacos with a variety of fillings are deservedly popular.

Mayur Rooftop Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Baba Palace, Jagdish Chowk; mains ₹150-290; 🕒 7am-10pm; ❄️📶)

This delightful rooftop restaurant has a great view of the multihued light show on the Jagdish Temple. You can choose the air-con room or the breezy open section. The usual multicuisine themes fill out the menu, and the quality is top-notch. The thali is great value and vegetarians will love the choice of nine paneer dishes.

Savage Garden

MEDITERRANEAN $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8890627181; inside Chandpol; mains ₹280-520; 🕒 11am-11pm)

Tucked away in the backstreets near Chandpol, Savage Garden does a winning line in soups, chicken, and homemade pasta dishes. Try ravioli with lamb ragu, and the sweet-savoury stuffed chicken breast with nuts, cheese and carrot rice. The setting is a whitewashed 250-year-old haveli with bowls of flowers, tables in alcoves and a pleasant courtyard. Indian wine is also served.

Hanuman Ghat

Milletts of Mewar

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.milletsofmewar.com; Hanuman Ghat; mains ₹110-180; 🕒 8.30am-10.30pm; 📶🌿)

Local millet is used where possible instead of wheat and rice at this environmentally aware, slow-food restaurant. There are vegan options, gluten-free dishes, fresh salads, and juices and herbal teas. Also on the menu are multigrain sandwiches and millet pizzas, plus regular curries, Indian snacks, pasta and pancakes.

Little Prince

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Daiji Footbridge; mains ₹100-160; 🕒 8.30am-11pm)

This lovely open-air eatery looking towards the quaint Daiji Footbridge dishes up delicious veg and nonveg meals. There are plenty of Indian options, along with pizzas, pastas and some original variations on the usual multicuisine theme, including Korean and Israeli dishes. The ambience is super-relaxed and the service friendly.

Queen Cafe

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 14 Bajrang Marg; mains ₹70-80; 🕒 8am-10pm)

This restaurant is like a family's front room, serving up good home-style Indian vegetarian dishes. Try the pumpkin curry with mint and coconut, and the Kashmir pulao with fruit, vegies and coconut. Host Meenu also offers cooking classes and walking tours that start with a home-cooked breakfast.

★ Ambrai

NORTH INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0294-2431085; www.amethaveliudaipur.com; Amet Haveli, Hanuman Ghat; mains ₹315-515; 🕒 12.30-3pm & 7.30-10.30pm)

Set at lake-shore level, looking across the water to the floodlit City Palace in one direction and Jagniwas in the other, this is one highly romantic restaurant at night with candlelit, white-linen tables beneath enormous trees. And the service and cuisine do justice to its fabulous position, with terrific tandoor and curries and a bar to complement the dining.

Drinking & Nightlife

Jaiwana Bistro Lounge

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9829005859; Jaiwana Haveli, 14 Lal Ghat; coffees from ₹100; 🕒 7am-10.30pm; 📶)

This modern, cool and clean cafe has espresso coffee and fresh healthy juices to help wash down the tasty bakery items and other main meals.

Paps Juices

JUICE BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; inside Chandpol; juices ₹60-180; 🕒 9am-8pm)

This bright-red spot is tiny but very welcoming, and a great place to refuel during the day with a shot of Vitamin C from a wide range of delicious juice mixes. If you want something more substantial, the muesli mix is pretty good, too.

Jheel's Ginger Coffee Bar

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Jheel Palace Guest House, 56 Gangaur Ghat Rd; coffees ₹80-110; 🕒 8am-8pm; 📶)

This small but slick cafe by the water's edge is on the ground floor of Jheel Palace Guest House. Large windows afford good lake views, and the coffee is excellent. It also does a range of cakes and snacks. Note, you can take your coffee up to the open-air rooftop restaurant if you like.

Sunset Terrace

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Fateh Prakash Palace Hotel; beer/cocktails from ₹400/650; 🕒 7am-10.30pm)

On a terrace overlooking Lake Pichola, this bar is perfect for a sunset gin and tonic. It's also a restaurant (mains ₹400 to ₹950), with live music performed every night.

Entertainment

Dharohar

DANCE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0294-2523858; Bagore-ki-Haveli; Indian/foreigner ₹90/150, camera ₹150; 🕒 7-8pm)

The beautiful Bagore-ki-Haveli hosts the best (and most convenient) opportunity to see Rajasthani folk dancing, with nightly shows of colourful, energetic Marwari, Bhil and western Rajasthani dances, as well as traditional Rajasthani puppetry.

Mewar Sound & Light Show

LIVE PERFORMANCE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Manek Chowk, City Palace; adult/child ₹150/100; 🕒 7pm Sep-Mar, 7.30p Apr, 8pm May-Aug)

Fifteen centuries of intriguing Mewar history are squeezed into one atmospheric hour of commentary and light switching – in English from September to April, in Hindi other months.

Shopping

Tourist-oriented shops – selling miniature paintings, wood carvings, silver jewellery, bangles, spices, camel-bone boxes, and a large variety of textiles – line the streets radiating from Jagdish Chowk. Udaipur is known for its local crafts, particularly miniature painting in the Rajput-Mughal style, as well as some interesting contemporary art.

The local market area extends east from the old clock tower at the northern end of Jagdish Temple Rd, and buzzes loudest in the evening. It's fascinating as much for browsing and soaking up local atmosphere as it is for buying. Bara Bazar, immediately east of the old clock tower, sells silver and gold, while its narrow side street, Maldas St, specialises in saris and fabric. A little further east, traditional shoes are sold on Mochiwada.

Foodstuffs and spices are mainly found around the new clock tower at the east end of the bazaar area, and Mandi Market, 200m north of the tower.

Sadhna

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0294-2454655; www.sadhna.org; Jagdish Temple Rd; 🕒 10am-7pm) 🍃

This is the crafts outlet for Seva Mandir, a long-established NGO working with rural and tribal people. The small, hard-to-see shop sells attractive fixed-price textiles; profits go to the artisans and towards community development work.

Information

EMERGENCY

Police

POLICE

( 0294-2414600, emergency 100)

There are police posts at Surajpol, Hatipol and Delhi Gate, three of the gates in the old-city wall.

INTERNET ACCESS

You can surf the internet at plenty of places, particularly around Lal Ghat, for ₹40 per hour. Many places double as travel agencies, bookshops, art shops etc.

MEDICAL SERVICES

GBH American Hospital (;  24hr enquiries 0294-2426000, emergency 9352304050; www.gbhamericanhospital.com; Meera Girls College Rd, 101 Kothi Bagh, Bhatt Ji Ki Bari) Modern, reader-recommended private hospital with 24-hour emergency service, about 2km northeast of the old city.

MONEY

There are lots of ATMs, on City Palace Rd near Jagdish Temple, near the bus stand and outside the train station.

Thomas Cook (; Lake Palace Rd;  9.30am-6.30pm Mon-Sat)
Changes cash and travellers cheques.

POST

DHL (; 1 Town Hall Rd;  10am-7pm Mon-Sat) Has a free collection service within Udaipur.

DHL Express (;  0294-2525301; Lal Ghat Guesthouse, Lal Ghat)
Conveniently situated inside Lal Ghat Guesthouse.

Main post office (; Chetak Circle;  10am-1pm & 1.30-6pm Mon-Sat)
North of the old city.

Post office (; City Palace Rd;  10am-4pm Mon-Sat) Tiny post office that sends parcels (including packaging them up), and there are virtually no queues. Beside the City Palace's Badi Pol ticket office.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Small tourist offices operate erratically at the train station and airport.

Tourist office (GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0294-2411535; Fateh Memorial Bldg; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) Not situated in the most convenient position, 1.5km east of the Jagdish Temple (though only about 500m from the bus stand), this place dishes out a limited amount of brochures and information.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Udaipur's airport, 25km east of town, is served by flights from Delhi, Mumbai and other hubs. A prepaid taxi from the airport to the Lal Ghat area costs ₹450.

Air India (GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0294-2410999, airport office 0294-2655453; www.airindia.com; 222/16 Mumal Towers, Saheli Rd) Flies daily to Mumbai and Delhi (via Jodhpur).

IndiGo (☎ 9212783838; www.goindigo.in) Three flights daily to Delhi and two flights daily to Mumbai.

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0294-5134000; www.jetairways.com; Maharana Pratap Airport, Dabok) Flies direct to Delhi and Mumbai daily.

Spice Jet (☎ 9871803333; www.spicejet.com) Flies twice daily to Delhi and daily to Mumbai.

BUS

RSRTC and private buses run from the main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), 1.5km east of the City Palace. Turn left at the end of Lake Palace Rd, take the first right then cross the main road at the end, just after passing through the crumbling old Surajpol Gate. It's around ₹40 in an autorickshaw.

If arriving by bus, turn left out of the bus stand, cross the main road, walk through Surajpol Gate then turn left at the end of the road before taking the first right into Lake Palace Rd.

Private bus tickets can also be bought at any one of the many travel agencies lining the road leading from Jagdish Temple to Daiji Footbridge.

RSRTC BUSES FROM UDAIPUR

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	FREQUENCY
Ahmedabad	236, AC 585	5	hourly from 5.30am
Ajmer (for Pushkar)	296	7	hourly from 5am
Bundi	328	6	daily (7.45am)
Chittorgarh	120	2½	half-hourly from 5.15am
Delhi	672, AC 1685	15	4 daily
Jaipur	424, AC 903	9	hourly
Jodhpur	273, AC 604	6-8	hourly
Kota	291	7	hourly
Mt Abu (Abu Road)	166	4	10 daily from 5.30am

TRAIN

The train station is about 2.5km southeast of the City Palace, and 1km directly south of the main bus stand. An autorickshaw between the train station and Jagdish Chowk should cost around ₹50. There's a prepaid autorickshaw stand at the station.

There are no direct trains to Abu Road, Jodhpur or Jaisalmer.

- ➔ Agra sleeper ₹370, 13 hours, daily (10.20pm)
- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) seat/sleeper ₹145/215, five hours, four daily (6am, 3.05pm, 5.15pm and 10.20pm), via Chittorgarh (seat/sleeper ₹95/150, two hours)
- ➔ Bundi sleeper ₹220, 4½ hours, daily (6.15pm)
- ➔ Delhi sleeper ₹425, 12 hours, two daily (5.15pm and 6.15pm)
- ➔ Jaipur seat/sleeper ₹180/270, around seven hours, three daily (6am, 3.05pm and 10.20pm)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM UDAIPUR

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Agra (Cantonment)	19666 Udaipur-Kurj Exp	10.20pm	11am	370/995 (A)
Ajmer (for Pushkar)	Udaipur-Jaipur SF SPL	3.05pm	8pm	140/490 (B)
Bundi	12964 Mewar Exp	6.15pm	10.33pm	220/560 (A)
Chittorgarh	12982 Chetak Exp	5.15pm	7.10pm	180/560 (A)
Delhi (Hazrat Nizamuddin)	12964 Mewar Exp	6.15pm	6.35am	425/1115 (A)
Jaipur	12991 Udaipur-Jaipur Exp	6am	1.30pm	180/625 (B)

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC, (B) 2nd-class seat/AC chair

Getting Around

AUTORICKSHAW

These are unmetered, so you should agree on a fare before setting off – the normal fare anywhere in town is around ₹40. You will usually have to go through the rigmarole of haggling, walking away etc to get this fare. Some drivers ask tourists for ₹100 or more. It costs around ₹350 to hire an autorickshaw for a day of local sightseeing.

The commission system is in place, so tenaciously pursue your first choice of accommodation.

BICYCLE & MOTORCYCLE

A cheap and environmentally friendly way to buzz around is by bicycle (around ₹200 per day), although motorcycle traffic and pollution make it very tiresome if not dangerous. Scooters and motorbikes, meanwhile, are great for exploring the surrounding countryside.

Heera Cycle Store (GOOGLE MAP);  9950611973; off Gangaur Ghat Rd;

 7.30am-8pm) Hires out bicycles/scooters/Bullets for ₹200/500/800 per day

(with a deposit of US$200/400/500); you must show your passport and driver's licence.

Around Udaipur

Kumbhalgarh

 02954

About 80km north of Udaipur, Kumbhalgarh is a fantastic, remote fort, fulfilling romantic expectations and vividly summoning up the chivalrous, warlike Rajput era.

The large and rugged Kumbhalgarh Wildlife Sanctuary can also be visited from Kumbhalgarh.

Sights

Kumbhalgarh

FORT

(Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, Light & Sound Show (in Hindi) ₹100/200;  9am-6pm, Light & Sound Show 6.30pm)

One of the many forts built by Rana Kumbha (r 1433–68), under whom Mewar reached its greatest extents, this isolated fort is perched 1100m above sea level, with endless views melting into blue distance. The journey to the fort, along twisting roads through the Aravalli Hills, is a highlight in itself.

Kumbhalgarh was the most important Mewar fort after Chittorgarh, and the rulers, sensibly, used to retreat here in times of danger. Not surprisingly, Kumbhalgarh was only taken once in its entire history. Even then, it took the combined armies of Amber, Marwar and Mughal emperor Akbar to breach its strong defences, and they only managed to hang on to it for two days.

The fort's thick walls stretch about 36km; they're wide enough in some places for eight horses to ride abreast and it's possible to walk right round the circuit (allow two days). They enclose around 360 intact and ruined temples, some of which date back to the Mauryan period in the 2nd century BC, as well as palaces, gardens, step-wells and 700 cannon bunkers.

If you're staying here and want to make an early start on your hike around the wall, you can still get into the fort before 9am, although no one will be around to sell you a ticket.

There's a Light & Sound Show (in Hindi) at the fort every evening.

Sleeping

Kumbhal Castle

HOTEL $$

( 02954-242171; www.thekumbhalcastle.com; Fort Rd; r from ₹3130;   )

The modern Kumbhal Castle, 2km from the fort, has plain but pleasant white rooms featuring curly iron beds, bright bedspreads and window seats, shared balconies and good views. The super-deluxe rooms are considerably bigger and worth considering for the few hundred extra rupees. There's an in-house restaurant.

Aodhi

HOTEL $$$

( 8003722333, 02954-242341; www.eternalmewar.in; r from ₹8775;   )

Just under 2km from the fort is this luxurious and blissfully tranquil hotel with an inviting pool, rambling gardens and winter campfires. The spacious rooms, in stone buildings, all boast their own palm-thatched terraces, balconies or pavilions, and assorted wildlife and botanical art and photos.

Nonguests can dine in the restaurant, where good standard Indian fare is the pick of the options on offer, or have a drink in the cosy Chowpal Bar. Room rates plummet from April to September.

Getting There & Away

From Udaipur's main bus stand, catch a Ranakpur-bound bus as far as Saira (₹78, 2¼ hours, hourly), a tiny crossroads town where you can change for a bus to Kumbhalgarh (₹41, one hour, hourly). That bus, which will be bound for Kelwara, will drop you at the start of the approach road to the fort, leaving you with a pleasant 1.5km walk to the entrance gate.

The last bus back to Saira swings by at 5.30pm (and is always absolutely jam-packed). The last bus from Saira back to Udaipur leaves at around 8pm. To get to Ranakpur from Kumbhalgarh, head first to Saira then change for Ranakpur (₹20, 40 minutes, at least hourly).

A day-long round trip in a private car from Udaipur to Kumbhalgarh and Ranakpur will cost around ₹2000 per car.

Ranakpur

📍02934

On the western slopes of the Aravalli Hills, 75km northwest of Udaipur, and 12km west of Kumbhalgarh as the crow flies (but 50km by road, via Saira), the village of Ranakpur hosts one of India's biggest and most important Jain temple complexes.

The village also makes a great base for exploring the impressive Kumbhalgarh Wildlife Sanctuary or for taking a day trip to visit the fort at Kumbhalgarh.

Sights

Ranakpur

JAIN TEMPLE

(Indian/foreigner incl audio guide free/₹200, camera/tablet ₹100/200; 🕒 Jains 6am-7pm, non-Jains noon-5pm)

Built in the 15th century in milk-white marble, the main temple of Ranakpur, Chaumukha Mandir (Four-Faced Temple), is dedicated to Adinath, the first Jain tirthankar (depicted in the many Buddha-like images in the temple). An incredible feat of Jain devotion, the temple is a complicated series of 29 halls, 80 domes and 1444 individually engraved pillars. The interior is completely covered in knotted, lovingly wrought carving, and has a marvellously calming sense of space and harmony.

Shoes, cigarettes, food and all leather articles must be left at the entrance; women who are menstruating are asked not to enter.

Also exquisitely carved and well worth inspecting are two other Jain temples, dedicated to Neminath (the 22nd tirthankar) and Parasnath (the 23rd tirthankar), both within the complex, and a nearby Sun Temple. About 1km from the main complex is the Amba Mata Temple.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

KUMBHALGARH WILDLIFE SANCTUARY

Ranakpur is a great base for exploring the hilly, densely forested Kumbhalgarh Wildlife Sanctuary (Indian/foreigner ₹50/300, 4WD or car ₹200, camera/video free/₹400; 🕒 safaris 6-9am & 3-4.30pm), which extends over some 600 sq km. It's known for its leopards and wolves, although the chances of spotting antelopes, gazelles, deer and possibly sloth bears are higher, especially from March to June. You will certainly see some of the sanctuary's 200-plus bird species.

Beside the park office, near the Ranakpur Jain temples, is the recommended tour company Evergreen Safari (📞7568830065; gypsy safari ₹2500). There are also several safari outfits on the road leading up to Kumbhalgarh Fort, including A-one Tour & Safari (📞8003854293; Pratap Circle; 2/6 people ₹3000/4500; 🕒 safaris 6-9am & 3-4.30pm). Most hotels will use these or similar outfits to organise your safari.

There's a ticket office for the sanctuary right beside where the bus drops you off for the Jain temples, but the nearest of the sanctuary's four entrances is 2km beyond here.

Sleeping

★ Aranyawas

HOTEL $$

(📞02956-293029; www.aranyawas.com; r incl dinner & breakfast ₹5000; 🌳 @ 🛏)

In secluded, tree-shaded grounds off Hwy 32, 12km south of the temple, Aranyawas has 28 attractive rooms in two-storey stone cottages. They aren't fancy, but are spacious, neat and tasteful, with pine furnishings and, in most cases, balconies overlooking a river and jungle-clad hills. There's a large baori-inspired pool surrounded by trees and a bonfire for evening drinks in winter.

The restaurant (mains ₹150 to ₹250, buffet lunch/dinner ₹450/500) is a lovely place to stop for a meal even if you're not staying here.

Ranakpur Hill Resort

HOTEL $$$

(📞02934-286411; www.ranakpurhillresort.com; Ranakpur Rd; s/d from ₹5850/6435; 🌳@📶🚰)

This is a well-run hotel with a nice pool and gardens, around which are arranged the attractive cottages sporting marble floors, stained glass, floral wall paintings and touches of mirrorwork. There is also a good multicuisine restaurant, and horse-riding packages can be arranged. Check for discounts on the website. It's 3.5km north of the temple complex, along Hwy 32.

i Getting There & Away

There are direct buses to Ranakpur leaving roughly hourly from the main bus stands in both Udaipur (₹93, three hours) and Jodhpur (₹189, four to five hours). You'll be dropped outside the temple complex unless you state otherwise. Return buses stop running around 7pm. Buses departing for Udaipur can drop you at Saira (₹20, 40 minutes, hourly), about 25km south of Ranakpur, to connect with a bus to Kumbhalgarh (₹41, one hour, hourly).

A day-long round trip in a private car from Udaipur to Ranakpur and Kumbhalgarh costs around ₹2000.

Mt Abu

(📞02974 / POP 22,950 / ELEV 1200M)

Rajasthan's only hill station nestles among green forests on the state's highest mountain at the southwestern end of the Aravalli Hills and close to the Gujarat border. Quite unlike anywhere else in Rajasthan, Mt Abu provides Rajasthanis, Gujaratis and a steady flow of foreign tourists with respite from scorching temperatures and arid terrain elsewhere. It's a particular hit with honeymooners and middle-class families from Gujarat.

Mt Abu town sits towards the southwestern end of the plateau-like mountain, which stretches about 19km from end to end and 6km from east to west. The town is surrounded by the 289-sq-km Mt Abu Wildlife Sanctuary, which extends over most of the mountain.

The mountain is of great spiritual importance for both Hindus and Jains and has over 80 temples and shrines, most notably the exquisite Jain temples at Delwara, built between 400 and 1000 years ago.

Be mindful that if you arrive during Diwali (October or November), or the following two weeks, prices soar and the place is packed. Mt Abu also gets pretty busy from mid-May to mid-June, before the monsoon. In the cooler months, you'll find everyone wrapped up in shawls and hats; pack something woolly to avoid winter chills in poorly heated hotel rooms.

Mt Abu

Mt Abu

Sights

1 Nakki Lake	A1
2 Toad Rock	A2
3 World Renewal Spiritual Museum	B2

Activities, Courses & Tours

Mt Abu Treks	B1
Shri Ganesh Hotel	B2

Sleeping

4 Hotel Hilltone	D3
5 Hotel Lake Palace	B1
6 Kishangarh House	D2

7	Mushkil Aasan	D1
8	Shri Ganesh Hotel	B2

Eating

9	Arbuda	C2
10	Kanak Dining Hall	D3
	Mulberry Tree Restaurant	D3
11	Sankalp	C2

Drinking & Nightlife

12	Cafe Coffee Day	C3
13	Polo Bar	B2

Sights

The white-clad people you'll see around town are members of the Brahma Kumaris World Spiritual University (GOOGLE MAP ; www.bkwsu.com), a worldwide organisation that has its headquarters here in Mt Abu. The university's Universal Peace Hall (GOOGLE MAP ; Om Shanti Bhawan; 🕒 8am-6pm), just north of Nakki Lake, has free 30-minute tours that include an introduction to the Brahma Kumaris philosophy (be prepared for a bit of proselytising). The organisation also runs the World Renewal Spiritual Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 8am-8pm) in the town centre.

Nakki Lake

LAKE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Scenic Nakki Lake, the town's focus, is one of Mt Abu's biggest attractions. It's so named because, according to legend, it was scooped out by a god using his nakh (nails). Some Hindus thus consider it a holy lake. It's a pleasant 45-minute stroll around the perimeter – the lake is surrounded by hills, parks and strange rock formations. The best known, Toad Rock (MAP GOOGLE MAP), looks like a toad about to hop into the lake.

Sunset Point

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP)

Sunset Point is a popular place to watch the brilliant setting sun. Hordes stroll out here every evening to catch the end of the day, the food stalls and all the usual jolly hill-station entertainment. To get there, follow Sunset Point road west of the Polo Ground out of town.

Mt Abu Wildlife Sanctuary

WILDLIFE RESERVE

(Indian/foreigner ₹50/300, vehicle ₹200; 🕒 8am-5pm)

This 289-sq-km sanctuary covers much of the mountain plateau and surrounds the town of Mt Abu. It is home to leopards, deer, foxes and bears. Contact Mt Abu Treks to arrange an overnight stay.

Guru Shikhar

MOUNTAIN

(GOOGLE MAP)

At the northeast end of the Mt Abu plateau, 17km by the winding road from the town, rises 1722m-high Guru Shikhar, Rajasthan's highest point. A road goes almost all the way to the summit and the Atri Rishi Temple, complete with a priest and fantastic, huge views. A popular spot, it's a highlight of the RSRTC tour; if you decide to go it alone, a 4WD from Mt Abu will cost ₹600 return.

DON'T MISS

DELWARA TEMPLES

Delwara Temples

JAIN TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP ; donations welcome; 🕒 Jains 6am-6pm, non-Jains noon-6pm)

These remarkable Jain temples are Mt Abu's most remarkable attraction and feature some of India's finest temple decoration. They predate the town of Mt Abu by many centuries and were built when this site was just a remote mountain wilderness. It's said that the artisans were paid according to the amount of dust they collected, encouraging them to carve ever more intricately. Whatever their inducement, there are two temples here in which the marble work is dizzyingly intense.

The older of the two is the Vimal Vasahi, on which work began in 1031 and was financed by a Gujarati chief minister named Vimal. Dedicated to the first tirthankar, Adinath, it took 1500 masons and 1200 labourers 14 years to build, and allegedly cost ₹185.3 million. Outside the entrance is the House of Elephants, featuring a procession of stone elephants marching to the temple, some of which were damaged long ago by marauding Mughals. Inside, a forest of beautifully carved pillars surrounds the central shrine, which holds an image of Adinath himself.

The Luna Vasahi Temple is dedicated to Neminath, the 22nd tirthankar, and was built in 1230 by the brothers Tejpal and Vastupal for a mere ₹125.3 million. Like Vimal, the brothers were both Gujarati government ministers. The marble carving here took 2500 workers 15 years to create, and its most notable feature is its intricacy and delicacy, which is so fine that, in places, the marble becomes almost transparent. The many-layered lotus flower that dangles from the centre of the dome is a particularly astonishing piece of work.

As at other Jain temples, leather articles (including belts and shoes), cameras and phones must be left at the entrance, and menstruating women are asked not to enter.

Delwara is about 3km north of Mt Abu town centre: you can walk there in less than an hour, or hop aboard a shared taxi (₹10 per person) from up the street opposite Chacha Cafe. A taxi all to yourself should be ₹200 round trip, with one hour of waiting time.

Tours

Mt Abu Treks

TREKKING

( ;  9414154854; www.mount-abu-treks.blogspot.com; Hotel Lake Palace; 4hr trek per person ₹500, full day incl lunch ₹1200)

Mahendra 'Charles' Dan arranges tailor-made treks ranging from gentle village visits to longer, wilder expeditions into Mt Abu Wildlife Sanctuary. He's passionate and knowledgeable about the local flora and fauna. Short treks are available as well as an overnight village trek including all meals (₹2000). The sanctuary entrance fee (₹50/300 Indian/foreigner) is not included.

Shri Ganesh Hotel

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  02974-237292; lalit_ganesh@yahoo.co.in; per person 1hr ₹200, 4hr ₹1000)

Organises good short hikes starting at 7am or 4pm.

RSRTC

TOURS

(half-/full-day tours ₹50/110;  half-day tour 1pm, full day 9.30am)

The RSRTC runs bus tours of Mt Abu's main sights, leaving from the bus stand where reservations can be made. Both tours visit Achalgarh, Guru Shikhar and the Delwara temples and end at Sunset Point. The full-day tour also includes Adhar Devi, the Brahma Kumaris Peace Hall and Honeymoon Point. Admission and camera fees and the ₹20 guide fee are extra.

TREKKING AROUND MT ABU

Getting off the well-worn tourist trail and out into the forests and hills of Mt Abu is a revelation. This is a world of isolated shrines and lakes, weird rock formations, fantastic panoramas, nomadic villagers, orchids, wild fruits, plants used in ayurvedic medicine, sloth bears (which are fairly common), wild boars, langurs, 150 bird species and even the occasional leopard.

A warning from the locals before you set out: it's very unsafe to wander unguided in these hills. Travellers have been mauled by bears and, even more disturbing, have been mugged (and worse) by other people.

Sleeping

Room rates can double, or treble, during the peak seasons – mid-May to mid-June, Diwali and Christmas/New Year – but generous discounts are often available at other times at midrange and top-end places. If you have to come here during Diwali, you'll need to book way ahead and you won't be able to move for the crowds. Many hotels have an ungenerous 9am checkout time.

Shri Ganesh Hotel

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  02974-237292; lalit_ganesh@yahoo.co.in; dm ₹250, s/d ₹500/600, r with bathroom ₹700-1500; @ )

A fairly central and popular budget spot, Shri Ganesh is well set up for travellers, with an inexpensive cafe and plenty of helpful travel information. Rooms are well used but kept clean. Some have squat toilets and limited hours for hot water. Daily forest walks and cooking lessons are on offer.

Mushkil Aasan

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  9426057837, 02974-235150, 9429409660; mushkilaasan.abu@gmail.com; s/d/q ₹1000/1300/1650;  )

A lovely guesthouse nestled in a tranquil vale in the north of town (near Global Hospital), with nine homely decorated rooms and a delightfully planted garden. Home-style Gujarati meals are available, and checkout is a civilised 24 hours. Rooms next to the reception area can be noisy.

Hotel Lake Palace

HOTEL $$

( ;  02974-237154; www.savshantihotels.com; r incl breakfast from ₹4165  )

Spacious and friendly, Lake Palace has an excellent location, with small lawns overlooking the lake. Rooms are simple, uncluttered, bright and clean. All have air-conditioning and some have semiprivate lake-view terrace areas. There are rooftop and garden multicuisine restaurants, too.

Kishangarh House

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

( ;  02974-238092; Rajendra Marg; cottages incl breakfast ₹4950, r incl breakfast from ₹6500;  )

The former summer residence of the maharaja of Kishangarh is now a plush heritage hotel. The deluxe rooms in the main building are big, with extravagantly high ceilings. The cottage rooms at the back are smaller but cosier. There's a delightful sun-filled drawing room and lovely terraced gardens.

Hotel Hilltone

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 02974-238391; www.hotelhilltone.com; Main St; s/d incl breakfast for ₹5355/6545;    )

A modern, well-run hotel in spacious grounds, the punningly named Hilltone takes a leaf out of the more famous hospitality brand with stylishly comfortable and modern rooms that punch above the price tag. The in-house Mulberry Tree Restaurant serves alcohol and nonveg Indian food – a rarity in Mt Abu.

Eating

Kanak Dining Hall

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lake Rd; thali Gujarati/Punjabi ₹110/140; 🕒 8.30am-3.30pm & 7-11pm)

The excellent all-you-can-eat thalis are contenders for Mt Abu's best meals. There's seating indoors in the busy dining hall or outside under a canopy. It's conveniently located near the bus stand for the lunch break during the all-day RSRTC tour.

Arbuda

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Arbuda Circle; mains ₹100-150; 🕒 7am-10.30pm; )

This big restaurant is set on a sweeping open terrace filled with chrome chairs. It's very popular for its vegetarian Gujarati, Punjabi and South Indian food, and does fine Continental breakfasts and fresh juices.

Sankalp

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Maharaja, Lake Rd; mains ₹90-250; 🕒 9am-11pm)

A branch of a quality Gujarat-based chain serving up excellent South Indian vegetarian fare. Unusual fillings such as pineapple or spinach, cheese and garlic are available for its renowned dosas and uttapams (savory South Indian rice pancake), which come with multiple sauces and condiments.

Order masala pappad (wafer with spicy topping) for a tasty starter.

Mulberry Tree Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hilltone Hotel, Main St; mains ₹250-350)

Mt Abu's Gujarati tourists make veg thalis the order of the day in the town, so if you're craving a bit of nonveg, the smart Mulberry Tree Restaurant at the Hilltone Hotel is the place to go. There are plenty of meaty Indian options on the menu and alcohol is available to wash it down.

Drinking & Nightlife

Polo Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 02974-235176; Jaipur House; 🕒 11.30am-3.30pm & 7.30-11pm)

The terrace at the Jaipur Hotel, formerly the maharaja of Jaipur's summer palace, is a dreamy place for an evening tippie, with divine views over the hills, lake and the town's twinkling lights.

Cafe Coffee Day

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Main St; coffee from ₹110; 🕒 9am-11pm)

A branch of the popular caffeine-supply chain. The tea and cakes aren't bad either.

Information

There are ATMs on Raj Bhavan Rd, including one outside the tourist office, as well as on Lake Rd.

Bank of Baroda (GOOGLE MAP; Main St; 🕒 10am-3pm Mon-Fri, to 12.30pm Sat)

Changes currency and travellers cheques, and does credit-card advances.

Union Bank of India (GOOGLE MAP; Main Market; 🕒 10am-3pm Mon-Fri, to 12.30pm Sat) Changes travellers cheques and currency.

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP); Raj Bhavan Rd; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 9am-5.30pm Mon-Fri)

Opposite the main bus stand, this centre distributes free maps of town.

i Getting There & Away

Access to Mt Abu is by a dramatic 28km-long road that winds its way up thickly forested hillsides from the town of Abu Road, where the nearest train station is located. Some buses from other cities go all the way up to Mt Abu, others only go as far as Abu Road. Buses (₹30, one hour) run between Abu Road and Mt Abu half-hourly from about 6am to 7pm. A taxi from Abu Road to Mt Abu is ₹350 by day or ₹450 by night. Vehicles are charged when entering Mt Abu (small/large car ₹100/200).

BUS

Services from Mt Abu's main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP):

- ➔ Ahmedabad ₹182, seven hours, four daily (6am, 7.30am, 10.15am and 2.45pm)
- ➔ Jaipur AC ₹924, 11 hours, daily (6.30pm)
- ➔ Udaipur ₹198, 4½ hours, four daily (8am, 9.15am, 12.45pm and 7pm)

TRAIN

Abu Road station is on the line between Delhi and Mumbai via Ahmedabad. An autorickshaw from Abu Road train station to Abu Road bus stand costs ₹20. Mt Abu has a train reservations office (GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 8am-2pm Mon Sat), above the tourist office, with quotas on most of the express trains.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM ABU ROAD

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Ahmedabad	19224 Jammu Tawi-Ahmedabad Exp	10.50am	3pm	150/510 (A)
Delhi (New Delhi)	12957 Swarna J Raj Exp	8.50pm	7.30am	1265/1775 (B)
Jaipur	19707 Aravali Exp	10.07am	6.55pm	270/715 (A)
Jodhpur	19223 Ahmedabad-Jammu Tawi Exp	3.30pm	7.55pm	195/510 (A)
Mumbai	19708 Aravali Exp	4.50pm	6.35am	365/985 (A)

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC, (B) 3AC/2AC

Getting Around

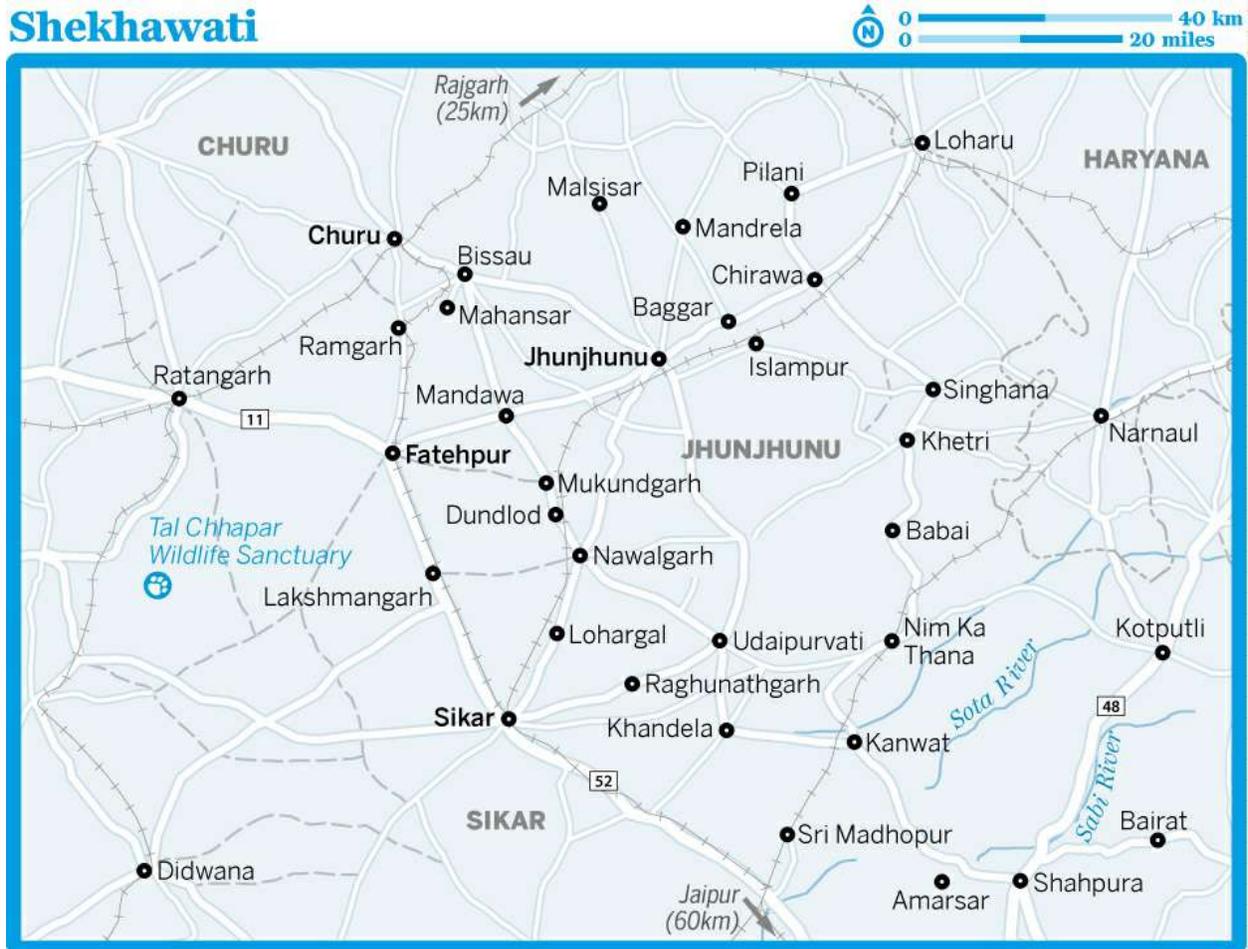

To hire a jeep or taxi for sightseeing costs about ₹650/1200 per half-day/day. Many hotels can arrange a vehicle, or you can hire your own vehicle with driver in the town centre.

NORTHERN RAJASTHAN (SHEKHAWATI)

Far less visited than other parts of Rajasthan, the Shekhawati region is renowned for its extraordinary painted havelis (ornately decorated residences), highlighted with dazzling, often whimsical, murals. Part of the region's appeal is that these works of art are found in tiny towns connected by single-track roads that run through desolate countryside north of Jaipur. Today it seems curious that such attention and money were lavished on these out-of-the-way houses, but these were once the homelands of wealthy traders and merchants.

From the 14th century onwards, Shekhawati's towns were important trading posts on caravan routes from Gujarati ports to the fertile and booming cities of the Ganges plain. The expansion of the British port cities of Calcutta (now Kolkata) and Bombay (Mumbai) in the 19th century could have been the death knell for Shekhawati, but the merchants moved to these cities, prospered, and sent funds home to construct and decorate their extraordinary abodes.

Shekhawati

Nawalgarh

📍 01594 / POP 63,950

Nawalgarh is a small nontouristy town almost at the very centre of the Shekhawati region, and makes a great base for exploring. It boasts several fine havelis, a colourful, mostly pedestrianised bazaar and some excellent accommodation options.

Sights

Dr Ramnath A Podar Haveli Museum

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; www.podarhavelimuseum.org; Indian/foreigner ₹75/100, camera ₹30;

 8.30am-6.30pm)

Built in 1902 on the eastern side of town, and known locally as 'Podar Haveli', this is one of the region's few buildings to have been thoroughly restored. The paintings of this haveli are defined in strong colours, and are the most vivid murals in town, although purists point to the fact that they have been simply repainted rather than restored.

On the ground floor are galleries on Rajasthani culture, including costumes, turbans, musical instruments and models of Rajasthan's forts.

Morarka Haveli Museum

MUSEUM

(; ₹70;  8am-7pm)

This museum has well-presented original paintings, preserved for decades behind doorways blocked with cement. The inner courtyard hosts some gorgeous Ramayana scenes; look out for the slightly incongruous image of Jesus on the top storey, beneath the eaves in the courtyard's southeast corner.

Bhagton ki Choti Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Bhagat Haveli; ; ₹70)

On the external western wall of Bhagton ki Choti Haveli is a locomotive and a steamship. Above them, elephant-bodied gopis (milkmaids) dance. Adjacent to this, women dance during the Holi festival. Inside you'll find a host of other murals, including one strange picture (in a room on the western side) of a European man with a cane and pipe, and a small dog on his shoulder.

Tours

Ramesh Jangid's Tourist Pension

TOURS

(;  01594-224060; www.touristpension.com; guided hikes 2-3 days per person from ₹2250)

Ramesh Jangid organises guided hiking trips, guided camel-cart rides (half-day ₹2000 for two people) to outlying villages, and guided tours by car (full day ₹3500 for up to four people) to other towns in the region. Lessons in Hindi, tabla, cooking and local crafts such as bandhani (tie-dyeing) can also be arranged.

Sleeping

Ramesh Jangid's Tourist Pension

GUESTHOUSE $

( GOOGLE MAP;  01594-224060; www.touristpension.com; s/d/tr from ₹800/1050/1350;   )

This guesthouse, run by genial Rajesh, son of Ramesh at Apani Dhani, offers homely, clean accommodation in spacious, cool rooms with big beds. Some rooms have furniture carved by Rajesh's grandfather, and the more expensive rooms also have murals created by visiting artists. Pure veg meals, made with organic ingredients, are available, including a delectable vegetable thali for ₹250.

The family also arranges all sorts of tours around Shekhawati.

On the western edge of town, near the Maur Hospital, this pension is well known, so if you get lost, just ask a local to point you in the right direction.

DS Bungalow

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9983168916; r ₹400-500)

Run by a friendly, down-to-earth couple, this simple place with boxy air-cooled rooms is a little out of town on the way to Roop Niwas Kothi. It's backed by a garden with a pleasant outdoor mud-walled restaurant serving delicious home-cooking. The more energetic can arrange camel tours here.

Shekhawati Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

( 01594-224658; www.shekhawatiguesthouse.com; r incl breakfast ₹600/800, r with AC ₹1000-1500;   )

This corner of rural loveliness is more like a homestay run by a very friendly couple. There are six rooms in the main building plus five lovely, mud-walled thatched cottages in the garden. The organic garden supplies most of the hotel's produce needs, which can be enjoyed in the lovely outdoor restaurant.

It's 4km east of the bus stand (₹70 by taxi). Pick-up from the bus or train station can be arranged, as can cooking lessons.

★ Apani Dhani

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 01594-222239; www.apanidhani.com; s/d from ₹1080/1420, r with AC from ₹2500; ❄️ 📶 🌿)

This award-winning ecotourism venture is a delightfully relaxing place. Rooms with comfortable beds are in cosy mud-hut, thatched-roof bungalows set around a bougainvillea-shaded courtyard. The adjoining organic farm supplies food, and there are solar lights, water heaters and compost toilets. It's on the western side of the Jaipur road. Five per cent of the room tariff goes to community projects.

Tours around the area, via bicycle, car, camel cart or on foot, can be arranged.

i Getting There & Away

BUS

The main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) is little more than a dusty car park accessed through a large yellow double-arched gateway. Services run roughly every hour to Jaipur (₹145 to ₹258, 3½ hours), Jhunjhunu (₹40, one hour) and Mandawa (₹35, 45 minutes).

TRAIN

Nawalgarh is on the route of the biweekly Sikar Dee Express. The train departs Dehli Sarai Rohilla station at 6.50am (on Wednesday and Friday) and arrives at Nawalgarh station at 12.15pm (sleeper/3AC ₹195/510, other classes available). The train continues to Sikar (arrives 1.10pm) on broad gauge, but beyond Sikar to Jaipur work is ongoing to convert the old metre-gauge track.

In the opposite direction, the train departs Nawalgarh at 2.45pm (also on Wednesday and Friday) and arrives at Delhi at 9pm (via Jhunjhunu; 2nd class ₹55).

Jhunjhunu

 01592 / POP 118,470

Shekhawati's most important commercial centre has a different atmosphere from the smaller towns, with lots of traffic and concrete, and the hustle and bustle that befits the district capital. It does, on the other hand, have some appealing havelis and a colourful bazaar.

Sights

Mohanlal Ishwardas Modi Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; Nehru Bazaar; ₹50)

On the northern side of Nehru Bazaar is Mohanlal Ishwardas Modi Haveli (1896). A train runs merrily across the front facade. Above the entrance to the outer courtyard are scenes from the life of Krishna. On a smaller, adjacent arch are British imperial figures, including monarchs and robed judges. Facing them are Indian rulers, including maharajas and nawabs.

Around the archway, between the inner and outer courtyards, there are some glass-covered portrait miniatures, along with some fine mirror-and-glass tilework.

Khetri Mahal

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; ₹50)

A series of small laneways at the western end of Nehru Bazaar (a short rickshaw drive north of the bus station) leads to the imposing Khetri Mahal, a small palace dating from around 1770 and once one of Shekhawati's most sophisticated and beautiful buildings. It's believed to have been built by Bhopal Singh, Sardul Singh's grandson, who founded Khetri. Unfortunately, it now has a desolate, forlorn atmosphere, but the architecture remains a superb open-sided collection of intricate arches and columns.

Modi Havelis

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Bazaar; ₹50)

The Modi Havelis face each other and house some of Jhunjhunu's best murals and woodcarving. The haveli on the eastern side has a painting of a woman in a blue sari sitting before a gramophone; a frieze depicts a train, alongside which soldiers race on horses. The spaces between the brackets above show the Krishna legends. The haveli on the western side has some comical pictures, featuring some remarkable facial expressions and moustaches.

Sleeping

Hotel Jamuna Resort

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  9414255035, 01592-232871; www.hoteljamunaresort.in; near Nath Ka Tilla; ₹1500-3500;    )

Hotel Jamuna Resort has everything the traveller needs. The rooms in the older wing are either vibrantly painted with murals or decorated with traditional mirrorwork, while the rooms in the newer wing are modern and airy. There's an inviting pool (₹100 for nonguests) set in the garden, plus purpose-built kitchens set up for in-house cooking courses.

The affable owner, Laxmi Kant Jangid has a wealth of knowledge on the villages of Shekhawati and tours can be organised here. Free pick-up from the train or bus stations can be arranged.

Getting There & Away

BUS

There are two bus stands: the main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) and the private bus stand (GOOGLE MAP). Both have similar services and prices, but the government-run buses from the main bus stand run much more frequently. Shared autorickshaws run between the two (₹8 per person).

Services from the main bus stand:

- ➔ Bikaner ₹226, five to six hours, hourly
- ➔ Delhi ₹230, five to six hours, hourly
- ➔ Fatehpur ₹45, one hour, half-hourly
- ➔ Jaipur ₹183, four hours, half-hourly
- ➔ Mandawa ₹25, one hour, half-hourly
- ➔ Nawalgarh ₹40, one hour, half-hourly

TRAIN

Jhunjhunu is on the route of the biweekly Sikar Dee Express. The train departs Delhi Sarai Rohilla station at 6.50am (on Wednesday and Friday) and arrives at Jhunjhunu station at 11.30am (sleeper/3AC ₹180/510, other classes available). In the opposite direction, the train departs Jhunjhunu at 3.30pm (also on Wednesday and Friday) and arrives at Delhi at 9pm. The train line to Sikar via Nawalgarh (2nd class ₹55) is broad gauge, but beyond Sikar to Jaipur work is ongoing to convert the old metre-gauge track.

SHEKHAWATI'S OUTDOOR GALLERIES

In the 18th and 19th centuries, shrewd Marwari merchants lived frugally and far from home while earning money in India's new commercial centres. They sent the bulk of their vast fortunes back to their families in Shekhawati to construct grand havelis (traditional, ornately decorated mansions) to show their neighbours how well they were doing and to compensate their families for their long absences. Merchants competed with one another to build ever more grand edifices – homes, temples, step-wells – which were richly decorated, both inside and out, with painted murals.

The artists responsible for these acres of decoration largely belonged to the caste of kumhars (potters) and were both the builders and painters of the havelis. Known as chajeras (masons), many were commissioned from beyond Shekhawati – particularly from Jaipur, where they had been employed decorating the new capital's palaces – and others flooded in from further afield to offer their skills. Soon, there was a cross-pollination of ideas and techniques, with local artists learning from the new arrivals.

The early paintings are strongly influenced by Mughal decoration, with floral arabesques and geometric designs. The Rajput royal courts were the next major influence; scenes from Hindu mythology are prevalent, with Krishna particularly popular.

With the arrival of Europeans, walls were embellished with paintings of the new technological marvels to which the Shekhawati merchants had been exposed in centres such as Calcutta. Pictures of trains, planes, telephones, gramophones and bicycles featured, often painted direct from the artist's imagination. Krishna and Radha are seen in flying motorcars, while the British are invariably depicted as soldiers, with dogs or holding bottles of booze.

These days most of the havelis are still owned by descendants of the original families, but not inhabited by their owners, for whom small-town Rajasthan has lost its charm. Many are occupied just by a single chowkidar (caretaker), while others may be home to a local family. Though they are pale reflections of the time when they accommodated the large households of the Marwari merchant families, they remain a fascinating testament to the changing times in which they were created. Only a few havelis have been restored; many more lie derelict, slowly crumbling away.

For a full rundown on the history, people, towns and buildings of the area, track down a copy of the excellent The Painted Towns of Shekhawati by Ilay Cooper, which can be picked up at bookshops in the region or in Jaipur.

Fatehpur

 01571 / POP 92,600

Established in 1451 as a capital for nawabs (Muslim ruling princes), Fatehpur was their stronghold for centuries before it was taken over by the Shekhawati Rajputs in the 18th century. It's a busy little town, with plenty of havelis, many in a sad state of disrepair, but with a few notable exceptions.

Sights

Apart from the magnificent Le Prince Haveli, other sights include the nearby

Chauhan Well (GOOGLE MAP); Jagannath Singhanian Haveli (GOOGLE MAP); the Mahavir Prasad Goenka Haveli (GOOGLE MAP), which is often locked but has superb paintings; the Geori Shankar Haveli (GOOGLE MAP), with mirrored mosaics on the antechamber ceiling; and south of the private bus stand, Vishnunath Keria Haveli (GOOGLE MAP), and Harikrishnan Das Saraogi Haveli (GOOGLE MAP), with a colourful facade and iron lacework.

Le Prince Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 01571-233024; www.cultural-centre.com; incl guided tour ₹200; 🕒 9am-6pm)

This 1802 haveli has been stunningly restored by French artist Nadine Le Prince and is one of the most exquisite havelis in Shekhawati. Family and visiting artists help to manage the building and conduct the detailed guided tours (30 to 45 minutes). There's a restaurant (bookings required) plus a small gallery. Many of the rooms have been converted into beautifully decorated guest rooms.

The haveli is around 2km north of the two main bus stands, down a lane off the main road. Turn right out of the bus stands, and the turn-off will eventually be on your right, or hop into an autorickshaw.

Tours

Shekhawati Bikers

TOURS

(GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 01571-233024; per person per day from ₹3600)

Le Prince Haveli can get you on a classic Royal Enfield Bullet for a guided tour around the relatively traffic-free roads of Shekhawati.

Sleeping

★ Le Prince Haveli

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP); 📍 8094880977, 01571-233024; www.leprincehaveli.com; near Chauhan Well; r from ₹1500, with bathroom from ₹2200, with AC ₹3500-6000; ❄️ 📶 🚰)

The beautifully restored Le Prince Haveli has opened its artists' residence rooms to travellers. There are 18 highly variable, traditional-style rooms overlooking the central courtyard. The alfresco bar and pool area are great places to unwind, and the adjacent restaurant on the terrace serves buffet meals (Indian and French cuisine) and Italian coffee.

There's a 20% discount in summer.

i Getting There & Away

At the private bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), on the Churu–Sikar road, buses leave for the following Shekhawati destinations throughout day, departing as they fill with passengers:

- ➔ Churu ₹39, one hour
- ➔ Jhunjhunu ₹45, one hour
- ➔ Mandawa ₹34, one hour
- ➔ Ramgarh ₹25, 45 minutes

From the RSRTC bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), further south down the same road, buses leave for the following:

- ➔ Bikaner ₹195, 3½ hours, hourly
- ➔ Delhi ₹288, seven hours, five daily
- ➔ Jaipur ₹157, 3½ hours, two daily

Mandawa

📍 01592 / POP 23,350

Of all the towns in the Shekhawati region, Mandawa is the one best set up for tourists, with plenty of places to stay and some decent restaurants. It's a little touristy (a relative term compared to other parts of Rajasthan), but this small 18th-century settlement is still a pleasant base for your haveli explorations.

There is only one main drag, with narrow lanes fanning off it. The easy-to-find Hotel Mandawa Haveli is halfway along this street and makes a handy point of reference. Most buses drop passengers off on the main street as well as by the bus stand.

Sights

Binsidhar Newatia Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP)

This 1920s haveli on the northern side of the Fatehpur–Jhunjhunu road houses the State Bank of Bikaner & Jaipur. There are fantastically entertaining paintings on the external eastern wall, including a European woman in a chauffeur-driven car, the Wright brothers in flight watched by women in saris, a strongman hauling along a car, and a bird-man flying in a winged device.

Murmuria Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP)

The Murmuria Haveli dates back to the 1930s. From the sandy courtyard out front, you can get a good view of the southern external wall of the adjacent double haveli: it features a long frieze depicting a train and a railway crossing. Nehru is depicted on horseback holding the Indian flag. Above the arches on the southern side of the courtyard are two paintings of gondolas on the canals of Venice.

Sleeping

Hotel Shekhawati

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01592-223036, 9314698079; www.hotelshekhawati.com; r ₹400-2800; 📶 @ 📶)

Near Mukundgarh Rd, the only real budget choice in town is run by a retired bank manager and his son (who's also a registered tourist guide). Bright, comically bawdy murals painted by artistic former guests give the rooms a splash of colour. Tasty meals are served on the peaceful rooftop.

Competitively priced camel, horse and 4WD tours can also be arranged.

Hotel Mandawa Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01592-223088, 8890841088; www.hotelmandawahaveli.com; s/ste from ₹1750/5500, d ₹2200-2800; 📶 @ 📶)

Close to Sonathia Gate, on the main road, this hotel is set in a glorious, restored 1890s haveli with rooms surrounding a painted courtyard. The cheapest rooms are small, so it's worth splashing out on a suite, filled with arches, window seats and countless small windows.

There's a rooftop restaurant serving delicious food; it's especially romantic at dinner time, when the lights of the town twinkle below. A set dinner costs ₹550.

Hotel Radhika Haveli Mandawa

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01592-223045, 9784673645; www.hotelradhikahavelimandawa.com; s/d/ste incl breakfast ₹1800/2800/3600; 📶 @ 📶)

This lovely restored haveli sits in a quiet part of town with a lawn (and pet rabbit) and boasts comfortable and tasteful rooms that are traditional but without garish murals. There's a good vegetarian restaurant in-house, but it's very close to Monica Rooftop Restaurant should you crave a chicken dish.

Hotel Heritage Mandawa

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01592-223742, 9414647922; www.hotelheritagemandawa.com; r ₹1635-6215; 📶 @ 📶)

South of the Subash Chowk is this gracious old haveli with traditionally decorated rooms. The eclectic suites have small mezzanine levels either for the bed or the bathroom. Rooms are highly variable, so check a few. Music performances and puppet shows are held in the small garden.

Hotel Castle Mandawa

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01592-223124; www.castlemandawa.com; r incl breakfast from ₹10,230; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Mandawa's large upmarket hotel in the town's converted fort is a swish and generally comfortable choice. Some rooms are far better appointed than others (the best are the suites in the tower, with four-poster and swing beds), so check a few before you settle in. The gardens and grounds boast restaurants, a coffeeshop and cocktail bar, a pool and an ayurvedic spa.

Eating

Monica Rooftop Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01592-224178; mains ₹180-400; 🕒 8am-9pm)

This delightful rooftop restaurant, in between the fort gate and main bazaar, serves tasty Indian and Chinese meals and cold beer. It's in a converted haveli, but only the facade, rather than the restaurant itself, has frescos.

Bungli Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9929439846; Goenka Chowk; mains ₹140-220, thalis ₹260-360; 🕒 5am-11pm)

A popular outdoor travellers' eatery near the Bikaner bus stand, Bungli serves piping-hot tandoori and cold beer from a down-at-heel setting. The food is cooked fresh by a chef who hails from Hotel Castle Mandawa. Early risers can enjoy an Indian breakfast and yoga class (5.30am, 6am, 6.30am) for a total of ₹400.

Getting There & Away

The main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), sometimes called Bikaner bus stand, has frequent services (roughly half-hourly), including those listed below. Note, there is also a separate Nawalgarh bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), just off the main drag, with services to Nawalgarh only. Both bus stands are so small they are unrecognisable as bus stands unless a bus is waiting at them. Look for the chai stalls that cluster beside them and you should have the right spot. The main bus stand is at one end of the main street, on your left as the road bears right.

- ➔ Bikaner ₹223, five hours
- ➔ Fatehpur ₹34, one hour
- ➔ Jhunjhunu ₹25, one hour
- ➔ Nawalgarh ₹35, 45 minutes

JAISALMER, JODHPUR & WESTERN RAJASTHAN

Jodhpur

☞ 0291 / POP 1,033,900

Mighty Mehrangarh, the muscular fort that towers over the Blue City of Jodhpur, is a magnificent spectacle and an architectural masterpiece. Around Mehrangarh's base, the old city, a jumble of Brahmin-blue cubes, stretches out to the 10km-long, 16th-century city wall. The Blue City really is blue! Inside is a tangle of winding, glittering, medieval streets, which never seem to lead where you expect them to, scented by incense, roses and sewers, with shops and bazaars selling everything from trumpets and temple decorations to snuff and saris.

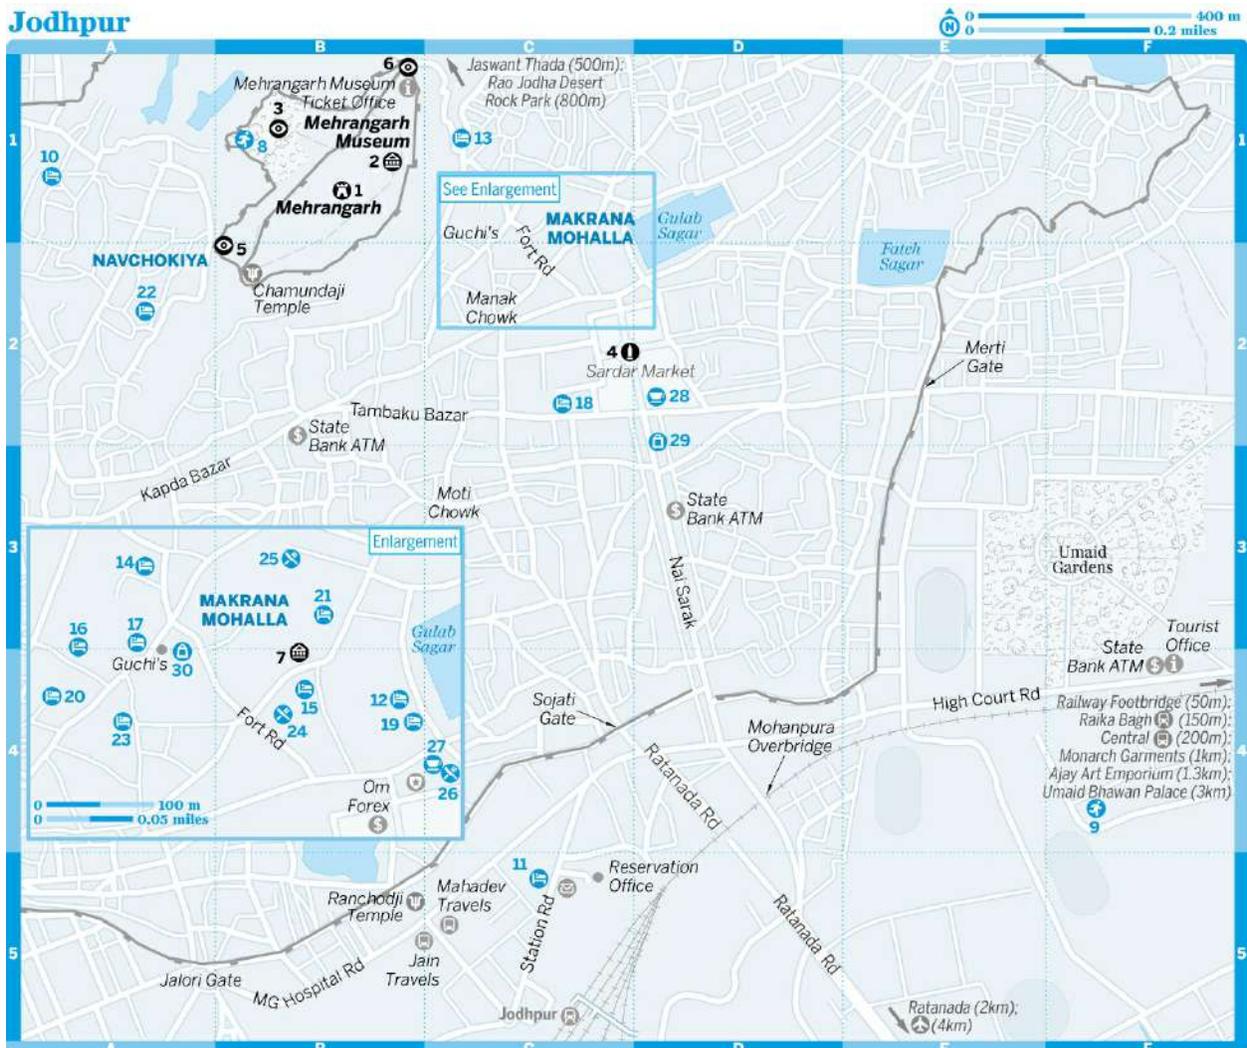

Modern Jodhpur stretches well beyond the city walls, but it's the immediacy and buzz of the old Blue City and the larger-than-life fort that capture travellers' imaginations. This crowded, hectic zone is also Jodhpur's main tourist area. Areas of the old city further west, such as Navchokiya, are just as atmospheric, with far less hustling.

History

Driven from their homeland of Kannauj, east of Agra, by Afghans serving Mohammed of Ghori, the Rathore Rajputs fled west around AD 1200 to the region around Pali, 70km southeast of Jodhpur. They prospered to such a degree that in 1381 they managed to oust the Pratiharas of Mandore, 9km north of present-day Jodhpur. In 1459 the Rathore leader Rao Jodha chose a nearby rocky ridge as the site for a new fortress of staggering proportions, Mehrangarh, around which grew Jodha's city: Jodhpur.

Jodhpur lay on the vital trade route between Delhi and Gujarat. The Rathore kingdom grew on the profits of sandalwood, opium, dates and copper, and controlled a large area, which became cheerily known as Marwar (the Land of Death) due to its harsh topography and climate. It stretched as far west as what's now the India–Pakistan border area, and bordered with Mewar (Udaipur) in the south, Jaisalmer in the northwest, Bikaner in the north, and Jaipur and Ajmer in the east.

Jodhpur

📍 Top Sights

- | | |
|---------------------|----|
| 1 Mehrangarh | B1 |
| 2 Mehrangarh Museum | B1 |

Sights

3	Chokelao Bagh	B1
4	Clock Tower	C2
5	Fateh Pol	B2
6	Jai Pol	B1
7	Tunwarji ka Jhalra	B4

Activities, Courses & Tours

8	Flying Fox	B1
9	Sambhali Trust	F4

Sleeping

10	Cosy Guest House	A1
11	Govind Hotel	C5
12	Haveli Inn Pal	B4
13	Hill View Guest House	C1
14	HosteLavie	A3
15	Hotel Haveli	B4
16	Kesar Heritage Hotel	A3
17	Krishna Prakash Heritage Haveli	A3
18	Nirvana Home	C2
19	Pal Haveli	B4
20	Pushp Paying Guest House	A4
21	Raas	B3
22	Singhvi's Haveli	A2
23	Yogi Guest House	A4

Eating

	Indique	B4
24	Jhankar Choti Haveli	B4
25	Jharokha	B3
	Nirvana	C2
26	Omelette Shops	C4

Drinking & Nightlife

27	Cafe Sheesh Mahal	C4
	Govind Hotel	C5
28	Shri Mishrilal Hotel	D2
	Stepwell Cafe	B4

Shopping

29 MV Spices

D2

30 Sambhali Boutique

A4

Sights & Activities

★ Mehrangarh

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.mehrangarh.org)

Rising perpendicular and impregnable from a rocky hill that itself stands 120m above Jodhpur's skyline, Mehrangarh is one of the most magnificent forts in India. The battlements are 6m to 36m high, and as the building materials were chiselled from the rock on which the fort stands, the structure merges with its base. Still run by the Jodhpur royal family, Mehrangarh is packed with history and legend. You don't need a ticket to enter the fort itself, only the museum section.

Mehrangarh's main entrance is at the northeast gate, Jai Pol (MAP GOOGLE MAP). It's about a 300m walk up from the old city to the entrance, or you can take a winding 5km autorickshaw ride (around ₹120).

Jai Pol was built by Maharaja Man Singh in 1808 following his defeat of invading forces from Jaipur. Past the museum ticket office (GOOGLE MAP) and a small cafe, the 16th-century Dodh Kangra Pol was an external gate before Jai Pol was built, and still bears the scars of 1808 cannonball hits. Through here, the main route heads up to the left through the 16th-century Imritia Pol and then Loha Pol, the fort's original entrance, with iron spikes to deter enemy elephants. Just inside the gate are two sets of small hand prints, the sati (self-immolation) marks of royal widows who threw themselves on their maharajas' funeral pyres – the last to do so were Maharaja Man Singh's widows in 1843.

Past Loha Pol you'll find a restaurant and Suraj Pol, which gives access to the museum. Once you've visited the museum, continue on from here to the panoramic ramparts, which are lined with impressive antique artillery. The ramparts were fenced off in 2016 after a fatal selfie accident. Hopefully a temporary measure, as the views are spectacular.

Also worth exploring is the right turn from Jai Pol, where a path winds down to the Chokelao Bagh (MAP GOOGLE MAP), a restored and gorgeously planted 18th-century Rajput garden (you could lose an afternoon here lolling under shady trees reading a book), and the Fateh Pol (Victory Gate; MAP GOOGLE MAP). You can exit here into the old city quarter of Navchokiya.

★ Mehrangarh Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.mehrangarh.org; Indian/foreigner incl audio guide ₹100/600, camera/video ₹100/200, Indian/foreign-language guide ₹170/225; 🕒 9am-5pm)

The fort's museum encompasses the fort's former palace, and is a superb example of Rajput architecture. The network of courtyards and halls features stone-lattice work so finely carved that it often looks more like sandalwood than sandstone. The galleries around Shringar Chowk (Anointment Courtyard) display India's best collection of elephant howdahs and Jodhpur's royal palanquin collection. The superb audio guide (available in 11 languages) is included with the museum ticket, but bring ID or a credit card as deposit.

One of the two galleries off Daulat Khana Chowk displays textiles, paintings, manuscripts, headgear and the curved sword of the Mughal emperor Akbar; the other gallery is the armoury. Upstairs is a fabulous gallery of miniature paintings from the sophisticated Marwar school and the beautiful 18th-century Phul Mahal (Flower Palace), with 19th-century wall paintings depicting the 36 moods of classical ragas as well as royal portraits; the artist took 10 years to create them using a curious concoction of gold leaf, glue and cow's urine.

Takhat Vilas was the bedchamber of Maharaja Takhat Singh (r 1843–73), who had just 30 maharanis and numerous concubines. Its beautiful ceiling is covered with Christmas baubles. You then enter the extensive zenana, the lovely latticed windows of which are said to feature over 250 different designs (and through which the women could watch the goings-on in the courtyards). Here you'll find the Cradle Gallery, exhibiting the elaborate cradles of infant princes, and the 17th-century Moti Mahal (Pearl Palace), which was the palace's main darbar hall (royal reception hall) for official meetings and receptions, with gorgeously colourful stained glass.

Rao Jodha Desert Rock Park

PARK

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9571271000; www.raojodhapark.com; Mehrangarh; ₹100, guide ₹200;

🕒 7am-7pm Apr-Sep, 8am-6pm Oct-Mar)

This 72-hectare park – and model of ecotourism – sits in the lee of Mehrangarh. It has been lovingly restored and planted with native species to show the natural diversity of the region. The park is criss-crossed with walking trails that take you up to the city walls, around Devkund Lake, spotting local birds, butterflies and reptiles. For an extra insight into the area's native flora and fauna, take along one of the excellent local guides.

Walks here are the perfect restorative if the Indian hustle has left you in need of breathing space. Visit in the early morning or late afternoon for the most pleasant temperatures. The visitors centre is thoughtfully put together, and there's a small cafe, too.

Jaswant Thada

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/50, camera/video ₹25/50, guide ₹50; 🕒 9am-5pm)

This milky-white marble memorial to Maharaja Jaswant Singh II, sitting above a small lake 1km northeast of Mehrangarh, is an array of whimsical domes. It's a welcome, peaceful spot after the hubbub of the city, and the views across to the fort and over the city are superb. Built in 1899, the cenotaph has some beautiful jalis (carved-marble lattice screens) and is hung with portraits of Rathore rulers going back to the 13th century.

Look out for the memorial to a peacock that flew into a funeral pyre.

Umaid Bhawan Palace

PALACE

(GOOGLE MAP ; museum Indian/foreigner ₹50/100;  museum 9am-5pm)

Take an autorickshaw to this hilltop palace, 3km southeast of the old city. The royal incumbent, Gaj Singh II, still lives in part of the building. Built in 1929, the 365-room edifice was designed by the British architect Henry Lanchester for Maharaja Umaid Singh. It took more than 3000 workers 15 years to complete, at a cost of around ₹11 million.

The building is mortarless, and incorporates 100 wagon loads of Makrana marble and Burmese teak in the interior. Apparently its construction began as a royal job-creation program during a time of severe drought. Much of the building has been turned into a suitably grand hotel.

Casual visitors are not welcome at either the royal residence or the hotel, but you can visit the museum, housed in one side of the building. It includes photos showing the elegant art-deco design of the palace interior, plus an eccentric collection of elaborate clocks. Don't miss the maharaja's highly polished classic cars, displayed in front of the museum, by the entrance gate.

Tunwarji ka Jhalra

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Step-well; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Makrana Mohalla) FREE

This geometrically handsome step-well (also known as a baori or wav) has been rejuvenated after decades as a rubbish dump. Its clean lines and clear, fish-filled water will leave you mesmerised. It's a great place to just sit and watch, but the attached cafe adds further incentive for a visit.

Clock Tower

MONUMENT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The century-old clock tower is an old city landmark surrounded by the vibrant sounds, sights and smells of Sardar Market, which is marked by triple gateways at its northern and southern ends. The narrow, winding lanes of the old city spread out in all directions from here. Westward, you plunge into the old city's commercial heart, with crowded alleys and bazaars selling vegetables, spices, sweets, silver and handicrafts.

Flying Fox

ADVENTURE SPORTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.flyingfox.asia; adult/child ₹1900/1600; 🕒 9am-5pm)

This circuit of six zip lines flies back and forth over walls, bastions and lakes on the northern side of Mehrangarh. A brief training session is given before you start and safety standards are good: 'awesome' is the verdict of most who dare. Flying Fox has a desk near the main ticket office and its starting point is in the Chokelao Bagh. Tours last up to 1½ hours, depending on the group size. Book online for a discount on the walk-up price.

Festivals & Events

Rajasthan International Folk Festival

MUSIC

(GOOGLE MAP; www.jodhpurriff.org; 🕒 Sep/Oct)

The excellent Rajasthan International Folk Festival has five days of music concerts by Indian and international artists held at Mehrangarh.

Jodhpur Flamenco & Gypsy Festival

MUSIC

(GOOGLE MAP; www.jfgfestival.com; Mehrangarh; 🕒 Apr)

Mehrangarh, this most spectacular of music venues, hosts April's Jodhpur Flamenco & Gypsy Festival.

Marwar Festival

PERFORMING ARTS

(🕒 Sep/Oct)

In September or October Jodhpur hosts the colourful Marwar Festival, which includes polo and a camel tattoo.

Sleeping

The old city has something like 100 guesthouses, most of which scramble for your custom as soon as you get within breathing distance of Sardar Market.

If you call ahead, many lodgings can organise a pick-up from the train station or bus stops, even at night. Otherwise, for most places in the old city you can avoid nonsense by getting dropped at the clock tower and walking from there.

Old City (Sadar Market)

HosteLavie

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0291- 2611001; www.hostelavie.com; Killi Khana, Fort Rd; dm ₹400-450; r ₹1600; 📶)

A European-style hostel with clean air-con dorms, where each bed sports a lockable locker and mobile charging point. The dorms are four- and six-bed and each one has its own bathroom. There are also double rooms, making this a good budget option between the fort and the clock tower. It has the obligatory rooftop terrace restaurant.

Rooms are simple and those facing inside are darker but quieter, compared to the airier rooms facing the busy thoroughfare.

Hill View Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0291-2441763; hill_view2004@yahoo.com; Makrana Mohalla; dm ₹150-200; r ₹300-700; 📶)

Perched above town and just below the fort walls, this hotel is run by a friendly, enthusiastic Muslim family, who'll make you feel right at home. Rooms are basic, clean and simple, all with bathrooms (but not all with decent windows), and the terrace has a great view over the city. Good, home-cooked veg and nonveg food is on offer.

Village and camel tours can be arranged here.

Kesar Heritage Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 9983216625; www.kesarheritage.com; Makrana Mohalla; r ₹900-1800)

A popular budget choice, Kesar plays a good hand with large airy rooms (a few have balconies, air-con and flat-screen TVs) and friendly, helpful management. The sidestreet location puts noisily sputtering rickshaws out of earshot of light sleepers. The rooftop restaurant looks up to Mehrangarh.

Pushp Paying Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2648494; www.pushpguesthouse.com; Pipli-ki-Gali, Naya Bass, Manak Chowk; r ₹600, with AC ₹900; 🏠 @ 📶)

A small family-run guesthouse with five clean, colourful rooms with windows. It's tucked down the narrowest of alleys, but you get an up-close view of Mehrangarh from the rooftop restaurant, where owner Nikhil rustles up great vegetarian fare (dishes ₹30 to ₹90). Nikhil will send a rickshaw to the railway station to pick you up for ₹60 to ₹100.

Yogi Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2643436; www.yogiguesthouse.com; r ₹800, with AC ₹1500-1900; 🏠 @ 📶)

Yogi's is a venerable travellers' hang-out, with budget and midrange rooms in a 500-year-old blue-washed haveli just below the fort walls. It's a friendly place with well-kept, clean rooms. There's also a lovely rooftop restaurant with great views.

★ Krishna Prakash Heritage Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2633448; www.kpheritage.com; Nayabas; r incl breakfast ₹1550-3850; 🏠 @ 📶 🛀)

This multilevel heritage hotel right under the fort walls is great value and a peaceful choice. It has decorated carved furniture and colourful murals, and rooms are well proportioned; the deluxe ones are a bit more spruced up, generally bigger, and set on the upper floors, so airier. There's a shaded swimming pool and a relaxing terrace restaurant.

Free bus and train station pick-ups are offered and there are facilities for drivers.

Haveli Inn Pal

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2612519; www.haveliinnpal.com; Gulab Sagar; r incl breakfast ₹3500-4680; 🌳 @ 📶)

This smaller sibling of Pal Haveli is accessed through the same grand entrance, but is located around to the right in one wing of the grand haveli. It's a simpler heritage experience, with comfortable rooms, and lake or fort views from the more expensive ones. It has its own very good rooftop restaurant, Panorama 360, a mere chapati toss from Indique.

Free pick-ups from Jodhpur transport terminals are offered, and discounts are often available for single occupancy.

Hotel Haveli

HOTEL $$

(Haveli Guesthouse; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2614615; www.hotelhaveli.net; Makrana Mohalla; s/d from ₹1465/1815; 🌳 @ 📶)

This 250-year-old building inside the walled city is a popular, efficient and friendly place. Rooms vary greatly and are individually decorated with colour themes and paintings; many have semibalconies and fort views. The rooftop restaurant, Jharokha, has excellent views and nightly entertainment. It's opposite the restored and beautiful Tunwarji ka Jhalra step-well.

Nirvana Home

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-5106280; www.nirvana-home.com; 1st fl, Tija Mata ka Mandir, Tambaku Bazaar; s/d from ₹1200/1600, ste ₹3000; 🌳 📶)

It's not often you get to lay your head down in a converted Hindu temple, but Nirvana Home gives you the chance. The hotel is in a busy bazaar, but rooms run off a lovely internal courtyard thick with pot plants. Windows face inside, with views of original 300-year-old temple frescos (fixtures are thankfully newer).

★ Pal Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-3293328; www.palhaveli.com; Gulab Sagar; r incl breakfast ₹593 11,115; 📶 @ 📶)

This stunning haveli, the best and most attractive in the old city, was built by the Thakur of Pal in 1847. There are 21 charming, spacious rooms, mostly large and elaborately decorated in traditional heritage style, surrounding a central courtyard. The family retain a small museum here. The rooftop restaurant, Indique, is one of the city's finest and boasts unbeatable views.

Raas

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2636455; www.raasjodhpur.com; Tunwarji ka Jhalara; r incl breakfast ₹19,000-41,000; 📶 @ 📶)

Developed from a 19th-century city mansion, Jodhpur's first contemporary-style boutique hotel is a splendid retreat of clean, uncluttered style, hidden behind castle-like gates. The red-sandstone-and-terrazzo rooms come with plenty of luxury touches. Most have balconies with great Mehrangarh views – also to be enjoyed from the lovely pool in the garden-courtyard. There are two restaurants and a highly indulgent spa.

Old City (Navchokiya)

Cosy Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9829023390, 0291-2612066; www.cosyguesthouse.com; Chuna Ki Choki, Navchokiya; r ₹400-1550, without bathroom ₹250; @ 📶)

A friendly place in an enchanting location, this 500-year-old glowing blue house has several levels of higgledy-piggledy rooftops and a mix of rooms, some monastic, others comfortable. Ask the rickshaw driver for Navchokiya Rd, from where the guesthouse is signposted, or call the genial owner, Mr Joshi.

★ Singhvi's Haveli

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2624293; www.singhvihaveli.com; Ramdevji-ka-Chowk, Navchokiya; r ₹700-2800; 📶 @ 📶)

This 500-odd-year-old, family-run, red-sandstone haveli is an understated gem. Run by two friendly brothers, Singhvi's has 13 individual rooms, ranging from simple places to lay your head to the magnificent Maharani Suite, with its 10 windows and fort view. The relaxing vegetarian restaurant is a great place to sample a Rajasthani thali and is decorated with sari curtains and floor cushions.

Train Station Area

Govind Hotel

HOTEL, HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2622758; www.govindhotel.com; Station Rd; dm ₹250, s/d from ₹800/900, s/d with AC from ₹1400/1600; 📶 @ 📶)

Well set up for travellers, with helpful management, an internet cafe, and a location convenient to the Jodhpur train station. All rooms are clean and tiled, with fairly smart bathrooms. There's a rooftop restaurant and a coffeeshop (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Govind Hotel, Station Rd; 🕒 10am-10pm) with excellent espresso and cakes.

Eating

Omelette Shops

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; omelettes from ₹25; 🕒 10am-10pm)

On your right and left as you leave Sadar Market through its northern gate, these two omelette stalls compete for the attentions of passing travellers by knocking up seemingly endless numbers and varieties of cheap, delicious omelettes. Both do a decent job, and are both run by characters worth spending a few minutes with.

Three tasty, spicy boiled eggs cost ₹15, and a two-egg masala and cheese omelette with four pieces of bread is ₹30.

★ Indique

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0291-3293328; Pal Haveli Hotel; mains ₹250-400; 🕒 11am-11pm)

This candlelit rooftop restaurant at the Pal Haveli hotel is the perfect place for a romantic dinner, with superb views to the fort, clock tower and Umaid Bhawan. The food covers traditional tandoori, biryanis and North Indian curries, but the Rajasthani laal maas (mutton curry) is a delight. Ask the barman to knock you up a gin and tonic before dinner.

Nirvana

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0291-5106280; 1st fl, Tija Mata ka Mandir, Tambaku Bazar; mains ₹130-200; 🕒 9am-10pm)

Sharing premises with a Rama temple and a hotel, Nirvana has both an indoor cafe, covered in ancient Ramayana wall paintings, and a rooftop eating area with panoramic views. The Indian vegetarian food is among the most delicious you'll find in Rajasthan. The special thali is enormous and easily enough for two. Continental and Indian breakfasts are served in the cafe.

Jhankar Choti Haveli

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9828031291; Makrana Mohalla; mains ₹130-360; 🕒 8am-10pm; ❄️📶)

Stone walls and big cane chairs in a leafy courtyard, along with prettily painted woodwork and whirring fans, set the scene at this semi-open-air travellers' favourite. It serves up good Indian vegetarian dishes, plus pizzas, burgers and baked-cheese dishes. There's also an air-con section and a rooftop for meals with a view.

On the Rocks

NORTH INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0291-5102701; Circuit House Rd; mains ₹130-375; 🕒 12.30-3.30pm & 7.30-

11pm)

This leafy garden restaurant, 2km southeast of the old city, is very popular with locals and tour groups. It has tasty Indian cuisine, including lots of barbecue options and rich and creamy curries, plus a small playground and a cavelike bar (open 11am to 11pm) with a dance floor (for couples only).

Jharokha

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0291-2614615; www.hotelhaveli.net; Hotel Haveli, Makrana Mohalla; mains ₹225-355; 🕒 8am-11pm)

The rooftop terrace of the Hotel Haveli hosts this classy restaurant, with uniformed staff, Indian wine and Spanish cerveza. The excellent veg and nonveg dishes include Rajasthani specialities, such as govind gatta (cottage cheese and gram-flour dumplings in a yoghurt curry), plus other North Indian curries; try the aloo Simla mirch (green bell peppers and potatoes in a spicy gravy).

Drinking & Nightlife

★ Shri Mishrilal Hotel

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sardar Market; lassi ₹30; 🕒 8.30am-10pm)

Just inside the southern gate of Sardar Market, this place is nothing fancy, but whips up the most superb creamy makhania lassis. These are the best in town, probably in all of Rajasthan, possibly in all of India.

★ Cafe Sheesh Mahal

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Pal Haveli Hotel; coffee from ₹100; 🕒 9.30am-9pm)

Coffee drinkers will enjoy the precious beans and the care that is bestowed on them at the deliciously air-conditioned Cafe Sheesh Mahal. And if you're feeling hungry the pancakes here are gaining legendary status.

Stepwell Cafe

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0291-2636455; Tunwarji ka Jhalra; coffee from ₹120; 🕒 noon-10.30pm; 📶)

This delightful modern cafe with espresso coffee, cakes and Italian dishes sits on one side of the wonderfully restored step-well, Tunwarji ka Jhalra. It's a great place to relax and contemplate the time when step-wells such as these kept the city alive. Or you can just watch the kids jump into the water with an impressive booming splash.

Shopping

Plenty of Rajasthani handicrafts are available in Jodhpur, with shops selling textiles and other wares clustered around Sardar Market and along Nai Sarak. You'll need to bargain hard. The town is known for antiques.

MV Spices

FOOD

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.mvspices.com; 107 Nai Sarak; 🕒 9am-9pm)

The most famous spice shop in Jodhpur (and believe us, there are lots of pretenders!), MV Spices has several small branches around town, including one at Meherangarh, that are run by the seven daughters of the founder of the original stall. It will cost around ₹100 to ₹500 for 100g bags of spices, and the owners will email you recipes so you can use your spices correctly when you get home.

Sambhali Boutique

FASHION & ACCESSORIES

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Killi Khana; 🕒 10am-7pm) 🍃

This small but interesting shop sells goods made by women who have learned craft skills with the Sambhali Trust (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0291-2512385; www.sambhali-trust.org; c/o Durag Niwas Guest House, 1st Old Public Park, Raika Bagh, Jodhpur), which works to empower disadvantaged women and girls. Items include attractive salwar trousers, cute stuffed silk or cloth elephants and horses, bracelets made from pottery beads, silk bags, and block-printed muslin curtains and scarves.

Ajay Art Emporium

ANTIQUES

(GOOGLE MAP ; Palace Rd; 🕒 10am-7pm)

Good quality replica Rajasthani antiques and furniture.

JODHPUR'S JODHPURS

A fashion staple for self-respecting horse people all around the world, jodhpurs are riding breeches – usually of a pale cream colour – that are loose above the knee and tapered from knee to ankle. It's said that Sir Pratap Singh, a legendary Jodhpur statesman, soldier and horseman, originally designed the breeches for the Jodhpur Lancers. When he led the Jodhpur polo team on a tour to England in 1897, the design caught on in London and then spread around the world.

Monarch Garments

CLOTHING

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9352353768; www.monarch-garments.com; A-13 Palace Rd; 🕒 10.30am-8.45pm)

If you fancy taking home an authentic pair of jodhpurs from the city they originated in, head to Monarch Garments, opposite the approach road leading up to Umaid Bhawan Palace. Here you can buy ready-made jodhpurs or have a pair tailored for you within two days. Prices are polo club-worthy, starting at around ₹9000.

Information

There are foreign-card-friendly ATMs dotted around the city, though fewer are in the old city.

Om Forex (GOOGLE MAP ; Sardar Market; internet per hour ₹30; 🕒 9am-10pm)

Exchanges currency and also has an internet facility.

Guchi's

TRAVEL AGENCY

(GOOGLE MAP ; Killikhana, Naya Bass, Makrana Mohalla; internet ₹50 per hr; 🕒 8am-10pm)

As well as all forms of ticketing and vehicle hire, Guchi's has fast broadband internet and a wealth of knowledge on what to do and where to go, including how to do an excursion to Osian.

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP ; Station Rd; 🕒 9am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 3pm Sat, stamp sales only 10am-3pm Sun)

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0291-2545083; High Court Rd; 🕒 9am-6pm Mon-Fri)

Offers a free map and willingly answers questions.

Getting There & Away

AIR

The airport is 5km south of the city centre, about ₹400/150 by taxi/autorickshaw.

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0291-2515551; www.jetairways.com; Jodhpur Airport) and Indian Airlines (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0291-2510758; www.indian-airlines.nic.in; 2 West Patel Nagar, Circuit House Rd, Ratanader) both fly daily to Delhi and Mumbai.

BUS

Government-run buses leave from the central bus stand (GOOGLE MAP ; Raika Bagh), directly opposite Raika Bagh train station. Walk east along High Court Rd, then turn right under the small tunnel. Services include the following:

- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) ₹207, AC ₹447, five hours, hourly until 6.30pm
- ➔ Bikaner ₹243, 5½ hours, frequent from 5am to 6pm
- ➔ Jaipur ₹336, AC ₹730, seven hours, frequent from 4.45am to midnight
- ➔ Jaisalmer ₹266, 5½ hours, 10 daily
- ➔ Mt Abu (Abu Road) ₹271, 7½ hours, nine daily until 9.30pm
- ➔ Osian ₹62, 1½ hours, half-hourly until 10pm
- ➔ Rohet ₹47, one hour, every 15 minutes

→ Udaipur ₹273, AC ₹604, seven hours, 10 daily until 6.30pm

For private buses, you can book through your hotel, although it's cheaper to deal directly with the bus operators on the road in front of Jodhpur train station. Jain Travels (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0291-2643832; www.jaintravels.com; MG Hospital Rd; 🕒 7am-11pm) and Mahadev Travels (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0291-2633927; MG Hospital Rd; 🕒 7am-10pm) are both reliable. Buses leave from bus stands out of town, but the operator should provide you with free transport (usually a shared autorickshaw) from their ticket office. Example services:

→ Ajmer (for Pushkar) ₹180, five hours, at least six daily

→ Bikaner seat/sleeper ₹220/320, five hours, at least five daily

→ Jaipur seat/sleeper ₹260/380, 7½ hours, five daily

→ Jaisalmer ₹300, 5½ hours, hourly

→ Mt Abu (direct) seat/sleeper ₹315/550, 7½ hours, daily

TAXI

You can organise taxis for intercity trips, or longer, through most accommodation places; otherwise, you can deal directly with drivers. There's a taxi stand outside Jodhpur train station. A reasonable price is ₹12 per kilometre (for a non-AC car), with a minimum of 250km per day. The driver will charge at least ₹100 for overnight stops and will charge for his return journey.

TRAIN

The computerised reservation office (GOOGLE MAP ; Station Rd; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 1.45pm Sun) is 300m northeast of Jodhpur train station. Window 786 sells the tourist quota. Services:

→ Ajmer (for Pushkar) sleeper/3AC ₹185/510, 5½ hours, two daily (6.35am and 7am)

→ Bikaner sleeper/3AC ₹210/530, 5½ to seven hours, five to eight daily (7.25am, 7.40am, 9.50am, 10.30am, 10.55am, 2.25pm, 4.35pm and 8.10pm)

→ Delhi sleeper/3AC ₹380/986, 11 to 14 hours, four daily (6.35am, 11.15am,

7.50pm and 9.15pm)

➔ Jaipur sleeper/3AC ₹250/625, five to six hours, six to 12 daily from 6.10am to midnight

➔ Jaisalmer sleeper/3AC ₹215/565, five to seven hours, three daily (5.20am, 7.25am, 5.50pm and 11pm)

➔ Mumbai sleeper/3AC ₹485/1270, 16 to 19 hours, two to six daily (5.35am, 2.45pm, 6.20pm, 6.45pm, 7.20pm and 11.55pm); all go via Abu Rd for Mt Abu (4½ hours)

➔ Udaipur There are no direct trains; change at Marwar Junction.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM JODHPUR

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Ajmer (for Pushkar)	54801 Jodhpur-Ajmer Fast Passenger	7am	12.35pm	185/510
Bikaner	14708 Ranakpur Exp	9.50am	3.35pm	210/530
Delhi	12462 Mandor Exp	7.50pm	6.40am	380/986
Jaipur	14854 Marudhar Exp	9.45am	3.30pm	250/625
Jaisalmer	14810 Jodhpur-Jaisalmer Exp	11pm	6am	215/565
Mumbai	14707 Ranakpur Exp	2.45pm	9.40am	485/1270

Fares: sleeper/3AC

BORDER CROSSING: JODHPUR TO KARACHI

For Karachi (Pakistan), the 14889 Thar Express, alias the Jodhpur–Munabao Link Express, leaves Bhagat Ki Kothi station, 4km south of the Jodhpur train station, at 1am on Saturday only. You need to arrive at the station six hours before departure – the same time it takes to reach Munabao (about 7am) on the border. There you undergo lengthy border procedures before continuing to Karachi (assuming you have a Pakistani visa) in a Pakistani train, arriving about 2am on Sunday. Accommodation is sleeper only, with a total sleeper fare of around ₹500 from Jodhpur to Karachi. In the other direction the Pakistani train leaves Karachi at about 11pm on Friday, and Indian train 14890 leaves Munabao at 7pm on Saturday, reaching Jodhpur at 11.50pm. It is currently not possible to book this train online; you will need to go to the station.

Getting Around

Despite the absurd claims of some autorickshaw drivers, the fare between the clock tower area and the train stations or central bus stand should be around ₹60 to ₹80. A couple of companies have reliable fixed-price taxis that can be pre-booked.

Around Jodhpur

Southern Villages

A number of traditional villages are strung along and off the Pali road southeast of Jodhpur. Most hotels and guesthouses in Jodhpur offer tours to these villages, often called Bishnoi village safaris. The Bishnoi are a Hindu sect who follow the 500-year-old teachings of Guru Jambheshwar, who emphasised the importance of protecting the environment. Many visitors are surprised by the density – and fearlessness – of wildlife such as blackbuck, nilgai (antelope), chinkara (gazelle) and desert fox around the Bishnoi villages.

The 1730 sacrifice of 363 villagers to protect khejri trees is commemorated in September at Khejadali village, where there is a memorial to the victims fronted by a small grove of khejri trees.

At Guda Bishnoi, the locals are traditionally engaged in animal husbandry. There's a small lake (full only after a good monsoon) where migratory birds, such as demoiselle cranes, and mammals such as blackbucks and chinkaras, can be seen, particularly at dusk when they come to drink.

The village of Salawas is a centre for weaving beautiful dhurries (rugs), a craft also practised in many other villages. A cooperative of 42 families here runs the Roopraj Dhurry Udyog ( 0291-2896658; rooprajdurry@sify.com;  dawn-dusk), through which all profits go to the artisans. A 3ft by 5ft dhurrie costs a minimum of ₹3000, a price based on two weavers working several hours a day for a month at ₹50 per day each. Other families are involved in block-printing.

Bishnoi village tours tend to last four hours in total and cost around ₹800 per person. Those run by Deepak Dhanraj of Bishnoi Village Safari (9829126398; www.bishnoivillagesafari.com; half-day tour per person ₹800) get good feedback, but many other places do them.

Osian

02922 / POP 12,550

The ancient Thar Desert town of Osian, 65km north of Jodhpur, was an important trading centre between the 8th and 12th centuries. Known as Upkeshpur, it was dominated by the Jains, whose wealth left a legacy of exquisitely sculpted, well-preserved temples. The Mahavira Temple (Indian/foreigner free/₹10, camera ₹100; 6am-8.30pm) surrounds an image of the 24th tirthankar (great Jain teacher), formed from sand and milk. Sachiya Mata Temple (6am-7.15pm) is an impressive walled complex where both Hindus and Jains worship.

Osian, along with Jodhpur, co-hosts the Marwar Festival, a colourful display of Rajasthani folk music, dance and costume held every September/October.

Prakash Bhanu Sharma, a personable Brahmin priest, has an echoing guesthouse (9414440479, 02922-274331; s/d without bathroom ₹400/600) geared towards pilgrims, opposite the Mahavira Temple. Safari Camp Osian (9928311435; www.safaricamposian.com; d tent incl dinner, breakfast & camel ride from ₹9000) is a fancier tented-camp option.

Gemar Singh

SAFARI

(📞 9460585154; www.hacra.org; per person per day around ₹2050, min 2 people)

Gemar Singh arranges popular camel safaris, homestays, camping, desert walks and 4WD trips in the deserts around Osian and its Rajput and Bishnoi villages. Pick-up from Osian bus station, or from Jodhpur, can be arranged.

i Getting There & Away

Frequent buses depart from Jodhpur to Osian (₹62, 1½ hours). Buses also run from Phalodi (₹83, two hours). Trains between Jodhpur and Jaisalmer also stop here. A return taxi from Jodhpur costs about ₹1500.

Jaisalmer

(📍) 02992 / POP 65,480

The fort of Jaisalmer is a breathtaking sight: a massive sandcastle rising from the sandy plains like a mirage from a bygone era. No place better evokes exotic camel-train trade routes and desert mystery. Ninety-nine bastions encircle the fort's still-inhabited twisting lanes. Inside are shops swaddled in bright embroideries, a royal palace and numerous businesses looking for your tourist rupee. Despite the commercialism, it's hard not to be enchanted by this desert citadel. Beneath the ramparts, particularly to the north, the narrow streets of the old city conceal magnificent havelis, all carved from the same golden-honey sandstone as the fort – hence Jaisalmer's designation as the Golden City.

A city that has come back almost from the dead in the past half-century, Jaisalmer may be remote, but it's certainly not forgotten – indeed it's one of Rajasthan's biggest tourist destinations.

History

Jaisalmer was founded way back in 1156 by a leader of the Bhati Rajput clan named Jaisal. The Bhatias, who trace their lineage back to Krishna, ruled right through to Independence in 1947.

The city's early centuries were tempestuous, partly because its rulers relied on looting for want of other income, but by the 16th century Jaisalmer was prospering from its strategic position on the camel-train routes between India and Central Asia. It eventually established cordial relations with the Mughal empire. In the mid-17th century, Maharawal Sabal Singh expanded the Jaisalmer principedom to its greatest extents by annexing areas that now fall within the administrative districts of Bikaner and Jodhpur.

Under British rule the rise of sea trade (especially through Mumbai) and railways saw Jaisalmer's importance and population decline. Partition in 1947, with the cutting of trade routes to Pakistan, seemingly sealed the city's fate. But the 1965 and 1971 wars between India and Pakistan gave Jaisalmer new strategic importance, and since the 1960s, the Indira Gandhi Canal to the north has brought revitalising water to the desert.

Today, tourism, wind-power generation and the area's many military installations are the pillars of the city's economy.

Jaisalmer

Jaisalmer

📍 Top Sights

1	Fort Palace	C4
2	Jaisalmer Fort	B4
3	Kothari's Patwa-ki-Haveli Museum	C2
4	Patwa-ki-Haveli	C2

📍 Sights

5	Desert Cultural Centre & Museum	E4
6	Jain Temples	B4
7	Laxminarayan Temple	B3
8	Nathmal-ki-Haveli	B2

9 Thar Heritage Museum B2

Activities, Courses & Tours

10 Sahara Travels C3

11 Thar Desert Tours B2

12 Trotters C3

Sleeping

13 1st Gate Home Fusion D4

14 Arya Haveli B2

15 Hotel Gorakh Haveli D5

16 Hotel Nachana Haveli B2

17 Hotel Pleasant Haveli B1

18 Hotel Renuka B1

19 Hotel Swastika B2

20 Hotel Tokyo Palace C5

21 Killa Bhawan Lodge C2

22 Roop Mahal B4

23 Shahi Palace B4

Eating

1st Gate Home Fusion D4

24 Desert Boy's Dhani C5

25 Jaisal Italy C3

26 Monica Restaurant C3

27 Natraj Restaurant D3

Saffron B2

Drinking & Nightlife

28 Bhang Shop C3

Shopping

29 Bellissima C4

30 Desert Handicrafts Emporium B2

31 Gandhi Darshan Emporium A2

32 Jaisalmer Handloom B2

33 Khadi Gramodyog Bhavan C5

34 Zila Khadi Gramodan Parishad C1

Transport

35 Hanuman Travels

A2

Swagat Travels

A2

Sights

★ Jaisalmer Fort

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Jaisalmer's fort is a living urban centre, with about 3000 people residing within its walls. It is honeycombed with narrow winding lanes, lined with houses and temples – along with a large number of handicraft shops, guesthouses and restaurants. You enter the fort from the east, near Gopa Chowk, and pass through four massive gates on the zigzagging route to the upper section. The final gate opens into the square that forms the fort's centre, Dashera Chowk.

Founded in 1156 by the Rajput ruler Jaisal and reinforced by subsequent rulers, Jaisalmer Fort was the focus of a number of battles between the Bhatias, the Mughals of Delhi and the Rathores of Jodhpur. In recent years, the fabric of the fort has faced increasing conservation problems due to unrestricted water use caused, in the most part, by high tourist numbers.

★ Fort Palace

PALACE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner incl compulsory audio guide ₹100/500, camera ₹100;

8am-6pm Apr-Oct, 9am-6pm Nov-Mar)

Towering over the fort's main square, and partly built on top of the Hawa Pol (the fourth fort gate), is the former rulers' elegant seven-storey palace. Highlights of the tour include the mirrored and painted Rang Mahal (the bedroom of the 18th-century ruler Mulraj II), a gallery of finely wrought 15th-century sculptures donated to the rulers by the builders of the fort's temples, and the spectacular 360-degree views from the rooftop.

One room contains an intriguing display of stamps from the former Rajput states. On the eastern wall of the palace is a sculpted pavilion-style balcony. Here drummers raised the alarm when the fort was under siege. You can also see numerous round rocks piled on top of the battlements, ready to be rolled onto advancing enemies. Much of the palace is open to the public – floor upon floor of small rooms provide a fascinating sense of how such buildings were designed for spying on the outside world. The doorways connecting the rooms of the palace are quite low. This isn't a reflection on the stature of the Rajputs, but was a means of forcing people to adopt a humble, stooped position in case the room they were entering contained the maharawal.

The last part of the tour moves from the king's palace (Raja-ka-Mahal) into the queen's palace (Rani-ka-Mahal), which contains an interesting section on Jaisalmer's annual Gangaur processions in spring. The worthwhile 1½-hour audio-guide tour (available in six languages) is included with the entry fee, but you must leave a ₹2000 deposit, or your passport, driver's licence or credit card.

Jain Temples

JAIN TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹50/200, camera ₹50; 🕒 Chandraprabhu, Rikhabdev & Gyan Bhandar 8am-noon, other temples 11am-noon)

Within the fort walls is a maze-like, interconnecting treasure trove of seven beautiful yellow sandstone Jain temples, dating from the 15th and 16th centuries. Opening times have a habit of changing, so check with the caretakers. The intricate carving rivals that of the marble Jain temples in Ranakpur and Mt Abu, and has an extraordinary quality because of the soft, warm stone. Shoes and all leather items must be removed before entering the temples.

Chandraprabhu is the first temple you come to, and you'll find the ticket stand here. Dedicated to the eighth tirthankar, whose symbol is the moon, it was built in 1509 and features fine sculpture in the mandapa, the intensely sculpted pillars of which form a series of toranas. To the right of Chandraprabhu is the tranquil Rikhabdev temple, with fine sculptures around the walls, protected by glass cabinets, and pillars beautifully sculpted with apsaras and gods.

Behind Chandraprabhu is Parasnath, which you enter through a beautifully carved torana culminating in an image of the Jain tirthankar at its apex. A door to the south leads to small Shitalnath, dedicated to the 10th tirthankar, whose image is composed of eight precious metals. A door in the northern wall leads to the enchanting, dim chamber of Sambhavanth – in the front courtyard, Jain priests grind sandalwood in mortars for devotional use. Steps lead down to the Gyan Bhandar, a fascinating tiny underground library founded in 1500, which houses priceless ancient illustrated manuscripts. The remaining two temples, Shantinath and Kunthunath, were built in 1536 and feature plenty of sensual carving. Note, the restrictive visiting times are for non-Jains. The temples are open all day for worshippers.

Laxminarayan Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The Hindu Laxminarayan Temple, in the centre of the fort, is simpler than the Jain temples here and has a brightly decorated dome. Devotees offer grain, which is distributed before the temple. The inner sanctum has a repoussé silver architrave around its entrance, and a heavily garlanded image enshrined within.

★ Patwa-ki-Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Government sections Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒 9am-6pm)

The biggest fish in the haveli pond is Patwa-ki-Haveli, which towers over a narrow lane, its intricate stonework like honey-coloured lace. Divided into five sections, it was built between 1800 and 1860 by five Jain brothers who made their fortunes in brocade and jewellery. It's all very impressive from the outside; however, the first of the five sections, the privately owned

Kothari's Patwa-ki-Haveli Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹100/250; 🕒 9am-6pm), richly evokes 19th-century life and is the only one worth paying entry for.

Other sections include two largely empty government-owned 'museums' and two private sections containing shops.

Nathmal-ki-Haveli

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; donation requested; 🕒 8am-7pm)

This late-19th-century haveli, once used as the prime minister's house, is still partly inhabited. It has an extraordinary exterior, dripping with carvings, and the 1st floor has some beautiful paintings using 1.5kg of gold leaf. The left and right wings were the work of two brothers, whose competitive spirits apparently produced this virtuoso work – the two sides are similar, but not identical. Sandstone elephants guard the entrance.

Desert Cultural Centre & Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Gadi Sagar Rd; museum ₹50, camera ₹50, combined museum & puppet show ₹100; 🕒 museum 10am-6pm, puppet show 6.30-8.30pm)

This interesting little museum tells the history of Rajasthan's princely states and has exhibits on traditional Rajasthani culture. Features include Rajasthani music (with video), textiles, a kavad mobile temple, and a phad scroll painting depicting the story of the Rajasthani folk hero Pabuji, used by travelling singers as they recite Pabuji's epic exploits. It also hosts nightly half-hour puppet shows with English commentary. The ticket includes admission to the Jaisalmer Folklore Museum.

Thar Heritage Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; off Court Rd; ₹40, camera ₹20; 🕒 10am-8pm)

This private museum has an intriguing assortment of Jaisalmer artefacts, from turbans, musical instruments, fossils and kitchen equipment to displays on birth, marriage, death and opium customs. It's brought alive by the guided tour you'll get from its founder, local historian and folklorist LN Khatri.

Look for the snakes and ladders game that acts as a teaching guide to Hinduism's spiritual journey. If the door is locked you'll find Mr Khatri at his shop, Desert Handicrafts Emporium, nearby on Court Rd.

ARRIVAL IN JAISALMER

Touts work the buses heading to Jaisalmer from Jodhpur, hoping to steer travellers to guesthouses or hotels in Jaisalmer where they will get a commission. Some may even approach you before the bus leaves Jodhpur; others ride part or all of the way from Jodhpur, or board about an hour before Jaisalmer. On arrival in Jaisalmer, buses can be surrounded by touts baying for your attention. Don't believe anyone who offers to take you anywhere you like for just a few rupees, and do take with a fistful of salt any claims that the hotel you want is full, closed or no good any more. Many hotels will offer pick-ups from the bus or train station.

Also be very wary of offers of rooms for ₹100 or similar absurd rates. Places offering such prices are almost certainly in the camel-safari hard-sell game with the objective of getting you out of the room and on to a camel as fast as possible. If you don't take up their safari offers, the room price may suddenly increase or you might be told there isn't a room available any more.

Touts are less prevalent on the trains, but the same clamour for your custom ensues outside the station once you have arrived.

Tours

The tourist office runs sunset tours to the Sam Sand Dunes (₹200 per person, minimum four people). Add ₹100 if you'd like a short camel ride, too. Other tours visit Amar Sagar, Lodhruva and Bada Bagh by car.

JAISALMER CAMEL SAFARIS

Trekking around by camel is the most evocative and fun way to sample Thar Desert life. Don't expect dune seas, however – the Thar is mostly arid scrubland sprinkled with villages and wind turbines, with occasional dune areas popping out here and there. You will often come across fields of millet, and children herding flocks of sheep or goats, the neck bells of which tinkle in the desert silence.

Most trips now include 4WD rides to get you to less frequented areas. The camel riding is then done in two two-hour batches, one before lunch, one after. It's hardly camel trekking, but it's a lot of fun nevertheless. A cheaper alternative to arranging things in Jaisalmer is to base yourself in the small village of Khuri, 48km southwest, where similar camel rides are available, but where you're already in the desert when you start.

Before You Go

Competition between safari organisers is cut-throat and standards vary. Most hotels and guesthouses are very happy to organise a camel safari for you. While many provide a good service, some may cut corners and take you for the kind of ride you didn't have in mind. A few low-budget hotels in particular exert considerable pressure on guests to take 'their' safari. Others specifically claim 'no safari hassle'.

You can also organise a safari directly with one of the several reputable specialist agencies in Jaisalmer. Since these agencies depend exclusively on safari business it's particularly in their interest to satisfy their clients. It's a good idea to talk to other travellers and ask two or three operators what they're offering.

A one-night safari, leaving Jaisalmer in the afternoon and returning the next morning, with a night on some dunes, is a minimum to get a feel for the experience: you'll probably get 1½ to two hours of riding each day. You can trek for several days or weeks if you wish. The longer you ride, the more understanding you'll gain of the desert's villages, oases, wildlife and people.

The best-known dunes, at Sam, 40km west of Jaisalmer, are always crowded in the evening and are more of a carnival than a back-to-nature experience. The dunes near Khuri are also quite busy at sunset, but quiet the rest of the time. Operators all sell trips now to 'nontouristy' and 'off-the-beaten-track' areas. Ironically, this has made Khuri quieter again, although Sam still hums with day-tripper activity.

With 4WD transfers included, typical rates are between ₹1200 and ₹2500 per person for a one-day, one-night trip (leaving one morning and returning the next). This should include meals, mineral water, blankets and sometimes a thin mattress. Check that there will be one camel for each rider. You can pay for greater levels of comfort (eg tents, better food), but always get it all down in writing.

You should get a cheaper rate (₹1000 to ₹1500 per person) if you leave Jaisalmer in the afternoon and return the following morning. A quick sunset ride in the dunes at Sam costs around ₹600 per person, including 4WD transfer. At the other end of the scale, you can arrange for a 20-day trek to Bikaner. Expect to pay between ₹1200 and ₹2000 per person per day for long, multiday trips, depending on the level of support facilities (4WDs, camel carts etc).

What to Take

A wide-brimmed hat (or Lawrence of Arabia turban), long trousers, a long-sleeved shirt, insect repellent, toilet paper, a torch (flashlight), sunscreen, a water bottle (with a strap), and some cash (for a tip to the camel men, if nothing else) are recommended. Women should consider wearing a sports bra, as a trotting camel is a bumpy ride. It can get cold at night, so if you have a sleeping bag bring it along, even if you're told that lots of blankets will be supplied. During summer, rain is not unheard of, so come prepared.

Which Safari?

Recommendations shouldn't be a substitute for doing your own research. Whichever agency you go for, insist that all rubbish is carried back to Jaisalmer.

Sahara Travels

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 02992-252609; www.saharatravelsjaisalmer.com; Gopa Chowk; 🕒 6am-8pm)

Run by the son of the late LN Bissa (aka Mr Desert), this place is very professional and transparent. Trips are to 'nontouristy' areas only. Prices for an overnight trip (9am to 11am the following day) are ₹1900 per person, all inclusive. A cheaper overnight alternative that avoids the midday sun starts at 2pm and finishes at 11am for ₹1500.

Trotters

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9828929974; www.trottersjaisalmer.net; Gopa Chowk; 🕒 5.30am-9.00pm)

This company is transparently run with a clear price list showing everything on offer, including trips to 'off-the-beaten-track' areas as well as cheaper jaunts to Sam or Khuri. Prices for an overnight trip (6.30am to 11am the following day) are ₹1950 to ₹2450 per person, all inclusive.

Thar Desert Tours

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 91-9414365333; www.tharcamelsafarijaisalmer.com; Gandhi Chowk; 🕒 8.30am-7.30pm)

This well-run operator charges ₹1200 per person per day including water and meals, adjusting prices depending on trip times. It limits tours to five people maximum, and we also receive good feedback about them. Customers pay 80% upfront.

In the Desert

Camping out at night, huddling around a tiny fire beneath the stars and listening to the camel drivers' songs, is magical.

There's always a long lunch stop during the hottest part of the day. At resting points the camels are unsaddled and hobbled; they'll often have a roll in the sand before limping away to browse on nearby shrubs, while the camel drivers brew chai or prepare food. The whole crew rests in the shade of thorn trees.

Take care of your possessions, particularly on the return journey. Any complaints you do have should be reported, either to the Superintendent of Police (GOOGLE MAP; ☎02992-252233), the tourist office or the intermittently staffed Tourist Assistance Force (GOOGLE MAP; Gadi Sagar Rd) posts inside the First Fort Gate and on the Gadi Sagar access road.

The camel drivers will expect a tip (up to ₹100 per day is welcomed) at the end of the trip; don't neglect to give them one.

Sleeping

While staying in the fort might appear to be Jaisalmer's most atmospheric choice, habitation inside the fort – driven in no small part by tourism – is causing irreparable damage to the monument. As a result, we don't recommend staying inside. Fortunately, there's a wide choice of good places to stay outside the fort. You'll get massive discounts between April and August, when Jaisalmer is hellishly hot.

Unfortunately, some budget hotels are heavily into the high-pressure selling of camel safaris and things can turn sour if you don't take up their propositions; room rates that sound too good to be true almost always are.

Arya Haveli

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎9782585337; www.aryahaveli.com; Mainpura Para; dm ₹175, with AC ₹275, r incl breakfast ₹450-1500; ❄️ 📶)

Helpful staff add to a stay at this spruced-up guesthouse. Rooms are well appointed and looked after; the cheaper ones face an internal courtyard, the best have their own balcony. The top-floor Blues Cafe is a nice place to relax to some good music and tasty food.

Hotel Tokyo Palace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-255483; www.tokyopalace.net; Dhibba Para; dm ₹150-200, s incl breakfast ₹500-2000, d incl breakfast ₹900-3000; 🌳 @ 📶 🚰)

Well run by honest, traveller-friendly management, this hotel has clean midrange rooms, some with lovely window seats, as well as plenty of budget options, including separate basement dorms for men and women (bathrooms are the next level up). A big bonus is the sparkling pool and rooftop restaurant.

Roop Mahal

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-251700; www.hotelroopmahal.com; off Shiv Rd; r ₹600-1500; 🌳 📶)

A solid budget choice with clean spacious rooms, trustworthy management, fort views from the rooftop cafe, and free wi-fi throughout. Cheaper rooms have fan only and windows facing inside; more expensive rooms have air-conditioning and views.

Desert Moon

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9414149350, 02992-250116; www.desertmoonguesthouse.com; Achalvansi Colony; s ₹600-1200, d ₹900-1800; 🌳 @ 📶)

On the northwestern edge of town, 1km from Gandhi Chowk, Desert Moon is in a quiet location beneath the Vyas Chhatri sunset point. The guesthouse is run by a friendly Indian-Kiwi couple who offer free pick-up from the train and bus stations. The 11 rooms are cool, clean and comfortable, with polished stone floors, tasteful decorations and sparkling bathrooms.

Hotel Renuka

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-252757; www.hotelrenuka.net; Chainpura Para; s/d ₹450/550, with AC ₹850/950; 🌳 @ 📶)

Spread over three floors, Renuka has squeaky-clean rooms – the best have balconies, bathrooms and air-conditioning. It's been warmly accommodating guests since 1988, so management knows its stuff. The roof terrace has great fort views and a good restaurant, and the hotel offers free pick-up from the bus and train stations.

Hotel Swastika

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-252483; swastikahotel@yahoo.com; Chainpura Para; dm ₹100, s/d/tr ₹200/300/400, r with AC ₹600; 🏠 📶)

In this well-run place, the only thing you'll be hassled about is to relax. Rooms are plain, quiet, clean and very good for the price; some have little balconies. There are plenty of restaurants nearby.

★ Hotel Nachana Haveli

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-252110; www.nachanahaveli.com; Goverdhan Chowk; r/ste incl breakfast ₹3950/4950; 🏠 @ 📶)

This 280-year-old royal haveli, set around three courtyards – one with a tinkling fountain – is a fascinating hotel with a highly regarded restaurant, Saffron. The raw sandstone rooms have arched stone ceilings and the ambience of a medieval castle. They are sumptuously and romantically decorated. The common areas come with all the Rajput trimmings, including swing chairs and bearskin rugs.

Although centrally located, the hotel is set back from the road and the stone walls ensure a peaceful sleep.

Hotel Gorakh Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-252978; www.hotelgorakhhaveli.com; Dhibba Para; s/d ₹1000/1500, with AC ₹1500/2500; 🏠 📶)

A pleasantly low-key spot south of the fort, Gorakh Haveli is a modern place built with traditional sandstone and some attractive carving. Rooms are comfy and spacious, staff are amiable, and there's a reasonable all-veg, multicuisine rooftop restaurant (mains ₹30 to ₹150), with fort views, of course. A 30% discount on rooms is offered in summer.

Hotel Pleasant Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-253253; www.pleasanthaveli.com; Chainpura Para; r from ₹2450; 🌳 📶)

This welcoming place has lots of lovely carved stone, a beautiful rooftop (with restaurant) and just a handful of spacious and attractive colour-themed rooms, all with modern, well-equipped bathrooms and air-con.

Complimentary water bottle and free pick-ups from transport terminals are available.

Shahi Palace

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-255920; www.shahipalacehotel.com; off Shiv Rd; r ₹350-2000; 🌳 @ 📶)

Shahi Palace is a deservedly popular option. It's a modern building in the traditional style with carved sandstone. It has attractive rooms with raw sandstone walls, colourful embroidery, and carved stone or wooden beds. The cheaper rooms are mostly in two annexes along the street, Star Haveli and Oasis Haveli. The rooftop restaurant (mains ₹80 to ₹200) is excellent.

Indian veg and nonveg dishes are available, plus some European fare, cold beer and a superb evening fort view.

★ 1st Gate Home Fusion

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-254462, 9462554462; www.1stgate.in; First Fort Gate; r incl breakfast from ₹8190; 🌳 @ 📶)

Italian-designed and super-slick, this is Jaisalmer's most sophisticated hotel and it is beautiful throughout, with a desert-meets-contemporary-boutique vibe. The location lends it one of the finest fort views in town, especially from its split-level, open-air restaurant-café area. Rooms are immaculate with complimentary minibar (soft drinks), fruit basket and bottled water replenished daily.

Killa Bhawan Lodge

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-253833; www.killabhawan.com; Patwa-ki-haveli Chowk; r incl breakfast from ₹4165; ❄️ 📶)

Near Patwa-ki-Haveli, this small hotel is a delight. There are five big and beautifully decorated rooms, a pleasant rooftop restaurant, KB Cafe, that looks up to the fort, and free tea and coffee all day.

★ Suryagarh

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-269269; www.suryagarh.com; Kahala Fata, Sam Rd; r/ste incl breakfast from ₹18,000/23,000; ❄️ @ 📶 🚰)

The undisputed king in this category, Suryagarh rises like a fortress beside the Sam road, 14km west of town. It's a brand-new building in traditional Jaisalmer style centred on a huge palace-like courtyard with beautiful carved stonework. Features include a fabulous indoor pool and a multicuisine restaurant, Nosh (mains ₹650 to ₹800; nonguests welcome). Rooms follow the traditional/contemporary theme.

It's a spectacular place, but it doesn't stop there. A great range of activities and excursions are on offer plus nightly entertainment.

Eating & Drinking

★ 1st Gate Home Fusion

ITALIAN, INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 02992-254462, 9462554462; First Fort Gate; mains ₹220-460; 🕒 7.30-10.30am, noon-3pm & 7-11pm; 📶 🍴)

Sitting atop the boutique hotel of the same name, this split-level, open-air terrace boasts dramatic fort views and a mouth-watering menu of authentic vegetarian Italian and Indian dishes. Also on offer are excellent wood-fired pizzas and good strong Italian coffee. Snacks and drinks are available outside meal times (7.30am to 11pm).

★ Saffron

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Hotel Nachana Haveli, Goverdhan Chowk; mains ₹195-415; 🕒 7am-11pm)

On the spacious roof terrace of Hotel Nachana Haveli, the veg and nonveg food here is excellent. It's a particularly atmospheric place in the evening, with private and communal lounges and more formal seating arrangements. The Indian food is hard to beat, though the Italian isn't too bad either. Alcohol is served.

Monica Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Amar Sagar Pol; mains ₹100-300, veg/nonveg thali ₹175/375; 🕒 8am-3p & 6-11pm)

The airy open-air dining room at Monica just about squeezes in a fort view, but if you end up at a non-view table, console yourself with the excellent veg and nonveg options. Meat from the tandoor is particularly well-flavoured and succulent, the thalis varied, and the salads fresh and tasty.

Jaisal Italy

ITALIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); First Fort Gate; mains ₹180-290; 🕒 7.30am-11pm; ❄️ 📶)

Just inside First Fort Gate, Jaisal Italy has a decent vegetarian Italian menu, including bruschetta, antipasti, pasta, pizza, salad and desserts, plus Spanish omelettes. All this is served up in an exotically decorated indoor restaurant (cosy in winter, deliciously air-conditioned in summer) or on a delightful terrace atop the lower fort walls, with cinematic views. Alcohol is served.

Desert Boy's Dhani

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Dhibba Para; mains ₹120-250, thali ₹400; 🕒 11am-4pm & 7-11pm; ❄️ 📶 🍷)

A walled-garden restaurant where tables are spread around a large, stone-paved courtyard shaded by a big tree. There's also traditional cushion seating undercover and in an air-con room. Rajasthani music and dance is performed from 8pm to 10pm nightly, and it's a very pleasant place to eat excellent, good-value Rajasthani and other Indian veg dishes.

Natraj Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Aasani Rd; mains ₹120-180; 🕒 10am-10pm; 📶 🍴)

This rooftop restaurant has a satisfying view of the upper part of the Salim Singh-ki-Haveli next door. The pure veg food is consistently excellent and the service is great. The delicious South Indian dosas (large savoury crêpes) are fantastic value.

Bhang Shop

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gopa Chowk; lassi from ₹150)

Jaisalmer's licensed Bhang Shop is a simple, unpretentious place. The magic ingredient is bhang: cannabis buds and leaves mixed into a paste with milk, ghee and spices. As well as lassi, it also does a range of bhang-laced cookies and cakes – choose either medium or strong. Bhang is legal, but it doesn't agree with everyone, so go easy.

Shopping

Jaisalmer is famous for its stunning embroidery, bedspreads, mirrorwork wall hangings, oil lamps, stonework and antiques. Watch out when purchasing silver items: the metal is sometimes adulterated with bronze.

There are several good khadi (homespun cloth) shops where you can find fixed-price tablecloths, rugs and clothes, with a variety of patterning techniques including tie-dye, block printing and embroidery. Try Zila Khadi Gramodan Parishad (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Malka Prol Rd; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat), Khadi Gramodyog Bhavan (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dhibba; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sa) or Gandhi Darshan Emporium (MAP GOOGLE MAP; near Hanuman Circle; 🕒 11am-7pm Fri-Wed).

Bellissima

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dasher Chowk; 🕒 8am-9pm)

This small shop near the fort's main square sells beautiful patchworks, embroidery, paintings, bags, rugs, cushion covers and all types of Rajasthani art. Proceeds assist underprivileged women from surrounding villages, including those who have divorced or been widowed.

Jaisalmer Handloom

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.jaisalmerhandloom.com; Court Rd; 🕒 9am-10pm)

This place has a big array of bedspreads, tapestries, clothing (ready-made and custom-made, including silk) and other textiles, made by its own workers and others. If you need an embroidered camel-saddle-cloth (and who doesn't?), try for one here.

Desert Handicrafts Emporium

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Court Rd; 🕒 9.30am-9.30pm)

With some unusual jewellery, paintings, and all sorts of textiles, this is one of the most original of numerous craft shops around town.

Information

MONEY

There are ATMs near Hanuman Circle, on Shiv Rd, and outside the train station. Lots of licensed money changers are in and around Gandhi Chowk.

POST

Main post office (GOOGLE MAP; Hanuman Circle Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) West of the fort.

Post office (GOOGLE MAP; Gopa Chowk; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri, to 1pm Sat) Just outside the fort gate; sells stamps and you can send postcards.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Tourist office (GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 02992-252406; Gadi Sagar Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6pm)

Friendly office with a free town map.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Jaisalmer's new airport, 5km south of town, has been lying mothballed for a few years, but there have been signs that regular domestic flights would soon resume. Meanwhile, Supreme Airlines (9820588749; www.supremeairlines.com) was planning to fly a small plane from Delhi to Jaisalmer via Bikaner. Check locally to see if the route is currently operating.

BUS

RSRTC buses leave from the main bus stand (; Shiv Rd). There are services to Ajmer (₹430, 9½ hours) and Jodhpur (₹266, 5½ hours) throughout the day. Buses to Khuri (₹39, one hour) depart from a stand () just off Gadi Sagar Rd on Barmer Rd.

A number of private bus companies have ticket offices at Hanuman Circle. Hanuman Travels ( ; 9413362367) and Swagat Travels ( ; 02992-252557) are typical. The buses themselves leave from the private bus stand (; Air Force Circle).

Typical services:

- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) seat/sleeper ₹300/450, nine hours, two or three daily
- ➔ Bikaner seat/sleeper ₹200/400, 5½ hours, three to four daily
- ➔ Jaipur seat/sleeper ₹400/500, 11 hours, two or three daily
- ➔ Jodhpur seat/sleeper ₹200/400, five hours, half-hourly from 6am to 10pm
- ➔ Udaipur sleeper ₹350/450, 12 hours, one or two daily

TAXI

One-way taxis should cost about ₹4500 to Jodhpur, ₹5000 to Bikaner or ₹8000 to Udaipur. There's a taxi stand () on Hanuman Circle Rd.

TRAIN

The train station (;  ticket office 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 1.45pm Sun) is on the eastern edge of town, just off the Jodhpur road. There's a reserved ticket booth for foreigners.

- ➔ Bikaner sleeper/3AC ₹250/625, around six hours, one or two daily (1.10am and 11.55pm)
- ➔ Delhi sleeper/3AC ₹450/1205, 18 hours, two or three daily (12.45am, 1.10am, 5pm) via Jaipur (12 hours)
- ➔ Jaipur sleeper/3AC ₹350/935, 12 hours, three daily (12.45am, 5pm, 11.55pm)
- ➔ Jodhpur sleeper/3AC ₹215/565, five to six hours, three daily (12.45am, 6.45am and 5pm)

MAJOR TRAINS FROM JAISALMER

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Bikaner	12467 Leelan Exp	11.55pm	5.20am	250/625
Delhi	14660 Jaisalmer-Delhi Exp	5pm	10.55am	450/1205
Jaipur	14660 Jaisalmer-Delhi Exp	5pm	4.50am	350/935
Jodhpur	14809 Jaisalmer-Jodhpur Exp	6.45am	1pm	215/565

Fares: sleeper/3AC

Getting Around

AUTORICKSHAW

It costs around ₹40 from the train station to Gandhi Chowk.

CAR & MOTORCYCLE

It's possible to hire taxis or 4WDs from the stand on Hanuman Circle Rd. To Khuri, the Sam Sand Dunes or Lodhruva, expect to pay ₹1000 to ₹1200 return including a wait of about an hour or so.

Shiva Bikes (GOOGLE MAP); First Fort Gate; motorbike per day ₹500-2000; 🕒 8am-9pm) A licensed hire place with motorbikes (including Royal Enfield Bullets) and scooters for exploring town and nearby sights. Helmets and area maps are included.

Around Jaisalmer

Sam Sand Dunes

Sam Sand Dunes

AREA

(vehicle/camel ₹50/80)

The silky Sam Sand Dunes, 41km west of Jaisalmer along a good sealed road (maintained by the Indian army), are one of the most popular excursions from the city. The band of dunes is about 2km long and is undeniably one of the most picturesque in the region. Some camel safaris camp here, but many more people just roll in for sunset, to be chased across the sands by tenacious camel owners offering short rides. Plenty more people stay overnight in one of the several tent resorts near the dunes.

The place acquires something of a carnival atmosphere from late afternoon till the next morning, making it somewhere to avoid if you're after a solitary desert experience.

If you're organising your own camel ride on the spot, expect to pay ₹300 for a one-hour sunset ride, but beware tricks from camel men such as demanding more money en route.

Khuri

📍03014

The village of Khuri, 48km southwest of Jaisalmer, has quite extensive dune areas attracting their share of sunset visitors, and a lot of mostly smallish 'resorts' offering the same sort of overnight packages as Sam. It also has a number of low-key guesthouses where you can stay in tranquillity in a traditional-style hut with clay-and-dung walls and thatched roof, and venture out on interesting camel trips in the relatively remote and empty surrounding area.

Khuri is within the Desert National Park, which stretches over 3162 sq km southwest of Jaisalmer to protect part of the Thar ecosystem, including wildlife such as the desert fox, desert cat, chinkara (gazelle), nilgai (antelope), and some unusual bird life including the endangered great Indian bustard.

Be aware that the commission system is entrenched in Khuri's larger accommodation options. If you just want a quick camel ride on the sand dunes, expect to pay around ₹150 per person.

Sleeping

★ Badal House

HOMESTAY $

(📞) 8107339097; r or hut per person incl full board ₹400)

Here you can stay in a family compound in the centre of the village with a few spotlessly clean, mud-walled, thatch-roofed huts and equally spotless rooms (one with its own squat toilet), and enjoy good home-cooking. Former camel driver Badal Singh is a charming, gentle man who charges ₹600 for a camel safari with a night on the dunes.

He doesn't pay commission so don't let touts warn you away.

Getting There & Away

You can catch local buses from Jaisalmer to Khuri (₹30, one hour) from a road just off Gadi Sagar Rd. Walking from Jaisalmer Fort towards the train station, take the second right after the tourist office, then wait by the tree on the left, with the small shrine beside it. Buses pass here at around 10am, 11.30am, 3.30pm and 4pm.

Return buses from Khuri to Jaisalmer leave at roughly 8am, 9am, 10.30am, 11.30am and 2.30pm.

A taxi from Jaisalmer will cost at least ₹1200 to ₹1500. Even if you are staying here you will be paying for the return trip.

Bikaner

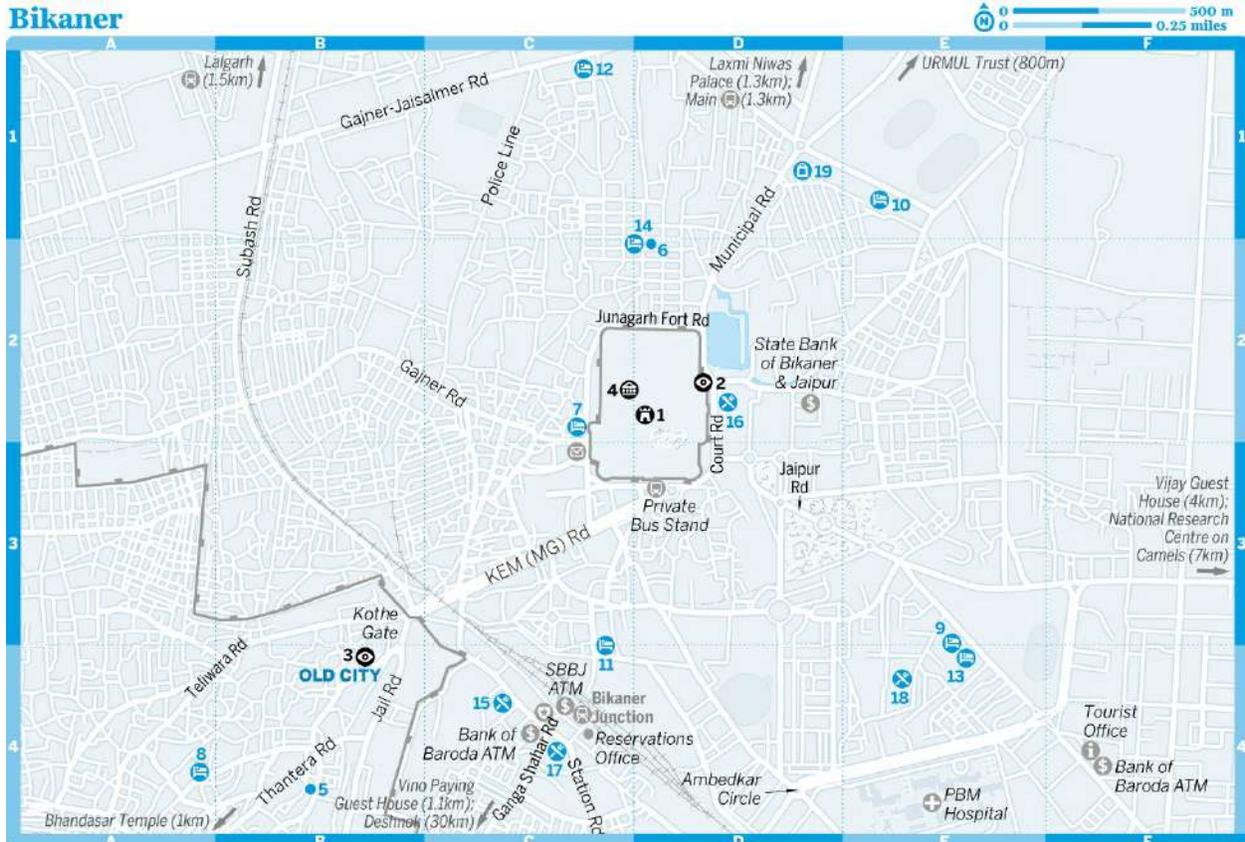

📍 0151 / POP 644,400

Bikaner is a vibrant, dust-swirling desert town with a fabulous fort and an energising outpost feel. It's less dominated by tourism than many other Rajasthan cities, though it has plenty of hotels and a busy camel-safari scene, which attracts travellers looking to avoid the Jaisalmer hustle.

History

The city was founded in 1488 by Rao Bika, a son of Rao Jodha, Jodhpur's founder, though the two Rathore ruling houses later had a serious falling out over who had the right to keep the family heirlooms. Bikaner grew quickly as a staging post on the great caravan trade routes from the late 16th century onwards, and flourished under a friendly relationship with the Mughals, but declined as the Mughals did in the 18th century. By the 19th century the area was markedly backward, but managed to turn its fortunes around by hiring out camels to the British during the First Anglo-Afghan War. In 1886 it was the first desert princely state to install electricity.

Bikaner

Bikaner

📍 Top Sights

1 Junagarh D2

📍 Sights

2 Karan Prole D2

3 Old City B4

4 Prachina Cultural Centre & Museum C2

👤 Activities, Courses & Tours

5 Gouri Guide B4

6 Vinayak Desert Safari D2

🛏 Sleeping

7 Bhairon Vilas C2

8 Bhanwar Niwas A4

9 Chandra Niwas Guest House	E3
10 Hotel Harasar Haveli	E1
11 Hotel Jaswant Bhawan	C4
12 Hotel Kishan Palace	C1
13 Udai Niwas	E4
14 Vinayak Guest House	D2

Eating

15 Amberwalla	C4
Café Indra	E4
16 Gallops	D2
17 Heeralal's	C4
18 Road Runner Cafe	E4
Shakti Dining	E4

Shopping

19 Bikaner Miniature Arts	D1
---	----

Sights

★ Junagarh

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹50/300, video ₹150, audio guide ₹50, ID required; 10am-5.30pm, last entry 4.30pm)

This most impressive fort was constructed between 1589 and 1593 by Raja Rai Singh, ruler of Bikaner and a general in the army of the Mughal emperor Akbar. You enter through the Karan Prole (MAP GOOGLE MAP) gate on the east side and pass through three more gates before the ticket office for the palace museum. An audio guide (requiring an identity document as a deposit), is available in English, French, German and Hindi, and is very informative.

The beautifully decorated Karan Mahal was the palace's Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audience), built in the 17th and 18th centuries. Anup Mahal Chowk has lovely carved jarokhas (balcony windows) and jali screens, and was commissioned in the late 17th century by Maharaja Anup Mahal. Rooms off here include the sumptuous Anup Mahal, a hall of private audience with walls lacquered in red and gold, and the Badal Mahal (Cloud Palace), the walls of which are beautifully painted with blue cloud motifs and red and gold lightning.

The Gaj Mandir, the suite of Maharaja Gaj Singh (r 1745–87) and his two top wives, is a fantastic symphony of gold paint, colourful murals, sandalwood, ivory, mirrors, niches and stained glass. From here you head up to the palace roof to enjoy the views and then down eventually to the superb Ganga Durbar Hall of 1896, with its pink stone walls covered in fascinating relief carvings. You then move into Maharaja Ganga Singh's office and finally into the Vikram Vilas Durbar Hall, where pride of place goes to a WWI De Havilland DH-9 biplane bomber: General Maharaja Sir Ganga Singh commanded the Bikaner Camel Corps during WWI and was the only non-white member of Britain's Imperial War Cabinet during the conflict.

Prachina Cultural Centre & Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Junagarh; Indian/foreigner ₹30/100; 🕒 9am-6pm)

Across the fort's main courtyard from the palace entrance, this museum is fascinating and well labelled. It focuses on the Western influence on the Bikaner royals before Independence, including crockery from England and France and menu cards from 1936, as well as some exquisite costumes, jewellery and textiles, and exhibits on contemporary Bikaner crafts.

Old City

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The old city still has a medieval feel despite the motorbikes and autorickshaws. This labyrinth of narrow, winding streets conceals a number of fine havelis, and a couple of notable Jain temples just inside the southern wall, 1.5km southwest of Bikaner Junction train station. It makes for an interesting wander – we guarantee you'll get lost at least once. The old city is encircled by a 7km-long, 18th-century wall with five entrance gates, the main entrance being the triple-arched Kothe Gate.

★ Bhandasar Temple

JAIN TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 5am-1pm & 5.30-11.30pm)

Of Bikaner's two Jain temples, Bhandasar is particularly beautiful, with yellow-stone carving and vibrant paintings. The interior of the temple is stunning. The pillars bear floral arabesques and depictions of the lives of the 24 tirthankars (great Jain teachers). It's said that 40,000kg of ghee was used instead of water in the mortar, which locals insist seeps through the floor on hot days. The priest may ask for a donation for entry, although a trust pays for the temple upkeep.

Tours

Camel Man

TOURS

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9799911117, 9829217331, 0151-2231244; www.camelman.com; Vijay Guest House, Jaipur Rd; half-/full-/multiday trip per person per day from ₹800/1200/1800)

The standout Bikaner safari operator in terms of quality, reliability and transparency of what's on offer is Vijay Singh Rathore, aka Camel Man, who operates from Vijay Guest House.

Vino Desert Safari

TOURS

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0151-2270445, 9414139245; www.vinodesertsafari.com; Vino Paying Guest House; 1 day, 1 night per person ₹2500, multiday trek per person per day ₹1500-2000)

A popular and long-established outfit, Vino Desert Safari is run by Vinod Bhojak, of Vino Paying Guest House.

Vinayak Desert Safari

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0151-2202634, 9414430948; www.vinayakdesertsafari.com; Vinayak Guest House; half-day 4WD safari per person ₹500, full- or multiday 4WD safari per person ₹900-2000)

Vinayak Desert Safari runs 4WD safaris with zoologist Jitu Solanki. This safari focuses on desert animals and birds including the impressive cinereous vulture, with its 3m wingspan, which visits the area in numbers from November to March.

Gouri Guide

TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0151-2543306, 9461159796; gouriguide@yahoo.in; Shanti House, New Well, Old City; per person per hr ₹50)

Gouri is a knowledgeable and personable guide based in the Old City who can show all the well-known sights and many of the lesser-known sights of Bikaner. He also runs a small guesthouse.

BIKANER CAMEL SAFARIS

Bikaner is an excellent alternative to the Jaisalmer camel-safari scene. There are fewer people running safaris here, so the hassle factor is quite low. Camel trips tend to be in the areas east and south of the city and focus on the isolated desert villages of the Jat, Bishnoi, Meghwal and Rajput peoples. Interesting wildlife can be spotted here, such as nilgais (antelope), chinkaras (gazelle), desert foxes, spiny-tailed lizards and plenty of birds including, from September to March, the demoiselle crane.

Three days and two nights is a common camel-safari duration, but half-day, one-day and short overnight trips are all possible. If you're after a serious trip, Jaisalmer is a two-week trek. The best months to head into the desert are October to February. Avoid mid-April to mid-July, when it's searingly hot.

Typical costs are ₹1800 to ₹2500 per person per day including overnight camping, with tents, mattresses, blankets, meals, mineral water, one camel per person, a camel cart to carry gear (and sometimes tired riders), and a guide in addition to the camel men.

Many trips start at Raisar, about 8km east of Bikaner, or Deshnok, 30km south. Travelling to the starting point by bus rather than 4WD is one way of cutting costs.

Sleeping

★ Vijay Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  0151-2231244, 9829217331; www.camelman.com; Jaipur Rd; r ₹500-1000, with AC ₹1200-1500, ste ₹1800; ❄️📶)

About 4km east of the centre, this is a home away from home, with spacious, light-filled rooms, a warm welcome and good home-cooked meals. Owner Vijay is a camel expert and a recommended safari operator. Free pick-up and drop-off from rail and bus stations.

As well as camel trips, 4WD outings to sights around Bikaner, and tours to the owner's house in the village of Thelasar, Shekhawati, are offered.

Vino Paying Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9414139245, 0151-2270445; www.vinodesertsafari.com; Ganga Shahar; s ₹250-300, d ₹350-400; @📧)

This guesthouse, in a family home 3km south of the main train station, is a cosy choice and the base of a good camel-safari operator. It has six rooms in the house and six in cool adobe huts around the garden, where there's also a plunge pool. It's excellent value, and the family is helpful and welcoming.

Home-cooked food is served and cooking classes are on offer. It's opposite Gopeshwar Temple; free pick-ups are offered.

Vinayak Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0151-2202634, 9414430948; vinayakguesthouse@gmail.com; r ₹400-800, with AC ₹1000; ❄️@📶)

This place offers six varied and clean rooms in a quiet family house with a little sandy garden (hot water only by bucket in some rooms). On offer are a free pick-up service, good home-cooked food, cooking lessons, bicycles (₹25 per day), and camel safaris and wildlife trips with Vinayak Desert Safari. It's about half a kilometre north of Junagarh.

Chandra Niwas Guest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0151-2200796, 9413659711; chandraniwas@yahoo.in; Rangmanch Rd, Civil Lines; r ₹500, with AC ₹800-1500; ❄️📶)

This small and welcoming guesthouse is in a relatively quiet location, though still handy to Bikaner's sights. The rooms are clean, comfortable and tidy, and there is a lovely terrace restaurant where you can get a veg/nonveg thali for ₹180/250, plus there's a coffeeshop next door.

Hotel Jaswant Bhawan

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9001554746, 0151-2548848; www.hoteljaswantbhawan.com; Alakh Sagar Rd; r ₹1000-1600; 📶 @ 📶)

This is a quiet, welcoming place run by descendants of Bikaner prime ministers. It has a small garden and a comfy, old-fashioned sitting room with historic family photos. The air-conditioned rooms are spacious, plain and airy. Good meals are available (as are cooking lessons). It's a two-minute walk from the main train station, via the station's 'foot over bridge'.

★ Bhairon Vilas

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9928312283, 0151-2544751; www.bhaironvilas.com; r from ₹1500-2000; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

This hotel on the western side of Junagarh is run by a former Bikaner prime minister's great-grandson. Rooms are mostly large and are eclectically and elaborately decorated with antiques, gold-threaded curtains and old family photographs. There's a bar straight out of the Addams Family, a garden restaurant, a coffeeshop, and a boutique that specialises in beautiful, original wedding saris.

Camel safaris and local guides can be arranged here.

Hotel Harasar Haveli

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2209891; www.harasar.com; r ₹1800-2800; 📶 📶)

At this modern hotel with the frontage of an old sandstone haveli you'll find unexpectedly grand accommodation. The decor is stylish: that's not fancy blue and gold wallpaper in your room, but exquisitely hand-painted floral patterns. Old dark-wood furniture continues the classy character. Service is great, and the in-house restaurant on the terrace serves alcohol.

Located opposite Karni Singh Stadium, about 1km northeast of Junargarh.

Udai Niwas

HOMESTAY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9971795447, 0151-2223447; Rangmanch Rd, Civil Lines; s/d ₹2000/2500; 🏠)

This friendly and relaxed homestay is set behind its cheerful associated Café Indra. The rooms are large and comfortable, and you can choose to eat the delicious home-cooked meals with the family in the dining room or not. There's even a laundry to do your own washing.

Hotel Kishan Palace

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9829512610, 0151-2527762; www.hotelkishanpalaceheritage.com; 8B Gajner-Jaisalmer Rd; r with fan ₹750, r incl breakfast with AC ₹1500; 🏠 📶)

An old Bikaner house, this hotel was once the home of a colonel of the Bikaner Camel Corps, and is now run by his grandson. Rooms are unfussy but generously sized, and the place is festooned with old photos and military memorabilia – check out grandfather's MBE and watercolours by the Japanese prisoners of war he once guarded. Get a room at the back away from the main road.

Laxmi Niwas Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2202777; www.laxminiwaspalace.com; r ₹10,500-14,500, ste ₹22,000-31,000; 🏠 @ 📶 🚿)

Located 2km northeast of the city centre, this pink-sandstone hotel is part of the royal palace, dating from 1902. It has opulent interiors with stone carvings, and is set in large lovely grounds. Rooms are mostly large, elegant and evocative, while the bar and billiards room contain more trophy skins from tigers than are probably still alive in Rajasthan.

Bhanwar Niwas

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2529323; www.bhanwarniwas.com; Rampuria St; r ₹6000;

This superb hotel has been developed out of the beautiful Rampuria Haveli – a gem in the old city, 300m southwest of the City Kotwali police station. It has 26 all-different, spacious and delightfully decorated rooms, featuring stencil-painted wallpaper, marble or mosaic floors and antique furnishings. Comfortable common rooms drip with antiques and are arranged around a large courtyard.

Eating & Drinking

Café Indra

CAFE $

( ;  8287895446; Rangmanch Rd, Civil Lines; mains ₹120-170;  11.30am-10.30pm; )

This bright and clean cafe is a great place to relax with a coffee or a cool drink, and equally good as a place for lunch or dinner, with an array of pizzas, burgers and wraps.

Amberwalla

MULTICUISINE $

( ;  0151-2220333; Station Rd; mains ₹60-120, thalis ₹190-200;  7am-11pm;  )

This large bright and airy 'diner' caters for everyone with Continental, Chinese, North Indian and South Indian mains, plus sweets, ice cream and a large bakery.

★ Gallops

MULTICUISINE $$

( ;  0151-3200833; www.gallopsbikaner.com; Court Rd; mains ₹200-350;  10am-10pm;  )

This contemporary cafe and restaurant close to the Junagarh entrance is known as 'Glops' to rickshaw-wallahs. There are snacks such as pizzas, wraps and sandwiches, and a good range of Indian and Chinese veg and nonveg dishes. You can sit outside or curl up in an armchair in the air-conditioned interior with a cold beer or an espresso (coffee from ₹100).

Shakti Dining

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9928900422; Prithvi Niwas, Civil Lines; mains ₹150-260; 🕒 11am-11pm; ❄️ 📶)

Central and modern, Shakti's serves good Indian classics in a garden setting or in air-conditioned comfort. Also here is the funky Road Runner Cafe ( MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2545033, 9928900422; Prithvi Niwas, Civil Lines; mains ₹150-260 🕒 11am-11pm; ❄️ 📶) for a more casual dining experience.

Heeralal's

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2205551; Station Rd; mains ₹150-210, thalis ₹165-270; 🕒 7.30am-10.30pm; ❄️ 🍴)

This bright and hugely popular 1st-floor restaurant serves up pretty good veg Indian dishes, plus a few Chinese mains and pizzas (but unfortunately no beer), amid large banks of plastic flowers. It's a good place to sit and relax if waiting for a train. The ground-floor fast-food section is less appealing, but it does have a good sweets counter.

Shopping

Bikaner Miniature Arts

ART

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9829291431; www.bikanerminiturearts.com; Municipal Rd; 🕒 9am-8pm)

The Swami family has been painting miniatures in Bikaner for four generations, and now run this art school and gallery. The quality of work is astounding, and cheaper than you'll find in some of the bigger tourist centres. Art classes can be arranged.

Information

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 9am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat)

Near Bhairon Vilas hotel.

PBM Hospital

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 0151-2525312; Hospital Rd)

One of Rajasthan's best government hospitals, with 24-hour emergency service.

Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 0151-2226701; 🕒 9.30am-6pm Mon-Fri)

This friendly office (near Pooran Singh Circle) can answer most tourism-related questions and provide transport schedules and maps.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Supreme Airlines flies a small plane (one way from ₹560) Monday to Saturday from Jaipur to Bikaner (departing 7am) and Bikaner to Jaipur (departing 8.45am). These schedules are likely to change.

BUS

There's a private bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) outside the southern wall of Junagarh with similar services (albeit slightly more expensive and less frequent) to the government-run services from the main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP), which is 2km directly north of the fort (autorickshaw ₹20).

Services from the main bus stand:

- ➔ Ajmer (for Pushkar) ₹269, six hours, half-hourly until 6pm
- ➔ Delhi ₹445, 11 hours, at least four daily
- ➔ Deshnok ₹35, one hour, half-hourly until 4.30pm
- ➔ Fatehpur ₹136, 3½ hours, half-hourly until 5.45pm

- ➔ Jaipur ₹334, with AC ₹596, seven hours, hourly until 5.45pm
- ➔ Jaisalmer ₹309, 7½ hours, noon daily
- ➔ Jhunjhunu ₹226, five hours, four daily (7.30am, 8.30am, 12.20pm and 6.30pm)
- ➔ Jodhpur ₹243, five hours, half-hourly until 6.30pm
- ➔ Pokaran ₹211, five hours, hourly until 12.45pm

For Jaisalmer, it's sometimes faster to head to Pokaran (which has more departures) and change there.

TRAIN

The main train station is Bikaner Junction, with a computerised reservations office (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 8am-10pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun) in a separate building just east of the main station building. The foreigner's window is 2931. A couple of other useful services go from Lalgarh station in the north of the city (autorickshaw ₹50).

- ➔ Delhi (Delhi Sarai Rohilla) sleeper/3AC ₹305/785, eight to 14 hours, three to five daily, 6.30am, 9.30am, 4.45pm, 5.05pm and 11.30pm
- ➔ Jaipur sleeper/3AC ₹275/705, 6½ hours, five daily, 12.05am, 6am, 6.45pm, 11.05pm and 11.55pm
- ➔ Jaisalmer sleeper/3AC ₹250/625, 5½ hours, one or two daily, 6.30pm and 11.15pm
- ➔ Jodhpur sleeper/3AC ₹200/510, five hours, six to seven daily, 12.45am, 6.35am, 9.30am, 11am, 1.40pm, 9.40pm and 10.10pm

No direct trains go to Ajmer for Pushkar.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM BIKANER JUNCTION

DESTINATION	TRAIN	DEPARTURE	ARRIVAL	FARE (₹)
Delhi (Sarai Rohilla)	22471 Dee Intercity SF Exp	9.30am	5.25pm	305/785
Jaipur	12467 Leelan Exp	6am	12.35pm	275/705
Jaisalmer	12468 Leelan Exp	11.15pm	4.50am	250/625

Jodhpur

14887 KLK-BME Exp

11am

4pm

200/510

Fares: sleeper/3AC

i Getting Around

An autorickshaw from the train station to Junagarh palace should cost ₹30, but you'll probably be asked for more.

Around Bikaner

National Research Centre on Camels

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0151-2230183; www.nrccamel.res.in; Indian/foreigner ₹30/100, camera ₹50, rides ₹50; 🕒 2-6pm)

The National Research Centre on Camels is 8km southeast of central Bikaner, beside the Jodhpur–Jaipur Bypass. While here you can visit baby camels, go for a short ride and look around the small museum. There are about 400 camels, of four different breeds. The British Army had a camel corps drawn from Bikaner during WWI. Guides are available for ₹50-plus. The on-site Camel Milk Parlour offers samples to try including kulfi and lassi.

The round trip from Bikaner, including a half-hour wait at the camel farm, is around ₹150/₹400 for an autorickshaw/taxi.

DON'T MISS

THE TEMPLE OF RATS

Karni Mata Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP; camera/video ₹30/50; 🕒 4am-10pm)

The extraordinary Karni Mata Temple at Deshnok, 30km south of Bikaner, is one of India's weirder attractions. Its resident mass of holy rodents is not for the squeamish, but most visitors to Bikaner brave the potential for ankle-nipping and put a half-day trip here on their itinerary. Frequent buses leave from Bikaner's main bus stand. A return autorickshaw from Bikaner with a one-hour wait costs ₹400 to ₹450.

Karni Mata lived in the 14th century and performed many miracles during her lifetime. When her youngest son, Lakhan, drowned, she ordered Yama (the god of death) to bring him back to life. Yama said he was unable to do so, but that Karni Mata, as an incarnation of Durga, could restore Lakhan's life. This she did, decreeing that members of her family would no longer die but would be reincarnated as kabas (rats). Around 600 families in Deshnok claim to be descendants of Karni Mata and that they will be reincarnated as kabas.

The temple isn't, in fact, swarming with rats, but there are a lot of them here, especially in nooks and crannies and in areas where priests and pilgrims leave food for them. And yes, you do have to take your shoes off to enter the temple: it's considered highly auspicious to have a kaba run across your feet – you may be graced in this manner whether you want it or not.

You can find food and drinks for yourself at the numerous snack stalls outside.

Punjab & Haryana

Punjab & Haryana Highlights

Chandigarh

Around Chandigarh

Pinjore Gardens

Morni Hills

Punjab

Anandpur Sahib

Amritsar

Patiala

Sirhind

India-Pakistan Border At Attari-Wagah

Pathankot

Bathinda

Faridkot

Kapurthala

Haryana

Kurukshetra \(Thanesar\)

Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary

Surajkund

Punjab & Haryana

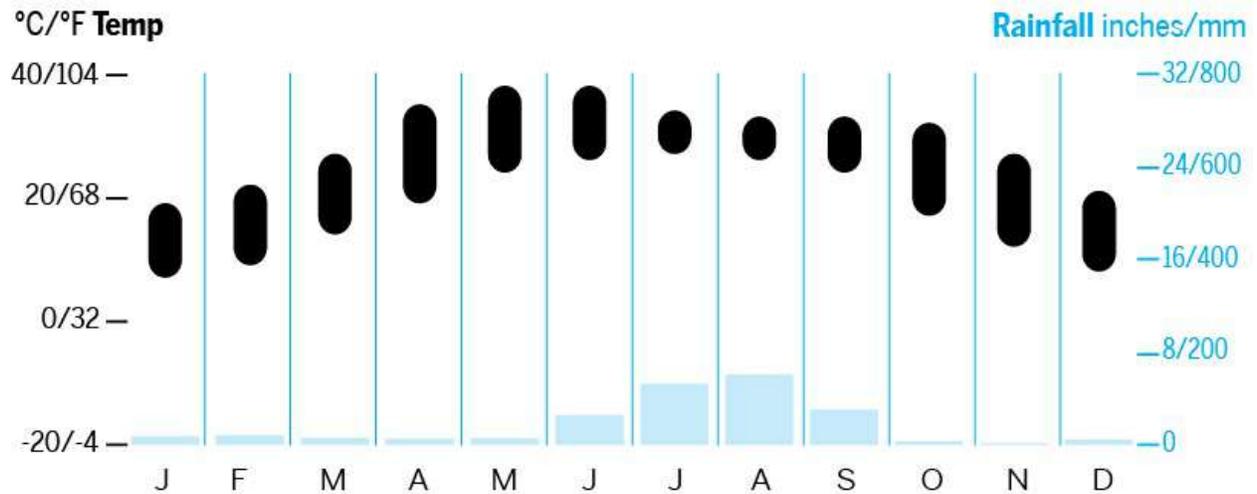

Why Go?

The neighbouring states of Punjab and Haryana were carved from the Indian half of Punjab province in the aftermath of Partition in 1947. Since then, Punjab has grown from strength to strength as the homeland of India's fabulously welcoming Sikh community, while Haryana has emerged as a dynamic hub for business and industry. Both share the same capital city, Chandigarh, which is geographically seated between the two states.

Studded with gleaming gurdwaras (Sikh temples) – including the overwhelming Golden Temple in Amritsar – Punjab has become a popular stop on the traveller circuit. Haryana, on the other hand, is more of a touristic mystery. The hinterland around the two states is dotted with fascinating, rarely visited historical towns that tell tales of battling empires and playboy maharajas, while some of India's most alluring abandoned forts hide among their dusty bazaars.

When to Go

Chandigarh

- ➔ Mar Three days of Sikh celebrations for Holla Mohalla unravel at Anandpur Sahib.
- ➔ Apr Punjab's largest festival, Baisakhi, marks the Sikh New Year and the founding of the Khalsa.
- ➔ Oct Diwali means lights, candles and fireworks everywhere; it's particularly magical at the Golden Temple.

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ Kesar Da Dhaba
- ➔ Bharawan Da Dhaba
- ➔ Makhan Fish
- ➔ Virgin Courtyard
- ➔ Gopal's

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Baradari Palace

- ➔ Ramada Amritsar
- ➔ Mrs Bhandari's Guesthouse
- ➔ Vivanta By Taj
- ➔ Hotel Icon

Punjab & Haryana Highlights

① Golden Temple Feeling the spiritual energy of absolute belief in Amritsar at Sikhism's holiest site.

② Qila Mubarak Getting adventurous by diving into the old town of rarely visited Patiala and sizing up its impossibly charming 18th-century fort.

③ Attari-Wagah Border Checkpost Watching the theatrical battle for supremacy between histrionic Indian and Pakistani border guards during the border-closing ceremony.

④ Nek Chand Rock Garden Tumbling into an alternative reality in Chandigarh's unique rock garden.

⑤ Khalsa Heritage Complex Visiting this enormous, lotus flower-shaped museum of Sikh history, housed in one of India's most striking modern structures, in Anandpur Sahib.

⑥ Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary Spying on migratory bird species that fly thousands of miles and come to roost annually at this bird sanctuary.

⑦ Brahmasarovar Brushing up on India's epic and mythological history at India's largest ceremonial water tank, in Kurukshetra.

CHANDIGARH

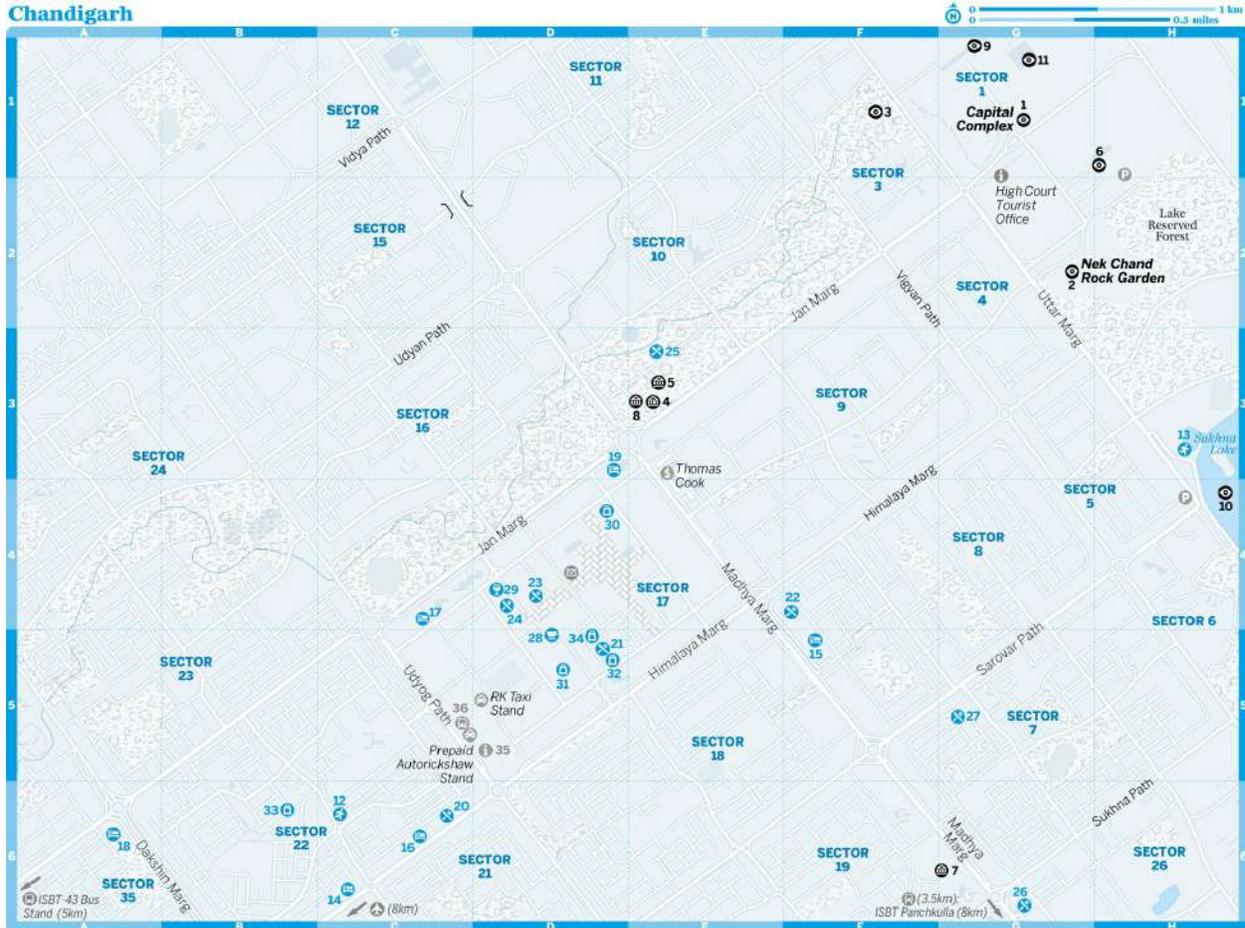

☎0172 / POP 1,055,000

Chandigarh shows itself off to global travellers much like greater India would wish to be seen – prosperous, comfortable and cosmopolitan. Officially a union territory controlled by the central government, Chandigarh is the joint capital of Punjab and Haryana. It is also the first planned city of independent India.

When the Swiss architect Le Corbusier was commissioned with the job of designing Chandigarh in 1950, he conceived a people-oriented city of sweeping boulevards, lakes, gardens and grand civic buildings, executed in his favourite material: reinforced concrete. And thus Chandigarh came into being: turn the clocks forward and the parks, monuments and civic squares are still here, albeit somewhat aged.

Each sector of the city is self-contained and pedestrian-friendly. Most visitors concentrate their attention on Sector 17 (for shops and restaurants) and Sector 22 (for hotels).

Chandigarh

Chandigarh

📍 Top Sights

- | | | |
|---|---------------------------------------|----|
| 1 | Capital Complex | G1 |
| 2 | Nek Chand Rock Garden | G2 |

📍 Sights

- | | | |
|----|---|----|
| 3 | Bougainvillea Garden | F1 |
| 4 | Chandigarh Architecture Museum | E3 |
| 5 | Government Museum & Art Gallery | E3 |
| 6 | High Court | H1 |
| 7 | Le Corbusier Centre | G6 |
| 8 | Natural History Museum | E3 |
| 9 | Secretariat | G1 |
| 10 | Sukhna Lake | H4 |
| 11 | Vidhan Sabha | G1 |

Activities, Courses & Tours

12 Chandigarh Ayurved Centre	C6
13 Pedal Boats	H3
Tourist Bus	C4

Sleeping

14 Hotel Aquamarine	C6
Hotel Divyadeep	C6
15 Hotel Icon	F5
16 Hotel Satyadeep	C6
17 Hotel Shivalikview	C4
18 Kisan Bhawan	A6
19 Vivanta By Taj	D3

Eating

20 Bhoj Vegetarian Restaurant	C6
21 Ghazal	D5
22 Gopal's	F4
Hibachi	F5
23 Hot Millions	D4
24 Indian Coffee House	D4
Sai Sweets	C6
25 Stop 'N Stare Food Point	E3
26 Swagath	G6
27 Virgin Courtyard	G5

Drinking & Nightlife

28 Barista	D5
29 Blue Ice	D4
Lava Bar	D3

Shopping

1469	D4
30 Fabindia	D4
31 Khadi India (17-E)	D5
32 Khadi India (17-G)	D5
Phulkari	D5
33 Sector 22 Market	B6
34 Tiny Shop	D5

i Information

35 Chandigarh Tourism	D5
E-Net	D4
Himachal Tourism	D5
Uttar Pradesh & Uttarakhand Tourism	D5

Transport

36 ISBT 17	C5
Train Reservation Office	D5

Sights

★ Nek Chand Rock Garden

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.nekchand.com; Sector 1; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 9am-6pm Oct-Mar, to 7.30pm Apr-Sep)

Nek Chand Rock Garden is unique: it's the surreal fantasy of a local transport official who, starting in 1957, spent almost 20 years personally creating more than 2000 sculptures using stones, debris and other discarded junk that was left over from the 50-odd villages destroyed in order to build the city of Chandigarh. Now, entering this fantastical, 10-hectare sculpture garden is like falling down a rabbit hole into the labyrinthine interior of one man's imagination.

★ Capitol Complex

NOTABLE BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri) FREE

At the epicentre of Le Corbusier's planned city are the imposing concrete High Court (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Capital Complex), Secretariat (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Capital Complex) and Vidhan Sabha (Legislative Assembly; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Capital Complex), shared by the states of Punjab and Haryana. All three are classic pieces of 1950s architecture from the proto-brutalist school, with bold geometric lines and vast sweeps of moulded concrete. To visit the complex, you must first register with your passport at the High Court Tourist Office (GOOGLE MAP ; High Court Complex; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat). You will then be given a free guided tour, which lasts for around 1½ hours.

Sukhna Lake

LAKE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sector 1; 🕒 8am-10pm)

Fulfilling the leisure objective of Le Corbusier's urban master plan, this landmark artificial lake is a popular rest and recreation stop for Chandigarh's resident families. It has ornamental gardens, a children's fairground, places to eat and drink, and pedal boats to hire for leisure rides on the still waters of the lake. Electric carts (₹10 per person) shuttle passengers between here and Nek Chand Rock Garden.

Le Corbusier Centre

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Madhya Marg, Sector 19-B; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun) FREE

One for fans of 20th-century avant-garde architecture and design, this fascinating museum displays documents, sketches and photos of Le Corbusier, along with letters revealing the politics behind the Chandigarh project, including one from Jawaharlal Nehru to the Punjab Chief Minister recommending Corbusier for the project. Also interesting are some sketches, paintings and a model for a proposed Governor's House that was eventually rejected because Nehru found it too extravagant.

Government Museum & Art Gallery

GALLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Jan Marg, Sector 10-C; ₹10, camera ₹5; 🕒 10am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

You'll find a fine collection of artworks and treasures at this impressive state museum, including trippy paintings of the Himalayas by Russian artist Nicholas Roerich, elegant carvings from the Buddhist Gandhara civilisation, phulkari (embroidery work) and Sobha Singh's much-reproduced portrait of Guru Gobind Singh. At one end, through a separate entrance, is the Child Art Gallery, with colourful artworks from local schoolchildren. The ₹10-ticket covers entrance to the Government Museum & Art Gallery, the Chandigarh Architecture Museum and the Natural History Museum.

Chandigarh Architecture Museum

MUSEUM

(City Museum; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jan Marg, Sector 10-C; ₹10, camera ₹5; 🕒 10am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

Using photos, letters, models, newspaper reports and architectural drawings, this museum tells the story of Chandigarh's planning and development, including the abandoned first plan for Chandigarh by Albert Mayer and Matthew Nowicki. It's one of the main buildings within Chandigarh's museum complex and can be seen on a combined tour with the Government Museum & Art Gallery and the Natural History Museum.

Natural History Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jan Marg, Sector 10-C; ₹10, camera ₹5; 🕒 10am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

This place is a must-visit for those travelling with children, and has exhibits featuring fossils, model dinosaurs, exquisite hand-embroidered pictures of birds and a diorama with a caveman using an electric torch to illuminate his cave art!

The ₹10 ticket also covers entrance to the Government Museum & Art Gallery and the Chandigarh Architecture Museum.

Bougainvillea Garden

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sector 3; 🕒 8am-5pm) FREE

Home to an overwhelming population of bougainvilleas, the eponymous Bougainvillea Garden has a thought-provoking memorial to Indian soldiers killed in cross-border conflicts since Independence.

JUNK ART GENIUS

Surprising as it may seem, Chandigarh's most popular tourist attraction was never intended for public display. When road inspector Nek Chand Saini, a recently arrived refugee from the Pakistan side of Punjab, started building his surreal rock garden using recycled material left over from the construction of Le Corbusier's model city, it was just a hobby. However, it soon became an obsession: working in secret on a patch of waste ground mostly at night, Chand unleashed legions of pottery-mosaic animals and armies of broken-bangle dancing girls. Cast-concrete canyons appeared from nowhere, and cascading waterfalls burst forth from the jungle. Chand's efforts were finally discovered by a government survey crew 15 years after work began, and came perilously close to being demolished. Fortunately, the city council saw the cultural merits of the rock garden, and Chand was granted a government salary and his own work crew to complete the project. Today, the Nek Chand Rock Garden covers more than 10 hectares, with nearly 5000 figures of humans, animals and mythical beasts. For more on the Nek Chand story, visit www.nekchand.com.

Activities

Chandigarh Ayurved Centre

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0172-2542231; www.chandigarhayurvedcentre.com; 1701, Sector 22-B; treatments from ₹450;  8.30am-1.30pm & 4-8pm)

This is a small, welcoming ayurvedic treatment centre that also does relaxation therapies for walk-in visitors. A 40-minute, full-body massage costs ₹900. The 20-minute takradhara, where buttermilk is poured continuously over the forehead, costs ₹500.

Pedal Boats

BOATING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sukhna Lake; 2-/4-seater per 30min ₹100/200;  8.30am-5.30pm)

Brightly coloured boats are available through the day for some carefree boating on the still waters of the Sukhna Lake. The ticket counter is on the approach to the quay, across a courtyard from a bunch of snack and juice stalls.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Kila Raipur Sports Festival (Rural Olympics; www.ruralolympic.net;  Feb) Three days of traditional games and contests including bullock-cart races, kabaddi, strongman contests and folk dancing in Kila Raipur near Ludhiana.

Surajkund Crafts Mela This fair features a splendid congregation of folk artists, artisans, musicians and dancers from across North India in Surajkund, near Delhi.

Holla Mohalla (🕒 Mar) Sikhs celebrate the foundation of the Khalsa (Sikh brotherhood) with martial-arts demonstrations and battle re-enactments in Anandpur Sahib.

Baisakhi (🕒 13-14 Apr) Sikhs across Punjab head to gurdwaras to celebrate the Punjabi New Year, and revel in colourful celebrations, music, dance and feasting.

Pinjore Heritage Festival (GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 late Dec) This two-day cultural bash features music and dance performances, handicrafts and food stalls at Pinjore Gardens, near Chandigarh.

Harballabh Sangeet Sammelan (www.harballabh.org; 🕒 late Dec) This 140-year-old music festival in Jalandhar showcases Indian classical music over three days.

Gita Jayanti (🕒 Nov/Dec) One week of cultural events takes place in Kurukshetra to commemorate the anniversary of the Bhagavad Gita sermons as cited in the Mahabharata.

Tours

Tourist Bus

BUS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0172-2703839; 1 stop ₹10, half-day tour ₹50; 🕒 10am & 2.30pm)

Chandigarh Tourism runs an open-top, hop-on hop-off double-decker tourist bus leaving from outside Hotel Shivalikview. Buy a ticket at the time of boarding the vehicle. There are two half-day trips daily, visiting the Rose Garden, Government Museum & Art Gallery, Nek Chand Rock Garden and Sukhna Lake.

Sleeping

Chandigarh's hotels are pricier than elsewhere in Punjab and Haryana. Very few budget addresses are willing to accept foreign tourists.

Kisan Bhawan

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-5039153; Dakshin Marg, Sector 35-A; dm/d ₹80/1200; 🏠)

Large and easy-to-spot Kisan Bhawan is a sound choice, but only if you can get in. It's a subsidised rest house where priority is given to farmers and other agricultural industry personnel visiting Chandigarh. However, it's open to the general public too, and has simple but well-kept AC rooms and dorm beds suited to those travelling on a budget.

Hotel Satyadeep

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-2703103; hddeepsdeep@yahoo.com; SCO 1102-3, Sector 22-B; d from ₹1750; 🏠 @)

Run by a management comprising courteous Sai Baba devotees, Satyadeep has wood-panelled corridors leading to simple, well-kept, bright and breezy rooms that open out onto shared balconies. It's upstairs from Sai Sweets, which meets your craving for post-dinner desserts.

Hotel Shivalikview

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-4672222; www.citcochandigarh.com/shivalikview; Sector 17-E; d incl breakfast & dinner ₹4550; 🏠 @ 📶)

Operated by the state tourism board, this hulk of a building is much more pleasant inside than it looks from the outside. Rooms are unexciting but large, clean and comfortable. The hotel has friendly staff, an outdoor pool, a gym, an Indian restaurant and a rooftop Chinese restaurant. It's a five-minute walk from the Sector 17 commercial area.

★ Hotel Icon

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9501113920; www.iconhotels.asia; SCO 58-61, Madhya Marg, Sector 8-C; d incl breakfast from ₹5200; 🏠 @ 📶)

Undoubtedly one of Chandigarh's best boutique addresses, the Icon justifies every penny it charges in the form of elegant wood-floored, satin-upholstered rooms, a bakery with good coffee and one of the best fine-dining restaurants in town. There are a few spas located within the same shopping complex, where the reception can book you a therapy session.

Hotel Divyadeep

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-2705191; hddeepsdeep@yahoo.com; SCO 1090-1, Sector 22-B; d ₹3100; 🌳)

Run by a group of Sai Baba devotees, Divyadeep has smart but austere rooms, and welcoming staff. It's above Bhoj Vegetarian Restaurant.

Vivanta By Taj

HOTEL $$$

(Taj Chandigarh; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-6613000; www.vivanta.tajhotels.com; Sector 17-A; d from ₹10,600; 🌳 @ 📶 🛋)

Not as grand as some of the Taj Group's other properties, this hotel still offers luxurious, flawless service and rooms with floor-to-ceiling windows, minibars, flat-screen TVs, electronic safes and all the other mod cons you'd expect at this price. There are several restaurants, a pleasant pool, the slick Lava Bar, a spa and a 24-hour business centre.

Hotel Aquamarine

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-5014000; www.hotelaquamarine.com; Himalaya Marg, Sector 22-C; d incl breakfast from ₹5200; 🌳 @ 📶)

This is one of Chandigarh's proper boutique hotels, shielded from the road by a leafy terrace and featuring rooms full of luscious fabrics and framed artworks. There's a good restaurant and coffee shop, but no pool or gym.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges refer to a double room with bathroom and include taxes:

$ below ₹2000

$$ ₹2000 to ₹4000

$$$ above ₹4000

Eating

The gastronomic connoisseur is well catered for in Chandigarh, with a growing selection of fine-dining restaurants supplementing the abundant fast-food joints year after year.

★ Gopal's

NORTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 20-21, Sector 8-C; snacks ₹80-100; 🕒 8am-11pm; ❄️ 🍴)

Every Indian city or town should have a restaurant like Gopal's – an air-conditioned, clean and smart diner that churns out cheap, utterly delicious platters of dosas, puris and chhole bhature (deep-fried flatbread served with spicy chickpea curry) for hungry patrons through the day. The ground-floor sweet shop has a divine selection of Indian desserts that you can take away.

Sai Sweets

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 1102-3, Sector 22-B; snacks ₹60-80; 🕒 7.30am-8.30pm; 🍴)

This clean and wholesome sweet shop below Hotel Satyadeep serves tasty mithai (Indian sweets) by the kilogram. Also on offer are substantial snacks such as tikki chaat (potato cutlets), panipuri (round, hollow puri fried crisp and filled with a mixture of chutney, chilli, potato, onion and chickpea) and pav bhaji (tomato-based dish served with bread rolls).

Stop 'N Stare Food Point

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sector 10, behind Government Museum & Art Gallery; snacks ₹40-60; 🕒 10am-6pm; 🍴)

Perfect for a pit stop after a tour of Chandigarh's museums, this simple cafe with shaded garden seating serves lassi, tea and instant coffee as well as Indian snacks such as patties, paratha (Indian-style flaky bread) and kulcha (soft-leavened bread eaten with a chickpea masala).

★ Virgin Courtyard

ITALIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0172-5070045; SCO 1A, Sector 7; mains ₹250-400; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; ❄️ 📶)

This fantastic alfresco dining address, spread across an ivory-white villa and a shaded courtyard, is arguably the closest you'll get to Italian cuisine in Chandigarh – albeit with an Indian twist. Try the arancini, served with a tangy tomato-based sauce and radish shavings, or the subtly flavoured panna cotta with meringues on the side. Chilled beers (₹300) are available too.

★ Hibachi

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 58-61, Madhya Marg, Sector 8-C; mains ₹250-400; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; ❄️ 📶)

On the ground floor of Hotel Icon, Hibachi is the place to go if you're craving some Japanese or Southeast Asian food. There's some imaginative sushi on offer here, along with Burmese khao suey, pad thai, Chinese kung pao chicken with peanuts and even Malay-style laksa. There's also a well-stocked bar serving chilled beers (₹250) and premium Scottish malts.

Indian Coffee House

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 12, Sector 17; mains ₹40-60; 🕒 9am-10pm; 🍴)

Always busy with locals, this 40-year-old institution is a great place for breakfast or lunch, with egg, toast and fabulously affordable filter coffee (₹30) sharing a menu of South Indian favourites such as idli (spongy, fermented rice cake), vada (doughnut-shaped, deep-fried lentil savoury) and dosa (large savoury crêpe). You can also buy good Indian coffee powder here (per kilogram ₹700).

Bhoj Vegetarian Restaurant

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 1090-1, Sector 22-B; thali ₹140-170; 🕒 7.30am-10.30pm; ❄️ 🍴)

Contiguous to Hotel Divyadeep and run by Sai Baba devotees, this cosy haven serves a house thali with artfully spiced curries that change throughout the day. Thalīs come in large or small portions. The restaurant also has a good selection of Indian deserts.

Hot Millions

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 73-4, Sector 17-D; snacks ₹100-150, mains ₹200-300; 🕒 11.30am-11pm; 🍷)

This popular eatery is set in Chandigarh's shopping central, serving fast food downstairs and posh sit-down meals upstairs (accessed through a door on the side of the block). The Indianised pizzas in different pidgin avatars seem to have a loyal following. The eatery has branches all over town.

★ Ghazal

MUGHLAI $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-2704448; SCO 189-91, Sector 17-C; mains ₹350-550; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; 🍷)

A Chandigarh stalwart and still going strong, Ghazal has a dignified air and a fine menu of Mughlai classics including chicken and mutton, plus some well-prepared Continental and Chinese dishes. The vegetable jalfrezi (₹275) is a fiery sensation. At the back of the restaurant, a suited bartender guards a long line of imported single malts and beers (₹300).

Swagath

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0172-5002626; SCO 128, Madhya Marg, Sector 26; mains ₹250-550; 🕒 11am-midnight; 🍷)

One of a string of swanky restaurants along Madhya Marg in Sector 26, this South Indian-themed place specialises in Mangalorean and Chettinad seafood – from prawns, squid and crab to tandoori pomfret and fish gassi (coconut-based curry). However, it also has an impressive North Indian menu, with some tasty Mughlai and Punjabi treats from the tandoor.

Drinking & Nightlife

Chandigarh's abundant wine and liquor stores turn into pavement bars every evening, but there are also plenty of salubrious, upscale watering holes.

Women are far less likely to get hassled if they're with a male companion.

Lava Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Vivanta By Taj, Sector 17-A; beers/cocktails ₹450/600; 🕒 noon-11.30pm)

Considering it's housed inside the plush Taj hotel, this small bar is relatively laid-back, with a cosy atmosphere and live bands or a DJ playing most nights. Despite the steep prices, it's a good place for a drink, especially for solo and women travellers.

Blue Ice

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; SCO 7, Sector 17-E; beers/cocktails ₹400/500; 🕒 noon-midnight)

This slick, split-level restaurant-bar appeals to smartly dressed drinkers. There's a straightforward snacks menu and live music over the weekends to accompany your drink of choice.

Barista

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 1st fl, SCO 63-4, Sector 17; coffee ₹90, snacks ₹90-200; 🕒 9am-10pm)

This chain coffee shop is a handy retreat from the orgy of consumerism in the Sector 17 area. Besides pressing out strong and aromatic Lavazza coffee, it also offers a few sandwiches, puffs and muffins.

Shopping

The spacious, pedestrianised shopping area of Sector 17 is a cathedral to consumerism, and could well be your reason to stay an extra day in Chandigarh.

★ 1469

GIFTS & SOUVENIRS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.1469workshop.com; SCO 81, Sector 17-D; 🕒 11am-8pm)

Named after the birth year of Guru Nanak (the founder of the Sikh faith), this funky independent clothing store sells fabulously colourful scarves, shawls and traditional Punjabi clothing, as well as modern T-shirts with an irreverent Punjabi twist. It also stocks some lovely jewellery, including the steel kara bracelets worn by Sikhs.

Fabindia

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.fabindia.com; SCO 50-1, Sector 17-A; 🕒 11am-8pm)

This premium Indian chain store sells gorgeous garments fusing Indian and Western designs and motifs. It also stocks a superb selection of homewares such as table mats, cushion covers, bedspreads and rugs that make for great souvenirs and gifts.

Khadi India (17-E)

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 28, Sector 17-E; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

This non-government operation has good-value, homespun textiles and herbal beauty products of premium quality, the sale of which directly supports small community producers in rural India. There's another outlet (MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 192-193, Sector 17-G; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat), a few minutes' walk east.

Phulkari

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SCO 27, Sector 17-E; 🕒 11am-8pm Mon-Sat)

This official Government of Punjab emporium stocks everything from inlaid wooden tables and brightly embroidered phulkari textiles to dupattas (ladies' scarves) and jootis (traditional embroidered slip-on shoes).

Sector 22 Market

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Sector 22 Market Rd; 🕒 10am-10pm)

This bustling, sprawling street market sells a mind-boggling array of household goods and clothing, and is sprinkled with pop-up street-food stalls selling yummy local treats.

Tiny Shop

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Basement SCO 186-188, Sector 17-C; 🕒 11am-8pm Mon-Sat)

As cute as the name suggests, this basement boutique opened in 1980 and is secretly tucked away underneath a row of shops and restaurants in the busy Sector 17 market area. It sells artistic knick-knacks and household goods that make unique souvenirs to take back home.

Information

INTERNET ACCESS

Each of the central sector markets has at least one internet cafe with reliable and fast connections. Rates are around ₹30 per hour, and places are usually open between 10am and 7pm, excluding Sundays.

E-Net (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 2nd fl, SCO-12, Sector 17; per hr ₹30; 🕒 10.30am-8pm)

Up the steps beside Indian Coffee House, this place has fast connections. A photo ID is required to access the internet.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Silver Oaks Hospital (📞 0172-5097112; www.silveroakshospital.com; Phase 9, Sector 63, Mohali) This state-of-the-art, world-class hospital is about 7km southwest of Chandigarh's centre. It is well set up to treat foreign visitors.

MONEY

Most sector markets have ATMs accepting foreign cards. Sector 17 has the highest concentration of ATMs as well as local bank branches.

Thomas Cook (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0173-6610901; SCO 17, Sector 9-D; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Fri, to 4pm Sat) can help with foreign exchange.

POST

Chandigarh's main post office (GOOGLE MAP ; Sector 17; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat) has international parcel and express post services.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Several book stands and kiosks sell Vardhman's better-than-average

Chandigarh Tourist & Road Map (₹50).

Chandigarh Tourism (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0172-2703839; 1st fl, ISBT 17;

🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Himachal Tourism (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0172-2708569; 1st fl, ISBT 17;

🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat of month)

Uttar Pradesh & Uttarakhand Tourism (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0172-

2713988; 2nd fl, ISBT 17; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat of month)

i Getting There & Away

AIR

Chandigarh airport is about 9km southeast of the centre. AC bus 201 runs from both main bus stands to the airport from 7.30am to 6pm (₹30).

Alternatively, take an autorickshaw for around ₹200 or a taxi for around ₹500.

There are daily domestic flights operated by Air India (☎ 1800-1801407; www.airindia.in), GoAir (☎ 9223222111; www.goair.in), IndiGo (☎ 9910383838; www.goindigo.in), Jet Airways (☎ 1800-225522; www.jetairways.com) and SpiceJet (☎ 9654003333; www.spicejet.com) to Delhi, Mumbai, Bengaluru and Srinagar.

There are two international flights to Dubai, operated by Air India and IndiGo.

BUS

Chandigarh has two main Inter State Bus Terminals (ISBT) – one in Sector 17 and one in Sector 43. Numerous red AC buses run between the two terminals (₹20).

ISBT Panchkulla is further from the centre and has buses to Morni. Local buses 2F and 30B link ISBT 17 and ISBT Panchkulla (₹30).

TRAIN

The train station is 7km southeast of the city centre, though there's a handy train reservation office (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 1st fl, ISBT 17; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-

Sat, to 2pm Sun) on the 1st floor of ISBT 17. There's no prepaid autorickshaw fee from the centre to the train station, but expect to pay around ₹100.

Several fast trains go to New Delhi daily. The quickest and slickest is the twice-daily Kalka Shatabdi (AC chair/1AC ₹605/1205, 3½ hours), which leaves at 6.53am and 6.23pm. To get to Delhi for less, buy an unreserved 'general' ticket (₹110) when you turn up at the station, and then just pile into the 2nd-class carriage of the next available train.

More than half a dozen trains go to Kalka (2nd class ₹45, 35 minutes), from where narrow-gauge trains rattle up the hills to Shimla.

Two daily trains go to Amritsar (2nd class/AC chair ₹120/435, 4½ hours), at 7am and 5.10pm.

Getting Around

Expect to pay about ₹50 for a short hop in an autorickshaw. Hiring one for half a day (up to four hours) to take in sights such as Nek Chand Rock Garden and Sukhna Lake will cost around ₹500. Bicycles (₹200 per eight hours, ₹500 refundable deposit) are available at the entrance to Sukhna Lake.

Numerous local buses, including 203 and 22, link ISBT 17 with the train station (₹10). There's a prepaid autorickshaw stand outside ISBT 17, but it only does fares within the city centre, such as to ISBT 43 (₹60). For places further afield, such as the train station (about ₹100) or the airport (about ₹200), you'll have to negotiate with the driver directly.

➔ RK Taxi Stand is behind ISBT 17 and charges ₹500 for the airport, ₹1500 return for Morni and ₹1000/1500 for a half-/full-day city tour.

AROUND CHANDIGARH

Pinjore Gardens

The beautifully restored, 17th-century Mughal-era Pinjore Gardens

(Yadavindra Gardens; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 01733-230759; Pinjore; ₹20; 🕒 7am-10pm), on the edge of the small town of Pinjore, are built on seven levels with water features and serene views of the Shivalik Hills.

Within the grounds there's a restaurant (GOOGLE MAP ; Pinjore Gardens; mains ₹80-180; 🕒 10am-7pm; 🍷) in the Rang Mahal pavilion, which also has a bar. Come in December for regional delicacies and cultural performances as part of the Pinjore Heritage Festival.

Should you fancy an overnight stay, there are pleasant rooms with Mughal-style flourishes and views of the gardens at the Budgerigar Motel (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 01733-231877; pinjore@hry.nic.in; Pinjore Gardens; d from ₹2350; 🍷). Its main entrance is just outside the garden walls, to the right as you face the entrance, but it can also be accessed from inside the gardens through the restaurant.

Nearby is the Bhima Devi Museum (GOOGLE MAP ; Pinjore Gardens; 🕒 10am-5pm), made up of a collection of small artefacts in the grounds of the scattered ruins of the ornate, 10th-century Bhima Devi Temple, which was torn down when the gardens were originally constructed. To get here, turn left as you exit the gardens and walk past the water park.

Frequent buses leave from Chandigarh's ISBT 43 to Pinjore (₹30, one hour). The gardens are on your left as you drive into the town. Less frequent services depart from ISBT 17.

Morni Hills

Perched at 1220m, Morni Hills is Haryana's only hill station, set amid monkey-filled forests on a spur running west from the Shivalik Hills. Here you'll find a handful of rustic resorts, the village of Morni and – 7km downhill from the village – Tikkar Taal, a pair of pretty lakes with boats for rent (from ₹200).

With a pleasant location on the shore of the second lake, Tikkar Taal Tourist Complex (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 01733-250166; Tikkar Taal; d ₹3500; 🍷) has clean, comfortable rooms with private bathrooms and views of the lake. There's a restaurant with terraced seating and gardens leading down to the lake. There's nothing much to do here, but it's a wonderfully peaceful place to stay if you want to escape the urban frenzy for a day or two.

There are daily buses to Morni (₹30, two hours) from Chandigarh's ISBT Panchkulla (Panchkulla) bus station. From Morni village, there are three minibuses to Tikka Taal (₹20; 6.30am, 7.30am and 3.30pm). They return from outside Tikkar Taal Tourist Complex at 7.30am, 8.30am and 4.15pm. The 4.15pm connects with the last bus back to Chandigarh, which leaves Morni village at 5pm.

Private cars from Morni village to Tikka Taal cost about ₹700 return, including waiting time. Alternatively, it's a lovely two-hour, 7km downhill walk. When returning, hike back up the road towards Chandigarh, then turn left as the road bears sharp right (after less than 1km).

PUNJAB

Forged from the Indian half of Punjab province after Partition, Punjab is the homeland of India's Sikh population. Irrigated by mighty Himalayan rivers such as the Beas, the Ravi and the Sutlej, it is an expanse of fertile land that supplies a bulk of India's demand for wheat and rice, while also doubling as a nerve centre of India's textile and manufacturing industries. A particularly tourist-friendly region, thanks to its strong expatriate connections with the UK and Canada, Punjab provides a wonderful opportunity to go traipsing into the backyards of North India.

Must-try Punjabi dishes include kulcha (fried bread), chhole (spicy chickpea curry), char-grilled tandoori mutton, dhal makhani (black lentils and red kidney beans in a cream and butter gravy), tandoori chicken, rajma chawal (kidney bean curry with basmati rice), Amritsari fried fish and the iconic butter chicken, the prototype for chicken tikka masala.

Anandpur Sahib

📍01887 / POP 16,500

The second most important pilgrimage site for Sikhs after the Golden Temple in Amritsar, Anandpur Sahib was founded in 1664 by the ninth Sikh guru, Guru Tegh Bahadur, some years before he was beheaded by the Mughal emperor Aurangzeb. To resist the persecution of the Sikhs, his son, Guru Gobind Singh, founded the Khalsa (Sikh brotherhood) here in 1699, an event celebrated during the Holla Mohalla festival.

Sights

Kesgarh Sahib

SIKH TEMPLE

The largest and most dramatic gurdwara in Anandpur Sahib is the Kesgarh Sahib, set back from the main highway on the edge of the old town. An elegant white structure with a domed central spire, it marks the spot where the Khalsa was inaugurated, and enshrines an armoury of sacred Sikh weapons.

Anandpur Sahib Fort

FORT

(Kesgarh; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Behind the Kesgarh Sahib gurdwara, a broad paved path climbs the hillside to the small Kesgarh fort, which affords glorious views over a sea of gurdwara domes. Kesgarh is the most prominent of Anandpur Sahib's five forts, all of which were built by Guru Gobind Singh as defensive battlements.

Khalsa Heritage Complex

MUSEUM

(Virasat-e-Khalsa; www.virasat-e-khalsa.net; 🕒 8am-8pm Tue-Sun) FREE

The striking five-petal form (inspired by the five warrior-saints in the Khalsa) of the Khalsa Heritage Complex, which opened in 2011, is one of India's most impressive modern buildings. This fascinating museum complex uses elaborate murals and friezes to bring Sikh history to life.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Holy City Paradise

HOTEL $

(📞 9815135800; Academy Rd; d ₹1780; 🏠 📶)

Clearly the best among Anandpur Sahib's limited staying options, this small but well-run place has clean and comfy rooms, a good restaurant serving local food and an excellent location in the heart of town.

Hotel Paramount Residency

HOTEL $

(📞 01887-233619; Academy Rd; r from ₹1050; 🏠)

Above the road linking Kesgarh Sahib to the fort, Hotel Paramount Residency has austere, spartan rooms but a friendly welcome and a good location close to the Khalsa Heritage Complex.

Pal Restaurant

INDIAN $

(mains ₹50-100; 🕒 7.30am-11pm)

Pal Restaurant, above Pal Sweetshop, is close to the bus station and serves good-value Indian cuisine, including local thalis. Turn left out of the bus stand, left again, and it's on your left.

Information

About 2km from the centre, Mata Nanki Charitable Hospital (📞 01887-230284; Ropar Rd, near Khalsa College) is a small but reputable general hospital run by a British-based charity.

Getting There & Away

The bus and train stations are 300m apart on the main road outside town. Buses leave frequently for Chandigarh (₹100, two hours), Amritsar (₹190, 4½ hours) and Patiala (₹120, three hours).

Five daily trains go to Chandigarh (2nd class/sleeper/3AC ₹95/170/540, two to three hours) between 5.45am and 4.40pm. The overnight 14554 Himachal Express (sleeper/3AC ₹215/580, 7½ hours, 10.05pm) goes to New Delhi.

Amritsar

☞ 0183 / POP 1.13 MILLION

Founded in 1577 by the fourth Sikh guru, Guru Ram Das, Amritsar is home to the spectacular Golden Temple, Sikhism's holiest shrine and one of India's most serene and humbling sights. The same cannot be said for the hyperactive streets surrounding the temple, but they're a delight to walk through for a sensory overload of sights, sounds and smells.

Amritsar

Amritsar

Top Sights

1 Golden Temple	C6
2 Guru-Ka-Langar	D6

Sights

3 Akai Takhat	C6
4 Amrit Sarovar	C6
5 Jallianwala Bagh	D5
6 Ram Bagh	D1
7 Ramgarhia Bunga	D6
8 Sikh Museum	C6
9 Town Hall	D4

Sleeping

10 Grand Hotel	A1
11 Hotel Golden Tower	D5
12 Hotel Grace	D6
13 Hotel Indus	D6
14 Lucky Guest House	D6
15 MK Sood Guesthouse	D6
16 Ramada Amritsar	D3
17 Sri Guru Ram Das Niwas	D6
18 Tourist Guesthouse	C2

Eating

Bharawan Da Dhaba	C4
19 Brothers' Dhaba	C4
20 Crystal Restaurant	C1
21 Gurdas Ram	D5
22 Kesar Da Dhaba	B5
23 Neelam's	D5

Drinking & Nightlife

Bottoms Up Pub	A1
24 Café Coffee Day	D5

Shopping

25 Booklovers Retreat	C3
26 Kathian Bazaar	C5
27 Katra Jaimal Singh Bazaar	C4
28 Shashtri Bazaar	C5
29 Tahali Sahib Bazaar	C4

Information

30 HDFC Bank	D4
ICICI Bank	D4

Transport

31 Free Yellow Buses	D6
Prepaid Taxi Booth	D6

Sights

★ Golden Temple

SIKH TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Golden Temple Complex;  24hr) FREE

The legendary Golden Temple is actually just a small part of this huge gurdwara complex, known to Sikhs as Harmandir Sahib. Spiritually, the focus of attention is the tank that surrounds the gleaming central shrine – the Amrit Sarovar (Pool of Nectar; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Golden Temple Complex), from which Amritsar takes its name, excavated by the fourth Sikh guru, Ram Das, in 1577. Ringed by a marble walkway, the tank is said to have healing powers, and pilgrims come from across the world to bathe in its sacred waters.

Floating at the end of a long causeway, the Golden Temple itself is a mesmerising blend of Hindu and Islamic architectural styles, with an elegant marble lower level adorned with flower and animal motifs in pietra dura work (as seen on the Taj Mahal). Above this rises a shimmering second level, encased in intricately engraved gold panels, and topped by a dome gilded with 750kg of gold. In the gleaming inner sanctum (photography prohibited), priests and musicians keep up a continuous chant from the Guru Granth Sahib (the Sikh holy book), adding to the already intense atmosphere. Given the never-ending beeline of devotees, you will likely get a few minutes within the sanctum before you are gently urged to exit and make way for other devotees. Entry and exit are both via the causeway.

The Guru Granth Sahib is installed in the temple every morning and returned at night to the Akal Takhat (Timeless Throne; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Complex), the temporal seat of the Khalsa brotherhood. The ceremony takes place at 5am and 9.30pm in winter, and 4am and 10.30pm in summer. Inside the Akal Takhat, you can view a collection of sacred Sikh weapons. The building was heavily damaged when it was stormed by the Indian army during Operation Blue Star in 1984. It was repaired by the government but Sikhs refused to use the tainted building and rebuilt the tower from scratch.

More shrines and monuments are dotted around the edge of the compound. Inside the main entrance clock tower, the Sikh Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Complex; 🕒 7am-7pm summer, 8am-6pm winter) shows the persecution suffered by the Sikhs at the hands of Mughals, the British and Indira Gandhi. At the southeast end of the tank is the Ramgarhia Bunga (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Complex), a protective fortress topped by two Islamic-style minarets; inside is a stone slab once used for Mughal coronations, seized from Delhi by Ranjit Singh in 1783.

★ Guru-Ka-Langar

SIKH SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Complex; 🕒 24hr) FREE

At the southeast end of the Golden Temple Complex is the Guru-Ka-Langar, an enormous dining room where an estimated 100,000 pilgrims come to eat every day after praying at the Golden Temple. There's no charge to eat here, but a donation is appropriate, and voluntary help with the staggering pile of washing up is always appreciated. Catering equally to everyone from paupers to millionaires, it's a humbling demonstration of the Sikh principles of hospitality, community service and charity.

Jallianwala Bagh

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Golden Temple Rd; 🕒 6am-9pm summer, 7am-8pm winter) FREE

Reached through a narrow gatehouse leading to an enclosed courtyard, this poignant park commemorates the 1500 Indians killed or wounded when a British officer ordered his soldiers to shoot unarmed protesters in 1919. Some of the bullet holes are still visible in the walls, as is the well into which hundreds desperately leapt to avoid the bullets. There's an eternal flame of remembrance, an exhibition telling stories of victims, and a Martyrs' Gallery, with portraits of Independence heroes.

Ram Bagh

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MMM Rd; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Located about a kilometre east of the train station, Ram Bagh was the former palace grounds of Maharaja Ranjit Singh and now serves as a public park. In the heart of the well-tended and manicured greenery, you'll find the summer palace (GOOGLE MAP ; Ram Bagh) of the former maharaja, in commission between 1818 and 1837. It's a modest structure in comparison to some of India's other palaces but a very atmospheric building nonetheless.

Baba Atal Tower

SIKH TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP) FREE

Just outside the Golden Temple Complex, to the south, is the octagonal Baba Atal Tower, constructed in 1784 to commemorate Atal Rai, the son of sixth Sikh guru Har Gobind, who, according to legend, revived a playmate from the dead, then gave his own life as penance for interfering in God's designs. The nine storeys each represent one year of Atal's short life.

Khalsa College

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP_; www.khalsacollegeamritsar.org; GT Rd; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

This vast, sprawling castle of a college, on your right as you head west of town along GT Rd, was founded in 1890 to educate the cream of Punjabi society. It's a glorious example of the Indo-Saracenic style of architecture, with an imposing domed red-sandstone facade fronted by grassy fields. You can't enter the academic and administrative wings of the college, but exploring the campus is okay.

Town Hall

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP_; Golden Temple Rd)

A gorgeous 19th-century mansion north of the Golden Temple, the Town Hall often doubles as a venue for art exhibitions, meetings and public events. In 2017 it became home to a permanent exhibition chronicling the tumultuous history of Amritsar and Punjab in the years since the Partition of India.

GOLDEN TEMPLE ETIQUETTE

Before entering the compound, remove your shoes and socks (there are chappal (sandal) stands at the entrances), wash your feet in the shallow foot baths and cover your head; scarves can be borrowed (no charge) or bought from nearby souvenir hawkers for ₹10. Tobacco and alcohol are strictly prohibited within the premises. If you want to sit beside the tank, sit cross-legged and do not dangle your feet in the water. Photography is permitted from the walkway surrounding the pool, but not inside the Golden Temple itself. Staff-wielding, blue-robed temple guards called jathedars patrol the compound around the clock; approach them for any assistance or query regarding etiquette.

Tours

The Grand Hotel runs day tours of the main sights (per person ₹500) and evening tours (per person ₹800, starting at 3pm) to the Attari-Wagah border-closing ceremony, Mata Temple and Golden Temple.

The tourist office runs an interesting two-hour Heritage Walk

(Indian/foreigner ₹25/75), covering the old-city bazaars. It starts from the Town Hall at 8am daily (9am December to February) and finishes outside the Golden Temple. Just turn up at the Town Hall 10 minutes before start time.

THE JALLIANWALA BAGH MASSACRE

Following the introduction of the Rowlatt Act 1919, which gave British authorities the power to imprison Indians suspected of sedition without trial, Amritsar became a focal point for the Independence movement. After a series of hartals (strikes) in which many protesters and three British bank managers were killed, Brigadier-General Reginald Dyer was called upon to return order to the city.

On 13 April 1919 (Baisakhi Day), more than 5000 Indians convened for a peaceful protest in Jallianwala Bagh, a public courtyard surrounded by high walls on all sides, with only a narrow lane on the northern side for entry and exit. Under orders to make an example of the protesters, Dyer arrived with 150 troops and ordered his soldiers to open fire. When the barrage of bullets ceased, nearly 400 protesters were dead, according to the British authorities (although Indian National Congress placed the figure at more than 1000), and around 1500 were wounded, including many women and children.

Dyer's action was supported by the British establishment but described as 'monstrous' by Winston Churchill, and as 'a savage and inappropriate folly' by Edwin Montagu, the Secretary of State for India. The Nobel Prize-winning poet Rabindranath Tagore renounced his knighthood in protest against the massacre. The incident galvanised Indian nationalism – Gandhi responded with a program of civil disobedience, announcing that 'cooperation in any shape or form with this satanic government is sinful'.

Reginald Dyer died in retirement in England in 1927. Michael O'Dwyer, governor of the Punjab at the time of the massacre, was assassinated by the Sikh revolutionary Udham Singh in London in 1940. Richard Attenborough's acclaimed film Gandhi (1982) dramatically re-enacts the events at Jallianwala Bagh.

Sleeping

Most of Amritsar's budget digs suffer from deafening traffic noise – bring earplugs. The more pleasant addresses are either pricey or far removed from the action.

Grand Hotel

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2562424; www.hotelgrand.in; Queen's Rd; d from ₹1510; 🌐 @ 📶)

Across the road from the train station, but far from grungy, the Grand is an oasis of calm amid an otherwise chaotic location. Rooms are spacious – if not exactly grand – and surround a wonderfully charming courtyard garden. The restaurant, with seating overlooking the garden, and the inviting bar serving chilled beers are also highly recommended. The hotel management organises tours.

Sri Guru Ram Das Niwas

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Complex; dm free but donations appropriate, d without/with AC ₹300/₹500; 🌐 @)

Inexpensive rooms are available in this niwas (pilgrims' hostel) at the southeast end of the Golden Temple Complex. Foreigners are generally accommodated in the dorm at Sri Guru Ram Das Niwas, or at rooms in the other buildings in the vicinity. Check in at the nearby Guru Arjan Dev Niwas to see what is available.

Staying here is a fascinating experience but rooms and dorms are basic, with shared bathrooms, and there's a three-day maximum stay. Each person gets use of a locker in the dorms, but you need your own padlock.

Tourist Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9356003219; www.touristguesthouse.com; 1355 GT Rd; dm/d ₹200/600; @ 📶)

This good-value backpacker stalwart offers pocket-friendly prices and humble rooms with high ceilings and fans. There's a garden restaurant, rooftop seating and an overall traveller-oriented vibe. On the downside, this is one of the few places in town that charges for wi-fi (per day ₹100) and the location, between a busy flyover and the railway line, is hardly the quietest.

MK Sood Guesthouse

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-5093376; Braham Buta Bazaar; r ₹1100; 🌐 📶)

Small, quaint and clean, this place benefits from a quieter location than most old-city hotels in the vicinity of the Golden Temple area. All rooms have AC, but some are more spacious and comfortable than others, so ask to see a few before deciding. Wi-fi is available free of charge, but in the lobby only.

★ Mrs Bhandari's Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2228509; www.bhandariguesthouse.wordpress.com; 10 Cantonment; d from ₹2570; 🌐 @ 📶 🛁)

Founded by the much-missed Mrs Bhandari (1906–2007), this slightly mothballed but friendly guesthouse is set in spacious grounds in Amritsar cantonment, about 2km from the centre. The large rooms have a hint of colonial-style charm about them, and the welcome is warm. The well-kept gardens are vast, and include swings, see-saws, plenty of seating and a small swimming pool.

Budget travellers can camp here for ₹300 per person if they bring their own gear. Pick-up is free from the train station and meals are available (breakfast/lunch/dinner ₹350/600/600). It's about ₹70 in a cycle-rickshaw from the old city. The gate shuts at 9pm; you'll have to leave a word at the office if you intend to return late at night.

Hotel Grace

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2559355; www.hotelgrace.net; 35 Braham Buta Bazaar; d without/with AC from ₹800/1200; 🌐 @ 📶)

This low-profile hotel in a market area to the east of Golden Temple has a fair mix of rooms that are hard to beat in terms of affordability. The best are at the front, with plenty of natural light, while the smaller and more modest rooms to the rear promise great value for money.

Hotel Golden Tower

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2534446; off Golden Temple Rd, Fuwara Chowk; d from ₹1650; 📶 @ 📶)

More glam outside than in, the Golden Tower is a reasonable choice in a good location. The sparsely decorated but large, clean rooms come with TV, mini-fridge and wi-fi. It's a good place to stay, especially if you plan to visit the Golden Temple late at night or early in the morning.

Lucky Guest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2542175; Mahna Singh Rd; r from ₹650; 📶)

This solid, old-city budget option has basic rooms that are a bit pokey, but the location is good and the market nearby provides ample opportunities for shopping and sightseeing excursions. Not all rooms have a window, so ask to see a few before checking in.

Hotel Indus

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-2535900; www.hotelindus.com; 211/3 Sri Hamandir Sahib Marg; d from ₹2100; 📶 @ 📶)

The dramatic million-dollar view of the Golden Temple from the rooftop is reason enough to stay at this modern hotel. Rooms are compact but comfy, and suitably appointed for the price. Book well ahead to secure one of the two rooms with temple vistas.

★ Ramada Amritsar

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0183-5025555; www.ramadaamritsar.com; Hall Bazaar; d incl breakfast from ₹4700; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

This grand-looking hotel is the best (and only) top-end option in the old city. The lobby is somewhat chintzy, but rooms are smart and modern, and the service is excellent. It's walking distance from the Golden Temple, the glass-walled rooms have wonderful views of the old city, and there's a small but cosy pool on the terrace.

Eating

Amritsar is famous for its dhabas (casual eateries serving snacks and basic meals) serving yummy Punjabi treats such as kulcha (deep-fried flatbread), stuffed parathas, spicy variants of lentils and Amritsari deep-fried fish tikkas garnished with lemon, chilli, garlic and ginger. Hotels and restaurants in the Golden Temple area are usually vegetarian and don't serve alcohol.

★ Kesar Da Dhaba

PUNJABI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Shastri Market, Chowk Passian; mains ₹70-130; 🕒 11am-5pm & 7-11pm; 🍴)

Originally founded in Pakistan's Punjab province, this 100-year-old eatery relocated to Amritsar after Partition. Since then, it has been serving up delicious paratha thalis (₹200 to ₹250) and silver-leaf-topped firni or ground rice pudding (₹20) in small clay bowls, as well as arguably the best lassi in town (₹50). Kitchen tours are available for diners; just ask at the reception.

★ Bharawan Da Dhaba

PUNJABI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Town Hall Chowk; meals ₹160-190; 🕒 8am-midnight; ❄️ 🍴)

Pronounced 'praa-waan', this down-to-earth Amritsar institution has been serving lip-smacking Punjabi treats since 1912. Order yourself a regional thali here, and you'll be treated to a delectable platter comprising dhal and paneer (cottage cheese), served with naan, roti or rice (or all of them). The eatery has pleasant views of the Town Hall area through its glassy shopfront.

Kanha Sweets

NORTH INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP; Lawrence Rd; sweets ₹20-40; 🕒 breakfast 8am-10pm; 🍴)

Apart from being a top-notch confectionery, this small but incredibly popular takeaway joint is known for the best puri platters (₹70) in Amritsar, comprising balloon-like puris, sharply flavoured potato curry and pickles. It's only served for breakfast between 8am and 2pm, but the sweets counter remains opens to 10pm.

Gurdas Ram

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jalebiwala Chowk; jalebi per serving ₹20; 🕒 9.30am-10.30pm; 🍴)

Get your fingers sticky at this 60-year-old jalebi joint, serving up the delicious Indian dessert consisting of saffron-coloured coils of deep-fried batter dunked in sugar syrup. The place is so famous they even named the street crossing after it (Jalebiwala Chowk).

Neelam's

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Rd, Jallianwala Bagh; mains ₹70-170; 🕒 9am-11pm; ❄️ 🍴)

Not far from the Golden Temple, this tiny two-tone eatery is a convenient spot to recharge your batteries. It does some quick-and-easy multicuisine dishes, including a backpacker breakfast and some South Indian staples, but don't miss the great-value kulcha (₹50), served with a chickpea side dish and a spicy chutney.

★ Makhan Fish

PUNJABI $$

(GOOGLE MAP; Old Jail Rd, near Trillium Mall; mains ₹150-350; 🕒 11am-11pm; ❄️)

This no-frills restaurant does the definitive version of Amritsar's legendary fried fish and oven-baked fish tikkas, as well as a number of local preps featuring chicken, mutton and fish. Note that the signature fish dishes are made and served by weight – 250g serves approximately two. Curiously, there's a Chinese menu on offer too, featuring a list of generic impersonations.

Brothers' Dhaba

PUNJABI $$

(Bade Bhai Ka; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Town Hall Chowk; meals ₹140-180; 🕒 8am-midnight; ❄️ 🍴)

This fast and friendly upmarket dhaba serves some of Amritsar's tastiest parathas stuffed with herbs, potato and pomegranate seeds that burst in the mouth as tiny explosions of taste. It also does hot and yummy breakfast platters featuring curried potato and deep-fried kulcha.

Crystal Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Crystal Chowk; mains ₹300-450; 🕒 11am-11.30pm; 🚻)

Worth the splurge, this classy, ground-floor restaurant has a fin-de-siècle air, with mirror-lined walls and ornate stucco trim. The menu is dominated by Mughlai favourites – the house speciality is the delicious murgh tawa frontier (₹390), morsels of chicken in dense onion gravy. The place also has a decent European menu featuring the usual range of grills, steaks, roasts and bakes.

Drinking & Nightlife

Bottoms Up Pub

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Queen's Rd, Grand Hotel; beers ₹120; 🕒 11am-11pm)

The congenial bar at the Grand Hotel serves icy cold, glycerine-free, draught Kingfisher beer and some tasty meals from the hotel's common kitchen.

Café Coffee Day

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple Rd; coffees from ₹80; 🕒 9am-11pm)

An air-conditioned oasis with fresh coffee, this chain cafe is conveniently located within shouting distance from the Golden Temple area. There's tasty cakes, puffs, wraps and street-view seating to go with your latte or espresso.

Shopping

Booklovers Retreat

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hall Bazaar; 🕒 9am-8pm Mon-Sat)

Booklovers is an old-school store laden with interesting tomes spanning diverse genres, including the latest Indian and international English best sellers.

AMRITSAR'S BAZAARS

The Golden Temple sits on the edge of a mesmerising maze of crowded market streets, where anything and everything can be found, from ceremonial swords to wedding suits. Start your explorations at the main entrance to the Golden Temple. From here, stroll northwest (so, to your left if you have your back to the Golden Temple) to the end of the temple compound and duck into the atmospheric Kathian Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP), for blankets, stationery, tin pots and red-and-silver wedding bangles. At the far end, turn right onto bustling Guru Bazaar Rd, past shops full of glittery womenswear, then take the first left into Shashtri Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP), where dupattas give way to fancy woollen shawls. At the end of the bazaar, turn right and continue past a string of food and fruit stalls to frenetic Katra Jaimal Singh Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP), crammed with tailors and fashion stores. At the T-junction, turn left into Tahali Sahib Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP), piled high with glittering juttis (shoes) and satin dupattas (scarves).

On a less chaotic note, if you want to indulge in crowd-free shopping, the tourist corridor from Town Hall to Golden Temple is lined with several shops selling good-quality souvenirs at negotiable prices.

Information

INTERNET ACCESS

Free in-room wi-fi is widely available at Amritsar's hotels.

Guru Arjun Dev Niwas Net Cafe (GOOGLE MAP); Guru Arjun Dev Niwas; per hr ₹30; ⌚ 6am-1am) This is a handy internet cafe close to the Golden Temple complex.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Fortis Escorts Hospital ( 0183-3012222, 9915133330; www.fortishealthcare.com; Majitha Verka Bypass) This international-standard hospital is in Amritsar's suburbs, about 7km northeast of the old city.

MONEY

Amritsar has an ever-mushrooming supply of ATMs, though there are no moneychangers at the airport. Mannat Travels (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0183-5006006; 5 Dharam Singh Market, Fuwara Chowk; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat) is a trustworthy moneychanger in the old city.

HDFC (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ground fl, RS Towers, Hall Bazaar; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat) and ICICI (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ground fl, RS Towers, Hall Bazaar; 🕒 9am-6pm Mon-Sat) deal in foreign exchange and have ATMs that accept foreign cards.

POST

At the junction of Court Rd with Albert Rd is the main post office (GOOGLE MAP ; Court Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat), with fast post and parcel facilities. There is also a handy post office (GOOGLE MAP ; Golden Temple Rd, Fuwara Chowk; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat) near the Golden Temple with similar facilities.

TOURIST INFORMATION

By the entrance to the train station is a tourist office (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0183-2402452; www.punjabtourism.gov.in; Train Station exit, Queen's Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun) with brochures and free maps covering Punjab, including detailed street maps of Amritsar, Patiala and Kapurthala.

Getting There & Away

AIR

About 11km northwest of the centre, Amritsar's Sri Guru Ram Dass Jee International Airport has connections to major Indian cities such as Delhi and Mumbai, courtesy of Air India (📞 0183-2214062; www.airindia.in; 🕒 10am-5pm), Jet Airways (📞 1800-225522; www.jetairways.com) and SpiceJet (📞 1800-1803333; www.spicejet.com). It also has a few international flights (to the Middle East mostly, but Air India also flies to Birmingham).

BUS

Companies running private buses operate from near Gandhi Gate (GOOGLE MAP), and from Cooper Rd (GOOGLE MAP), near the train station. Evening AC buses run to Delhi (₹800, 10 hours) and Jaipur (seat/sleeper ₹700/900, 16 hours), while non-AC ones run to Jammu (₹250, four hours). AC buses also run through the day to Chandigarh (₹600, four hours).

The main Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT; GOOGLE MAP; GT Rd) is about 3km north of the Golden Temple, near Mahan Singh Gate. There's at least one daily bus to Chamba (₹260, six hours), Dharamsala (₹280, seven hours) and Manali (₹600, 12 hours).

Frequent buses also serve Attari (₹30, one hour), Faridkot (₹120, three hours), Pathankot (₹120, three hours) and Patiala (₹230, five hours).

TRAIN

Apart from the train station, there's a less busy train reservation office (GOOGLE MAP; Golden Temple; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun) at the Golden Temple.

The fastest train to Delhi is the twice-daily Amritsar Shatabdi (AC chair/1AC ₹790/1620, six hours, 5am and 4.50pm). From New Delhi train station, the same trains make the return trip at 7.20am and 4.30pm. There are around a dozen other daily trains to Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹290/760/1060), taking seven to nine hours.

Four daily trains go to Chandigarh (2nd class/AC chair ₹120/440, five hours) between 5.15am and 5.50pm. Ten daily trains go to Pathankot (sleeper/3AC ₹140/490, three hours), leaving between 4.40am and 8.30pm.

The daily 6.40pm Amritsar-Howrah Mail links Amritsar with Varanasi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹500/1350/1965, 22 hours) and Kolkata's Howrah train station (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹695/1860/2740, 37 hours).

Getting Around

Free yellow buses (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sri Harmandir Sahib Marg) run between the train station and the Golden Temple from 4am to 9pm. Otherwise, from the train station to the Golden Temple, a rickshaw/autorickshaw will cost around ₹50/100 but you'll have to haggle hard for a fair price. Taxis loiter around the station and at the prepaid taxi booth (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sri Harmandir Sahib Marg) to the east of Golden Temple, while Ola Cabs (📞0183-3355335) has smart and swift radio taxis plying Amritsar round the clock. To the airport, an autorickshaw costs around ₹250 and a taxi about ₹500.

Taxis taking you to the Golden Temple area will often drop you at Fuwara (Fountain) Chowk or the Town Hall, from where you can walk the last few hundred metres through a pedestrianised tourist corridor and souvenir market, flanked by graceful red-sandstone shopping arcades on both sides.

Patiala

📞0175 / POP 405,200

Punjab's best-kept secret, Patiala was once the capital of an independent Sikh state, ruled by an extravagant family of maharajas. As the Mughal empire declined, the rulers of Patiala curried favour with the British and filled their city with lavish palaces and follies. After Independence and the subsequent abolition of privy purses, royal fortunes began to decline, and the once regal city slowly became a shadow of its former self. Today, the grand monuments are all crumbling, but the old city, ringed by 10 historic gates, is still swooningly atmospheric. In mid-January, the skies above Patiala burst into life for the Basant kite festival.

Sights

Qila Mubarak

FORT

(Adalat Bazar; museum ₹10; 🕒 museum 10.15am-4.45pm Tue-Sun)

The ancestral home of the maharajas of Patiala, this richly ornamented 18th-century fort is an Arabian Nights fantasy of soaring buttresses and latticed balconies. You can't enter the interior of the fort, but you are allowed to walk between the hugely impressive inner and outer walls, surrounded by crumbling masonry and flocks of parakeets. Inside, to your right, the 1859 Durbar Hall museum has a wonderful collection of weaponry, royal portraits, outrageous chandeliers and other treasures rescued from decaying palaces.

Sheesh Mahal

MUSEUM

(Sheesh Mahal Rd; ₹10; 🕒 10.30am-5pm Tue-Sun)

The totally over-the-top Sheesh Mahal, graced by two wedding-cake towers and an ornamental suspension bridge, is arguably one of the prettiest buildings in Punjab. Inside the lavishly decorated interior is a gallery displaying royal treasures including paintings, coins, medallions and various finely crafted objects of art. The tree-shaded parks fronting the mansion boast some exquisite marble statues of kings and queens, including a larger-than-life 1903 sculpture of Queen Victoria by noted British sculptor Francis Derwent Wood.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Baradari Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(📞 0175-2304433; www.neemranahotels.com; Baradari Gardens; d from ₹6440; 🏠 📶)

Built as a garden palace for Maharaja Rajinder Singh, this nostalgic heritage hotel is undoubtedly Punjab's most graceful place to spend a night. The artfully restored rooms are an exercise in luxury and classy aesthetics, while the mansion's stately terraces and grand patios overlook elegant gardens. It's a 20-minute walk west from the bus stand, or a ₹50 cycle-rickshaw ride.

Gopal's

NORTH INDIAN $

(Lower Mall Rd; mains ₹60-120; 🕒 8am-10pm; 🍴)

This popular vegetarian eatery prides itself on delicious servings of chhole bhature, thalis and sweetmeats that are wolfed down by eager diners through the day. There's some passable pan-Indian and quasi-Chinese stuff also served on the side, but you're better off sticking to the signature dishes.

i Getting There & Away

Frequent buses run from Patiala to Chandigarh (₹70, two hours), Amritsar (₹230, five hours), Sirhind (₹40, one hour) and Anandpur Sahib (₹120, three hours). A reserved taxi from Amritsar will do a day trip to Patiala for ₹2500.

Sirhind

An easy day trip from Chandigarh, Sirhind (surr-hind) is famous for the Gurdwara Fatehgarh Sahib, which commemorates the 1704 martyrdom of the two youngest sons of the 10th Sikh guru, Gobind Singh, entombed alive by the Mughals for refusing to convert to Islam. The gurdwara hosts the three-day Shaheedi Jor Mela held every December. Remove your shoes and cover your hair when visiting.

Sirhind also has several forlorn relics from Mughal times. The Rauza Sharif, mausoleum of Sufi saint Shaikh Ahmad Faruqi Sirhindi, draws pilgrims during the Urs festival in August. Down a lane closer to the bus stand, the dilapidated Aam Khas Bagh was once a grand Mughal garden with an enormous baoli (step-well) and offers some interesting photo ops and pleasant encounters with local people.

i Getting There & Away

Buses connect Sirhind with Patiala (₹40, one hour) and Chandigarh (₹50, 1½ hours), although they leave from different parts of town. Shared autorickshaws link Gurdwara Fatehgarh Sahib with Sirhind's Chandigarh bus stand (per person ₹10) and its Patiala bus stand (per person ₹10).

India-Pakistan Border At Attari-Wagah

Because of the tense relations between India and Pakistan, few foreigners actually cross the border between Attari and Wagah, 30km west of Amritsar. However, plenty of people come to watch the curious border-closing ceremony every evening at the Attari-Wagah Border Checkpost.

Sights

Border-Closing Ceremony

GATE

(Attari-Wagah)

Every afternoon, just before sunset, members of the Indian and Pakistani border guards meet at the border post between Attari and Wagah to engage in a 30-minute display of military showmanship that verges on pure theatre. Officially, the purpose of the ceremony is to lower the national flag and formally close the border for the night, but what actually occurs is a bizarre mix of pseudo-formal and competitive marching, flag-folding, chest beating, forceful stomping and almost comical high-stepping.

Getting There & Away

Buses run from Amritsar to Attari (₹30), from where it's a 2km walk to the customs post (or ₹10 in a shared autorickshaw). The border ceremony is held a few hundred metres beyond the customs post. Note that for spectators, cameras are permitted but bags, large and small, are banned. Lockers (₹50) are available beside the entrance gate.

Most people arrange a taxi with their hotel in Amritsar, which can be chartered for ₹1500. Alternately, you can take a shared taxi from the southeast gate of the Golden Temple (₹250 per person). Just hang out around the prepaid taxi booth sometime before 3pm and drivers will find you.

BORDER CROSSING – PAKISTAN

Border Hours

Despite official opening hours, you should confirm the border (Attari-Wagah; 🕒 10am-3.30pm) is open at all before you leave Amritsar. Also, arrive at least an hour before the border closes.

Foreign Exchange

There are banks with moneychanging facilities and ATMs on both sides of the border, but it's wise to also change some money in Amritsar first.

Onward Transport

From Wagah in Pakistan, there are frequent buses and taxis to Lahore, 30km away.

Visas

Visas are theoretically available at the Pakistan embassy in Delhi. However, it is almost always easier to obtain a Pakistan visa in your home country.

Pathankot

📞 0186 / POP 148,500

The dusty frontier town of Pathankot is merely a transport hub for the neighbouring states of Himachal Pradesh and Jammu & Kashmir, and there's little here to make you linger.

The Pathankot bus station has a guesthouse (Panthankot Bus Station; r ₹500) featuring very basic rooms and a common shower room. Just outside the bus station, Hotel Comfort (📞 0186-2226403; Gurdaspur Rd; d from ₹1890; 🌟) is perhaps the best place to stay if you're planning a quick and convenient exit from Pathankot the following morning.

The Pathankot bus station has a few simple restaurants catering to passengers in transit that serve cheap but tasty local North Indian fare through the day. Expect to pay between ₹60 and ₹100 for a quick meal.

There's a Himachal Tourism booth (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0186-2220316; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) at Pathankot Junction train station, with relevant tourist information on the neighbouring state.

Getting There & Away

From Pathankot Junction train station on Gurdaspur Rd there are 12 daily trains to Amritsar (2nd class/AC chair ₹65/260, two to three hours) from 4.15am to 11.50pm. Ten daily trains leave for New Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹285/765/1095, eight hours) between 2.20am and 8.05pm.

For Dharamsala and McLeod Ganj, four daytime trains run along the narrow-gauge line to Kangra Mandir (seat ₹35, five hours), leaving at 6.45am, 10am, 1.20pm and 3.50pm.

From the bus station, also on Gurdaspur Rd, there are three or four direct buses for McLeod Ganj (₹170, 4½ hours) each morning, or you could go via Dharamsala (₹150, four hours). There are frequent bus services through the day to Amritsar (₹100, three hours), Chandigarh (₹280, six hours), Dalhousie (₹110, 3½ hours), Delhi (ordinary/Volvo AC ₹520/1140, 11 hours), Jammu (₹100, three hours) and Manali (₹390, 11 hours).

Bathinda

📞 0164 / POP 218,000

Bathinda is a quiet, friendly town that sees few foreign tourists (or even domestic tourists for that matter). However, the bazaars around the bus station are fun to wander through, and you can also stop by at the auction centres where farmers gather on select days to sell their agricultural produce.

Sights

Govindgarh

FORT

(🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Of all the ruined forts in Punjab, Bathinda's Govindgarh is the mightiest and most impressive. It's also one of the oldest, dating way back to the 7th century, although rebuilt in its current red-brick form during the 12th century. It's an enormous structure, located bang in the middle of the city, and an unexpected highlight of a visit to this region. The fort's 36m-tall, 6m-thick walls tower over the old city bazaars and – best of all – can be freely explored.

Unlike other ancient forts in the region, Govindgarh has two gurdwaras and is thus always open to the public. Besides visiting the gurdwaras themselves, you can wander the lawned gardens within the walls and even climb up to a spot on the ramparts for magnificent views of the city. Don't miss walking around the outside of the fort to the western face, where the immense walls are at their most impressive, towering above dhobi-wallahs (clothes washers) and cotton-loomers working on the dusty streets below.

To get to the fort, turn left out of the bus station, then left at the roundabout and keep walking straight for about 1km.

Sleeping

Hotel Appreciate

HOTEL $

(📞 0164-3201875; d from ₹1650; 🏠)

Hotel Appreciate promises the best value among a bunch of hotels near the bus station. Behind the property's Lego-like facade are simple AC rooms with hot showers and clean sheets.

Hotel Stella

BUSINESS HOTEL $$$

(📞 0164-5015000; Barnala Bypass Rd; d incl breakfast from ₹4600; 🏠 📶 🚿)

Very upscale by Bathinda's standards, this fancy business hotel offers new-age creature comforts in its smartly appointed rooms, while the terrace pool and bar are definite draws on idle evenings. There's a good restaurant serving delicious Punjabi and pan-Indian food. It's located about 2km north of the bus stand.

Eating

Sagar Ratna

SOUTH INDIAN $

(GT Rd; mains ₹80-120; 🕒 11am-10pm; ❄️ 🍷)

For a pleasant departure from local Punjabi flavours, try one of the many dosas at this authentic South Indian restaurant located on the main drag. There's good South Indian coffee to go with your meal of choice.

Yellow Chilli

MODERN INDIAN $$

(Barnala Bypass Rd; mains ₹150-300; 🕒 noon-3pm & 7-11pm; ❄️ 🍷)

New-age Indian cuisine comes to Bathinda in the form of imaginative dishes designed by a celebrity chef at this stylish restaurant. It's a good place to order fish and meat dishes in town.

Getting There & Away

Ten daily trains leave for New Delhi (sleeper/3AC ₹200/490, 5½ to seven hours) round the clock. Five daytime trains go to Patiala (2nd class/AC chair ₹80/260, three hours) between 6.30am and 5.50pm.

Frequent buses go to Amritsar (₹180, four hours), Chandigarh (non-AC/AC ₹250/480, five hours), Faridkot (₹70, 1½ hours) and Patiala (₹170, three hours).

Faridkot

Faridkot was the capital of a once glorious Sikh state that has all but vanished over time. It's one of Punjab's least visited towns, and remains well off the beaten tourist track.

Today, peacocks stalk the faded battlements of the once mighty Qila Mubarak, a fort protected by 15m-high walls, which was the ancestral home of the maharajas of Faridkot. Nearby, the Tilla Baba Farid Ji is a recent rebuild of an age-old gurdwara, dedicated to the 13th-century Sufi poet Baba Sheikh Farid, whose poems were an inspiration for Guru Nanak, founder of Sikhism. Also in town is the Raj Mahal, the current residence of the former royal family, who moved here from the fort in the 1880s. There's also the beautiful, 30m-tall, French-designed Victoria Clock Tower (c 1902), as well as the attractive pastel-green District Library.

There are a few hotels about a 750m walk from the bus station. Turn left out of the bus station, left at the roundabout, then first right and you'll soon reach them all.

You'll find a few around-the-clock eateries serving parathas and local fare on the crowded streets around the bus station, as well as restaurants at both Hotel Trump Plaza (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9216800789; Kotkapura Rd; d from ₹1650; ❄️) and Sangam Hotel & Restaurant (📍01639-252144; Kotkapura Rd; d from ₹1420; ❄️).

There's a beer bar at the Hotel Trump Plaza.

Getting There & Away

Frequent buses run from Faridkot to Amritsar (₹120, three hours), Bathinda (₹70, 1½ hours), Chandigarh (₹240, five hours) and Patiala (₹120, two hours).

Kapurthala

Once the capital of a wealthy independent state, Kapurthala is an unusual place to explore. The resident maharaja, Jagatjit Singh, was a travel junkie – he married Spanish flamenco dancer Anita Delgado and constructed numerous buildings inspired by his travels.

The Jagatjit Palace (now the exclusive Sainik School) was modelled on Versailles, while the Moorish Mosque copies the Grand Mosque in Marrakesh (Morocco). Other buildings of note include the British-style Jagatjit Club and Jubilee Hall, and the Shalimar Gardens (containing the cenotaphs of the Kapurthala royal dynasty).

Located on Sultanpur Rd, Hotel Ramneek (9781322478; Sultanpur Rd; d from ₹1650) ranks a few notches above Kapurthala's other budget hotels. There are some decent AC rooms at Hotel Royal (01822-505110; Jalandhar Rd; d from ₹1100; ) , 200m from the bus stand.

There are several proletarian eateries in town serving tasty paratha-yoghurt breakfasts and dhal-roti-pickle meals, as well as the restaurants found at Hotel Ramneek and Hotel Royal.

There's a beer bar at Hotel Ramneek.

Getting There & Away

To get to Amritsar from Kapurthala, you need to take a bus to Subhanpur (₹10, 30 minutes) then change for Amritsar (₹60, 1½ hours). There are four morning buses to Faridkot (₹120, 2½ hours) between 6am and 10.30am.

HARYANA

Bordering India's national capital of Delhi to the west and northwest, burgeoning Haryana was the setting for several pivotal events through the history of northern India. Nonetheless, between its vast agricultural expanses and booming industrial hot spots, modern Haryana is home to very few sights that truly appeal to foreign tourists. Barring a few destinations of specific interest, most of the state lies beyond the tourism radar.

Kurukshetra (Thanesar)

01744 / POP 964,200

According to Hindu legend, Kurukshetra (formerly Thanesar) was where

Lord Brahma created the universe, and where Lord Krishna delivered his Bhagavad Gita sermon before the epic 18-day Mahabharata battle, an event commemorated by the Gita Jayanti festival. Given its religious and mythological significance, the town is mobbed by pilgrims, sadhus and educational tour groups, who vastly outnumber the few tourists.

English maps of the area are available at the ticket counter of the Sri Krishna Museum and are available for free with every purchased museum ticket.

Sights

Brahmasarovar

HISTORIC SITE

FREE

The focus of attention at Kurukshetra is the sacred Brahasarovar, India's largest ceremonial tank. According to Hindu holy texts, the ghat-flanked tank was created by Lord Brahma. Sadhus crowd the ghats through the day, while the ashrams beside the tank feature scenes from Hindu epics and walk-through models of sacred sites. A giant modern sculpture, depicting Lord Krishna imparting the Bhagavad Gita sermons to Arjuna in the Mahabharata, stands tall in a park central to the complex.

Sheikh Chehli's Tomb

TOMB

(Indian/foreigner ₹5/100; 🕒 9am-5pm)

The impressive mausoleum of 17th-century Sufi mystic Sheikh Chehli, who provided spiritual guidance for the Mughal prince Dara Shikoh, lies in a quaint neighbourhood about 2km northwest of the town centre. Behind the brick and sandstone tomb, and predating it by more than a thousand years, is a raised mound known as Harsh Ka Tilla, where you can view excavated, 7th-century ruins from historical Thanesar. The ruins stretch for about 1km.

Sri Krishna Museum

MUSEUM

(Pehowa Rd; ₹30; 🕒 10am-5pm)

The Sri Krishna Museum features an impressive collection of sculptures, carvings and paintings, and a low-tech multimedia exhibition with dioramas, giant statues, surreal sounds and a walk-through maze. Look out for some rare exhibits, such as palm-leaf etchings from Orissa and excavated artefacts from ancient Indus Valley settlements. There's a simple canteen (veg thali ₹80, chai ₹10) with alfresco seating in the museum gardens.

Sleeping & Eating

Yatri Niwas

HOTEL $$

(📞 01744-291615; Pipli-Jyotisar Rd; d from ₹1750; 🏠)

Fronted by a grassy lawn, this whitewashed standard-issue government complex has unimaginative but well-appointed rooms assuring adequate value for money, as well as service and security to match. Food (veg thalis ₹130) at the in-house restaurant is recommended, and day trippers can also step in for meals. The property is a five-minute walk north of Brahmasarovar.

Getting There & Around

Local buses between Chandigarh (₹90, two hours) and Delhi (₹160, four hours) stop at Pipli on the national highway, about 6km outside Kurukshetra. From here, shared autorickshaws (₹20) shuttle passengers between the bus stand and Brahmasarovar.

You can hire a rickshaw for about ₹300 to show you the major sights in town.

Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary

About 48km southwest of Delhi, thrown around scattered wetlands, the Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary is a 145-hectare national park that plays host to more than 250 resident and migratory bird species.

Sights

Sultanpur Bird Sanctuary

NATURE RESERVE

(Indian/foreigner ₹5/40, camera/video ₹25/500; 🕒 7am-4.30pm Wed-Mon)

Many of the 250 resident and migratory bird species that frequent this 145-hectare park come from faraway countries such as Russia, China and Afghanistan. The more recognisable ones include the Siberian crane, painted and black-necked storks, greater and lesser flamingos, common teal, yellow parakeet and black-headed ibis. The best season to view these feathered creatures is from October to March. A relaxed birdwatching tour of the sanctuary can take up to three hours.

Sleeping

Bird Sanctuary Tourist Complex

HOTEL $$

(📞 0124-2375242; d from ₹1750; 🏨)

Adjacent to the park fence and set in a quasi-forested landscape, this tourist complex operated by Haryana Tourism features a mix of decent to pleasant rooms and can be a quiet and relaxed place to spend a night. The complex has an in-house restaurant that serves snacks and meals, including to day visitors with prior notice.

Getting There & Around

Public transport is limited in the area. From Delhi, it's much easier to hire a taxi for a day trip (around ₹1800). Leave early to escape the insufferable traffic that builds up along the way during rush hour.

Surajkund

Some 20km south of downtown Delhi, Surajkund is named after the 10th-century sun pool that was built here by Raja Surajpal, leader of the sun-worshipping Tomar clan. The village is mobbed for the annual two-week Surajkund Crafts Mela in February, but sees few visitors at other times.

Festivals & Events

Surajkund Crafts Mela

FAIR

(🕒 1-15 Feb)

A splendid congregation of folk artists, artisans, musicians and dancers from across North India, this vibrant crafts fair is a great place to acquaint yourself with the region's living artistic and folk traditions. It's also a convenient place to shop for good-quality handicrafts and other souvenirs. Food stalls and cultural performances only add to the variety of entertainment available.

Sleeping

★ Vivanta By Taj

HOTEL $$$

(📞 0129-4190000; www.vivanta.tajhotels.com; Shooting Range Rd; d from ₹8400; 🌳 📶 🚿)

A clear favourite among the few luxury addresses in close proximity to the Surajkund fairground, this smart and stylish hotel has ultra-comfortable rooms overlooking ample manicured greenery. The infinity pool could easily rank among India's best, while the lavish spa is the perfect place to spend the lazy afternoon hours.

Getting There & Around

Special buses operated by Haryana Tourism (📞 011-23324911; www.haryanaturism.gov.in; 36 Chander Lok Building, Janpath) run to Surajkund from Delhi through the duration of the crafts fair. At other times, local buses (₹10) run from Badarpur, accessible from Delhi by metro. A day trip from Delhi by taxi costs around ₹1000.

Jammu & Kashmir (including Ladakh)

Jammu & Kashmir \(including Ladakh\) Highlights

Ladakh

Leh

Around Leh Southeast

Markha Valley & Rumbak

Nubra Valley

Pangong Tso

Tso Moriri Loop

Leh to Kargil

Kargil & Zaskar

Kargil

Suru Valley

Zaskar

The Kashmir Valley

Srinagar

Pahalgam & Aru

Gulmarg

Naranag & Lake Gangabal

Sonamarg

Jammu & Southern Kashmir

Jammu

Around Jammu

Jammu & Kashmir (including Ladakh)

Why Go?

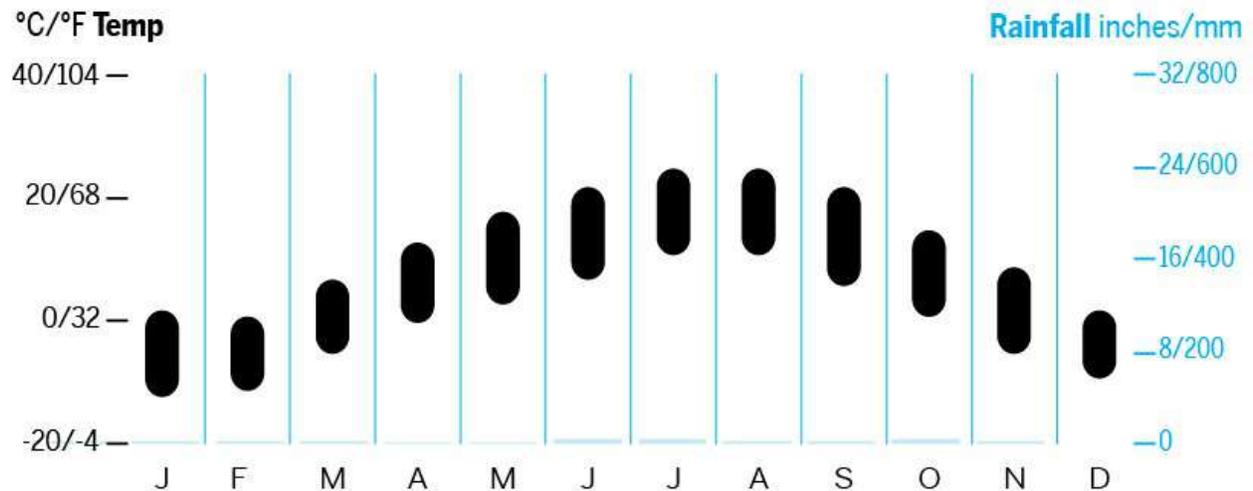

The state of Jammu & Kashmir (J&K) brings together three incredibly different worlds. Hindu Jammu and Katra, in the south, are the state's rail hubs and a major draw for domestic pilgrims. Muslim Kashmir is India's Switzerland, attracting hordes of local tourists seeking cool summer air, alpine scenery and Srinagar's romantic houseboat accommodation. And then there's the Himalayan land of Ladakh, which for most foreigners is J&K's greatest attraction. Its disarmingly friendly, ethno-linguistically Tibetan people are predominantly Buddhist; their timeless monasteries are set between arid canyons and soaring peaks, while emerald-green villages nestle photogenically in highland deserts.

Kashmir is politically volatile, with July and August often the 'season' for shutdowns, demonstrations and curfews. Indeed, arguments over Kashmir's status caused three 20th-century wars. Ladakh is altogether different, a calm place where your main concern will be high-altitude acclimatisation. Note that Ladakh is entirely inaccessible by road outside the summer season.

When to Go

Leh

→ Apr–Jun Kashmir is in full bloom but overloaded with domestic tourists. Prices peak.

→ Jul–Aug Perfect for Ladakh; rain drenches Jammu. Pilgrims flood to Amarnath.

→ Dec–Mar Ski season at Gulmarg. Ladakh has festivals but no road access or tourists.

Best Places to Eat

- Alchi Kitchen
- Bon Appetit
- Food Planet
- Falak
- Café Cloud

➔ Mughal Darbar

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Stok Palace Heritage Hotel
- ➔ Srinagar Houseboats
- ➔ Nimmu House
- ➔ Khyber Himalayan Resort & Spa
- ➔ Hidden North Guest House

Jammu & Kashmir (including Ladakh) Highlights

- 1 Indus Valley monasteries Murmuring meditative mantras in mural-decked gompas (Tibetan Buddhist monasteries) such as Chemrey or Thiksey.
- 2 Markha Valley Experiencing the stark magnificence of Ladakh with a hassle-free (and traffic-free) homestay trek.
- 3 Srinagar Enjoying an amusingly caricatured Raj-type experience relaxing on a deluxe Dal Lake houseboat.
- 4 Pangong Tso Gawking at the mountain scenery backing this surreally blue lake.
- 5 Yapola Gorge Discovering a thrillingly dramatic canyon en route to the breathtaking Sengge La.
- 6 Leh Escaping India's humid summer heat in the dusty medieval backstreets and Potala-style palace of this entrancing traveller hub.

7 K3 Trailblazing the 'world's most dangerous road', the route from Kishtwar to Keylong.

LADAKH

Spectacularly jagged, arid mountains enfold this magical Buddhist ex-kingdom. Picture-perfect gompas (Tibetan Buddhist monasteries) dramatically crown rocky outcrops amid whitewashed stupas and mani walls. Colourful fluttering prayer flags share their spiritual messages metaphorically with the mountain breeze. Prayer wheels spun clockwise release more merit-making mantras. Gompa interiors are colourfully awash with the murals and statuary of countless bodhisattvas.

Though threatened by a rapidly increasing number of visitors, Ladakh has much to teach the West regarding ecological awareness. Most Ladakhis are cash poor yet their traditional mudbrick homesteads are large and virtually self-sufficient in fuel and dairy products, organic vegetables, and barley used to make tsampa (roast barley flour) and chhang (barley beer).

The walls of dramatic mountains that hem in Ladakh make for an unforgettable landscape, but be aware that road access requires crossing tortuous high passes, which close from around October to May (or longer when snows are heavy).

History

Ladakh's (now-deposed) royal family traces its dynasty back 39 generations to AD 975. They took the name Namgyal (Victorious) in 1470 when their progenitor Lhachen Bhagan, ruling from Basgo, conquered a competing Ladakhi kingdom based at Shey. Although Ladakh had been culturally 'Tibetanised' in the 9th century, Buddhism originally arrived in an Indian form that's visible in ancient temple artisanship at Alchi. Over time, however, different Buddhist sects struggled for prominence, with the Tibetan Gelukpa order eventually becoming the majority philosophy after its introduction in the 14th century by Tibetan pilgrim Tsongkhapa (who left a curious relic at Spituk).

Ladakh's great 'lion king', Sengge Namgyal (r 1616–42) gained riches by plundering gold reserves from western Tibet and re-established a capital at Leh. Ladakh remained an independent kingdom until the 1840s when the region was annexed by the Jammu maharajas. The Namgyals eventually passed Leh Palace to the Indian Archaeological Survey and retired to their summer palace at Stok.

Ladakh is now a pair of sub-districts within Jammu and Kashmir. That's a culturally odd situation for this 'little Tibet', which is one of the last Tantric Buddhist societies on Earth. When tourism was first permitted in 1974 commentators feared that the area would quickly lose its identity. But for decades the traditional lifestyle of the Ladakhis proved unexpectedly robust to outside influences, aided partly by the area's seasonal inaccessibility. Meanwhile, locally relevant technologies, such as solar energy and Trombe thermal-storage walls, have helped to improve rural living standards.

In the last decade, change has accelerated as road construction brings accessibility to once isolated villages. In 2010 Ladakh was ravaged by an unseasonable cloudburst. Flash floods washed away whole sections of Leh, graphically illustrating Ladakh's vulnerability to climate change.

Climate

Ladakh's short tourist season (July to early September) typically sees mild to hot T-shirt weather by day and pleasant, occasionally chilly nights. Early July is great for flowers and peaks are still dusted with snow, but August is better for high passes, which can still be snowbound into mid-July. On higher treks night-time temperatures can dip below 0°C even in midsummer. By September snow is likely on higher ground although major passes usually stay open until October. Access roads close entirely in winter when temperatures can fall below –20°C and most tourist infrastructure shuts down.

Ladakh enjoys sunshine an average of 300 days a year, but storms can brew suddenly.

Language

Though they use the same script, the Tibetan and Ladakhi languages are significantly different. The wonderfully all-purpose word jule (pronounced 'joo-lay') means 'hello', 'goodbye', 'please' and 'thanks'. To the greeting khamzang, simply reply khamzang. Zhimpo-rak means 'It's delicious'.

Rebecca Norman's excellent Getting Started in Ladakhi (₹200) has plenty more phrases and useful cultural tips.

Leh

📍01982 / POP 46,300 / ELEV 3520M

Few places in India are at once so traveller-friendly and yet so enchanting and hassle-free as mountain-framed Leh. Dotted with stupas and crumbling mudbrick houses, the Old Town is dominated by a dagger of steep rocky ridge topped by an imposing Tibetan-style palace and fort. Beneath, the bustling bazaar area is draped in a thick veneer of tour agencies, souvenir shops and tandoori-pizza restaurants, but a web of lanes quickly fans out into a green suburban patchwork of irrigated barley fields. Here, gushing streams and narrow footpaths link traditionally styled Ladakhi homes and hotels that feature flat roofs, sturdy walls and ornate wooden window frames. Leh's a place that's all too easy to fall in love with – but take things very easy on arrival as the altitude requires a few days' acclimatisation before you can safely start enjoying the area's gamut of adventure activities.

Central Leh

Central Leh

📍 Top Sights

1 Leh Palace C2

📍 Sights

2 Central Asian Museum B2

3 Chamba Lhakhang C2

4	Chandazik Gompa	C2
5	Chokhang Vihara	B3
6	Jamia Masjid	B3
7	LAMO	C2
8	Namgyal Stupa	B2
9	Tsemo Fort	D1
10	Tsemo Gompa	D1

Activities, Courses & Tours

11	Gesar Travel	A2
	GraviT	A3
12	Hemis National Park Guide Service	A2
	Hidden North Adventures
13	Higher Himalaya	A2
	Ladakh Mitra	A3
14	Ladakhi Women's Travel Company	A3
15	Luna Ladakh	A2
16	Open Ladakh	A2
17	Rimo	A2
18	Shayok Tours & Travels	A2
19	Splash Adventures	A2
20	Summer Holidays	A2
21	Wet'n'Wild	A3
	Wild East Adventure	A2

Sleeping

22	Kang-Lha-Chen	A2
23	Namgyal Guest House	D4
24	Palace View Guest House	C3
25	Saiman Guest House	A2
26	Saser	A1
27	Travellers' House	A1

Eating

28	Chopsticks	A3
29	Il Forno	A3
30	La Piazzetta	A2
31	Ladakh Café	A3
	Ladakhi Food	A2
32	Neha Snacks	B3
33	Penguin Garden	A4

Drinking & Nightlife

34	Ja Khang	A4
35	Lala's Art Cafe	B3
36	Lehchen	A3
37	Tololing Tea Stall	C4

Shopping

	Dzomsa	A3
38	Indus Wine Shop	B3
39	Jigmat Couture	A4
40	Ladakh Bookshop	B3
41	Lehling Bookshop & Cafe	B3
42	Norbulingka	C4
43	Nowshera Bazaar	B4
	Tibetan Refugee Market	A2
44	Venture Ladakh	A2

Information

45	Het Ram Vinay Kumar Pharmacy	B3
46	Mantra Travel Lounge	A3
47	Oxygen Bar	B3
48	Paul Merchant	B3
49	SBI ATM	B3
50	Tourist office	B3

Transport

51	Buses to Kargil	C4
	HPTDC	A3
52	HPTDC Buses Departure Point	B3
53	Jet Airways	B3

Sights

Central Leh

★ Leh Palace

PALACE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹10/200; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Bearing a passing similarity to the Potala Palace in Lhasa (Tibet), this nine-storey dun-coloured edifice is Leh's dominant structure and architectural icon. It took shape under 17th-century king Singge Namgyal but has been essentially unoccupied since the Ladakhi royals were stripped of power and shuffled off to Stok in 1846. Today the sturdy walls enclose some exhibition spaces and a small prayer room, but the most enjoyable part of a visit is venturing to the uppermost rooftops for the view.

Interesting structures ranged around the palace's base include the prominent Namgyal Stupa (MAP GOOGLE MAP), the colourfully muralled Chandazik Gompa (Chenrezi Lhakhang; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Palace Ridge; ₹30; 🕒 approx 8am-6pm) and the 1430 Chamba Lhakhang (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Palace Ridge) with medieval mural fragments between the inner and outer walls. Don't count on any of these being open though.

Leh Old Town

AREA

Behind Leh's fanciful Sunni men's mosque, Jamia Masjid (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar), winding alleys and stairways burrow between and beneath a series of old mudbrick Ladakhi houses and eroded chortens. The alleys themselves are a large part of the attraction, but some buildings have been particularly well restored, notably the pair of 17th-century mansions now housing LAMO (Ladakh Arts & Media Organisation; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-251554; www.lamo.org.in; Old Town; with/without tour ₹100/50; 🕒 11am-5pm Mon-Sat) arts centre.

Central Asian Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.tibetheritagefund.org; suggested donation ₹50; 🕒 hours vary)

One of Leh's most remarkable buildings, this tapered four-storey stone tower is a 21st-century construction based on a historic Lhasa mansion, with the added flourish of a fortress-style drawbridge. Inside, exhibits are relatively limited but the top floor Faces of Ladakh mini-photoessays are thought-provoking.

Chokhang Vihara

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Main Bazaar; 🕒 approx 5am-8pm)

With its coppiced willows, the large courtyard of this 20th-century temple offers an oasis of relatively meditative calm just steps from the bustle of Main Bazaar. Inside, a monk keeps up his high-speed chant while blessing the prayer flags and pennants of arriving supplicants.

Tsemo Fort

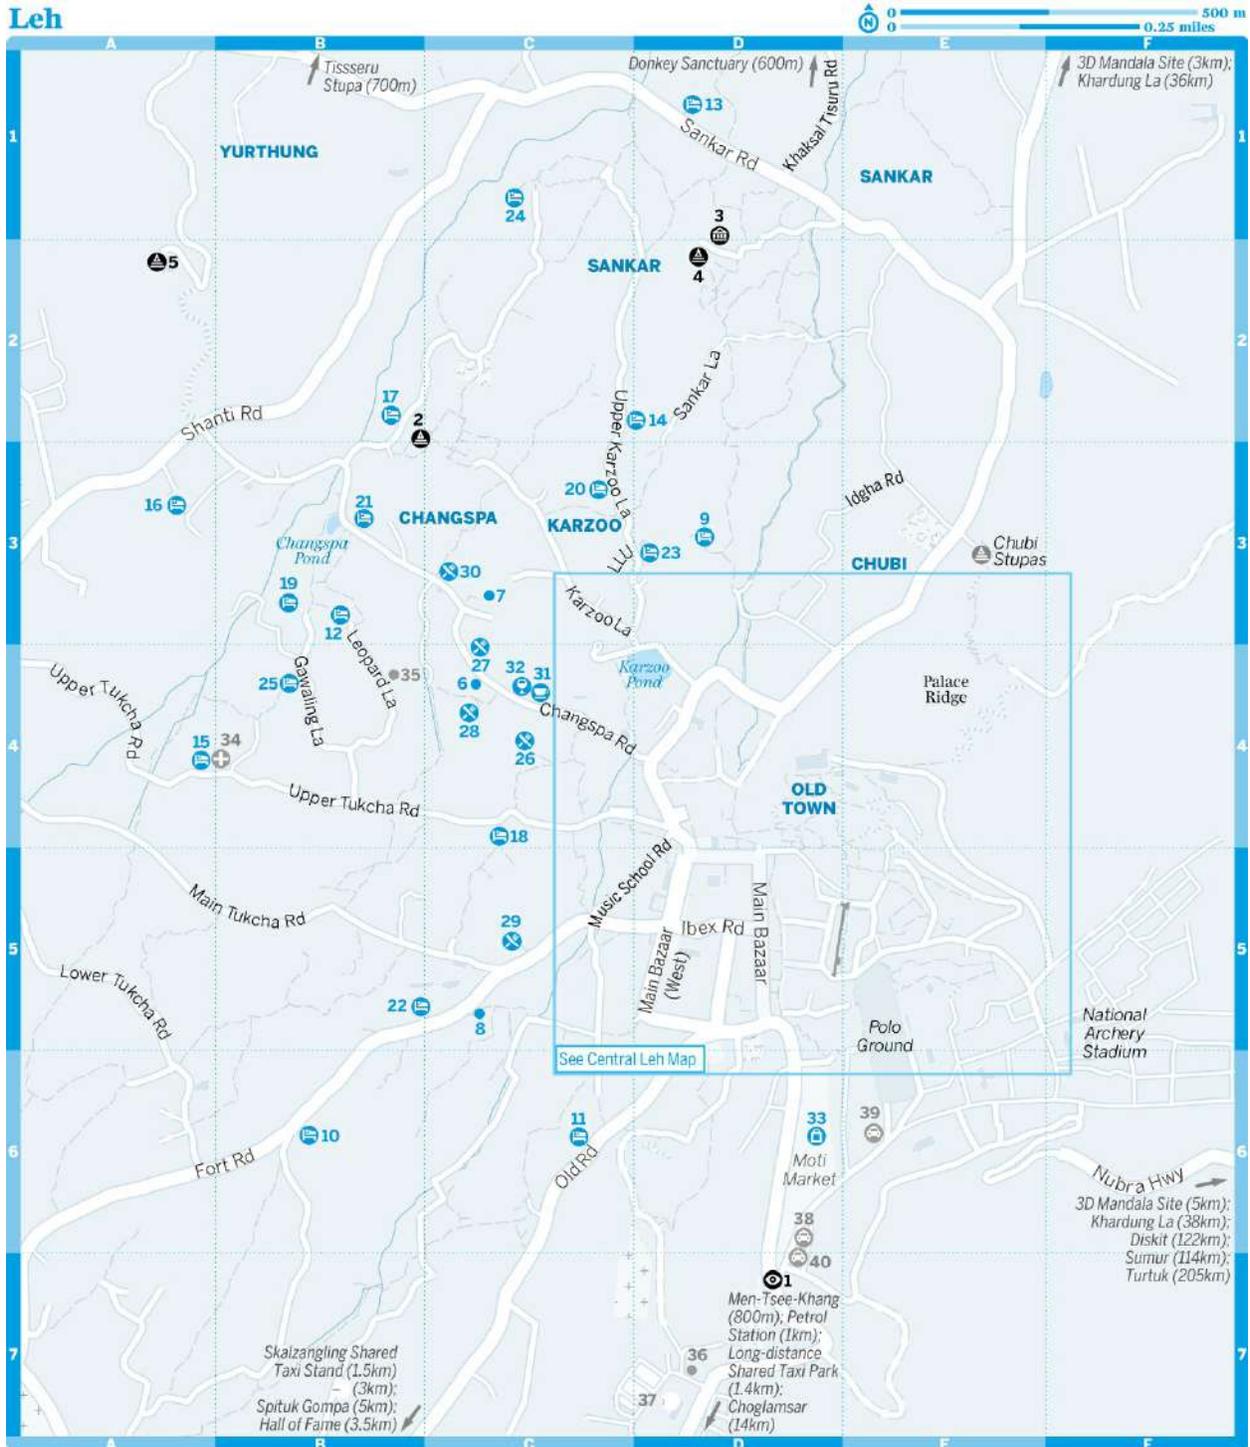

CASTLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ₹20; 🕒 10am-6pm)

Visible from virtually everywhere in Leh, 16th-century Tsemo (Victory) Fort is a defining landmark that crowns the top of Palace Ridge, though there's little to see inside apart from a tiny Buddhist shrine. Directly beneath, Tsemo Gompa (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ₹30; 🕒 7.30am-6pm) consists of two little 15th-century temple buildings. One enshrines an 8m-tall gold-faced Maitreya. The other is an atmospheric gonkhang, home of protector deities.

Leh

Leh

📍 Sights

1 Friendship Gate

D7

2	Gomang Stupa	B2
3	Ladakh Rocks & Minerals Museum	D1
4	Sankar Gompa	D2
5	Shanti Stupa	A2

Activities, Courses & Tours

6	Himalayan Bikers	C4
7	Mahabodhi Centre	C3
8	Yama Adventures	C5

Sleeping

9	All View	D3
10	Almighty Guesthouse	B6
11	Chonjor Residency	C6
12	Chow Guest House	B3
13	Deskrit Villa	D1
14	Destination Guesthouse	D2
15	Gangs-Shun	A4
16	Goba Guest House	A3
17	Gomang Boutique Hotel	B2
18	Haldupa Guest House	C4
19	Kunzang	B3
20	Kurja Garden House	C3
21	Ladakh Residency	B3
22	Lha-Ri-Mo	B5
23	Lotus Hotel	D3
24	Tsetan Guest House	C1
25	Zaltak Guesthouse	B4

Eating

26	Bon Appetit	C4
27	Food Planet	C4
28	KH Restaurant	C4
29	Tibetan Kitchen	C5
30	Wonderland Restaurant & Coffee Shop	C3

Drinking & Nightlife

31	Bikers' Café	C4
32	Elements	C4

Shopping

33 Moti Market D6

Information

34 Dr Morup B4

35 Snow Leopard Conservancy India Trust B4

Transport

36 Ladakh Maxicab Union D7

37 Main Bus Station D7

38 Market Taxi Stand D6

39 Shared Jeep-Taxis to Diskit E6

40 Shared Taxis to Choglamsar & Skalzanling D7

Greater Leh

Gomang Stupa

BUDDHIST MONUMENT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This 9th-century whitewashed stupa rises in concentric serrated layers flanked by numerous chortens. Recent restoration masks its aura of great antiquity but its peaceful, shady setting remains a refreshingly spiritual escape from the tourist-centric developments of surrounding Changspa.

Shanti Stupa

BUDDHIST MONUMENT, VIEWPOINT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  dawn-9pm)

Dominating Leh from a high, rocky ridge, this gigantic white spired pudding of a stupa was built between 1983 and 1991 by Japanese monks to promote world peace.

Sankar

AREA

For a charming wander, follow canal streams in the captivating yet relatively accessible area around little Sankar Gompa (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ₹30) and the one-room geological museum (LRMPS Museum; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 9419178704; www.ladakhrocksminerals.com; Sankar; ₹50; 🕒 10.30am-1pm & 2-7pm May-Aug). For memorable views, continue about 1km uphill to the laudable Donkey Sanctuary (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 Tsering Motup 8492812133; www.donkeysanctuary.in; Korear Temple Rd) or the nearby 11th-century Tisseru Stupa (GOOGLE MAP ; Tisuru Rd, Upper Leh), a bulky, partly restored mudbrick ruin that looks like a half-built ziggurat (stepped pyramid).

Out of Town

Spituk Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(Pethub Galdan Targailing Monastery; GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 01982-260036; www.spitukmonastery.org; Spituk; suggested donation ₹30-50; 🕒 7am-6.30pm)

Founded in the late 14th century as See-Thub (‘Exemplary’) Monastery, impressive Spituk Gompa surveys the Indus Valley with multiple mudbrick buildings tumbling merrily down a steep hillock towards Spituk village. For fine views, it's worth climbing the exterior stairway to the three-tiered latho (spirit shrine) and gonkhang (GOOGLE MAP ; Spituk Gompa; 🕒 7am-6.30pm), which holds the monastery's guardian deities.

Hall of Fame

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; Leh-Spituk hwy Km428; Indian/foreigner/camera ₹25/50/50; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-7pm)

Two rooms of this extensive, well-presented museum look at Ladakhi history and culture. But mostly it commemorates the Indian Army's role in Ladakh, from helping with cloudburst relief in 2010 to the high-altitude battles fought with Pakistan during the 20th century. A 30-minute film introduces the 1999 Kargil War.

3D Mandala

BUDDHIST SITE

(Trans Himalayan Cultural Centre; GOOGLE MAP)

A truly vast Wheel-of-Life mandala, the size of a football pitch, is under fitful construction at the northern edge of town. Site access is off the road that leads to pretty, unspoilt Gonpa Village. But for a better view, look down from the Nubra Hwy at around Km6.

Gonpa Village

VILLAGE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Almost entirely off the radar of visitors, this photogenic knot of traditional houses and minor Buddhist monuments is around 4km north of central Leh. There is a small gompa above the TV tower and a chorten on the cairn-speckled ridge-top above that. Excellent views.

LEH – WATER & ECO-AWARENESS

Water is precious – those streams you see cascading beside virtually every lane aren't a sign of plenty but an elaborate network of irrigation channels that keep Leh from reverting to a dusty mountain desert. Anything you can do to save water is a positive step. Bucket baths save a lot compared to showers, and a few guesthouses offer traditional water-free Ladakhi long-drop toilets that recycle human waste into compost. Don't put anything nonbiodegradable down the hole: whatever goes in will end up on a farmer's field in a year or two.

Guesthouses rarely provide toilet paper (buy your own) and generally it should not be flushed: when there's a plastic bin, use it.

To save Leh from vanishing under a sea of plastic bottles, refills of purified, pressure-boiled water are provided for ₹7 per litre by environmental organisation Dzomsa. It also has an ecofriendly laundry service (₹95 per kg) and serves locally sourced tsestalulu (sea buckthorn) and apricot juices that are free of packaging.

Activities

Cycling

An exhilarating yet almost effortless way to enjoy the fabulous scenery around Leh is the Khardung La roll-down, where a jeep takes you and a bicycle up to the ‘world’s highest road pass’ and gravity brings you back down. Potholes and streams in the uppermost 14km (above South Pullu army camp) mean it's (arguably) better to skip the top section and simply whizz down the last 25km to Leh on smoothly paved new asphalt. Depending on group size, packages cost between ₹1000 and ₹1500 per person including bicycle hire and support vehicle. A permit is technically required for the upper section of the pass but occasionally companies talk their way round this and we were never asked for paperwork. Book one day ahead through Summer Holidays (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞9906985822; www.mtbladakh.com; Zangsti Rd) or Himalayan Bikers (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞9469049270, 9906989109; www.himalayan-bikers.com; Changspa; 🕒7.30am-9.30pm late-May–mid-Sep). Both also rent mountain bikes (₹500 to ₹700 per day).

Meditation & Yoga

Various yoga, reiki and meditation places pop up each summer: look along Changspa Rd for fliers. The Mahabodhi Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞01982-251162; www.mahabodhi-ladakh.org; Changspa Rd; 🕒Mon-Sat May–mid-Sep) is longer established and has a range of drop-in sessions. It and Open Ladakh (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞9419983126, 9906981026; www.openladakh.com; unit 23-24, Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd) offer longer retreats at Choglamsar and Stok respectively.

Mountaineering

Ladakh has 118 'open' peaks above 6000m, many of which are rarely, if ever, scaled. For a list, see www.indmount.org/openpeaksjandk.aspx. A popular destination is 6121m Stok Kangri (Kanglha-jhal; 🕒Jun-Aug), the triangular snowcapped ‘trekking peak’ usually visible straight across the valley from Leh. Although accessible to those with minimal climbing experience, scaling its uppermost slopes requires ice axes, ropes, crampons, considerable fitness and an experienced guide. Pre-climb acclimatisation is essential as AMS can be a serious worry. Permits are required (Indian/foreigner free/US$50). From Stok, the well-organised agency Ladakh Mitra (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419999830, 9596929195; www.ladakhmitra.com; 1st, fl, unit 17, Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd; ⌚ 10am-7pm May–mid-Oct) runs a series of tent camps en route, so you can ascend with minimal baggage. Assuming at least four in a group, six-day packages typically start at ₹16,000/19,000 for Indians/foreigners including permits, food, sleeping, climbing gear and transport. Climbing alone with a personal guide costs ₹27,000/30,000, and not much less for a group of two or three. Bring your own gloves, head torch and sunglasses.

A good place to meet fellow climbers or to exercise your grips is the small bouldering-cafe GraviT (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.facebook.com/GraviT.Leh; 2nd fl, Raku Complex, Fort Rd; climbing wall per hr ₹80, excursions per day ₹2000; ⌚ 4pm-8.30pm), which also organises Sunday expeditions to local climbing spots near Shey plus the annual Suru Boulder Fest (www.facebook.com/Suru.boulder; ⌚ late Aug).

ALTITUDE PROBLEMS

Leh's altitude, above 3500m, means that many visitors will suffer from headaches and dizziness on arrival. Mild symptoms can be partly relieved by resting and drinking plenty of fluids. If that doesn't help, or if you have inadvertently overexercised, either breathe oxygen at the oxygen bar or, as long as it's combined with rest, take one Diamox tablet morning and evening for three days. Tablets are available from Het Ram Vinay Kumar Pharmacy (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-252160; Main Bazaar; ⌚ 10am-9pm). Should symptoms become severe, you risk developing potentially fatal Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS), but the condition is eminently treatable if you act promptly. The best option is to call English-speaking specialist Dr Morup (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9419883851; Upper Tukcha Rd; consultation ₹1000; ⌚ on call), who can assist you at your hotel and/or help you find appropriate treatment.

Rafting & Kayaking

In summer, numerous agencies offer daily rafting excursions through glorious canyon scenery. Experienced paddlers can follow in a kayak for around 50% extra. Expect to get very wet. Relatively easy Phey–Nimmu (grade II, beginners, mid-July to late August) typically costs ₹1200; while tougher and more picturesque Chilling–Nimmu (grade III, late June to early September) generally costs around ₹1600 including equipment and lunch (bring extra drinking water). Reliable specialist companies include Rimo (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01982-253348; www.rimoriverexpeditions.com; Zangsti Rd; 🕒5.30am-9pm Jul & Aug, 9am-5pm May, Jun & Sep), Wet'n'Wild (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01982-255122, 9419819721 9622967631; www.wetnwildexplorations.com; Fort Rd; 🕒mid-May–late-Sep) and Splash Adventures (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9622965941; www.splashladakh.com; Zangsti Parking), while Luna Ladakh (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419977732; www.lunaladakh.com; Zangsti Rd; 🕒Jun-Aug) adds rafting as the finale to a package including mountain biking (Spituk–Zingchen) and trekking (Zingchen–Chilling with homestays) costing ₹16,000/20,000 for two people on a three-/four-day package. Cheaper for bigger groups.

Given enough interest, Wet'n'wild and Rimo offer group expeditions that descend the Zaskar River from Zangla to Nimmu (three days rafting, three days travel). Renowned British Himalayan river veteran Darren Clarkson-King runs full Zaskar raft packages with Pureland Expeditions (www.purelandexpeditions.com).

Trekking & Jeep Safaris

The range of possible treks is phenomenal. The classic multiday trek follows the utterly delightful roadless Markha Valley. A one-day taster that's hard to beat is the Rumbak and Yurutse day hike. Both are perfectly feasible without a guide and carrying only minimal baggage.

The most popular jeep safaris are to the high-altitude mountain lake of Pangong Tso and through beautiful Nubra Valley. You'll need an agency, if only to organise the permit, which is required by foreign visitors for many areas in northern Ladakh.

Countless agencies offer trekking packages, jeep tours, rafting, biking and permit procurement. Few are systematically bad but many are very inconsistent. A deciding factor is often which agent happens to have a group leaving on the day you need to depart. Ask fellow travellers for recent recommendations and look along Changspa Rd and the eastern end of Upper Tukcha Rd where there is a high concentration of agencies. We have found small operators Higher Himalaya (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9419333393; www.higherhimalaya.com; Zangsti Rd), Hidden North and Shayok (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9419342346, 9419888902; www.shayoktours.com; Changspa Rd) to be especially honest, competitive and helpful with trekking information and as short-notice jeep-tour fixers. If you're making advance group bookings, reliable, well-established upper-market options include Yama (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-257833, 9419178763, 9406228456; www.yamatreks.com; Fort Rd), Wild East (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-257939; www.wildeastadventure.com; Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd) and Gesar (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-251684; Hemis Complex 16, Upper Tukcha Rd).

Hidden North Adventures

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-258844, 9419218055; www.hiddennorth.com; LBA Shopping Complex, Zangsti Rd DB2; 🕒 mid-Mar–mid-Oct)

Tashi has two decades of guiding experience and offers loads of interesting alternative trekking ideas to get you away from the typical hiking routes. Some routes start from his own guesthouse in Phyang.

Ladakhi Women's Travel Company

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9469158137, 01982-257973; www.ladakhiwomenstravel.com; unit 22, Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd; 🕒 10am-6pm)

This small, highly reputable female-run operation specialises in Markha and Sham homestay trek packages. In winter it offers snow leopard-seeking trips based in Rumbak. Trips are full packages for female or mixed groups, ie male customers are only accepted if their group also includes women.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Western J&K has numerous Hindu pilgrimages. In Ladakh and Zaskar, Buddhist temple festivals abound; www.reachladakh.com has a detailed festival calendar.

Dosmoche (Feb-early Mar; Leh, Diskit, Likir) Buddhist New Year. Masked dances; effigies representing the evil spirits of the old year are burnt or cast into the desert.

Matho Nagrang (Feb-Mar; Matho) Monastery oracles perform blindfolded acrobatics and ritual mutilations.

Amarnathji Yatra (Jul-mid-Aug; Amarnath) Hindu pilgrims' mountain trek to Armanath.

Ladakh Festival (GOOGLE MAP ; Leh; 🕒Sep) (20-24 Sep; Leh) Events include a carnivalesque opening parade, Buddhist dances, polo, music and archery.

Losar (Dec; Ladakh, Zaskar) Tibetan New Year is celebrated two months earlier in Ladakh.

Chandi Mata Yatra (GOOGLE MAP) (Aug) Tens of thousands make the scenic two-day hike (or seven-minute helicopter ride) to Machail.

Sleeping

The choice is phenomenal and few options are dire, so don't panic if our suggestions are full. Booking ahead through online agencies is usually a bad idea as you'll likely pay double and room standards can vary significantly within each property. When possible it's worth looking at a few before checking in.

In winter the majority of accommodation closes down.

Try the back alleys of Upper Changspa for ultra-budget places, Upper Karzoo for garden homestay-guesthouses around the ₹800 mark, and Upper Tukcha for slightly plusher family guesthouses costing around ₹1200 with en suite. Many areas have a rash of new hotels, mostly much alike and catering predominantly to Indian tourist groups. These cost around ₹3500 to ₹5000 but in many cases, other than the spontaneous provision of towels and toilet paper, rooms aren't much better than a good guesthouse, and several are down dusty Fort Rd or inconveniently out in Skara, some 3km from the centre.

Sankar and Yurthung areas are often idyllically peaceful but are a fairly long, dark walk home from town. Taxis cost ₹150 to ₹200 by day, but disappear later at night.

Central Leh

Saiman Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Upper Tukcha Rd; r ₹700-1200, without bathroom ₹600-700; )

This outwardly unremarkable family home is a great choice thanks to spacious, sparkling-clean rooms, parasol tables on the flower-edged lawn and a small guest lounge where travellers sit to chat and use the wi-fi over thermos flasks of cardamom tea. English-speaking hostess Shahida is a mine of local information.

Namgyal Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  01982-253307, 9906973364; r ₹700, without bathroom ₹400-500)

Backing onto the mysterious Maney Tsermo Buddhist monument, this delightful budget guesthouse is run by ever-laughing Dolkar. She lives in the new annexe, where three en suite rooms have sit-down toilets and geyser showers. In the traditional Ladakhi main house, upstairs rooms are worth the ₹100 extra for higher ceilings and more light. All rooms share three toilets, one of which is sit-down but seatless.

Travellers' House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  01982-252048; thetravellershouse@gmail.com; Karzoo Lane; d ₹900-1200;  May-early Oct; )

Eight well-kept, no-nonsense guest rooms with geyser-equipped bathrooms and well-chosen art photography face the home of the inspiringly international-minded family owners and their pet poodle. Ladakhi breakfast with homemade khambir (bread) is available (from ₹150).

Saser

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9596967447, 01982-250162; Karzoo Lane; d ₹600-800;  Apr-Oct)

This attractive, low-key guesthouse has rooms with log beams and framed photos. The better, upper ones share a balcony from which there are lovely views towards Tsemo Fort across the sweet little flower-edged lawn. There's a small library of English books on an ornate Tibetan cabinet in the cosy breakfast room.

Palace View Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-257773, Wasim 9906991786; palace.view@hotmail.com; d ₹500-1000; 📶)

Just north of the polo ground, this fine-value family place keeps its promises with stupendous views across the Old Town and palace from rooftop sitting areas and some of the neat en suite rooms. Showers run very hot.

Kang-Lha-Chen

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-252144, 01982-202289; www.hotelkanglhachen.com; Zangsti; s/d ₹2950/4150; 🕒 May–mid-Oct; 🅇 📶)

Central, yet set around a peaceful garden-courtyard with seating beneath apricot trees, this long-standing favourite has old-fashioned but well-maintained rooms with excellent box-spring mattresses, Tibetan-style bedside tables and wicker-weave ceilings. The restaurant feels somewhat temple-like, and an oft-missed highlight is the delightful sitting room designed like an antique Ladakhi kitchen.

Almighty Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9419179501, 9419345817; www.almightyladakh.com; Shagaran Leh; ₹1000-3000; 🕒 mid-Apr–Oct; 🅇 📶)

This luxurious family guesthouse has six capacious rooms with standards better than most hotels. It's slightly hemmed in by bigger buildings but from the rooftop you can glimpse Stok Kangri, the palace and Shanti Stupa. There's patio seating in the small yard. It's near Pangong Hotel.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for Kashmir and Ladakh:

$ less than ₹1500

$$ ₹1500–₹5000

$$$ more than ₹5000

Beware that at virtually any accommodation you'll pay far more by booking ahead than if you just show up. Outside of the May and June peak season, there's almost always some space available.

Greater Leh

★ Destination Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9419179922; phuntsog.angmo@yahoo.com; Upper Karzoo Lane; d ₹800-1000; 🕒 Jun–mid-Oct; 📶)

Excellent-value modern home with elements of chinoiserie, traditional ceilings and superb views from a communal semicircular balcony off the guest lounge, which has free tea and info leaflets.

All View

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9419178854, 01982-252761; Chubi; d ₹500)

Remarkable value en suite rooms are arranged off communal balconies that wrap around a peaceful lawn shaded by apple trees. The guesthouse is hidden away at the end of a quiet, dead-end footpath. Many of the guests who manage to find it seem to stay all season.

Tsetan Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9469049131, 9622249125; <http://tsetanguesthouse.com>; Upper Changspa; d ₹1000-1200, s/d without bathroom ₹300/600; 🕒 May-Oct)

The young, eponymous owner, Tsetan, has a polite but unquenchable enthusiasm that transforms this simple, back-lane guesthouse into a community brimming with traveller camaraderie. Three new, en suite rooms are particularly impressive. Organic garden dinners can be ordered and there are occasional opportunities to join the family making momos (Tibetan dumplings).

Zaltak Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gawaling Rd; d ₹1200, r without bathroom ₹400-600, dm ₹250;  )

The old block is an upgraded standard Ladakhi house with some of the cleanest budget rooms in Leh. The new back building has excellent-value en suite rooms with sitting areas, large beds and hotel-standard bathrooms.

Chow Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  01982-252399; d ₹600-800, without bathroom ₹400-500; )

This excellent-value family-run guesthouse has sparkling-clean, airy budget rooms with log ceilings. It's set behind a flower-filled, walled garden accessed by vehicle off Upper Tukcha Rd or on foot via a narrow path from Changspa Rd.

Gangs-Shun

HOMESTAY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9419218657, 9858060706, 01982-252603; www.gangsshunhomestay.com; Upper Tukcha Rd; d/tr ₹1200/1500; )

With box-spring mattresses and towels provided in the mostly spacious rooms, the experience here is more comfortable than certain mid-market hotels, but the English-speaking doctor-host is keen that you have a genuinely interactive experience – hence the lack of TVs.

Kurja Garden House

GUESTHOUSE, HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  01982-251134, 9419177344; kurjagarden@gmail.com; Upper Karzoo Lane; guesthouse d ₹800-1200, without bathroom ₹500, hotel s/d ₹2300/2700;  mid-May–Oct;  )

Six mostly large, superclean guest rooms sit above a friendly family home. The rooftop offers memorable views and occasional t'ai chi lessons. Across the chrysanthemum-edged vegetable garden is an eight-room hotel section with smart new facilities (but without the guesthouse's views). Excellent value.

Haldupa Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-251374; Upper Tukcha Rd; r upstairs/downstairs ₹1200/1000, without bathroom ₹400-800; 📶) 🌿

A handful of cheaper rooms are inside the enchanting owners' wonderfully authentic original house that is dominated by a splendid shrine room. The rest are modern with decent bathrooms, hot showers and poplar-willow ceilings in a separate block overlooking the peaceful vegetable garden.

Goba Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-253670; gobaguesthouse@gmail.com; Goba Lane; r ₹1000, s/c without bathroom from ₹300/500; 🅅 🚫 📶) 🌿

There's a great spirit to the traditional main house, open year-round and topped with a prayer room and lovely rooftop panoramas. A more neutral hotel-style block (open April to September) has 15 spacious en suite rooms. The garden is a veritable field from which homegrown organic vegetables form the mainstay of family-cooked dinners (book by 4pm).

★ Deskit Villa

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9622988836, 9419178998, 01982-253498; www.deskit-villa.com; Sankar; guesthouse s/d ₹1750/2000, hotel ₹3400/3700; ❄️ 📶)

Hidden behind a family garden guesthouse that's delightful in itself, a 'secret' eight-room boutique hotel offers some of the best pampering in Leh, with supercomfortable beds, a stupendous rooftop panorama and lots of public space in which to unwind. The dining room is designed like a traditional Ladakhi kitchen.

★ Chonjor Residency

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-253165, 9906977774; chonjorresidencyleh@gmail.com; Old Rd. s/d ₹2500/3100; 📶)

Tucked discreetly onto Old Rd, this stylish 2016 hotel has elegant pine furnishings, heavy fabrics, personalised toiletries, coffee-makers in each room and excellent beds – all a notch more impressive than most hotels at this price. A lift takes you to the astroturf roof garden, which has views of Tsemo Fort.

Lotus Hotel

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-257265; www.lotushotel.in; Upper Karzoo Lane; s/d ₹4000/4100; 🕒 Mar-Nov; 📶)

Apart from the parasol tables out the front you might think you'd arrived at a colourful Tibetan monastery as you enter this photogenic two-storey feast of Ladakhi detail.

Rooms continue the theme, with ornately carved bedheads and chokse (low, colourfully painted tables). Mattresses are comfy, but some bathrooms are cramped, with water from the new, large shower heads flowing onto a small curtained area of floorspace. A great delight is sipping tea amid the rose bushes and apple trees in the paved garden that has fine views of Tsemo Fort hill.

Very limited parking,

Kunzang

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9419657123; www.hotelkunzangleh.com; Western Changspa; s/d ₹2750/3500; 🅇 📶)

The Kunzang's 12 rooms have an understated boutique quality, with fresh, pale decor, large shower heads, excellent beds, fine linens and piled cushions with stylised tree motifs. Balconies look across the veggie garden, which supplies the restaurant's organic kitchen, towards the co-owned, basic Kunzang Guesthouse in one of Changspa's more archetypal old farmhouses.

Lha-Ri-Mo

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-252101, 9419178233; www.lharimo.com; Fort Rd; s/d

₹2670/3690; 🕒 May–mid-Oct; 📍 📶)

Magenta window frames set in whitewashed walls create a magical monastery-like impression, and enclose a willow-shaded lawn-garden. The restaurant and neo-Tibetan lounge are also impressive. Guest rooms aren't quite as delightful but they're neatly appointed with brass-effect lamps and the odd wrought-iron mirror.

★ Gomang Boutique Hotel

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-253536; www.gomanghotelleh.com; Upper Changspa; s/d/ste ₹10,000/10,500/13,000; 🕒 mid-Mar–mid-Nov; 📍 📶) 🍃

Leh abounds with new hotels, but the award-winning Gomang stands out for the loving care of its management, the gliding service and the attention to detail. Boutique features include Gomang-branded toiletries, tab-folded toilet-paper rolls and fine bed sashes, but what really impresses are the swish yet homely public spaces with heaped colourful cushions on black leather sofas.

★ Ladakh Residency

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-254111, 9419178039; www.ladakhresidency.com; Changspa Rd; s/d/ste ₹5120/6590/8785; 🕒 mid-Apr–mid-Oct; 📍 📶)

Decorated with thangka (Tibetan cloth painting) and Nicholas Roerich prints, this layered collage of wooden balconies and marble floors has proper king-size beds, bathrooms with branded toiletries and Stok Kangri views from many rooms. Furniture is classily unfussy; kettles are provided; and there's a working elevator. Management has a perfect blend of personal care and professional attentiveness.

Eating

From June to September, traveller cafes abound, and European, Israeli and Chinese options supplement curries, banana pancakes, tandoori pizzas and Tibetan favourites. Competition keeps standards generally high, especially in the garden and rooftop restaurants of Changspa. Food options around Main Bazaar tend to get mixed reviews.

Most places close by 11pm in tourist season. From October to May it's wise to assume that almost none will open at all.

Central Leh

Ladakhi Food

LADAKHI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Unit 34, Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd; mains ₹70-100, tea ₹10; 🕒 6am-10.30pm)

If you don't mind sitting at unvarnished plank benches in a bare box room, this is one central Leh eatery where you can taste authentic Ladakhi food made predominantly for locals. The lunch plate is a bargain, ideally washed down with salt-butter tea.

Ladakh Café

VEGAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Music School Lane; mains ₹80-160, juices ₹150; 🕒 8.30am-9pm Apr-Nov 📶)

Leh's first vegan cafe is squeezed into a cute little corner, and features bananas hanging on chains and carafes of free, mint-infused drinking water at the tables. The spicy 'power bowl' makes a delicious lunch; traditional Ladakhi skyu (flat barley pasta shapes in vegetable stew) costs only ₹80; and there's a superb range of freshly squeezed juices.

Neha Snacks

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Main Bazaar; snacks ₹15-80, thali ₹200; 🕒 9.30am-9pm)

Attractive if minimalist snack shop that's so popular you'll have to squeeze together with strangers at one of the handful of tables. This is fast food Punjabi style, with particularly good samosa chaat (₹60) – dhal, yoghurt and spicy sauce ladled over a crumbled samosa.

Penguin Garden

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.penguin.co.in; Chulung Lane; mains ₹110-280, half/whole tandoori chicken ₹270/540, rice ₹60, beer ₹150; 🕒 8am-10.30pm; 📶)

Strung with subtle lights and dotted with masks, it's well worth seeking out this slightly hidden garden restaurant where you can sit beneath apricot trees and listen to a gushing stream. If the fresh-cooked tandoori chicken has run out (typical by mid-evening) there is still a world of cuisine to explore.

Chopsticks

ASIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9622378764; Raku Complex, Fort Rd; mains ₹190-385, rice ₹77; 🕒 noon-10.30pm)

Though it also does curries and traditional Ladakhi skyu (flat barley pasta shapes in vegetable stew), this modern pan-Asian restaurant has built its solid reputation on quality wok dishes and Thai curries. Enter via the outdoor terrace, raised above the melee of Fort Rd.

La Piazzetta

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9419046476; Changspa Rd; mains ₹170-350, rice ₹90, pizzas ₹270-380; 🕒 9.30am-11.30pm mid-Apr–late Sep; 📶)

Candles, lanterns, muralled walls and an open fire (on colder nights) create a warm, dimly lit appeal that keeps this garden restaurant buzzing well after most others have closed – it's one of few places you may get food after 11pm. The menu includes Indian, Ladakhi, Kashmiri, tandoori and European dishes, and a brave if rather un-Thai stab at green curry.

Tibetan Kitchen

ASIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9622273505; off Fort Rd; mains ₹140-350 half/whole tandoori chicken ₹250/500)

Local families tend to eat at home, but for a special treat this is one of the few tourist-area restaurants they are likely to come to, thanks to ever-reliable Chinese, tandoori, Indian and especially Tibetan cuisine. The chicken thukpa

(Tibetan noodle soup) is beautifully balanced. Try sabagleb, essentially a crispy circular pie with momo-stuffing inside.

Il Forno

ITALIAN, INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Zangsti Rd; mains ₹170-300, rice ₹100, beer ₹200; 🕒 8.30am-11.30pm; 📶)

Part enclosed, part shaded, part open, Il Forno's rooftop offers remarkable views of the Leh Palace and Tsemo Fort across Main Bazaar. Reliable for years, the menu covers many bases but its speciality remains the thin-crust wood-oven pizza (₹250 to ₹300; noon to 11pm) simply smothered with cheese. There's also a fairly reliable supply of cold beer.

LADAKHI FOOD

Ladakh's Tibetan favourites include momo (dumplings wrapped ravioli-style in thin pasta) and thukpa (noodle soup). A more genuinely Ladakhi dish is skyu, a vegetable stew containing something like a barley version of Italian orecchiette (pasta 'ears'). Harder to find is paba, pea-and-barley meal that is often dunked in tangtur (boiled vegetables in curd). Also used for dunking are tingmo (pronounced tee-mo), steamed, unsweetened buns that are typically made in flower-like form with bready 'petals'. Namthuk is a barley 'soup', like a thin porridge, that sometimes acts as a drink with meals. Ladakh's barley beer, chhang, is available at rural homestays but not for general sale. Namkin chai (nun chai in Kashmiri) is pink, salted milk tea (nimak chai) with added yak's butter. Traditionally the butter is blended into the tea by vigorous use of a plunger in a long cylindrical churning vessel called a gurgur, causing the tea to be commonly nicknamed gurgur chai.

Changspa

★ Food Planet

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9837943385; Changspa Rd; mains ₹100-260, tea/coffee ₹15/45, beer/hookah ₹180/250; 🕒 8am-11pm)

A Russian–Indian couple has created a menu that really covers the globe.

Although some of the more untraditional items were unavailable when we visited (guacamole, Uzbek shurpa soup, stuffed mushrooms), they still had a wide range of novelties including Hawaiian salad, tom yam soup and an utterly divine chicken breast with mango salsa. Plus all the usuals.

Wonderland Restaurant & Coffee Shop

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9622972826; pemawangchen67@gmail.com; Changspa Rd; mains ₹11300; 🕒 6.30am-10.30pm)

Of several long-established rooftop restaurants on Changspa Rd, ever-popular Wonderland has neither the best view nor the snazziest decor but the food is consistently reliable (especially the Indian and Tibetan); the coffee is excellent, and fine value; and the place opens well before most others, making it ideal for breakfast when you want an early start.

KH Restaurant

MULTICUISINE, KOREAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Changspa Rd; mains ₹150-500, rice ₹90, beer ₹180; 🕒 approx 10am-11pm; 📶)

This is the most low-key of Changspa's garden restaurants and the place where we've most often stumbled across folks sitting round the bonfire pit, informally jamming acoustic music and rolling mixed herbs. Food covers all bases but Korean is the speciality.

★ Bon Appetit

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-251533; mains ₹220-440, beer/cocktails from ₹200/250; 🕒 11am-11pm; 📶)

Hidden down unlikely footpaths south of Changspa Rd, Bon Appetit maintains a cuisine that has far more finesse than anything else in Leh, so consider booking. Much on the eclectic menu has an Italian feel, but you'll also find delightfully light veggie tempura, sublime cashew chicken and succulent tandoori grills. Ask about wine and cocktails.

Drinking & Nightlife

Recently remodelled Lehchen (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Music School Rd; cocktails ₹300-330, small/large beers ₹180/250, wine ₹600; 🕒 noon-11pm; 📶) is Leh's first genuinely appealing cocktail bar. Classy Bon Appetit serves beer legally and is applying for a cocktail licence. Many rooftop and Changspa-garden places unofficially serve 'pop juice' (ie beer) on request; good bets include La Piazzetta, Bikers' Café (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Changspa Rd; small beers ₹150; 🕒 8am-2am, kitchen to midnight) and Il Forno. Elements (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Changspa Rd beer/rum from ₹150/180; 🕒 11am-late) is typically open far later than most, though how long it will be allowed to do so remains to be seen. For takeaway booze, there's Indus Wine Shop (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; lbex Rd; beer/wine ₹105/850; 🕒 10am-1pm & 3-9.30pm); it closes on 'dry days' (eighth, 15th and last days of the Tibetan month) as do all legal bars.

Barista coffee has only recently hit Leh but there are already many excellent choices. Top contenders include bookshop-cafe Lehling, old faithful Wonderland Restaurant and the brilliant if easily missed Ja Khang (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar (West); coffee ₹60-90; 🕒 8.30am-9pm; 📶), which has great macchiato and a very special interior.

For a good cheap cup of Ladakhi nimak chai (salt tea), visit Ladakhi Food or join the locals at basic tea stalls (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chandu Market; tea/br: ₹10/10; 🕒 6am-7pm) in dusty Chandu Market.

★ Lala's Art Cafe

CAFE

(Leh Heritage House; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.tibetheritagefund.org; Old Town; coffee from ₹50; 🕒 9.30am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Entered beside a 2000-year-old Buddha stela, this tiny, mudbrick house with a historic ground-floor shrine was saved from demolition and brilliantly restored in 2006. Stone steps lead to a cafe with floor seating and a small art display; a ladder stairway continues to an open roof terrace. Serves French-press coffee (₹50), khambir (Ladakhi bread) sandwiches (₹70), apricot pudding (₹60), local juices, and fruit or mint lassis.

Shopping

Dozens of colourful little shops, street vendors and Tibetan Refugee Markets (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-9pm May-Sep) sell wide selections of thangkas, Ladakhi hats, ‘antiques’ and heavy turquoise jewellery, as well as Kashmiri shawls and various Nepali, Tibetan and Chinese knick-knacks. Compare prices in fascinating, very local-focused Moti Market (MAP GOOGLE MAP), the little family shops of Nowshera Bazaar (New Shar Market; MAP GOOGLE MAP) or the upmarket Tibetan outlet Norbulingka (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.norbulingkashop.org; Rizong Complex; 🕒 9am-7pm Jul-Sep). Suavely mod-trad Jigmat Couture (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-255065, 9697000344; www.jigmat.com; Tsaskan Complex, Main Bazaar (West); 🕒 10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 3.30pm-7.30pm Sun) is Leh's first designer-fashion boutique.

Lehling (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; 🕒 9am-10pm; 📶) and Ladakh Bookshop are particularly well stocked with postcards, novels, spiritual works and books on Ladakh, Kashmir and Tibet.

Old Fort Rd, Main Bazaar and Changspa Rd have several outdoor-equipment stores. Some, including Venture Ladakh (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9858323091; www.ventureladakh.in; Changspa Rd; 🕒 9am-9pm Jun-Sep), rent climbing and trekking gear.

★ Dzomsa

FOOD & DRINKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Zangsti; 🕒 8.30am-9.30pm)

Fill up drinking-water bottles here (₹7 per litre). Dzomsa also offers an environmentally friendly laundry service (₹95 per kg), fresh apricot and buckthorn juices (₹20/80 per glass/litre), and a range of local products and secondhand books.

Ladakh Bookshop

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9868111112; hanishbooks@yahoo.co.in; Main Bazaar; 🕒 9am-9pm)

Hidden upstairs opposite the entrance to Chokhang Vihara, this excellent bookshop publishes locally relevant works and stocks the updated 2013 edition of Olizane's indispensable Ladakh Trekking Maps (₹1500 per sheet).

i Information

INTERNET ACCESS

The best wi-fi in Leh is at the Mantra Travel Lounge – pay by donation.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Oxygen Bar

MEDICAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Tourist Office, Ibex Rd; examination ₹10, oxygen per 30min ₹50; 🕒 10.30am-7pm Mon-Sat, to 4pm Sun)

If you fear that you're suffering from altitude sickness, this comfy room above the tourist office will give you a brief examination and, if they think it's necessary, you can breathe almost-pure oxygen as a makeshift remedy.

Men-Tsee-Khang (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-253566; www.men-tsee-khang.org; consultation ₹100; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Fri, plus 1st & 3rd Sat of month) Charitable foundation with an Amchi (Tibetan herbal medicine) centre and dispensary. Consultations available without appointment. Physio-therapeutic massages available.

MONEY

There are numerous moneychangers on Changspa Rd, Upper Fort Rd and around Main Bazaar. Paul Merchant (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; 🕒 9.30am-8pm) gives reliably fair rates for cash and travellers cheques.

On rare occasions almost all Leh's ATMs have been known to temporarily stop functioning; it's wise to keep a stock of cash available.

TELEPHONE

AirCel (GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; 🕒 10am-6pm) and AirTel (GOOGLE MAP ; off

Main Bazaar; 🕒 10am-5.30pm) sell inexpensive pay-as-you-go SIM cards for use within the Kashmir Valley, Jammu, Kishtwar, Bhadarwah and within 20km of Leh. You'll need four photographs plus photocopies of your passport and visa.

Some internet cafes, including Sky Cyber (GOOGLE MAP); Samkar Complex, Main Bazaar; international calls per min ₹14-24, internet per hr ₹60; 🕒 9am-9.30pm) and Peace Internet (GOOGLE MAP); Music School Rd; per hr ₹90; 🕒 9.30am-9pm), allow you to make domestic and international landline calls from small booths.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Tourist office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-257788; lbex Rd; 🕒 9am-8pm Mon-Sat, 10am-4pm Sun) Recently revamped and helpful with festival dates and bus timetables. Has a couple of interesting exhibitions. Free city maps are almost useless.

Mantra Travel Lounge (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9419219783; www.facebook.com/mantrathetravelounge; Raku Complex, Fort Rd; 🕒 10am-9.30pm; 📶) A youthful cafe-style alternative, designed as an info and exchange centre; meet fellow travellers or use free wi-fi.

Noticeboards at Mantra, outside Dzomsa, in agencies and pasted over town have adverts for tours, treks and activities. There's an active forum for Ladakh travellers on www.indiamike.com.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Flights are dramatically scenic, but can be cancelled at short notice during bad weather. Jet Airways (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-257444, 01982-251512; Main Bazaar; 🕒 10am-1.30pm & 2-4pm, to 5pm summer), Air India (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-252076; Airport; 🕒 6am-noon) and GoAir (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01982-253940; Airport) fly to Delhi; the latter uses Delhi's old Terminal 1 so is worth avoiding if you plan a quick transfer to/from an international flight.

GoAir flies daily to Jammu and to Srinagar but not back, as part of Mumbai–Leh–Srinagar–Mumbai and Delhi–Leh–Jammu–Delhi loop flights.

Air India flies each way to/from Srinagar (Wednesdays) and Jammu (thrice weekly). For Dharamsala, connect through Jammu.

Almost all flights fly early morning and the airport closes by 10am.

BUS

Main Bus Station

BUS STATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The main bus station is 700m south of the town centre via the Kigu-Tak stepped bazaar from Friendship Gate. The large site is divided into sub-areas for local minibuses, private (LBOC) buses and state services (J&K SRTC).

BUSES FROM LEH

Unless noted, departures are from the main bus station area. Some services depart earlier in winter. Durations very approximate.

DESTINATION	COST (₹)	DURATION	DEPARTURES
Alchi	107	2¼hr	4pm (returns 7.30am)
Chemrey	60	1½hr	use Sakti buses
Chiktan (A)	278	8hr	8am Tue, Thu, Sun (returns Wed, Sat, Mon)
Chilling	100	2½hr	9am Sun (returns 1pm)
Choglamsar (E)	20	25min	as full
Dha (A)	245	7hr	9am. Diverts Fri to Hanu Gongma.
Fokha via Shargol & Mulbekh (A)	384	8hr	7am Sat
Hemis Shukpachan (A)	131	4hr	2pm alternate days (returns 8.30am)
Kargil (C)	400	8-10hr	5am
Keylong (D)	550	14hr	5am
Hanle (B) [no foreigners]	495	11	6.30am Sat
Lamayuru	195	5hr	9am summer. Or use Chiktan, Fokha, Kargil or Srinagar buses.

Likir Gompa	80	2hr	4pm (returns 7.30am)
Manali			seasonal
Manggyu (A)	128	3hr	1pm Wed
Matho	30	50min	4.40pm
Ney (via Basgo)	95	2hr	4pm (returns 7.30am)
Phyang	35	45min	7.30am, 2pm
Sakti	50	1¾hr	8.30am, 1.30pm, 3.30pm, 4.30pm (returns 7.30am, 8am, 9am, 3pm)
Saspol	90	2	3pm (returns 7.30am)
Shey (E)			use shared taxis changing at Choglamsar
Spangmik (Pangong Tso)	270	8hr	6.30am Tue, Thu, Sat (returns 8am next day)
Spituk (E)			use shared taxis changing at Skalzangling
Srinagar (B)	1060	18-20hr	2pm
Stakna	41	40min	4.30pm (returns 8.45am)
Stok			use shared taxis changing at Choglamsar
Tangtse (B)	118	4hr	6.30am Wed, Sat, Sun
Thiksey	30	40min	8.30am
Tia & Timishgan (A)	143	4hr	1pm (returns 8am)
Turtuk (B)	370	10-11hr	6am Sat (returns Sun)
Zanskar	800		call 9469562036

(A) LBOC Bus (01982-252792); (B) J&K SRTC (01982-252085); (C) Kargil Bus Operators Union; departs from the polo ground (MAP GOOGLE MAP); buy tickets the afternoon before departure from driver; (D) HRTC; (E) Shared taxi from Old Bus Stand.

All other services (except Manali) are local minibuses, mostly working with the Mazda Bus Operators' Cooperative (GOOGLE MAP);  9906995889, 01982-253262; no prebooking.

MOTORCYCLE

Touring Ladakh by motorcycle has become a major fad in the last few years. Leh has countless rental companies, especially along Music School Rd and Changspa Rd, with more than 8000 bikes reckoned to be available, yet in June (peak Indian holiday season) there may still be excess demand. Hiring an Enfield Bullet typically costs ₹1000 to ₹1500 per day; a 'Scooty' (moped) just ₹700.

Double-check fittings and brakes, and check insurance (rarely included or even available). You'll need to show your licence (though a few agencies will quietly rent to unlicensed riders) and leave some sort of ID.

Carry spare fuel for longer trips: Ladakh's only petrol stations are at Leh, Choglamsar, Serthi (near Karu; NH1 Km440.5), Diskit (opening unreliable), Spituk, Padum (unreliable), Phyang junction, Khalsi (NH1 Km338.7), Wakha and Kargil (two).

SHARED JEEP & SHARED TAXI

From the Long-distance Shared-Taxi Park (GOOGLE MAP); Leh-Choglamsar Rd), 400m south of the main petrol pump:

➔ Kargil (per seat ₹900 to ₹1000, seven hours) Throughout the morning, but mainly 8am to 10am.

➔ Manali (front/middle/back seats ₹3000/2500/2000, 19 to 22 hours)

Departures approximately 4pm to 6pm.

➔ Srinagar (front/back seats ₹2500/2000, 15 hours) Departures approximately 4pm to 6pm.

From outside Zaika Restaurant (MAP GOOGLE MAP) at the entrance to the polo ground (no bookings):

➔ Nubra Valley Most jeeps to Diskit (₹400) depart before 8am but we have found cars here as late as 3pm. Remember that foreigners need a permit. Possibly also jeeps for Sumur or other Nubra destinations.

From the Old Bus Stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Old Bus Stand; ₹20) (southern end of Moti Market):

➔ Indus Valley Shared taxis depart relatively frequently to Choglamsar (₹20). Change there for Thiksey, Shey, Karu, Matho and Stok.

➔ Spituk Take a shared minivan (₹10) to Skalzangling (GOOGLE MAP); NH1) near the airport and change.

TAXIS & CHARTER JEEPS

Given irregular bus services, chartering a vehicle makes sense for visiting rural Ladakh. Fares are set by the Ladakh Taxi Operator Cooperative (GOOGLE MAP; Ibex Rd; 🕒 10am-1pm & 2-4pm), which publishes an annually updated booklet (₹25), sold at its office. The great news is there's no haggling, though booking via a small local agency can sometimes get a minor discount (and a reliable driver).

We quote the lowest standard rates, ie for taxi-vans or Sumo charter jeeps. Prices are 5% higher for Xylo, Scorpio and Qualis vehicles, 10% higher for Innova and Aria. Rates assume reasonable photo and visit stops; longer waits are officially chargeable (per hour/half-day/full day ₹286/1195/2391). Extra overnight stops add a further ₹350.

Requesting unplanned diversions from the agreed route once underway can cause unexpected difficulties, so plan carefully.

REACHING LADAKH

Only two road routes, both beautiful but seasonal, link Ladakh to the rest of India: the route to Manali is spectacular but long and rather arduous, while crossing the perilous Zoji La (GOOGLE MAP; Srinagar-Kargil Rd; 🕒 often closed for maintenance 11am-3pm Mon-Sat Apr-mid-Nov) to Srinagar scares the momos out of many first-time travellers. Both roads close altogether from October or November until May, leaving flying as the only option for reaching Leh. Allow at least a couple of spare days in case of delays.

Getting Around

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

The airport (Km430, Leh–Spituk Hwy) is 4km south of the centre. Taxi transfers cost ₹230/300 to central Leh/Changspa.

TAXI

Leh's little micro-van taxis charge from ₹100 per hop. Flagging down rides rarely works; to make arrangements go to a taxi stand, most centrally at Zangsti (GOOGLE MAP; Zangsti Parking), Moti Market (MAP GOOGLE MAP; C Bus Stand) or the central taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP; Ibex Rd) near the tourist office.

Around Leh – Southeast

📅01982

The main day trips around Leh are the monastery and palace villages of the Indus Valley. You can combine several of the destinations to make a full-day taxi trip, or visit one or two as part of a longer jeep excursion to Pangong, Tso Moriri or Nubra via Wari La.

The most popular choices are Shey, Thiksey and Hemis, but you can avoid the main tourist rush by picking lesser-known villages like Matho and Sakti. Several other villages are starting points for great hikes, notably to the Markha Valley, where you can walk for days between village homestays.

Around Leh

Stok

POP 1640 / ELEV 3490M

Across the valley from Leh, Stok's main drawcards are its 19th-century royal palace, its collection of older Ladakhi houses and its role as a possible starting point for hikes to Rumbak and the Markha Valley and for climbing Stok Kangri. Stok also makes a quiet alternative to Leh as a Ladakh touring base thanks to its small but excellent choice of accommodation.

Sights

Stok's primary attraction is its three-storey palace (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01982-242003; ₹70; 🕒8am-1pm & 2-6pm May-Sep). A smaller and more intimate version of Leh Palace, it is the summer home of Ladakh's former royal family, but it also doubles as a museum and as one of the region's most exclusive guesthouses.

Bring a torch to visit Stok Abagon (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9906988325; suggested donation ₹50), a ruinous 350-year-old house and kitchen down a short alley from Stok Palace. Or cross town to Gyab-Thago Heritage House (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9622966413, 9797310988, 9419218421; Village Rd; suggested donation ₹100; 🕒10am-5pm May-Sep), a far more complete and better organised historic home: most of the interior furnishings and fittings are carefully maintained by the original owners, who now live at the homestay next door.

The easiest way to travel between the two is on a 5km loop via the Trekking Point, passing modest Stok Gompa (GOOGLE MAP), which sits beneath a gleaming golden Buddha statue that's visible for miles.

There are plenty more old buildings and assorted stupas to discover by wandering.

Sleeping & Eating

Gyab-Thago Homestay

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9419218421; www.ladakhmitra.com; r without bathroom incl half board per person ₹1000; 🕒May-Sep)

Thoroughly traditional but markedly more comfortable than many homestays, Gyab Thago's rooms are airy and clean, sharing a spick-and-span bathroom. Meals in the impressive Ladakhi kitchen-dining room are so authentic that groups come here from Leh specially for the experience, though you won't get quite as full a spread if you pay standard homestay rates.

Stok Palace Heritage Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9650207467; www.stokpalaceheritage.com; Stok Palace; ste ₹16,100-34,000, cottages ₹32,000)

Sleep in a genuine, functioning Ladakhi royal palace; the suites of old rooms have been redecorated (and have impressive bathrooms), but maintain plenty of traditional design features. The very special 'Queen's Room' retains darkly brooding original murals, almost 200 years old. There's also a trio of new, supercomfortable Ladakhi-style cottages in an apricot orchard nearby.

Each cottage sleeps four and has fully equipped kitchen, underfloor heated bathrooms and wood stoves for winter heating. Suite rates include dinner. You will probably get to dine with the royals at least once during your stay.

Woody Vu

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9797643532; www.woodyvu.com; Village Rd; r ₹10,000; 🕒 mid-Feb–Oct)

Woody Vu has five rustic-luxury rooms with superb mattresses and boutique features while maintaining the spirit of an old Ladakhi house. Meals are taken in a traditional kitchen-dining room, and views are magnificent, especially from the four-poster Khardungla Room. Bookings (via Delhi) required. There's wi-fi, but, to encourage social interaction, there are no TVs.

i Getting There & Away

From Leh's old bus stand, shared taxis run to Choglamsar, where you can switch to a Stok-bound minivan (₹30 to ₹50 per seat, ₹300 per vehicle). Vans leave Stok for Leh when full – typically once or twice an hour – from the Trekking Point using Main Rd.

A taxi from Leh costs ₹574/744 one-way/return.

Matho

POP 1240 / ELEV 3485M

Matho's large Sakya Buddhist monastery (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 01982-246085; www.mathomuseumproject.com) is perched above the bucolic village with dreamy views across the Indus Valley's patchwork of emerald-green fields, sandy deserts and mountain horizons. The dynamic gompa has impressive architecture, a new museum under construction and an interesting thangka-restoration workshop.

Matho Nagrang

RELIGIOUS

(GOOGLE MAP); Matho Gompa; 🕒 Feb-Mar)

During this famous festival, Matho monastery oracles perform daring acrobatics while effectively blindfolded, 'seeing' only through the fearsome 'eyes' painted on their chests. They also engage in ritual acts of self-mutilation and make predictions for the coming year.

Shey

POP 2490 / ELEV 3240M

Shey is an attractive, pond-dappled oasis from which rises a central dry rocky ridge dominated by extensive fortress ruins and a former palace containing Ladakh's most celebrated Buddha statue. Around 700 whitewashed stupas dot the village, some dating back to the 11th century. But Shey's biggest tourist draw is none of the above: Indian tourists flock here to see the school that featured in the 2009 Bollywood movie 3 Idiots.

Naropa Royal Palace

PALACE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Along the top of Shey's ridge, a series of fortress ruins bracket the three-storey, 17th-century Naropa Royal Palace, which has enjoyed a wholesale reconstruction in recent years. The palace temple (GOOGLE MAP); Shey Palace; ₹20; 🕒 8am-6pm) contains a 7.5m-tall gilded copper Buddha that dates to 1645. The upper door opens to his inscrutably smiling face.

Druk Padma Karpo School

FILM LOCATION

(Druk White Lotus School; GOOGLE MAP; www.dwls.org; Km457.9, Leh-Karu Hwy; donation appreciated; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-6pm Apr-Aug; P)

Though best known for its cameo role in 3 Idiots, this school of more than 700 students has a fascinating campus of prize-winning modern buildings incorporating the latest in sustainable technological engineering. It was essentially rebuilt following devastation in the August 2010 cloudburst. In season, 'briefing' talks followed by tours of the site depart several times an hour.

Thiksey

POP 2490 / ELEV 3260M

★ Thiksey Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-267011; www.thiksey-monastery.org; admission ₹30, video ₹100; 🕒 6am-1pm & 1.30-6pm, festival Oct/Nov)

Glorious Thiksey Gompa is one of Ladakh's biggest and most recognisable monasteries, photogenically cascading its assorted Tibetan-style buildings down a raised rocky promontory. At its heart, the main dukhang (prayer hall) oozes atmosphere, and a Maitreya temple contains a giant 'future' Buddha whose expression is simultaneously peaceful, smirking and vaguely menacing. Smaller but much more obviously ancient is the gonkhang and the tiny old library up on the rooftop (often closed).

The Thiksey entrance ticket includes entry to a fascinating museum (GOOGLE MAP; Thiksey Gompa; 🕒 hrs vary) – if anyone's there to open it; it's hidden away beneath the monastery restaurant.

Virtually any Ladakhi monastery will start the day with chanted prayers, and respectful visitors are usually welcome to join or watch. Thiksey's impressive prayer hall and the large number of monks who participate make the experience particularly memorable here. However, it has become so popular that tourists often outnumber monks. Prayers take place between 6am and 7.30am most days.

Sleeping & Eating

To be ready for the start of morning prayers, some visitors stay in the monastery's plain guest rooms or the more comfortable Chamba Hotel (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 01982-267385, 9419178381; www.thiksay.org; Km454.2, Leh-Karu Hwy; s/d ₹2760/3640) at the base of the gompa hill. For longer, more meditative stays, try the small, charming guesthouse of the Nyerma Nunnery (The Taras; GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9906985911; www.ladakhnuns.com; r incl half board per person ₹950; 🕒 May-Sep).

★ Café Cloud

MULTICUISINE $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9419983021, 01982-267100; Km453.3, Leh-Karu Hwy; mains ₹250-575;

🕒 9am-8pm mid-May-Sep; 📶)

Tucked away behind adobe walls, this upmarket garden restaurant is essentially the only choice for quality European food east of Leh. A great choice is pan-seared sea bass (₹599), served on mustard-flavoured potatoes with al dente vegetables. The restaurant also does an excellent Indian vegetarian lunch buffet (₹605) and a veg/nonveg meal of the day (₹390/435).

THE ELUSIVE SNOW LEOPARD

Much celebrated but rarely seen, the snow leopard is one of Ladakh's most iconic mammals. There are thought to be less than 300 left, and possibly as few as 100. Hoteliers still talk of an American photographer who spent a whole summer criss-crossing the mountains, hoping in vain to snap a single shot of a leopard – he chose the wrong season. February and March is when the big cats follow their prey (ibex and blue sheep) to lower altitudes, and the snowy terrain at this time makes their tracks easier to discern.

Campaigns to save the animal and its ecosystem have been relatively successful over the last decade, persuading villagers that the leopards can be a boon rather than a threat to their livelihoods. In part this has been achieved by encouraging homestays for leopard-watchers in places such as Rumbak (₹1500; Hemis National Park permit required), Phyang, Uley (9km from Yangthang (GOOGLE MAP)) and the Rong region (between Upshi and Tso Moriri). Such tours are operated by the Ladakhi

Women's Travel Company and Hidden North, among others.

The Snow Leopard Conservancy Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01982-257953; www.snowleopardhimalayas.in; Leopard Lane, Leh; 🕒4pm Fri or by appointment) screens a related documentary on Friday afternoons; avoid dropping in at other times without an appointment as staff have limited time to spare.

Hemis

POP 350 / ELEV 3670M

Unlike most Ladakhi monasteries, the 17th-century Hemis Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; www.drukpa-hemis.org; ₹100; 🕒8am-1pm & 2-6pm), spiritual centre of Ladakh's Drukpa Buddhists, is set discreetly into a cliff-backed valley rather than on top of a crag, but it's arguably Ladakh's most famous Buddhist monastic complex. The central courtyard and main temple buildings have lots of colour, the museum (GOOGLE MAP ; Hemis Gompa; free with monastery admission; 🕒8am-1pm & 2-6pm mid-Apr–mid-Oct) is fascinating, and there's plenty more to explore amid the atmospheric upper shrines.

To escape the tourist hordes, stroll beyond the new school construction along a lovely stream-side path, then take the concrete stairway that leads up to the Gotsang Hermitage (GOOGLE MAP ; Hemis; 🕒dawn-dusk), with two attractive main temple buildings and also containing the cave where Tantric master Gyalwang Gotsang (1189–1258) meditated. Also known as Golsangapa, he was the enlightened Tibetan lama who charted the pilgrim path around Mt Kailash and to whom Ladakh's Drukpa Buddhists cast back their lineage. Allow nearly an hour for the trip up, half that back.

Near the main monastery, the compact and timeless Hemis village is also worth a stroll, with narrow alleys running between tightly packed homes.

Ever popular, the annual Tse-Chu festival (GOOGLE MAP ; Hemis Gompa; 🕒Jul) sees three days of masked dances that artfully tell the story of Padmasambhava's life.

You can go to Karu by shared taxi from Choglamsar (₹50). From Karu, Hemis is 7km up a winding lane (taxi one-way/return ₹300/500).

Chemrey & Takthog

POP 6920 / ELEV 3660M

Less popular with travellers than Thiksey but every bit as spectacular, Thekchhok Gompa (Chemrey Monastery; GOOGLE MAP; Karu–Pangong road, Km7.3; museum ₹50; 🕒 museum 8.30am-1pm & 2-6pm, festival Nov) sits high on a hillock above waving fields of ripening barley. It's the perfect Ladakhi postcard view. Around 3km further north, at the third of three junctions (Km10.4), a road leads towards the Wari La pass through Sakti, a charming village of gently terraced fields, waterlogged meadows and stone walls. The lane skirts Sakti's shattered stone fortress ruins (GOOGLE MAP; Km1.5, Wari La Rd, Sakti) and several Buddhist monuments, the most famous of which is Takthog (Dakthok) Gompa (GOOGLE MAP; Km4.6, Wari La Rd, Sakti; donation appropriate; 🕒 festival Jul).

The charming homestay Solpon (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9906304067; Km2.3, Wari La Rd; per person with half board ₹800; 📶), 2km from Takthog Gompa, has great views of Sakti Castle, while the area's best hotel is Sakti Villa (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01982-251063; www.saktivilla.com; Km4.3, Wari La Rd; s/d ₹2600/2900), 300m before Takthog Gompa.

Chemrey and Takthog are short diversions off the Karu–Pangong road and are generally visited as add-ons to a two-day Pangong jeep excursion. Alternatively, you can visit both monasteries as a day trip from Leh by taxi (around ₹2500 return).

LEH TO MANALI

Beautiful but exhausting and occasionally spine-jangling, this is a ride you won't forget. The Upshi–Keylong section crosses four passes over 4900m, and then there's the infamously unpredictable Rohtang Pass before Manali. Although the road is 'normally' open from June to late September, unseasonable snow or major landslides can close it for days (or weeks). BCM (www.bcmtouring.com), LAHDC (<http://leh.nic.in>) and High Road (<http://vistet.wordpress.com>) report the road's current status.

Transport Options

Bus & Minibus

The cheapest option is to take the 5am HRTC bus to Keylong (₹540, 14 hours) and change there. Buy tickets from the driver's assistant the evening before; the incoming bus should arrive around 7pm (look for the HP number plate).

Marginally more comfortable HPTDC (MAP, GOOGLE MAP; ☎9418691215, 9906229196; Fort Rd; 🕒10am-1.30pm & 2.30-7pm, Jul-early Sep) buses (₹2700, two days) leave every second day in July and August plus a couple of times in early September. Departures are at 5am from opposite the tourist office (MAP, GOOGLE MAP; lbex Rd). Prebook upstairs in the small office beside Wet'n'Wild. Fares include basic overnight accommodation in dorms at Keylong plus one breakfast and dinner.

Nonstop 11-seater Tempo minibuses leave around 1am (15 to 21 hours). Tickets cost ₹2000 through agencies or ₹1800 direct from Ladakh Maxicab Union (MAP, GOOGLE MAP; ☎01982-253192). Book two days ahead for a decent seat and double-check the departure point, which is often Zangsti Taxi Stand. The route will be far quicker once the Rohtang Tunnel opens, hopefully in 2018.

Jeep

HP-registered jeeps at the Long-distance Shared-Taxi Park ask ₹2000/2500/3000 back/middle/front seat to Manali; they generally depart between 4pm and 6pm. These folks are sometimes in a hurry to leave, so you may be able to rent the whole vehicle for considerably less than the official charge (from ₹19,500 including one overnight stop en route).

Car & Motorcycle

There's no petrol station for 365km between Karu and Tandi (8km south of Keylong). Driving northbound, the Rohtang Pass requires permits, and on Tuesdays after 6am northbound private traffic is not allowed beyond Gulaba towards the pass. Southbound traffic is unaffected.

Which Overnight Stop?

The Leh–Manali trip can take anywhere from 15 to 22 hours. Overnighting in Sarchu breaks the journey into two roughly equal sections, but the altitude (around 4000m) can cause problems (especially if heading northbound, as you're unlikely to be acclimatised). Note that there are essentially two Sarchus: a 500m strip of cheap, ugly metal-shack cafes just north of the Km222 bridge, and a dozen bedded tent-camps mostly dotted between Km214 and Km217.4 on an attractive raised riverside plateau. There's also a series of metal huts at Km205.8.

Stopping at Keylong, Jispa (Km138 to Km139) and Gemur (Km134) is more comfortable, with better accommodation at significantly lower altitudes, but Leh–Keylong is a very long day's ride.

To make Leh–Manali a three-day ride you might stop in Pang (Km298) and then Keylong. Pang has an altitude of 4634m, so the unacclimatised might need to use the army camp's free oxygen if altitude sickness hits. Pang's parachute cafes and mud-walled hostel rooms are very basic.

Lonely parachute cafes are also available at Debring (Km343 and Km340), Whisky Nallah (Km270), Bharatpur (Km197), Zingzingbar (Km174) and Darcha Bridge (Km143). There's generally one midsummer tent at Taglang La, too.

Markha Valley & Rumbak

Ladakh's most celebrated trekking route follows a relatively straightforward and scenically glorious route through timeless villages in the roadless Markha Valley before crossing the Kongmaru La (5260m). A plethora of homestays means you don't need to carry much equipment or even food. Having a guide adds to the experience but isn't entirely necessary if you have a good map and a decent sense of direction.

The standard trek between Chilling and Shang Sumdo generally takes four or five days. Taxis wait at Shang Sumdo to whisk you back to Leh (₹2500 per car or ₹600 per person, whichever is greater).

Yurutse, Rumbak and the entire Markha Valley fall within the Hemis National Park (GOOGLE MAP; per person per day ₹20), for which the modest park fees are usually collected at Chilling, Shang Sumdo or Stok trekking point (GOOGLE MAP).

It's worth carrying a spare pair of backed sandals for river crossings, which can be a little over ankle deep. Currently there are just two such points (either side of Markha) but these might be bridged by the time you read this.

Starting from the dangling-basket river crossing 4km south of Chilling (GOOGLE MAP ; Nimmu-Nerak Rd Km 28), reasonably fit hikers should budget on four days to reach Shang Sumdo. This involves walking roughly seven-hour days and sleeping at Sara or Nakdeng, Hankar and Nimaling. If you'd prefer to do the trek in shorter sections, take five or six days, stopping instead at Skiu or Kaya, Markha, Umlung or Hankar, and Nimaling plus, perhaps, Chokdo to break up the long descent on the final day.

From Chilling and Kaya as far as Hankar you'll find villages in barleyfield oases every two or three hours' walk; these contrast very photogenically with the stark, dry, spikily upturned strata all around them. Highlights include tiny Tacha Gompa (GOOGLE MAP), lying 25 minutes before Umlung (Umblung), and the shattered fortress ruins (GOOGLE MAP) at Upper Hankar. Both are perched improbably atop razor-sharp ridges.

As the first two days have only gentle inclines, the Markha Trek helps you acclimatise as you go. Nevertheless, be sure not to start too soon after arrival in Ladakh.

All homestays currently charge ₹1000 per person including breakfast, dinner and a packed lunch. Nimaling has no village but a camp of pre-erected tents (warm clothes are essential here) charges ₹1200 per head including meals.

If you're well pre-acclimatised, you could add two or three beautiful extra days by starting from Zingchen (₹1650 by taxi from Leh, with a homestay and campsite). From there it's three to four hours' walk to the single lonely homestay at Yurutse; should that be full you might have to backtrack to Rumbak. Start early the next morning; cross the Ganda La (4920m) and descend to tiny Shingo (six to seven hours), where there are three homestays.

Rumbak

VILLAGE

Rumbak's compact old core has an architectural coherence that makes it one of the most appealing of Ladakh's roadless villages. A fine saw-toothed mountain horizon adds to the scene. Barely three hours' walk from Zingchen

(and an easy taxi hop from Leh), Rumbak (along with Yurutse) makes a good one- or two-day hiking escape from the capital, and nine families here offer homestays.

In March, Rumbak is a popular starting point for snow leopard-watching treks. In summer you can hike to Stok, in a strenuous seven to eight hours, via the 4900m Stok La (Namling La) pass: turn left and descend at the second mini-pass. (If there's cloud on the pass, don't attempt this without a guide.) You might also stay in Rumbak before scaling 6121m Stok Kangri, or as you hike the longer variant of the Markha Valley Trail.

Rumbak & Yurutse Day Hike

HIKING

For a satisfying one-day hike, prebook a return taxi to Zingchen (Jingchan) (around ₹3000 for up to six people), starting around 7am, returning 5.30pm. Walk up a lovely river valley for 3½ to four hours to mysterious one-house village Yurutse via a parachute tent (around halfway), which serves Maggi noodle breakfasts. Return via brilliant, old-world Rumbak village (1¼ hours) using a short-cut high trail with great views. Perhaps sample chhang (barley beer) in a traditional home before strolling back to Zingchen.

Though constantly uphill, the route to Yurutse is never seriously steep and has no high passes. The path is easy to follow except just after the parachute tent: essentially stay on the left (true right) bank until the next side valley where you cross the main river on a double tree-trunk 'bridge'. Opposite the next side valley keep right and take the rising path (rather than the riverside) to climb to Yurutse.

On return the side path to Rumbak is very obvious, contouring round the hillside immediately after you cross back across the twin-trunk bridge.

Friendly families at Yurutse and Rumbak will serve tea to visitors, but naturally you are expected to pay.

Nubra Valley

📞01980

The deep-cut Shayok and Nubra River Valleys offer tremendous scenery on a grand scale, with green oasis villages surrounded by thrillingly stark scree slopes, boulder fields and harsh arid mountains. There are sand dunes, monasteries, a ruined palace and – at Turtuk and Bogdang – a whole different culture (Balti) to discover. Permits are required by foreigners.

i Getting There & Away

The majority of visitors explore the Nubra Valley using a chartered jeep from Leh. There are many variants. Leh–Diskit–Hunder return in two days costs from ₹7800 per vehicle. One day is far too rushed to really enjoy the experience. A Leh–Turtuk three-day return costs ₹13,872. To add Sumur/Panamik costs around ₹1500/2500 extra.

Alternatively, as long as you have Nubra permits, it's easy enough to travel by shared jeep to Diskit, where there is a taxi stand to organise local excursions and from which Turtuk is reachable by bus (daily except Sundays). It's possible to visit Hunder on the way back from Turtuk, taking a cheap taxi back to Diskit after you've explored.

While most visitors access Nubra via Khardung La, a narrow road across the remote Wari La has been upgraded and allows an alternative loop returning via Agham and Shakti/Takthog.

Leh to Diskit

The Nubra road zigzags up stark bare-rock mountains for around 1½ hours to Khardung La (GOOGLE MAP ; Leh-Diskit Rd Km39), which at 5602m is claimed (disputably) to be the world's highest motorable pass. Descending again, look for marmot and dzo (a cow and yak cross-breed) around the pretty pond known rather misleadingly as Tsolding Buddha Park (GOOGLE MAP ; Leh-Diskit Rd Km50.5). Army posts check permits and passports at Km24 and Km53. After Khardung village (Km71 to Km72), the scenery takes on a Grand Canyon grandeur. There are splendid Shayok Valley views at Km86, with the green fields of Tsati village far below fading into the grey-white river sands.

Khalsar (Km95) was ravaged in 2015 by floods but there are still a couple of small restaurants; one 2km beyond Khalsar offers free archery and various rafting (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9419300811, 9818983983; rsrkhalsar@gmail.com; Khalsar-Diskit Rd Km3.5; per person ₹800-1800; 🕒 May–mid-Sep) opportunities on the Shayok River. Some 10km after Khalsar, the river plain has a series of modest sand dunes on which you can ride quad bikes (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9419834983; Leh-Diskit Rd Km103.5, Khalsar sand dunes; ₹1200; 🕒 7.30am-7pm May-Sep).

Diskit

POP 1850 / ELEV 3125M

Diskit is centred around a brash bazaar street that leads down from Nubra's only bus/taxi station, perpendicular to the Leh–Turtuk road. From the bottom of the bazaar, swing right past the Spangla Guesthouse to find an altogether softer Diskit along a lane that leads 1.5km to the Old Diskit area of stupas, a big mani wall and a crumbling old Ladakhi mansion. Where the Old Town lane rejoins the main Leh–Hunder road, a 2km spaghetti of hairpins winds up to splendid Diskit Gompa (Ganden Tashi Chosling Gompa; GOOGLE MAP ; ₹30; 🕒 7am-7pm) passing a gigantic (32m) full-colour Chamba (Maitreya Buddha) statue (GOOGLE MAP ; Diskit Gompa rd) on an intermediate hill.

In the bazaar area, Sand Dune Hotel (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01980-220022, 9419568208; r standard/luxury ₹1200/2000, s/d without bathroom ₹400/500) has the prettiest garden of six decent options. For bargain deals, look across town near the base of the Diskit Gompa access lane, notably upstairs rooms at stream-serenaded Kharyok Deluxe Guest House (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9469176131, 01980-220050, 9419538846; kharyokguesthouse@gmail.com; Diskit bypass; r downstairs/upstairs ₹600/800; 🅇 📶) or the newest rooms at old faithful Sunrise Guest House (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9469261853, 01980-220011; sunrise.guest66@gmail.com; Old Diskit; s/d ₹500/600, d/tr without bathroom ₹300/350; 🕒 May-Sep). There are several additional choices in between.

i Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps to Leh (₹400, 4½ hours) depart when full from Diskit bus station between 6.45am and approximately 9am. There are also overloaded afternoon minibuses to virtually every main Nubra village (including Panamik 3pm and Turtuk 2.30pm, except Sundays) returning early morning.

For charter jeeps, ask at the Nubra Taxi Union (GOOGLE MAP); 9469727786, 01980-220339;  7am-6pm). Useful fares include:

- ➔ Diskit Gompa ₹200 return
- ➔ Hunder direct/via camel point ₹300/400
- ➔ Tegar & Sumur ₹2000 return
- ➔ Turtuk ₹3474/4517 one way/return
- ➔ Spangmik (Pangong Tso) via Agham ₹8900.

The latter route is seriously landslide-prone and crosses major fords (at Km20.6, Km25.5 and Km28.3 from Agham) that can be very hard to cross on a summer's afternoon, so leave early in the morning.

Hunder

POP 1240 / ELEV 3085M

Lost in greenery and closely backed by soaring valley cliffs, Hunder village is far and away Nubra's top attraction for Indian visitors, who settle into relatively comfy guesthouses and tent camps, and then spend the late afternoon riding Bactrian camels (GOOGLE MAP ; Hunder sand dunes; per 15min/h ₹200/600;  May-Sep) through a series of photogenic sand dunes. The riding point is nearly 3km from Old Hunder, where a precarious little ridge-top fort ruin (GOOGLE MAP) rises high above the main road near the modest gompa (GOOGLE MAP ;  6am-8am) and a fascinating series of mani walls, stupas and sub-shrines.

Increasingly, foreign backpackers who don't require the relative comfort of Hunder's accommodation options tend to make their way to less-commercial Turtuk or visit Hunder from nearby Diskit, which has better transport connections.

Hidden in pretty, semi-rural settings, accommodation comprises around 20 garden guesthouses, a handful of slightly larger 'hotels', a cottage resort and a dozen 'luxury' camps. Most of the latter seem overpriced, but Kora Valley (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 01980-221339, 9469517223; www.thakora.in; Umbey Rd, Hunder; d tent ₹2000, incl full board ₹3000; 🕒 May-Sep; 📍 📶) offers decent value. You can usually turn up and find something without booking ahead if you're not too fussy, but you might need to search around a bit during peak season.

Most Hunder guesthouses charge in the ₹1000 to ₹1500 range, such as the pleasant Goba Guest House (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419827912, 01980-221083; rkkhadka2805@gmail.com; Hunder; d ₹1000-1200; 🕒 Apr-Sep). There's very little in the sub-₹600 range, but ever-helpful Gulam's Himalayan Guest House (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 01980-221131, Ghulam 9469177470; www.facebook.com/himalayanhunder; Hunder; d/tr from ₹600/800, s/d/tr without bathroom ₹400/450/500; 🕒 Apr-Oct) (note, not Himalayan Eco Resort) remains a reliable backpacker choice, and the small, family-run Galaxy Guest House (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419585450, 01980-221054; Hunder; dm/d/q ₹300/1000/1200, incl half-board ₹500/1500/2000; 🕒 Apr-Nov; 📍 📶) has one four-bed dormitory along with its very clean, fair-value en suite rooms.

Turtuk

POP 3750 / ELEV 2790M

The turbulent Shayok valley between Hunder and Turtuk is 80km of scenic magnificence marred only very occasionally by military installations. The grand raw-rock valley briefly narrows near tiny Changmar, the western limit of Ladakhi-Buddhist culture. Thereafter, the rare green splashes of village are culturally and linguistically Muslim Balti. The main centres of Turtuk and less-visited Bogdang villages are raised patchworks of fields and houses on terrace ledges above the main road. Summer sees locals carting huge bundles of barley straw on their backs between the apricot trees. Upper Turtuk has unforgettable views towards serrated high peaks in Pakistan: the frontline is only 7km away. Indeed Turtuk itself was part of Pakistan until the 1971 war.

Note that while many travellers find Turtuk a Ladakh highlight, some others consider its quiet simplicity doesn't quite justify the long journey.

The village has three distinct sections. The main road passes through the lower part known as Turtuk Chutang. Most guesthouses and homes are in the pretty village area on the raised plateau above, which is divided by a side river into older Turtuk Youl and more open, green Turtuk Farol. The two upper areas are connected by a suspension footbridge.

The main delight is simply watching Turtuk village life and wandering between the beautiful field-hemmed viewpoints. The old houses of Turtuk Youl are being upgraded rapidly but many retain 'coolers' – stone block mini-buildings through which ice-cold streams are funnelled to form natural refrigerators.

The town's Old Mosque (GOOGLE MAP; Turtuk Youl) has a distinctive wooden minaret with spiral staircase, and the modest little Pon Khar (Yabgo Royal House; GOOGLE MAP; ☎01980-248114; Turtuk Youl; by donation; 🕒7pm-9.30pm, hours vary) 'palace' is still home to the raja, who traces the royal family's once-magnificent dynasty in his one-room museum.

For a slightly longer hike you could wander up to the small Buddhist monastery at the Bogdang end of Farol.

Sleeping & Eating

The best views are in Turtuk Farol where the long-term travellers' favourite is Kharmang Guest House (GOOGLE MAP; ☎9596476308, 9469006200, 01980-248104; www.kharmangguesthouse.yolasite.com; Turtuk Farol; d incl half-board summer/winter ₹1800/3000, r without bathroom per person ₹400-700). Khan Guest House (GOOGLE MAP; ☎9469232578, 01980-248130; Turtuk Farol; r per person incl half-board ₹500) is also attractively located, while the rather tatty Kashmiri Homestay (GOOGLE MAP; ☎01980-248117; Turtuk Farol; r per person incl half-board ₹300) has Turtuk's cheapest beds. On the main road, Ashoor Guest House (GOOGLE MAP;

 9419800776, 01980-248153; ashoor.turtuk@yahoo.com; Main Rd, Turtuk Chutang; r ₹700-1200, without bathroom from ₹600;  Apr-Oct;  is great value, and Turtuk Holiday (:  9906993123; www.turtukholiday.com; Main Rd, Turtuk; d tent incl half-board ₹4350;  Apr-Oct; ) , currently a garden tent camp, is building a full hotel.

Balti Farm (:  01980-248103; www.turtukholiday.com; Turtuk Holiday, Main Rd, Turtuk; mains ₹200;  8am-10pm) at Turtuk Holiday does imaginative takes on Balti cuisine, with a choice of garden or indoor seating. Ashoor Restaurant (: Main Rd, Turtuk Chutang; mains ₹80-200, rice ₹90;  7.30am-11pm; ) opens late and serves a surprising range of delicious vegetarian curries. Most other 'restaurants' offer little more than chow mein or Maggi instant noodles. If that suits, or if you just fancy nursing a mint tea while listening to the sound of the river, Friends' Cafe (: Turtuk Farol; mains ₹100, tea ₹20;  7am-9pm May-Sep) is a congenial choice.

Getting There & Away

Bring spare photocopies of your permit.

Shared jeeps (₹200, three hours) and overloaded minibuses (₹100, four hours) leave Turtuk at 6am for Diskit (buses return at 2.30pm, except Sundays) on a mostly well-paved lane. On Saturday mornings a bus departs Leh at 6am for Turtuk (₹370, 10 to 11 hours), returning from Turtuk to Leh at 6am the next morning.

Sumur, Tegar & Panamik

POP 3240 / ELEV 3130M

If you have your own transport, Sumur-Tegar is worth considering as a laid-back Nubra base with a shady orchard environment. Like busier alternative Hunder, Sumur even has its own sand dunes with the opportunity for quick camel-riding (: Khalsar-Panamik Rd Km22; per 15min ₹200;  May-Sep) jaunts. Don't expect much of Panamik (Km44), whose sometimes-touted hot springs are pitifully underwhelming. Much more interesting is Tegar (Tiger) village, where the Zimskang Museum (GOOGLE MAP); by donation ₹50; 🕒 by request, best evening) is an unmarked historic house, found by descending a footpath alongside chortens and a mani wall from the ancient little Manekhang Gompa. High on an unstable hillside above the gompa, the three-storey shell of Zamskhang Palace (GOOGLE MAP); Khalsar-Panamik Rd Km25) sits above the crumbling rubble of Nubra's former royal citadel (Km25). And an appealing if steep back lane loops back to Sumur via the colourfully rebuilt Samstemling Gompa (GOOGLE MAP); by donation; 🕒 6am-noon & 1.30-6pm).

Sleeping

AO Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9469731976, 9469263966; Sumur Link Rd; r ₹500-1000; 🕒 May-Oct)

This friendly place has a pleasant garden courtyard, a shared upper terrace and fine views from the best upstairs rooms. The helpful owner has a vehicle if you need transfers, and the guesthouse's proximity to the main junction (Km99.7) also makes it better than most Sumur options for public transport.

Yarab Tso

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9419977423, 01980-223544; www.hotelyarabtso.com; Main Rd Km24.5, Tegar d ₹1800-2600, incl half-board ₹3100-4300;  )

From the outside this is an impressive traditional-style Ladakhi building set in farm-size grounds. Inside, there's an appealing family-style sitting room, but guest room interiors vary substantially, and some have lurid pink trim. Look at a few before choosing (the upper rooms are best).

Getting There & Away

Buses to Diskit depart between 8am and 8.30am, returning about 3pm. A shared jeep-taxi to Leh leaves at 7.30am most mornings.

LADAKH PERMITS

To visit Nubra Valley, Pangong Tso, Dha Hanu, Tso Moriri and the Upper Indus (beyond Upshi) foreigners require a permit (Indian citizens simply fill in a self-declaration form). Applications must be processed through an approved travel agency, though in 2016 it was possible to start the process online. One minor hitch, for single travellers, is that there must be at least two applicants at the time of application, but agencies can usually fudge this and once you have the permit, travelling alone seems – for now at least – perfectly OK.

Applications must be made before 6pm (or 4pm Sunday) to be valid for next day use, but it's wise to leave a couple of hours' leeway. Before departure, it's a good idea to make several extra copies of your permit.

Permits are valid for up to seven days. On top of the variable agency fee (typically ₹150 to ₹200), the permit cost is composed of three elements: a ₹100 Red Cross contribution; a ₹20 per day 'wildlife fee' (not required for Dha Hanu permits); and a ₹300 ecological tax. The ecological tax is valid for a year, so you won't pay it a second time if you later require another permit, assuming you apply with the same agency.

Foreigners are not generally allowed to visit Hanle village nor to drive the road between Pangong and Tso Moriri via Chushul, Loma and Mahe. For Indian citizens the situation seems to vary year by year; at the time of research, Hanle permits were being given fairly easily by the DCO (Deputy Commissioner's Office; GOOGLE MAP; Polo Ground; 🕒10am-3pm Mon-Sat) in Leh in less than an hour.

Pangong Tso

ELEV 4250M

Stretching around 150km (with the eastern two-thirds in China), this mesmerising lake plays artist with a surreal palette of vivid blues, which contrasts magically with the surrounding colourful mineral swirls of starkly arid, snow-brushed mountains. The scene is also striking for the almost total lack of habitation along shores whose turquoise waters can look Caribbean. Visitor activities don't stretch much beyond ogling the ever-changing lake, but one 'sight' is a sand spit nicknamed 'Shooting Point' (GOOGLE MAP.) since its use as a filmset for the 2009 Bollywood hit 3 Idiots.

A Leh–Pangong jeep safari is a joy in itself, scenically magnificent and constantly varied with serrated peaks, trickling streams, horse meadows, reflective ponds, drifting sands and a 5369m pass. It's a long drive, so plan on sleeping at least one night (ideally in Spangmik or Man, then drive next morning on unpaved lakeside trails to end-of-the-world Merak). Foreigners require permits and may not loop to Tso Moriri via Loma Bend (Indians with Chushul permits may do so).

Sleeping

Spangmik

A victim of its own success, pretty Spangmik now has dozens of summer tent camps (typically ₹3000 to ₹5600, walk-in from ₹1500) marring the once-picturesque, dry-stone-walled meadows. But it doesn't take much effort to escape the crowds, especially if you stay at one of the old-fashioned, basic homestays (typically ₹500 including half-board) at the top of the village. Our favourite is the three-room Gongma (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9469534270; Spangmik; ₹ per person incl half-board ₹500-600).

Right in central Spangmik, overpriced Ser Bhum Tso Resort (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9469718862, 9419176660; serbhumentso@gmail.com; Spangmik; s/d ₹3543/3665, incl half-board ₹4130/4720; 🕒mid-Apr–late Oct) is the nearest approximation to a hotel, with dusty corridors and wind-rattled picture-windows but good beds and en suite facilities. Somewhat more indulgent are the pine-fresh, luxuriously appointed bungalows of Changla Queen (GOOGLE MAP; 📍01981-201122, 99419818253; changlaqueen17580@gmail.com; s/d ₹2800/3000, incl half-board ₹5000/3500; 🕒Mar–late Oct), though they suffer from a slightly isolated, arid location 3km west.

Man

A maze of dry-stone walls and trickling brooks, Man is a quiet and lived-in village. You might be met by helpful, English-speaking Naga Nurbu (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9469587150; Man; r per person incl half-board ₹500) who runs a small parachute cafe and has a homestay room (four mats on a floor). There are several other simple homestay choices, including Yokma (GOOGLE MAP; Man; r per person incl half-board ₹500-700), which has views from a small garden sitting area. At the opposite end of the scale, the eight circular units of Pangong Hermitage (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9419863755; www.wildexp.com; Man; d incl full board ₹10,000-15,000; 🕒 May-Oct) are astoundingly luxurious for such a remote place – but prices are steep.

PANGONG TSO | SUTTIPONG SUTIRATANACHAI/GETTY IMAGES ©

i Getting There & Away

In summer a bus runs from Leh to Spangmik, departing at 6.30am on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays (₹270), returning next morning at 8am.

One-/two-day return jeep tours from Leh cost ₹6811/8108 to Spangmik, or ₹7867/9636 to Man and Merak. The road to Spangmik is paved but the 10km onwards to Man is rough. Reaching Merak is essentially impossible on summer afternoons, when the fords become impassably strong.

It's also possible to combine Nubra and Pangong into a single loop, running Leh–Diskit–Pangong–Leh in three days (from ₹20,476), but before booking, check whether the landslide-prone Agham–Shayok road is open.

Tso Moriri Loop

ELEV 4540M (TSO MORIRI)

One of Ladakh's magical great lakes, Tso Moriri (GOOGLE MAP) shimmers with an ever-changing series of reflections in its vivid blue waters. However, the long drive from Leh, while impressive in places, is neither as varied nor as photogenic as the Pangong route.

In compensation, few tourists come to Tso Moriri, and you'll have a fair chance of encountering nomadic shepherds. The easiest way to visit is on a two- or three-day loop from Leh, overnighting at Korzok.

Trips loop back to Leh via Puga's minor salt-crusted springs and mini-geysers then pass close to Tso Kar (GOOGLE MAP), a large briny lake whose main attraction is for birdwatchers spotting elusive black-necked cranes. Seasonal accommodation is available in nearby Thukye, a tiny shepherd's hamlet.

To visit Tso Moriri and the Indus Valley beyond Upshi, foreigners need at least three copies of the relevant permits, issued in Leh. They're checked at Upshi, Mahe Bridge and Korzok. Indian citizens need three self-declaration forms. Permits are not needed for Tso Kar if you visit from the Manali highway.

Sleeping & Eating

Korzok

The best deals are in basic but acceptable homestays. Cheapest options include Rosefinch (GOOGLE MAP ; Korzok; d without bathroom ₹500-700) and more attractively located Goose (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9469591231; Korzok; tr with/without bathroom ₹1200/700), which has lake views from its two best rooms. Marginally more comfortable with simple en suite booth-bathrooms are Dolphin (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419856244, 9906995628; Korzok; d with/without bathroom ₹1500/1000) and Crane (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9469534654, 9419673332; Korzok; d ₹1500, incl half-board ₹2000), the latter with views and an English-speaking host.

Rooms at Hotel Lake View (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419345362, 9469457025; www.tsomoririhotellakeview.com; Korzok; s/d ₹2992/3850; 🕒May–mid-Oct) are pleasantly appointed once you get to them. However, the public areas are horribly tatty.

Korzok has half-a-dozen tiny eateries, including a one-room 'organic cafe' that offers ₹10 water-bottle refills.

Thukye (Tso Kar)

Overlooking the crane breeding grounds at Thukye, rooms 107 to 112 of motel-like Tsokar Eco Resort (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞Leh 9419643478; tsokarresort@yahoo.com; Thukye; s/d/tr ₹2200/2850/3000, s/d without bathroom ₹1600/1800) are the area's only en suite rooms, though there are bedded tents with attached bathrooms at next door Lotus Camp (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419819078; chotsering100@yahoo.com; Thukye; d incl half-board ₹4650; 🕒Jun–mid-Sep) and at cheaper, simpler two-tent Tsepel Guest House (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419851995; Thukye; tent/room ₹1500/1000; 🕒Jun-Sep).

Getting There & Away

Unless you're prepared to wait for the Korzok public bus (thrice monthly), the only realistic way to reach Tso Moriri is by chartered jeep from Leh, where foreigners will need to apply for a permit. Alternatively, you could continue by hiking to Kibber in Spiti (Himachal Pradesh; one week including a 5500m pass with some glacier walking) or driving to Manali (two nights, three days).

A two-day jeep charter looping Leh–Korzok–Thukye then returning to Leh across Taglang La costs ₹12,890 by Sumo and ₹14,283 by Innova jeep. A three-day, one-way excursion doing the same but then continuing south to Keylong and Manali costs from ₹22,347 and ₹26,223 respectively.

Leh to Kargil

There are many fascinating sights close to the Leh–Srinagar road. You'll need a vehicle to make the most of numerous short diversions, for example to Basgo, Likir and Alchi. The most popular stops en route are Mulbekh (for its castle and ancient carved Buddha statue) and the village of Lamayuru, where there's a memorable monastery and curious 'Moonland' erosion formations. With more time consider canyon-land side trips to Chilling (30km) and/or Wanla-Honupatta.

Hopping by very limited public transport is slow going: other than Leh–Kargil and Leh–Srinagar through buses, the only options west from Khalsi are Leh–Dha buses (daily), Leh–Lamayuru (summer only) and four other weekly services to Chiktan or Fokha. Lamayuru and Khalsi both have a couple of taxis but tracking them down can be difficult. Khalsi also has a daily bus to Wanla.

It makes sense to get a group together in Leh and arrange a shared jeep with side trips, at least as far as Mulbekh or Shargol from where there are buses to Kargil.

Phyang

📍01982 / POP 2160 / ELEV 3580M

Pretty Phyang village is a large, green expanse of layered, tree-hemmed barley fields, 20km from Leh in the next parallel valley west. There's a big gompa (GOOGLE MAP), a fortress ruin (GOOGLE MAP) and an ancient Guru Lakhang (Guru Gonpa; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 Lobsang Chospal 9596834460, Tsering Norboo 9469728179; gurulakhang@gmail.com; Phyang; by donation; 🕒 on request), but it's almost entirely uncommercialised, with neither hotel nor restaurant. You're most likely to come here to unwind at the Hidden North Guest House, but there are also farmstays (📞 01982-226117; www.icestupa.org/farmstays; per day approx ₹750) in several local homes.

★ Hidden North Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 01982-226007, 9419218055; www.hiddennorth.com; Phyang Tsakma; r ₹1000 without bathroom ₹600-800; 🕒 May-Sep or by arrangement; P 📶)

A young Ladakhi–Italian family has created this delightfully relaxing getaway where panoramic views encompass a spiky mountain horizon and Phyang's large, restored gompa, all viewed across a wide green terraced foreground. Meals, guided treks and animal-watching (GOOGLE MAP; Phyang; 🕒 Feb & Mar) trips are available. Free filtered water. Wi-fi after 6pm.

i Getting There & Around

From Leh there are buses to the gompa area at 8am and 2.30pm. For the Hidden North Guest House ask for Phyang Tsakma. There's also a 9am 'teachers' bus'. On Saturdays at 4.30pm a minibus runs all the way from Leh to Murabak, returning Monday morning at 8am.

Without your own transport, getting around the village will involve a considerable amount of walking. Fortunately, Hidden North rents a couple of mountain bikes to make things easier.

Nimmu & Chilling

West of Phyang, shortly past the confluence of the Indus and Zaskar Rivers, you'll reach the pretty village of Nimmu, which has several older farmhouses and some appealing accommodation.

Around 30km up the Zaskar from Nimmu, idyllic Chilling is famed for its coppersmiths, but is used mostly as a starting point for rafting back to Nimmu, or as the trailhead for the Markha Valley Trek, which starts by crossing the river 4km south of town in a dangling basket contraption.

The 90-minute canyon drive from Nimmu to Chilling is worth the effort for the views alone, which stretch over the confluence of the olive-green Indus River and the turbid brown Zaskar. At first glance Chilling seems little more than a teahouse (Km28.6), but hidden above, the village proper is a fascinating place, set on a fertile green plateau, more easily accessed from a low-profile path starting at Km27.9.

Sleeping & Eating

Surprisingly, there's a choice of high-quality accommodation in Nimmu, notably the very characterful Nimmu House. Far more affordable are the good-value roadside properties Nilza Guest House (GOOGLE MAP);  01982-225654, 9622971571; raftanimo@gmail.com; Kargil-Leh Hwy Km387.4, Nimmu; r ₹1200, without bathroom ₹600-800;  Jun-mid-Sep) and similarly decent Takshos Hotel (GOOGLE MAP);  01982-225064, 9419815233; Leh-Srinagar Hwy, Nimmu; r ₹1500-2000;  Jun Sep;  ).

Five families in Chilling offer ₹1000-per-person homestays.

★ Nimmu House

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP);  8826293261; <http://ladakh.nimmu-house.com>; off NH1 at Km387.6, Nimmu; s/d incl full board ₹10,950/12,100;  late Apr-late Sep;

A fabulous three-storey mansion and palace, once belonging to cousins of the Ladakhi royals. It's at once supercomfortable, with memory-foam beds and light-touch luxurious interiors, while maintaining the spirit of the old building, with wobbly old floors, antique pillars and several unrestored elements including the upper-floor shrine rooms where the octogenarian owner still perambulates most evenings to say her prayers.

i Getting There & Away

Chilling is 28km south of Nimmu and is served by a bus from Leh that leaves 9am Sundays (plus Wednesdays in winter), continues to the Markha Valley trekking point, then returns around 1pm the same afternoon.

Basgo & Ney

POP 1680 / ELEV 3650M

Basgo was once a capital of lower Ladakh, and the shattered remnants of its former citadel and palace (GOOGLE MAP); Basgo; per temple ₹30) form a remarkable sight above the NH1 highway. It's worth the 1.6km detour to the top of the stabilised ruins to enjoy unusual views and to visit two enclosed two-storey medieval Maitreya statues, one of bronze, the other of painted clay. Driving another 8km north through the verdant oasis village of Ney brings you to the gleaming golden form of a new giant Buddha statue, claimed to be nearly 26m tall, though that includes the three-storey building that forms his 'stool'.

Sham (Likir, Yangthang, Hemis Shukpachan & Timishgan)

📍01982

The 'Sham baby trek' is popularly used as a three-day acclimatisation warm-up hike. Its big advantages are a lack of high passes, ample homestays and the fact that you can choose to stop at any stage and still have a relatively painless way to get back to Leh. Downsides include lack of shade and the fact that the route parallels, and partly follows, the Likir–Yangthang–Hemis Shukpachan road, which will soon extend to Timishgan. Although typically started from Likir, the longer Likir–Yangthang leg could easily be skipped without great loss. In fact an interesting alternative is to walk Timishgan–Hemis Shukpachan–Yangthang then descend via Rizong Gompa (GOOGLE MAP); 🕒7am-1pm & 1.30-6pm) to the NH1 at Uletokpo.

Likir has the comfortable and inviting Hotel Lhukhil (GOOGLE MAP);

 9419214715; sonam.yasmin@yahoo.com; Likir; s/d ₹1530/2060 incl half-board ₹2190/2700;  mid-May–mid-Sep; , plus a few good-value if very simple budget options in the scenic area up by the photogenic Likir Gompa (; Upper Likir; museum ₹20;  8am-1pm & 2-6pm), which is backed by a giant, gleaming, gold-painted 20th-century Maitreya statue.

The magical little hamlet of Yangthang has four traditional if basic homestays with floor mattresses and meals included. In Hemis Shukpachan are nearly a dozen widely scattered homestays and a small tent resort/guesthouse.

In Timishgan, a former Ladakhi capital that is a particularly worthy destination in its own right, you'll find numerous homestays, several also offering camping facilities in their yards, plus Namra Hotel (;  01982-229033, 9419178324; www.namrahotel.com; Ang Rd, Timishgan; s/d/ste ₹2915/3465/4785, incl half-board ₹4015/4565/5885), an oasis of comfort for arriving trekkers. Five kilometres from central Timishgan, Tia is one of Ladakh's most delightful village ensembles.

Getting There & Away

A daily bus runs from Leh to Timishgan and Tia at 1pm, returning at 8am. On alternate days, there's a Leh–Hemis Shukpachan bus on a similar schedule driving via Likir and Yangthang. There's also a daily Leh–Likir bus. The daily bus from Likir Gompa to Leh leaves around 7.30am. If you want to leave later, walk down to the NH1 (around 1.5km from lower Likir) and pick up the (summer-only) bus from Lamayuru that should pass through some time between 4pm and 5.30pm.

Alchi & Saspol

POP 2380 / ELEV 3100M

The rural village of Alchi has become a regional tourism magnet thanks to the special murals and carvings of the world-famous Choskhor temple complex (; Alchi; foreigner/Indian ₹50/20;  8am-1pm & 2-6pm), founded in the early 11th century by ‘Great Translator’ Lotsava Ringchen Zangpo. The complex comprises four main temple buildings. Each one is small and unobtrusive from outside but their design and millennium-old murals are rare archetypes of Ladakh’s first wave of Indo-Tibetan Buddhist art.

If you want more in the same genre, don't miss the triple chamba (Chamchen Choskorling; GOOGLE MAP; NH1 Km371.5) at nearby Saspol, which also has Zangpo-era cave paintings (Gon Nila-Phuk; GOOGLE MAP) cut into the cliff beneath its ruined fortress. Or escape the crowds altogether by visiting the 10th-century temple complex (GOOGLE MAP; Manggyu) at Manggyu, some 15km from the Alchi Bridge.

In the temple area, Alchi has around a dozen accommodation options, though several offer lacklustre rooms behind misleadingly tempting facades. Walk-in bargains are often available. In a sizeable garden 800m back towards Leh, the friendly, all-en suite Choskor Guest House (GOOGLE MAP;  9419826363; Alchi; s ₹300-500, d ₹500-700;  ) charges homestay prices for decent, if older, guesthouse rooms. Another alternative is to sleep across the river in Saspol which has three homestays; the super-obliging Thongyok (GOOGLE MAP;  9419177523, 9419001904; thongyok.guesthouse@gmail.com; NH1 Km371.3, Saspol; dm ₹300, r with/without bathroom ₹1500/700;  ) is especially recommended.

★ Alchi Kitchen

LADAKHI $

(GOOGLE MAP;  9419438642; alchikitchen@gmail.com; Alchi; mains ₹100-250;  7.30am-10pm May-Sep, closed 11am-2pm Wed & Sat)

If you thought Ladakhi food a little bland, think again. Alchi Kitchen's flavoursome skyu and chhutagi (both barley-pasta shapes in vegetable stew) are laboriously made to order in the open kitchen, where cooking lessons are held on Wednesday and Saturday lunchtimes (half-hour sessions ₹300; call one day ahead). Tangy chutneys, salads, breakfasts and apricot desserts are also served in the striking, mod-trad restaurant.

Getting There & Away

Central Alchi is 4km down a dead-end spur lane that leaves the Leh–Kargil road at Km370, immediately crossing a bridge over the Indus. Direct buses to Leh depart daily at 7.30am from both Alchi (₹100, 2¼ hours) and Saspol (₹90, two hours), returning at 4pm and 3pm respectively. A return taxi from Alchi to Mangyyu would cost around ₹2500 – if you could find one to take you.

Yapola Valley

The lane running south from Km317.8 on the NH1 (8km east of Lamayuru) links several fascinating, unspoilt villages, a superb canyon and some of Ladakh's most impressive mountain landscapes. Wanla alone is worth the brief diversion from the Leh–Kargil road to see its tiny medieval gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; www.achiassociation.org; ₹20; 🕒 dawn-dusk) perched on a knife-edge ridge above town. At minuscule Phanjila, a spur road diverges to appealing Hinju (GOOGLE MAP), where homestays can arrange horses for the trek to Sumdha Do (two days) and Chilling (three days), crossing the 4950m Konze La (strenuous).

South of Phanjila, a newly improved road passes through utterly spectacular Yapola Gorge (GOOGLE MAP) beside traditional, closely clumped Honupatta village, then across the magnificent Sisir La (GOOGLE MAP) and Sengge La (GOOGLE MAP) passes (rougher, summer only), descending in between to Photoksar, a cliff-knoll village at over 4100m. Jeeps can now reach the 4425m Kyupa La pass, from which Lingshet, trekking base for reaching Zaskar, is a half-day walk.

Wanla has four homestays and guesthouses, of which the most tempting is the Rongstak (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9419982366, 9419371005; Phanjila Rd Km6.3, Wanla; per person incl full board ₹1100; 🕒 May-Oct) at the northern edge of town. There's also camping here and at Phanjila, a single homestay at Ursi and many more in Hinju. Honupatta and Photoksar have homestays.

Mid-sized buses run each morning from Wanla to Khalsi, returning at 3.30pm.

TREKKING IN LADAKH & ZANSKAR

Bargain-value, thrillingly scenic treks can take you into magical roadless villages, through craggy gorges and across stark, breathless mountain passes flapping with prayer flags.

Seasons

The main trekking season is from late June to late August, though in the Markha and Sham areas routes can be feasible from May to early October. Late August is usually preferable for trails with significant river crossings due to lower water levels.

Preparation

Most trekking routes start around 3500m, often climbing above 5000m, so proper acclimatisation is essential to avoid Acute Mountain Sickness (AMS). You could acclimatise with 'baby' treks or by adding extra (if less interesting) days to the core treks – for instance starting from Lamayuru or Martselang rather than Hinju/Photoksar or Shang Sumdo – but this often means walking along roads or jeep tracks. Other tips:

- ➔ Consider prebooking a jeep transfer back from your finishing point.
 - ➔ Carry a walking stick and backed sandals for wading rivers.
 - ➔ Use water-filtering bottles for convenience.
-

Horse Treks

At these altitudes, carrying heavy packs is much more exhausting than many walkers anticipate. For wilder routes, engaging packhorses reduces the load and the accompanying horseperson can often double as a guide. Agencies will very happily arrange all-inclusive packages with horses, guides, food and (often old) camping gear. If you're self-sufficient and patient it's often possible to find your own horseperson from around ₹700 per horse or donkey per day. Note that you will almost always need to engage more than one horse as the animals need 'company' and the horseperson might not want to leave others behind. You'll also pay for any extra days needed for them to return to their next starting point. During harvest season (August) availability drops and prices rise.

Homestay Treks

Almost all rural villages along well-trodden trekking routes offer very simple but wonderfully authentic homestays. The cost is typically fixed at ₹1000 per person (less in Zanskar) including simple meals that are often taken in the traditional family kitchen. Mudbrick rooms generally have rugs, blankets and solar-battery electric lamps.

Smaller villages occasionally run out of homestay beds but you can usually find floor space in kitchens or dining rooms. Bigger villages such as Rumbak, Hinju and Skiu/Kaya can generally handle all comers, but they work on a rota system, meaning sometimes one homestay will be full while others remain empty.

You might also find seasonal parachute cafes, so named as they are tents made from old army parachutes. These provide tea and simple snacks, and sometimes offer very basic lodging.

Having an experienced local guide is not only useful for route finding but also for making social interactions more meaningful at homestays. With a couple of days' notice you can engage a guide through Hemis National Park Guide Service (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎9906975427; hemis_npark@yahoo.co.in; 1st fl, unit 11, Hemis Complex, Upper Tukcha Rd; 🕒10am-6pm) or through trekking agencies. Costs average around ₹2000 per day including food.

Which Trek?

Popular options:

DAYS	ROUTE	HOMESTAYS	HIGH PASSES
2	Zingchen-Rumbak-Stok	plenty	4900m
2 (3)	Hinju-Sumdha Chenmo-(Sumdha Chun)-Sumdha Do	limited	4950m
2	Anmu-Phuktal-Anmu	yes	no
3	Zingchen-Yurutse-Skiu-Chilling	yes	4920m
4+	Chilling-Kaya-Markha-Hankar-Nimaling-Shang Sumdo	yes (or tent-camp)	5260m
5 (8)	(Rumtse)-Tso Kar-Korzok	no	4 (7)
5 (8)	(Padum)-Anmu-Phuktal-Ramjak (Darcha)	some days	5090m
4 (9)	(Lamayuru-Photoksar)-Kyupa La-Lingshet-Pidmo-(Padum)	limited	2 (5)

For a relatively easy trek, Zingchen–Rumbak–Yurutse–Zingchen makes a great one- or two-day sampler from Leh.

For a link to Spiti, try the six-night Korzok–Kibber trek, which has just one major pass and a river crossing.

Further Information

- ➔ Lonely Planet's Trekking in the Indian Himalaya
- ➔ Ladakh Zanskar (<http://ladak.free.fr>) by Jean Louis Taillefer. Excellent if you read French.
- ➔ Cicerone's Trekking in Ladakh
- ➔ My Himalayas (www.myhimalayas.com/travelogues/ladakh.htm) Info on trekking routes for Ladakh, dating predominantly from 2006 to 2007 but mostly still relevant.

Lamayuru

 01982 / POP 700 / ELEV 3390M

Slow-paced Lamayuru is one of Ladakh's most memorable villages and an ideal place to break the journey from Kargil to Leh. Set among mountain-backed badlands, picturesque homes huddle around a crumbling central hilltop that's a Swiss cheese of caves and erosion pillars topped by a photogenic gompa.

Yungdrung Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(Lamayuru Monastery; ; NH1 Km310.1; ₹50;  7am-1pm & 1.30-6pm)

Lamayuru's gompa is one of the most photogenic Buddhist monasteries in Ladakh. It caps the village's central hill, whose eroded slopes are huddled with picturesque homes and pitted with caves.

Sleeping & Eating

Lamayuru has around a dozen small, budget guesthouses.

Tharpaling Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(;  9419343917, 01982-224516; NH1 Km310.9; d ₹500)

Ever-smiling matriarch Tsiring Yandol gives this roadside place a jolly family feel, serving dinners in a particularly homely communal dining room. All but two rooms have en suite bathrooms.

Lion's Den

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419880499, 01982-224542; liondenhouse@gmail.com; NH1 Km311.7; d ₹900-1000, r without bathroom ₹600; 📶)

At the very eastern edge of town (towards Leh), Lion's Den has fair-value standard rooms, but its big hit is room 101, which has excellent views of the 'moonland' erosion zone from box windows and an unfenced balcony. Towels and toilet paper provided. Appealing Ladakhi dining room downstairs.

Dragon Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $$

(Tashi Homestay; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 01982-224501, 9469294037; <https://dragonhotellamayuru.wordpress.com>; r ₹2000, s/d without bathroom ₹400/500; 🕒 hotel May-Sep, homestay year-round; 📶)

Accessed through a garden restaurant directly behind the bus stop, the Dragon Hotel's upper rooms (103, 104, 107 and 108) are attractively appointed with new geyser bathrooms. The homestay section is spartan in contrast but clean, and the rooftop has great views.

Hotel Moonland

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419888508, 01982-224576; www.hotelmoonland.in; NH1 Km310.5; s/d ₹1200/1500; 🕒 late Apr-Sep; 📶)

Set in a pretty garden at the first hairpin, 400m beyond the bus stop, Moonland's rooms have droopy curtains and offer little in terms of decor, but all come with tiled hot-shower bathrooms. The agreeable restaurant has postcard-perfect views across barley fields towards the monastery complex. Dinner costs ₹330 and beer is available for ₹200.

Getting There & Away

Most buses stop only briefly in passing, and times can be plus or minus an hour:

- ➔ Chiktan Departs around 1pm Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday.
- ➔ Fokha via Shargol and Mulbekh Departs around lunchtime on Saturday.
- ➔ Kargil Departs between 9am and 10am.
- ➔ Leh Departs daily at 2pm in summer. The Kargil–Leh bus passes through between 8.30am and 9.30am daily but is often full on arrival. Other services stop at around 11am four days a week.
- ➔ Srinagar Early evening. Hopefully.

Mulbekh, Wakha & Shargol

 01985 / POP 4060 / ELEV 3270M

The Wakha–Mulbekh Valley looks like a calm grass-green sea over which a vast tsunami of frothing red mountains is about to crash. It's breathtaking at sunset, especially when viewed from the former castle site.

This is the last predominantly Buddhist area on the route west from Leh, a role Mulbekh flaunts with its famous roadside Buddha Relief and two small but intriguing little monasteries, Rgyal Gompa near Wakha and Shargol Gompa some 10km to the west.

The area's best accommodation is Horizon Camp ();

 9469045459; horizonladakhcamp@gmail.com; NH1 Km245, Wakha; d ₹1500, incl half-board ₹2300;

 May-Sep; ), an unusually fair-value bedded tent camp in a beautiful roadside flower garden, 150m from Wakha's petrol station. Central Mulbekh has several inexpensive, friendly homestay-guesthouses.

Mulbekh Chamba

BUDDHIST MONUMENT

( ; NH1 Km243.3)

Mulbekh's foremost sight is a 1000-year-old Maitreya Buddha relief, carved into an 8m fang of rock. It's right by the roadside, rising through the middle of the minuscule Chamba Gompa and partly shaded by a tree flapping with prayer flags.

Mulbekh Castle Site

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP)

Mulbekh is overlooked by the impregnable site of King Tashi Namgyal's 18th-century castle, high high above. Burnt during an 1835 raid, the castle has only two tower stubs remaining, but the site sports a small gompa, and a new one is under construction. There are symphonic views across the green valley to the highly sculpted rocky mountains behind.

Getting There & Away

Several overloaded Kargil-bound buses (from Chiktan, Shakar etc) pass through between 7am and 8.30am, returning ex Kargil around 3pm. In the afternoon, a J&K SRTC bus leaves Shargol for Kargil at 3pm (returning 7am).

A Kargil–Fokha bus departs Kargil at 2.30pm returning the next morning, and on Saturdays there's a Leh–Fokha bus returning Sunday morning.

Towards Lamayuru the Kargil bus passes through Mulbekh between 6am and 7am, usually making a breakfast stop at Wakha. To reserve a seat, flag down the Leh–Kargil bus the day before and leave a deposit.

KARGIL & ZANSKAR

Ladakh's less visited 'second half' comprises remote, sparsely populated Buddhist Zaskar and the slightly greener Suru Valley. Residents of the Suru Valley, and its regional capital, Kargil, predominantly follow Shia Islam. Scenery reaches some truly majestic mountain climaxes.

Kargil

📍01985 / POP 18,200 / ELEV 2690M

If you're arriving from Srinagar, Ladakh's proudly Muslim second city seems quaint, with its vibrant workshops and old merchant stores cramming the packed, ramshackle central area. Coming from Padum or Leh, however, Kargil can feel grimy, male-dominated and a tad chaotic.

The city is deep within a high-sided river valley. The landscape looks more attractive if you climb to the little Central Asian Museum (Munshi Aziz Bhat Museum; GOOGLE MAP; 📍9419289275, 9469730109; www.kargilmuseum.org; 147 Munshi Enclave; admission/camera ₹50/50; 🕒8am-8pm Apr-Nov, 10am-5pm Dec-Mar), which celebrates Kargil's former glory as a trading post on caravan routes. It's up the stairway that starts around three minutes' walk along Main Bazaar from Roots Cafe, which is Kargil's most traveller-friendly address. The cafe is a sensible first stop to get inspired for treks, excursions, rafting or other activities in the fascinating but little-visited region around the city. Don't miss an excursion to Hundarman.

Kargil's central junction is Lal Chowk where north-south Main Market intersects with Hospital Rd around 300m uphill from Poyen Bridge.

★ Hundarman

VILLAGE

(GOOGLE MAP; www.rootscollectiveindia.org; admission without/with guide ₹100/250; 🕒10am-5pm Sat-Thu or by arrangement)

Set in a sharp mountain gully 11km from Kargil, the tumbledown ghost village of Hundarman is a remarkable sight. Rocky crags tower above, a steeply raked arc of stone-walled terraces sits below and virtually all of the low-ceilinged homes are stacked on top of one another, forming a fascinating core that has been (somewhat) preserved as a unique time capsule.

A guided visit organised through Roots Cafe (₹250 per person plus ₹700 taxi return) is recommended, as it gets you into two museum rooms displaying aged utensils, touching personal mementos of former residents and projectiles that hit the village in the various Indo-Pakistan wars. En route there's the curiosity of passing through the minefield area that once formed the Indo-Pakistan border. And at a lonely tea shack (Km7), binoculars are rented (₹20) for better glimpses of the current Line of Control at the ruined village of Brolma.

While some of Hundarman's former population now live in Pakistan, the upper village 1km beyond is still populated and is a fascinating place to wander as well, though you'll need your passport and a local guide to get past the army checkpoint.

Sleeping

If your budget is really tight, try the ragged but survivable Tourist Bungalow II (GOOGLE MAP; d ₹400), hidden behind Hussaini Park, or gloomy Kacho Guesthouse (GOOGLE MAP; ☎9469562070; Hospital Rd; d ₹500), with its cheery apricot garden. But when occupancy is low, far better hotels often slash their rates, and you can find good deals at around ₹1000.

Several hotels claim to offer wi-fi, but none actually worked in our experience. (Main Bazaar has several internet cafes that are far from reliable.)

New International Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; ☎01985-233044, 9419176568; 73murtaza@gmail.com; Hussaini Park; r ₹1200-1500, walk-in ₹800-1200; 🕒 May-Oct)

Contrasting vividly with most of the other bus station dives, this guesthouse has rooms that are unusually airy and well kept despite the difficulty of cleaning the carpeted floors. Owner Mohammad Murtaza is charming and helpful.

Tourist Facilitation Centre

GUESTHOUSE $

(TFC; GOOGLE MAP; 📍 Manzoor 9469464964; d/ste ₹820/1500; 🕒 Apr-Oct)

Up a theatrical spiral staircase in a still-fresh 2012 building, great-value double rooms are hotel-standard, with fan, geyser and carved wooden bedsteads – many with Suru views. 'VIP' rooms come with ludicrously oversized lounges containing up to a dozen sofas apiece.

The hotel is in Bemathang's riverside park, 1.5km south of the centre towards Baroo. Book through the Tourist Reception Centre.

★ Hotel Jan Palace

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419504904, 01985-234135; www.janpalacekargil.com; Bus Station Approach ₹2300-4000, walk-in ₹1000-1500, mains ₹165-430)

Management changed in 2016, but the Jan Palace's spacious rooms remain among the brightest and most reliably clean in central Kargil. Bedrooms offer little decorative style, but modern bathrooms are spotless and come with towels, toiletries and super-hot solar showers. Interesting rooftop views, too.

★ Zojila Residency

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9419176249, 01985-232281; www.zojilaresidency.com; Bemathang; s/d/ste ₹2420/3260/5860; 🕒 Apr-Oct; 📶)

A professional lobby leads to fresh rooms that have high ceilings, stylish white, olive and purple colour schemes and slightly art deco wooden furniture. Many rooms face the river across a waterside garden with ample (albeit unshaded) seating.

Around 300m beyond Iqbal (Bardo) bridge, it's the best of several choices in the Bemathang neighbourhood, 1km south of central Kargil.

Eating

Charming little Roots Cafe (GOOGLE MAP); ☎9419289275; www.rootscollectiveindia.org; Main Bazaar; 🕒8am-10pm) is popular for snacks. Of numerous Main Bazaar options, our favourite is the PC Palace Restaurant (GOOGLE MAP); PC Palace Hotel, Main Bazaar; mains ₹110-385; 🕒7.30am-10pm). Along the lane descending to Poyen Bridge from Lal Chowk, a series of snack carts appears from early afternoon. At least four bakeries operate in the central area.

i Information

Tourist Reception Centre

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP); ☎01985-232721; 🕒10am-4pm Mon-Sat)

Follow signs from Main Bazaar to this vine-draped governmental building and head upstairs to get a free copy of the very useful Exploring Kargil guide-map. You can also book Suru Valley tourist bungalows here.

i Getting There & Away

Charter and shared jeeps to Leh and Srinagar leave from the Jeep Drivers' Cooperative (GOOGLE MAP); ☎01985-232079; Lal Chowk) just off Main Market.

For Zanskar, shared jeeps depart from the 'old bus station', now called 'Hussaini Park', just east of Khomeini Chowk, a block south of Lal Chowk. A ticket office (GOOGLE MAP); Hussaini Park; 🕒7am-7pm) here sells tickets for private buses to Leh and Srinagar, which leave from outside.

A J&K SRTC bus ticket booth (GOOGLE MAP); ☎9469530271; Hussaini Park; 🕒9am-4pm) is hidden away at the back of Hussaini Park. Private services for Kargil-region destinations mostly use the large local bus station (GOOGLE MAP), around 1km southeast.

➔ Leh Buses (private/J&K SRTC ₹400/550, 10 hours, one to two daily) depart Hussaini Park around 4.30am, passing Mulbekh (two hours) and Lamayuru (five hours). You might still find a shared jeep (₹900 to ₹1000) as late as 7am. Charters cost ₹7100.

→ Mulbekh Minibuses (₹60) leave at 2pm and 3pm from the local bus station, returning next morning.

→ Srinagar Private buses (₹400, 10 hours, one to two daily) depart Hussaini Park at 10pm, driving overnight to reach the hair-raising Zoji La Pass before the one-way system for large vehicles reverses. Shared jeeps (₹900, seven hours) can leave any time. Road conditions permitting, it's worth hiring your own taxi (₹6400) to experience the scenery, which is especially memorable between Drass and Kangan.

→ Suru Valley For Sanku and nearer villages, red-and-white minibuses depart sporadically from the local bus station. For Panikhar (₹80), the 7.30am J&K SRTC bus loads up on Main Bazaar at Lal Chowk. The 11.30am bus for Parkachik and the 12.30pm service to Barsoo (for Khartse Khar) leave from a small area between Hussaini Park and the river. Between noon and 2pm you might find shared Omni micro-vans to Panikhar from Poyen Bridge; chartering to Panikhar/Parkachik costs ₹2100/2800.

→ Zanskar Kargil–Padum buses are sporadic. Shared jeeps (₹1000 to ₹2000, 10 to 12 hours) park in the old bus station and depart at dawn or earlier. Chartering costs ₹13,400, with a ₹2275 supplement if you want to overnight en route at Rangdum or Parkachik. Book through the central Jeep Drivers' Cooperative or via Roots Cafe.

Getting Around

By day, micro-vans (₹10) shuttle down the riverside from Poyen Bridge via the main bus station to Bemathang and Baroo.

Suru Valley

 01985

Potentially as big an attraction as better-known Zanskar, to which it is the main access route, the Suru Valley's semi-alpine Muslim villages are dotted among wide green valleys with fabulous snow-topped mountainscapes rising above. These are most apparent between Purtikchay and Damsna and again from Parkachik. If you're driving, consider a 5km detour east of busy little Sanku towards Barsoo/Bartoo to see the Khartse Khar Buddha ( GOOGLE MAP; Barsoo Rd, Khartse Khar) carving.

The valley has little tourist infrastructure, but English-speaking guide Gulam Ali is a helpful contact should you want trekking ideas. He runs the homestay-style Hotel Khayoul, hidden away near the tourist bungalow in the upper west area of Panikhar; call ahead as he also works in Kargil.

Sleeping

Good budget options include the unpretentious but decently maintained J&K Tourist Bungalows at several Suru locations. The best are at Purtikchay, Tangole and Parkachik, but there are also bungalows at Sanku, Panikhar and Rangdum; book at the Tourist Reception Centre in Kargil. There are four guesthouse/homestays between Sanku and Panikhar, of which the most interesting is the Hotel Khayoul (GOOGLE MAP; 📞9469192810, 9419864611; khayoulhotel@gmail.com; Panikhar; r ₹500-600).

Getting There & Away

Private buses run fairly regularly between Kargil and Sanku. J&K SRTC buses to Kargil leave Panikhar around 8am and noon (₹80), and Parkachik (₹112) around 7am.

Share taxis (₹100) are occasionally available on the Panikhar–Kargil route. For Zaskar, onward transport is generally limited to highly uncertain hitching. Panikhar's Hotel Khayoul can organise vehicles with advance notice.

Zaskar

📍01983

Majestically rugged, the greatest attraction of this mountain-hemmed Ladakhi Buddhist valley is simply getting there, preferably on a trek. As in Ladakh, the main sights are timeless monasteries, notably at Karsha, Stongdey, Sani and Phuktal, the latter only accessible on foot. The area's tiny capital, Padum, is not much more than a village with a few shops. It is not a major attraction in itself but is a key transit point if you want to drive in or out on what remains, for now, the only access route (via Kargil). While days can be scorching hot, come prepared for cold nights, even in summer.

Rangdum

POP 280 / ELEV 3980M

Wind-scoured little Rangdum is typically where shared jeeps take a meal break on the 11-hour Kargil–Padum ride. But if the weather is fine and time is short, it's worth forgoing or rushing your snack and using the time to photograph the village (GOOGLE MAP) (away from the uglier restaurant area). Rangdum Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; ₹50) is 5km away, while scenic Shakmak Kharpo (GOOGLE MAP) is worth a trip for a pretty picture.

With its relatively fresh look and open-air terrace, La Himalaya 3800 (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9419177627, 9469735834; Rangdum; r without/with bathroom ₹1000/1500, mains ₹40-120; 🕒 May-Aug) attracts much of the passing lunch trade, and its guest rooms are Rangdum's neatest. Hidden behind, the outwardly grungy Alpine Hut actually does a very good, cheap aloo mattar (potato and pea curry).

TREKKING TO ZANSKAR

The Ladakh–Zanskar trek is most often undertaken as an agency-arranged group expedition with packhorses and full camping gear, starting at Photoksar village and being met at the other end by a vehicle at Pidmo Bridge.

If you prefer to organise your trek independently, the jeep road now extends as far as the Kyupa La pass, which is around ₹9000 by chartered taxi from Leh. If you can find Lingshet-bound locals you'll pay around ₹2000 per seat (jeeps run a few times a week, departing Leh around 2am to arrive at road's end by mid-morning).

Horses or donkeys and local guides are usually available in Lingshet at short notice. With a few days' notice, Tundup (9469731079) at Lala's Art Cafe in Leh can make arrangements so your horseperson is waiting for you at Kyupa La.

The main route can be done without camping in midsummer, but homestays and tea tents are very limited, so carrying a tent and sleeping bag for emergencies is advised in case there is no space.

Day 1 Drive to Kyupa La (depart Leh by 2am or Lamayuru before dawn). Walk five hours to the sprawling, very diffuse village of Lingshet whose large, welcoming gumpa is at the settlement's upper north edge. Lingshet has plenty of widely dotted homestay options (mostly on partly disconnected sub-ridges) but none is signed so you'll need to ask around. If you have enough energy, it's possible to continue three hours further to a campsite at Lanang. A single building here has two small, ultra-basic rooms where you can overnight (₹300), assuming the caretaker turns up. If he doesn't appear, there's also a doorless shelter where you could shiver the night away should your tent fail.

Day 2 Hike 10 hours from Lingshet or seven from Lanang, including three hard, steep hours up the Hanuma La (4720m). Sleep at Shnertse, which has camping and a hard-based tea tent. Or continue around two hours further, descending to the bridge where there's camping and a single hut (often used by groups as a kitchen). More reliable for a homestay bed is Jingchen, a lonely farmhouse 40 minutes' walk up the side valley.

Days 3 and 4 Hike seven hours including over the steep Parfila La to Hanamur (Hanumil) village (one homestay, two camps). Most people sleep here but less attractive Pidmo (with a very basic homestay) is just two hours further. A prebooked car can collect you at Pidmo Bridge. Otherwise walk on a further two hours to Zangla.

Winter: The Chadar Trek

In winter, snow cuts off Zanskar's tenuous road links altogether. But in February it is possible to walk in from Chilling following an ancient seasonal trade trail that essentially follows the frozen Zanskar River – often on the ice, crossing side streams on precarious snow bridges and camping in caves en route. This hazardous 'Chadar Trek' was once seen as an 'ultimate adventure', but, while it remains hazardous (don't attempt it without serious equipment and experienced guides), increased popularity with Indian domestic tourists means that of late the trek can feel oddly overcrowded. Also, climate change has made the ice less stable than in previous decades, adding to the risk of falling through into the frozen waters. If you attempt the trek, allow around six days each way, and when selecting a support company don't seek out the cheapest (which often have too few guides and porters per client).

Padum

📍01983 / POP 1710 / ELEV 3570M

Zanskar's dusty little capital village is a useful hub with an impressive mountain backdrop, though it lacks much architectural character. Within a block of the central crossroads you'll find the bus/share taxi stand, shops, an unreliable phone/internet cafe, the majority of Padum's dozen hotel-guesthouses and restaurants plus the helipad (GOOGLE MAP). Older, more atmospheric areas are at Pibiting (GOOGLE MAP), Padum Khar (GOOGLE MAP; Old Padum) and across the valley at Karsha. Central Padum is primarily useful as a place to organise or relax after a long trek. Cafe-agency ZAP is a very useful spot for meeting fellow walkers or arranging excursions.

Unlike most of Zanskar, central Padum has mains electricity for much of the day, and better hotels have generators as backup.

Activities

Multiday trekking remains a popular way to reach the Yapola Valley (north) or Ramjak (south) for connections to Lamayuru or Keylong, respectively. Tents and provisions are needed for some sections, and guides/horses can sometimes be organised on the spot. Ask at your guesthouse, at one of several agencies, or at ZAP, which is unusually active in helping travellers meet companions.

★ ZAP

ADVENTURE SPORTS

(Zanskar Adventure Point; GOOGLE MAP; www.zapladaakh.com; Main Bazaar; 🕒 8.30am-10pm)

ZAP is the go-to centre in Padum for information about Zanskar travel, trekking help and shared transport (sign-up lists for Pidmo, Ichar etc) – and the satellite wi-fi (₹4 per minute) even works occasionally. It's the best place in Padum to rent quality mountain bikes (motorbikes should follow), and with advance notice they can organise kayaking and rafting trips.

Sleeping & Eating

Most hotels close from late October to June, except when prebooked for winter trekking groups.

Mont-Blanc Guest House

HOMESTAY $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9469239376, 9419177627; tenzinpalkit@yahoo.co.in; s/d ₹700/1000, without bathroom ₹500/800)

Slightly removed from the main market, 200m before the mosque, this friendly four-room guesthouse has some of Padum's most attractively appointed rooms. There are fine views, especially from the rooftop and front-facing windows. A small trekking agency is attached.

Hotel Ibex

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9419803731, 01983-245214; ibexpadumzanskar@gmail.com; Main Market; s ₹600-1000, d ₹1000-1300, mains ₹80-240)

At the centre of Padum, this perennial backpacker favourite has aging but fair-priced rooms with solar-heated showers set around a garden courtyard. Brutal tree-cutting and new corrugate rooftops have diminished the place's charm, but it remains something of an oasis from the nearby market street.

Zambala Hotel

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9469658121, 9469629336; Zambala Rd; r ₹800-1000, prebooked ₹3800)

Two minutes' walk from the bazaar, the Zambala has 13 pleasant rooms wrapped around a small grassy central space. There's no real reception; ask for assistance at the guest-only dining room upstairs.

Chumathang Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(GOOGLE MAP ; Main Market; mains ₹70-160;  9am-10.30pm)

With Chinese lamps and sturdy furniture, this pleasant upstairs eatery offers a fairly wide-ranging menu that's cooked with reasonable skill and can be served with good naan (tandoor-cooked flat bread) and ₹200 beers.

i Information

The J&K Bank has an ATM (open 10am to 5pm), but in case that isn't functioning, you'd be wise to bring an ample wad of rupees with you to Zanskar. In an emergency, ZAP will change small sums of Euro or US dollars (up to around $100) at understandably mediocre rates.

i Getting There & Away

Transport options to Padum remain limited, all going via Kargil and available in summer only.

A few times monthly, a KT Dorje (9419513392) bus bound for Leh (₹800) departs around 3.30am, stopping the night at Kargil (₹550).

Jeeps run to Kargil (per person/vehicle ₹1500/13,400, around 12 hours). Bargaining might be possible with returning Kargil drivers. To Leh, front/back seats in shared jeeps cost ₹3000/2500 (nearly 24 hours). Contact the drivers the evening before – their vehicles are generally parked along Zambala Rd with destination signs in windows.

Other one-way/return jeep rates from Padum:

- ➔ Anmu ₹3000/3500
- ➔ Ichar ₹2000/2700
- ➔ Karsha ₹1200/1500
- ➔ Pidmo Bridge ₹2500/3000
- ➔ Rangdum ₹7000/9000
- ➔ Stongdey Gompa ₹1000/1500
- ➔ Zangla ₹2000/2700

To find a shared ride to such destinations, particularly to the trekking trailheads, ask at ZAP.

The only petrol station in Zanskar is at Km3.3 of the Padum–Karsha road.

In summer it usually has supplies but can't be fully relied upon.

Karsha

POP 1080 / ELEV 3663M

Across the valley from Padum, Karsha is Zanskar's most striking village, full of photogenic old-fashioned homes, barley fields and threshing circles worked by dzo (yak-cow half breeds). Rising directly above is a near-vertical red rock mountainside, sliced in half by a deep chasm. Whitewashed monastic buildings cascading down one side form Zanskar's biggest Buddhist monastery complex, with an upper prayer hall (GOOGLE MAP); Karsha Gompa; ₹100) that contains the mummified body of its 14th-century founder. Climbing the other side of the chasm is a Buddhist nunnery, an ancient citadel site and a remarkable yet little-visited Alchi-style temple (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 by request) featuring a splendid 11th-century carved figure.

There are three campsites and several homestay-guesthouses in Karsha. The latter are simple family places in appealing traditional buildings. Grand Leopard (📍 9469290976; schosgyalpali@yahoo.com; per person incl full board ₹800) is particularly great for food and for its very knowledgeable, hospitable owners; Theiur (📍 9469407411, 9469846715; r ₹600, meals ₹150) is unusual for its large garden and for having an indoor toilet.

Zangla

POP 1070 / ELEV 3500M

Forming an arc of traditional homes around a wide circle of terraced barley fields, Zangla is the last major road-linked Zanskar village east of Padum. On a bare crag at its southwestern corner is the small hilltop fortress palace (GOOGLE MAP), and at the far end of the village, there's a small, friendly Buddhist nunnery (GOOGLE MAP) from which an alternative trail leads north to Km33 on the road to Pidmo Bridge (5km beyond).

Zangla makes a fine if bumpy half-day jeep excursion from Padum. En route, admire scenes of geological strata and make the winding trip 2.6km up to Stongdey Gompa (GOOGLE MAP); Padum-Zangla Rd, Km13.3) for morning views of the superbly jagged mountain horizon.

There are several homestays in the upper village near the junction for the palace lane. The well-kept Pami Homestay is easy to spot with its distinctive lavender-pink window frames.

South of Padum

The road south from Padum passes Bardan Gompa (GOOGLE MAP); Padum-Raru Rd, Km10.4; ₹50), spectacularly set on a rocky outcrop high above the river. Some 7km further, Muney Gompa is less dramatic despite its own riverside crag setting, but its five-room Shanti Guesthouse (GOOGLE MAP ; www.shanti-house.net; Muney Gompa, Padum-Raru Rd, Km17; r per person per 2-night/1-week incl full board €50/170) is managed with great flair as a place to spend a few days unwinding and soaking up monastic and local culture. Ichar is one of the valley's most intriguing villages, with a looming gompa and, on slightly higher ground, a small reflective pond and a knot of very evocative old-town homes.

Anmu to Phuktal Trek

The 2015 floods made the Ichar–Anmu road impassable to vehicles, but by the time you read this, Anmu should once again be the trailhead for the scenically impressive five-hour hike to Phuktal Gompa (also practicable in eight hours from Ichar).

Trekking from Anmu, follow the obvious, gently undulating trail to Cha (2½ hours). Then head through the centre of that relatively large village and follow the arc of walls around the back of the extensive green area to find the path to Phuktal. That gently climbs a low pass then descends steadily to the river (after passing, but not crossing, a bridge). Just two minutes later a last short climb brings you to Phuktal's monastery guesthouse (GOOGLE MAP);

Phuktal; per person ₹400). Visible impressively ahead, as though tumbling out of a cliff cave, is Phuktal Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; <http://phuktalmonastery.com>; prayers 4:30am, noon & 7pm in summer), a 15-minute stroll away.

If the guesthouse's four rooms are full, the nearest accommodation involves crossing the bridge and walking 1½ hours to the village of Purney. Each of the three farmsteads there offers rooms and camping places, and they run two basic shop-teahouses.

To continue on, directly below lower Purney where two rivers meet, cross another bridge. Turning left here would take you eventually to Darcha in Himachal Pradesh (a trip that requires pre-planning – four days, a guide and gear for the 5090m Shingo La). Or turn right to return to Anmu in around three hours via the pretty flower-filled, one-homestead village of Gyalbok (1¼ hours).

The Anmu–Phuktal route doesn't require a guide if you have a map and hiking experience, but be sure to ask for recent updates on path and bridge conditions.

Zaskar to Darcha Trek

Continuing south from the Phuktal trek at Purney, you can hike on to meet the main Leh–Manali road at Darcha, north of Keylong. Traditionally that took around a week, but it's no longer necessary to walk the last two or three days as there's a twice-daily bus from Chika to Keylong (₹60, two hours). Indeed the road extends far further north – currently to the top of the Shingo La, where you can book a taxi to meet you. By 2018 the road is supposed to reach Kargyak village, which will reduce the trek to a three- or four-day homestay hike, as there are several tiny settlements in the valley between Purney and Kargyak.

THE KASHMIR VALLEY

Rimmed by layers of alpine peaks, the 140km-long Kashmir Valley opens up as a giant, flat upland bowl of lakes and orchards. Tin-roofed villages guard terraced paddy fields delineated by apple groves and pin-straight poplars. Proudly independent-minded Kashmiris mostly follow a Sufi-based Islamic faith, worshipping in distinctive box-shaped mosques with central spires. The region is also known for its Amarnathji Yatra.

History

Geologists and Hindu mystics agree that the Kashmir Valley was once a vast lake. Where they disagree is whether it was drained by a post-ice age earthquake or by Lord Vishnu and friends as a ploy to kill a water demon.

In the 3rd century BC the Hindu kingdom of Kashmir became a major centre of Buddhist learning under Emperor Ashoka. In the 13th and 14th centuries, Islam arrived through the inspiration of peaceable Sufi mystics. Later, some Muslim rulers such as Sultan Sikandar ‘Butshikan’ (r 1389–1413), set about the destruction of Hindu temples and Buddhist monasteries. However, others such as the great Zain-ul-Abidin (r 1423–74) encouraged such religious and cultural tolerance that medieval visitors reported finding it hard to tell Hindus and Muslims apart. Mughal emperors including Akbar (1556–1605), whose troops took Kashmir in 1586, saw Kashmir as their Xanadu and developed a series of extravagant gardens around Srinagar.

When the British arrived in India, Jammu and Kashmir were a loose affiliation of independent kingdoms, nominally controlled by the Sikh rulers of Jammu. In 1846, after the British defeated the Sikhs, they handed Kashmir to Maharaja Gulab Singh in return for a yearly tribute of six shawls, 12 goats and a horse. Singh’s autocratic Hindu-Dogra dynasty ruled until Independence, showing an infamous disregard for the welfare of the Muslim majority.

Partition & Conflict

As Partition approached in 1947, Maharaja Hari Singh favoured Kashmiri independence rather than joining either India or Pakistan, but he failed to make a definitive decision. Finally, to force the issue, Pashtun tribespeople backed by the new government in Pakistan attempted to grab the state by force, setting off the first India–Pakistan war. The invaders were pushed out of the Kashmir Valley, but Pakistan retained control of Baltistan, Muzaffarabad and the valley’s main access routes. Kashmir has remained divided ever since along a tenuous, UN-demarcated border known as the Line of Control. A proposed referendum to let Kashmir’s people decide (for Pakistan or India) never materialised, and Pakistan invaded again in 1965, triggering another protracted conflict.

In the 1970s, a generation of visitors rediscovered Indian Kashmir as an idyllic summer getaway. But armed rebellion became intense during the later 1980s, and Kashmir was placed under direct rule from Delhi in 1990. For several bloody years massacres and bomb attacks were countered by brutal counter-insurgency tactics from the Indian armed forces. Significant human-rights abuses were reported on both sides.

After the brief India–Pakistan ‘Kargil War’ of 1999, a ceasefire and increasing autonomy for Kashmir were matched by a significant reduction in tensions. Coordinating relief after a tragic 2005 earthquake also helped bring the Indian and Pakistani governments a little closer. Militant attacks dwindled, and domestic tourism blossomed anew despite disturbances in 2008 (over an arcane land dispute at Amarnath) and 2010 (after the shooting of juvenile stone-throwers).

But in July 2016, months of unrest were ignited by the army's killing of Burhan Wani, a prominent pro-independence social media activist and 'commander' of Hizbul Mujahideen, considered to be a terrorist organisation. Dozens of people died and thousands were injured, many blinded by pellet guns.

SAFETY IN KASHMIR

Check the security situation before heading to the Kashmir Valley: serious troubles can flare up suddenly in Srinagar and Anantnag. However, even when tensions in the valley run high, don't be deterred from visiting ever-calm Ladakh.

For information before you travel, the Jammu and Kashmir travellers' forum at www.indiamike.com can be useful, and it's always worth keeping an eye on at least one of the local news outlets, such as Greater Kashmir (www.greaterkashmir.com), Daily Excelsior (www.dailyexcelsior.com), Kashmir Monitor (www.kashmirmonitor.in), and Kashmir Times (www.kashmirtimes.com).

Srinagar

☞ 0194 / POP 1,405,000 / ELEV 1583M

Ringed by an arc of green mountains, Srinagar's greatest drawcard is mesmerisingly placid Dal Lake, on which a bright array of stationary houseboats form a colourful scene and a unique opportunity for romantic chill-outs. Famous Mughal gardens are strung out over several kilometres around the lake's less urbanised eastern shore; these contrast with a fascinatingly chaotic old city centre that is topped by a fortress and dotted with historic wooden mosques. Add in a mild summer climate, feisty Kashmiri cuisine and the (highly disputed) tomb of Jesus Christ, and you have one of India's top domestic tourist draws.

Except, that is, when communal tensions paralyse the city. Sadly that happens all too regularly, leaving a chance that you'll be stuck in strikes, pro-independence demonstrations and partial curfews. Although foreign tourists themselves have never been seen as targets, it's always worth checking the latest situation before you visit.

Top Sights

1 Dal Lake	D2
2 Khanqah Shah-i-Hamadan	A2

Sights

3 Badshah Tomb	A2
4 Bund	A5
5 Chetipacha Gurdwara	B1
6 First Row Houseboats	C3
7 Floating Gardens & Lake Villages	D1
8 Floating Vegetable Market	D2
9 Hari Parbat Fort	B1
10 Jama Masjid	A2
11 Kathi Darwaza	B1
12 Makhdoom Sahib Shrine	A1
13 Mirzabagh Veg Boat Dock	B2
14 Mosque of Akhund Mulla Shah	B1
15 Naagar-Nagar Interpretation Centre	B1
16 Naqshband Sahib	A2
17 Shankaracharya Mandir	D4
18 Sri Pratap Singh Museum	A5

Sleeping

19 Chicago Group of Houseboats	C3
20 Chocolate Box	D3
21 Comrade Inn	B5
22 Green Acre	B5
23 Hotel Swiss	D3
24 John Friends Guesthouse	C3
25 Moon of Kashmir	C3
26 Noor Guest House	C4
27 Young Beauty Star	C3

Eating

28 Crescent Lake View Restaurant	C3
29 Mughal Darbar	B5
30 New Krishna Vaishno Bhojnalay	C4
31 Stream	C4

Shopping

32 Wine Shop C3

Transport

33 J&K SRTC Bus Station C4

34 Khona Khon New Rd Shikaras C3

35 Lal Chowk City Minibus Stand A5

36 Makhdoom Sahib Ropeway B1

37 Tourist Taxi Stand 1 C4

38 Tourist Taxi Stand 7 \(Anantnag sumos\) C4

Sights

Dal Lake & Around

★ Dal Lake

LAKE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Over 15km around, Dal Lake is Srinagar's jewel, a vast sheet of water reflecting the carved wooden balconies of the houseboats and the misty peaks of the Pir Panjal mountains. Flotillas of gaily painted shikaras (gondola-like taxi boats) skiff around the lake, transporting goods to market, children to school and travellers to delightful houseboats inspired by originals from the Raj era.

If you get up early, you can paddle out to see the floating flower and vegetable market (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Dal Lake; 🕒 5-6.30am): a colourful spectacle, but one where you can expect plenty of attention from souvenir vendors.

For a visual portrait of Dal Lake life, watch the prize-winning 2012 movie Valley of Saints.

First Row Houseboats

LANDMARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Dal Lake)

For guests, the first-row houseboats can prove noisy and lacking in privacy. However, as an attraction they collectively form Srinagar's signature image.

Floating Gardens & Lake Villages

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Much of Dal Lake is thick with foliage, lotus patches and large areas of cultivated vegetable gardens linked by channels and served by villages of stilted walkways. Before the 2014 floods, a great way to see these areas was by walking along Chowdhary Bagh to a footbridge and causeway leading to the pumping station near Nishat Bagh Mughal Garden. However, the route has yet to be fully repaired so ask before setting out this way.

Mirzabagh Veg Boat Dock

HARBOUR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Much of Srinagar's fresh produce is brought in from 'floating gardens' and landed at this tiny dock, making for photogenic scenes.

Shankaracharya Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

On top of thickly forested Shankaracharya Hill, this small Shiva temple is built from hefty blocks of visibly ancient grey stone. Previously known as Takht-i-Sulaiman (Throne of Solomon), it's now named for a sage who reached enlightenment here in AD 750, but signs date the octagonal structure as 5th century and the site is even older. Some claim, very controversially, that a previous temple here was once renovated by Jesus and St Thomas.

Access is by a winding 5.5km road from a checkpoint near Nehru Park (₹300 return by autorickshaw). Walking up is not recommended as there are bears living in the intermediate forest. The road ends at another police checkpoint, where you must leave phones and cameras before climbing five minutes up a stairway to the temple and its panoramic views of Srinagar and Dal Lake.

Mughal Gardens

Srinagar's famous gardens date to the Mughal era. Most have a fundamentally similar design, with terraced lawns, fountain pools and carefully manicured flowerbeds interspersed with mighty chinar (plane) trees, pavilions and mock fortress facades. The most famous garden is Shalimar Bagh (GOOGLE MAP ; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 10am-7pm), built for Nur Jahan by her husband, Jehangir. However, Nishat Bagh (GOOGLE MAP ; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 9am-dusk) is more immediately impressive, with steeper terracing and a lake-facing panorama.

Pari Mahal (GOOGLE MAP ; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 9am-7.30pm) is set amid palace ruins high above the lakeshore. The ensemble looks most intriguing at night from afar. En route to Pari Mahal are the petite Cheshmashahi Garden (GOOGLE MAP ; Pari Mahal Rd; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 8.30am-7.30pm) and the extensive, less formal Botanical Garden (GOOGLE MAP ; adult/child ₹20/10; 🕒 8.30am-6.30pm), behind which, in March and April, a 12-hectare Tulip Garden (GOOGLE MAP ; adult/child ₹100/50; 🕒 Mar & Apr) blooms colourfully.

Old City

The main points of interest in Old Srinagar are distinctive Kashmiri mosques. When visiting, follow normal Islamic formalities (dress modestly, remove shoes), and ask permission before entering or taking interior photos. Women will usually be expected to cover their hair and use a separate entrance. South of the Old City area, the Bund (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (Jhelum Riverfront) retains a few colonial-era buildings.

★ Khanqah Shah-i-Hamadan

MOSQUE

(Khanqah-e-Muala; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Khawaja Bazaar area; 🕒 4.30am-9pm)

This distinctively spired 1730s Muslim meeting hall is one of Srinagar's most beautiful mosques. It was constructed without any nails, and both frontage and interiors are covered in painted papier-mâché reliefs and elaborately coloured khatamband (faceted wood panelling). Non-Muslim visitors can peek through the door but may not enter.

★ Badshah Tomb

ARCHITECTURE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Old City; 🕒 9am-6pm)

Looking more Bulgarian than Kashmiri, the multi-domed 15th-century brick tomb of King Zeinalabdin's mum was built on the plinth of a much older former Buddhist temple. It's within an ancient graveyard hidden in Gadu Bazaar's maze of copperware, spice and cloth vendors' shops. To view the interior, you will need to find the caretaker; ask at the shops in front of the cemetery.

★ Jama Masjid

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nowhatta; 🕒 8am-9pm)

Looking like the movie set for an imagined Central Asian castle, this mighty 1672 mosque forms a quadrangle around a large garden courtyard with fountain and monumental spired gatehouses marking the four cardinal directions. There's room for thousands of devotees among the 378 roof-support columns, each fashioned from the trunk of a single deodar tree.

Naqshband Sahib

RELIGIOUS SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Khanyar Chowk area; 🕒 6.30am-8.30pm)

This beautifully proportioned if uncoloured 17th-century shrine was built in Himachal Pradesh style, with alternating layers of wood and brick to dissipate the force of earthquakes.

Hari Parbat Hill

Visible from all over Srinagar, this hilltop was once an island in a giant lake.

It's now home to the Sri Sharika Temple (Chakreshwar; GOOGLE MAP); www.hariparbat.org; Hari Parbat) and is crowned by Hari Parbat Fort, which is entered via a lane starting north of Badamvaer gardens. The Naagar-Nagar Interpretation Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Ropeway Gardens; 🕒 10am-4pm Sat-Thu) provides interesting historical context to the area. Beside it, a cable car runs to the hill's southern mid-slopes, near the Akhund Mulla Shah Mosque (MAP GOOGLE MAP) ruins and the Makhdoom Sahib Shrine (MAP GOOGLE MAP). Three step routes lead to the same area: the most easterly starts near Kathi Darwaza (MAP GOOGLE MAP), a historical gateway close to Chetipacha Gurdwara (Chattipatshahi Gurudwara; MAP GOOGLE MAP).

Hari Parbat Fort

FORTRESS

(Koh-e-Maran Fort; MAP GOOGLE MAP; permission note for foreigner/Indian ₹100/50; 🕒 10am-3pm Sat-Thu)

On the strategically and spiritually significant Hari Parbat, north of the city centre, is this fortress, which dates to the 6th century. The hill was also fortified by Emperor Akbar in 1590, but most of the upper fortress dates from the 1808 constructions of Pathan governor Atta Mohammad Khan. To visit, first apply for a stamped permissory note from the TRC or Naagar-Nagar Interpretation Centre (passport copy required).

Badamvaer

GARDENS

(Badanwari; GOOGLE MAP; Hari Parbat Rd; adult/child ₹10/5; 🕒 8am-8.30pm)

Created in the 16th century, then planted with almond trees in 1876, this orchard garden fell apart during Kashmir's 1990s troubles but has been beautifully restored since 2007. The main attraction, other than the spring blossoms and summer shade of the fruit trees, is the circular Wariskhanshah covered well in the park's centre.

Central Srinagar

Sri Pratap Singh Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0194-2312859; SPS Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹10/50, photography per gallery ₹100/200; 🕒 10am-4pm Tue-Sun)

It's worth visiting this richly endowed historical museum for Mughal papier-mâché work, 4th-century tiles, 8th-century god-statues, stuffed birds, mammoth bones, weaponry and traditional Kashmiri costumes. The collection is being gradually relocated from the touchingly unkempt 1872 Lalmandi Palace of Maharaja Pratap Singh to a purpose-built new museum building behind.

Activities

The alpine lakes, meadows and uplands of Kashmir offer some stunning hiking opportunities, but unlike in Ladakh, it can be hard to find fellow walkers to join a group. Virtually every houseboat owner will have a 'brother' who can take you and there are ever more online sites offering trek packages, but you may be able to get a better deal simply by heading to Aru, Pahalgam, Sonamarg or Naranag and organising things for yourself. If you do that, consider pre-renting camping equipment from the Mountaineering Information Office in the same compound as Srinagar TRC.

Sleeping

Staying on a houseboat is one of Srinagar's main attractions, but choose carefully. Budget hotel options are relatively limited (try Dalgate or Old Gagribal Rd), while there are midrange hotels in profusion. Many, however, are unkempt and rely on noisy, large groups. Ask to see a few rooms before making a decision. Note that when there's no civil unrest, prices can rise very steeply during Indian holiday seasons (typically May, June and October).

John Friends Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0194-2458342; off Foreshore Rd; dm ₹200, d without/with bathroom

₹300/500; )

Reached from Foreshore Rd by a plank-and-stilt walkway, John Friends' signature attraction is its apple-tree garden and direct access to backwater canals (although they're somewhat stagnant and mosquito-nibbled here). The 12 bargain-value rooms have been entirely rebuilt since the 2014 floods, and there's a mat-on-floor dorm. Self-paddled boat hire costs just ₹30 per hour.

Noor Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  9491034268, 0194-2450872; noorguesthouse@ymail.com; off Dalgate d ₹500-1000; )

Largely rebuilt in 2015, this popular if slightly cramped little backpacker favourite has a small yard, two narrow communal balconies with partial lake views, and helpful extras such as a shared kitchen, laundry service and bicycle rental. Wi-fi ₹100 per day.

★ Hotel Swiss

GUESTHOUSE $$

( ;  0194-2500115, Rouf 9906519745; www.swisshotelkashmir.com; 172 0 Gagribal Rd; d ₹850-3000;  )

One of India's friendliest family guesthouses, the Swiss isn't showy but offers high-quality hotel rooms with fresh, varnished pine walls at foreigner walk-in prices that are vastly cheaper than their nominal web-advertised rates. It's handy for the lake yet set back far enough to avoid traffic noise in an area that generally stays safe during periods of unrest.

★ Green Acre

HOTEL $$

( ;  9419213145, 0194-2453859; www.wazirhotels.com; Rajbagh; s/d ₹4500/5500, ste ₹9500-40,000;  )

Set amid the lawns of a glorious rose garden, Green Acre's centrepiece is a 1942 classic-Raj mansion with a perfect reading perch on the 1st-floor common balcony. The property has been entirely refurbished since the 2014 floods, with plenty of period touches retained in the heritage rooms.

Chocolate Box

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0194-2500298, 9796577334; www.chocolateboxsrinagar.com; Boulevard; d ₹5000-6500, walk-in ₹3500-4500)

Well-chosen elements of designer style make this 13-room boutique hotel one of the Boulevard's most appealing options. Rooms 107 and 108 have private lake-facing balconies. Walk-in rates are significantly reduced.

Comrade Inn

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0194-2313440; www.comradeinn.com; Rajbagh; d ₹6000, walk-in ₹4000; 📶 📶)

Well-trained staff lead you through corridors richly decked in modern art to the fully equipped rooms, which have excellent box-spring beds, crisp cotton sheets, rainforest showers, fridge, kettle and stylish lighting.

Lalit Grand Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0194-2501001; www.thelalit.com; Gupkar Rd; r/ste from ₹20,500/24,150; 📶 📶)

This 1910 former Maharaja's palace is set in hectares of manicured lawns with many historical heirlooms dotted about the suave interior. Only suites occupy the original palace building, but rooms in the long new wing are effortlessly stylish; those on the ground floor have walk-out garden balconies.

HOUSEBOATS

Srinagar's signature houseboats first appeared in colonial times when the British were prohibited from owning land. The best 'Deluxe' boats are palatial, with chandeliers, carved walnut panels, ceilings of khatamband (faceted wood panelling) and chintzy sitting rooms redolent of the late Raj era. Category A boats are comfy but less grand. Lower categories (C, D) can be pretty ropey and might lack interior sitting areas.

Be aware that unlike those in Kerala, these boats never move. The Srinagar houseboat experience is more like staying in a romantic, floating mini-guesthouse complete with cook and waiter. Most are moored in sizeable groups, so you have excellent people-watching on the one hand; on the other, don't expect quiet seclusion unless you pick one way out of the central area.

Better houseboats typically have three or four en suite double bedrooms, the back one usually bigger and sometimes better appointed than the rest.

Choosing from 1400 boats is challenging. Some owners are superfriendly families; others are crooks. Ask fellow travellers for recent firsthand recommendations. Outside the busiest seasons (May, June and October) and especially when the political climate drives tourists away, look carefully at a selection and pick one that suits your taste. Many owners will offer a free, no-strings shikara (gondola-like boat) ride to come and check out their boat.

Houseboat Tips

For most visitors, staying on a houseboat is a relaxing Srinagar highlight. But a few have reported feeling cheated, being held virtual hostage or suffering inappropriate advances from houseboat staff. Some tips:

- ➔ Beware of houseboat packages and never book in Delhi.
- ➔ Check out houseboats in person or via trusted websites before agreeing to anything.
- ➔ Get a clear, possibly written, agreement stating what the fees cover (tea? drinking water? shikara transfer? canoe usage? second helpings at dinner?).
- ➔ Check whether the boat really is the category that the owner claims (certificates should be posted) or risk paying Deluxe prices for a B-grade boat.
- ➔ Don't be pressured into giving 'charity' donations or signing up for overpriced treks.
- ➔ Don't leave valuables unattended: boat-borne thieves work rapidly.
- ➔ Don't leave your passport with the houseboat owner.
- ➔ Tell a friend or trusted hotelier where you're staying.
- ➔ Trust your instincts.

Choosing the Area

There are boats dotted along the banks of the Jhelum River, but most options are on Dal and Nagin Lakes. Nagin Lake is generally quieter than Dal Lake, but it's rather far from the city centre. In almost any location, visits from shikara-riding souvenir sellers are common.

Dal Lake options:

Dal First Row Facing the Boulevard, easy to-and-fro by shikara (gondola-like boat;

₹50 per hop), but busy and noisy in season. In many cases these boats are better to look at than to stay in.

Dal Second Row (Golden Dal Lake) Though only slightly further back, boats here are invisible from the Boulevard and better placed for sunset views. There's plenty of colourful bustle, yet it's only ₹80 to reach here by shikara from Ghats 9 or 12. The location has a good balance of movement and peace. Our Deluxe favourite is Young Beauty Star (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419060790; www.dallakehouseboat-raga.com; Dal Lake Second Row; s ₹2000-2250, d ₹3000-3700; 🚶Ghat 9), with a junction location that's ideal for watching life go by. Similarly comfortable but without the same perfect location, Chicago's (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0194-2502558, Ajaz Khar 9419061430; chicagohouseboats.com; Dal Lake Second Row; s/d mid-Apr–mid-Oct ₹2250/3300, mid-Oct–mid-Apr ₹1800/2700) three boats have reliably friendly English-speaking owners and once hosted Indira Gandhi.

Dal Lake Garden-Village Many more boats lie in village-like clusters further back: peaceful except during prayers, but somewhat trickier to 'escape' from should you go stir-crazy. Low-key Moon of Kashmir (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9906686454; www.moonofkashmir.com; Dal Lake Garden Village; d ₹1200-1800, incl half-board ₹2000-3500; 🚶Ghat 7) is very welcoming.

Foreshore Road Easy access, but less romantic than being on the open lake. Boats are often basic but inexpensive (under ₹1000). Security is a minor concern, as thieves can easily slip aboard.

Butts Clermont (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9419056761, 0194-2415325; www.buttsclermonthouseboat.com; Naseem Bagh, Hazratbal; d from ₹6000) Way up above Hazratbal, this lonely gaggle of houseboats is moored beside its own private Mughal garden. It's long been a VIP favourite but they're not quite worth the high price.

Nagin Lake options:

Nagin East Bank Boats are easily accessible by road and have views of Hari Parbat. Houseboat group Majestic & Ritz (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9906874747, 9858004462; <http://majestichouseboat.com>; Nagin Lake, East Bank, south of Nagin Club; s/d from ₹3100/3500) are friendly and reliable, and Butterfly (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0194-2429889, 0194-2420212; Nagin Lake, East Bank; r ₹3000-5000) is funky. Drop-in bargains are possible at several boat groups.

Nagin West Bank Boats have glorious sunset views with wooded mountain scarps reflected in the lake. They are usually approached by shikara from the east bank, but most also have laneway access via a wealthy, visibly religious residential area. Getting into town is a pain, so plan to spend your days relaxing aboard if you pick this area.

New Jacqueline (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0194-2421425, 9419001785; www.newjacquilinehouseboats.com; Nagin Lake West Bank; d ₹3400-8000) is a particularly comfortable choice here.

Prices

Officially, prices are 'set' by the Houseboat Owners Association and range from ₹600/800 for a category-D single/double to ₹3800/4800 for a Deluxe single/double (or ₹900/1300 to ₹5000/6500 including half-board). In reality, however, that's only a vague guide. Some places openly ask more, many ask less, and when occupancy is low, it's often possible to find great bargains.

Eating & Drinking

Srinagar's Muslim mores mean that alcohol isn't served in restaurants, though a few upmarket hotels have bars. For takeaway alcohol there's an entirely unadvertised wine shop (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Boulevard, Heemal Hotel Shopping Complex; 🕒 10am-8pm Sat-Thu, closed during Ramadan) off the Boulevard. For nonalcoholic refreshment, there are a couple of quirky tea shops on The Bund.

New Krishna Vaishno Bhojnalay

DHABA $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Durganag Rd; mains ₹50-100; 🕒 8am-4pm & 7-10.30pm)

Crowds clamour for the tasty, inexpensive vegetarian meals, dosas and South Indian breakfasts at Srinagar's small, 'original' dhaba (casual eatery serving snacks and basic meals). Pre-pay at counter.

Crescent Lake View Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(Ama Tours; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Pedestrian Mall Rd; mains ₹120-250; 🕒 8am-10.30pm; 📶)

With four modernist tables with settees, computers for customer use, money-changing facilities and a tour/trekking agency in-house, this backpacker-oriented business covers many bases. The percolated coffee is good, and food ranges from banana pancakes to wazwan (traditional Kashmiri multicourse meal).

Stream

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Boulevard; mains ₹170-350; 🕒 11am-10pm; 🍷)

Comfortably air-conditioned, this reliable, smart eatery is slightly set back from the Boulevard and serves a particularly good range of pan-Indian options, plus pizza, coffee and ice cream.

Mughal Darbar

KASHMIRI $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0194-2476998; Residency Rd; mains ₹105-340, 1-/4-person wazwan ₹640/2875; 🕒 10.30am-10.30pm; 🍷)

This upstairs restaurant is a great place to try a full spread of Kashmir's mutton-based cuisine, though good Indian veg dishes are also served. A special room with carpet seating and copper serving dishes is available if booking ahead for a full wazwan (traditional Kashmiri multi-course meal). The main dining room features an engrossing 'Where is heaven?' oriental mural.

KASHMIRI FOOD

Kashmir has a distinct cuisine all of its own. A full traditional wazwan (banquet) can have dozens of courses, notably goshtaba (pounded mutton balls in saffron-yoghurt curry), tabak maaz (fried lamb's ribs) and rogan josh (rich, spicy lamb curry). Kashmiri chefs also serve deliciously aromatic cheese-based curries and seasonal nadir (lotus stems), typically served in yakhni (a curd-based sauce made with fennel). Kashmiri kahwa is a luxurious golden tea flavoured with saffron, cinnamon and crushed almonds.

Shopping

The Boulevard's various emporia sell Kashmiri souvenirs including elegantly painted papier-mâché boxes and carved walnut woodwork, plus cashmere and pashmina shawls. Chain-stitched gabbas (Kashmiri rugs with appliqué), crewel embroidery work or floral namdas (felted wool carpets) also make good souvenirs. Saffron, cricket bats and dried fruits are widely sold around Lal Chowk.

Information

TRC

TOURIST INFORMATION

(Tourism Reception Centre; GOOGLE MAP;  0194-2502270, 0194-2456291; www.jktourism.org; TRC Rd;  24hr, permit applications 10am-3pm)

Expect a mixture of help and elliptical musings from this information office, which should soon move into a large neo-traditional building if construction proceeds to plan. Apply here for permits for visiting Hari Parbat fort and for trekking the Naranag–Sonamarg Seven Lakes route. The 'recreation department' rents camping and hiking equipment.

UAE Exchange

EXCHANGE

(GOOGLE MAP ; Boulevard;  9.30am-1.30pm & 2-6pm Mon-Fri, 10am-2pm Sat)

Hidden down the driveway directly east of Hotel Sunshine, this money changer offers good cash rates and exchanges travellers cheques with commission.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Served by several daily flights from Delhi and Jammu and at least one from Mumbai and Leh (inbound, GoAir), Srinagar's airport is 1.2km behind a security barrier where there can be long queues for baggage and body screening. To get through you'll need to show an air ticket or e-ticket confirmation printout. Allow at least two hours' leeway. In times of turmoil it might be necessary to travel to the airport before dawn to avoid curfews – the airport keeps functioning, but road access might be closed all day.

On arrival by air, foreigners must fill a J&K entry form which demands you give the name of your hotel. If you don't know where you'll be staying, write 'TRC' (Tourist Reception Centre).

BUS & JEEP

→ Anantnag Shared Sumo (₹80, 90 minutes) from Tourist Taxi Stand 7 (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dalgate). Change in Anantnag for Pahalgam and Vailoo.

→ Jammu The well-paved Srinagar–Jammu road has many scenic points and snow is cleared year-round, but jams are common and landslides and strikes can cause delays.

Private buses (mostly overnight) start from Panthachowk bus station, 8km south of the centre. Rickety J&K SRTC buses (class B/A/18-seater bus ₹300/420/510, 10 to 13 hours) depart at 6.30am, 7.30am and (some evenings) 7.30pm from the far more convenient J&K SRTC bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎0194-2455107; TRC Rd). Shared jeeps (per person/vehicle ₹700/4950) leave from across the road; finding a ride is easiest from 6.30am to 9am.

→ Kargil Shared jeeps (per person/vehicle ₹900/6400) depart before 9am from Tourist Taxi Stand 1 (MAP GOOGLE MAP; TRC Rd) and from Kaksarai near SMHS hospital in Karan Nagar (western Srinagar), where there are also private buses leaving around 5am (₹400).

→ Kishtwar There's reportedly a daily through bus, but normally the route is done in hops via Anantnag and Vailoo. You'll have to stay overnight in Vailoo (or nearby Kokernag): Kishtwar shared jeeps (per person/vehicle ₹300/3500, six hours) depart from there between 6am and 10am.

→ Leh The J&K SRTC typically departs at 7.30am (₹1060, two days) and makes a night stop en route in Kargil; book one day ahead. In times of turmoil, if the bus runs at all, it departs at 11.30pm to avoid trouble.

From Tourist Taxi Stand 1, most shared jeeps (per person ₹2100, 14 hours) leave before 7am. Book at least a day ahead to score good seats.

→ Delhi J&K SRTC (seat/sleeper ₹1490/1670, around 24 hours, 7.30am).

J&K SRTC also advertises ₹420 return bus excursions to tourist destinations including Sonamarg, Gulmarg, Yusmarg and Pahalgam, all departing between 7.30am and 9am. However, few actually run outside the peak May/June period. Before paying the ticket, ask fellow potential passengers whether they might prefer to share a Sumo from the taxi stand opposite.

Batmaloo bus station, west of centre, has services to Kangan for Sonamarg or Naranag and frequent sumos to Tangmarg for Gulmarg.

Dozens of stands offer jeep rental. Approximate return prices include Pahalgam (₹3000), Sonamarg (₹2700) and Gulmarg (₹2500). Your hotel might offer better deals.

TRAIN

The nearest train station is at Nowgam, around 10km south of the Old City. Trains currently only run Banihal–Qazigund–Anantnag–Nowgam–Baramulla. Theoretically the Jammu–Katra–Nowgam–Baramulla line should be complete by 2018, but that's not considered likely.

Getting Around

Autorickshaws cost ₹50 for short hops, around ₹250 per hour for tours.

Shikaras, colourful gondola-like boats, officially charge ₹500 per hour, or ₹50/80 for hops from the shore to front/mid-row houseboats. In reality some shikara-wallahs (notably from Khona Khon New Rd (MAP GOOGLE MAP)) accept as little as ₹200 per hour, but the less you pay the more likely you'll be to encounter some alternative sales pressure. Pay only ₹20 to nip across to Nehru Park from the nearest jetty (GOOGLE MAP).

Overcrowded minibuses ply the main routes, including Lal Chowk–Hazratbal and Lal Chowk–Shalimar Bagh via Dal Lake's south bank.

If you can handle the manic traffic, you can sightsee by bicycle in the relatively flat Old City and lakefront areas. Rental opportunities are limited, but a few bikes are occasionally available (usually for guests only) from Hotel Swiss and Noor Guest House (₹250 per day).

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

➔ Srinagar International Airport Prepaid taxis from the airport cost ₹610/710/710 to Lal Chowk/Dalgate/Nehru Park. Alternatively, walk

(1.2km) or take the free shuttle bus to the outer security gate and try to find an auto from there. The shuttle claims to run every 20 minutes, but it actually operates irregularly.

In curfew times, getting to the airport can cost as much as ₹1000, and you'll probably have to get there at dawn whatever time your flight is. The terminal building only allows passenger access three hours before a scheduled departure, so you may be stuck waiting outside.

Pahalgam & Aru

📍01936 / POP 10,300 / ELEV 2150M

Surrounded by alpine peaks, the Lidder and Seshnag Rivers tumble down picturesque, deep-cut mountain valleys covered with giant conifers. The surrounding mountains contain many beauty spots and more than 20 lakes, to which countless guides and horsemen are more than keen to take you.

Not quite spoiling this great natural beauty is Pahalgam, sprawling 4km around the river junction. It's a major resort town offering golf and rafting and is a staging point for the midsummer Amarnathji pilgrimage.

Hotels are likely to urge you to try a donkey hike or full-blown trek. In fact the best hiking often starts 12km away in Aru, a tiny village set in magical upland landscapes amid the foothill peaks. Aru (elevation 2440m) is increasingly used as a starting base by backpackers who blow straight through Pahalgam with just a change of vehicle.

Pahalgam's 200-plus hotels range from the vaguely Scandinavian-styled Himalaya House (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01936-243072; www.himalayahouse.in; Laripora Rd Pahalgam; r ₹3750-5625; 📶) and fashion-conscious Pine Spring (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01936-243386; <http://pahalgam.hotelpinespring.com>; Laripora Rd, Pahalgam; s/d/ste ₹6500/7500/11,000) to old-fashioned chocolate-box cottage-style Alpine Inn (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9906756030, 01936-243065; www.alpineinnpahalgam.com; Heevan Link Rd, Pahalgam; s/d ₹2800/4200; 📶) and the aging but peacefully secluded Ramba Palace (Bentes Lodge; GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01936-243296, 9419727379; rambapalace@yahoo.com; Mamal; d ₹500-1000, without bathroom ₹400-600) – basic but with breathtaking views.

Prices can fluctuate by 600%, peaking in May and June. Better options tend to be set close to the river road that runs behind the golf course to the ‘second bridge’ near the Laripura bus stand.

Western visitors who can forgo luxury tend to ignore Pahalgam's resort melee and head straight for Aru. Budget options predominate here, including the welcoming Friends Guesthouse (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01936-210928; www.friendsguesthousepahalgam.com; Aru; d ₹500-1400); Rohella Guesthouse (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01936-211339, 9622761355; www.rohella.brinkster.net; Aru; s/d ₹500/600; 🕒Apr-Oct), a firm favourite with the dreadlock crowd; and Milky Way Hotel (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01936-210899, 9419435832; www.milkywaykashmir.com; Aru; r ₹2500-3200, without bathroom ₹800), which is a slight cut above, with an OK restaurant.

i Getting There & Around

During tourist season, J&K SRTC buses make day return trips from Srinagar (₹420, 2½ hours), departing Srinagar around 7.30am and departing Pahalgam at 4.30pm. However, the service can be cancelled at short notice.

Alternatively, from Srinagar, head first to Anantnag by shared jeep (₹80, one hour) or by (rare) local bus (₹50, 1½ hours), then swap vehicle at the same Sumo stand.

The only vehicles permitted to go to Aru (from ₹600) and Chandawari (from ₹700, 19km) start from the tourist taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍01936-243126; www.taxistandpahalgam.com; Pahalgam), 10 minutes' walk up the main road from the Pahalgam jeep stand & bus station (GOOGLE MAP ; Pahalgam Bazaar). Prices are dependent on your choice from four vehicle classes.

Gulmarg

📍01954 / ELEV BASE/TOP STATION 2600M/3750M

Foreigners who have seen mountaintops and snow before might find Gulmarg's double-shot gondola (GOOGLE MAP ; www.gulmarggondola.com; cable car first stage/both stages ₹700/1600, ski pass per day/week for foreigners ₹1800/9050, for Indians ₹1150/6800; 🕒 9am-3pm, last return around 5pm) overrated due to gruelling queues at the cable car.

But in winter Gulmarg comes into its own as a ski centre, famed for its perfect high-altitude powder. Although a chair lift partially paralleling the gondola's second stage does offer an easy way up, this is really a venue for extreme skiers. The basin enfolding the gondola is patrolled and blasted for avalanche prevention, but the vast majority of other couloirs and forest tracks are unsecured, so it's essential to be snow-savvy and to check conditions carefully. Gulmarg Avalanche Advisory (<http://gulmarg-avalanche-advisory.com>) gives detailed updates throughout the season, which runs December to March, with the best conditions usually from mid-January to late February.

GM Ahanger (📞 9596295371, 9697767268; ahangergm@gmail.com) has been recommended as a ski guide, and several outlets rent decent gear. Swiss FSH (Free Ski Himalaya; 📞 +41-33-5349301; www.freeskihimalaya.com) and Australia-based Bills Trips (📞 +61-409-161978; www.billstrips.com) offer complete ski packages, and Kashmir Heli-Ski (www.kashmirheliski.in) can get you even further off-piste.

Gulmarg is only 1½ hours' drive from Srinagar, but stay overnight to get a head start onto the pistes. Modest but switched-on Raja Hut (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9797297908, 9596245006; rk5536058@gmail.com; d from ₹2500) is run by a genial snowboarder and is favoured by many budget-minded international adventure folk. Other decent choices include the cheery if slightly worn, pine-decor Heevan Retreat (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01954-254455; www.ahadhotelsandresorts.com; r/ste from ₹6700/14,375; 📶), plain family-style Shaw Inn (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01954-254532; s/d ₹7000/7500) or the dauntingly suave palace-hotel Khyber Himalayan.

Khyber Himalayan Resort & Spa

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9596780653; www.khyberhotels.com; Khyber Rd; d ₹13,500-21,500, cottage

₹40,000-150,000;  )

Gulmarg's only true luxury resort is almost intimidating in its grandeur, the public areas feeling like an emir's palace reinvented with a 21st-century twist. Complete with indoor pool, spa and unexpectedly impressive views from the tea shop terrace behind.

Getting There & Away

A day-return jeep hire from Srinagar costs ₹2200 per vehicle (around two hours each way). Alternatively, from Srinagar's Batmaloo bus station, take a shared jeep to Tangmarg (₹80), then change for the last 13km of hairpins to Gulmarg (₹40).

In summer a barrier is closed beside the jeep stand (GOOGLE MAP), forcing you to walk the last 15 minutes to the gondola.

Naranag & Lake Gangabal

 01942 / POP 450 / ELEV NARANAG/GANGABAL 2280M/3575M

Home to seminomadic Gujar people and a pair of remarkable 8th-century Shiva temple ruins (GOOGLE MAP; Naranag), little Naranag sits in a deep-cut river valley thick with mature conifer forests. For most visitors, however, it's best known as the trailhead for multiday treks in Kashmir's 'Great Lakes' uplands.

The prime two-day destination for hikers is beautiful Lake Gangabal (GOOGLE MAP), which can be accessed in around seven strenuous hours' hike from Naranag village.

It's possible to trek in five or six days between Naranag and Sonamarg via the classic 'Seven Lakes' route, but beware that certain passes can be impassably snowy till late July. There are several route variations, but all require a permit that's checked near Vishansar Lake. Some guides claim they can talk their way around this requirement or that they can apply at Manigal camp near Kangan, but it's wise to play safe and get the paperwork done at the TRC in Srinagar, where the process should be a quick formality (bring visa/passport copy, photo and planned itinerary).

Prospective guides will likely find you on arrival in Naranag and will happily arrange packhorses, but standards of English aren't great and pricing can be very sketchy. Most local guides have tents and sleeping bags available, but quality is often poor and bringing your own would be wise (rentable from Srinagar TRC).

The attractive Swiss Retreat (GOOGLE MAP; swissretreatkashmir@gmail.com; Naranag; r ₹850-1350) should eventually be Naranag's nicest option. Till its completion, choose between eight scruffy homestay-guesthouses, most of them in a state of disarray. The best of a bad lot are Khan Guesthouse (📍 Intiaz 9697559256; d without bathroom ₹400-600) and Gulshan Lodge (GOOGLE MAP; Naranag; r ₹500-1200). On Gangabal's upland meadows there's a tourist hut; it's rarely if ever manned, but you might find it open if you need to take refuge from inclement weather.

Getting There & Away

A once-daily bus service leaves Naranag at 8am for Kangan (₹20, 80 minutes), returning at 3pm. There are Kangan–Srinagar shared Sumos (₹70, one hour) and cheaper buses serving Srinagar's Batmaloo bus station.

A charter jeep from Srinagar costs ₹2500 (two hours).

THE AMARNATHJI YATRA

Amarnath's unique attraction is a natural stone lingam, seen as symbolising Lord Shiva, in a holy mountain cave at an altitude of 3888m. Joining the scenic yatra (pilgrimage) to behold it, in mid-July to mid-August, is an unforgettable experience. But with around 20,000 pilgrims a day, it's certainly not a meditative country hike.

There are two routes. From the vast Baltal Camp, 15km east of Sonamarg, Amarnath is just 14km away (two days, one night). Wealthier pilgrims complete the journey by pony, dandy (palanquin) or in part by helicopter. The longer approach starts from Pahalgam with a 16km taxi ride to Chandanwari (₹700), then a 36km, three-day/two-night hike. Either way, camps en route provide all the essentials, so you don't need to carry much more than spare warm clothes.

Beware that both blizzards and Kashmiri militants have killed pilgrims in the past, and prospective yatri (pilgrims) must apply for a permit through the official pilgrimage organisation, the Sri Amarnath Shrine Board (SASB; GOOGLE MAP);

☎ 0194-2468250, 0194-2501679, winter enquiries 0191-2503399;

www.shriamarnathjishrine.com; 🕒 mid-Jul–mid-Aug). You can download the form online, but you'll need to present it, along with photos, passport/visa copy, a medical certificate and a ₹150 fee, in either Jammu or at the TRC in Nowgam, 12km from Srinagar. Those under 13 or over 75 years old are not permitted to do the yatra.

Sonamarg

☎ 0194 / POP 800 (SUMMER ONLY) / ELEV 2670M

For trips between Kargil and Srinagar, Sonamarg is a popular meal stop, less for its culinary reputation than as a way to recover from and prepare for the nerve-jangling 3529m pass, Zoji La. The main bazaar strip has many refuelling stop dhabas for passing motorists. There's a tandoor bakery at the back of the Sumo stand.

The name Sonamarg means 'Golden Meadow', suitably enticing for an upland valley surrounded by soaring, sharpened peaks and Sound of Music scenery. The main, seasonal settlement, at Km85 of the Srinagar–Leh highway, is an uninteresting strip of hotels and simple restaurants. But that's easy to escape by walking for around an hour into a parallel valley to admire the multiple fingertips of Thajiwass Glacier (GOOGLE MAP). If you want to hike much further, Sonamarg is the end (or possible start) of the Seven Lakes Trek from Narang. Or, with suitable documentation, join the seasonal pilgrims on the Amarnathji Yatra that starts just 15km east of Sonamarg at Baltal.

Sleeping

Poorly maintained rooms above Sonamarg's jerry-built restaurants cost ₹1500 to ₹4000 in May and June but as little as ₹400 at other times. Hotel Royal ( GOOGLE MAP: Sonamarg Bazaar; r ₹1500-2000; 🕒 May-Oct) is the best of this dreary lot; better options across the road include Hotel Kongposh (GOOGLE MAP: Sonamarg; r ₹4000). The aging but beautifully located Tourist Dormitories (GOOGLE MAP: Thajiwas Meadow; dm ₹200) and Alpine Hut (GOOGLE MAP: Thajiwas Meadow; r ₹3000) are 15 minutes' walk from Km83 towards Thajiwas Glacier. Many of the better hotels are between Km83 and Km84.

i Getting There & Away

➔ Srinagar Direct buses are appallingly slow (₹120, over five hours) so most locals take a shared Sumo to Kangan (₹80, 90 minutes) and another from there to Srinagar (₹70, one hour).

➔ Kargil Chartered jeeps ask ₹6000. Kargil- and Leh-bound buses pass through at around 8am and 10.30am, respectively, but are often full on arrival. So, too, are most shared jeeps from Srinagar, but it's worth looking for JK07 number plates at the restaurant strip or bus stand. If space is available, pay ₹600 per person to Kargil. An alternative is to have a friendly hotelier phone-reserve a seat in a jeep ex-Srinagar, but you'll need to pay the fare up front (plus his commission).

JAMMU & SOUTHERN KASHMIR

Jammu, the hub of J&K's predominantly Hindu southern region, swelters at the edge of the plains. Its self-billing as the 'city of temples' is somewhat overblown, and the floods of yatri (Hindu pilgrims) who constitute the vast majority of the region's tourists pass quickly through en route to Katra (April to June and October to December), Gulabgarh (August) or Amarnath (July) via Pahalgam.

But the region has several lesser-known attractions, including the launch point, at Kishtwar, for the remarkable K3 route. The road heads via Killar to Keylong in Himachal Pradesh, following the dramatic Chenab River canyons and navigating one section of narrow jeep road that has been dubbed the 'world's most dangerous'.

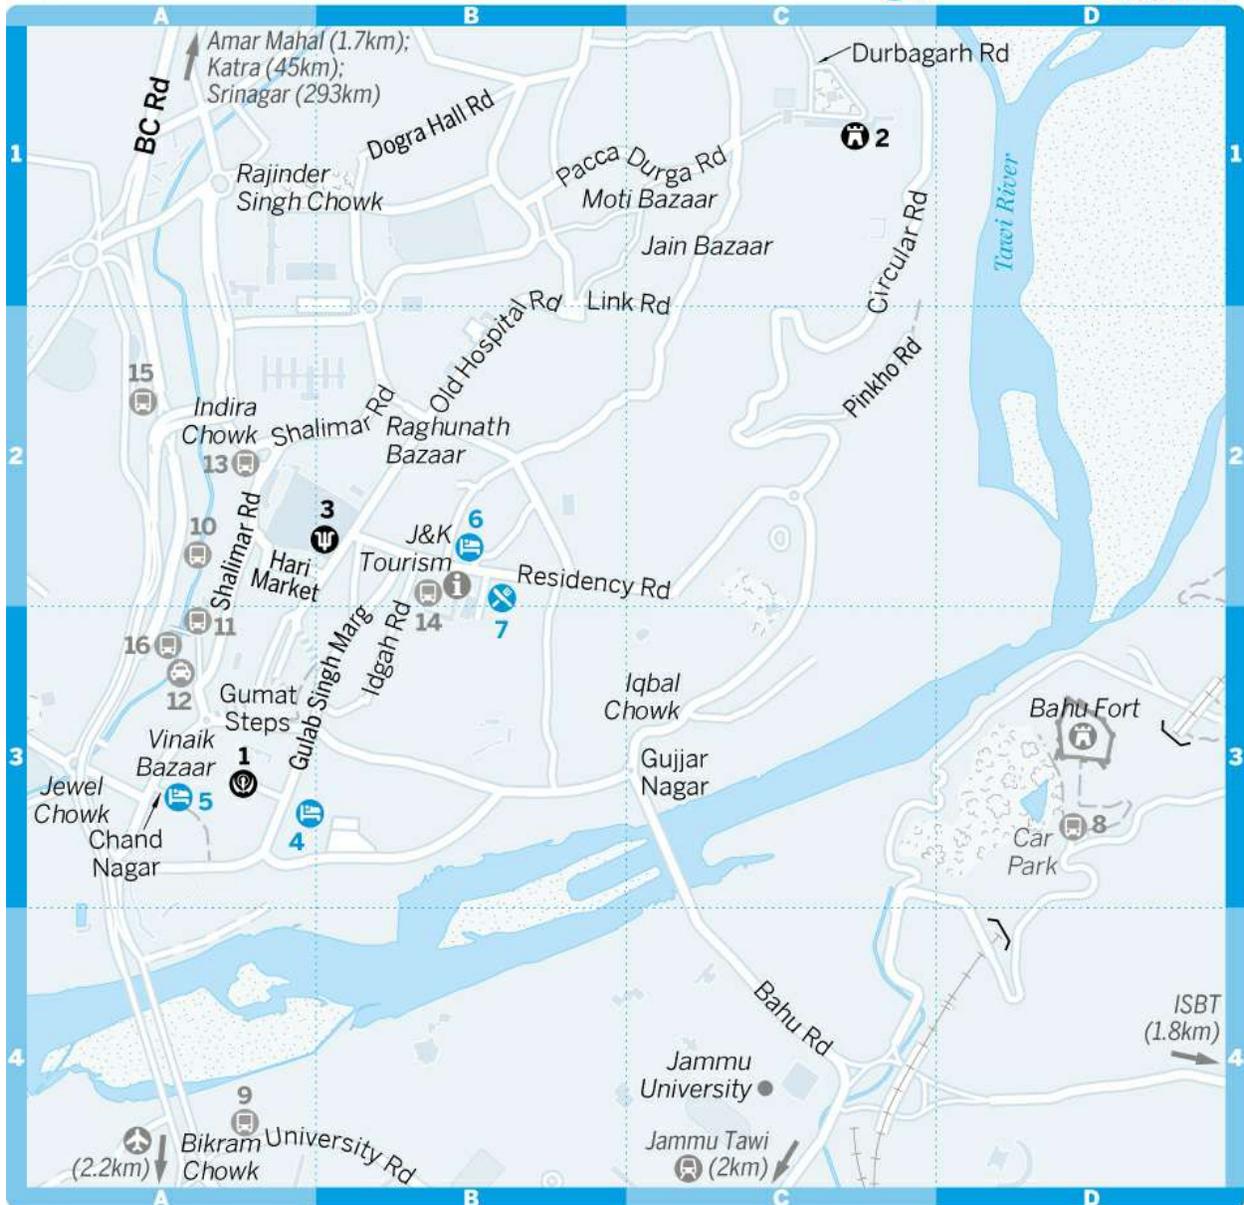

Jammu

📍0191 / POP 560,000 / ELEV 330M

Steaming hot compared to the rest of the state, Jammu is J&K's winter capital. Pre-Independence the city was the seat of the powerful Dogra dynasty, whose palaces remain the city's most appealing sights. Religiously Hindu, Jammu dubs itself as the 'city of temples'. Few of these temples are historically significant, and for foreign tourists there's little pressing need to hang around after making transport connections to Amritsar, Srinagar or Dharamsala.

But if you've got time to kill, consider one of the set three- to four-hour sightseeing circuits offered by certain autorickshaw drivers (₹350 to ₹500), typically starting from near the central, army-fortified Raghunath Mandir.

Jammu

Jammu

📍 Sights

1	Central Gurdwara	A3
	Dogra Art Gallery	C1
2	Mubarak Mandi	C1
3	Raghunath Mandir	B2

Sleeping

4 Fortune Riviera	A3
5 Green View Hotel	A3
6 Hotel Natraj	B2

Eating

7 Falak	B2
-------------------------	----

Transport

Air India	B2
8 Bahu Fort Matador Stop	D3
9 Bikram Chowk Matador Stop	A4
10 Bus company ticket stalls	A2
11 Bus Station	A3
12 Bus Station Ramp (Srinagar jeeps)	A3
13 Indira Chowk	A2
14 J&K SRTC Srinagar Bus booking office	B2
15 Matadors to Nagrota & Buses to Udhampur	A2
16 Private Bus Offices	A3

Sights

Raghunath Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Raghunath Bazaar; donations accepted; ⌚ 6am-8.30pm)

The large, 19th-century Raghunath Mandir marks the heart of older Jammu and features several pavilions containing thousands of what look like grey pebbles set in concrete. In fact, these are saligrams (ammonite fossils) symbolically representing the myriad deities of the Hindu pantheon.

Central Gurdwara

SIKH TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Giving new definition to the lower city centre area, this large, new, classically designed Sikh complex has a light, airy feel, and its gilded domes make it look, to many foreign visitors, like the very archetype of an Indian temple.

Mubarak Mandi

PALACE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Durbagarh Rd)

Started in 1710 and vastly expanded after 1824 under the Dogras, this extensive complex of palace buildings is fascinating for both its scale and its startling state of semi-collapse. The only part that's accessible is the former durbar hall containing the Dogra Art Gallery (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎0191-2561846; kirpal_308@rediffmail.com; Mubarak Mandi Complex; foreigner/Indian ₹50/10, photography ₹240/120; 🕒10am-5pm Tue-Sun).

Amar Mahal

PALACE

(GOOGLE MAP; standard/special entry ₹20/200, photography ₹50; 🕒9am-1pm & 2-6pm Tue-Sun Apr-Sep, to 5pm Oct-Mar)

In the 1890s, the Dogra maharajas moved from Mubarak Mandi to this very European brick mansion a few kilometres from town, with castle-style miniturrets and wide clifftop views. It's now a museum whose star exhibit is a canopied royal throne made from over 100kg of gold. Other rooms introduce the characters who once lived here, and with the 'special' ticket you can visit the upstairs maharani's chambers, which feature a Queen Victoria portrait and a bathroom complete with perfume collection.

THE K3: KISHTWAR-KILLAR-KEYLONG

On a map it all looks so easy: a road that neatly follows the Chenab, Chandra and Bhaga Rivers from Kishtwar in southern Kashmir to Keylong in Lahaul (Himachal Pradesh). But the reality of driving the K3 is so much more: it's a superbly photogenic adrenaline-fix ride. It roller-coasters along terrifyingly narrow ledges barely wide enough for a vehicle to pass, skirting high above the river while daggers of rock dangle from overhead.

Virtually the whole route is gorgeous, but most thrilling is the 5km section between Tayari and the improbably perched village of Ishtiyari (between Gulabgarh and Killar), which some have dubbed 'the world's most dangerous road'. Although less toe-curling, another scenic highlight is the beautiful configuration of huge rocks and mature trees in the canyon around 50km east of Kishtwar.

To travel Kishtwar to Keylong, allow at least two full days, with a night's stop in Killar. Ideally add a first night in Gulabgarh, where J&K's three religious areas intersect; the town has a Buddhist monastery, several Paddari-style Hindu temples and an eye-catching mosque.

The nearest petrol stations are in Bhadarwah and Kishtwar, but you can usually buy fuel in bottles from a house in Tayari. The route is only passable in summer; from November to April, Killar is essentially cut off by heavy snow.

From Srinagar, you can reach Kishtwar via the scenic 'Mughal Road' over the Sinthan Top pass (3800m; open mid-June to October), using shared jeeps from Srinagar to Anantnag, Anantnag to Vailoo ('Wai-yil'; ₹40) and Vailoo to Kishtwar (per person/vehicle ₹300/3500, six hours, departures between 6am and 10am). Although there are basic hotels in Vailoo, it's far nicer to sleep 6km away at the Hotel Alpine, within the beautiful botanical gardens of Kokernag.

From Jammu, buses run to Kishtwar and Gulabgarh. There are also shared jeeps, departing when full, between Kishtwar's bus stand area and Gulabgarh (per seat ₹100 to ₹150, three hours). Jeeps ply the Gulabgarh-Killar route (four or five hours) most days when it's open. Look for Himachal Pradesh-registered vehicles, or simply charter your own Sumo for around ₹3000. Killar has twice-daily bus service to Keylong (₹210, 10 hours).

Sleeping

Green View Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0191-2573906, 9419198639; 69 Chand Nagar; s/d/tr/q ₹200/600/800/1000, with AC ₹1000/1200/1600/1800; 🏠)

Hidden down an unprepossessing lane off Vinaik Bazaar, this backpacker fallback has regularly repainted rooms that are considerably better than you'd guess from their padlocked grey doors. The mini box singles share OK bathrooms and are about the cheapest rooms for foreigners in Jammu. Good views of the Central Gurdwara from the rooftop.

Hotel Natraj

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0191-2547450; www.natrajhoteljammu.com; Residency Rd; s/d ₹1400/1800, with view ₹2000/2500; 🏠 📶)

Stylish chocolate-and-cream rooms have good air-con and, in the smallish bathrooms, piping-hot showers. Reception is hidden away in a compact, modern vegetarian restaurant on Panj Bakhtar Rd. A couple of rooms face out across Residency Rd, which is its official address.

On the website, only the photos in 'Gallery' actually show the hotel.

Fortune Riviera

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0191-2561415; www.fortunehotels.in; Gulab Singh Marg; s/d from ₹6600/7150; 🏠 📶)

Central Jammu's most stylish and attentively businesslike hotel has a glass elevator in the four-storey atrium, two restaurants, a coffee shop and bar – all for just 29 soothingly beige rooms.

Eating

The Residency Rd area has a fairly wide range of options, including vegetarian restaurants, fast food, a Café Coffee Day opposite KC Plaza, and good cheap street food outside the Hotel Natraj.

★ Falak

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0191-2520770; www.kcresidency.com; 7th fl, KC Residency Hotel, Residency Rd; mains veg/nonveg from ₹455/630; 🕒 noon-11pm)

This revolving restaurant serves superb pan-Indian cuisine and offers 360-degree views of the crowded Jammu cityscape. Try the Jammu speciality khatta gosht dhoonidar (smoked lamb flavoured with pomegranate paste).

Information

J&K Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0191-2548172; www.jktdc.org; Residency Rd; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat May-Sep, reduced hours Oct-Apr)

The J&K Tourism complex includes a refreshingly air-conditioned reception centre (maps ₹10), a tourist jeep stand and a musty, institutional hotel (rooms from ₹500) hiding an attractive Kashmiri restaurant and typical old-school Indian bar.

i Getting There & Away

AIR

Airlines flying domestically out of Jammu:

Air India (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0191-2456086; www.airindia.com; J&K Tourism complex; 🕒 10am-1pm & 2-4.45pm Mon-Sat) Delhi, Srinagar, Leh (Monday & Friday).

GoAir (GOOGLE MAP ; www.goair.in) Delhi, Srinagar, Mumbai (via Delhi).

IndiGo (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0191-2430439; www.goindigo.in) Delhi, Mumbai (via Srinagar).

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 091-2453888; www.jetairways.com) Delhi, Srinagar.

SpiceJet (GOOGLE MAP ; www.spicejet.com) Delhi, Srinagar.

Vistara (GOOGLE MAP ; www.airvistara.com) Srinagar

BUS & JEEP

Most public buses still use the big, rotting concrete bus station (General Bus Stand; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; BC Rd) complex, which has dozens of private bus offices (MAP GOOGLE MAP) and agencies, especially along the chaotic strip on BC Rd in the shadow of a highway overpass. Many private buses wait along that road rather than use the big new ISBT (New Interstate Bus Terminal; GOOGLE MAP ; Transport Nagar Rd, Narwal) – at least for now.

➔ Amritsar Daily buses (₹175, six hours, frequent) via Pathankot in Punjab (₹90, 2½ hours).

- ➔ Bani (₹240, 8½ hours, four daily) via Basohli.
- ➔ Chamba HRTC bus (₹280, one daily in morning).
- ➔ Chandigarh Private buses (seat/AC/sleeper from ₹350/450/600, eight hours, frequent in early morning and late evening).
- ➔ Delhi Public buses (₹580, 13 hours, 13 daily) and private services (seat/sleeper/recliner from ₹800/1000/1500, several in evening). Departures are from outside the (old) bus station but may move to the ISBT; double-check departure location when booking.
- ➔ Dharamsala There's a direct bus (₹260, six hours, one in morning); otherwise change at Pathankot. Several private bus companies say they go to Dharamsala but will drop you at Gaggal (AC ₹750).
- ➔ Gulabgarh Buses marked 'Paddar' (₹350, 10 hours) leave before dawn from Indira Chowk (MAP GOOGLE MAP).
- ➔ Katra Buses (₹50, 1¾ hours, half-hourly) depart from both the bus and train stations. Minibuses and taxis are frequent, too, in pilgrimage season.
- ➔ Kishtwar Buses (₹260, seven hours, nine daily in early morning) depart from the northeast corner of the bus station or from Indira Chowk.
- ➔ Manali Private buses (AC ₹850, 12 hours) ply this route in evenings, plus there's one morning service. Ask at the bus company ticket stalls (MAP GOOGLE MAP) north of Lords Inn.
- ➔ Srinagar Most services are cancelled when Kashmir experiences turmoil. Journey time is 11 hours, but traffic jams can extend that considerably. Pre-purchase tickets for the J&K SRTC bus (lower/upper class ₹418/520, one in morning) at a special booking office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Idgah Rd). Several private companies on the bus station strip have overnight services. Jeeps offering shared rides (from ₹600 to ₹800, depending on occupancy) gather along the bus station ramp (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Shalimar Rd) and near Jewe Chowk; although they're quicker than buses, departure times are highly uncertain.

TRAIN

Jammu Tawi (GOOGLE MAP), Jammu's main train station, is south of the river, 5km from the bus station. The new northbound railway should one day reach Srinagar.

→ Amritsar Jat TataMuri Express (18110; sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹184/485/690, five hours, 2.20pm).

→ Delhi Uttar Sampark Kranti Express (12446; sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹355/920/1300, 10 hours, 9pm). The slower Jhelum Express (11078) departs at 9.45pm and continues to Agra (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹395/1060/1498, 14 hours).

Getting Around

For local transport into town from the airport, turn left on exiting the airport grounds and wait at the Durga Petrol Station. To the airport from Residency Rd, autorickshaws/taxis cost around ₹150/250, or use 'Satwari'-bound minibuses.

Locals call the little local buses 'matadors' (the trade name of the vehicles that originally served this purpose). Matadors charge ₹10 for most rides, less for shorter hops.

Although there's a specific service that runs between the bus and train stations, 'Panjtirithi Railway Station' services are more frequent and follow the same route, often terminating near Indira Chowk.

From the bus station, 'Janipur Fort' matadors take BC Rd to Bikram Chowk (MAP GOOGLE MAP) to Bahu Fort (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

'Nagrota' matadors (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; BC Rd) pass within 300m of the Amar Mahal.

Short autorickshaw hops start at ₹50.

Around Jammu

Just an hour by bus from Jammu, appealing Akhnoor features a sturdy fortress ruin, a gurdwara (Sikh temple) and a three-vihara Hindu temple rising in concert on the western river bank of the powerful Chenab. Along the fort's base, an arcaded promenade passes the 1822 coronation point of the Dogra ruler Gulab Singh.

Accessed by foot, palanquin or helicopter from Katra, the latter-day Vaishno Devi Shrine is one of India's busiest pilgrim sites. It attracts millions of domestic visitors, but it's less of a draw for most non-Hindus.

Further afield, fort town Bhadarwah (pronounced Badra-wa) markets itself as Chota (Little) Kashmir, with a wide, fertile valley that's hemmed by appealing, forested slopes and peppered with villages. Around 1km north of the town centre is the garish pink Chandi Mata Temple, starting point of the annual pilgrimage to Machail in Paddar (via more accessible Gulabgarh). Gulabgarh has classic Paddari shrines of its own and is a good launch point for the most exciting section of the K3 route to Killar in Himachal Pradesh.

Himachal Pradesh

Himachal Pradesh Highlights

Southern Himachal Pradesh

Shimla

Naldehra & Around

Kinnaur

Rampur

Sarahan

Sangla Valley

Rekong Peo

Kalpa

Rekong Peo to Sumdo

Central Himachal Pradesh

Mandi

Rewalsar Lake

Tirthan & Banjar Valleys

Bhuntar

Parvati Valley

Kullu

Naggar

Manali

Around Manali

Western Himachal Pradesh

Dharamsala

McLeod Ganj

Around McLeod Ganj

Dharamsala to Mandi

Chamba Valley

Lahaul & Spiti

Lahaul

Spiti

Himachal Pradesh

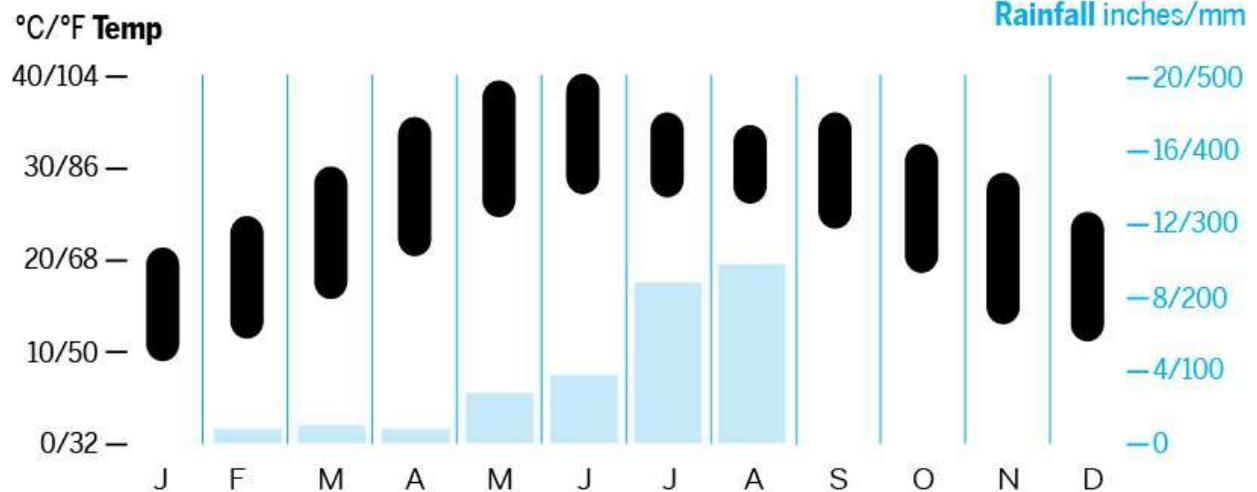

Why Go?

With spectacular snowy peaks and plunging river valleys, beautiful Himachal is India's outdoor adventure playground. From trekking and climbing to rafting, paragliding and skiing, if it can be done in the mountains, it can be done here. A convoluted topography of interlocking mountain chains also makes Himachal a spectacular place simply to explore, by bus, car, motorbike, jeep or foot. Every pass crossing into a new valley brings you into a different world, with its own culture, deities and even language. Villages perched on staggering slopes enchant with fairy-tale architecture and their people's easygoing warmth. Hill stations appeal with a holiday atmosphere and colonial echoes, while backpacker magnets lure with their blissed-out vibe and mountain beauty. Such is the richness of the Himachali jigsaw that in McLeod Ganj, the Dalai Lama's home-away-from-home, and in Lahaul and Spiti, with their centuries-old Buddhist cultures, you might even think you've stumbled into Tibet.

When to Go

Manali

- ➔ May–Jun & early Sep–Oct Outside the monsoon season; perfect for trekking and other activities.
- ➔ Mid-Jul–early Sep The monsoon: visit Lahaul and Spiti, which stay dry.
- ➔ Nov–Apr Good for snow-lovers, but the high passes to Lahaul and Spiti are blocked.

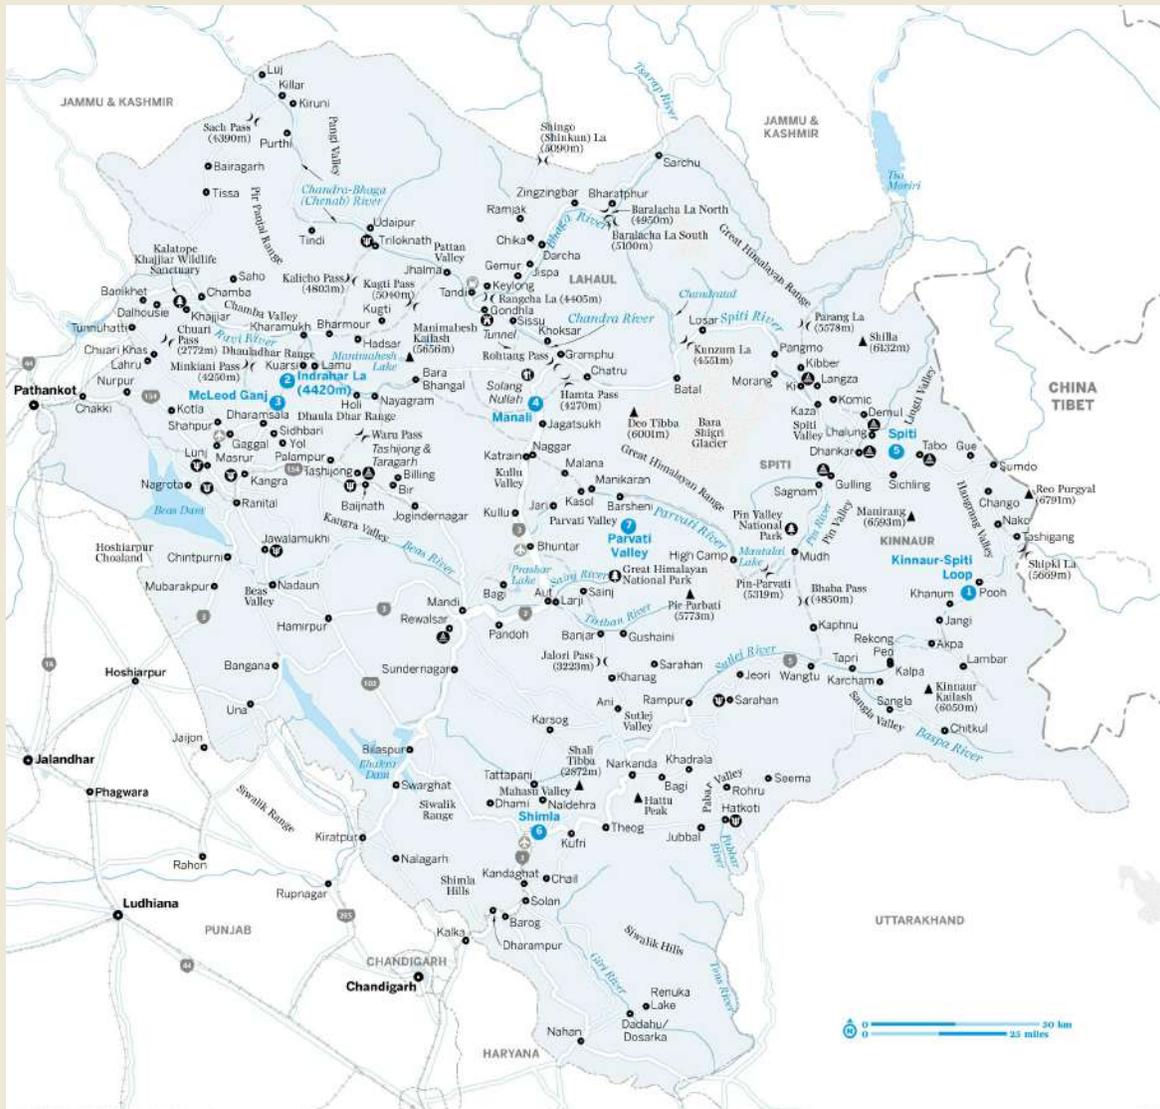

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ La Plage
- ➔ Cecil Restaurant
- ➔ Hotel Deyzor Restaurant
- ➔ Moonpeak
- ➔ Evergreen

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Orchard Hut
- ➔ Wildflower Hall
- ➔ Hotel Deyzor
- ➔ Alliance Guesthouse
- ➔ Tashi Khangsar Hotel
- ➔ Banjara Camps

Himachal Pradesh Highlights

- 1 Kinnaur-Spiti loop Daring the hair-raising passes, gorges and cliff-ledge roads of one of Asia's great road-trips.
- 2 Trekking Choosing from dozens of spectacular mountain crossings – easy, demanding, or moderate such as the Indrahar La.
- 3 McLeod Ganj Immersing yourself in Tibetan culture or yoga, volunteering with refugees or just chilling out in the mountains.
- 4 Manali Skiing, trekking, climbing, paragliding, rafting or just enjoying the traveller scene in Himachal's backpacker playground.

5 Spiti Exploring the ancient rock-perched Buddhist monasteries, high-altitude villages and starkly spectacular landscapes of this stunningly beautiful, remote region.

6 Shimla Riding the toy train up from the plains and exploring relics of the British Raj in its former summer capital, still one of India's favourite hill stations.

7 Parvati Valley Blissing out on the hippie trail in this hauntingly beautiful valley.

SOUTHERN HIMACHAL PRADESH

As soon as you cross the state line from Haryana, the landscape starts to crinkle and fold in steep, forest-covered ridges – the foothills that herald the grand Himalayan ranges further north. The main travel destination in the south is the popular hill station Shimla, the former summer capital of British-ruled India.

Shimla

☞ 0177 / POP 170,000 / ELEV 2205M

Strung out along a 12km ridge, with steep forested hillsides falling away in all directions, the Himachal capital is a good appetite-whetter for the awe-inspiring mountain tracts of the state's interior. Shimla is one of India's most popular hill resorts, buzzing with a happy flow of Indian vacationers and full of relics of its previous life as the summer capital of British India. Traffic is banned from the central part of town, so walking is pleasant – even when huffing and puffing uphill. The long, winding main street, the Mall, runs east and west just below the spine of the hill. South of it, the maze-like alleys of the bustling bazaar cascade steeply down to traffic-infested Cart Rd.

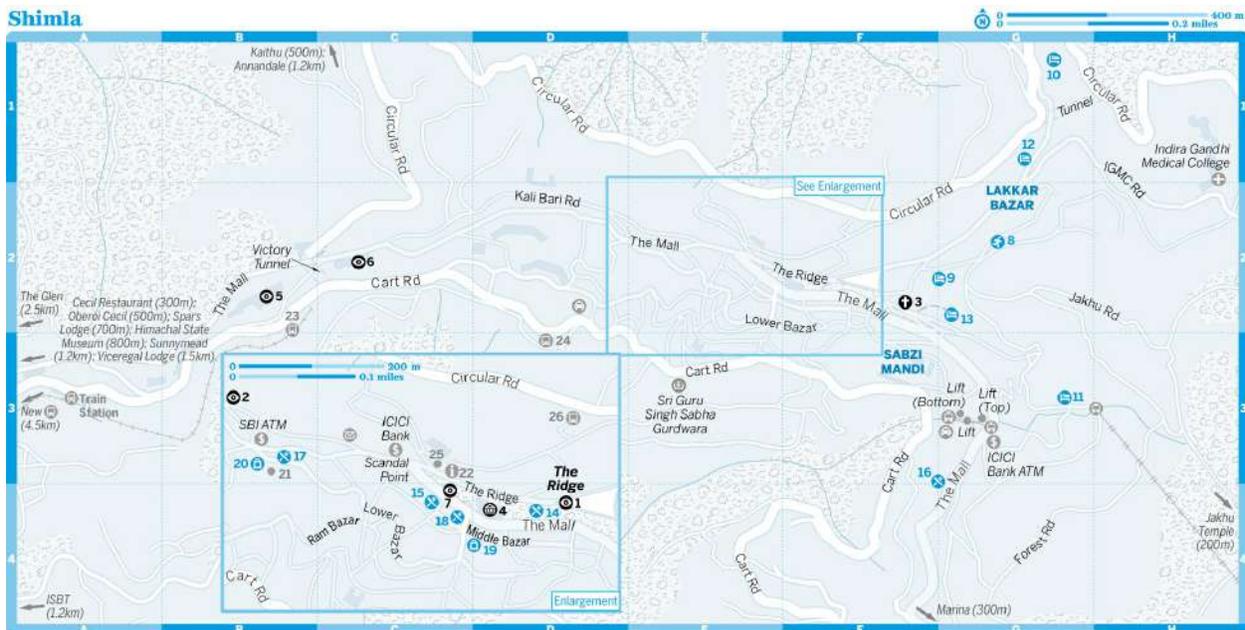

From mid-July to mid-September, Shimla is frequently wreathed in cloud, and in winter it often gets a carpeting of snow.

History

Until the British arrived, there was nothing at Shimla but a sleepy forest glade known as Shyamala (a local name for Kali – the Hindu destroyer-of-evil goddess). Then the new British political officer for the Hill States, Charles Kennedy, built a cottage here in 1822 and nothing was ever the same again. In 1864, Simla (its colonial-era name) became the official summer capital of the Raj, and from then until 1939 the entire government of India fled here for half of every year from the sweltering heat of the lowlands, bringing with them hundreds of muleloads of files, forms and other paraphernalia of government.

When the Kalka–Shimla railway was opened in 1906, Shimla’s status as India’s premier hill station was assured. The town became a centre not only of government but also of social frolics for the elite of the Raj. Maharajas as well as colonial grandees built mansions here, and the season was filled with grand balls at the Viceroy's lodge, picnics in the woods, amateur dramatics at the Gaiety Theatre and much flirtation and frivolity. Rudyard Kipling, who spent several summers here, used Shimla as the setting for parts of Kim and his short-story collection Plain Tales from the Hills.

Shimla

Top Sights

1 The Ridge D4

Sights

2 Bantony B3

3 Christ Church F2

4 Gaiety Theatre D4

5 Gorton Castle B2

6 Railway Board Building C2

7 Town Hall C4

Activities, Courses & Tours

8 Great Escape Routes G2

Sleeping

9 Ballyhack Cottage G2

10 Chapslee G1

11 Hotel City View G3

12 Hotel White G1

13 YMCA G2

Eating

14 Ashiana D4

15 Baljee's C4

16 Café Simla Times F3

17 Indian Coffee House B3

18 Wake & Bake C4

Shopping

19 Asia Book House D4

20 Himachal Emporium B3

Information

21 Additional District Magistrate B3

22 HPTDC Tourist Office C3

Transport

23 HPTDC Bus Stop B2

HRTC booth C3

24 Old Bus Station D3

25 Rail Booking Office C3

26 Rivoli Bus Stand D3

Sights

★ The Ridge

STREET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The broad esplanade extending east from Scandal Point is called the Ridge and it's thronged with strolling locals and tourists all day. In clear weather a jagged line of distant snowy peaks is clearly visible to the north.

Christ Church

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0177-2652953; the Ridge;  10.30am-1pm & 2-5.30pm, services in English 9am Sun)

At the Ridge's east end, the very English Christ Church, opened in 1846, is one of the oldest surviving churches in northern India and Shimla's most famous landmark. It contains some touching Raj-era memorials and typical Victorian stained glass.

Gaiety Theatre

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0177-2650173; www.gaiety.in; the Mall; Indian/foreigner ₹10/25, camera ₹15/25;  tours 11am-1.30pm & 2-5.30pm Tue-Sun)

This lovely Victorian theatre, opened in 1877 and now splendidly restored, has long been a focus of Shimla social life. Rudyard Kipling, Shashi Kapoor and various viceroys are among those who have trodden its Burmese teak boards. Today it hosts visiting theatre companies as well as 15 local dramatic societies, plus concerts and exhibitions. Mr R Gautam gives excellent guided tours, explaining its history as you appreciate the view from the viceroy's private box.

★ Viceregal Lodge

HISTORIC BUILDING

(Indian Institute of Advanced Study; GOOGLE MAP; www.iias.org; tour Indian/foreigner ₹40/85, grounds only ₹20; 🕒 9.30am-5.30pm Tue-Sun, to 7pm mid-May–mid-Jul, tours every 45min 10am-4.45pm)

The official summer residence of the British viceroys was completed in 1888 and the entire Indian subcontinent was ruled from here for just over half of every year (usually early April to late October) from then till WWII. Henry Irwin's grand, grey sandstone creation resembles a cross between Harry Potter's Hogwarts and a Scottish baronial castle. Half-hour building tours visit three rooms with interesting photo exhibits (one was the billiards room) and the three-storey entrance hall lined in Burmese teak.

Himachal State Museum

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹20/100, camera ₹50/100; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

About 2.5km west of Scandal Point, up near the telecommunications mast, the state museum occupies an 1860s mansion and houses an impressive collection of Himachali, Rajasthani and Punjabi miniatures, as well as colourful traditional costumes and jewellery, delicate stone and wood carvings, and interesting photos of Himachal temples.

Jakhu Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP)

Shimla's most famous temple, dedicated to the monkey god Hanuman, sits atop its highest hill, a steep but worthwhile hike of 1.2km up from the east end of the Ridge. Appropriately, hundreds of rhesus macaques loiter around the temple, hoping for gifts of prasad (temple-blessed food offerings) from visitors. They have a habit of snatching loose objects such as hats, phones and even spectacles, so bring a stick to discourage them, or rent one (₹10) at the temple gate.

Activities

Great Escape Routes

OUTDOORS

( ;  0177-6533037, 9418012500; www.greatescaperoutes.com; 6 Andhi Bhavan;  9am-8pm)

Specialises in trekking and other adventure trips, including mountain-bike, motorcycle and wildlife tours, around Himachal Pradesh and beyond. It can organise Kinnaur–Spiti trips in comfortable Innova or Xylo vehicles (sample price: ₹18,000 transport for five people for five days, plus ₹1200 a day with guide) and Enfield motorcycle hire (₹1600 to ₹1800 per day).

Shimla Walks

WALKING

( 9459519620, 9817141099; <http://shimlawalks.com>)

A very professional operation run by local writer Sumit Vashisht, Shimla Walks offers excellent guided walks on and off the beaten track. Day or half-day trips (₹2000 to ₹3500 for up to four people) provide rare insights along the popular route to the Viceregal Lodge, or take you to writers' and artists' houses or Shimla's hidden Raj-era cemeteries.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Losar (Tibetan New Year;  late Jan, Feb or early March) Tibetans across Himachal, including in McLeod Ganj and Spiti, celebrate their New Year with processions, music, dancing and chaams (ritual masked dances by monks).

Minjar Festival A week of processions, music, dance and markets at Chamba.

Ki Chaam Festival A week of rituals at Ki Gompa culminates in a day of whirling dances by brightly costumed and masked lamas.

Manimahesh Yatra Hundreds of thousands of Shaivites trek up to 4200m to bathe in Manimahesh Lake near Bharmour, one of Shiva's mythical abodes.

Phulech Festival (🕒 Sep/Oct) Villagers in Kalpa and throughout Kinnaur fill temple courtyards with flowers; oracles perform sacrifices and make predictions for the coming year.

Dussehra Intense and spectacular weeklong celebration of the defeat of the demon Ravana, at Kullu.

Sleeping

Shimla has a lot of hotels but many of them are a long way from the centre. The town's popularity with domestic tourists keeps room rates high in the better-located places, so you don't generally get great value during the peak seasons (approximately mid-April to mid-July, October to mid-November, Christmas/New Year and other major holidays). But outside peak seasons, discounts of 30% or 40% are available at many places.

YMCA

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2650021; ymcashimla@yahoo.co.in; the Ridge; incl breakfast ₹1500, s/d without bathroom ₹600/800; 📶)

Up steps beside the Ritz Cineplex behind Christ Church, the bright-red YMCA takes all comers, regardless of age, gender or religion. Rooms are neat and pleasant, the shared bathrooms are immaculate, there's a nice sunset terrace and you can enjoy a game of billiards or table tennis.

Hotel City View

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2811666; jagdishthakur80@gmail.com; US Club Rd; r ₹700-1500 📶)

This friendly place has 10 varied, reasonably well-kept rooms, the best of which are at the front and have bright views. The top floor has a small shared terrace and there are good discounts outside peak seasons, making this solid value for Shimla.

Spars Lodge

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP  0177-2657908; www.sparslodge.com; Museum Rd; s/d ₹1200/1700, ste ₹2200-2700; )

Though it's 2km west of Scandal Point, on the road up to the State Museum, Spars is a good choice for its homey feel, welcoming owners, bright, clean rooms, and lovely sunny dining and sitting area upstairs. The restaurant (mains ₹160 to ₹420) serves great food, including local trout and all-day English breakfasts, and has wi-fi.

Hotel White

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP  0177-2656136; www.hotelwhitesimla.com; Lakkar Bazar; d ₹2150-274 ste ₹3570-5360; )

Northeast of the Ridge through a bustling bazaar, the White is well run and rates are fixed all year. Rooms are clean, large and well kept, with good beds, and nearly all of them have a balcony or terrace looking over the valley below.

★ Sunnymead

B&B $$$

(GOOGLE MAP  9736584045, 0177-2801436; <http://sunnymeadestate.com>; Sunnymead Estate, below Cart Rd, near Old MLA Quarters & Hotel Blossom; s/d incl breakfast ₹5000/6500; )

You could imagine yourself in the English countryside in this wonderfully cosy 1890s cottage full of interesting art, books and furnishings, with a couple of dogs, a cat and a lovely flower garden. The four rooms are comfy and characterful, and good Indian or English dinners (₹1200) are available as well as the excellent and generous breakfast.

Although it's 3km west of the heart of town, down a short path from busy Cart Rd, Sunnymead is only about 10 minutes' walk below the Viceregal Lodge, which is linked to the centre by the largely traffic-free Mall. The original mud-plastered wood-and-stone structure was maintained when the house was fully renovated a few years ago.

Ballyhack Cottage

B&B $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8091300076; www.ballyhackcottage.com; Sidhowal Lodge Estate, the Ridge; d incl breakfast ₹4500; 📶)

A new building on one of Shimla's oldest properties, in a superb central location just off the Ridge, five-room Ballyhack combines an evocatively colonial ambience (polished-wood floors and furniture, old prints, tiled floors, rugs) with current amenities including comfy beds, tea/coffee equipment and good contemporary bathrooms. The garden terraces have views to the distant Himalaya in good weather.

★ Oberoi Cecil

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2804848; www.oberoicecil.com; the Mall, Chaura Maidan; s/d incl breakfast & wi-fi from ₹16,000/17,250; 🌳 @ 📶 🚰)

This grand high-rise, 2km west of Scandal Point, is Shimla's glitziest hotel. Discreet colonial-era charm combines happily with modern, wood-clad luxury in the plush rooms, with their tastefully trad furnishings, and the spacious common areas. The hotel has a lovely indoor pool and fine restaurant and service is polished but friendly.

★ Chapslee

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2658663; www.chapslee.com; Elysium Hill; r incl half-board ₹20,800-30,200, B&B ₹14,250; 📶)

For the full Raj treatment, you can't beat this lavish mansion where the Raja of Kapurthala's grandson lovingly maintains an aristocratic lifestyle of bygone days. From its huge gold-toned drawing room to the five super-comfortable bedrooms, the exclusive retreat is crammed with chandeliers, tapestries, antiques and family portraits. Impeccable service and fine meals add to a memorable experience.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for this chapter (referring to accommodation for two people, including taxes, without any meals):

$ below ₹1200

$$ ₹1200–₹3500

$$$ above ₹3500

Eating

Baljee's

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 26 the Mall; snacks & mains ₹85-235; 🕒 9am-10.30pm)

Clean, cosy and air-conditioned, with bow-tied waiters, Baljee's gets packed with Indian families, many of whom come for the snacks and South Indian specialities. Breakfasts of omelettes, toast and dosas are good, too.

Indian Coffee House

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; the Mall; dishes ₹25-80; 🕒 8am-8.30pm)

This Shimla institution is like an old boys' club with its ageing leather seats, uniformed waiters and blackboard menu. Packed with chattering locals (not quite all men) for much of the day, it's the most atmospheric place in town for breakfast, cheap dosas and coffee (don't even ask for tea!).

Wake & Bake

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 34/1 the Mall; dishes ₹120-320; 🕒 9.30am-10pm; 📶)

This upstairs cafe is about the hippest eatery in Shimla (which isn't saying too much), serving up organic South Indian coffee, breakfasts, pizza by the slice, hummus, falafel, toasties, veg stir-fry, pasta and excellent crêpes. Wi-fi is free.

Ashiana

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; the Ridge; mains ₹115-275; 🕒 9am-10pm)

In a fanciful circular building, Ashiana is an almost-elegant restaurant and good people-watching spot, with a delightful sunny terrace. As well as tasty

North Indian dishes there are Chinese and a few Thai and South Indian favourites.

★ Cecil Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0177-2804848; Oberoi Cecil, the Mall, Chaura Maidan; mains ₹1000-1700; 🕒 7.30-10.30pm)

For a special dinner, look no further than the colonial-era elegance of the Cecil Restaurant at the Oberoi. The menu is strong on curries from all over India and Thailand too, but there are plenty of Continental options as well, including Kullu Valley trout. Book ahead in high season.

Drinking & Nightlife

The most stylish places for a drink are the lounge bars at top-end hotels such as the Oberoi Cecil or (if you like a DJ soundtrack) the Marina (

GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 0177-6629999; www.marinashimla.com; the Mall; r ₹11,790-14,170;

). Cheaper drinks are available at restaurants such as Ashiana and Café Simla Times (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; the Mall; mains ₹245-445; 🕒 noon-10.30pm ) , both of which have panoramic terraces too.

Shopping

Indian tourists browse fashionable shops along the Mall for Himachali and Kashmiri shawls and other apparel. For a slice of more traditional commerce, wander the bazaar labyrinth below the Mall. You can buy anything here from peacock feathers and henna kits to bangles and bicycles. Different zones are devoted to vegetables (the Sabzi Mandi), spices, fabrics and other goods.

Asia Book House

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; the Mall; 🕒 10.30am-8.30pm Mon-Sat, 1-7.30pm Sun)

Novels, guides and other books on India.

Himachal Emporium

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0177-2011234; www.himcrafts.com; the Mall; 🕒 10am-1pm & 2.30-7.30pm Mon-Sat)

Kullu and Kinnauri shawls, thick Lahauli wool socks and other appealing Himachal crafts are sold at reasonable prices at this state-government crafts enterprise.

THE MALL, SHIMLA'S 7KM STROLL

The largely traffic-free Mall is the heartbeat of Shimla life, strung with hotels, shops, eateries, colonial-era buildings in assorted states of repair, and people everywhere. It runs up from Chotta Shimla, southeast of the centre, to Scandal Point, the official centre of town, then continues west to the Viceregal Lodge.

The top landmarks you'll pass in an east–west walk along the Mall include the handsome half-timbered Clarkes Hotel, dating from the 1890s; the Gaiety Theatre, in action since 1877; and the Town Hall (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; the Mall), almost beside Scandal Point, dating from 1910 and oddly reminiscent of the mansion in Hammer Horror films.

West of Scandal Point, just above the Mall, a pretty 1883 quasi-Tudor folly houses the post office. Also just above the Mall, the wonderfully whimsical Bantony (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Kali Bari Rd) is a turreted red-brick mansion from 1880 that was once home to the Maharajah of Sirmaur. Bantony is now sadly the epitome of Shimla picturesque decay.

Another 500m west, the turreted Railway Board Building (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; the Mall), built in 1897 with fire-resistant cast iron and steel, now houses government and police offices. Just past here is the austere grey-stone Gorton Castle (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; the Mall) from 1904, formerly the colonial government secretariat and now the Himachal Pradesh Accountant-General's Office (visitors can walk round the outside only). A further 1km brings you to Shimla's most famous luxury hotel, the Oberoi Cecil, founded in 1902 and radically refurbished in the 1990s but century-old half-timbering on its western end. From the Oberoi, it's 1.4km on westward to the most splendiferous of all Shimla's Raj-era edifices, the Viceregal Lodge.

Information

HPTDC Tourist Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(Himachal Pradesh Tourist Development Corporation, Himachal Tourism; MAP GOOGLE MAP);

 0177-2652561; www.hptdc.gov.in; Scandal Point;  9am-7pm, to 8pm mid-Apr–Jun & mid-Sep–mid-Nov)

Very helpful for local information and advice; also books HPTDC buses, hotels and tours.

ICICI Bank

EXCHANGE, ATM

(GOOGLE MAP); Scandal Point;  10am-4pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat each month)

Exchanges foreign currency and has a 24-hour ATM.

Indira Gandhi Medical College

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP);  0177-2803073; IGMC Rd)

Large public hospital with 24-hour outpatient department.

Getting There & Away

BUS

The Himachal Road Transport Corporation (HRTC) runs seven comfortable Volvo AC buses to Delhi (₹915, 10 hours) each day, as well as 10 cheaper AC and non-AC services (₹414 to ₹684). Other HRTC AC buses head to Manali (nine hours), via Mandi and Kullu, at 9.30am (₹544, non-Volvo) and 7.30pm (₹871, Volvo), and to Dharamsala (₹475, eight hours, non-Volvo) at 4.30pm. All HRTC buses leave from the ISBT (Inter State Bus Terminus, New Bus Station; GOOGLE MAP); Tutikandi), a 5km trip west from the town centre: you can make reservations at the HRTC booth (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Scandal Point;  8am-7.30pm) at Scandal Point or at the main post office (GOOGLE MAP); Scandal Point;  9.30am-5.30pm Mon-Sat, 10am-5pm Sun).

The Himachal Pradesh Tourism Development Corporation (HPTDC) runs a Volvo AC bus to Delhi (₹900, 10 hours) at 8.30pm, and a non-AC deluxe bus to Manali (₹550, nine hours) at 8.30am, both starting from a stop (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Cart Rd) on Cart Rd west of Victory Tunnel: get tickets at the HPTDC Tourist Office.

BUSES FROM SHIMLA ISBT

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Chandigarh	172-229	4	every 15-30min, 4am-10pm
Dehra Dun	322-517	8	3 daily
Delhi	414-915	10	17 daily
Dharamsala	360-497	8-10	7 daily
Kalpa	400	11	6.15am
Kullu	319-740	7-8	8 daily
Manali	377-871	8-9	7 daily
Mandi	218-502	6	15 daily
Rekong Peo	355	10	approximately hourly 4-11.15am & 6.30-11.15pm
Sangla	350	10	7.15am
Sarahan	300	7	9.30am & 10.30am

TAXI

The Kalka-Shimla Himachal Taxi Union (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2658225; Cart Rd) has its office near the Old Bus Station, while Vishal Himachal Taxi Operators Union (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0177-2805164; Cart Rd) operates from the bottom of the passenger lift. Most hotels and travel agencies can organise car transfers to other towns, or a car and driver for an extended tour. A non-AC cab for up to four people to Manali costs around ₹5200, to Chandigarh ₹2100 and to Delhi around ₹6200. You pay between ₹300 and ₹1000 more for AC, depending on distance.

Vishal charges ₹1550 for day trips up to 80km, plus ₹12 for each extra kilometre.

TRAIN

One of the little joys of Shimla is getting to it by the narrow-gauge Kalka–

Shimla Railway from Kalka, just north of Chandigarh. This 'toy train' has been operating since 1906 and is one of the World Heritage-listed Mountain Railways of India. Although the steam trains are long gone, it's a scenic five to six-hour trip, with 102 tunnels and 988 bridges on its winding 96km route. Shimla station is 1.5km west of Scandal Point on Cart Rd – a 20- to 30-minute uphill walk to town.

Trains leave Kalka for Shimla at 3.30am, 5am, 5.20am, 6am and 12.10pm, and start the return trip at 10.25am, 2.25pm, 4.55pm, 5.50pm and 6.30pm. The most comfortable option is the Shivalik Express (train 52451 from Kalka at 5.20am, train 52452 from Shimla at 5.50pm) with AC chair cars only, costing ₹420/510 uphill/downhill including food. Other trains have fairly spartan 1st-class coaches (₹270 to ₹320) and usually 2nd-class coaches (₹25 unreserved, ₹40 to ₹65 reserved).

The Himalayan Queen service runs from/to Delhi Sarai Rohilla, with comfortable connection times at Kalka and total fares of ₹700/135 (AC chair/2nd class) for the Delhi–Shimla (or vice-versa) trip. A quicker alternative for the Delhi–Kalka (or vice-versa) leg is the Kalka Shatabdi: train 12011 departs New Delhi station for Kalka (AC chair car ₹640) at 7.40am and train 12012 leaves Kalka for New Delhi (₹725) at 5.45pm.

There's a rail booking office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Scandal Point; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-4pm Mon-Sat).

TIMINGS FOR HIMALAYAN QUEEN

DEPART	ARRIVE/DEPART KALKA	ARRIVE	TRAIN NOS
Delhi Sarai Rohilla 5.35am	11.10am/12.10pm	Shimla 5.30pm	14095 & 52455
Shimla 10.25am	4.10pm/4.55pm	Delhi Sarai Rohilla 10.40pm	52456 & 14096

Getting Around

The only way to get around central Shimla is on foot. Vehicles, including taxis, are banned from the Ridge and much of the Mall. Fortunately a two-part lift (GOOGLE MAP); per person ₹10; 🕒 8am-9pm Jul-Apr, 8am-10pm May & Jun) connects Cart Rd (GOOGLE MAP) with the Mall (GOOGLE MAP) about 600m east of Scandal Point. Taxis from the train station/ISBT to the bottom of the lift cost ₹150/250. Green-and-white local buses (₹7) run every few minutes between the ISBT and the Old Bus Station (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 0177-2656326; Cart Rd).

Porters will carry your luggage uphill (about ₹100 from Cart Rd to the Mall) but many double as hotel touts.

Naldehra & Around

📞 0177

The hill country in every direction from Shimla is beautiful, with plunging green river valleys and vistas over distant mountain ranges – best enjoyed away from the traffic-infested main roads. Some scruffy towns attract crowds of day-trippers for amusement parks, pony rides or the modest winter skiing at Narkanda, but there are a few out-of-the-ordinary places to stay scattered around the region.

Naldehra Golf Club (📞 0177-2747656; <http://naldehragolfclub.com>; green fees Indian/foreigner ₹575/863, club hire ₹288; 🕒 7am-7pm Apr-Sep, 9am-5pm Oct-Mar), 25km northeast of Shimla, was founded in 1905 by viceroy Lord Curzon (who loved Naldehra so much he named his daughter after it). The course, set on a ridge among tall cedars, is a challenging one with the quirk that many holes share one fairway, criss-crossing it at different angles. Hire a caddy (₹150 per nine holes) or you won't know where you're going. You can have a drink in the clubhouse whether you're playing or not.

★ Wildflower Hall

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(📞 0177-2648585; www.oberoihotels.com; s/d from ₹28,560/29,750; 🌐 @ 📶 📶)

The most regal lodgings in Himachal Pradesh, Wildflower Hall looms above the hamlet of Chharabra, 14km east of Shimla, exuding wealth from its teak-panelled lobby to its chandelier-lit indoor pool and its opulent colonial-style rooms with marble bathrooms. Rates fluctuate madly.

The restaurant ( 0177-2648686; mains ₹1150-2700;  12.30-3.30pm & 7-10.30pm), with a lovely panoramic terrace, serves a daily changing menu of Indian, Continental and Asian fare and is open to nonguests.

Getting There & Around

There are bus services from Shimla to most places of any size, including 11 daily buses to Naldehra (₹34, one hour) from Shimla's small Rivoli bus stand ( ; Circular Rd). Shimla taxi operators offer reasonably priced drop-offs and day trips.

KINNAUR

The district of Kinnaur, stretching up to the border with Tibet in southeastern Himachal, is blessed with magnificent mountain and valley scenery and a distinctive cultural and ethnic mix that mutates from Aryan Hindu to Tibetan Buddhist as you progress eastward. The Kinnauris are proud but friendly people, recognisable anywhere in India by their green felt basheri hats.

Hwy 05 (formerly Hwy 22) threads a spectacular route up the Sutlej (Satluj) valley, following or paralleling the course of the historic Hindustan–Tibet Road, a track constructed by the British in the 19th century in the hope of providing access to Tibet. The main valley is scarred by multiple dam projects that are turning the powerful Sutlej River into a massive generator, so to best appreciate Kinnaur you need to get up into the hills and side valleys.

Check road conditions beforehand, as monsoon landslides, floods or winter snows can block the roads for days or even weeks.

Beyond Kinnaur lies remote Spiti, which combines with Kinnaur into a loop from Shimla to Manali or Keylong that is an unending sequence of hair-raising roads through breathtaking scenery.

Lower Kinnaur gets monsoon rains in July and August, but east of Rekong Peo the landscape quickly becomes much more arid as you pass through a gap in the Great Himalayan Range and into the range's rain shadow. During Kinnaur's peak domestic tourist seasons – mid-April to June and mid-September to mid-October – it's worth booking ahead for rooms in popular spots including Sarahan, the Sangla Valley, Kalpa and Nako. At other times you may well get discounts.

Rampur

📍01782 / POP 10,300 / ELEV 1005M

The gateway to Kinnaur, this bustling bazaar town was the winter capital of the Bushahr rajahs who ruled Kinnaur from the 18th to mid-20th centuries. Most travellers coming from Shimla push on to Sarahan or beyond, but if you have time here, check out the very handsome Padam Palace, built for the Raja of Bushahr in the 1920s; only the garden is open to visitors but from there you can fully admire the building's stone arches, carved-wood upper storey, turreted towers and multi-gabled bandstand. Rampur's Lavi Fair (🕒 Nov), a huge commercial and cultural get-together in the second week of November, attracts traders and pilgrims from all over northwest India.

Rampur now has one of Kinnaur's best hotels, the Nau Nabh (📍01782-234405; www.hotelnauabn.com; r ₹2975-6545; 🏠 📶), with good-sized, beautifully kept rooms in a renovated 200-year-old section of the Padam Palace, and easily the town's best restaurant (Mains ₹180-350; 🕒 7am-11pm). Cheaper town-centre options include Hotel Satluj View (📍01782-233924; hotelsatlujview@yahoo.in; r ₹550-2380; 🏠 📶), with rooms ranging from dingy but clean to large and air-conditioned.

i Getting There & Away

Rampur's bus station is 2km east of the centre but many people jump on through buses at the rather chaotic Old Bus Stand in the centre. From the bus station there are services to Rekong Peo (₹160, five hours) at least hourly till 4.30pm, to Shimla (₹205, five hours) every half-hour till 9.30pm, to Sarahan (₹65, two hours) about every 20 minutes till 5.45pm, to Sangla (₹160, four hours) at 6am and 12.30pm, and to the Jalori Pass (₹123, four hours), Banjar (₹157, six hours) and Kullu (₹237, 10 hours) at 9.40am.

INNER LINE PERMITS

Foreigners planning to travel the spectacular Kinnaur–Spiti loop, in either direction, need an inner line permit for the section between Rekong Peo in Kinnaur and Sumdo in Spiti. This is easily and quickly obtained, any day except Sunday or the second Saturday of the month, in Rekong Peo or Kaza. If necessary, you can also get the permit at the office of the Additional District Magistrate (ADM; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍0177-2657005; Room 207/208, Block B, Collectorate Building; 🕒10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat each month) in Shimla (down a lane off the Mall 300m west of Scandal Point), though the process here is slightly more complicated: there must be at least two people applying together and you first need a sponsorship letter from an authorised travel agency (costing up to ₹200). Take this and copies of your passport's identity and visa pages to the ADM office. You'll be sent to the Sugam Centre, in the same governmental complex, to fill in a form, have your photo taken and pay ₹300 per person. You then return to the ADM office, where permits are usually issued within 30 minutes.

Note that a few Asian nationalities, including Chinese and Taiwanese, cannot get inner line permits but must apply for a special permit from the Home Affairs Ministry in Delhi.

Sarahan

📍01782 / POP 1700 / ELEV 1920M

The former summer capital of the Bushahr kingdom, Sarahan is dominated by the fabulous two-towered Bhimakali Temple (🕒6am-8pm), dedicated to a local version of the goddess Kali and built in the traditional Kinnauri manner from layers of stone and timber to absorb the force of earthquakes.

The right-hand tower (as viewed from the entrance) was recently rebuilt after the 12th-century original collapsed. The left-hand tower dates from the 1920s and contains the highly revered Bhimakali shrine beneath a beautiful silver-filigree canopy on its top floor.

The towers' curved, peaked roofs suggest the Tibetan influence on Kinnauri architecture, which becomes more marked as you move up the valley.

For entry to the innermost courtyard with the towers, male visitors must wear a cap (available on the spot), and cameras, mobile phones and leather items must be left in lockers.

Most lodgings will provide meals, or you can choose from a handful of dhabas in the bazaar area below the temple.

There's a State Bank ATM (Main Bazar) opposite the Civil Hospital.

Temple Resthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(☎ 01782-274248; dm ₹70, r ₹350-550)

Rooms here, within the ancient temple precinct itself, are plain and simple but, unlike most temple accommodation, far from gloomy. The upper-storey rooms in particular are bright, spacious and airy, with hot water.

Hotel Trehan's

HOTEL $

(☎ 9816687605; www.hoteltrehansarahan.com; r ₹600-1000; 📶)

Run by a friendly family, this rambling budget establishment has rooms with ornate ceilings, big windows and chintzy tapestries of Indian epics that give it a touch of character. Shared terraces have great views over the valley and there's a restaurant for all meals.

Hotel Srikhand

HOTEL $$

(☎ 01782-274234; www.hptdc.gov.in; s ₹1430-2860, d ₹1900-3810)

The most popular and just about the best place in town at research time, though that's lukewarm praise. Rooms are carpeted and have mountain views, and in most cases balconies, but are in serious need of some TLC. There's a reasonable restaurant (mains ₹100-275; 🕒 7.30am-10pm) but really the best thing about the hotel is the panoramic terrace of the bar.

i Getting There & Away

There are buses to Shimla (₹300, seven hours) at 4am, 6.30am, 8am and noon, but you can also get one of the frequent services to Rampur (₹65, two hours) and change there. To head on eastward into Kinnaur, take any bus as far as Jeori (₹30, 45 minutes) on Hwy 05 below Sarahan, and catch an eastbound bus there. The last bus from Jeori up to Sarahan leaves around 6.30pm. Taxis are about ₹350.

Sangla Valley

The Sangla, or Baspa, Valley is a deeply carved cleft between burly mountain slopes, where evergreen forests rise to alpine meadows crowned by snowy summits. Villages here feature houses and temples built in traditional Kinnauri timber-and-stone style. The road up the valley leaves Hwy 05 at Karcham, passing the gushing outflow pipes from a big hydroelectric plant: the first 15km, up to the dam just below the valley's only town, Sangla, are truly hair-raising.

Sangla & Around

📞01786

The largest settlement in the valley, the small town of Sangla is a place where you might stop for lunch, change buses or stay overnight if you can't find onward transport further up the valley. It has a couple of cybercafes and a State Bank ATM on the main street.

Kamru Fort

FORT

(🕒 5am-6pm)

Clinging to a rocky spur 2km north of Sangla (about 30 minutes' walk),

Kamru village was the original capital of the kingdom of Bushahr. The old Kamru Fort, a 329-step climb up from the foot of the village, contains several handsome wood-and-stone buildings with curved, peaked roofs, notably its main tower with its shrine to the goddess Kamakhya Devi. On the way up is the Badrinath Temple, a classic example of Kinnauri religious syncretism with both Hindu and Buddhist shrines.

Baspa Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(☎) 9816385065; Sangla; d ₹600-700, tr & q ₹1200-1400)

Just down the street from the bus stand, the bare-bones but adequately clean Baspa is a popular budget option. Rooms vary, so look at a few: those on the top floor have showers in their bathrooms, while others have a hot tap and a bucket and scoop.

★ Banjaracamps

TENTED CAMP $$$

(☎) 011-65152334; www.banjaracamps.com; Batseri; incl full board s ₹7000-11,500, d ₹8000-12,500;

(🕒) closed Nov–mid-Mar)

Banjara's comfortable, large tents, with beds, furniture and proper bathrooms, are spaced around a flower-strewn apple orchard on a scenic river bend 6km up the valley from Sangla. There are also two riverbank cottages and 14 beautifully crafted rooms in a handsome stone building, the Retreat. It's excellent accommodation, with good multicuisine food, in a near-idyllic setting.

i Getting There & Away

Buses from Sangla (times approximate):

- ➔ Chitkul (₹35, 1½ hours) 11am, 1.30pm, 5.30pm
- ➔ Rampur (₹160, four hours) 6.30am, 11.30am, 12.30pm, 5.30pm
- ➔ Rekong Peo (₹65, 2½ hours) 7am, 1pm, 2.45pm
- ➔ Shimla (₹350, 10 hours) 6.30am, 5.30pm (or go to Rampur and change buses there)

Taxis ask ₹1500 to Chitkul and ₹800 to Karcham.

Chitkul

POP 600 / ELEV 3450M

The last stop on an old trade route to Tibet and at the junction of several trekking routes, Chitkul is easily the most scenic settlement along the Sangla. It sees a steady flow of international and domestic tourists, but villagers maintain a pretty traditional lifestyle and a somewhat reserved attitude to outsiders.

Sights & Activities

A good number of traditional Kinnauri-style wooden houses topped with slate roofs survive despite the encroachment of concrete and tin. The Mohatmin Mandir temple in the middle of the village, dedicated to the local god Mathi, has some excellent carving in wood and stone.

Walks & Treks

A short walk up the hillside above the village opens up some great views; even better is the 3km track up the beautiful valley to the Indo-Tibetan Border Police Post (Nagasti) at Nagasti. The high white peak of Tholla beckons ahead, but civilians are not allowed past the border post even though Tibet is still about 40km away. For longer day walks you can head up the Baspa's side valleys.

Chitkul is also where the three-day trekking trail circumambulating Kinner Kailash descends into the Sangla Valley. Trekking routes to the Pabbar Valley and Uttarakhand's Garhwal region head over passes on the south side of the valley (it's eight to 10 days to Harsil near Gangotri).

Banjara Camps, among others, organises treks in this region. Baabe at Kinner Heights guesthouse can help organise guides, porters, food and equipment.

Sleeping & Eating

Several guesthouses and a couple of larger but not very inviting hotels are set at the foot of the village. Among the best guesthouses is Kinner Heights ( 8988238129; s ₹500-550, d ₹750-1200;  closed Dec-Mar), with good clean rooms. Owner Baabe makes good meals and can give tips on walks and treks. Also dependable is the long-running Thakur Guest House ( 8988209604; r ₹500-900;  closed Nov-Mar), with decent clean rooms and an upstairs restaurant.

Getting There & Away

Buses leave Chitkul for Rekong Peo (₹100, four hours) at around 6am and 1.30pm, and for Shimla (₹380, 11 hours) at 3.30pm, all going through Sangla.

Rekong Peo

 01786 / POP 2400 / ELEV 2290M

Rekong Peo is the main administrative and commercial centre for Kinnaur and a transport hub, but the main reason to visit is as a stepping stone to the pretty village of Kalpa, or to obtain an inner line permit for onward travel to upper Kinnaur and Spiti. Known locally as ‘Peo’, the town spreads along a looping road about 10km above Hwy 05. Most hotels, and an SBI ATM, are in the main bazaar below the bus stand.

Hotel Fairyland ( 9459700037; Main Bazar; r ₹550-650) is the best of an otherwise grotty bunch of budget hotels in the main bazaar.

Head to Little Chef's Restaurant (Main Bazar; mains ₹130-260;  8am-10pm) for the most salubrious surroundings and a decent range of Indian dishes.

Information

Several agencies in the Tourist Information Centre building, 200m down the main road from the roundabout in the main bazaar, are good for arranging inner line permits. Monk Travels ( 9805530056; www.themonktravels.com; Office 201, TIC Bldg) will obtain your permit for ₹400 within about an hour if you bring your passport between 10am and 4pm (best in the morning) – except on Sundays and the second Saturday of each month, when the permit-issuing office is closed. All travellers must come in person to be photographed. The permits are valid for 14 days.

Getting There & Away

The bus stand is 2km uphill from the main bazaar by road, or 500m if you take the steps starting next to the police compound at the top of ITBP Rd (which runs up off Main Bazar at Little Chef's restaurant).

Buses run roughly hourly, 4.30am to 6.30pm to Shimla (₹355, 10 hours), with deluxe services (₹435) at 5.30am and 1.30pm. For Sarahan, change at Jeori (₹135, 3½ hours). Buses to Sangla (₹65, 2½ hours) and Chitkul (₹100, four hours) leave at 9.30am and 2.30pm, and there are noon and 4pm buses just to Sangla.

For Spiti, there's a 7am bus to Kaza (₹355, 11 hours) via Nako (₹175, five hours) and Tabo (₹270, eight hours). A second bus heads to Nako at noon. Both these depart Rekong Peo 30 minutes earlier from November to March.

Taxi rates are ₹3500 to Chitkul, ₹7000 to Shimla and ₹8000 to Kaza.

Kalpa

 01786 / POP 1250 / ELEV 2960M

Reached by a winding 7km road up through pine woods and apple orchards from Rekong Peo, Kalpa is a little gem of a village. Majestic views of the Kinner Kailash massif, especially Kinner Kailash (6050m) and Jorkanden (6473m), grab your eyeballs and don't let go.

Kalpa's central temple group encompasses the colourful Buddhist monastery Lochawa La-Khang (Samdub Choeling); a recently rebuilt, tower-style fort just above it; and the Hindu Narayan-Nagini temple about 50m along the path past the Lochawa La-Khang. The Narayan-Nagini's ornate sculptures include tigers (a vehicle of Durga, to whom it's dedicated) and dragons (evidence of the strong Tibetan influence in this region).

For an ambitious full-day hike, ask locals about the trail up to the meadows and ponds of Chakkha, starting from Hotel Kinner Kailash on Roghi Rd.

Sleeping & Eating

Kalpa has a good range of accommodation, with several guesthouses in Chini, the main part of the village, plus a number of modern hotels on Roghi Rd, a 500m walk (or longer drive) above the centre.

Hotel Blue Lotus

HOTEL $

( 01786-226001; khokanroy.bluelotus@gmail.com; r ₹800-1200; )

Only 100m from the bus stand, this friendly, concrete place is hard to beat for sheer convenience. Rooms are a touch shabby but not bad value, and the wide, sunny terraces face directly across to the mountains – ideal for meals with a view (mains ₹60 to ₹250).

Chini Bungalow Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9805495656; r ₹1200)

Just 100m up a path from the centre of Kalpa, this is a friendly little place with five clean, cosy rooms and great temple and mountain views from its balconies and flowery garden. The two upstairs rooms are best but all are fine. No meals, but you can eat at Hotel Blue Lotus, nearby. Off-season discounts are around 50%.

★ Grand Shamba-La

HOTEL $$$

(Grand Shangri-La;  9805695423, 01786-226134; <http://thegrandshambala.com>; Roghi Rd; r ₹3850-4950; )

The very comfortable rooms here are beautifully pine-panelled and decked with Tibetan-design fabrics, and the best enjoy stupendous views from picture windows. Beds are soft, the bathrooms have great hot showers, and Indian, Tibetan and Chinese food (mains ₹120 to ₹300) is excellent. There's also a good library with books on India and Tibet.

i Getting There & Away

Buses run at least hourly from 7am to 7pm between the roundabout in Rekong Peo's main bazaar and Kalpa (₹15, 30 minutes), or you can take a taxi (₹400/500 from Rekong Peo to lower/upper Kalpa). First bus down from Kalpa leaves at 6.30am. For walkers, a well-worn stepped path of about 3km short-cuts the winding 7km road.

Buses depart for Shimla (₹400, 11 hours) at 6.30am, 10.30am and 2.30pm, and for Sangla (₹60, three hours) and Chitkul (₹90, 4½ hours) at around 8.30am. More buses run from Rekong Peo.

Rekong Peo to Sumdo

The road from Kinnaur into Spiti is a procession of awe-inspiring vistas, often clinging precariously to cliffsides, the river flashing hundreds of metres below. Foreigners must show their inner line permits at the Akpa checkpoint on Hwy 05, 17km east of the Rekong Peo turn-off.

Near Khab, Hwy 05 heads off up to the Chinese border at the Shipki La (off-limits to foreigners). The valley road (now Hwy 505) continues 2km to the confluence of the Sutlej and Spiti Rivers, then threads the dramatic Spiti gorge upstream. High above the Spiti River, Nako village is an interesting place to break the journey. North of Nako the road descends to the river again at Chango. Sumdo, 14km further on, marks the administrative border between Kinnaur and Spiti: foreigners must show their inner line permits again here.

Nako

POP 570 / ELEV 3660M

High above the Hangrang Valley (as the lower Spiti valley is called), this almost medieval-feeling village of stone and mud-brick houses is a great place to break the journey for a day or two. Administratively part of Kinnaur but culturally in Buddhist Spiti, Nako is centred on a small sacred lake, behind which rise towering rock-strewn mountains dotted by chortens.

On the western edge of Nako you'll find the four 11th-century chapels of Nako Gompa, containing some fine murals and sculptures in similar styles to those of Spiti's famous Tabo Gompa.

Activities

For fine vistas, walk up to the prayer wheel on the hill above the lake (about 500m from the village centre). For even better vistas, continue about 800m (more steeply upward) to the 3900m Nako Pass, a noticeable cleft in the rocky ridge to the south.

Beyond Nako Pass a scenic pilgrimage and hiking trail continues to the historic monastery at the remote hamlet Tashigang – about three hours, fairly level, from the pass. Guru Padmasambhava is believed to have meditated and taught at Tashigang. Hard-core hikers can continue for about two hours further to caves and a tiny monastery at Tsomang (or Somang).

It's possible to sleep and eat at the Tashigang monastery: take a gift for the monks by way of donation (sugar is one thing they appreciate). The Nako authorities like tourists to go with a guide (₹500 to ₹1500), though the path is clear and many people go without one.

Sleeping

Nako has simple homestays and guesthouses such as Amar Home Stay ( 9418629453; s/d ₹500/550), signposted down steps 20m from the bus stop, where clean rooms with hot-water bathrooms open onto a pretty garden. Better, though sometimes busy with groups, are the excellent Knaygoh Kinner Camps ( 9418440767; www.knaygohkinnercamps.com; d with half-board tent ₹4500-5500, r ₹3500; 🕒 late Apr-late Oct), a short walk above the lake, with cosy ensuite tents and four clean rooms, and the ugly but quite comfy Hotel Reo Purguil (📞 9459494111; vjneginawa69@gmail.com; r ₹700-2000; 🕒 May-Oct), next to the bus stop.

i Getting There & Away

Buses to Rekong Peo (₹175, five hours) leave Nako at about 8am and noon. A bus to Tabo (₹105, three hours) and Kaza (₹177, 5½ hours) stops here about noon, and there's a bus around 4pm or 5pm just to Sumdo.

CENTRAL HIMACHAL PRADESH

Central Himachal is focused on the Kullu Valley, a green vale between high mountains, watered by the Beas River flowing south from the Rohtang La pass. Manali, below the Rohtang, is one of northern India's most popular travel destinations, a centre for all types of Indian and foreign travellers – hippies, hikers, honeymooners, weekenders and adrenaline junkies.

The Kullu Valley is known as Dev Bhumi (Valley of Gods) either because of its many sacred sites or simply because of its exceptional beauty. It's also famous for, among other things, its warm woollen shawls and its charas (hashish). Side valleys like the Parvati and Tirthan Valleys are, if anything, even more beautiful. In the hundreds of mountain villages, life still goes on in a pretty traditional way, and the chance to get away from the towns amid the spectacular landscape shouldn't be missed.

Mandi

☞ 01905 / POP 26,500 / ELEV 800M

The rambunctious bazaar town of Mandi (its name means 'market'), at the junction of main roads from Kullu, Shimla and Dharamsala, is no tourist town, and it has a sticky air reminiscent of the plains. But it's dotted with (according to official figures) 81 temples, many of them ancient Shaivite shrines, and it's fun tracking these down in the bazaars and along the banks of the Beas River.

Mandi is centred on a sunken-garden-cum-shopping-complex called Indira Market, with steps on the north side up to the Raj Mahal Palace. East of Mandi, Hwy 3 threads a dramatic gorge along the Beas River before turning north into the Kullu Valley.

Bhootnath Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

At the entrance to Bhootnath Bazar, 100m northwest of Indira Market, this 16th-century temple recently had its garish paintwork removed, showing off its fine stone carving to much better effect. It's the focal point for the animated Shivaratri Festival honouring Lord Shiva in February/March.

River Temples

If you follow Bhootnath Bazar to the Beas River you'll find the very colourful Ekardash Rudra Mandir, the British-built Victoria Bridge, some cremation ghats and several carved stone sikhara (corn-cob- or beehive-shaped) temples. Most impressive of these, facing each other across the Beas 150m east of the ghats, are the intricately sculpted, centuries-old Panchvaktra Mandir on the south bank and Triloknath Mandir on the north.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Krishna

HOTEL $

( 01905-223088; Facing Indira Market; s/d ₹400/550)

The Krishna has adequate, medium-sized, clean-enough rooms with ceiling fans, and may have vacancies when other hotels on the same street are full.

Raj Mahal Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

( 01905-222401; www.rajmahalpalace.com; District Court Gate; r ₹1600-4300;

The Raj Mahal occupies part of the palace of Mandi's ex-royal family, who are still in residence. It has a degree of olde-worlde charm, though maintenance is lagging. 'Standard' rooms are nothing fancy, but the large deluxes and super-deluxes still have an aristocratic touch.

The Copacabana Bar & Restaurant (Raj Mahal Palace; mains ₹160-350;  7am-10pm) here, with the option of eating out on a large, tree-shaded lawn, is part of the appeal – peaceful for breakfast, animated for dinner.

Getting There & Away

The bus stand is 500m east of the centre across the Suketi Khad stream, a ₹30 autorickshaw ride. For Dharamsala, if there are no immediate buses, head to Palampur and change there.

BUSES FROM MANDI

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Delhi	525-1072	13	20 daily
Dharamsala	197	6	5 daily
Kullu	106	2½	half-hourly
Manali	170-340	4	half-hourly
Palampur	160	4	hourly
Rekong Peo	218-295	12	7 daily
Shimla	218-250	6	16 daily

Rewalsar Lake

 01905 / ELEV 1350M

Hidden in the hills 24km southwest of Mandi, the sacred lake of Rewalsar is revered by Buddhists, Hindus and Sikhs. Tibetan Buddhists know it as Tso-Pema (Lotus Lake) and believe it was created when the king of Mandi tried to burn alive the revered Buddhist sage Padmasambhava (Guru Rinpoche), to prevent his daughter Mandarava running off with the long-haired Tantric master. The lake's 800m perimeter is surrounded by a collection of mostly modern temples, monasteries and monuments, in which all three faiths are represented.

Sights & Activities

Immediately in front of the entrance arch on the lake's east side is the Fish Feeding Point, where a seething mass of holy carp gobbles up flour balls or puffed rice thrown by visitors. The Tibetan-style Drikung Kagyu Gompa (www.dk-petsek.org), with its academy for Buddhist monks, stands immediately to the right here. Its temple features a large, central Sakyamuni statue, with Padmasambhava to the left.

Moving clockwise around the lake, you pass a colourful lakeshore shrine to Padmasambhava and then the Tso-Pema Ogyen Heruka Nyingmapa Gompa, with artful murals and atmospheric afternoon and morning pujas (prayer sessions). A few minutes' detour uphill from the lake, passing the Zigar Drukpa Kargyud Institute, with outsized statues of Tantric protectors in its temple, takes you to Rewalsar's signature monument, a giant 12m-high statue of Padmasambhava, with his trademark fiercely staring eyes and right hand in the warding-off-evil mudra (gesture). Inaugurated by the Dalai Lama in 2012, it affords grand views over the lake.

Continuing clockwise around the lake, you pass a small Hindu temple group before reaching a grassy little lakeside park with a couple of benches where you can enjoy the view and atmosphere. On the far side of the lake is the gold-domed Guru Gobind Singh Gurdwara, a Sikh temple built in the 1930s. Rewalsar is of special significance to Sikhs as the place where, in 1701, Guru Gobind Singh, the 10th Sikh guru, issued a call to the Hindu rajas of the Punjab hills for joint resistance against the Mughals.

The other main Buddhist site is the Padmasambhava Cave, high above the lake, where Padmasambhava allegedly meditated. It's a climb of about 1.5km from behind the big Padmasambhava statue – or take a taxi (one way/return ₹500/600), or jump on one of the buses departing Rewalsar bus stand at 9.30am, 10.30am, 11.30am, 2pm and 5pm for Naina Devi Temple (₹30) and get off 1km before the temple.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Lotus Lake

HOTEL $

( 01905-240239; hlotuslake@yahoo.com; r ₹500-700)

The best rooms at this Buddhist-run place, near the lakeshore Padmasambhava shrine, are bright, with lake views. The cheapest are shabbier and viewless. All are adequately clean, with hot-water bathrooms.

Drikung Kagyu Gompa Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 01905-240243; www.dk-petsek.org; r ₹500, without bathroom ₹200)

Of several monastery guesthouses this is probably the best, offering a shared terrace with peaceful lake views.

Emaho Bistro

CAFE $

(Drikung Kagyu Gompa; dishes ₹40-120, breakfast ₹150; 🕒 8am-8pm; 📶)

Has good coffee, good wi-fi, views across the lake and excellent all-day breakfasts, cakes, juices, teas and other snacks and light dishes. What more could you ask for?

Getting There & Away

Buses from Mandi to Rewalsar (₹35, 1¼ hours) leave frequently until late afternoon from the street between Indira Market and the Suketi Khad bridge. The last one back leaves about 6pm. A taxi is ₹600/1000 one way/return.

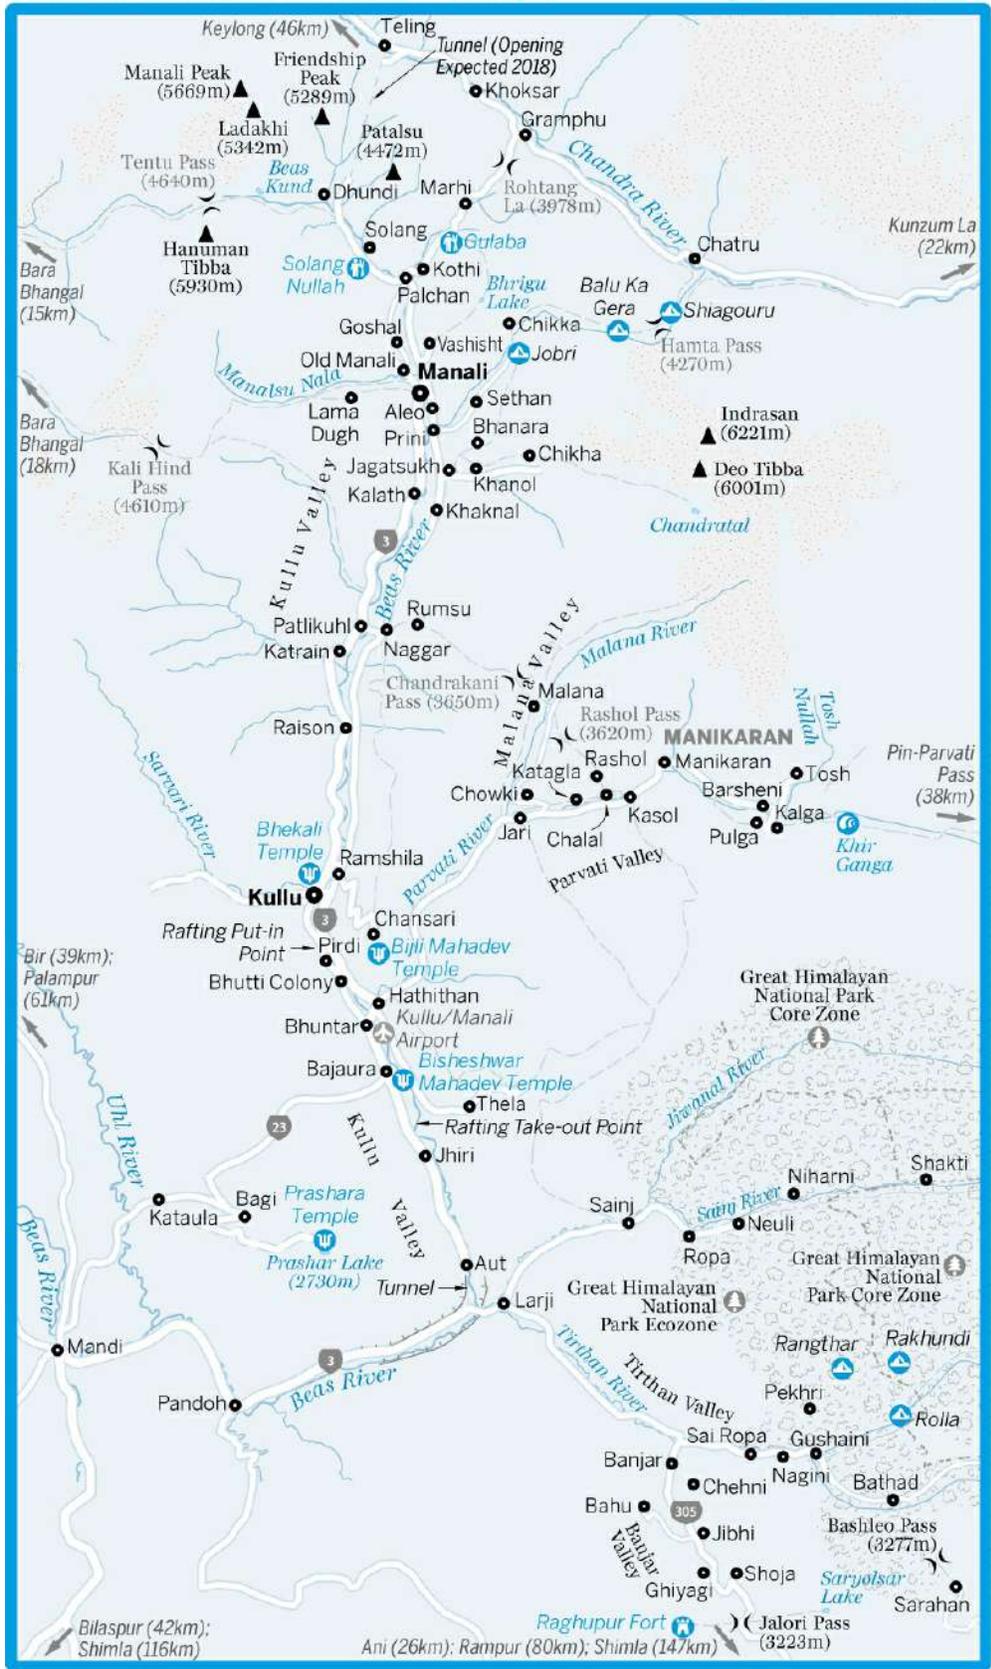

Tirthan & Banjar Valleys

From the south end of the Kullu Valley, the Tirthan Valley leads up southeast into the region known as Inner Seraj. This is an area of exceptional valley and mountain scenery, unspoiled villages and nature, great walks and inviting guesthouses. It's becoming known among Indians seeking a low-key escape from the plains, but is still off most foreign visitors' radar. It's the gateway to the spectacular, World Heritage-listed Great Himalayan National Park, 754 pristine square kilometres of steep-sided river valleys and mountains reaching right up to the 6000m-plus peaks of the Great Himalayan Range.

Inner Seraj has two main valleys – that of the Tirthan River itself, and the Banjar Valley which rises southward from the small town of Banjar. The Banjar Valley climbs to the 3132m Jalori Pass, which leads over to the Sutlej valley and thus forms the most direct route linking the Kullu Valley with Kinnaur.

Kullu, Parvati & Tirthan Valleys

Sights & Activities

Access to the core zone of the Great Himalayan National Park requires some preparation and paperwork, which is worthwhile only if you have at least two full days, preferably several more. But there are also good hikes in the buffer zone along the park's western edge, called the Ecozone, and even outside the park completely, such as from the Jalori Pass. The Tirthan Valley is also tops for birdwatching (best in April, May, October and November) and trout fishing (best from about April to June and August to October).

★ Jalori Pass

VIEWPOINT

At the top of the Banjar Valley, Hwy 305 climbs over the panoramic 3223m Jalori Pass, marked by a couple of dhabas and a Mahakali temple. In calm weather this is a great spot for observing Himalayan griffon vultures, the biggest birds in the Indian Himalaya. From the pass you can walk 6km east (pretty level) to the small, holy Saryolsar Lake (Serolsar Lake), or 3km west (uphill) to the scanty ruins of Raghupur Fort, through evergreen oak forests in both cases.

A taxi round trip from Jibhi to the pass, including time for you to walk to Saryolsar or Raghupur, costs ₹1800. The road over the pass is unpaved for the 16km from Ghiyagi on the north side to Khanag on the south, and the pass is normally closed by snow from approximately mid-December to early March.

From Saryolsar Lake trekkers can continue to Lambhari (or Lambri) Top, a ridge at about 3600m with spectacular mountain vistas (two or three days there and back).

Great Himalayan National Park

The park (GHNP; www.greathimalayannationalpark.org) embraces four river valleys descending westward from the Great Himalayan Range, easily the most visited of which is the Tirthan Valley. Coming up the Tirthan from the west, you enter the Ecozone at Gushaini village and the core zone 8km upstream from there. The glaciers, snow and alpine meadows of the park's higher altitudes give way to lush forests lower down, and park is home to a great variety of wildlife including snow leopards, bears and more than 200 bird species.

For any overnight stays in the core zone, you must obtain a permit (Indian/foreigner per day ₹100/400) and hire a certified local guide and porters. It's easiest to organise things with the help of a local agency such as Sunshine Himalayan Adventures (☎01902-225182, 9418102083; www.sunshineadventure.com; Akhara Bazar, Kullu), with a base near Gushaini, or Banjar-based Himalayan Ecotourism (☎9816091093; <http://himalayanecotourism.in>; Banjar), both of which are closely involved with the local community and offer birdwatching and wildlife tours as well as treks. Costs for equipped, staffed and guided treks range between about ₹2000 and ₹4000 per person per day depending on group size, length of trek and other variables.

The best hiking and trekking months are April to June and September to November. Many routes are closed by snow from December to March.

TOP WALKS & TREKS IN THE GREAT HIMALAYAN NATIONAL PARK

Ecozone

Gushaini to Park Gate

This lovely day hike takes you 8km from the bridge in Gushaini to the gate of the national park's core zone, following the steep-sided, thickly forested Tirthan Valley, with the river a constant presence below and some beautiful waterfalls en route. Total ascent is about 500m and it takes about three hours to go up, a bit less coming down.

Rangthar Trek

A two- or three-day moderate-level trek at altitudes between about 2100m and 2800m, with great mountain vistas, starting from Pekhri village, reachable by 4WD north from Gushaini.

Core Zone

Rakhundi Trek

Easy to moderate trek to panoramic high meadow at about 3600m on north side of Tirthan Valley in the national park core zone; four or five days from Gushaini and back.

Thirat (Tirth) Trek

One of the finest core zone treks: from Gushaini to the head of the Tirthan River at about 4000m, and back; six to nine days, moderate to strenuous.

Sleeping & Eating

Doli Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(Rana Swiss Cottage; 📞 01903-228234; www.kshatra.com; Jibhi; s/d/tr ₹660/770/880, cottages d/tr ₹1650/2200; 📶)

In business since 1992, Doli is one of the area's best-value stays. The 50-year-old wooden house has six simple en-suite rooms with colourful textiles, and its cafe, opening into a pretty garden overlooking the Jibhi Nala stream, serves Indian, Continental and Israeli food, with an emphasis on organic ingredients (mains ₹100 to ₹250, thali ₹200).

★ Raju Bharti's Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞 9459833124; www.facebook.com/Rajubhartiguesthouse; Gushaini; per person incl full board ₹1800)

The Tirthan Valley's best known guesthouse, wood-built Raju's has a perfect riverbank location 400m downstream from Gushaini bridge. Access is by an exciting basket-on-a-cable affair across the rushing river. The two doubles and six 'family suites' (one double and one twin room each) are all cosy and clean. It's very popular and gets fully booked about three months ahead for the April to June season.

Leena's Place

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞9816057101; www.jibhiadventure.com; Jibhi; d incl breakfast ₹1600-2500; 📶)

A friendly and well-run place 500m down Hwy 305 from Jibhi village in the Banjar Valley, Leena's has five bright, comfortable rooms in pine and mud-covered brick, with home-cooked, vegetarian meals available. Guests can do their own cooking if preferred.

Owner Lalit offers treks, bike tours and other activities.

Bisht Niwas Home Stay

HOMESTAY $$

(📞9816650262; <http://tirthanstay.com>; Nagini; d ₹1200, incl breakfast ₹1500)

With six almost new and spotlessly clean rooms and a great riverside location, Bisht offers some of the best value in the area. It's 2.7km west down the valley road from Gushaini.

Khem Bharti Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(Hotel Trout Valley; 📞9459101113; www.troutvalley.co.in; Nagini; r incl full board ₹2800-3800)

Provides good wood-panelled rooms, excellent home-cooked meals and plenty of local information and help, in a handsome 50-year-old wooden house, 2.8km down the valley road from Gushaini.

i Getting There & Away

The road up the Tirthan Valley (Hwy 305) leaves the Kullu–Mandi road (Hwy 3) at the south end of the 3km-long Aut Tunnel, south of Aut town. Buses running between Mandi and Kullu (or vice-versa) will drop you at Aut. Taxis from Aut to Gushaini or Jibhi cost ₹1000: to arrange one in advance you can call English-speaking Aut-based driver Bharat (📞9816610023).

Buses from Aut to Banjar (₹37, 1½ hours), some of them originating in Kullu, leave Aut at least hourly from 8am to 4pm or later. The last Banjar–Aut bus leaves at 5.30pm. From Banjar, nine buses run to Gushaini (₹7, 30 minutes) and Bathad (₹15, one hour) between 7.30am and 5pm. Returning, the first and last buses from Bathad are at 7.30am and about 4.30pm. The 7.30am, 8am and 3pm departures continue to Aut and Kullu.

At least four buses depart Banjar between 7.30am and 12.30pm for Jibhi (₹12, 30 minutes) and, from about March to mid-December, the Jalori Pass (₹31, 1½ hours) and various destinations beyond it including Rampur (₹158, six hours, departing Banjar at 7.30am and 11.30am). Further buses head up from Banjar to Jibhi until at least 4.30pm.

Bhuntar

☎01902 / POP 4500

This market town is the location of the Kullu Manali airport, and the main junction for transport to the Parvati Valley. At Bajaura, 5km south of Bhuntar, the 9th-century Bisheshwar Mahadev Temple is well worth a stop. A rare and outstandingly handsome Kullu Valley example of the classic stone sikhara temples of the North Indian plains, it's dedicated to Shiva as Lord of the Universe. The temple is covered all over with ornate carving, and niches on the outside contain superb reliefs of Vishnu (west side), Ganesh (south) and Durga (north). It's 200m east of Hwy 3.

Sleeping & Eating

The best hotel is Hotel Malabar (☎01902-266199; www.hotelmalabarkullu.com; r ₹2380-3340; 🌟), 500m north of the airport, with cosy, pine-panelled rooms and a good multicuisine restaurant (mains ₹180 to ₹300). About 500m further up the main street, Hotel Amit (☎01902-265123; www.hotelamitkullu.com; r non-AC ₹1780-2380, AC ₹3090-3680; 🌟) has some cheaper non-AC rooms but is a lot less appealing. Discounts of around 30% are often offered at both places. Hotel

Sunbeam (☎9418641908; d ₹500-1000), next to the Amit, is an adequately clean budget option.

i Getting There & Away

The airport is at the southern end of town, 600m from the bus stand. Air India flies to/from Delhi daily, though flights are sometimes cancelled in bad weather.

Frequent buses run until about 10pm to Kullu (₹15, 30 minutes) and Mandi (₹90, two hours). For Manali (₹70, 2½ hours), flag down a bus on the main road or change in Kullu. Buses up the Parvati Valley run about half-hourly from about 5.30am to 6pm. Buses to Dharamsala, Shimla and Delhi pass through Bhuntar two to 2½ hours after leaving Manali: you'll normally have to flag them down on the main road. The taxi stand is opposite the bus stand: fares are ₹950 to Kasol, ₹1550 to Barsheni and ₹1400 to Manali.

Parvati Valley

The Parvati River enters the Beas just above Bhuntar and its ethereally beautiful valley stretches back up to the hot springs at Manikaran and beyond into the 5000m heights of the Great Himalayan Range. The valley has a well-deserved reputation for its charas (hashish), and several villages have been transformed into hippie/backpacker hang-outs, offering cheap accommodation, international food and nonstop music to crowds of international travellers. Like Manali, the Parvati is a favourite destination along the 'hummus trail' followed by post-military service Israeli travellers. It's also increasingly popular among young Indians. Police sometimes set up checkpoints along the roads to search for charas.

There are some excellent treks in the area, including over the Chandrakani Pass to/from Naggar, or the Pin-Parvati Pass to/from Spiti. For safety reasons, solo trekking is not recommended.

Accommodation is plentiful and cheap, with backpacker-oriented guesthouses clustering especially in and around Kasol but also at Jari and places beyond Manikaran, such as Pulga, Kalga, Tosh and Khir Ganga. Prices are very negotiable and in the smaller places rooms for ₹300 or less can often be found.

Buses up the valley start from Bhuntar about half-hourly from about 5.30am to 6pm, going to Jari (₹30, 1¼ hours), Kasol (₹40, 1¾ hours) and Manikaran (₹50, two hours); about half of them continue to Barsheni (₹75, three hours). A few buses run from Manali or Kullu all the way to Manikaran (and back), but more likely you'll have to change in Bhuntar.

Plentiful taxis are available for travel into and around the valley. Typical fares include ₹300 from Jari to Kasol, ₹150 from Kasol to Manikaran, ₹1000/1500 one way/return from Kasol to Nerang (for Malana), ₹2200 from Kasol to Manali, and ₹550 from Manikaran to Barsheni.

CHARAS

Many travellers are attracted to the Parvati Valley and the Manali area by the famous local charas (hashish), which is seriously potent stuff. Though it's smoked fairly openly in the Parvati Valley, Old Manali and Vashisht, it's still illegal and police do arrest people for possession (or hit them for hefty bribes).

Jari

Jari is a ramshackle roadside bazaar village 20km up the Parvati Valley from its mouth. Travellers head for the peaceful hillside hamlet of Mateura Jari, with its cheap accommodation and several traditional wood-and-stone temples, a 700m uphill hike from Jari bus stop (follow the 'Village Guest House' signs).

For guide services to Malana or trekking anywhere in the Parvati Valley, contact Negi's Himalayan Adventure ( 9418281894, 9816081894; www.negis-kasol-malana-parvati.com; Hotel Negi's Nest II, Chowki) at Hotel Negi's Nest II, across the river from Jari (a ₹150 taxi ride). Owner Chapu Negi is head of the area's mountain rescue team, so he's as reliable as it gets. A guide for a day costs ₹2000, and trekking is around ₹3000 per person per day, plus transport. The hotel rooms ( 9418281894; www.negis-kasol-malana-parvati.com; d ₹2500-3000, tr ₹3500, tr tent ₹1500; ) are comfortable and pine-panelled with good clean bathrooms, and there's a restaurant and kitchen for guests, plus tents for lower budgets.

Sleeping & Eating

In addition to places in Mateura Jari, you'll find a few more homestays and guesthouses tucked away along the pathways and in Punthal, 1km further.

Village Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9816594249; www.facebook.com/village-guest-house-kasol-jari-205081383167806; r ₹500, without bathroom ₹300; )

This large-ish, welcoming property is the first you come to in Mateura Jari and has the most comfortable rooms, especially those with attached bathroom ranged along the pretty garden. The family here are charming and they serve up good Indian and traveller food, too (mains ₹100 to ₹350).

WARNING – DEADLY VACATIONS

Since the mid-1990s, more than two dozen foreign tourists have disappeared from the Kullu and Parvati Valleys. While some got too deep into the local drug trade and crossed the wrong people, others became lost or fatally injured while trekking alone through the confusing and rugged mountain terrain.

If you plan to head into the hills, we recommend going with a guide who can steer you away from natural – and human – hazards. It's a good idea to let your guesthouse know where you are going and when you plan to return. Avoid walking alone, and be cautious about befriending sadhus (holy people) or others wandering in the woods. So go, hike, and enjoy this incredible area – just be smart about it, for your family's sake!

Malana

Remote Malana, high on a hillside 20km up a side valley north of Jari, is one strange village. Its people – descended, according to legend, from deserters from Alexander the Great's army – speak their own unique language, operate what's called the world's oldest democracy, consider outsiders unclean and step aside if you pass them to avoid being touched. Malana's famous charas (hashish), known as 'cream', is the backbone of its economy, and is what many visitors mainly come for. A rough road now reaches within striking distance of Malana, but for centuries it was one of the most isolated spots in the region. Be ready for random police checkpoints on the road, and bring your passport because security at the hydroelectric station en route may want to see it.

Sights & Activities

More than half of Malana's traditional wood-and-stone houses were burned in a fire in 2008 and some have been replaced by cinderblock boxes, but the temples were rebuilt in traditional wood and stone, with intricately carved balconies. They are dedicated to the local deity Jamdagni (Jamlu) Rishi, and attract pilgrims from around the region, especially during Malana's main festival, which starts on 15 August and continues for four or five days, with flowery costumes, processions, music, dancing and, of course, plenty of charas. One of the two main temples stands on the village's central open space, facing a stone platform and stepped seating for village assemblies (Malana's 'parliament').

In the village, you must obey a litany of esoteric rules or face fines of up to ₹3500. Don't step off the main path, don't touch the temples or photograph them without permission, don't stray on to any sacred spots (even though there's nothing obvious to identify them), and don't touch any villagers or their belongings. To get the most out of the cultural experience and avoid breaking rules, it's worthwhile to visit with a knowledgeable guide.

There are some good walks in the area. Trekkers can head over the Chandrakani Pass, a steep two-hour hike up from Malana, and on to Naggar in two or three days, or venture southeast over the Rashol Pass to Kasol (17km), staying in a homestay in Rashol en route.

Sleeping

Malana has a half-dozen pretty basic guesthouses, mostly at the top of the village, run by outsiders and with poor sanitation. Dragon Guest House ( 9805105400; r without bathroom ₹300-600) is one of the most popular, with tolerably clean wood-walled rooms. Its kitchen cooks up Israeli, Indian and Italian food (mains ₹80 to ₹200). Chand View Guest House ( 9805261446; r ₹250-500) has some attached bathrooms.

Getting There & Away

The easy way to reach Malana is by taxi from Jari to Nerang (₹800 one way, ₹1500 return with a three-hour wait), a collection of trackside shacks from which it's a 30- to 45-minute walk up to the village.

One daily bus to Jari and Kullu (three hours) leaves Nerang at 9am, starting back from Kullu about 3pm.

Kasol

 01902 / POP 750 / ELEV 1600M

Stretched along the lovely Parvati River with mountains rising all around, Kasol is the main traveller hang-out in the valley. It's a small village, but almost overrun with reggae bars, bakeries and cheap guesthouses catering to a largely backpacker crowd, nowadays including growing numbers of Indians. It's also a summertime venue for trance parties transplanted from Goa, and at any time an easy base for exploring the forested valley or just chilling out. The village divides into Old Kasol on the Bhuntar side of its bridge, and New Kasol on the Manikaran side.

Sleeping

Royal Orchard

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9459342032; r ₹600-1000; )

These 21 spacious, clean rooms in a recently constructed three-storey building in an apple orchard are in high demand. The upper two floors have private balconies, and all rooms have international TV and wi-fi. There's a cafe too. It's 100m down a lane running towards the river, 80m past Evergreen restaurant in New Kasol.

Taji Place

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9816461684; chetanthakurkasol@gmail.com; d ₹1500-3500, without bathroom ₹500, cottage for 3 ₹3000; )

On a sweet riverside property with a big lawn and apple trees, Taji has a range of tidy rooms, and the four ₹3500 options are quality pine-panelled abodes with new bathrooms. There's no sign: it's at the end of a lane running down towards the river, 80m past Evergreen restaurant in New Kasol.

Alpine Guest House

HOTEL $$

( 9418400328; alpinehimachal@gmail.com; r ₹1000-2500)

Rooms at this place among pines in Old Kasol are spacious and reasonably well kept (the bigger, brighter ones are upstairs), but the great plus is the expansive terrace with its open-air restaurant, right on the bank of the rushing, tumbling, beautiful river.

Eating

★ Evergreen

MULTICUISINE $$

(New Kasol; mains ₹200-400;  10am-11pm)

A perennial favourite for pizza, lasagne, homemade tofu, Turkish kebabs, lamb and chicken dishes and good Israeli specials – the chicken sipoodim (barbecue), served with chips and hummus, is an excellent meal. You can eat at tables in the front room or head into the smoky cushioned area inside.

Moon Dance Café & German Bakery

MULTICUISINE $$

(mains ₹180-400; 🕒 9am-11pm)

Moon Dance, just west of the bridge, stands tall among the numerous traveller restaurants for its great baked goods, strong coffee, baguettes, waffles, crêpes, shakes, juices and good-value breakfasts (₹200 to ₹300) in the sunny courtyard.

Information

Kasol has a few internet cafes, charging ₹40 per hour. The Central Bank of India ATM, in the side street just east of the bridge, accepts some international cards.

PIN-PARVATI TREK

Only accessible from late June to late September/early October, this strenuous but rewarding six- to nine-day wilderness trek crosses the snow-bound Pin-Parvati Pass (5319m) from the Parvati Valley to the Pin Valley in Spiti. July and August can be pretty wet and September is the best month. There is accommodation at Khir Ganga, which has a hot-spring bathing area, and Mudh, but none in between, so you need to be self-sufficient or go with a trekking agency. Organised treks are relatively pricey because pack animals cannot get across the pass so you need porters (often three per person because of the trek's length) and the crew need to be transported back to their starting point.

From Barsheni (or Pulga or Kalga), the route ascends through forest and pasture to Khir Ganga hot springs and Thakur Khan. Two more days through a more arid alpine zone takes you via Pandupul rock bridge (which can be tricky when wet) and Mantalai Lake to High (or Plateau) Camp. A challenging tramp over scree and snow, requiring ropes, leads over the pass then down into the Pin Valley. A day or two extra for acclimatisation, rest or shorter stages on the way up is beneficial, and the final stage could easily be broken into two days of hiking through the Pin Valley National Park to Mudh.

The trek can also be done in the east–west direction.

STAGE	ROUTE	DURATION (HR)	DISTANCE (KM)
1	Barsheni to Khir Ganga	3-4	12
2	Khir Ganga to Thakur Khan	6	15
3	Thakur Khan to Mantalai Lake	7	16
4	Mantalai Lake to High Camp	4	12
5	High Camp to Pin Valley Camp via Pin-Parvati Pass	5-6	12
6	Pin Valley Camp to Mudh	8	20

Manikaran

📍01902 / POP 6100 / ELEV 1730M

With steam continually issuing from the river bank beneath its large temple, the busy little pilgrim town of Manikaran, 4km east of Kasol, is famous for its hot springs and is sacred for both Sikhs and Hindus. According to legend, a giant snake stole goddess Parvati's earrings while she was bathing (during an 11,000-year meditation session with Shiva), then snorted them out from underground, along with various other jewels, which released the hot springs. The water emerging from the ground is hot enough to boil rice and has to be cooled with river water for bathing. Locals say it can cure everything from rheumatism to bronchitis.

Sights

The five-storey Sri Guru Nanak Ji Gurdwara (Gurdwara Sahib), on the north bank of the foaming river, was built in 1940. The main prayer hall, with its carpets and glittering glass columns, is on the top floor (shoes off, head-coverings on, for men and women). One level down is the eating hall where free rice, dahl, curry, chapatis and tea are served round the clock to all comers (these meals are as good as any in town). Below that are men's and women's indoor bathing pools and, to one side, a sauna-like 'hot cave'. Across the footbridge are a more inviting open-air men's pool and another enclosed women's pool. Bring a swimming costume, towel and flip-flops if you want to bathe.

Next to the gurdwara is a Shiva temple where the rice for the gurdwara cooks in big pots in pools of boiling hot-spring water. A happy, quite light-hearted atmosphere prevails in both temples.

Along the esplanade of the traffic-free north side of town, you'll find the ornate wood-and-stone, chalet-style Naina Bhagwati Temple, dedicated to the goddess, born from Shiva's third eye, who located Parvati's missing earrings.

Sleeping

Fateh Paying Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 9816894968; r ₹300; @)

Signposted up an alley in the old part of town, this big green house has just five simple but pleasant rooms, with welcoming owners, a sunny rooftop terrace and a tiny hot spring pool. Unlike many places, Fateh keeps the same rates all year. Local meals are available.

WORTH A TRIP

KHIR GANGA

This sloping alpine meadow is a beautiful three- to four-hour walk up the Parvati Valley from Barsheni, which is 13km up from Manikaran. The meadow is home to delectable hot springs and a shabby collection of shack guesthouses (rooms ₹200 to ₹500) and cafe-restaurants, open from about April to October – it's a popular spot to drop out for a few days. A day trip to Khir Ganga and back is also well worthwhile. The walk from Barsheni, in which you ascend about 800m, is also the first stage of the Pin-Parvati trek. Paths run along both sides of the valley, through Nakthan village on the north side, and Kalga village on the south side, meeting about 45 minutes before Khir Ganga. The Nakthan route is prettier, sunnier and more frequented.

The hot springs (🕒 dawn-dusk), at the top of the meadow, are the perfect temperature – hot but not too hot – and feature a large men's pool with fantastic views and a smaller, enclosed women's pool from which you can at least see the sky. The pools are part of a temple, so decorum is required – no mixed bathing, nudity or smoking!

Buses to Barsheni (₹30, one hour), some of them coming from Bhuntar, leave from the road above Manikaran bus station, roughly half-hourly from about 7.30am to noon, then about hourly till 5.30pm. The last bus back down leaves Barsheni at 5pm.

Kullu

📍 01902 / POP 18,500 / ELEV 1220M

The bustling administrative capital of the Kullu Valley is a return to Indian normality from the valley's hippie holiday resorts. Few travellers stop here for long but it's a likeable enough place, and in October it stages the area's biggest and most colourful festival, the Kullu Dussehra.

The Beas River runs down the east side of Kullu, and its tributary the Sarvari River runs across the middle of town, dividing Kullu into southern and northern halves. The southern part (Dhalpur) has the taxi stand, tourist office, Dussehra grounds (two large, adjoining, open spaces) and most restaurants and hotels. The bus station and Raghunath Temple are north of the Sarvari. A footbridge across the Sarvari near the bus station crosses to a bazaar street, which brings you out near the Hotel Shobla International.

Sights

Raghunath Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(🕒 7am-8.30pm)

Kullu's pre-eminent temple enshrines the Kullu Valley's major deity, a tiny bronze idol of Raghunath Ji (Rama) that lords it over the Dussehra celebrations. The 17th-century temple is in the Sultanpur area on the hill above the bus station and near the Raja Rupi, the palace of the former Kullu rajas; the main shrine closes for several hours in the middle of the day, but you'll probably still be able to peer through its window.

★ Bijli Mahadev Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

There are several important temples in Kullu's surrounding hills. The Shaivite Bijli Mahadev, a 20km uphill drive southeast to Chansari followed by a 2.5km uphill hike, commands spectacular panoramas over the Kullu and Parvati Valleys from its 2460m hilltop location. Beside the temple stands a 20m wooden pole, which attracts occasional divine blessings in the form of lightning: the surge of power shatters the stone Shiva lingam inside the temple, which is then glued back together with butter.

Bijli Mahadev attracts crowds of pilgrims during the Shaivite Sawan Kamaina festival from mid-July to mid-August. A few daily buses from Kullu bus station run as far as Chansari (₹28, 1¼ hours). A taxi from Kullu to Chansari costs ₹1300 round trip.

KULLU DUSSEHRA

Kullu town and valley's most important god, Raghunath Ji, is a version of Rama, the hero god of the Ramayana, so you might expect Dussehra (🗓️Oct; variable dates), the October festival that celebrates Rama's victory over the demon-king Ravana, to be something special here. The one day on which Dussehra is celebrated elsewhere is just the first of seven days in Kullu. The opening day is the most exciting, with more than 200 village deities (devtas) arriving in Kullu on palanquins, then parading to the Dussehra grounds in a wonderful cavalcade, with drums beating and giant trumpets blaring, decked in gorgeous garlands and draperies studded with silver masks. Here the tiny Raghunath Ji idol is placed in a large chariot and pulled to its allotted place by teams of rope-hauling devotees amid excited crowds. The village devtas 'dance' – tilting from side to side and charging backwards and forwards – before settling down in their allotted positions around the grounds, where they and their attendants camp for the week of the festival.

The rest of the week is focused mainly on a huge retail fair spread over the Dussehra grounds, outbreaks of music and dancing around the devta tents, and colourful evening folk dance, music and other performances in the adjacent auditorium. On the seventh day there are more processions and everyone starts for home.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Aaditya

HOTEL $

( 9418001244, 01902-224263; Lower Dhalpur; d ₹660-2640; )

Just across the footbridge from the bus station, Aaditya tries harder than most in this price range, with friendly service, comfy beds, and a range of rooms, many with balconies overlooking the Sarvari River.

Hotel Vikrant

HOTEL $

( 9816438299; vikramrashpa@gmail.com; Dhalpur; d ₹400-1200)

Up a tiny path behind the HPTDC office, Vikrant is a backpacker-friendly place where wood panelling and shared balconies give the rooms a simple charm. Those upstairs are bigger and brighter, but all have fans and hot showers.

Hot Spice

MULTICUISINE $$

(Dhalpur; mains ₹120-250;  9am-10pm)

For good-value thalis and breakfasts, or a tasty tandoori trout, head for this pleasant open-air cafe up the lane behind the tourist office.

SHOPPING FOR SHAWLS

The Kullu Valley is famous for its traditional wool shawls – lightweight but wonderfully warm and attractively patterned – and the highway between Bhuntar and Manali is lined with scores of shops and showrooms. Kullu shawls are woven on wooden hand-loom using wool from sheep or hair from pashmina goats or angora rabbits. This industry provides an income for thousands of local women, many of whom have organised themselves into shawl-weaving cooperatives.

For high quality without the hard sell, head to the nearest branch of Bhuttico (www.bhutticoshawl.com), the Bhutti Weavers' Cooperative, which was established in 1944 and has showrooms in every town in the valley and several beyond, plus a large factory showroom (Bhutti Colony; ☎9am-7pm) 8km south of Kullu. Bhuttico charges fixed prices, so it's a good place to gauge price and quality. Expect to pay upwards of ₹700 for a lambswool shawl, ₹1200 to ₹1600 for an angora-lambswool blend, ₹3500 for pashmina-lambswool and ₹6000 for pure pashmina. Bhuttico also makes scarves, topis, jackets, bags, gloves, pullas (slippers made from cannabis stalks), and pattus, the wonderfully patterned wraparound wool garments that are Kullu women's traditional clothing.

Getting There & Away

A mixture of HRTC and private buses runs about every 15 minutes to Bhuntar (₹15, 30 minutes), Manali (₹60, 90 minutes) and Mandi (₹106, two hours), until 9pm or 10pm. Buses to Naggar (₹30, one hour) go every half-hour, 7am to 6pm. A few buses go to destinations in the Parvati Valley, but usually you have to go to Bhuntar and change. Buses from Manali to destinations beyond the Kullu Valley stop in Kullu about 1½ hours after departure.

Naggar

📍01902 / POP 550 / ELEV 1710M

High on the east side of the Kullu Valley, sleepy Naggar was once capital of the Kullu kingdom and is perhaps the most charming village in the valley today. Russian painter and explorer Nicholas Roerich (Nikolai Rerikh) liked it so much he settled here in the early 20th century. It's an easy day trip from Manali, but with interesting sights and fine walks (including the Chandrakani Pass trek to Malana in the Parvati Valley), and some good guesthouses and restaurants, it's a fine place for a few days' relaxing stay.

Naggar's sights and accommodation are in the upper part of the village, 1km to 2km uphill from the bus stop, which is in the bazaar area on the main road.

Sights

Naggar Castle

FORT

(₹30; 🕒 9am-6pm)

Built by the rajas of Kullu around 1500, this fort-cum-mansion is a fine example of the earthquake-resistant, alternating-stone-and-timber style of Himachali architecture. Sold to the British assistant commissioner in 1846, it later became a courthouse and then, in 1976, a hotel.

★ International Roerich Memorial Trust

MUSEUM

(📞 01902-248590; <http://irmtkullu.com>; Indian/foreigner/camera/video ₹50/100/30/60; 🕒 10am-1pm & 1.30-6pm Tue-Sun, to 5pm Nov-Mar)

This fascinating memorial and museum complex 1km above the castle focuses on the former home of Russian painter, writer and Inner Asian explorer Nicholas Roerich and his wife Elena Roerich, a philosopher, writer and translator. They settled here in 1928 and stayed until his death in 1947. The couple's semi-mystical, aesthetico-orientalist philosophising had an international following in their lifetimes, but it is Nicholas' art that has had the most enduring appeal.

The house's lower floor displays some of Nicholas' landscape paintings (many depicting Himalayan mountains) and paintings by the couple's son Svyatoslav, while the upper floor preserves some of the private rooms (you can only look in through the windows). In the scenic hillside gardens are Nicholas' samadhi (tomb) and an exhibit on Svyatoslav and his wife, the Indian film star Devika Rani.

Down the road there's a good little book, print and postcard shop, while a five-minute uphill walk takes you to the Urusvati Himalayan Research Institute (incl in Roerich Trust admission; 🕒 10am-1pm & 1.30-6pm Tue-Sun, to 5pm Nov-Mar), with further exhibits on the work of the Roerichs and their associates.

Temples

Naggar is home to several intriguing and beautiful small temples. Down the street beside the castle, the 11th-century sikhara-style Vishnu Mandir is relatively plain and squat. Turn left just past this, then left at the next fork, to the lovely little Gauri Shankar Temple, of similar style and date but more finely proportioned and carved. It's dedicated to Shiva.

About 400m up the road from the castle, the pagoda-style Tripura Sundari Temple is sacred to the local earth/mother goddess. The existing building is only about 35 years old, but the site has probably been sacred since pre-Hindu times. The track leading uphill off the road here leads 1km to a junction where a right turn takes you 150m to the Murlidhar Temple, honouring Krishna the flute-player. It dates from about the 11th century, and stands on the site of the ancient town of Thawa, which predated Naggar by around 1000 years.

Activities

Ragini Treks & Tours

TREKKING

( 9817076890; raginitours@hotmail.com; Hotel Ragini)

Ragini Treks & Tours, just above Naggar Castle, is an experienced operator for the Chandrakhani Pass and other treks in the area.

Chandrakani Pass Trek

The excellent and popular trek from Naggar to Malana, via the 3650m Chandrakani Pass, is accessible between late May and October. It's basically a two-day trek with six to eight hours' actual walking up to the pass, then two to three hours down to Malana. Reputable agencies in Naggar charge around ₹3000 per person per day for guided and equipped treks with porters.

The way is not always obvious, and dangerously bad weather can occur at almost any time, so don't go without a guide (except perhaps in June when the route is busiest). The ideal season is mid-September to mid-October, without both crowds and snow. July and August can both see heavy rain.

As always, agree to the full final price for a trek beforehand, including items such as any return transport for guides and porters, and their and your food.

If you want to go more independently, at least take a local guide recommended by your guesthouse. This will cost a minimum ₹1000 per day, and porters are at least ₹600. Go prepared for overnight camping and with enough food.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Alliance Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 9418025640, 9817097033; www.alliancenaggar.com; Roerich Marg; r ₹440-1800, tr & q ₹2200; @📶)

Peacefully located on the road up to the Roerich Museum, this friendly place run by a French/Indian family has a range of spotless rooms with comfy beds, from shared-bathroom cheapies to duplexes perfect for families. Much thought has gone into guests' comfort and convenience, with touches including kettles, tea, coffee, reading lamps and even cotton buds in the rooms.

Excellent Indian and Continental food, including local trout and a few specialities with a French touch, is available for guests (mains ₹100 to ₹400). Room rates can be flexible, especially if you stay a few days. Alliance also offers a library, plentiful sitting areas, transport bookings and information on the area and treks; everything you could want.

Mannat Home

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞 9816048116; www.mannathome.com; r ₹1200-3000, per month ₹14,000-35,000; @📶)

Opposite the castle, Mannat offers seven different, clean, parquet-floored and mostly spacious rooms. The majority have views and some have a balcony and/or kitchen. Meals are available, your hosts are friendly, and it has excellent monthly rates for long-stayers.

The Castle

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(📞01902-248316; www.hptdc.gov.in; incl breakfast s ₹1800-3510, d ₹2400-4680; 📶)

The HPTDC hotel occupying the castle has historical atmosphere and traditional stone-and-wood construction but decor and furnishings are rather spartan. Prices depend mainly on room size and views (which are superb from some rooms). There's an affordable restaurant (mains ₹170-440; 🕒8am-10pm) with a terrace overlooking the valley.

i Getting There & Away

Buses run about hourly to and from Manali between 8am and 6pm (₹30, one hour), and to Kullu (₹30, one hour) about half-hourly, 7.30am to 7pm. A taxi from Manali to Naggar costs about ₹800. An autorickshaw/taxi up to the castle from the bus stop (1km uphill) is around ₹70/100.

Manali

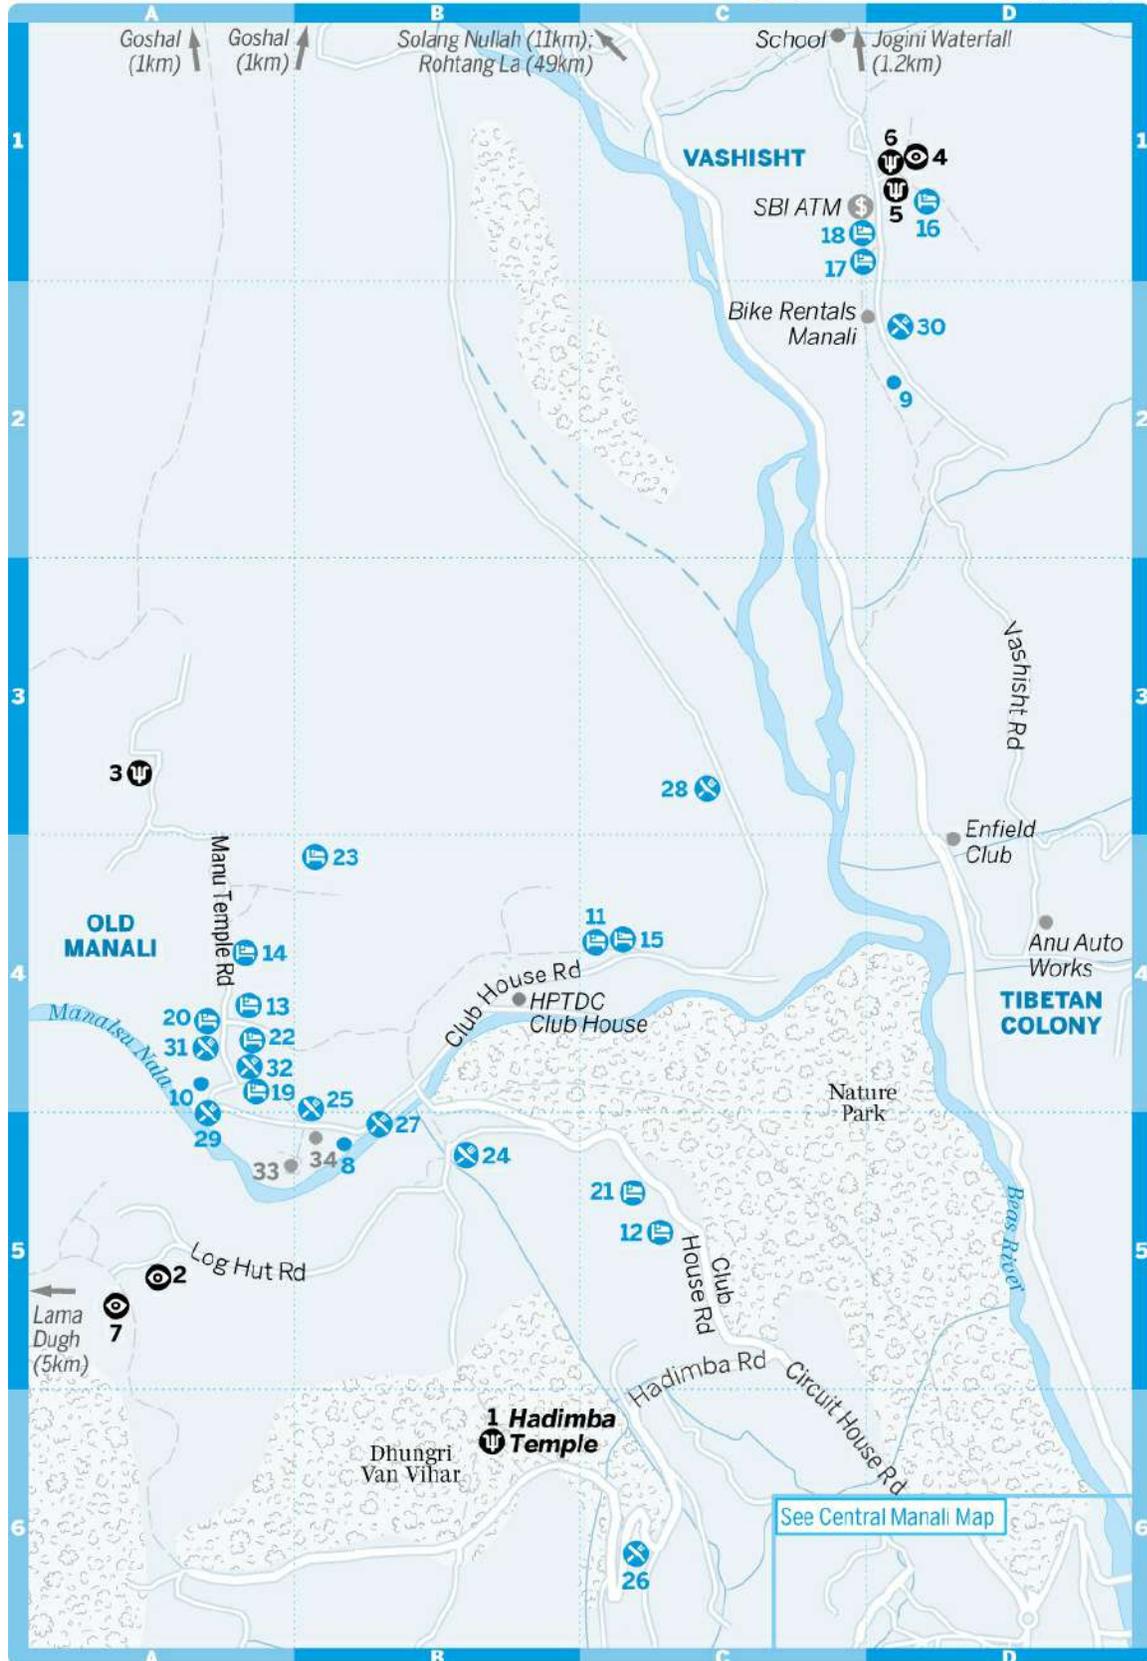

(📞01902 / POP 8100 / ELEV 1900M)

Surrounded by high peaks in the beautiful green Beas valley, with mountain adventures beckoning from all directions, Manali is a year-round magnet. Backpackers come to hang out in the hippie villages around the main town; adventurers come for trekking, climbing, rafting and skiing; Indian families and honeymooners come for the mountain air and a taste of snow on the 3978m Rohtang La pass. It makes sense to unwind and feed up here for a few days while organising your trip into the mountains.

So popular has Manali become among Indian tourists that this once bucolic retreat now has an estimated 800 to 1000 hotels and guesthouses in the town and outskirts, and from mid-April to mid-July, mid-September to mid-

October, and over Christmas–New Year it gets pretty well overrun, with dire traffic jams along its narrow lanes and the main roads approaching town.

Manali & Vashisht

Manali & Vashisht

Top Sights

1 Hadimba Temple	B6
----------------------------------	----

Sights

2 Hotel Delfryn	A5
3 Manu Maharishi Temple	A3
Public Baths	D1
4 Public Pool	D1
5 Rama Temple	D1
Shiva Temple	D1
6 Vashisht Mandir	D1
7 Water Tank	A5

Activities, Courses & Tours

8 Himalayan Caravan	B5
9 Himalayan Extreme Centre	D2
10 Himalayan Extreme Centre	A4
Himalayan Trails	A4

Sleeping

11 Apple View Guest House	C4
12 Banon Resorts	C5
13 Dragon Guest House	A4
14 Drifters' Inn	A4
15 Eagle Guest House	C4
16 Hotel Dharma	D1
17 Hotel Surabhi	C1
18 Hotel Valley of Gods	C1
19 Manali Yes Please	A4
20 Mountain Dew Guesthouse	A4
21 Sunshine Heritage	C5
22 Tourist Nest Guest House	A4
23 Zostel	B4

Eating

24 Casa Bella Vista	B5
-------------------------------------	----

Drifters' Inn	A4
25 Dylan's Toasted & Roasted	B4
26 Il Forno	C6
27 Kathmandu Cafe	B5
28 La Plage	C3
29 Lazy Dog Lounge	A5
30 Rasta Cafe	D2
31 Rendez-Vous	A4
32 Shiva Garden Cafe	A4
World Peace Cafe	C1
☆ Entertainment
Hangout	A4
Transport
33 Nirvana Travels	A5
34 Shalom Travels	B5

Sights

★ Hadimba Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This much-revered wood-and-stone mandir, constructed in 1553, stands in a clearing in the cedar forest about 2km west of central Manali. Pilgrims come from across India to honour Hadimba, the demon wife of the Pandava Bhima from the Mahabharata. The temple's wooden doorway, under a three-tier pagoda-style roof, is richly carved with figures of gods, animals and dancers; antlers and ibex horns adorn the outside walls.

Old Manali

Old Manali, about 2km northwest of the Mall on the far side of the Manalsu Nala stream, existed long before the modern town. Today it's the hub of the backpacker scene but still has some of the feel of an Indian mountain village once you get up past the core backpacker zone. There are some remarkable old houses of wood and stone, and the towered Manu Maharishi Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Old Manali) is built on the site where, legend says, the ark of the Noah-like Manu, the creator of civilisation, landed after the great flood.

Buddhist Monasteries

There's a small Tibetan community south of the town centre. The much-visited Himalayan Nyinmapa Buddhist Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 6am-6pm) contains a two-storey statue of Sakyamuni, the historical Buddha. Just west is the more traditional Von Ngari Monastery (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 6am-7pm), with an atmospheric juniper-scented prayer room crammed with statues of bodhisattvas (enlightened beings) and revered lamas.

Central Manali

Central Manali

Sights

- 1 Himalayan Nyinmapa Buddhist Temple B4
- 2 Von Ngari Monastery A4

Activities, Courses & Tours

- 3 Him-aanchal Taxi Operators Union C1

4 Himalayan Adventurers C2

5 Himalayan Bike Bar C2

Sleeping

6 Johnson Hotel B1

7 Johnson Lodge B1

Eating

8 Chopsticks B3

Johnson's Cafe B1

9 Khyber C2

Shopping

10 Bhuttico B1

11 Bookworm B3

12 Shashni Communications B2

Transport

Railway Reservation Office C1

Activities

Himalayan Extreme Centre

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9816174164; www.himalayan-extreme-centre.com; Old Manali;  9am-8pm)

This long-running, professional and friendly outfit – also with a branch in Vashisht – can arrange almost any activity you fancy. Drop in and browse the catalogue.

Himalayan Caravan

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9816316348; www.himalayancaravan.com; Old Manali;  office 9am-10pm mid-Mar–mid-Dec)

Professional operator good for trekking, rock climbing, mountaineering, snowboarding and skiing.

Himalayan Trails

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9816828583; www.himalayantrails.in; Dragon Market, Old Manali;  9.30am-10pm)

Energetic young company doing trekking, day hikes, mountain biking, rock climbing and more; runs open-group treks that individuals can join and has mountain bikes for rent.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES AROUND MANALI

Manali is the adventure sports capital of Himachal Pradesh, and all kinds of activities can be organised through operators here.

Mountain Biking

Agencies offer bike hire for ₹400 to ₹800 per day (and can give current info on routes) or will take you on guided rides – ranging from day outings to two-week trips to Ladakh or Spiti costing around ₹3000 per person per day with vehicle support.

Himalayan Bike Bar (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.facebook.com/himalayanbikebar; Mission Rd;  10am-8pm Mon-Sat) is an MTB specialist renting and selling bikes: new bikes cost from around ₹22,000 to ₹72,000.

Mountaineering

Agencies such as Himalayan Caravan and Himalayan Extreme Centre arrange expeditions of 10 to 14 days to peaks around the head of the Solang valley, including Friendship Peak (5289m) and Ladakhi (5342m), which are suitable for those with limited experience (training is available), and the more difficult Hanuman Tibba (5930m) and Manali Peak (5669m). Deo Tibba (6001m), above the east side of the Kullu Valley, is another exciting peak for experienced climbers. Typical prices are ₹4500 to ₹5000 per person per day including instructor/guides, equipment, transport, food and camping. The season runs from April to November and conditions tend to be best in the last couple of months.

Paragliding

Paragliding is popular at Solang Nullah and at Gulaba and Marhi (below the Rohtang La, less crowded than Solang) from April to October (except during the monsoon). September and October generally have the best thermals, though May and June can be good at Gulaba and Marhi. Tandem flights at Solang Nullah cost around ₹900 for a one- to two-minute flight, or ₹2000 to ₹3000 for five to 10 minutes from the top of the cable car. Pilots should have a licence issued by the Himachal Pradesh Department of Tourism. Adventure-tour operators can organise tandem flights at Gulaba and Marhi for ₹1000 to ₹4000 depending on duration.

Rafting

There is 14km of Grade II and III white water between Pirdi, on the Beas River 3km south of Kullu, and the take-out point at Jhiri; trips with adventure agencies from Manali cost anywhere between ₹650 and ₹1150 per person, plus transport (around ₹2000 to ₹2500 per van). May, June, late September and October are the best times (it's banned from 15 July to 15 August because of the monsoon).

Skiing & Snowboarding

From January to mid-March, Solang Nullah transforms into Himachal's main ski and snowboarding resort. Equipment can be hired from Manali agencies or at Solang Nullah from ₹500 per day. The piste offers limited options for experienced skiers, but there is off-piste powder and backcountry skiing for the experienced from the top of the cable car. In April and May there's snowshoe ski touring in areas like the Hamta valley, upper Solang valley and around Gulaba, with snowshoe-trekking up peaks.

Agencies such as Himalayan Caravan, Himalayan Adventurers (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 01902-252750; www.himalayanadventurers.com; 44 The Mall; ⌚ 9am-

9pm) and Himalayan Extreme Centre offer ski touring packages. Heli-skiing packages to high-altitude powder in February and March can be arranged through Himalayan Heli Adventures (9816025899; www.himachal.com).

Walking & Trekking

Manali is a popular jumping-off point for organised mountain treks. Most agencies offer multiday treks for ₹1600 to ₹3000 per person per day including guides, transport, porters or pack animals, food and camping equipment. Generally the larger the group, the lower the price per person. June, September and October are overall the best months. Popular shorter options include Beas Kund (three days, with the option of extra days hiking up surrounding mountains), the 4250m-high Bhrigu Lake (three days), the Hamta Pass to Lahaul (four days) and the Chandrakani Pass from Naggar to Malana (two or three days). More demanding and usually more expensive routes include the six- to nine-day Pin-Parvati Trek and routes west to the isolated village of Bara Bhangal and on to the Chamba or Kangra Valleys (11 days or more).

Plenty of shorter walks are possible from Manali. The usual rules on safe trekking apply – tell someone where you are going and don't walk alone. Guides for day hikes typically cost ₹1500. One good day hike (about five hours up, four hours down) is up to Lama Dugh meadow at 3380m: the way starts along the uphill path from a water tank (MAP GOOGLE MAP) above Hotel Delfryn in the Log Huts Area of town. A good short walk (about an hour each way) goes north from Vashisht to Jogini waterfalls and back.

Sleeping

Many midrange and top-end hotels slash prices dramatically outside the peak seasons. Manali town is chock-full of budget and midrange hotels but the best budget places, by far, are a couple of kilometres north in the villages of Old Manali and Vashisht. The best upmarket hotels are between the town centre and Old Manali along Circuit House and Club House Rds, on spacious, still-green properties that once belonged to early British residents.

Manali

★ Banon Resorts

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 01902-253026; www.banonresortmanali.com; Club House Rd; d ₹7140 ste ₹8330-10,710, cottage ₹21,420; 📶 📶)

This quiet, luxury hotel is a little slicker than its competition. The spacious, centrally heated rooms in the main building have an uncluttered, contemporary feel with pine, white paint and modern art – and huge bathrooms. The two-bedroom cottages are the last word in luxurious peace and privacy.

Johnson Hotel

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-253764; <http://johnsonhotel.in>; Circuit House Rd; r/apt ₹5330/10,900; 🏠 📶)

One of a few places belonging to descendants of a prominent Raj-era landowner, the Johnson is a classy wood-and-stone hotel with 12 good-sized rooms whose rugs and bedspreads lend them a mildly folksy air. It also has five two-bedroom apartments ('cottages') in the original 1900 lodge, and lovely gardens, plus an excellent restaurant. Everything's in immaculate shape.

Johnson Lodge

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-251523; www.johnsonlodge.com; Circuit House Rd; d ₹5935, cottage for 4 ₹13,650; 🏠 📶)

Four-storey Johnson Lodge offers big, bright pastel-hued rooms with a contemporary air, as well as luxurious two-bedroom duplex apartments ('cottages'). The modern bar and multicuisine restaurant (mains ₹265 to ₹485 and an excellent drinks list) hosts live music (could be Sufi, Indian indie, blues...) a few nights a week.

Sunshine Heritage

HERITAGE GUESTHOUSE $$$

(Sunshine Guest House; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-252320; www.thesunshineheritage.com; Club House Rd; r ₹3990; 📶)

Authentically colonial, the Sunshine is set in delightfully peaceful, secluded grounds off busy Club House Rd. It has large triples and quads in its original 1921 wood-and-stone building, where rooms have polished walnut-and-pine floors and recently modernised bathrooms. There are also four spacious doubles in a slightly less venerable building next door.

Old Manali

Old Manali has many, mostly budget, guesthouses along its one street, Manu Temple Rd, and on various lanes and pathways off it. Some of them close from about December to April.

Zostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816655763; www.zostel.com; Old Manali; dm ₹450-500, r ₹2000; 📶)

Well-run Zostel has a good, friendly, backpacker atmosphere with welcoming, helpful management and staff. There's a good garden cafe with Indian and Continental food (mains ₹110 to ₹250), and the accommodation has a few above-average touches such as reading lights and electric sockets for every bunk, and king-size beds in the private rooms.

Apple View Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816887844; www.appleviewmanali.com; Old Manali; r ₹300, without bathroom ₹300; 📶)

Up steps signposted 'Red House Cafe' opposite the HPTDC Club House, this homey family-run guesthouse is one of the best deals in Manali. It has 12 plain, well-kept rooms and a pleasant little patio, and offers a simple but good menu of Indian and Continental food (mains ₹60 to ₹80).

If it's full, try the Eagle Guest House (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 981639778; liatasher@hotmail.com; Old Manali; r ₹400-600, incl breakfast ₹600-800; 🕒 closed Jan & Feb; 📶) 50m along the path.

Mountain Dew Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816446366; Manu Temple Rd; s ₹500-600, d ₹600-900; 📶)

This good-value, three-storey place offers good-sized, decently maintained rooms with east-facing shared terraces. The top floor is best: new rooms and the finest views.

Tourist Nest Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-252383; touristnest@gmail.com; Old Manali; r ₹700-1000; 📶)

In the heart of Old Manali, Tourist Nest has bright, clean, tiled, well-kept rooms with private balconies.

Manali Yes Please

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9418523125; www.manaliyesplease.com; Manu Temple Rd; r ₹1000)

A relatively large place by Old Manali standards with three floors of rooms along broad verandahs. Rooms are a bit worn but clean enough, and outside June and July they are usually available for ₹500, which makes them popular.

Dragon Guest House

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-252290; www.dragoninnmanali.com; Old Manali; r ₹1760-2860 ste ₹4950; 📶)

Dragon has comfortable, wood-panelled rooms opening on to long verandahs on four floors – the higher the better, and best of all are the Swiss-chalet-style rooms on the top floors.

Drifters' Inn

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9805033127; <http://driftersinn.in>; Manu Temple Rd; r ₹1100-2000, f ₹1900-2500; 📶)

The hipness of the ground-floor restaurant doesn't quite extend into the rooms, but it's a spotless and comfy place with outdoor terraces on all three floors, and the wi-fi reaches all rooms.

Eating

Manali

Chopsticks

ASIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall; mains ₹120-300; 🕒 9am-11pm; 📶)

The most popular traveller choice in central Manali, tightly packed Chopsticks serves a big range of Tibetan, Chinese and Japanese dishes with professional efficiency. Amid Tibetan lutes and Chinese lanterns, it does good momos (Tibetan dumplings), gyoza (their Japanese equivalent), thenthuk (a Tibetan soup with short, flat noodles) and Sichuan chicken and lamb.

Cold beers, wine and local fruit wines too.

Johnson's Cafe

INTERNATIONAL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Circuit House Rd; mains ₹300-550; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

The restaurant at Johnson Hotel is tops for European food, with specialities such as lamb and mint gravy, wood-oven-baked trout, and apple crumble with ice cream. The restaurant-bar is cosy, but the garden terrace is the place to be, especially during happy hour (4pm to 8pm).

Il Forno

ITALIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hadimba Rd; mains ₹180-500; 🕒 10.30am-10.30pm; 📶)

The pretty flower garden of this 150-year-old traditional stone-and-timber house makes a lovely stop on the way to or from Hadimba Temple – and the pizzas are pretty good too!

Old Manali

Numerous inexpensive, half-open-air restaurants serve all the usual backpacker-town suspects – momos (Tibetan dumplings), omelettes, banana pancakes, apple pie and the three Is (Italian/Israeli/Indian dishes). A lot of these places close by November. The best include friendly and efficient

Shiva Garden Cafe (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹100-250; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶) and riverside Kathmandu Cafe (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹100-350; 🕒 10am-11pm; 📶).

Dylan's Toasted & Roasted

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.dylanscoffee.com; Manu Temple Rd; coffees & breakfasts ₹50-170; 🕒 9am-10pm Mon-Sat; 📶)

This ever popular hole-in-the-wall cafe serves the best coffee in town, plus cinnamon tea, hearty breakfasts, pancakes and wicked desserts including 'Hello to the Queen' – ice cream, melted chocolate and fried banana chunks on a bed of broken biscuits.

★ La Plage

FRENCH $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9805340977; www.facebook.com/la.plage.manali; mains ₹400-700; 🕒 noon-11pm late May–late Aug, closed Mon Aug)

Dinner at this outpost of a chic Goan eatery is like being invited to the hip Paris apartment of your much, much cooler friend. French standards such as onion soup or mushroom quiche are joined by specialities such as overnight-cooked lamb, smoked trout, broccoli-and-courgette lasagne and a decadent chocolate thali dessert. Decent Indian and international wines too.

Food flavours are perhaps not quite so sensational as you'd hope for the prices, but it's still well worth the trip – 1km from Old Manali bridge in an apple orchard. It will provide free transport from and back to the bridge if you call.

Drifters' Inn

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹230-380; 🕒 9.30am-11pm; 📶)

A loungey restaurant-cafe that's good for hearty breakfasts, strong coffee, international dishes from eggs Florentine to Thai curries, and imaginative beverages such as seabuckthorn fizz, as well as plenty of alcoholic options.

Lazy Dog Lounge

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹180-600; 🕒 11am-1am; 📶)

This slick restaurant-bar features big plates of fresh, flavourful international food – from pumpkin-and-coconut soup to oven-baked trout and Thai rice bowls, as well as good Indian dishes – that's well above typical backpacker fare. Sit on chairs, benches or cushions in a space that's classy yet earthy, or relax in the riverside garden.

Casa Bella Vista

CONTINENTAL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Log Huts Rd; mains ₹350-500; 🕒 10am-10.30pm May-Sep; 🍷)

Not the cheapest, but the best pizzas in the Old Manali area – thin-crust, log-oven pizzas with tasty topping combinations. The salads and pasta are good too.

Drinking & Entertainment

Restaurants doubling as bars provide the bulk of Manali's nightlife, and their live-music nights (mostly in Old Manali, of diverse musical genre and equally diverse quality) are often the liveliest. All-night trance parties happen in Old Manali with place and time circulated by word of mouth and the occasional poster.

A particularly popular spot is the Hangout (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹150-500; 🕒 noon-midnight, from 5pm Thu), with its outdoor firepits and jam sessions (and also good food). Other places to check out for music evenings include Lazy Dog Lounge, Rendez-Vous (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Manu Temple Rd; mains ₹120-590; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶), Drifters' Inn, Kathmandu Cafe and, down towards central Manali, the bar at Johnson Lodge.

Johnson's Cafe and Banon Resorts also have good, relatively upmarket bars. In Manali town, the best places for a drink are Khyber (MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall; mains ₹180-500; 🕒 10am-11pm) and Chopsticks.

Shopping

Manali is crammed with shops selling souvenirs from Himachal, Tibet and Ladakh, including turquoise jewellery and lots of brass Buddhas. The local speciality is Kullu shawls, for which a good place to start is Bhuttico (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01902-252196; The Mall; 🕒 9am-7pm Mon-Sat), which charges fair, fixed prices and has several shops around town.

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01902-252920; Shop No 5, near Post Office; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Excellent selection of books including many on the Himalaya, and maps including Leomann trekking maps.

Information

MEDICAL SERVICES

Lady Willingdon Hospital (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01902-252379; www.manalihospital.com; School Rd) Considered the best hospital in the Kullu Valley; has 24-hour emergency service.

TELEPHONE

You can buy SIM cards for foreign phones at several phone shops on and around the Mall. Shashni Communications (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; off The Mall; 🕒 10am-9pm) charges ₹500 for a SIM with 2GB of data and around ₹40 of call credit.

TOURIST INFORMATION

HPTDC (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01902-252116; The Mall; 🕒 8am-8pm mid-April-mid-Jul & mid-Sep-mid-Nov, 9am-7pm rest of year) Can book HPTDC buses and hotels.

Tourist Office (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01902-252175; The Mall; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat) Readily answers questions and has a few give-away leaflets.

Getting There & Away

Manali's closest airport is 50km south at Bhuntar.

There's a Railway Reservation Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; The Mall; 🕒 8am-1.30pm Mon-Fri, 8am-12.30pm Sat) at the top of the Mall.

BUS

Government-run Himachal Road Transport Corporation (HRTC) buses go from the bus station (GOOGLE MAP ; The Mall). Himachal Tourism (HPTDC) runs a few services to Delhi, Leh and Shimla and these are generally the most comfortable on their routes. They leave from the bus station but tickets are sold at the HPTDC office. Private buses to a few destinations start from the private bus stand (GOOGLE MAP ; Hwy 3), 1.2km south of the bus station; tickets are sold at travel agencies along the Mall.

For the Parvati Valley, take a bus to Bhuntar and change there.

➔ Delhi The HPTDC's comfortable AC Volvo coaches (₹1300, 14 hours) go at 5.30pm and, in busy seasons, 5pm and/or 6pm. Private bus companies run similar overnight services for ₹900 to ₹1800 depending on season. The HRTC runs five AC Volvos (₹1412) each afternoon, plus an AC deluxe (₹1122) at 5.50pm, and seven ordinary or 'semi-deluxe' services daily.

➔ Lahaul & Spiti The Rohtang La, between Manali and Lahaul, is normally open from mid-May to early November, and the Kunzum La, between Lahaul and Spiti, from early June to some time in November (exact dates depend on snow conditions). A tunnel bypassing the Rohtang La may open by 2018, which hopefully will open up Lahaul to year-round visits. In season, the HRTC runs up to seven daily buses to Keylong (Lahaul) and one to Kaza (Spiti).

➔ Ladakh The bone-shaking, exhausting and spectacular road to Leh is normally open from early June to some time in October (exact dates depend on road conditions). On all journeys to Leh, bring snacks and warm clothing and be alert to the symptoms of Acute Mountain Sickness. Fare-wise the cheapest option is to take a bus to Keylong and then the early morning HRTC bus the next day from there to Leh, though you do need a night in Keylong in between.

From early July to mid-September, an HPTDC bus (₹3000, 34 hours) departs Manali at 9am every second day, with an overnight stop at Keylong, where dormitory accommodation, dinner and breakfast are included in the fare. Throughout the season the Him-aanchal Taxi Operators Union (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎01902-252120; The Mall) runs minibuses to Leh departing at 2.30am without an overnight halt (₹1800 to ₹3000 depending on demand, about 18 hours), or departing at 6am with an overnight halt en route (₹2000 to ₹3500, accommodation and meals not included); book a day in advance. Some travel agencies offer similar services.

HRTC BUSES FROM MANALI

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Amritsar	542-594	11-14	1.45pm & 3.30pm
Bhuntar	15	30	every 15-30min, 5am-9pm
Chandigarh	451-854	9	18 daily
Dehra Dun	665-1187	15	3 daily
Delhi	684-1412	14-16	13 daily
Dharamsala	360-820	10	Volvo AC 8pm, ordinary 8.20am & 7pm
Haridwar	662-1311	15	4 daily
Jammu	562-1363	12	ordinary 4pm, Volvo AC 8pm
Kaza	300	11	6.30am, approximately mid-Jun–mid-Oct
Keylong	175	7	7 daily, approximately mid-May–early Nov
Kullu	60	1½	every few minutes, 4am-10pm
Mandi	170	4	half-hourly, 5am-9pm
Naggar	30	1	hourly, 8am-6pm
Shimla	390-544	9	6 daily

MOTORCYCLE

Many people tackle the mountain passes to Ladakh or Spiti on bought or rented bikes. You can book into a group tour with accommodation, food and backup vehicles included at around ₹5000 per day, or just rent a bike and head off on your own.

For rentals, expect to pay ₹1200 or ₹1300 per day for a 350cc Enfield, ₹1400 to ₹1500 for a 500cc Enfield, and around ₹800 for 220cc bikes. Make sure the deal includes spares, tools, at least third-party insurance, and the registration and pollution certificates needed for your Rohtang La permit.

Anu Auto Works (Royal Moto Touring: GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816163378; www.royalmototouring.com; Vashisht Rd; 🕒 office 9am-9pm or later, approx Jun-Sep) Established, highly regarded and professional outfit that offers Enfield motorbike tours, and rents and repairs Enfields too.

Bike Rentals Manali (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9816044140; www.bikerentalsmanali.com; Vashisht; 🕒9.30am-11pm Apr-Oct) Enfield rentals and tours.

Enfield Club (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9805146389; Vashisht Rd; 🕒9am-9.30pm mid-Apr-Jan) Tiny enthusiasts' workshop doing Enfield rentals and repairs.

Himalayan Inder Motors (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9816113973; Gompa Rd) Rents Enfields and other makes; owner Kaku has been in business 25 years.

TAXI & JEEP

The Him-aanchal Taxi Operators Union (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01902-252205; The Mall) charges between ₹14,000 and ₹24,000 for an MUV (multi-utility vehicle, often called jeeps), carrying six people in reasonable comfort, to Leh. Prices are highest from about mid-June to late July. Private travel agencies offer similar deals and may also sell individual seats for ₹2000 to ₹3000.

For Kaza (Spiti), a jeep is around ₹9000 one way. For 6am share jeeps to Kaza (₹1000 per seat), ask the day before at Hotel Kiran (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞01902-253066) in the south of Manali, where drivers from Spiti hang out. These run as long as the Rohtang La and Kunzum La are open.

Multiday rentals of a jeep with a driver normally cost ₹3000 to ₹3500 per day. This is a relatively economical way of touring areas such as Spiti or Ladakh, especially if shared between five or six people. Vehicle types vary from the fairly basic high-clearance Sumo or Spacio to the comfier, less rugged Innova, Xylo or Tavera. You can organise them through almost any travel agency. Some of the best prices are available from Shalom Travels (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9816746264; Manu Temple Rd) and Nirvana Travels (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9816023222; off Manu Temple Rd) in Old Manali.

Other typical one-way taxi fares:

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)
Bhuntar airport	1500
Dharamsala	5000
Keylong	5000

Kullu	1100
Manikaran	2000
Naggar	800
Solang Nullah	800

Getting Around

Hadimba Autorickshaw Operators Union (GOOGLE MAP;  01902-253366; The Mall) has an office at the south end of the Mall, but drivers waiting at the top of the Mall tend to be a little more reasonable about fares and with luck will go to Old Manali bridge for ₹50, Hadimba Temple for ₹60 or Vashisht for ₹70. But they'll get more out of you if they can, especially after dark (if you can get one at all).

Around Manali

Vashisht

 01902 / POP 1600 / ELEV 1970M

About 2km north of Manali on the hillside above the Beas River, Vashisht village is a slightly quieter and more compact version of Old Manali and a popular travellers' hang-out. Indian tourists mostly come to bathe in the hot springs and tour the temples, while foreign travellers largely come for the cheap accommodation, chilled atmosphere and charas. Many guesthouses and restaurants close down from about November to April.

Vashisht Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9am-9pm)

Vashisht's sulphur-laden hot springs are channelled into small public baths (MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9am-9pm) inside the ancient stone Vashisht Mandir, which is dedicated to the sage Vashisht. There's another open-air public pool (MAP GOOGLE MAP;  6am-9pm), for men only, just uphill, past a set of hot-water spouts where locals wash clothes and dishes. Nearby are a sikhara-type Rama temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), with old stone carvings and a wooden canopy, and a relatively plain Shiva temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

Sleeping & Eating

Many small, inexpensive guesthouses and homestays are tucked away along the village lanes and up paths towards the hills.

Hotel Dharma

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  01902-252354; www.hoteldharmamanali.com; r ₹300-1200;  close Jan & Feb;  )

A short, steep walk above the Vashisht Mandir is rewarded with some of the best views from any hotel on either side of the Beas River. The older wing, with a big terrace out front, has basic but clean rooms from ₹300 to ₹600 that are pretty good value, while the pricier new section has nicer, carpeted rooms with balconies.

Hotel Surabhi

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9816042796; www.surabhihotel.in; r incl breakfast ₹1660-2760; )

One of a few big, modernish places on the main street, Surabhi's spacious, carpeted, decently maintained rooms have balconies with great views. This is one place where you don't really need to spring for the most expensive rooms.

Hotel Valley of Gods

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  01902-251111; www.hotelvalleyofgods.com; r ₹3000-3500, ste ₹4000  )

This impressive stone-and-wood building, owned and run by a local family, has bright, spacious, pine-floored rooms with good, big bathrooms and fine balconies overlooking the valley.

Rasta Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹100-240; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

Rasta is the top traveller hang-out for its well-prepared breakfasts, soups, salads, momos, Indian dishes, falafel, hummus, pasta, pizza, desserts, juices, smoothies (and we could go on...). Friendly service in a bright, airy space with pine tables and cane chairs or low-table cushion seating. And plenty of reggae too!

World Peace Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Surabhi; mains ₹120-300; 🕒 7am-10pm; 📶)

This rooftop restaurant has great valley views from its expansive patio, plus an inside room with low tables and floor cushions. The kitchen does a decent job on a wide-ranging international menu, and it sometimes holds music jams in summer.

i Getting There & Away

The regular autorickshaw fare to or from Manali is ₹70; don't rely on being able to get one in either direction after 7pm. On foot it's about 30 minutes; a footpath down beside Bike Rentals Manali comes out on the main road 300m north of the Vashisht turn-off.

HAMTA PASS TREK

Easily accessible from Manali, this camping trek crosses from the Kullu Valley to Lahaul's Chandra Valley via the 4270m Hamta Pass. Most people drive up the Hamta valley from Prini village to the spot known as Jobri, where the Hamta Nullah and Jobri Nullah streams meet. Two easy days to start off, with a combined ascent of around 800m, are good for acclimatisation. The climb to the pass from the campsite at Balu Ka Gera is steep and tiring, but there are sublime snow-peak views from the top. Best times for this trek are the second half of September and October, after the monsoon. Chatru is on the road between the Rohtang La and Spiti.

STAGE	ROUTE	DURATION (HR)	DISTANCE (KM)
1	Jobri to Chikka	2	5
2	Chikka to Balu Ka Gera	4	9
3	Balu Ka Gera to Shiagouru via Hamta Pass	8	15
4	Shiagouru to Chatru	4	10

Solang Nullah

📍01902

From January to March, skiers and snowboarders can enjoy 1.5km of alpine-style runs here at Himachal's main winter-sports resort, 13km north of Manali in the lower part of the Solang valley. A cable car (Ropeway, Gondola; one-way or return ₹600; 🕒10am-6.30pm) climbs up to 3200m, and there's also off-piste powder and backcountry skiing from the top of it.

Solang is also a year-round 'beauty spot', with paragliding, quad bikes and a general carnival-like atmosphere in the pre-monsoon tourist season. The cable car operates year-round. The surrounding hills are good for walking and climbing – Patalsu peak (4472m) to the north is an excellent if quite strenuous one- or two-day hike.

WESTERN HIMACHAL PRADESH

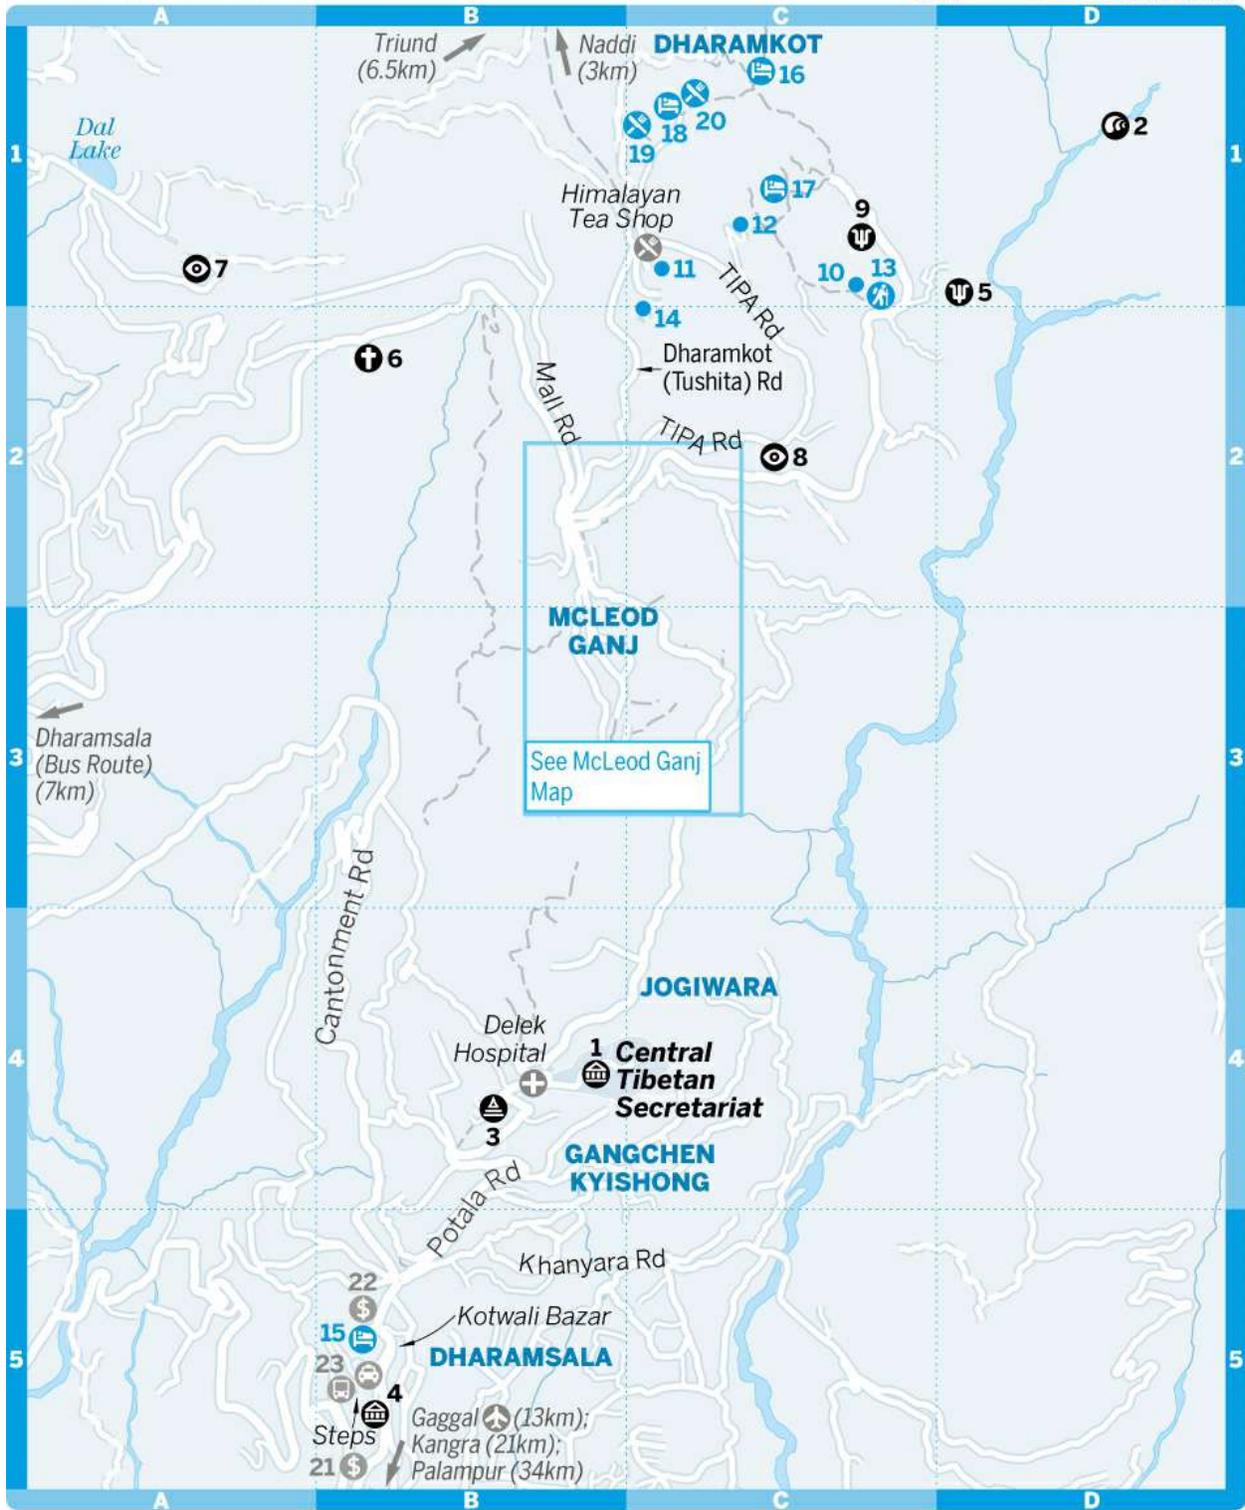

Western Himachal Pradesh is most famous as the home of the Tibetan government-in-exile and residence of the Dalai Lama at McLeod Ganj, which is a major traveller hub with many opportunities to volunteer or take yoga, meditation or other courses. The Dhauladhar and Pir Panjal ranges make for some excellent trekking and the Chamba Valley lying between them is beautiful and culturally intriguing. Elsewhere, the Bir-Billing area is attracting growing numbers of adventurers and spiritual seekers with its world-class paragliding and numerous Tibetan monasteries.

Dharamsala

📍01892 / POP 20,000 / ELEV 1380M

Dharamsala (also spelled Dharamshala) is known as the home of the Dalai Lama, but the untidy market town where the buses pull in is actually Lower Dharamsala. The Tibetan spiritual leader is based 3km up the hill in Upper Dharamsala, also known as McLeod Ganj, and that's where most visitors are heading. When people locally talk about Dharamsala, they usually mean Lower Dharamsala.

Dharamsala

Dharamsala

Top Sights

1 Central Tibetan Secretariat B4

Sights

2 Bhagsu Waterfall D1

Cultural Museum B4

Library of Tibetan Works & Archives

3 Men-Tsee-Khang B4

Men-Tsee-Khang Museum B4

4 Museum of Kangra Art B5

Nechung Gompa

5 Shiva Temple D1

6 St John in the Wilderness B2

7 Tibetan Children's Village A1

8 Tibetan Institute of Performing Arts C2

9 Vashnu Mata Temple C1

Activities, Courses & Tours

10 Ayuskama Ayurvedic Clinic C1

Buddhist Philosophy Courses

11 Himachal Vipassana Centre C1

12 Himalayan Iyengar Yoga Centre C1

13 Terrestrial Adventures C1

Tibetan Language Courses

14 Tushita Meditation Centre C2

Sleeping

15 Hotel Dhauladhar B5

16 Raj Residency C1

17 Trimurti Garden Cafe C1

18 Valley View C1

Eating

19 Cool Talk Cafe C1

20 Space Out C1

Information

21 SBI B5

22 SBI ATM B5

Transport

23 Dharamsala Bus Station

B5

Museum of Kangra Art

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹20/100; 🕒 10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Tue-Sun)

This museum, just off the main street, displays some fine miniature paintings from the Kangra school, and Chamba rumal embroideries, along with traditional costumes from the area and photos from the devastating 1905 Kangra earthquake.

Hotel Dhauladhar

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01892-224926; www.hptdc.gov.in; s ₹1720-2050, d ₹2290-2730, ste from ₹3270; 📶)

This centrally located HPTDC hotel has clean, spacious rooms and a broad restaurant terrace enjoying good valley views, plus a bar.

i Getting There & Away

Dharamsala airport (GOOGLE MAP) is at Gaggal, 13km southwest. Air India and SpiceJet both fly daily to/from Delhi, though flights are sometimes cancelled in bad weather.

Buses run from Dharamsala bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP) to McLeod Ganj (₹15, 35 minutes) about every half-hour from 6am to 9pm. Services to Delhi include Volvo AC buses (₹1240) at 5.15am, 6.30pm, 8pm and 9.30pm, and an AC deluxe bus (₹950) at 8.30pm.

Dharamsala Taxi Union (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01892-222105) is up a flight of 185 steps from the bus station. Cabs to McLeod Ganj cost ₹200.

BUSES FROM DHARAMSALA

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Amritsar	255	7	5am
Chamba	364	8	3 daily
Dalhousie	171	5	7am
Dehra Dun	535-1045	12	3 daily
Delhi	542-1240	12	10 daily
Gaggal	15	40min	every 15min
Jawalamukhi	60	1½	frequent
Kangra	25	1	every 15-30min
Manali	360-815	10	Volvo AC 9.30pm, ordinary 7am & 6pm
Mandi	195-400	6	4 HRTC daily, also private buses
Palampur	50	2	about half-hourly to 8.45pm
Pathankot	136	3½	about hourly, 5am-5.30pm
Shimla	363-522	10	7 daily (morning & evening)

McLeod Ganj

📍01892 / POP 10,000 / ELEV 1740M

When travellers talk of heading up to Dharamsala (to see the Dalai Lama...), this is where they mean. Three kilometres north of Dharamsala town (or 10km via the looping bus route), McLeod Ganj is the residence of His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama and home to a large Tibetan population, including many monks and nuns. The Tibetan government-in-exile is based just downhill at Gangchen Kyishong. McLeod attracts thousands of international visitors each year to volunteer with the Tibetan community, take courses in Buddhism, meditation or yoga, trek in the Dhauladhar mountains, shop for Tibetan crafts, or just hang out and enjoy the low-budget spiritual/alternative vibe and the many good cafes and restaurants dishing up Indo-Italo-Israeli-Tibetan food.

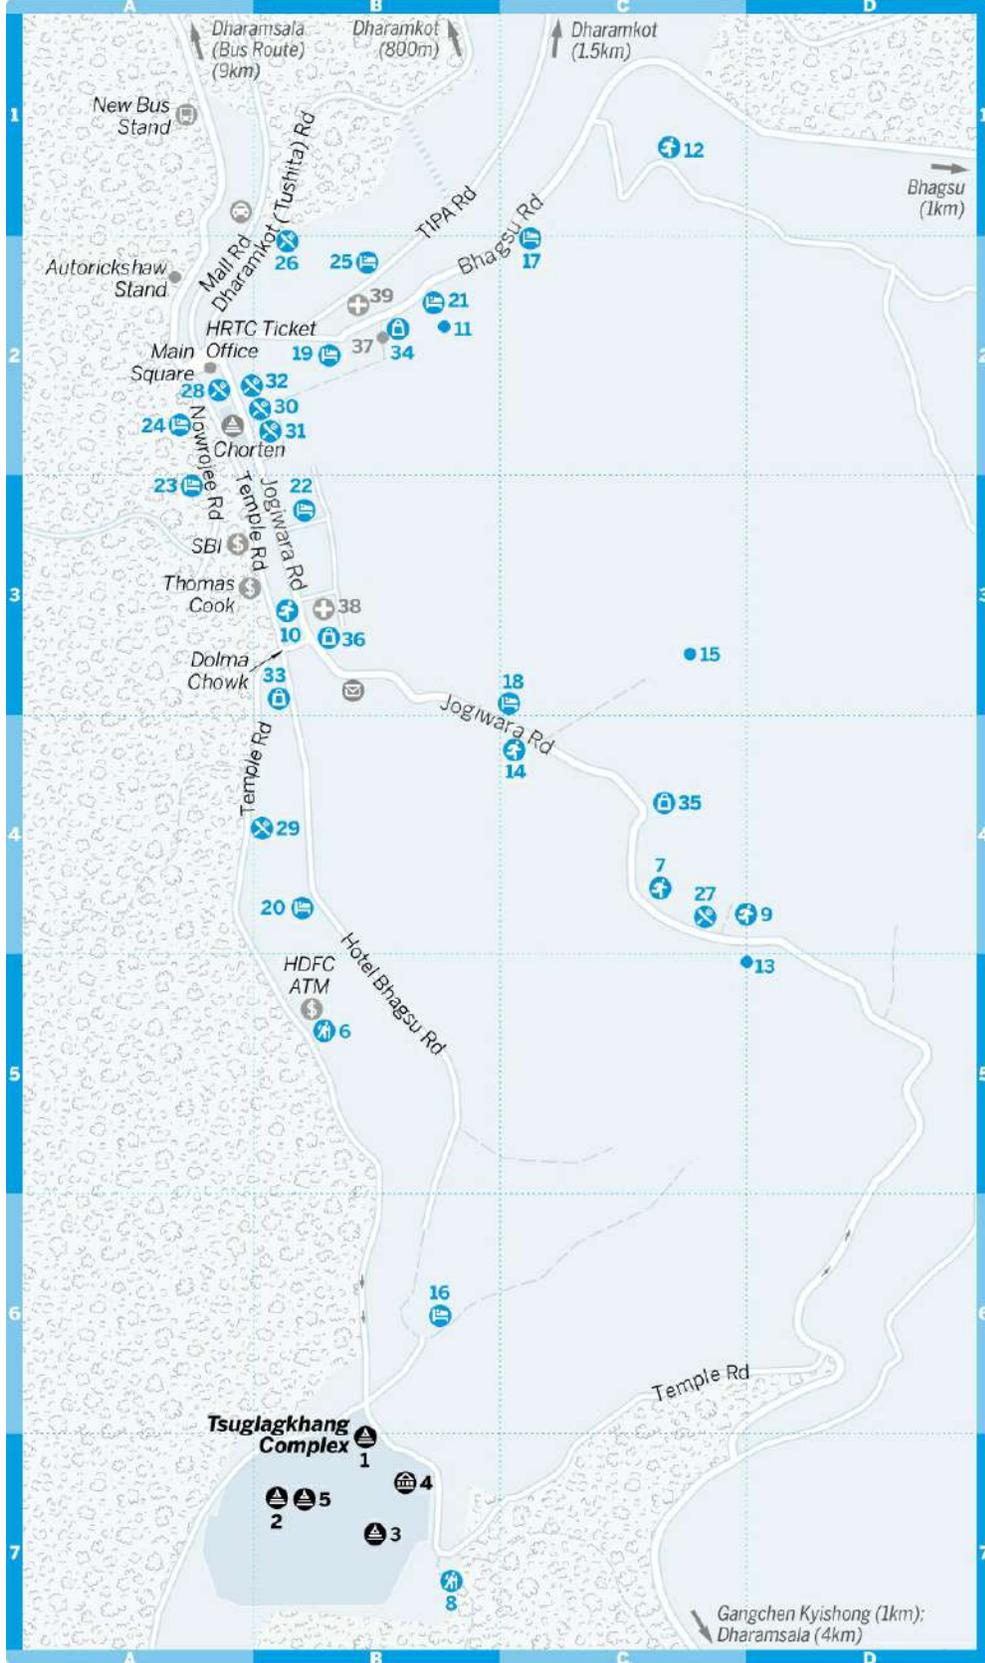

With an interesting mix of travellers, volunteers, maroon-robed monks and nuns, the international dharma crowd and an increasing flow of Indian tourists, you're never far from an interesting conversation here.

Named after Donald McLeod, Lieutenant-Governor of Punjab, McLeod began life in the 1850s as a civilian settlement outside the British garrison of Dharamsala. It was devastated by the 1905 Kangra earthquake and sank into obscurity after Independence – until the Dalai Lama arrived to establish his base here in 1960. Since then, McLeod has become a vibrant centre of Tibetan culture and Buddhism.

The monsoon (late June to early September) is particularly wet here, and warm clothes are useful between November and March. Many shops and businesses close on Monday.

McLeod Ganj

Gangchen Kyishong (1km);
Dharamsala (4km)

McLeod Ganj

Top Sights

1 Tsuglagkhang Complex	B7
--	----

Sights

Gu-Chu-Sum Movement Gallery	C4
2 Kalachakra Temple	B7
3 Namgyal Gompa	B7
4 Tibet Museum	B7
5 Tsuglagkhang	B7

Activities, Courses & Tours

6 High Point Adventure	B5
High Point Adventure	B4
7 Holistic Centre of Ayurveda	C4
8 Kora Circuit	B7
9 Learning & Ideas for Tibet	D4
10 Lha	B3
11 Lhamo's Kitchen	B2
12 Rogpa	C1
13 Sangye's Kitchen	D5
14 Tibet World	C4
15 Universal Yoga Centre	C3

Sleeping

16 Chonor House	B6
17 Green Hotel	C2
18 Hotel Mount View	C3
19 Hotel Tibet	B2
20 Kareri Lodge	B4
21 Kunga Guesthouse	B2
22 Loseling Guest House	B3
23 Om Hotel	A3
24 Serkong House	A2
25 Seven Hills Guest House	B2

Eating

26	Common Ground Cafe	B2
	Green Hotel Restaurant	C2
27	Lung Ta	C4
28	McLo Restaurant	A2
29	Moonpeak	B4
	Namgyal Cafe	A3
	Nick's Italian Kitchen	B2
30	Shangrila Vegetarian Restaurant	B2
31	Snow Lion Restaurant	B2
32	Tibet Kitchen	A2

Shopping

33	Bookworm	B3
34	Green Shop	B2
35	Pick & Speak Mobile Shop	C4
36	Tibetan Handicraft Center	B3

Information

37	Branch Security Office	B2
38	Dr Yeshi Dhonden	B3
39	Men-Tsee-Khang Therapy Centre	B2

Sights & Activities

★ Tsuglagkhang Complex

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Temple Rd; ⌚ 5am-8pm Apr-Oct, 6am-6pm Nov-Mar)

The main focus of visiting pilgrims, monks and many tourists, the Tsuglagkhang complex includes the Tsuglagkhang itself (the main Tibetan temple), the Namgyal Gompa and the excellent Tibet Museum.

★ Tsuglagkhang

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The revered Tsuglagkhang is the exiles' concrete equivalent of the Jokhang temple in Lhasa and was built in 1969. The central image is a gilded statue of the Sakyamuni Buddha. To its left are gilded statues of Avalokitesvara (the bodhisattva of compassion, Tibet's patron deity) and Padmasambhava, the Indian sage believed to have helped spread Buddhism in 8th-century Tibet, and a wooden 'starving Buddha' representing the Buddha near the end of his six years of ascetic meditation at Bodhgaya.

Namgyal Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Namgyal Gompa is the monastery in the Tsuglagkhang Complex. You can watch the monks in lively debate in the courtyard from 2pm to 3pm daily except Sunday, sealing points of argument with a foot stamp and theatrical clap of the hands. The entrance to the Dalai Lama's residence, not open to the public, is on the south side of the courtyard.

Kalachakra Temple

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Before visiting the Tsuglagkhang itself, pilgrims first visit the Kalachakra Temple on its west side, which contains mesmerising murals of the Kalachakra (Wheel of Time) mandala, specifically linked to Avalokitesvara, of whom the Dalai Lama is a manifestation.

★ Tibet Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; <http://tibetmuseum.org>; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-6pm Sun & Tue-Fri & 1st Sat of the month, to 5pm Oct-Mar) FREE

The museum tells the story of Tibetan history, the Chinese occupation and the continuing Tibetan resistance and exodus, through photographs, video and clear English-language display panels. It also covers the Dalai Lama and his life's work. A visit here is a must.

Kora Circuit

WALKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Most Tibetan pilgrims make a clockwise kora (ritual circuit) around the outside of the Tsuglagkhang Complex. To join them, take the downhill road to the left at the complex's entrance then follow the prayer-flag-draped path off to the right after 150m.

St John in the Wilderness

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 9am-5pm)

Amid tall cedars 1.5km west of McLeod on the road to Forsyth Ganj, this brooding Gothic church (dating from 1852) is one of the few remaining traces of McLeod's days as a British hill station. The cemetery contains the graves of many victims of the 1905 earthquake, as well as the rocket-like tomb of the Earl of Elgin, the second Viceroy of India.

Tibetan Children's Village

SCHOOL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01892-221348; www.tcv.org.in; 🕒 office 9am-12.30pm & 1.30-5pm Mon-Fri)

Just a short hop from the underwhelming Dal Lake, 3km northwest of McLeod, the Tibetan Children's Village provides free education for nearly 2000 refugee children and lodging for most of them. Founded in the 1960s, it's now one of 12 such schools around India. Visitors are welcome.

★ Central Tibetan Secretariat

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Gangchen Kyishong)

Inside the government-in-exile compound, nearly 2km downhill from the Tsuglagkhang Complex, the Library of Tibetan Works & Archives (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9218422467; www.ltw.net; Gangchen Kyishong; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat) began life as a collection of sacred manuscripts saved from the Cultural Revolution. Today it has more than 120,000 manuscripts and books in Tibetan, and more than 15,000 books on Tibet, Buddhism and the Himalayan region in English and other languages.

Upstairs is a fascinating cultural museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ₹20) with statues, old Tibetan artefacts and books, and some astonishing three-dimensional mandalas in wood and sand.

Nechung Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Worth a look if you're in the Central Tibetan Secretariat complex, the colourful Nechung Gompa is seat of the Tibetan state oracle. If you should want to consult the oracle, a monk named Thupten Ngodup, ask in the office here for an appointment with the oracle's secretary.

★ Men-Tsee-Khang

BUDDHIST SITE

(Tibetan Medical & Astrological Institute; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 01892-223113; www.men-tsee-khang.org; Gangchen Kyishong; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat of the month)

Established to preserve the traditional arts of Tibetan medicine and astrology, Men-Tsee-Khang is a college, clinic, museum, research centre and astrological institute rolled into one. The astrological folk can do a 45-minute oral consultation (₹2000; register in person half a day ahead with your birth date, time and place), or a detailed life-horoscope online, which you'll receive by email and a hard copy within four months (US$85 plus US$20 taxes).

The Men-Tsee-Khang Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Gangchen Kyishong; ₹20; 🕒 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat) has three floors of fascinating displays on the sophisticated sciences of Tibetan astrology and medicine, told via illustrative thangkas as well as samples of medicines, their plant and mineral sources, and instruments that have been used for some treatments – such as a brass hammer for treating tumours, insanity and body ache. Learn useful facts: cinnamon wards against flatulence; cumin and coriander combat anorexia; gold helps longevity.

Men-Tsee-Khang also runs occasional short courses on the basics of Tibetan medicine.

TIBETAN MEDICINE

Traditional Tibetan medicine is a centuries-old holistic healing practice and a popular treatment for all kinds of minor and persistent ailments. Its methods include massages, compresses, bath and steam therapies, pills made from plants and minerals, and diet and lifestyle advice. There are several clinics around town, including the Men-Tsee-Khang Therapy Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞01892-221484; www.men-tsee-khang.org; TIPA Rd; 🕒9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat), run by the Tibetan Medical & Astrological Institute.

The most popular amchi (Tibetan doctor) in town is the former physician to the Dalai Lama, Dr Yeshi Dhonden (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞01892-221461; Ashoka Niwas; 🕒9am-1pm Sun-Fri), whose tiny clinic is squirrelled away in a passage off Jogiwara Rd. The fantastic reputation of his holistic treatments brings him many cancer patients, among others. On an appointed day every month or two, from 8am, tokens for consultations are given out to all who queue up outside the nearby Ashoka Guest House. Dr Yeshi sees 45 patients a day, six days a week, but he's in such demand that two months' supply of tokens may be given out on a single day. At the actual consultation, patients must bring a sample of urine, which, along with a quick examination, is all the doctor needs to prescribe the appropriate herbal pills.

Yoga, Ayurveda & Massage

McLeod Ganj and neighbouring Dharamkot and Bhagsu have dozens of practitioners of holistic and alternative therapies, some reputable and some making a fast buck at the expense of gullible travellers. Talking to friends and other travellers is the best way to find good practitioners.

Holistic Centre of Ayurveda

MASSAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞9418493871; holisticmassage16@gmail.com; Ladies Venture Hotel, Jogiwara Rd; 1hr ₹800-1000; 🕒10.30am-7pm)

Resident masseur Shami is very popular, so book a day or two ahead. He offers relaxation, ayurvedic and deep-tissue massages, and can attend to your head, back, face, feet or whole body.

Universal Yoga Centre

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9882222011; www.vijaypoweryoga.com; Youngling School, Jogiwara R
1½hr class ₹200-400; 🕒 Apr-Sep)

Gets good reports for daily drop-in classes in a variety of techniques at all levels; also does teacher-training courses.

TIBETAN EXILES

In October 1950, about a year after Mao Zedong declared the founding of the People's Republic of China, Chinese troops invaded Tibet. At the time, Tibet was a de facto independent state led by the Dalai Lama, with a hazy, complicated relationship with China. A year later, in October 1951, Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, fell. Resistance simmered for years in the countryside, and protests against the Chinese occupation broke out in Lhasa in 1959. As the Chinese army moved against the uprising, it fired upon the Norbulingka, the Dalai Lama's summer palace. Believing his life or his freedom was at risk, the Dalai Lama fled across the Himalayas to India, where he received asylum.

China says its army was sent to Tibet as liberators, to free Tibetans from feudal serfdom and improve life on the vast high plateau. It hasn't worked out that way. While the sometimes-quoted figure of 1.2 million Tibetans killed since 1950 is seriously disputed, no independent observers question the suffering and human-rights abuses, as well as huge losses to Tibet's cultural legacy, that have occurred under Chinese occupation. Many Tibetans still risk the dangerous crossing into India. Today there are 100,000 or more Tibetans in India, including those born here. Many new arrivals come first to the Dharamsala area, where they find support from their community (more than 10,000 strong), their government-in-exile and a legion of NGOs. There are also large Tibetan communities in Karnataka state, where several settlements have been set up since the 1960s.

Trekking

It's possible to trek to the Chamba or Kullu Valleys and even Lahaul, and several agencies in McLeod and in Dharamkot or Bhagsu can make the necessary arrangements for camping, guides and porters or pack animals. Apart from the demanding Indrahar La trek to the Chamba Valley, the most popular option is the easy three- to five-day loop to Kareri Lake. Guided treks with food, camping and porter(s) can cost anywhere from ₹1500 to ₹3000 per person per day: be sure to check exactly what's being provided for your money – items such as food and any necessary return transport for the workers may not be included in the initial price.

High Point Adventure

TREKKING

( ;  9816120145; highpointadventure@gmail.com; Kareri Lodge, Hotel Bhagsu Rd)

An experienced, knowledgeable team offering some of the best prices in town. It also has an office ( ; Temple Rd;  9am-6pm) on Temple Rd.

Volunteering

McLeod Ganj has more volunteering opportunities than almost anywhere else in India, mostly geared to supporting the Tibetan community in one way or another. Some language conversation classes welcome drop-in participants. For other opportunities it's ideal to make contact a couple of weeks in advance. Many volunteer opportunities are publicised in the free magazine, Contact (www.contactmagazine.net). Travellers should always investigate any volunteer opportunity themselves to assess the standards and suitability of the project. Experts recommend that volunteering should be at least a three-month commitment. Lonely Planet cannot vouch for any organisation that we do not work with directly.

Volunteers generally arrange their own accommodation and meals, though Lha offers homestays with Tibetan families (US$20 per day including breakfast and dinner, minimum one week).

The following organisations are among those that offer, or can provide information on, volunteer opportunities.

Lha ( ;  9882323453; www.lhasocialwork.org; Temple Rd;  office 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Fri, 9-11am 1st & 3rd Sat) This NGO arranges placements at a host of community projects, including for teachers of English and other languages, fundraisers, and healthcare or IT professionals. Minimum periods range from one week to two months. Anyone can participate in English conversation classes with refugees at the office from 4pm to 5pm Monday to Friday.

Learning & Ideas for Tibet (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞9882439815;

<http://learningandideasfortibet.blogspot.com>; Jogiwara Rd; 🕒9am-5pm Mon-Fri) Gives free classes for Tibetan refugees and has a variety of volunteer positions teaching English, French, German, Mandarin or Japanese, and computing skills for beginners. Volunteers can drop in to the 2pm English conversation classes (1½ hours). The office is down the steps leading to Seed Cafe and Pawan Guest House.

Tibet World (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞9816999928; <http://tibetworld.org>; Jogiwara R

🕒office 9am-5pm Mon-Fri) Has some 600 refugee students each year and uses volunteers for a variety of jobs including teaching English, German, French and Mandarin, preferably for one month minimum. Its yoga classes are also taught by volunteers. It runs drop-in conversation classes in English at 11am and 4pm, and in French and Mandarin at 4pm.

Courses

The most established and best reputed schools of yoga and meditation are mainly found in Dharamkot and Bhagsu. The Library of Tibetan Works & Archives conducts serious Buddhist philosophy courses (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞9218422467; www.ltwa.net; Library of Tibetan Works & Archives, Central Tibetan Secretariat; per month ₹300, registration ₹50; 🕒classes 9am & 10.30am Mon-Sat) in English lasting from 1½ to four months (1¼ hours daily), plus monthly five-day evening courses (one hour per day), sometimes in Tibetan, sometimes in English.

The Library also runs 4½-month Tibetan language and speaking courses (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞9218422467; www.ltwa.net; Library of Tibetan Works & Archives, Central Tibetan Secretariat; per month ₹500, registration ₹50) for beginner, intermediate and experienced students, starting around 1 March and 1 August (five hours a week). Students can join the basic course at any time.

Lhamo's Kitchen

COOKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9816468719; lhamoskitchen@gmail.com; Bhagsu Rd; 2hr class ₹300; 🕒 10am-noon & 5-7pm)

Recommended courses in vegetarian Tibetan cooking. Each day focuses on momos, soups or breads, with two or three types of each.

A minimum of two people is required, and you should register at least five hours in advance.

Sangye's Kitchen

COOKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9816164540; Jogiwara Rd; classes ₹250; 🕒 10am-noon & 4-6pm Thu Tue)

Tibetan treats, focusing on momos (including chocolate momos!) every Sunday and Thursday, and noodles on Tuesday and Saturday.

Festivals & Events

In late January, February or early March, McLeod celebrates Losar (Tibetan New Year) with processions and masked dances at local monasteries. The Dalai Lama often gives public teachings at this time.

The Tibetan Opera Festival (🕒 Mar/Apr), held most years at the Tibetan Institute of Performing Arts, sees 12 performances on successive days by different groups from India and Nepal, each lasting seven or eight hours.

Several film festivals liven up McLeod's autumn. The Free Spirit Film Festival (www.freespiritfilmfestival.com; 🕒 late Oct) and Dharamsala International Film Festival (<http://diff.co.in>; 🕒 late Oct/early Nov) screen eclectic selections of independent features, documentaries and shorts, while the Tibet Film Festival (<http://tibetfilmfestival.org>; 🕒 Sep or Oct) spotlights films made by Tibetans.

MEETING THE DALAI LAMA

Meeting the Dalai Lama is a lifelong dream for many travellers and certainly for Buddhists, but private audiences are rarely granted. Put simply, the Dalai Lama is too busy with spiritual duties to meet everyone who comes to Dharamsala. Tibetan refugees are automatically guaranteed an audience, but travellers must make do with the occasional public teachings held at the Tsuglagkhang, normally in September or October and after Losar (Tibetan New Year) in February or March, and on other occasions depending on his schedule. For schedules and just about everything you need to know about His Holiness, visit www.dalailama.com. To attend a teaching, register with your passport at the Branch Security Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍221560; Bhagsu Rd, McLeod Ganj; 🕒9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Fri & 1st Sat) in the days leading up to the teaching (if you don't manage this, registration is usually also possible in the early morning at the temple before the teaching starts). To get the most out of the teachings bring a cushion and an FM radio with headset (around ₹450 in local shops) for simultaneous translation.

Sleeping

Popular places fill up quickly; advance bookings are advisable, especially from April to June and in October.

Kunga Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9857421180; www.kungaguesthouse.com; Bhagsu Rd; r ₹400-1500; 📶)

Above (and below) Nick's Italian Kitchen, which is its greatest asset, Kunga offers a huge range of dull but clean rooms in several buildings, and has a helpful travel-booking service. The cheapest rooms share bathrooms.

Om Hotel

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9816329985; Nowrojee Rd; r ₹550-650, without bathroom ₹300-350; 📶)

Friendly, family-run Om, down a lane from the main square, has simple but pleasing rooms with good views, and its terrace catches the sunset over the valley. No reservations are taken so try to go in the morning for a room.

The popular Namgyal Cafe (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Om Hotel, Nowrojee Rd; mains ₹90-350; 🕒9.30am-10pm) here serves well-laden if chewy pizzas, plus decently prepared tofu and potato dishes, soups and more

Loseling Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9218923305; off Jogiwara Rd; d ₹350-500; 📶)

In an alley off Jogiwara Rd, Loseling is run by a Tibetan monastery in Karnataka. It's a good cheapie and all rooms have a hot shower; the three rooftop rooms are easily the best.

Hotel Mount View

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816261717; mountmagic786@yahoo.co.in; Jogiwara Rd; r ₹500-1200 📶)

A no-frills but well-run budget hotel down busy Jogiwara Rd, Mount View has a travel desk and rooftop cafe as well as a range of rooms, all with attached bath. Look at a few as they vary in view, size, light and airiness.

Seven Hills Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9736597593; TIPA Rd; d ₹450-600, s without bathroom ₹250; @ 📶)

A smallish guesthouse with a big sunny terrace, Seven Hills offers clean rooms and a cafe in a convenient location on TIPA Rd.

Green Hotel

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01892-221479; www.greenhotel.in; Bhagsu Rd; r ₹800-2500; ❄️ 📶)

A favourite with midrange travellers and small groups, the Green has a diverse range of sunny, super-clean rooms in three buildings, most with balconies and valley and mountain views. It's very well run by the ever-cheerful Choekyi and has an excellent cafe.

Hotel Tibet

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01892-221587; hoteltibetdasa@yahoo.com; Bhagsu Rd; r ₹1190-2380; 📶)

Bang in the centre of town, this well-run place has a faintly upmarket feel, but reasonable prices. Rooms have parquet floors and there's a cosy multicuisine licensed restaurant and a useful in-house travel office.

Kareri Lodge

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01892-221132; karerilodge@gmail.com; Hotel Bhagsu Rd; r ₹770-2120 📶)

Kareri, squeezed in among a string of mostly more upmarket hotels, has five spotless and comfy rooms with soft beds, four of them enjoying great long-distance views from huge windows. There's a good vibe here, helped by the friendly manager who offers a reliable trekking service.

★ Chonor House

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9882976879; www.norbulingka.org; off Temple Rd; r ₹5360-7860; 📶 @ 📶)

Up a lane near the Tsuglagkhang, Chonor House is a real gem. It's run by the Norbulingka Institute, and is decked out with wonderful handmade Norbulingka furnishings and fabrics. Each of the 18 bright and sunny rooms has a Tibetan theme that runs from the carpets to the bedspreads to the murals. Even the cheapest rooms are spacious.

★ Serkong House

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9857957131; www.norbulingka.org; Nowrojee Rd; s ₹2740-4110, d ₹3430-4790, ste s/d ₹5480/6160; 📶)

Belonging to the Norbulingka Institute, the Serkong is tasteful, comfortable and well run. Spacious rooms boast Tibetan rugs and Norbulingka-made tables, and the more expensive ones have fine views. Staff are polite and efficient, and the good Tibetan-Indian-Continental restaurant (mains ₹150 to ₹240) eschews white flour and MSG.

Eating & Drinking

McLeod Ganj is crammed with traveller restaurants serving pretty similar menus – omelettes, pancakes, Indian, Tibetan and Chinese staples, pizzas, pasta and assorted other European food. Happily, many of them do a pretty good job. McLeod also has some of North India's best cafes, with good coffee and English-style tea. For a quick snack, Tibetans sell veg momos on the upper part of Jogiwara Rd and outside the entrance to the Tsuglagkhang.

Nick's Italian Kitchen

ITALIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Bhagsu Rd; mains ₹80-190; 🕒 7am-9pm; 📶)

Unpretentious, well-run Nick's has been serving up tasty vegetarian pizzas, lasagne, ravioli, gnocchi and quiches for years. Follow up a ground coffee with one of their desserts – apple pie or a heavenly slice of lemon cheesecake.

Shangrila Vegetarian Restaurant

TIBETAN, INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jogiwara Rd; mains ₹70-90; 🕒 7.30am-8.30pm; 📶)

Shangrila is run by monks of the Gyudmed monastery, some of whom wait on tables and help to engender a notably friendly atmosphere. It serves up tasty, well-priced Tibetan staples including momos (Tibetan dumplings) in soup and bagebs (large fried momos).

Snow Lion Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jogiwara Rd; mains ₹80-150, breakfasts ₹160-195; 🕒 7am-9pm; 📶)

Especially popular for its good-value set breakfasts and decent coffee, the Snow Lion does good momos and thukpa too, and has comfy seating and shelves of books.

★ Moonpeak

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.moonpeak.org; Temple Rd; mains ₹150-300; 🕒 7am-9pm; 📶)

A little chunk of Seattle, transported to India. Come for excellent coffee, breakfasts, cakes, imaginative brown-bread open sandwiches (try the poached chicken with mango, lime and coriander sauce), soups, salads and plenty of well-prepared veg and nonveg main dishes.

It's also a gallery and has a great laid-back bluesy taste in music.

Green Hotel Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Bhagsu Rd; mains ₹110-180; 🕒 6.30am-9.30pm; 📶)

This traveller-oriented hotel restaurant, with a sunny terrace and comfy couches inside, serves very good vegetarian food and the earliest breakfasts in town.

Common Ground Cafe

ASIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.facebook.com/commongroundcafe09; Dharamkot Rd; mains ₹80-230; 🕒 9am-9pm; 📶)

The menu is a sizzling variety of Chinese and Tibetan speciality dishes, from Taiwan-style tofu to sha tag (a rich meat-and-veg stir-fry), available without MSG if you like, plus all-day Western-type breakfasts. The coffee's good, too. The atmosphere is pleasingly laid-back and sociable, with shared tables and floor cushions.

Tibet Kitchen

TIBETAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jogiwara Rd; mains ₹120-300; 🕒 noon-9.30pm)

It's worth queueing here to try the spicy Bhutanese food including kewa datse (potatoes, beans and chilli in cheese sauce) and unusual Tibetan dishes including shapta (roasted lamb slices with capsicum and onion). The momos are good too, and there are also Thai and Chinese flavours. Its three floors of tables are often full of travellers, monks and locals.

Lung Ta

JAPANESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Jogiwara Rd; set meals ₹200; 🕒 noon-8.30pm Mon-Sat)

The daily set menus are the best choice at this popular, vegetarian Japanese restaurant, especially on Tuesdays and Fridays when they include sushi rolls and miso soup. The food and ambience are authentic enough to attract Japanese travellers looking for a taste of home. Profits go to the NGO Gu-Chu-Sum.

McLlo Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Main Sq; mains ₹200-400; 🕒 9.30am-11.30pm)

Crowded nightly and justifiably popular, this large, four-floor place serves a mind-boggling menu of Indian, Chinese and international fare, including pizzas and pasta. The semi-open-air top floor is one of McLeod's best places to enjoy a cold beer (₹220-plus).

Entertainment

Irregular live-music nights or jam sessions are advertised around town. The Tibetan Institute of Performing Arts (TIPA; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9418087998; <http://tipa.asia>; TIPA Rd; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat) stages irregular cultural performances, including a 1½-hour show of folk and ritual dance and song, Dances from the Roof of the World, and concerts by the electric folk fusion group Aa Ka Ma. Check its Facebook page or website for upcoming events. Tibet World puts on a Tibetan folk show at 6.30pm on Thursdays (₹200) and shows documentary films (free) at 4pm on Saturdays.

Shopping

Dozens of shops and stalls sell Tibetan artefacts, including thangkas, bronze statues, metal prayer wheels, turquoise necklaces, yak-wool shawls and 'singing' bowls. Some are Tibetan-run, but others are run by Kashmiri traders who apply a degree of sales pressure. Several local cooperatives offer the same goods without the hassle. And – book lovers rejoice! – McLeod undoubtedly has the highest bookshop-to-population ratio in India.

Tibetan Handicraft Center

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01892-221415; www.tibetan-handicrafts.com; Jogiwara Rd; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat) 🍃

This cooperative employs refugees for the weaving of Tibetan carpets. You'll pay around ₹13,500 for a 0.9m by 1.8m traditional wool carpet, and they'll ship it if you like (₹2500 to ₹3500 to Europe, ₹4500 to the USA). Visitors are welcome to watch the weavers in action. There's also a shop with other attractive goods, including quality thangkas (₹20,000-plus).

Bookworm

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01892-221465; Hotel Bhagsu Rd; 🕒 9am-7pm Tue-Sun)

McLeod's best all-round bookshop.

Green Shop

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bhagsu Rd; 🕒 9.30am-7pm Mon-Sat) 🍃

Sells appealing handmade, recycled paper products, organic peanut butter, tahini and more.

Information

Contact (www.contactmagazine.net) is an informative, free local magazine with useful information about courses and volunteer work. Available online and in paper form at several cafes, restaurants and hotels in McLeod Ganj.

Delek Hospital

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 01892-222053; www.delekhospital.org/delek; Gangchen Kyishong; consultations before/after noon ₹10/50; 🕒 outpatient clinic 9am-1pm & 2-5pm Mon-Fri & 1st Sat of the month, 9am-1pm 3rd, 4th & 5th Sat of the month)

A small, Tibetan-run hospital practising allopathic medicine, with a 24-hour emergency service.

Pick & Speak Mobile Shop

ELECTRONICS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Jogiwara Rd; 🕒 8.30am-8.30pm)

Sells SIM cards for ₹200 (not including data or calls). Bring your phone and passport.

Thomas Cook

EXCHANGE

(GOOGLE MAP); Temple Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6.30pm Mon-Sat)

Changes cash and travellers cheques with 0.15% tax (minimum ₹35) and a ₹50 transaction fee, and gives advances on credit cards for a 3% charge.

i Getting There & Around

Many travel agencies in McLeod will book train tickets for a commission of ₹100.

AIR

Dharamsala airport has flights to/from Delhi.

AUTORICKSHAW

The autorickshaw stand (GOOGLE MAP) is just north of the main square. Fares are around ₹60 to Bhagsu and ₹70 to Dharamkot.

BUS

Buses start from and arrive at the New Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP), 150m north of the main square. Buses and overcrowded jeeps to Dharamsala (both ₹15, 35 minutes) run about every 15 to 30 minutes from 4am to 8pm.

Some long-distance buses start from McLeod, but there are more frequent departures from Dharamsala bus station. You can book government (HRTC) buses from both places at McLeod's HRTC ticket office (GOOGLE MAP); Main Sq; 🕒 9am-7pm). In addition, travel agencies sell seats on private buses to Delhi (₹900 to ₹1100, 12 hours, 6pm to 7pm), Manali (₹400 to ₹600, 11 hours, 8.30pm and 9.30pm), Amritsar (₹600, seven hours, morning and evening) and elsewhere.

HRTC BUSES FROM MCLEOD GANJ

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Dehra Dun	550-1080	12	3 daily
Delhi	580-1275	12-13	4am, 6pm & 7.30pm (ordinary); 5pm (semi-deluxe); 6.30pm & 7.45pm (deluxe); 5.30pm & 7pm (Volvo AC)
Manali	400	11	4.30pm
Pathankot	150	4	5 daily

TAXI

McLeod's taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP; ☎01892-221034; Mall Rd) is just north of the main square. A taxi for the day, travelling less than 80km, should cost ₹1600. One-way fares include ₹100 to Gangchen Kyishong, Dharamkot or Bhagsu, ₹200 to Dharamsala bus station, ₹800 to Dharamsala airport, ₹4000 to Chamba and ₹4500 to Manali.

INDRAHAR LA TREK

This popular four- or five-day route crosses the Indrahara La (4420m) to the Chamba Valley, and can be done in either direction. The pass is normally open from June to early November, but the best months are September and October.

The first day climbs three or four hours to the mountain meadow of Triund, where you can camp and which also has a couple of basic guesthouses, plus dhabas that will rent you a sleeping bag and/or tent. The next stage climbs to the alpine meadow of Laka Got (3350m) and then the rocky shelter known as Lahesh Cave (3600m). With an early start the next day, you can cross the Indrahara La – and be rewarded for the tough climb with astounding views – before descending steeply to the meadow campground at Chata Parao.

The track on down to Kuarsi, crossing summer meadows, can be tricky to find in places. On the final day you reach a road at Hilling, about 5km before Lamu. It's 3km to 5km (depending on short cuts) down from Lamu to Holi-Kharamukh-Chamba road, plied by several buses a day (a couple of these come up to Lamu or Hilling). To reach Bharmour, take a bus as far as Kharamukh and change there.

STAGE	ROUTE	DURATION (HR)	DISTANCE (KM)
1	McLeod Ganj to Triund	3-4	9
2	Triund to Lahesh Cave	3-4	8
3	Lahesh Cave to Chata Parao over Indrahara La	6	10
4	Chata Parao to Kuarsi	5-6	15
5	Kuarsi to Lamu	4	10

Around McLeod Ganj

Bhagsu & Dharamkot

📍01892

Through pine trees north and east of McLeod lie the villages of Bhagsu (officially Bhagsunag) and Dharamkot, more rural and laid-back and alternative than McLeod itself. These are the abodes of choice for many budget travellers and long-stayers, and especially popular among Israelis. Here you can take classes in tarot, Reiki, numerology, crystal healing and varieties of yoga you've never heard of, do sitar, tabla or flute lessons, get or learn to give a dozen types of massage, have your hair dreadlocked, dyed or extended, or just lounge in cafes and practise your juggling. Some of the area's best and most serious yoga and meditation schools are here too.

Sights

Dharamkot retains a quiet village vibe, with the scattered houses of upper Dharamkot stretching almost to the little Gallu Devi Temple on the ridge above. Lower Bhagsu, in contrast, is busy with concrete hotels, shops and discos aimed squarely at domestic visitors. But two minutes up from the main road in Bhagsu you're back in backpackerland: upper Bhagsu is very similar to upper Dharamkot, with which it effectively merges. Lower Bhagsu's small, 16th-century Shiva temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Lower Bhagsu) has a cold, clean, spring-fed swimming pool in front of it, and from there it's a 1km walk to Bhagsu waterfall (MAP GOOGLE MAP), most impressive during the monsoon. En route to upper Bhagsu, 200m up from the main road, drop into the awesomely kitsch Vashnu Mata Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), where you access the inner grotto through a concrete lion's mouth and emerge via the jaws of a crocodile.

Activities

Terrestrial Adventures

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP);  9418656758, 9882858628; kcnehria@yahoo.com; Main Sq, Bhagsu;

 8am-7pm)

An experienced and well-reputed firm offering a range of serious treks including the Indrahara and Minkiani Pass routes to the Chamba Valley, routes to the Kullu Valley, and a 10-day trek to the Pattan Valley over both the Dhauladhar and Pir Panjal ranges. Indrahara treks cost around ₹3000 per person per day.

Gallu Devi & Triund Hikes

To reach the little Gallu Devi temple, on the ridge above Dharamkot, head along the left side of the water tank opposite Dharamkot's Himalayan Tea Shop (GOOGLE MAP); items ₹30-80;  6am-8.30pm), and after 50m turn up a path to the right. This lovely trail winds up through the forest to emerge on a jeep track after 1km: go 500m to the right to reach Gallu Devi.

Alternatively you can walk straight up from the top of Dharamkot in 20 or 30 minutes. A couple of cafes and guesthouses are set on the panoramic ridge where the little temple stands. From here, one track leads gently west downhill to Naddi village (2.5km) and Dal Lake (3km), with the Tibetan

Children's Village nearby; another heads about 2km north down to a waterfall; and the main track climbs east through rhododendron woods towards the panoramic mountain meadow of Triund (2900m) – a beautiful walk that gains 800m altitude in a fairly strenuous 2½ to three hours. You pass a couple of tea shops, and Triund has a few dhabas offering simple meals, tents, sleeping bags and beds. An overnight stop gives you the best chance of clear weather, and time to hike one hour up to the teashop and viewpoint at Laka Got meadow (3350m), sometimes called 'Snowline', before heading back down – or continuing upward if you're on the Indrahar La trek.

Courses

Dharamkot and Bhagsu have many of the area's best options for learning yoga, meditation, Buddhist philosophy and ayurveda. Some places have strict rules on silence, alcohol and smoking.

Tushita Meditation Centre

MEDITATION, PHILOSOPHY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; <http://tushita.info>; Dharamkot; 10-day course incl accommodation & meal from ₹6000; 🕒 Feb-Nov)

Tushita conducts 10-day 'Introduction to Buddhism' silent retreat courses and drop-in meditation sessions at 9.30am daily, except Sunday.

Himalayan Iyengar Yoga Centre

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.hiyogacentre.com; TIPA Rd, Dharamkot; 5-day course SAARC citizens/others ₹3200/4000, advance booking fee ₹1000; 🕒 Mar-Oct)

Five-day courses introducing the Iyengar method start every Monday in the large purpose-built hall here amid green surroundings.

Intensive and teacher-training courses and therapy take place at the ashram west of McLeod.

Ayuskama Ayurvedic Clinic

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9736211210; www.ayuskama.com; Hotel Anand Palace Bldg, Bhagsu;

 9am-5pm)

Dr Arun Sharma's ayurvedic treatments and courses get rave reviews. Courses range from a week on massage or nutrition (₹6500 to ₹7500) to three-month diploma courses (₹65,000) and practitioner courses of up to two years.

Sleeping & Eating

Both villages have plenty of inexpensive guesthouses (many unsigned). Long-stayers can get rooms in small family-run places for around ₹6000 a month, often with kitchen use too.

Trimurti Garden Cafe

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  9816869144; www.trimurtigarden.in; Lower Dharamkot; r ₹600, s/d without bathroom ₹300/400; )

Friendly, secluded Trimurti has eight neat, spotless rooms centred on a lovely green garden. The cafe, open to all (8am to 9pm), serves excellent homemade food from muesli to salads to cakes to vegetarian thali. You can learn tabla, flute, sitar or vocals from Ashoka, the father of the family, and two friendly dogs enhance the homey atmosphere.

The rooms are booked out from April to June and mid-September to mid-October for popular yoga teacher-training courses (www.trimurtiyoga.com).

Raj Residency

GUESTHOUSE $

( ;  9736129703, 9418607040; Upper Dharamkot; r ₹700-1000; )

There are fine views from this two-storey stone house and its wide front lawn towards the top of Dharamkot, and the eight rooms are spacious and clean, with some arty bathroom tiling. Breakfast is available. It's popular for stays of two to three weeks or more.

Valley View

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍9418054693; Dharamkot; s/d ₹500/600; 📶)

There's no sign but it's easy to find this four-storey building behind Himachal Trekkers as you walk up through Dharamkot. It has plenty of no-frills but adequately clean rooms and a sociable atmosphere.

Cool Talk Cafe

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍9736365156; Dharamkot; dishes ₹90-200; 🕒9am-9pm)

A neat, clean little place up a quiet lane above Dharamkot's main street, with cushion or chair seating and well-done dishes ranging from Indian staples to momos, hummus, baba ganoush or toasted sandwiches, and teas, coffees, juices or lassi to drink. It also has two bright rooms (₹800) with sunny balconies.

Space Out

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dharamkot; mains ₹160-190; 🕒8.30am-11pm)

Polish-run Space Out is a space to relax on floor cushions beneath mural-daubed walls and enjoy good couscous, Thai curries, pasta, veggie burgers or whatever else is chalked up on the board.

NORBULINGKA INSTITUTE

The wonderful Norbulingka Institute (📍9418436410; www.norbulingka.org; local & Tibetan ₹20, tourist ₹50; 🕒9am-5.30pm), 6km southeast of Dharamsala, was established in 1988 to teach and preserve traditional Tibetan art forms and is a fascinating place to visit. You can watch artisans at work on woodcarving, metal statue-making, thangka painting and embroidery on free tours. Also set among the institute's delightful Japanese-influenced gardens are the Deden Tsuglakhang temple, with a 4m-high gilded Sakyamuni statue, and the Losel Doll Museum (local & Tibetan ₹5, tourist ₹20), which uses charming dioramas with dolls dressed in traditional costumes to illustrate aspects of traditional Tibetan culture. On Sundays and the second Saturday of each month, the workshops are closed but the rest of the complex is open.

The institute's shop sells some of the expensive but beautiful craftworks made here, including jewellery, painted boxes and embroidered clothes and cushions. Visitors can join one of the craft studios to do customised workshops, for any period, at ₹1500/2000 per half-day/day. Book at least two days ahead.

Peaceful and stylish Norling House ( 9816646423; www.norbulingka.org; r/stc ₹3690/5430;  ) in the institute's gardens, offers comfortable rooms decked out with Buddhist murals and Norbulingka handicrafts, arranged around a sunny atrium. Vegetarian food, and good coffee, are available at Hummingbird Cafe (mains ₹150-200;  7am-9pm; )

To get here, catch a Palampur-bound bus from Dharamsala and get off at Sacred Heart School, Sidhpur (₹7, 15 minutes), from where it's a 1km gentle uphill walk (or ₹80 taxi ride). A taxi to/from McLeod Ganj costs ₹350.

Kangra

 01892 / POP 9500 / ELEV 734M

Once capital of the princely state of Kangra, this bustling town 18km from Dharamsala is a good day trip from McLeod Ganj, with a dramatic fort and important Hindu temple. You can combine Kangra with the impressive 10th-century temples at Masrur, 40km west.

Sights

Kangra Fort

FORT

(www.royalkangra.com; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, audio guide ₹100/200;  dawn-dusk)

The impregnable-looking Kangra Fort, at least 1000 years old, soars on a high promontory of land between the Manjhi and Banganga Rivers. Head up through a series of gates and passages to the palace area at the top for views north to the mountains and south to the plains.

The fort is at the south end of town, a ₹100 autorickshaw ride from the bus stand. It was occupied by Hindu rajas, Mughal and Sikh conquerors and even the British (from 1846), before it was finally toppled by the 1905 Kangra earthquake.

Maharaja Sansar Chand Museum

MUSEUM

( 01892-265866; Indian/foreigner ₹30/100, audio guide ₹150/200;  9am-5.30pm)

About 200m up the road from Kangra Fort is the well-displayed Maharaja Sansar Chand Museum, whose ornate palanquins, peacock-feather fans and pashmina fly-whisks give fine insights into the lifestyle of the erstwhile Kangra royal family, the Katochs – a dynasty so ancient that early members fought against the Pandavas of the Mahabharata (or so a history panel tells us).

Brajeshwari Devi Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

Hindus visit Kangra to pay homage at the Brajeshwari Devi Temple, one of the 51 Shakti peeths, famous temples marking the sites where body parts from Shiva's first wife, Sati, fell after the goddess was consumed by flames (the temple marks the final resting place of Sati's left breast).

It's reached through an atmospheric bazaar lined with shops selling prasad (religious food offerings) and religious trinkets, winding 10 minutes uphill from the main road 1km south of the bus stand.

Sleeping & Eating

Kangra hotels are mostly dreary. Easily best is Hotel Grand Raj ( 01892-260901; www.hotelgrandraj.com; Dharamshala Rd; d ₹2250-5820;  ) , opposite the bus station, though the cheapest rooms are small and can be stuffy and noisy. The Royal Hotel ( 01892-265013; royalhotel@rediffmail.com; opposite Civil Hospital; r without/with AC ₹900/1500; ) , 800m further south along the main road, is a reasonable budget option offering neat, good-sized, tiled rooms with hot showers. Both these hotels have decent restaurants.

Getting There & Away

Buses run about every 30 minutes to Dharamsala (₹25, one hour), Palampur (₹55, 1½ hours) and Pathankot (₹130, three hours).

A return taxi from McLeod Ganj to Kangra Fort costs ₹1300, including waiting time.

KANGRA VALLEY TOY TRAIN

Lumbering narrow-gauge trains run east from Pathankot, providing a scenic if slow route to Kangra (five hours), Palampur (six hours), Baijnath (seven hours) and Jogindernagar (nine hours). Two trains go all the way to Jogindernagar; the other four only go as far as Baijnath. Fares are ₹35 or less to any destination, but carriages are generally packed and seats cannot be booked in advance. Board early to grab a window seat and enjoy the views.

Masrur

Winding roads through pleasant green hills lead 40km west from Kangra (or 31km southwest from Gaggal) to the impressive 10th-century Masrur temples (Indian/foreigner ₹15/200; 🕒 dawn-dusk). Though badly damaged by the 1905 earthquake, the elaborately carved sandstone sikharas – very rare examples of rock-cut temples in northern India – bear a passing resemblance to the Hindu temples at Angkor Wat in Cambodia and to Ellora in Maharashtra. You can climb to the upper level for mountain views and the tank in front provides photogenic reflections.

The easiest way to get here is a taxi day trip (around ₹2500 from McLeod Ganj if combined with Kangra, or ₹2000 without Kangra). Alternatively you can reach Lunj (₹50, 1½ hours) from Dharamsala by bus, then take a Nagrota Surian-bound bus 4km southwest to the junction at Pir Bindli, then either walk the last 2.5km or wait for one of the hourly buses to the temples.

Dharamsala to Mandi

The scenery along the wide valley stretching southeast from Dharamsala is dramatic, with the Dhauladhar Range rising to the north, and the valley sweeping away down towards the plains.

Palampur

📍01894 / POP 10,000 / ELEV 1260M

About 35km southeast of Dharamsala, Palampur is a bustling little market town surrounded by tea plantations and rice fields at the foot of the Dhauladhar range. You can visit tea factories and temples and hike in the hills just above the town.

Sights & Activities

There are good walks in and above the lush, green Bundla valley that reaches back into the hills north of town. Vindhyavasini temple, high on the east side of the valley, is a scenic walk of some 9km, gaining 500m altitude, about three hours from the 'Water Tank Point', 4km north of the centre (around ₹350 by taxi). A good hiking and sightseeing guide who knows the Palampur area and its hills well is Atul Sharma (📞9816272105; atulsharma2k@yahoo.co.in).

Vaidyanath Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Baijnath)

High above the Binwa River at Baijnath, 17km southeast of Palampur, this exquisitely carved 13th-century temple is sacred to Shiva in his incarnation as Vaidyanath, Lord of the Physicians. Buses between Palampur and Mandi stop at Baijnath bus station, almost opposite the temple.

Wah Tea Estate

TEA ESTATE

(📞9418026354; www.wahtea.com; Deogran; 🕒9am-5pm Tue-Sun) FREE

On the hour-long visits you walk through tea and herb gardens, tour the drying, rolling, heating and grading operations, and get the chance to taste the green and black teas. It's 7km south of Palampur, around ₹600 round trip by taxi.

Sleeping

The pick in town is Norwood Green (📞9736031300; www.norwoodgreen.in; Bundla

Tea Estate, Lohna village; with half-board ₹8000-9000, cottage ₹32,000-36,000; 📶), with bright, sparkling clean four-room cottages (but individual rooms are usually only available Monday to Thursday nights). The area's most atmospheric and luxurious stay is Taragarh Palace (📞01894-242034, in Delhi 011-24692317; <http://taragarh.com>; ₹7000-10,000; 🌳 📶 🚰), 12km southeast along the Mandi road, formerly a palace of the royal family of Jammu and Kashmir. The Tea Bud (📞01894-231298; www.hptdc.gov.in; s ₹1520-2150, d ₹2030-2860; 📶) is an acceptable midranger.

i Getting There & Away

From Palampur's bus station, 1km south of the centre, buses leave all day for Dharamsala (₹60, two hours) and Mandi (₹175, 3½ hours). Palampur is also a stop on the Pathankot–Jogindernagar railway.

Bir & Billing

The village of Bir (elevation: 1400m), 2km north of Hwy 154 between Palampur and Jogindernagar, is internationally famous as the base for some of the best paragliding in the world. The take-off point is at Billing, 14km up a winding road from Bir and 1000m higher. Bir-Billing hosts major competitive flying events most years in October or November. Experienced paragliders fly as far as Dharamsala, Mandi and Manali from here.

Bir is also a centre of the Tibetan exile community and home to several gompas (Tibetan Buddhist monasteries) founded since the 1960s, some of which attract foreigners for courses and retreats. There are at least three gompas in the village itself, and two of the biggest and most impressive gompas in India, Sherabling Monastery (www.palpong.org; Bhattu village) and the Dzongsar Khyentse Chökyi Lodrö Institute, lie a few kilometres outside Bir. As a rule, the gompas welcome visitors and normally no special permission is needed to visit their main temples and open-air areas.

Bir Portal (<http://birhp.com>) has useful info.

Activities

Several agencies offer tandem paragliding flights of around 30 minutes for ₹1600 to ₹2500 (including transport), depending on the experience and quality of the pilot. A GoPro camera is ₹500 extra. October and November have the best flying conditions. The monsoon prevents flying from mid-July to mid-September.

Paragliding regulation in India is minimal: the best recommendation of who to fly with is word of mouth from others who have done it. One reputable operator is Golden Eagle Paragliding (9816577607; www.geparagliding.org). For training courses of three to six days, PG-Gurukul (www.paragliding.guru; Blue Umbrella Bldg) comes recommended. Himalayan Sky Safaris (www.himalayanskysafaris.com), run by top paragliders from the UK, provides guided paragliding tours for solo and tandem flyers.

As well as paragliding, the Bir-Billing area is good for walking, trekking and mountain biking.

Courses

Deer Park Institute

ARTS, PHILOSOPHY

(01894-268508; www.deerpark.in; Tibetan Colony, Bir; course payment by donation, r without/with bathroom ₹400/600, dm ₹100;  office 9am-noon & 2-6pm Mon-Sat)

Deer Park attracts around 5000 students from dozens of countries each year to its courses and workshops ranging over Buddhist and Indian philosophy, arts including photography, writing and film-making, the Sanskrit, Pali, Tibetan and Chinese languages, and meditation retreats led by Buddhist masters. Courses are non-academic and experiential, lasting from two days to one month, and are open to all.

Sleeping & Eating

Several places to stay have restaurants. There is also a number of small restaurants, serving Tibetan or other food.

Chhokling Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 8894112325; chodak_tenzin@yahoo.com; Tibetan Colony; r ₹600-1500; 📶)

Well-kept, well-managed Chhokling Guesthouse is run by Chhokling Gumpa across the street, the largest of the Tibetan monasteries in Bir itself. The guesthouse is open to all, with 16 clean rooms ranging from no-frills cheapies with hard beds to bright abodes with softer beds and big bathrooms.

★ Colonel's Resort

HOTEL $$

(Colonel's Retreat; 📞 9882377469; www.colonelsresort.com; Chougan, Bir; incl breakfast standard s/d ₹2200/3300, deluxe r ₹4400, tent s/d ₹700/1200; 📶)

The pick of the crop, Colonel's is set in spacious gardens and has options for several budgets, the spacious deluxe rooms being very comfortable by any standards, with big soft beds, large bathrooms with good toiletries, Tibetan rugs and well-made wooden furniture. Excellent, mainly Indian buffet dinners (₹450) are served and management is helpful with arrangements and activities.

i Getting There & Away

Most buses between Palampur and Mandi will drop you at the Bir Road stop on Hwy 154, about 2.5km west of Chauntra. From there local buses (₹10) or taxis (₹100) will take you up to Bir. Taxis cost around ₹1500 to Mandi and ₹800 to Palampur.

Chamba Valley

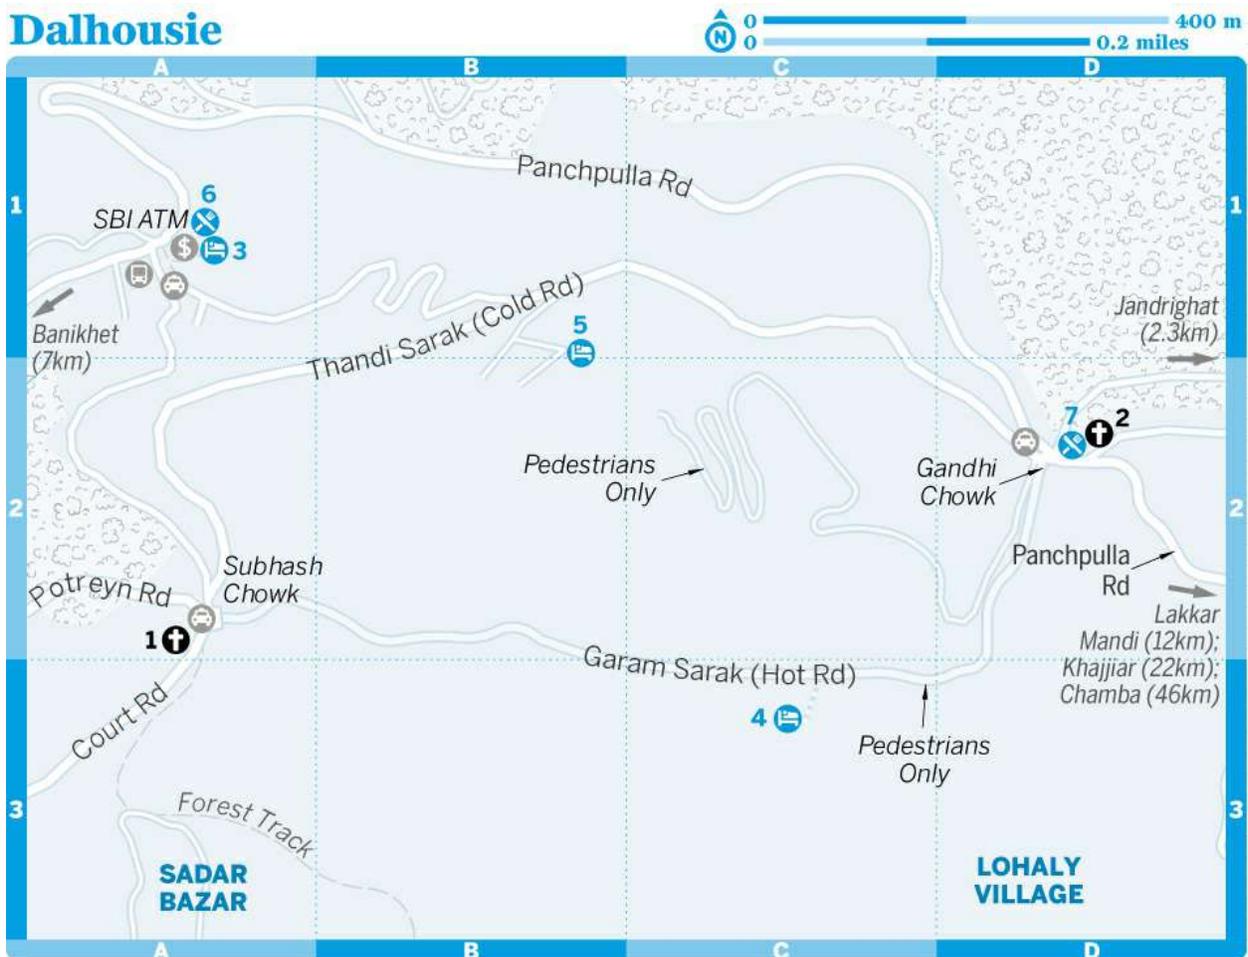

The scenic Chamba Valley is a splendidly isolated valley system, separated from the Kangra Valley by the Dhauladhar Range and from Lahaul and Kashmir by the Pir Panjal. This area was ruled for centuries as the princely state of Chamba, one of the most ancient states in North India. It's great for temple buffs, trekkers and scenery addicts but well off most tourists' radars.

Dalhousie

☞ 01899 / POP 10,500 / ELEV 2050M

With its plunging pine-clad valleys and distant mountain views, Dalhousie is another of those cool hill retreats left behind by the British. Founded in the 1850s by the viceroy whose name it bears, its heyday came in the 1920s, '30s and '40s when Lahore society flocked here for its hols. Come Partition, Lahore found itself in Pakistan and Dalhousie has never been quite the same again. Today it survives as a relatively staid escape for honeymooners and families from the plains.

Dalhousie

Sights

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|----|
| 1 St Francis Church | A2 |
| 2 St John Church | D2 |

Sleeping

- | | |
|--|----|
| 3 Grand View Hotel | A1 |
| 4 Hotel Monal | C3 |
| 5 Silverton Estate Guest House | B1 |

Eating

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|----|
| 6 Hotel Mount View | A1 |
| 7 Kwality Restaurant | D2 |

Sights

There's not a lot to see or do except stroll the tree-shaded lanes. Unusually for a hill station, there are few truly steep roads. The market areas at Subhash Chowk and Gandhi Chowk are linked by the lanes Thandi Sarak (Cold Rd) and Garam Sarak (Hot Rd). The latter receives more sunshine. There's a nice 2.5km road walk northeast from Gandhi Chowk to Jandrighat (GOOGLE MAP), a summer home of the former Chamba rulers (not open to visitors). The British-era churches of St John (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (1863) and St Francis (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (1894) are set among the pines at opposite ends of the ridge.

Dhainkund

The most uplifting spot around Dalhousie is the upland area Dhainkund (2745m), reached by a 4km side road (with short-cut paths) looping up from the impoverished settlement of Lakkar Mandi, which is 12km east of Dalhousie. Taxis (around ₹1000 return from Dalhousie) have to park at a military barrier, from which a scenic 1.5km ridgeline walk leads to the Jai Pohlani Mata Temple (GOOGLE MAP), with a teahouse and great views of the Pir Pinjal range. The scenic trail continues 5km along the ridge to tiny Jot, with a couple of dhabas, at the Chuari Pass (2772m) on the Chamba–Chuari Khas road.

Buses to Chamba via Khajjiar stop at Lakkar Mandi (₹15, 30 minutes). Chamba–Dalhousie buses pass through Lakkar Mandi at about 8.30am, 10.45am, 2.45pm and 3.45pm.

Sleeping & Eating

The restaurants at the Grand View Hotel (MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  01899-240760; www.grandviewdalhousie.in; r incl breakfast ₹3930-5240, ste from ₹6070; ) and neighbouring Hotel Mount View (MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  01899-242120; www.hotelmountview.net; Club Rd; meals ₹500-600) offer charming settings and good multicuisine fare (buffet breakfast ₹250 to ₹300, lunch or dinner ₹500 to ₹600). For cheap eats, there are Punjabi dhabas around Subhash Chowk.

Hotel Monal

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9418106230; www.hotelmonal.com; Garam Sarak; r ₹2000-2500)

A 10-year-old hotel with bright, clean, decently maintained rooms and superb valley views. Best are the top-floor quarters with private balconies.

Vegetarian meals are available and the hotel is good value from about mid-August to mid-April, when rates are slashed by more than half.

Silverton Estate Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9418010674; www.heritagehotels.com/silverton; above Circuit House, Moti Tibba; r ₹5000-8000;  Apr-Nov; )

Silverton is secluded among trees above Thandi Sarak and is the choice pick for colonial character and an old-fashioned kind of comfort. If it feels like staying in a cosy and beloved family home, that's exactly what it is, for the welcoming owners also live here. Have a bash at croquet in the large gardens.

Kwality Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gandhi Chowk; mains ₹140-370; 🕒 9am-10pm; 🍷 📶)

The extensive menu at this almost-stylish place stretches to Chinese dishes, burgers and pizza, though Indian is easily the best choice, and the combo meals (₹250 to ₹300) are a very good option.

i Getting There & Around

The bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) is at the west end of town. For long-distance services, there are more options from Banikhet, a junction town 7km west (bus/taxi ₹8/220), though you aren't guaranteed a seat there.

There are taxi stands next to the bus stand (GOOGLE MAP; near bus stand) and at Subhash Chowk (GOOGLE MAP; Subhash Chowk) and Gandhi Chowk (GOOGLE MAP; Gandhi Chowk). From the bus stand, you'll pay ₹100 to Subhash Chowk and ₹150 to Gandhi Chowk. Typical out-of-town fares include ₹1500 to Chamba and ₹3000 to Dharamsala.

BUSES FROM DALHOUSIE

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Chamba via Banikhet	80	2½	7am, 9.15am, 10.30am, 11.15am
Chamba via Lakkar Mandi & Khajjiar	80	2½	9am, 9.30am, 2.30pm, 4.30pm
Delhi	610-1380	14	3 daily
Dharamsala	170	5	7.15am, 11.50am, 1.15pm, 2pm
Pathankot	100	3	7 daily

Chamba

☞ 01899 / POP 20,000 / ELEV 930M

Ensnconced in the valley of the fast-flowing Ravi River, the capital of Chamba district is a beguiling old town with some beautiful temples, a good museum and bustling markets. Chamba was founded in AD 920 when Raja Sahil Varman moved his capital here from Bharmour, and it remained capital of the Chamba kingdom until the merger with India in 1947, though under British control from 1846.

Chamba's de facto centre is the large grassy field known as the Chowgan, a focus for festivals, cricket games, picnics and general hanging out.

Chamba

Top Sights

1 Lakshmi Narayan Temple Complex B2

Sights

2 Bajreshwari Devi Temple D1

3 Bansi Gopal Temple B2

4 Bhuri Singh Museum A2

5 Champavati Temple B2

6 Chamunda Devi Temple C3

7 Harirai Mandir B2

8 Sitaram Temple B2

9 Sui Mata Shrine C2

Activities, Courses & Tours

10 Mani Mahesh Travels B2

Sleeping

11 Chamba House B3

12 Hotel City Heart B2

Eating

13 Cafe Ravi View B3

14 Jagan Restaurant B2

Sights

★ Lakshmi Narayan Temple Complex

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  dawn-dusk)

Standing in a compound at the top of the Dogra Bazar, this superb line of six beautiful stone sikharas, covered in carvings, dates from the 10th to the 19th centuries. The largest (and oldest) is dedicated to Lakshmi Narayan (Vishnu). Of the others, three are dedicated to versions of Shiva (recognisable by the statues of the bull Nandi, Shiva's vehicle, outside them) and two to Vishnu.

Bhuri Singh Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 01899-222590; Museum Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹20/100, camera ₹50/100; 🕒 10am-5pm Tue-Sun)

This well-displayed museum, one of Himachal's best, includes a wonderful collection of Pahari (Hill Country) miniature paintings from the Chamba and other schools. Also here are intriguing copper-plate inscriptions (formerly a way of preserving important documents) and ornately carved, centuries-old fountain slabs – a unique Chamba Valley tradition.

Other Temples

A steep 378 steps up from near the bus stand (or take a taxi), the Chamunda Devi Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), dating from 1762, affords wonderful views over the town and valley. It's dedicated to a wrathful aspect of the mother goddess Devi, and its front mandapa (pavilion) features a forest of bells and rich ceiling carving. Just above the road about 500m north is the small, modern Sui Mata Shrine (MAP GOOGLE MAP), with colourful paintings telling the tale of the Chamba queen Sui who gave her life to appease a water spirit that was causing a terrible drought. The queen-goddess is highly venerated by local women, and the four-day Sui Mata Mela is celebrated on the Chowgan in her honour each March or April.

About 600m further along the same road, a small roadside arch leads to the exquisite 12th-century sikhara-style Bajreshwari Devi Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), dedicated to an incarnation of Durga. The very rich carving includes, on the rear wall, an image of Durga slaying the (minuscule-looking) giant Mahisasur and trampling on his buffalo.

By the Chowgan is the 11th-century Harirai Mandir (MAP GOOGLE MAP), sacred to Vishnu. Three further finely carved sikhara temples are dotted around the narrow lanes above the Chowgan. The 10th-century Champavati Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP) was built by Raja Sahil Varman in honour of his daughter Champavati, who is worshipped locally as an incarnation of Durga; the 16th-century Bansi Gopal Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP) is dedicated to Krishna; and the 17th-century Sitaram Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP) is dedicated to Rama.

Activities

Mani Mahesh Travels

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP);  9816620401, 9418020401; www.orchardhuts.com; outside Lakshmi Narayan Temple Complex;  9am-9pm Mon-Sat)

Professional and experienced Mani Mahesh can arrange treks with guides and porters in and across the surrounding Pir Panjal and Dhauladhar ranges, as well as informative tours of Chamba's temples (from ₹550). Treks cost ₹2000 to ₹2800 per person per day within the Chamba Valley, or ₹3500 to ₹4500 across the Pir Panjal or Dhauladhar passes, plus any transport costs.

It's run by the same family who run the excellent Orchard Hut. Ask about stays in their deliciously isolated Ridgemoor Cottage, three or four hours' walk (1000m higher) above Orchard Hut. Mani Mahesh also organises far-ranging jeep safaris and motorbike tours.

Festivals & Events

Minjar Festival

CULTURAL

( last Sun Jul-1st Sun Aug)

Every year since 935, Chamba has celebrated the annual harvest with the Minjar Festival in honour of the deity Raghuvir (an incarnation of Rama) – nowadays a week of processions, sports, folk dance and music and a vast flea market on the Chowgan.

Sleeping & Eating

Chamba House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01899-222564; Gopal Nivas; d ₹880-1210, ste ₹1650; 📶)

This creaky building, with fine views over the Ravi River from its balconies, is Chamba's best budget bolthole. The six rooms are small and hard-bedded but quaint and well kept, with wood floors, giving it a homey cottage feel.

★ Orchard Hut

HOMESTAY $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9816620401; www.orchardhuts.com; Chaminu village; dm ₹400, r ₹560-2590; 📶) 🌿

About 10km northeast of Chamba in the lovely Saal valley, this welcoming country house and organic farm is a wonderfully peaceful place to unwind amid the plum and apricot orchards. There's a range of super-clean, thoughtfully designed rooms for all budgets, the home-cooked meals (₹650 half-board per person) are superb, and staff can lead you on fine walks.

Sister company Mani Mahesh Travels in Chamba will arrange transfers, either by taxi (₹450) or public bus (₹25), to Chaminu village, from where it's a 20-minute uphill walk to the house. You'll thank yourself if you schedule an extra day or two here. Kitchen use is available for ₹100 per day.

Jamwal Villa

HOMESTAY $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8894555246; www.jamwalvilla.com; Kuranh village; r ₹1500-1800; @)

In a beautiful spot beside the Ravi River, 10km southeast of Chamba, this is a charming little hideaway with ducks and rabbits in its pretty garden. The three appealing rooms feature tasteful modern art and individual touches including walls of river stones, and everything is very comfy and spotless. Excellent breakfast and dinner thalis of local dishes cost from ₹150.

Hotel City Heart

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01899-222032; www.hotelcityheartchamba.com; r ₹2600-3430, ste ₹3790-5450; ❄️ 📶)

Rooms here are spacious, clean and well decorated. The suites and some

'super deluxe' rooms have expansive Chowgan views, and the good restaurant does Continental and Chinese as well as Indian fare (mains ₹180 to ₹300).

Cafe Ravi View

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chowgan; mains ₹95-225; 🕒 9am-10pm; ❄️)

This HPTDC-run snack house is worth a visit for its icy-cold beers (₹150) and excellent river views as well as for its Indian and Chinese veg food – including dosas and bargain thalis (₹125 to ₹175).

It has a sunny terrace as well as indoor air-con.

Jagan Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Museum Rd; mains ₹90-200; 🕒 11.30am-10.30pm)

It's nothing flash but the uniformed waiters at this upstairs restaurant serve up the tasty chamba madhra (kidney beans with curd and ghee) for ₹110, plus a good selection of veg curries and chicken dishes.

Getting There & Away

BUS

A mix of government-run HRTC and private buses runs to many destinations from the often crowded and chaotic bus stand (GOOGLE MAP). For the spectacular trip to Bharmour, sit on the left for the best views. For Dharamsala, if there's no direct bus soon, you can get one to Gaggal (₹230, five to seven hours) where buses leave every few minutes to Dharamsala (₹15, 40 minutes); for the best scenery try to get one going via Jot, over the 2772m Chuari Pass. The best Delhi service is the Volvo AC bus at 6pm.

BUSES FROM CHAMBA

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Amritsar	277	7	11.15pm
Bharmour	95	3½	hourly 5am-5pm

Dalhousie via Banikhet	80	2½	4 daily
Dalhousie via Khajjiar	80	2½	4 daily
Delhi	675-1516	15	3 daily
Dharamsala	260-330	6-8	5 daily
Killar	260	12	6am Jul-Sep

TAXI & JEEP

Taxis at the Court Rd stand (GOOGLE MAP ; Court Rd) ask around ₹1500 to Bharmour, ₹1800 to Dalhousie and ₹3500 to Dharamsala.

Most days from July to September there are shared jeeps (₹500) crossing the Sach Pass to Killar in the Pangri Valley – ask at Mani Mahesh Travels.

Bharmour

 01895 / POP 2000 / ELEV 2195M

Hovering on the edge of the seemingly bottomless Budil Valley, Bharmour is reached by a mountain road as scenic as it is perilous, winding 60km east of Chamba (it gets really interesting once you leave the Ravi Valley at Kharamukh). This ancient settlement was the area capital until replaced by Chamba in AD 920, and there are some beautiful old temples, though the main reason to come here is for treks to the surrounding valleys and passes. The villages around Bharmour are home to communities of seminomadic Gaddis, pastoralists who move their flocks to alpine pastures during the summer, and return here (or to the Kullu or Kangra Valleys) in winter.

Sights & Activities

Chaurasi Temples

HINDU TEMPLE

 6am-8.30pm

The Chaurasi temples, 500m up the street from the bus stand, occupy a wide flagstone courtyard that doubles as an outdoor classroom and cricket practice ground. There are three main Shaivite temples, plus a couple of dozen smaller shrines (chaurasi means 84, seemingly an exaggeration). The central Manimahesh Temple is a classic stone sikhara, built in the 7th century AD. The squat Lakshna Devi Temple is of a similar date, with a weathered but wildly carved wooden doorway.

For the best valley views, hike 3km up from the Chaurasi entrance to the Brahmani Mata Temple above town. The route passes through the upper village, still full of traditional slate-roofed, wooden houses.

Trekking

The trekking season lasts from May to late October, though July and August see some monsoon rain. The many treks starting in the district include from Kugti to Jhalma in Lahaul over the 5040m Kugti Pass (five days); from Lamu in the Ravi Valley to McLeod Ganj over the 4420m Indrahara La (five days); and demanding longer treks via the isolated village of Bara Bhangal to Manali or Bir.

A popular shorter trek is to the sacred Manimahesh Lake, a two- or three-day return hike (about 13km each way, with an altitude difference of 2100m) starting at Hadsar, 13km east of Bharmour. It can be done without a tent thanks to the many dhabas en route. In the two weeks following Janmastami (Krishna's birthday; late August or early September), up to 300,000 pilgrims take this route in the Manimahesh Yatra (🕒 late Aug/early Sep) pilgrimage in honour of Lord Shiva, climaxing with a freezing dip in the lake. The whole Chamba Valley throngs with people travelling to or from the lake at this time.

Anna Adventures & Tours (📞 8894687758, 9805659622; www.bharmourtreks.com; Main Bazar) arranges a full range of treks in the Bharmour region and across the surrounding ranges. Ask for Gopal Chauhan.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Mahadev

HOTEL $

(📞 9816544000; Main Bazar; r ₹400-1000; 📶)

Occupying three upstairs floors on the right of the street leading up to the

Chaurasi Temples, Mahadev has rooms ranging from the dingy and windowless to large and bright (front rooms on the top floor).

Chaurasi Hotel

HOTEL $$

(📞 9418025004; <http://hotelchourasi.in>; Main Bazar; r ₹800-2000; 📶)

You can't miss this red multistorey building up the street towards the Chaurasi Temples. Rooms are generous in size and many have soaring views; those in the new block at the side are generally in better condition. The restaurant (mains ₹70 to ₹190) is Bharmour's best, but it doesn't have much competition.

i Getting There & Away

Buses leave about hourly from 5.30am to 5.30pm for the rugged trip to Chamba (₹95, 3½ hours). Taxis charge ₹1500 to ₹2000; some go on a shared basis for ₹200 per person.

A bus to Dharamsala (₹450, 12 hours) departs at 5.30pm. A few daily buses head to Hadsar (₹35, one hour); there are also shared jeep-taxis for ₹30 per person. For buses up the Ravi Valley as far as Holi, take a Chamba-bound bus to Kharamukh and change there.

LAHAUL & SPITI

The desolate northern and eastern tracts of Himachal Pradesh are among the most spectacular and sparsely populated regions on Earth. Crossing the Rohtang La from Manali, you arrive first in Lahaul's relatively green Chandra Valley. Head west down the Chandra then up the Bhaga Valley through Keylong (Lahaul's capital) and you're on the road to Ladakh. If you travel east up the Chandra Valley and over the Kunzum La into Spiti, you pass into the rain shadow of the Great Himalayan Range. Spiti is 7000 sq km of snow-topped mountains and high-altitude desert, punctuated by tiny patches of greenery and villages of whitewashed houses clinging to the sides of rivers and meltwater streams. As in Zaskar and Ladakh, Tibetan Buddhism is the dominant religion in both Spiti and Lahaul, though Hinduism is prominent in lower Lahaul. Some Lahauli temples encompass both religions.

History

Buddhism is believed to have arrived in Spiti and Lahaul during the 8th century AD with the legendary Indian sorcerer-sage-missionary Padmasambhava (Guru Rinpoche in Tibetan) who helped to spread Buddhism in Tibet. In the 10th century, upper Lahaul, Spiti, Zaskar and Ladakh were incorporated into the vast Guge kingdom of western Tibet, with Lahaul and Spiti eventually being ruled from Ladakh. The Great Translator, Ringchen Zangpo, founded a series of centres of Buddhist learning in Spiti in the late 10th and early 11th centuries, including Tabo, one of the most remarkable Buddhist monasteries in the Indian Himalaya.

The Kullu rajas took control of Lahaul in the 16th century and established a loose hold over Spiti in the 17th. The region came under British control following the 1846 Anglo-Sikh War, yet it maintained strong links with Tibet right up until the Chinese invasion there in 1950.

Recent decades have seen a resurgence in the region's cultural and religious life, aided by the work of the Tibetan government-in-exile in Dharamsala. Many gompas in Lahaul and Spiti have been restored, and money from tourism and hydroelectricity is improving living conditions for the farming communities who get snowed in here each winter.

Climate

Rainfall is minimal, especially in Spiti, and the high altitude ensures low temperatures. Winter temperatures can plummet below -30°C , but on the plus side, summer daytime temperatures often rise into the 20s, and when monsoons are soaking the rest of the state (mid-July to mid-September), it's usually dry and sunny here. Whenever you travel, bring some clothing for cold weather.

Getting There & Away

The road north from Manali over the Rohtang La (3978m) is normally open from about mid-May to early November. From the north side of the Rohtang you can head west to Keylong or east to Spiti.

From Keylong, the road to Ladakh continues over the mighty Baralacha La (4950m) and Taglang La (5328m) and is normally open from about early June to some time in October. The road to Spiti over the Kunzum La (4551m) is open from about mid-June to some time in November.

You can cross these passes by minibus, jeep, motorbike or bus, all of which can be arranged in Manali.

When the passes are closed, Lahaul is virtually cut off from the outside world, and Spiti is connected only by the rugged road from the south looping through Kinnaur. Check the status of the passes before visiting late in the season – once the snows arrive, you might be stuck for the winter! The websites www.bcmtouring.com and <http://devilonwheels.com> have updates.

Lahaul (but not Spiti or Ladakh) should be opened to year-round traffic from Manali when the tunnel bypassing the Rohtang La opens (possibly in 2018). The tunnel will run for 8.85km underneath the mountains from the Solang Valley, north of Manali, to Lahaul's Chandra Valley.

ROHTANG RULES

Anyone planning to drive or ride a motorcycle north over the Rohtang La from Manali must obtain a permit beforehand from the town's Sub-Divisional Magistrate's Office (SDM Office; GOOGLE MAP; ☎01902-254100; behind HPTDC, The Mall; 🕒10am-4.30pm Mon-Sat, 10am-1pm Sun & 2nd Sat). The process normally takes about one hour and the permit is free (though some applicants have been asked for donations). Take your passport and driving licence and the vehicle's registration and pollution-under-check documents, and complete a form. You have to show your permit at a checkpoint at Gulaba on the way up to the pass.

The pass is closed on Tuesdays from 6am to all private northbound traffic, including taxis, to facilitate maintenance work. If you're through Gulaba before 6am, you can continue.

Southbound vehicles need no permit and can cross the pass any day of the week.

A different permit (₹550), issued online (www.hpkuillu.nic.in), is required for vehicles just making a day trip from Manali to the pass and back. In practice it's usually very difficult for individual tourists to obtain these, and almost everyone making a Rohtang day trip does so by taxi.

Details of the Rohtang regulations change frequently. With any luck the opening of the Rohtang tunnel, possibly in 2018, will eliminate the permit requirement for those travelling to Lahaul or beyond.

Lahaul

Manali to Keylong

From Manali, Hwy 3 strikes north along the Beas River and climbs slowly through pine forests and endless switchbacks to the bare rocky slopes below the Rohtang La. The pass's name literally translates as 'pile of dead bodies' – hundreds of travellers have frozen to death here over the centuries. In the domestic tourist season, it's busy with day trippers from Manali enjoying the novelty of a snowball fight. Near the top, look out for the small, dome-shaped temple that marks the source of the Beas River.

Once over the pass, the road soon deteriorates as it makes the steep descent into the Chandra Valley, where the Chandra River rages along between towering rocky peaks ribboned with waterfalls plunging from high-level glaciers. After a zig-zagging 14km, Gramphu (four stone buildings) marks the turn-off to Spiti. Khoksar, in the valley bottom, has several dhabas and a checkpoint where police note down foreigners' passport details. The new tunnel bypassing the Rohtang La will join this road 7km west of Khoksar.

Tandi, 8km before Keylong, marks the confluence of the Chandra River with the Bhaga (together they become the Chandra-Bhaga). From the south end of the Bhaga bridge here you can walk 100m up to Tupchiling Gompa and ask there for the keys to Guru Ghantal Gompa, a further hour's walk uphill, which is the oldest monastery in Lahaul, allegedly founded by Padmasambhava. Although crumbling, the gompa contains ancient thangkas, a painted ceiling mandala, unusual wooden statues of Padmasambhava, other bodhisattvas and the Hindu deity Brajeshwari, and a black stone image of Kali.

Keylong

📍01900 / POP 1150 / ELEV 3100M

Keylong stretches along the north side of the green Bhaga Valley just below the Manali–Leh road, and it's an overnight stop for many travellers on that route. Many people only see Keylong briefly and in the dark, but a longer stay reveals grand mountain views, a laid-back, small-town lifestyle, some scenic walks and historic Buddhist monasteries.

The main street, optimistically named the Mall, winds for 1km below and roughly parallel to the highway, with the bus station (New Bus Stand) just above its east end.

Sights & Activities

Lahaul-Spiti Tribal Museum

MUSEUM

(The Mall; 🕒 10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Tue-Sun) FREE

At the west end of town, this semi-interesting museum displays traditional artefacts including chaam dance masks and a thod-pa (part of a skull formerly used by amchis or lamas to store healing or sacred liquids), plus historical photos and prints, and contemporary photos of local monasteries and villages.

Kardang Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

On concrete stilts facing Keylong across the valley, Kardang Gompa has existed for 900 years, but the current building dates from 1912. Maintained by an order of Drukpa Kagyu (Red Hat) monks and nuns, the monastery enshrines a mighty prayer wheel said to contain a million paper strips bearing the mantra Om mani padme hum ('Hail to the jewel in the lotus'). There are excellent frescos, but you may have to find a monk or nun to open the doors.

The monastery also has a large library of sacred texts and collections of thangkas, old weapons and musical instruments. To get here, head for the hospital at the bottom of the west end of Keylong and take a path down to the left 30m before the hospital. This crosses the River Bhaga on a footbridge, then climbs 1km to a road. Turn right into Kardang village and ask directions to the gompa, 800m further uphill. For a different route back, return to Kardang village then head to the right along the road for 3km to Lapchang village, where a path descends 1km to another footbridge, then climbs 1.25km to the main road. Keylong is 1.5km to the left.

Shashur Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

About 2km of uphill walking (or a 7km drive) above Keylong, Shashur Gompa was founded in the 17th century by the Zanskari lama Deva Gyatsho. The original gompa, featuring 5m-high thangkas, is now enshrined inside a modern concrete one, with fine views over the valley.

Brokpa Adventure Tours

TREKKING

(📞 9418165176; brokpatrek@yahoo.com; Hotel Dupchen, The Mall; internet & wi-fi per hr ₹60; 🕒 9am-8pm May, Jun & Sep, 7am-10pm Jul & Aug)

For tips on day hikes or to arrange longer treks in the local area or over to Zanskar, talk to Amar here. The office also has public internet service.

Sleeping & Eating

Most guesthouses and hotels are open only from about May to October. A couple of places up the street from the bus station have basic dorms for minimum-cost sleeping before early-morning bus departures.

Nordaling Guest House

HOTEL $

(📞 01900-222294; www.nordalingkeylong.in; r ₹800-1500; 🕒 May-Oct; 📶)

Just 100m above the bus station is this pleasant place with large, spotless rooms, and a relaxing restaurant (mains ₹80 to ₹180) in the apple orchard outside. It's an excellent choice and rates can drop steeply when things are quiet.

Hotel Tashi Deleg

HOTEL $$

(☎01900-222450; hotel_tashideleg@yahoo.in; The Mall; r ₹1250-3050; 🕒May-Oct; 📶)

This big white hotel, towards the western end of the Mall, is Keylong's nicest. Rooms in the new wing are large, with soft chairs, good showers and (mostly) balconies. The old wing is also fine, and cheaper (rates rise as you climb the floors).

The wi-fi is in the restaurant, which is Keylong's best, serving Indian, Chinese and Continental food (mains ₹100 to ₹220), plus cold beers.

Hotel New Gyespa

HOTEL $$

(☎9418136055; r ₹1200-1800; 🕒May-Oct)

Only 20m up from the bus station, most of the clean, carpeted rooms here have views across the valley. Best are the spacious top-floor rooms, new in 2016. The hotel also possesses an attractive pine-panelled restaurant (mains ₹100 to ₹300). The affiliated, cheaper Hotel Gyespa (☎9418133522; The Mall; r ₹800-1200; 🕒approx May-Oct) is another worthy option and also has a restaurant. Both places offer discounts early and late in the season.

i Information

The State Bank of Patiala ATM (The Mall), opposite Hotel Dupchen, accepts international cards.

i Getting There & Away

From mid-June to mid-September, an HRTC bus departs for Leh (₹540, about 14 hours) at 5am – get tickets at the bus station between 4am and 4.30am. Privately operated minibuses and shared jeeps run until October, depending on snow conditions: one place you can book seats is Brokpa Adventure Tours. Seats cost between ₹1500 and ₹3000 (most expensive from June to August).

The HRTC also runs six or seven daily buses to Manali (₹173, seven hours, 4.30am to 1.30pm), one to Shimla (₹565, 16 hours, 1.30pm) and two to Delhi (₹850, 23 hours) from about mid-May to early November.

To Udaipur (₹85, three hours) in the Pattan Valley there are seven daily buses year-round. The 6.30am and 11am departures continue to Killar (₹210, 10 hours) from about mid-April to mid-November.

From about May to mid-November there are buses at 6.30am and 1pm to Chika (₹60, two hours) in the Darcha Valley, on the way up to the Shingo La pass into Zaskar. Services depend on road conditions in all cases.

For Kaza, take the 4.30am or 6.30am Manali-bound bus and change at Gramphu (₹75, 2½ hours), where the Manali–Kaza pulls in around 9am.

Pattan & Pangi Valleys

At Tandi, 8km southwest of Keylong, a road branches northwest along the beautiful, fertile, little-visited Pattan Valley, carved by the Chandra-Bhaga (Chenab) River. The river and road then curve northward into the Pangi Valley, even more beautiful and more remote (and often completely cut off from December to March). Snowy peaks rise above the many beautiful, steep-sided side valleys, climbing into the Pir Panjal range on the west and the Great Himalayan Range on the east, with demanding trekking routes crossing to the Chamba Valley and Zaskar respectively.

Probably the scariest of all Himachal's mountain roads continues along the Chenab valley from Pangi's only town, Killar, enabling intrepid travellers to make an epic 'K3' journey from Keylong to Killar to Kishtwar in Jammu & Kashmir.

Sights & Activities

If you have time, explore some of the scenic side valleys, especially on the east side of the river – such as the Miyar Valley running up from Udaipur in the Pattan Valley, or the Saichu, Parmar, Hudan and Sural Valleys heading up from Pangi. The Hindu population lower down gives way higher up to Tibetan Buddhists known as Bots. There is daily bus service up most of these valleys from Udaipur or Killar.

Triloknath Temple

TEMPLE

Some 36km down the Pattan Valley from Tandi, a side road leads 5km to the hilltop village of Triloknath, whose squat stone temple is a remarkable example of Hindu-Buddhist syncretism. The white-marble main idol is revered by Buddhists as Avalokitesvara, the bodhisattva of compassion, while Hindus worship it as Shiva. It's a pilgrimage site for both religions, especially during the three-day Pauri Festival (🕒 3rd week of Aug) honouring the temple deity.

Markula Devi Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Udaipur)

In Udaipur, the Pattan Valley's largest village, the Markula Devi Temple looks plain on the outside but the inside is covered with fabulous, detailed wood carvings from the 11th to 16th centuries, including scenes from the Mahabharata and Ramayana around the top of the walls.

Sleeping

Udaipur and Killar have a few small hotels, guesthouses and government rest houses that take tourists when space is available. Killar's Raj Hotel (📞 9418890045; Killar; r ₹1000-1500, ste ₹4500; 🕒 Apr-Nov), two minutes' walk from the bus stand, is an unexpectedly clean and comfortable option with good views, and its restaurant (mains ₹70 to ₹200) is the only one in town with much choice. Two hairpins up from the bus stand (past the Raj Hotel), Killar Rest House (Killar; r from ₹500) has six well-kept rooms. It's unsigned but directly after the well-marked Senior Secondary School.

i Information

Udaipur and Killar have ATMs on their main streets.

i Getting There & Away

Udaipur has year-round bus connections with Keylong (₹85, three hours, seven buses daily). From about mid-April to mid-November two buses daily from Keylong continue to Killar (₹210 from Keylong, taking about 10 hours to cover the 125km). These stop at Udaipur at about 9.15am and 1.45pm. The route is dusty, bumpy and often as narrow as a ribbon but stunningly beautiful, with the road teetering along a series of precarious ledges high above the fast-flowing river for much of the last 50km into Killar. Buses back to Keylong leave Killar at 5am and 10am.

From Killar there's a road to Chamba over the Sach Pass (4390m), open from about late June to early October. In season a bus (₹260, about 12 hours) leaves Killar at 6.30am daily, and there are shared jeeps (₹500) between 7am and 9am.

For Kishtwar in Jammu & Kashmir, you'll usually need to head first from Killar to Gulabgarh (53km) along one of India's most perilous but scenic roads. For the intrepid only! The Luj–Tayari section bumps over bare rocks then along terrifyingly narrow ledges after Ishtiyari, sometimes overhung by daggers of unstable rock. Most days there's likely to be a J&K jeep leaving Killar around mid-morning for Gulabgarh (₹300, four hours). Look around for vehicles with JK number plates. Chartering a jeep should cost ₹3000.

Spiti

Separated from fertile Lahaul by the soaring 4551m Kunzum La, the trans-Himalayan region of Spiti is another chunk of Tibet marooned in India. The scattered villages in this serrated moonscape arrive like mirages, clusters of whitewashed mud-brick homes huddled amid green barley fields below monasteries perched on crags a thousand feet above. The turquoise-grey ribbon of the Spiti River is your near-constant companion, running along a fairly broad valley before turning south at Sumdo into the precipitous gorges of the Hangrang Valley.

Spiti attracts many travellers, including streams of Indian motorcyclists, as a kind of 'mini-Ladakh without tourist crowds', which is fair enough, since its pristine nature (high-altitude desert) and culture (Tibetan Buddhist) are still intact. The approaches to Spiti remain among the most rugged and scenically spectacular roads in India, and the Spiti–Kinnaur loop is one of Asia's great road trips.

Gramphu to Kaza

From Gramphu, on the northern side of the Rohtang La, the road to Spiti runs up the awe-inspiring, glacier-carved Chandra Valley. One kilometre past tiny Batal, a rough but driveable track runs north up towards Chandratal (Moon Lake), a 2km-long glacial lake among snow peaks at 4270m, whose blue hue changes constantly following the moods of the sky. The track ends after 12km; a footpath runs the final 1km to the lake. You can break the journey in this inspiringly beautiful area at nearby tent camps. From Chandratal, trekkers can reach the Baralacha La on the Manali–Leh road in three strenuous but heavenly days.

The main road switchbacks precipitously up to the Kunzum La, where vehicles perform a respectful circuit of prayer-flag-strewn stupas before continuing down into Spiti. There's also a 10.5km walking trail down to Chandratal starting from the stupas.

The first Spitian village of any size is Losar, where there's a passport check. From here the road follows the Spiti River downstream along its spectacular valley to Kaza.

Sleeping

Tashi Gatsel Hotel

HOTEL $

(☎ 9418931909; Losar; r ₹800-1000; 🕒 late May-late Oct)

Tashi Gatsel, almost beside the Losar checkpoint, offers good clean rooms with big comfy beds and hot-water bathrooms, expansive views from its terrace, and Indian/Continental/Chinese food (mains ₹100 to ₹200).

Nomad's Cottage

GUESTHOUSE $$

(☎ 9650824268; www.nomadscottage.in; Losar; s/d ₹1300/1900, without bathroom ₹1300/1500; 🕒 May-Oct)

Has excellent rooms with wood-beam ceilings and big comfy beds, plus a cosy sitting area with a wood-burning stove and low tables where good breakfasts and Indian or Tibetan-Spitian dinners (₹300 to ₹400) are served.

Parasol Camps

TENTED CAMP $$

(☎ 9418845817; parasolcamps@gmail.com; Chandratal Camps; d tent with beds & full board ₹3000, with mattress & half-board ₹1600; 🕒 mid-Jun-mid-Oct)

One of the best Chandratal camps, Parasol provides cosy tents, good Indian meals (including garlic soup, good for altitude), sit-down toilets and buckets of hot water for washing.

Kaza

☎ 01906 / POP 1700 / ELEV 3640M

The capital of Spiti, Kaza sits on the eroded flood plain of the Spiti River, with jagged mountains rising on either side, and is the biggest settlement you'll encounter in this empty corner of the planet. It feels a bit like a small frontier town with an easygoing pace. The often-dry Kaza Nullah stream divides New Kaza (west of the nullah) from the bazaar area, Old Kaza, to the east. The bus and taxi stands are at the bottom of the bazaar.

Most people stay at least one night to arrange an inner line permit for travel beyond Tabo. Kaza is also the starting point for trips to Ki Gompa and the villages of Kibber, Langza, Hikkim, Komic and Demul, high on the east side of the valley, and a good place to organise treks and tours in or beyond

Spiti.

Activities

A few agencies run by highly experienced locals can set you up with treks, jeep safaris, day tours and other travel arrangements.

Incredible Spiti

ADVENTURE SPORTS

(www.incrediblespiti.com)

Incredible Spiti specialises in treks and motorbike and jeep tours. It's closely associated with Sakya Abode hotel, which also has wide-ranging travel and activities services, so can assist in organising almost anything you fancy.

Spiti Holiday Adventure

TREKKING

( 9418638071; www.spitiholidayadventure.com; Main Bazar;  office 8.30am-9.30pm Mar-Nov)

Organises all-inclusive treks from two days upwards, as well as jeep tours and mountain-bike and motorbike rentals. It runs a number of fixed-departure trips, which individuals can join. It's a good place for travel information generally.

Spiti Valley Tours

TREKKING

( 9418537689; www.spitivalleytours.com; Main Bazar;  office 8am-7pm Jun-Oct)

Treks, jeep tours, wildlife trips, mountaineering and more, with an emphasis on local homestay accommodation.

Sleeping

Kunzaum Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9418521541; New Kaza; r ₹500, without bathroom ₹250;  Apr-Oct)

A clean, friendly, family-run guesthouse whose best rooms are the three upstairs facing Kaza Nullah. It's just above the footbridge.

Butith Gangri Home Stay

HOMESTAY $

(📞 9459228510; tnguisem@gmail.com; New Kaza; r without bathroom ₹400; 🕒 May-Oct)

The three rooms at this friendly family home are neat and spotless though beds are hard. The kitchen and dining room, shared bathrooms (hot water by bucket) and the courtyard, with pretty flowers, are equally pristine. It's close to Kaza Nullah, 90m down from the footbridge.

Ösel Rooms

GUESTHOUSE $

(off Main Bazar, Old Kaza; s ₹800, d & tr ₹1000-1200; 🕒 Apr-Nov)

Seven large, clean rooms with solar hot water above Taste of Spiti restaurant. It's run by Ecosphere: contact them for bookings.

★ Hotel Deyzor

HOTEL $$

(📞 9418402660; www.hoteldeyzor.com; behind BSNL office, New Kaza; r ₹900-1750; 🕒 mid-Apr-mid-Nov; 📶) 🌿

The bright, well-kept rooms have comfy beds and a cosy charm with ethnic fabrics and Spiti-theme photos. The owners are real Spiti enthusiasts, full of info, and can help arrange hikes, wildlife-spotting or fossil-hunting trips and more. And the restaurant is our favourite in Kaza. Not surprisingly the dozen rooms can fill up so it's advisable to book.

Sakya Abode

HOTEL $$

(📞 9418208987; www.sakyaabode.com; New Kaza; s ₹900-1300, d ₹1100-1500; 🕒 late Apr-Nov; 📶 @ 📶)

On the main road near the Sakya Gompa, this is Kaza's longest-running (since 1992) and one of its best-value hotels. Comfy rooms line shared terraces overlooking a grassy courtyard, and the Indian-Tibetan-Chinese restaurant (mains ₹100 to ₹250) is good – try the addictive 'copper Eliza' dessert! The hotel also offers full travel and activities services.

Sol Cafe

CAFE $

(Main Bazar; hot drinks & snacks ₹50-110; 🕒 9am-8pm Mon-Sat May-Nov) 🌿

This cool little cafe, operated by Ecosphere, offers super-strong coffee, herbal and other teas, and light dishes such as French toast, pancakes and wholewheat baked goods, as well as items showcasing sea-buckthorn, a berry with an amazing list of health-giving properties.

★ Hotel Deyzor Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(New Kaza; mains ₹100-350; 🕒 8am-10pm mid-Apr-mid-Nov)

The Deyzor restaurant does a great job on an eclectic range of dishes, doubtless partly inspired by the owner's own world travels. The menu ranges over Indian, Spitian (similar to Tibetan), Continental and beyond, with good, freshly prepared daily specials and an emphasis on seasonal local produce.

Himalayan Café

MULTICUISINE $$

(www.facebook.com/thehimalayancafe; off Main Bazar, Old Kaza; mains ₹100-350; 🕒 8am-10.30pm May-Oct; 📶)

The Himalayan, run by an escaped lawyer from Mumbai, takes the concept of bright, clean and cheerful to new levels for these parts and it's a big hit. The satisfying food runs from muesli with fresh fruit to momos, salads, pancakes and a full Indian range from aloo gobi to mutton rogan josh.

i Information

There's an internet cafe (per hr ₹80; 🕒 9am-7pm) opposite Shambhala Homestay in the bazaar, and an SBI ATM nearby.

i Getting There & Away

The bus to Manali (₹350, 11 hours) leaves at 6.30am, mid-June to mid-October; be there 30 to 60 minutes before to buy tickets. For Keylong, change at Gramphu (₹230, nine hours). A bus leaves for Rekong Peo (₹357, 11 hours) at 7.30am, going via Tabo (₹73, 2½ hours) and Nako (₹177, 5½ hours). There's a second Tabo bus at 3pm.

Lhungta Traveller Union (☎9418190083; opposite bus stand, Old Kaza) has fixed-rate taxis everywhere including to Dhankar (₹1550, 1½ hours), Tabo (₹2000, 1½ hours), Ki (₹700, 45 minutes), Keylong (₹10,000, eight hours) and Manali (₹10,000, eight hours). Most vehicles can take 10 or 11 passengers. For return trips with a one-hour wait, add 20%; for each extra hour, add ₹100 more. It also runs a shared jeep to Manali (₹1000) at 6am, approximately mid-June to October (when the passes are passable).

INNER LINE PERMITS IN KAZA

To travel between Sumdo in eastern Spiti and Rekonng Peo (Kinnaur), foreign travellers need an inner line permit. These are issued free in around 20 minutes at the Assistant Deputy Commissioner's Office (☎8988384472; New Kaza; 🕒10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat) in New Kaza – a large white building diagonally opposite the Community Health Centre (hospital). Bring two passport photos and photocopies of your passport's identity and visa pages, plus application and permit forms (sold for ₹20 from the government canteen outside). Solo travellers have no problems getting permits here.

Around Kaza

The small, high-altitude villages on the east side of the Spiti valley (all well above 4000m) have a pristine, desolate beauty all their own – clusters of whitewashed, flat-roofed houses against a stark mountain backdrop with minimal vegetation except their carefully tended fields of barley and other crops. Several villages have seasonal guesthouses or homestays and interesting old temples or monasteries. You can visit them in day trips from Kaza but you can also stay over and take local walks – or trek between several of the villages along the homestay trek route, which links Langza, Komic and Demul with Lhalung and Dhankar – a great way to get a sense of the lifestyle of Spiti's amazingly resilient people.

A daily bus leaves Kaza for Ki (₹25, 30 minutes) and Kibber (₹34, 50 minutes), starting back from Kibber at 8.30am. But for the villages on the homestay trek route it's foot or taxi (unless you have your own wheels). The circuit from Kaza to Langza, Hikkim, Komic, Demul and back to Kaza is 70km and can be done in a one-day trip drive.

Ki

POP 370 / ELEV 3800M

About 12km northwest of Kaza, on the road to Kibber, tiny Ki is dominated by the whitewashed buildings of the photogenic Ki Gompa (🕒 6am-7pm). Set atop a conical hillock, this is the largest gompa in Spiti, with around 350 senior and student monks. An atmospheric puja is held in the new prayer hall every morning around 8am. On request, the monks will open up the medieval prayer rooms, including the Zimshung Lhakhang, which houses a bed slept in by the Dalai Lama in 1960 and 2000. Dance masks and highly colourful costumes are brought out for Losar and the Ki Chaam Festival (Guitar Festival; 🕒 Jul/Aug), a week long series of rituals seeking good fortune for the coming year, which culminates in a day of lively dancing by lamas to the sound of horns, percussion and deep-throated chanting – and free lunch for all present.

Kibber

📍 01906 / POP 370 / ELEV 4200M

Eight kilometres beyond Ki, this relatively large but still traditional village is the trailhead for the demanding eight- to 10-day trek over the 5578m Parang La to Tso Moriri lake in Ladakh (mid-July to mid-September), and also a good base to just stay in guesthouses and do local hikes.

The Kibber area is a good one for sighting Spiti wildlife including blue sheep, ibex, red fox and Himalayan griffon vulture. In winter it offers better-than-average prospects of sighting the ever-elusive snow leopard (best in March).

You can walk to the higher hamlets of Gete (about two hours, with small lakes nearby) or Tashigang (about three hours), where you can ask about the meditation cave with rock-carved Buddhist deities about 45 minutes further on. The peak Khanamo (5964m) is a fine two- or three-day round-trip trek (non-technical), best in August or the first half of September.

Several guesthouses and homestays offer rooms and meals. Most close from some time in October to March or April. Solar-powered Norling Home Stay (📞9418556107; r ₹500-700, mains ₹90-140), overlooking most of the village, has some of the best rooms, dishes up excellent organic food and stays open all year. Norling Guest House (📞9459662148; r ₹600-700, without bathroom ₹300; 🕒approx Apr–mid-Sep) at the village entrance provides decent clean rooms and has a public restaurant with open terrace serving good Israeli, Continental and Indian food (mains ₹100 to ₹200).

THE HOMESTAY TRAIL

In one of India's most successful ecotourism programs, five mostly remote, high-altitude villages on the east side of the Spiti Valley (Langza, Komic, Demul, Lhalung and Dhankar) offer homestays in real village homes, giving a taste of authentic Spitian life. For ₹500 to ₹600 per night per person (including meals), visitors sleep in simple but clean traditional houses, eat home-cooked food and get the chance to experience village life. Hot water is normally by bucket and squat toilets are prevalent.

The villages are accessible by road but are also linked in a popular 'Homestay Trail' trekking route. Trained guides (per day ₹1000 to ₹2000) – not required but recommended – can accompany you between villages or on day hikes and explain about the culture and the unique natural environment. Wildlife-watching hikes offer the chance of spotting ibex, blue sheep (bharal) and possibly the Himalayan wolf (shanku), the world's oldest wolf species.

It's a good example of how an area's tourism potential can be harnessed for the benefit of the local community. Some of the villages (at research time, Demul and Komic) operate a cooperative system with the families taking turns to host tourists; in the others the homestays operate individually. Either way, the program brings invaluable extra income into communities subsisting in extremely harsh natural conditions.

It's possible just to roll up in a village and ask for a homestay, or you can organise visits or treks through agencies including the Spiti conservation and development NGO Ecosphere (📞9418860099; www.spitiecosphere.com; Main Bazar, Kaza; 🕒office & shop 10am-7pm Mon-Sat Apr–mid-Dec), which was closely involved in setting up the homestay program. If you want a guide, it's definitely best to arrange this in advance.

Ecosphere also offers travellers numerous other activities including mountain-bike, culture or wildlife tours, yak safaris, cooking/pottery/yak-rope-twining classes, other multiday treks, and 'nun for a day' in Spiti's Buddhist convents. If you can get here in deep winter (February is best) and stay in high-altitude villages for seven to 10 days, Ecosphere offers a 90% chance of seeing snow leopards (₹2500 to ₹4000 per person per day).

Langza

Tiny Langza, a switchback 14km drive north of Kaza, sits at 4325m below the pointed 6300m peak of Chau Chau. A large modern medicine-Buddha statue stares across the valley from the top of the village; the temple behind it is around 500 years old. About a 2km walk away is an area rich in ammonite fossils around 100 million years old. Village men participate in a drunken horse race to Komic and back (or Komic to Langza and back, depending on the year) on a variable date in the first half of August, imbibing large amounts of local homebrews before, during and after the race.

Several of the village's 20 or so houses are homestays, typically charging ₹500 per person including three meals. Most have squat toilets (flushing or dry) and some have floor mattresses rather than beds. Have a look around to see which ones appeal.

There's no bus service. Taxis from Kaza cost ₹950/1140 one way/return.

Hikkim

Six kilometres south of Langza, a slight detour down from the road to Komic, little Hikkim is home to what's claimed to be the world's highest post office (🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat), 4440m above sea level. Some spoilsports say the post office at Everest Base Camp in Tibet is higher (5200m) but this is almost certainly the highest in India! It's also a house, and customers are often offered a cup of tea. They may have postcards to sell, but it's an idea to bring some anyway.

It's possible to hike direct from Kaza to Hikkim up the Kaza Nullah in two or three hours – steeper and harder, but shorter, than the 15km road route.

Komic

A sign outside the monastery here proclaims Komic to be the highest motorable village in the world at 4587m. Santa Bárbara in Bolivia (4754m) would disagree, but Komic may well claim the Asian crown! The village comprises about 10 houses and, above them, the Tangyud Gompa, with about 50 lamas. The monastery's history goes back many centuries, but its fort-like main building was seemingly constructed after it relocated from near Hikkim following a 1975 earthquake. Pujas are offered at 8am to Mahakala, a wrathful emanation of Avalokitesvara. A smaller, older building nearby has a stuffed leopard (believed to impart strength to those who touch it) hanging inside the entrance: women are not permitted in its inner prayer room.

At research time most families in Komic were participating in a community homestay scheme, taking turns to host tourists for ₹600 per person including three meals, though one or two families were going it alone and asking ₹500. Ask for the homestay coordinator or find the Kunga Homestay (on the left as you go down), where he lives. Most houses have ecological dry pit toilets and hot water by bucket. Homestays operate from May to October.

Taxis from Kaza cost ₹1500/1800 one way/return. From Komic it's about a 16km walk south to Demul, the next village on the 'Homestay Trail', or 26km by road. Whether you walk or drive, you'll reach an altitude of nearly 4700m a couple of kilometres south of Komic; this is the best leg of the homestay trek for long-distance panoramas. It's also good for sightings of blue sheep.

Demul

One of the larger villages on the homestay route, with 280 inhabitants, Demul sits in a high valley surrounded by its vegetable fields and awesome mountain vistas. Its weavers make many of the colourful, patterned shawls worn by women throughout Spiti. Villagers lead a semi-nomadic existence, taking their cows and yaks off to summer pastures for four or five months each year.

Demul operates a fully cooperative homestay scheme, with families taking turns to host tourists for ₹600 per person including meals. Ask for the coordinator who will organise you a house to stay in.

The next leg of the homestay trek is a sharp descent to Lhalung, 600m lower to the east (trail only; not possible for vehicles). To the west, a dramatic road zig-zags down to the main Spiti Valley road at Lidang, 800m lower than Demul. Taxis from Kaza cost around ₹2000.

Pin Valley

Southeast of Kaza, the Spiti River is joined by the Pin River, flowing out of a wind-scoured but beautiful valley from the heights of the Great Himalayan Range. Geological strata tilted at all conceivable angles, including vertical, bear witness to the immense tectonic forces that created the world's mightiest mountains.

Mudh (3770m), 33km up the valley road from the highway, is the trailhead for the spectacular and demanding Pin-Parvati trek, and also for the easier but beautiful four-day trek over the 4850m Bhaba (Bawa) Pass to Kaphnu in Kinnaur, normally passable June to September. Mudh is a fine spot to ramble around for a couple of days, even if you're not trekking.

A short distance into either trek, you enter the 675-sq-km Pin Valley National Park, reputed as the 'land of ibex and snow leopards'. You may well see ibex (and blue sheep).

Ugyen Sangnak Choling Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

At Kungri, 3km above Gulling, which is 16km up the valley, this 680-year-old monastery has a huge new building and three much more interesting medieval shrines, featuring blackened murals, festival masks and carved wooden snow lions. Women are not allowed past the threshold of two of them.

★ Tara Homestay

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 8988062293; www.facebook.com/taraguesthousespiti; Mudh; r ₹800, without bathroom ₹300-600, mains ₹60-110; 🕒 May-Oct)

The excellent Tara Homestay is the pick of several guesthouses in Mudh, and its little restaurant serves up thalis, momos, omelettes and fried rice to all comers. Owner Sonam Gialson can arrange full treks with porters, and other tours including jeep safaris.

Getting There & Away

The road into the Pin Valley branches off the Tabo road 15km southeast of Kaza. Mudslides at Kirgarang Nullah, 8km along, can block the road, sometimes for weeks, from some time in June, so take soundings before heading into the valley.

Buses to Mudh (₹82, two hours) leave Kaza daily at 4pm, starting back at 6am. Some days there's a shared jeep (₹100 per person) from Mudh to Kaza at about 6am, returning around 3pm. Kaza taxis charge ₹2100 to Mudh.

Dhankar

POP 300 / ELEV 3880M

High above the confluence of the Spiti and Pin Rivers, an 8km walk or drive up from Sichling on the Kaza–Tabo road, Dhankar village is the former capital of the Nono kings who ruled Spiti. Its old gompa is one of the most spectacular sights in Spiti.

Sights

The spectacular 1200-year-old Dhankar Gompa (₹25; 🕒 usually 7am-6pm) perches precariously between eroded pinnacles on the edge of a cliff. Its top-floor courtyard has a stuffed goat hanging above the stairwell, a room where the Dalai Lama slept, a meditation cave, and a shrine containing ceremonial masks. Another prayer hall, with murals of the Buddha of healing, stands on top of the rock above, accessed by separate concrete steps. The views from these buildings are phenomenal. Dhankar's lamas no longer inhabit the old gompa, having moved to the large, gleaming New Monastery, 800m away, in 2009.

On the hilltop above the gompa are the ruins of the abandoned mud-brick fort-palace that sheltered the valley's population during times of war and gave the village its name (khar means 'citadel' and dhak means 'cliff'). An hour's steep walk up from the village, the small lake Dhankar Tso offers views over the valley and southeast to the twin peaks of Manirang (6593m).

Sleeping & Eating

Dhankar Monastery Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(📞 9418646578; dm ₹200, r ₹500-1200; 🕒 Apr–mid-Oct, restaurant 7am-9.30pm)

Beside the New Monastery, this place belongs to the monastery but is geared to tourists. The rooms and terrace have picture-postcard views, and the restaurant prepares a wide choice of good food (mains ₹120 to ₹280).

Manirang Home Stay & Cafe

HOMESTAY $

(📞 8988053409; dm ₹150-200, r without bathroom per person incl half-board ₹500, incl full board ₹600; 🕒 cafe 7am-8pm)

Below the road between the old and new monasteries, Manirang has five pleasant, clean rooms and a dorm with floor mattresses, plus a cafe with an international menu (mains ₹60 to ₹120). Owner Anil Kumar is a trekking guide and has a jeep for transport.

Getting There & Away

Buses between Kaza and Tabo pass through Sichling (₹40, one hour from Kaza); you might find a ride from Sichling. A taxi from Kaza to Dhankar is ₹1550/1860 one way/return.

Lhalung

Hidden up the Lingti Valley, 12km northeast of Dhankar along a fairly level dirt road, the charming traditional village of Lhalung is worth a detour for its fantastic medieval monastery (₹25). The atmospheric main chapel contains superb old murals and an incredibly ornate, carved, wooden back frieze. The separate Langkharpo chapel holds a unique four-sided statue of the white deity atop a plinth of snow lions. Don't miss the skin prayer wheel in a side chapel.

The village has several homestays charging around ₹600 per person including meals, which you can arrange on the spot or through agencies including Ecosphere.

A bus to Lhalung (₹43, two hours; not via Dhankar) leaves Kaza at 5.30pm, coming back at 8am the next day.

Tabo

📍01906 / POP 600 / ELEV 3280M

Little Tabo, in a dramatic valley setting hemmed in by scree slopes, 48km southeast of Kaza, is the only other town in Spiti. The mud-brick walls of Tabo Gompa enclose some of the finest of all Indo-Tibetan art, and Tabo makes a fine place to kick back for a couple of days.

Sights

★ Tabo Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(www.tabomonastery.com; donations accepted; 🕒 shrines 9am-1pm & 2-5pm)

The gompa was founded in AD 996, possibly by Ringchen Zangpo, the Great Translator, as Tibet's Guge kingdom expanded into these outlying territories, and is reckoned to be the oldest continuously functioning Buddhist monastery in India. Five of the nine shrines inside its mud-walled buildings date from the 10th and 11th centuries, when they were painted by some of the best Buddhist muralists of their era, blending Tibetan, Indian and Kashmiri styles. Bring a torch as lighting is dim.

The other shrines mostly date from the 15th to 17th centuries. While the old gompa is still used for some monastic activities, most of the monastery's life today goes on in the modern gompa beside the ancient compound.

The old gompa's spectacular main assembly hall, the Tsuglkang, is entered through the Zal-ma antechamber. Large sculptures of four blue protector deities (one for each compass point) flank the Tsuglkang's doorway (two inside, two outside), and its walls are lined with stunning, near life-size clay sculptures of 28 bodhisattvas. The hall's focus is a statue of a four-bodied Vairochana Buddha turning the wheel of law – the whole room being a 3D representation of the Vajradhatu mandala, which has the Vairochana at its centre. Murals below the bodhisattvas depict 10th-century life. Behind the Vairochana, the inner sanctuary holds a stucco Amitabha Buddha and two smaller bodhisattvas. The ambulatory behind that is adorned with hundreds of small and large lotus-position figures.

You may have to ask a lama to open up other temples in the compound. The other worthwhile early temples are the Ser-Khang (Golden Temple), second to the left from the Tsuglkang, with outstanding murals on its north wall of the green Tara and the goddess Usnishavijaya; the Kyil-Khang (Mystic Mandala Temple) behind the Ser-Khang, with a Vairochana mural facing the entrance and mandalas depicting deities surrounded by eight other deities on the north and south walls; and the Byams-Pa Chen-po Lha-Khang (Bodhisattva Maitreya Temple), immediately right of the Tsuglkang, with a 3m-high statue of the Maitreya (future Buddha).

The modern gompa outside the ancient compound has a sparkling gilded chorten and a brand-new temple, and holds a well-attended puja at 6am (guests welcome).

A number of caves on the hillside above the main road were part of the old monastery complex – a 200m walk starting up the steps opposite the Vijay Kumar shop.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Tashi Khangsar Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9418817761; vaneetrana23@gmail.com; r ₹600-800, camping per tent ₹200;  Apr-Oct)

The four bright, clean, inviting rooms here are set beside an expansive, grassy garden where table and chairs sit beneath a large parachute canopy. There's good international food at decent prices, and plenty of camping space, and the relaxed, friendly vibe makes it a great spot to chill out for a night or a few.

From the new monastery's gate, head towards the river and turn right at the helipad.

Tiger Den

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9459349711; naveen.chauhan82@gmail.com; r ₹900-1200;  Apr-Oct)

Almost next to the new monastery's entrance, this is a fine choice with clean, pink, medium-sized rooms with hot showers.

Also here is one of Tabo's best restaurants (mains ₹120-300;  7am-10pm Apr-Oct), with indoor and outdoor seating, and a great range of Indian, Tibetan and traveller food, plus delectable chilled apple juice.

Sonam Homestay

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9418503966; www.prospiti.ch; s/d ₹800/1000, r without bathroom ₹400-500;  May-Oct)

Rooms here are some of the best value in Tabo: neat and clean, with solar-heated water. The locally born owner also runs his own travel and trekking firm.

Also here is the good Cafe Kunzum Top (Sonam Homestay; mains ₹100-150; 🕒 7am-9.30pm), serving up tasty Tibetan, Spitian, Indian and Continental dishes, and good coffee, in its sunny garden and cosy interior.

Dewachen Retreat

HOTEL $$$

☎ 9459566689; www.dewachenretreats.com; s/d ₹4320/4800, incl half-board ₹5490/6100;

🕒 mid-Apr–mid-Nov)

The impressiveness of the carved wooden doorway doesn't quite extend inside, but the pine-panelled rooms, with good tiled bathrooms and temple and mountain views, are Tabo's nearest thing to luxury. It's on the main road at the back of town, and is sometimes full with groups. The good restaurant is open to all.

i Information

There's an SBI ATM near the new monastery's gate.

i Getting There & Away

Buses to Kaza (₹73, 2½ hours) pass through Tabo around 9am (coming from Chango) and 3pm (coming from Rekong Peo, so its time is pretty variable). There's a daily bus to Rekong Peo (₹270, nine hours) at 9am or 10am, via Nako (₹105, three hours), but since this originates in Kaza, it can be packed, especially in May and October when seasonal workers are on the move.

Taxis charge around ₹1900 to Kaza, ₹1600 to Dhankar, ₹1900 to Nako and ₹6000 to Rekong Peo.

Agra & the Taj Mahal

Agra

Sights

Activities

Tours

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Shopping

Around Agra

Agra & the Taj Mahal

Why Go?

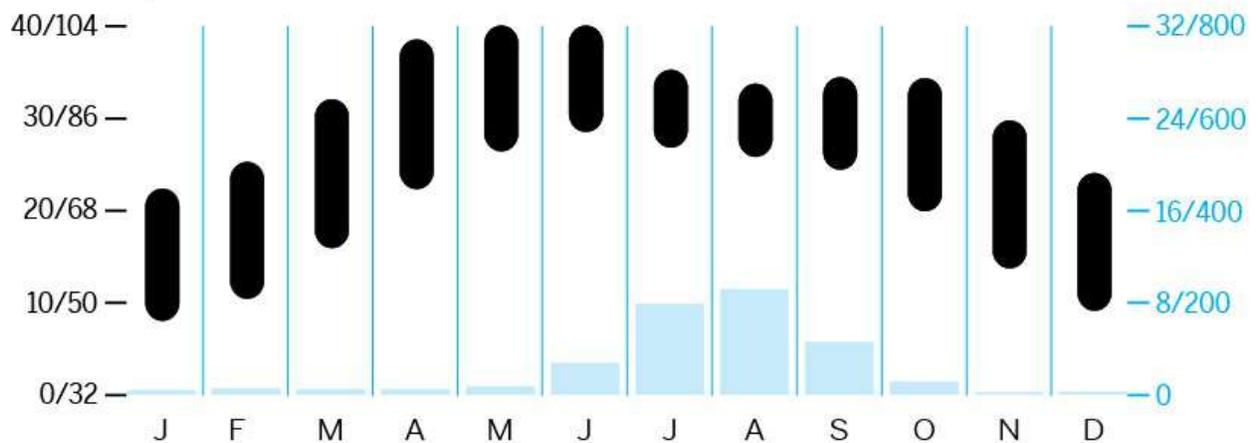

The magical allure of the Taj Mahal draws tourists to Agra like moths to a wondrous flame. And despite the hype, it's every bit as good as you've heard. But the Taj is not a stand-alone attraction. The legacy of the Mughal empire has left a magnificent fort and a liberal sprinkling of fascinating tombs and mausoleums; and there's also fun to be had in the bustling chowks (marketplaces). The downside comes in the form of hordes of rickshaw-wallahs, touts, unofficial guides and souvenir vendors, whose persistence can be infuriating at times.

Agra straddles a large bend along the holy Yamuna River. The fort and the Taj, 2km apart, both overlook the river on different parts of the bend. The main train and bus stations are a few kilometres southwest.

When to Go

Agra

°C/°F Temp

→ Mid-Sep–Oct The best time to visit. Most of the monsoon rains are over and summer temperatures have cooled.

→ Nov–Feb Daytime temperatures are comfortable but big sights are overcrowded. Evenings are nippy.

→ Mar Evening chill is gone but raging-hot midsummer temperatures haven't yet materialised.

Best Places to Eat

- Pinch of Spice
- Mama Chicken
- Esphahan
- Vedic

Best Places to Sleep

- Tourists Rest House
- N Homestay

➔ Oberoi Amarvilas

➔ The Retreat

Agra & the Taj Mahal Highlights

- 1 Taj Mahal Basking in the beauty of one of the most famous buildings in the world – a must-see!
- 2 Fatehpur Sikri Roaming a sprawling palace complex from Mughal times, with an immense and fascinating 450-year-old mosque next door.
- 3 Agra Fort Wandering the many rooms of one of India's most impressive ancient forts.
- 4 Mehtab Bagh Relaxing in gardens with perfect sunset views of the Taj.
- 5 Itimad-ud-Daulah Marveling at the marble-work of an exquisite tomb nicknamed the Baby Taj.
- 6 Akbar's Mausoleum Visiting the impressive resting place of the greatest Mughal emperor.
- 7 Agra Walks Strolling deeper into ancient Agra with local guides.
- 8 Kinari Bazaar Boggling your senses in one of India's most mesmerising – and hectic – markets.

History

In 1501 Sultan Sikander Lodi established his capital here, but the city fell into Mughal hands in 1526, when Emperor Babur defeated the last Lodi sultan at Panipat. Agra reached the peak of its magnificence between the mid-16th and mid-17th centuries during the reigns of Akbar, Jehangir and Shah Jahan. During this period the fort, the Taj Mahal and other major mausoleums were built. In 1638 Shah Jahan built a new city in Delhi, and his son Aurangzeb moved the capital there 10 years later.

In 1761 Agra fell to the Jats, a warrior class who looted its monuments, including the Taj Mahal. The Marathas took over in 1770, but were replaced by the British in 1803. Following the First War of Independence of 1857, the British shifted the administration of the province to Allahabad. Deprived of its administrative role, Agra developed as a centre for heavy industry, quickly becoming famous for its chemicals industry and air pollution, before the Taj and tourism became a major source of income.

Agra

📍 0562 / POP 1.7 MILLION

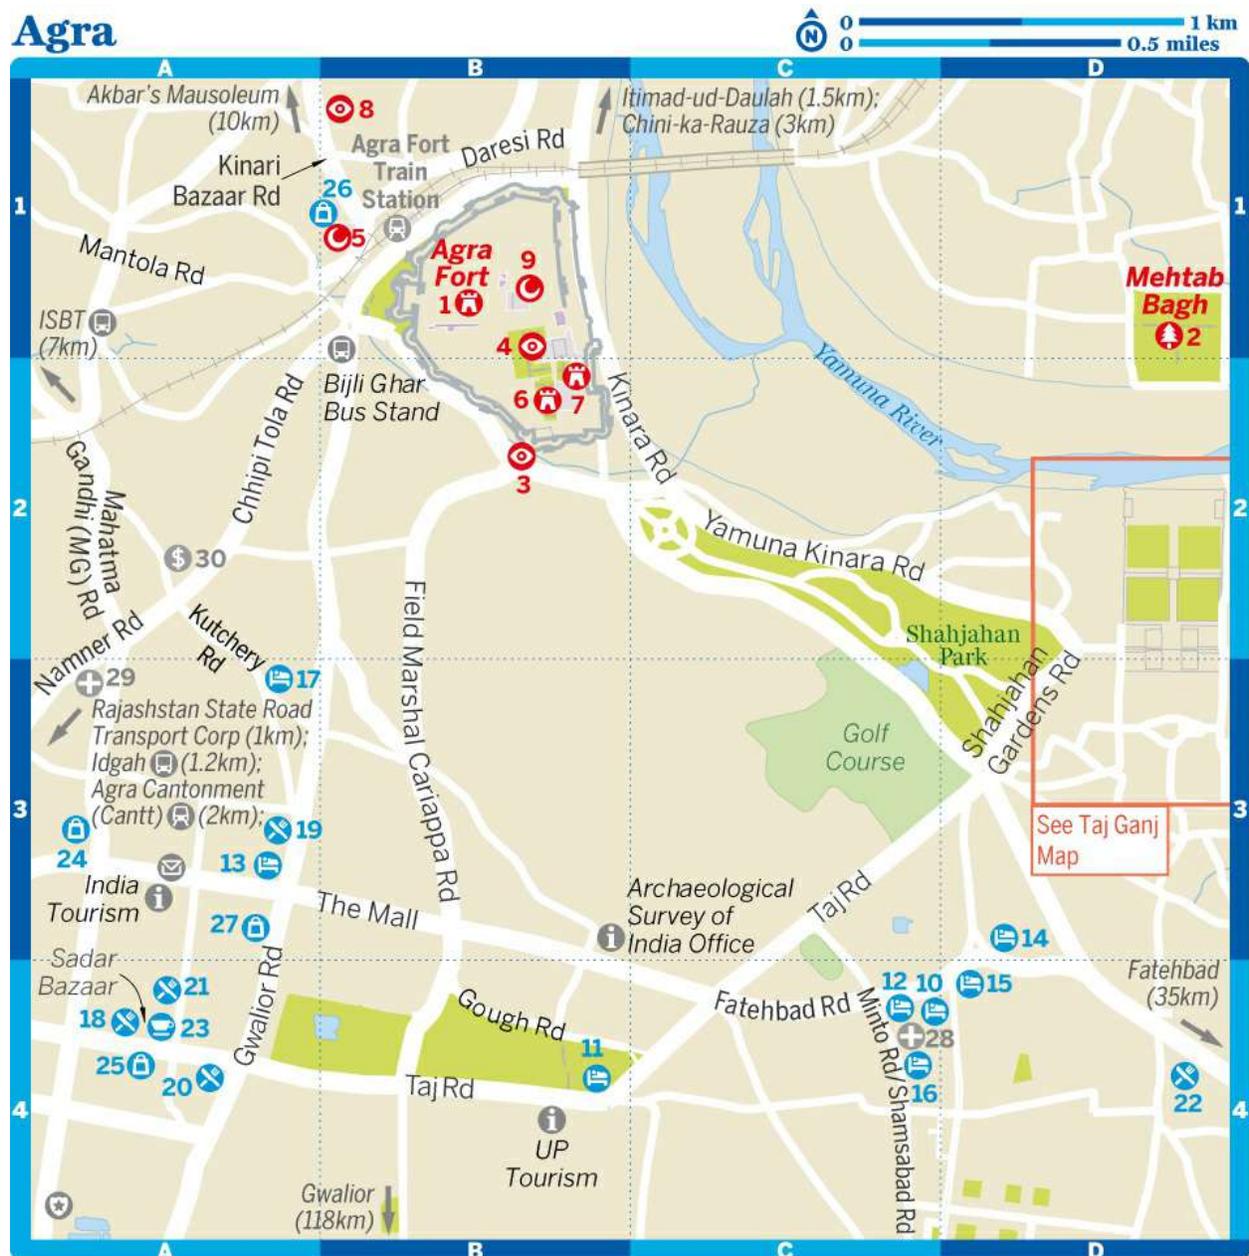

Sights

The entrance fee for Agra's five main sights – the Taj, Agra Fort, Fatehpur Sikri, Akbar's Tomb and Itimad-ud-Daulah – comprises charges from two different bodies: the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) and the Agra Development Association (ADA). Of the ₹1000 ticket for the Taj Mahal, ₹500 is a special ADA ticket, which gives you small savings on the other four sights if visited in the same day. You'll save ₹50 at Agra Fort and ₹10 each at Fatehpur Sikri, Akbar's Tomb and Itimad-ud-Daulah. You can buy this ₹500 ADA ticket at any of the five sights – just say you intend to visit the Taj later that day.

All the other sights in Agra are either free or have ASI tickets only, which aren't included in the ADA one-day offer.

Admission to all sights is free for children under 15. On Fridays, many sights offer a discount of ₹10 (but note that the Taj is closed on Friday).

Agra

Top Sights

- | | | |
|---|-----------------------------|----|
| 1 | Agra Fort | B1 |
| 2 | Mehtab Bagh | D1 |

Sights

- | | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|----|
| 3 | Amar Singh Gate | B2 |
| 4 | Diwan-i-Am | B1 |
| 5 | Jama Masjid | B1 |
| 6 | Jehangir's Palace | B2 |
| 7 | Khas Mahal | B2 |
| 8 | Kinari Bazaar | B1 |
| 9 | Moti Masjid | B1 |

Sleeping

- | | | |
|----|-------------------------------------|----|
| 10 | Bansi Homestay | C4 |
| 11 | Clarks Shiraz Hotel | B4 |
| | Dasaprakash | C4 |
| 12 | Hotel Amar | C4 |
| 13 | Hotel Yamuna View | A3 |
| 14 | Howard Plaza | D3 |
| 15 | Mansingh Palace | D4 |
| 16 | N Homestay | C4 |
| 17 | Tourists Rest House | A3 |

Eating

- | | | |
|----|--------------------------------|----|
| 18 | Brijwasi | A4 |
| 19 | Dasaprakash | A3 |
| | Dasaprakash | C4 |
| 20 | Lakshmi Vilas | A4 |
| 21 | Mama Chicken | A4 |
| 22 | Pinch of Spice | D4 |
| | Vedic | A3 |

Drinking & Nightlife

- | | | |
|----|---------------------------------|----|
| 23 | Café Coffee Day | A4 |
| | Costa Coffee | C4 |

Shopping

- | | | |
|----|---------------------------------|----|
| 24 | Khadi Gramodyog | A3 |
|----|---------------------------------|----|

25	Modern Book Depot	A4
26	Subhash Bazaar	B1
27	Subhash Emporium	A3

i Information

28	Amit Jaggi Memorial Hospital	C4
	Bagpacker Travel	A3
29	SR Hospital	A3
30	State Bank of India	A2

★ Taj Mahal

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹40/1000, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk Sat-Thu)

Poet Rabindranath Tagore described it as 'a teardrop on the cheek of eternity'; Rudyard Kipling as 'the embodiment of all things pure'; while its creator, Emperor Shah Jahan, said it made 'the sun and the moon shed tears from their eyes'. Every year, tourists numbering more than twice the population of Agra pass through its gates to catch a once-in-a-lifetime glimpse of what is widely considered the most beautiful building in the world. Few leave disappointed.

The Taj was built by Shah Jahan as a memorial for his third wife, Mumtaz Mahal, who died giving birth to their 14th child in 1631. The death of Mumtaz left the emperor so heartbroken that his hair is said to have turned grey virtually overnight. Construction of the Taj began the following year; although the main building is thought to have been built in eight years, the whole complex was not completed until 1653. Not long after it was finished, Shah Jahan was overthrown by his son Aurangzeb and imprisoned in Agra Fort, where for the rest of his days he could only gaze out at his creation through a window. Following his death in 1666, Shah Jahan was buried here alongside his beloved Mumtaz.

In total, some 20,000 people from India and Central Asia worked on the building. Specialists were brought in from as far away as Europe to produce the exquisite marble screens and pietra dura (marble inlay work) made with thousands of semiprecious stones.

The Taj was designated a World Heritage Site in 1983 and looks nearly as immaculate today as when it was first constructed – though it underwent a huge restoration project in the early 20th century.

• Entry & Information

Note: the Taj is closed every Friday to anyone not attending prayers at the mosque.

The Taj can be accessed through the west, south and east gates. Tour groups tend to enter through the east and west gates. Independent travellers tend to use the south gate, which is nearest to Taj Ganj, the main area for budget accommodation, and generally has shorter queues than the west gate. The east gate has the shortest queues of the lot, but this is because the ticket office is inconveniently located a 1km walk away at Shilpgram, a dire, government-run tourist centre. There are separate queues for men and women at all three gates. Once you get your ticket, you can skip ahead of the lines of Indians waiting to get in – one perk of your pricey entry fee.

Cameras and videos are permitted but you can't take photographs inside the mausoleum itself, and the areas in which you can take videos are quite limited. Tripods are banned.

Remember to retrieve your free 500ml bottle of water and shoe covers (included in Taj ticket price). If you keep your ticket you get small entry-fee discounts when visiting Agra Fort, Fatehpur Sikri, Akbar's Tomb or the Itimad-ud-Daulah on the same day. You can also pick up an audio guide (₹120). Bags much bigger than a money pouch are not allowed inside; free bag storage is available at the west gate. Any food or tobacco will be confiscated when you go through security.

From the south gate, entry to the inner compound is through a very impressive 30m red-sandstone gateway on the south side of the forecourt, which is inscribed with verses from the Quran.

• Inside the Grounds

The ornamental gardens are set out along classical Mughal charbagh (formal Persian garden) lines – a square quartered by watercourses, with an ornamental marble plinth at its centre. When the fountains are not flowing, the Taj is beautifully reflected in the water.

The Taj Mahal itself stands on a raised marble platform at the northern end of the ornamental gardens, with its back to the Yamuna River. Its raised position means that the backdrop is only sky – a masterstroke of design. Purely decorative 40m-high white minarets grace each corner of the platform. After more than three centuries they are not quite perpendicular, but they may have been designed to lean slightly outwards so that in the event of an earthquake they would fall away from the precious Taj. The red-sandstone mosque (MAP GOOGLE MAP) to the west is an important gathering place for Agra's Muslims. The identical building to the east, the jawab (MAP GOOGLE MAP), was built for symmetry.

The central Taj structure is made of semitranslucent white marble, carved with flowers and inlaid with thousands of semiprecious stones in beautiful patterns. A perfect exercise in symmetry, the four identical faces of the Taj feature impressive vaulted arches embellished with pietra dura scrollwork and quotations from the Quran in a style of calligraphy using inlaid jasper. The whole structure is topped off by four small domes surrounding the famous bulbous central dome.

Directly below the main dome is the Cenotaph of Mumtaz Mahal, an elaborate false tomb surrounded by an exquisite perforated marble screen inlaid with dozens of different types of semiprecious stones. Beside it, offsetting the symmetry of the Taj, is the Cenotaph of Shah Jahan, who was interred here with little ceremony by his usurping son Aurangzeb in 1666. Light is admitted into the central chamber by finely cut marble screens. The real tombs of Mumtaz Mahal and Shah Jahan are in a locked basement room below the main chamber and cannot be viewed.

Taj Mahal

TIMELINE

1631 Emperor Shah Jahan's beloved third wife, Mumtaz Mahal, dies in Buhampur while giving birth to their 14th child. Her body is initially interred in Buhampur itself, where Shah Jahan is fighting a military campaign, but is later moved, in a golden casket, to a small building on the banks of the Yamuna River in Agra.

1632 Construction of a permanent mausoleum for Mumtaz Mahal begins.

1633 Mumtaz Mahal is interred in her final resting place, an underground tomb beneath a marble plinth, on top of which the Taj Mahal will be built.

1640 The white-marble mausoleum is completed.

1653 The rest of the Taj Mahal complex is completed.

1658 Emperor Shah Jahan is overthrown by his son Aurangzeb and imprisoned in Agra Fort.

1666 Shah Jahan dies. His body is transported along the Yamuna River and buried underneath the Taj, alongside the tomb of his wife.

1908 Repeatedly damaged and looted after the fall of the Mughal empire, the Taj receives some long-overdue attention as part of a major restoration project ordered by British viceroy Lord Curzon.

1983 The Taj is awarded Unesco World Heritage Site status.

2002 Having been discoloured by pollution in more recent years, the Taj is spruced up with an ancient recipe known as multani mitti – a blend of soil, cereal, milk and lime once used by Indian women to beautify their skin.

Today More than three million tourists visit the Taj Mahal each year. That's more than twice the current population of Agra.

GO BAREFOOT
Help the environment by entering the mausoleum barefoot instead of using the free disposable shoe covers.

Pishtaq
These huge arched recesses are set into each side of the Taj. They provide depth to the building while their central, latticed marble screens allow patterned light to illuminate the inside of the mausoleum.

Filigree Screen
This stunning screen was carved out of a single piece of marble. It surrounds both cenotaphs, allowing patterned light to fall onto them through its intricately carved jali (latticework).

Central Dome
The Taj's famous central dome, topped by a brass finial, represents the vault of heaven, a stark contrast to the material world, which is represented by the square shape of the main structure.

Marble Relief Work
Flowering plants, thought to be representations of paradise, are a common theme among the beautifully decorative panels carved onto the white marble.

Calligraphy
The slope of calligraphy surrounding each of the four pishtaq get larger as they get higher, giving the impression of uniform size when viewed from the ground. There's also calligraphy inside the mausoleum, including on Mumtaz Mahal's cenotaph.

Pietra Dura
It is believed that 25 different precious and semi-precious stones were used to create the exquisite pietra dura (marble inlay work) found on the inside and outside of the mausoleum walls. Agate, Doral designs are common.

Genotaphs
The cenotaphs of Mumtaz Mahal and Shah Jahan, decorated with pietra dura inlay work, are actually false tombs. The real ones are located in an underground vault closed to the public.

LIGHT THE WAY
Bring a small torch into the mausoleum to fully appreciate the translucency of the white marble and semi-precious stones.

Labels in diagram: Minaret, Plinth, Entrance, Yamuna River, NORTH

★ Mehtab Bagh

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

This park, originally built by Emperor Babur as the last in a series of 11 parks on the Yamuna's east bank (long before the Taj was conceived), fell into disrepair until it was little more than a huge mound of sand. To protect the Taj from the erosive effects of the sand blown across the river, the park was reconstructed and is now one of the best places from which to view the great mausoleum.

The gardens in the Taj are perfectly aligned with the ones here, and the view of the Taj from the fountain directly in front of the entrance gate is a special one.

★ Agra Fort

FORT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹40/550, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

With the Taj Mahal overshadowing it, one can easily forget that Agra has one of the finest Mughal forts in India. Walking through courtyard after courtyard of this palatial red-sandstone and marble fortress, your amazement grows as the scale of what was built here begins to sink in.

Its construction along the bank of the Yamuna River was begun by Emperor Akbar in 1565. Further additions were made, particularly by his grandson Shah Jahan, using his favourite building material – white marble. The fort was built primarily as a military structure, but Shah Jahan transformed it into a palace, and later it became his gilded prison for eight years after his son Aurangzeb seized power in 1658.

The ear-shaped fort's colossal double walls rise more than 20m and measure 2.5km in circumference. The Yamuna River originally flowed along the straight eastern edge of the fort, and the emperors had their own bathing ghats here. It contains a maze of buildings, forming a city within a city, including vast underground sections, though many of the structures were destroyed over the years by Nadir Shah, the Marathas, the Jats and finally the British, who used the fort as a garrison. Even today, much of the fort is used by the military and off-limits to the general public.

The Amar Singh Gate (MAP GOOGLE MAP) to the south is the sole entry point to the fort these days and where you buy your entrance ticket. Its dogleg design was meant to confuse attackers who made it past the first line of defence – the crocodile-infested moat.

A path leads straight from here up to the large Moti Masjid (Pearl Mosque; MAP GOOGLE MAP), which is closed to the public. To your right, just before you reach Moti Masjid, is the large, open Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audiences; MAP GOOGLE MAP), which was used by Shah Jahan for domestic government business, and features a throne room where the emperor listened to petitioners. In front of it is the small and rather incongruous grave of John Colvin, a lieutenant-governor of the northwest provinces who died of an illness in the fort during the 1857 First War of Independence.

A tiny staircase just to the left of the Diwan-i-Am throne leads up to a large courtyard. To your left is the tiny but exquisite Nagina Masjid (Gem Mosque), built in 1635 by Shah Jahan for the ladies of the court. Down below was the Ladies' Bazaar, where the court ladies bought their goods.

On the far side of the large courtyard, along the eastern wall of the fort, is Diwan-i-Khas (Hall of Private Audiences), which was reserved for important dignitaries or foreign representatives. The hall once housed Shah Jahan's legendary Peacock Throne, which was inset with precious stones – including the famous Koh-i-noor diamond. The throne was taken to Delhi by Aurangzeb, then to Iran in 1739 by Nadir Shah and dismantled after his assassination in 1747. Overlooking the river and the distant Taj Mahal is Takhti-i-Jehangir, a huge slab of black rock with an inscription around the edge. The throne that stood here was made for Jehangir when he was Prince Salim.

Off to your right from here (as you face the river) is Shish Mahal (Mirror Palace), with walls inlaid with tiny mirrors. At the time of research it had been closed for some time due to restoration, although you can peek through cracks in the doors at the sparkling mirrors inside.

Further along the eastern edge of the fort you'll find Musamman Burj and Khas Mahal, (MAP GOOGLE MAP) the wonderful white-marble octagonal tower and palace where Shah Jahan was imprisoned for eight years until his death in 1666, and from where he could gaze out at the Taj Mahal, the tomb of his wife. When he died, Shah Jahan's body was taken from here by boat to the Taj. The now closed Mina Masjid, set back slightly from the eastern edge, was his private mosque.

The large courtyard here is Anguri Bagh, a garden that has been brought back to life in recent years. In the courtyard is an innocuous-looking entrance – now locked – that leads down a flight of stairs into a two-storey labyrinth of underground rooms and passageways where Akbar used to keep his 500-strong harem.

Continuing south, the huge red-sandstone Jehangir's Palace (MAP)

GOOGLE MAP) was probably built by Akbar for his son Jehangir. It blends Indian and Central Asian architectural styles, a reminder of the Mughals' Afghani cultural roots. In front of the palace is Hauz-i-Jehangir, a huge bowl carved out of a single block of stone, which was used for bathing. Walking past this brings you back to the main path to Amar Singh Gate.

You can walk here from Taj Ganj, or else take a cycle-rickshaw for ₹40.

Taj Ganj

Taj Ganj

📍 Top Sights

1 Taj Mahal B1

📍 Sights

2 Jawab C1

3 Mosque B1

4 Taj Museum B2

🏠 Sleeping

5 Hotel Kamal C4

6 Hotel Sidhartha B4

7 Saniya Palace Hotel C4

🍴 Eating

8 Joney's Place B4

Saniya Palace Hotel C4

9 Shankara Vegis B4

10 Shanti Lodge Restaurant C4

11 Taj Cafe C4

12 Yash Cafe C4

🍷 Drinking & Nightlife

13 Café Coffee Day C4

Akbar's Mausoleum

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/300, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

This outstanding sandstone and marble tomb commemorates the greatest of the Mughal emperors. The huge courtyard is entered through a stunning gateway. It has three-storey minarets at each corner and is built of red sandstone strikingly inlaid with white-marble geometric patterns.

The mausoleum is at Sikandra, 10km northwest of Agra Fort. Catch a bus (₹25, 45 minutes) headed to Mathura from Bijli Ghar bus stand; they go past the mausoleum. Or else take a taxi (return trip about ₹800).

Itimad-ud-Daulah

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹20/210, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Nicknamed the Baby Taj, the exquisite tomb of Mizra Ghiyas Beg should not be missed. This Persian nobleman was Mumtaz Mahal's grandfather and Emperor Jehangir's wazir (chief minister). His daughter, Nur Jahan, who married Jehangir, built the tomb between 1622 and 1628, in a style similar to the tomb she built for Jehangir near Lahore in Pakistan.

It doesn't have the same awesome beauty as the Taj, but it's arguably more delicate in appearance thanks to its particularly finely carved jalis (marble lattice screens). This was the first Mughal structure built completely from marble, the first to make extensive use of pietra dura and the first tomb to be built on the banks of the Yamuna, which until then had been a sequence of beautiful pleasure gardens.

You can combine a trip here with Chini-ka-Rauza and Mehtab Bagh, all on the east bank. A cycle-rickshaw covering all four should cost about ₹300 return from the Taj, including waiting time. An autorickshaw should be ₹450.

Chini-ka-Rauza

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

This Persian-style riverside tomb of Afzal Khan, a poet who served as Shah Jahan's chief minister, was built between 1628 and 1639. Rarely visited, it is hidden away down a shady avenue of trees on the east bank of the Yamuna.

Jama Masjid

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Jama Masjid Rd)

This fine mosque, built in the Kinari Bazaar by Shah Jahan's daughter in 1648, and once connected to Agra Fort, features striking marble patterning on its domes.

BEST TIMES TO SEE THE TAJ

The Taj is arguably at its most atmospheric at sunrise. This is certainly the most comfortable time to visit, with far fewer crowds. Sunset is another magical viewing time.

You can also view the Taj for five nights around the full moon. Entry numbers are limited, though, and tickets must be bought a day in advance from the Archaeological Survey of India office; see its website for details. (Note: this office is known as the Taj Mahal Office by some rickshaw riders.)

Activities

Hotels allowing nonguests to use their swimming pools include Howard Plaza, per hour ₹500, and Amar, all day ₹575 – with slide.

TOP AGRA FESTIVALS

Taj Mahotsav

CULTURAL

(www.tajmahotsav.org; 🗓️Feb)

This 10-day carnival of culture, cuisine and crafts is Agra's biggest and best party. Held at Shilpgram, the festival features more than 400 artisans from all over India, a pot-pourri of folk and classical music, dances from various regions and enough regional food to induce a curry coma.

Kailash Fair

RELIGIOUS

(🗓️Aug/Sep)

Held at the Kailash temple, 12km from Agra, this cultural and religious fair honours Lord Shiva, who legendarily appeared here in the form of a stone lingam. It attracts devotees from all over North India.

Ram Barat

RELIGIOUS

(🗓️Sep)

Celebrated before the Hindu festival of Dussehra, Ram Barat is a dramatic recreation of the royal/divine wedding procession of Rama and Sita. Expect three days of colourful lights and pounding Hindu rhythms, highlighted by the 12-hour parade itself, featuring caparisoned elephants, horses, more than 125 mobile floats depicting mythological events and 30 marching bands.

Tours

Agra Walks

WALKING

( 9027711144; www.agrawalks.com; ₹2200)

Many folks spend but a day in Agra, taking in the Taj and Agra Fort and sailing off into the sunset. If you're interested in digging a little deeper, this excellent walking/cycle-rickshaw combo tour will show you sides of the city most tourists don't see.

The guides are darling and Old Agra highlights include going deeper into Kinari Bazaar and a few off-the-beaten-path temples such as Mankameshwar Mandir and Radha Krishna Mandir. A delectable food tour is also offered (₹2000, includes tastings).

Amin Tours

CULTURAL

( 9837411144; www.daytourtajmahal.com)

If you can't be bothered handling the logistics, look no further than this recommended agency for all-inclusive private Agra day trips from Delhi by car (from ₹9900, depending on number in group) or train (from ₹10,200). Caveat: if they try to take you shopping and you're not interested, politely decline.

UP Tourism

BUS

( GOOGLE MAP;  0562-2421204; www.uptourism.gov.in; incl entry fees Indian/foreigner ₹650/3000)

UP Tourism runs coach tours that leave Agra Cantonment train station at 10.30am Saturday to Thursday, after picking up passengers arriving from Delhi on the Taj Express. The tour includes the Taj Mahal, Agra Fort and Fatehpur Sikri, with a 1¼-hour stop in each place.

Tours return to the station so that day trippers can catch the Taj Express back to Delhi at 6.55pm. Contact either of the UP Tourism offices – at the train station or on Taj Rd – to book a seat, or just turn up at the train station tourist office at 9.45am to sign up for that day. Tours only depart with five people or more, unless you book via the UP Tourism website – in that case, we've been told, your tour will go no matter how many sign up. (The website is a bit difficult to navigate: From the home page, click Online Booking Portal > Package Tours at a Glance > Agra Package Tour (under Package Tours, not One Day Tour) and take it from there...)

TAJ MUSEUM

Within the Taj complex, on the western side of the gardens, is the small but excellent Taj Museum (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☹ 9am-5pm Sat-Thu), housing a number of original Mughal miniature paintings, including a pair of 17th-century ivory portraits of Emperor Shah Jahan and his beloved wife Mumtaz Mahal. It also has some very well-preserved gold and silver coins dating from the same period, plus architectural drawings of the Taj and some nifty celadon plates, said to split into pieces or change colour if the food served on them contains poison.

Sleeping

The main place for budget accommodation is the bustling area of Taj Ganj, immediately south of the Taj, while there's a high concentration of midrange hotels further south, along Fatehabad Rd. Sadar Bazaar, an area boasting good-quality restaurants, offers another option.

Be forewarned: free wi-fi hasn't really caught on in Agra's nicer hotels; expect to pay upwards of ₹500 for 24 hours.

Taj Ganj Area

Saniya Palace Hotel

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0562-3270199; www.saniyapalace.in; Chowk Kagziyan, Taj South Gate; r without/with AC from ₹600/1300; 📶 @ 📶)

Set back from the main strip down an undesirable alleyway, this isn't the sleekest Taj Ganj option, but it tries to imbue character with marble floors and Mughal-style framed carpet wall hangings. The rooms are clean and large enough, although the bathrooms in the non-AC rooms are minuscule.

The real coup is the very pleasant, plant-filled (and recently expanded) rooftop, which trumps its rivals for optimum Taj views.

Hotel Kamal

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2330126; hotelkamal@hotmail.com; Taj South Gate; r ₹700-1400, with AC ₹2000; 🌳 📶)

The smartest hotel in Taj Ganj proper, Kamal has clean, comfortable rooms with nice touches, such as framed photos of the Taj on the walls and rugs on the tiled floors. Five rooms in the newer annexe are a definite step up, with welcoming woodwork, extra space and stone-walled showers.

There's a cosy, bamboo-enclosed ground-floor restaurant and an underused rooftop restaurant with a somewhat obscured Taj view.

Hotel Sidhartha

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2230901; www.hotelsidhartha.com; Taj West Gate; r incl breakfast from ₹950, with AC from ₹1200; 🌳 @ 📶)

Of the 21 rooms in this West Gate staple, those on the ground floor are stylish for the price, with marble walls, cable TV and clean bathrooms with hot water (room 111A is the standard to which all future ground-floor rooms will eventually be renovated). Upper-floor rooms are smaller and not as exciting.

Either way, all rooms surround or overlook a small, leafy courtyard over-run by a shade-providing tameshwari plant.

Taj Plaza

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2232515; www.hoteltajplazaagra.com; Shilpgram VIP Rd; d ₹1500, with AC ₹2500, Taj-facing ₹3200; 🌳 @ 📶)

Depending on demand, this well-positioned hotel fluctuates between budget and midrange; when slow, prices can drop 50%. You won't be disappointed if you stay here. It has professional reception and clean rooms with TV – six of which look out at the Taj. There's also a pleasant rooftop with decent Taj and sunset views.

It's a whole lot closer to the Taj than most hotels in the same price range.

★ Oberoi Amarvilas

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2231515; www.oberoihotels.com; Taj East Gate Rd; d with/without balcony ₹97,750/80,500; 🌳 @ 📶 🚰)

Following Oberoi's iron-clad MO of maharaja-level service, exquisite dining and properties that pack some serious wow, Agra's best hotel by far oozes style and luxury. Elegant interior design is suffused with Mughal themes, a composition carried over into the exterior fountain courtyard and swimming pool, both of which are set in a delightful water garden.

All rooms (and even some bath-tubs) have wonderful Taj views.

The Retreat

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8810022200; www.theretreat.co.in; Shilpgram Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹5750/6900; 🌳 @ 📶 🚰)

Everything in this sleek, 52-room hotel is done up boutique-style with Indian sensibilities (lots of soothing mauve, mocha and turquoise throughout) and modern fixtures abound. There's a small pool and multicuisine restaurant offering countrywide specialities such as Goan fish curries and Lahori kebabs. Free wi-fi.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for this region:

$ below ₹1500

$$ ₹1500–4000

$$$ above ₹4000

Fatehabad Road Area

★ N Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9690107860; www.nhomestay.com; 15 Ajanta Colony, Vibhav Nagar; s/d incl breakfast ₹1800/2000;  )

Matriarch Naghma and her helpful sons are a riot at this wonderful homestay. Their beautiful home, tucked away in a residential neighbourhood 15 minutes' walk from the Taj's Western Gate, is nothing short of a fabulous place to stay.

The three-storey house features marble floors throughout, and some of the six large and authentically appointed rooms have pleasant balconies (first-come, first-served). Naghma will even cook you dinner (₹400) – and what a cook she is! You'll rarely break through the cultural surface with such ease.

Bansi Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0562-2333033; www.bansihomestayagra.com; 18 Handicraft Nagar, Fatehabad Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹3000/3500;   )

A retired director of Uttar Pradesh Tourism is your host at this wonderful upscale homestay tucked away in a quiet residential neighbourhood near Fatehabad Rd. The five large rooms boast huge bathrooms with pressurised solar-powered rain-style showers and flank extremely pleasant common areas with bespoke furniture and Krishna paintings. It feels more like a boutique hotel than a homestay.

The immensely pleasurable 2nd-floor garden is a fabulous retreat for watching the world go by, and the food – notably the homemade pickles and aloo paratha (potato-stuffed flatbread) – excels, along with the hospitality in general. Bansi is Krishna's flute, a symbol of peace and tranquillity, which is exactly what you'll find here.

Dasaprakash

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0562-4016123; www.dasaprakashgroup.com; 18/163A/6

Shamshabad Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹3100/3450;  )

This friendly and clean retreat offers 28 modern and functional rooms with small desks, flat-screen TVs and nice bathrooms, all of which haven't been around long enough to show signs of deterioration. It all works well as a good-value escape from the diesel and dust, and is located far enough from Fatahabad Rd to offer relative R&R. Free wi-fi.

Walk-ins can easily get discounts of more than 50% if rooms are available.

Howard Plaza

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0562-4048600; www.howardplazaagra.com; Fatehabad Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹8050/9200;    )

Standard rooms in this very welcoming hotel are decked out in elegant dark-wood furniture and stylish decorative tiling. Deluxe rooms boast soothing aqua colour schemes. You won't find much to fault in either category.

The pool is starting to show its age, but there's a small, well-equipped gym and a very pleasant spa offering a whole range of ayurvedic and massage treatments, including the so-called 'erotic bath'. The breezy, open-air rooftop restaurant doubles as one of the few atmospheric bars in town at night (beer from ₹175, cocktails ₹400), and distant Taj views are on offer from the 4th-floor terrace. Wi-fi is enabled throughout.

Hotel Amar

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0562-4027000; www.hotelamar.com; Fatehabad Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹4000/4600;    )

Though a little worn, the 66 rooms at the friendly Amar come with wi-fi, big TVs and clean bathrooms. The marble-inlay entrance halls and funky, mirrored-ceiling hallways drive home a palpable sense of place. There's a great pool area, complete with a lush green lawn and a 3.5m-tall water slide. Rooms are usually discounted by at least 15%.

Mansingh Palace

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2331771; www.mansinghotels.com; Fatehabad Rd; r from ₹5200; 📶 @ 🌐)

The service isn't up to scratch for the quality of this hotel, but if you can put up with the grumpy staff on reception you'll find plush rooms inside a complex crammed with Mughal design themes and exotic furnishings. The garden has an interestingly shaped pool and outdoor barbecue area. There's a gym and the quality Sheesh Mahal restaurant has live ghazal (Urdu songs) nightly.

TOP TAJ VIEWS

Inside the Taj Grounds

You may have to pay ₹1000 for the privilege, but it's only when you're inside the grounds themselves that you can really get up close and personal with the world's most beautiful building. Don't miss inspecting the marble inlay work (pietra dura) inside the pishtaq (large arched recesses) on the four outer walls. And don't forget to bring a small torch with you so that you can shine it on similar pietra dura work inside the dark central chamber of the mausoleum. Note the translucency of both the white marble and the semiprecious stones inlaid into it.

From Mehtab Bagh

Tourists are no longer allowed to wander freely along the riverbank on the opposite side of the Yamuna River, but you can still enjoy a view of the back of the Taj from the 16th-century Mughal park Mehtab Bagh, with the river flowing between you and the mausoleum. A path leading down to the river beside the park offers the same view for free, albeit from a more restricted angle.

Looking up from the South Bank of the River

This is a great place to be for sunset. Take the path that hugs the outside of the Taj's eastern wall and walk all the way down to the small temple beside the river. You should be able to find boat-hands down here willing to row you out onto the water for an even more romantic view. Expect to pay around ₹100 per boat. For safety reasons, it's best not to wander down here on your own for sunset.

From a Rooftop Cafe in Taj Ganj

Perfect for sunrise shots: there are some wonderful photos to be had from the numerous rooftop cafes in Taj Ganj. We think the cafe on Saniya Palace Hotel is the pick of the bunch, with its plant-filled design and great position, but many of them are good. And all offer the bonus of being able to view the Taj with the added comfort of an early-morning cup of coffee.

From Agra Fort

With a decent zoom lens you can capture some fabulous images of the Taj from Agra Fort, especially if you're willing to get up at the crack of dawn to see the sun rising up from behind it. The best places to snap from are probably Musamman Burj and Khas Mahal, the octagonal tower and palace where Shah Jahan was imprisoned for eight years until his death.

Sadar Bazaar Area

★ Tourists Rest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0562-2463961; www.dontworrychickencurry.com; 4/62 Kutchery Rd; s/d from ₹500/600, with AC from ₹950/1100; 📶 @ 📶)

If you aren't set on sleeping under the nose of the Taj, this centrally located travellers' hub offers better value than most Agra spots. It's been under the watchful eye of the same family since 1965 (though you can't tell it's going on 50 years old).

If you can forgo AC, the newly renovated cheapies are great value – and things only get better from there. All rooms come with free wi-fi, TV, hot water and large windows, and are set around a peaceful plant-filled, palm-shaded courtyard (a real highlight) and a North Indian pure veg restaurant. The bend-over-backwards owners speak English and French. They couldn't be more helpful, right down to occasionally carting you off somewhere in their hotel rickshaw. Phone ahead for a free pick-up; otherwise, it's ₹40 in a cycle-rickshaw from the train station. Damn fine masala chai, too.

Clarks Shiraz Hotel

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-2226121; www.hotelclarksshiraz.com; 54 Taj Rd; r incl breakfast from ₹9200; 🌳 @ 📶 🚿)

Agra's original five-star hotel, opened in 1961, has done well to keep up with the hotel Joneses. The standard doubles are nothing special for this price range, but the marble-floored deluxe versions are a pleasant step up and all bathrooms have been re-tiled and are spotless.

There are three very good restaurants, two bars (three in season), a gym, a shaded garden and pool area (one of Agra's best) and ayurvedic massages. Some rooms have distant Taj views.

Hotel Yamuna View

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0562-3293777; www.hotelyamunaviewagra.com; 6B The Mall; s/d from ₹7500/8500; 🌳 @ 📶 🚿)

This reliably excellent hotel was getting a full makeover when we visited – when completed we expect it to be even more modern and more comfortable than before. Prices listed here are estimates of what they might be when the hotel reopens.

There's a great garden pool, a sleek cocktail bar and a plush Chinese restaurant (with a real Chinese chef – good for a sabbatical from Indian food).

TAJ MAHAL MYTHS

The Taj is a Hindu Temple

The well-publicised theory that the Taj was originally a Shiva temple built in the 12th century, and only later converted into Mumtaz Mahal's famous mausoleum, was developed by Purushottam Nagesh Oak in 1989. (Oak also claims that the Kaaba, Stonehenge and Vatican City all have Hindu origins.) He petitioned parliament to open the Taj's sealed basement rooms to prove his theory (request denied) and in 2000 India's Supreme Court dismissed his plea to officially name a Hindu king as the builder of the Taj. But the matter is still alive, with a similar court case filed as recently as 2015, this one naming a form of Shiva as one of the plaintiffs. Archaeologists and the Indian government remain unconvinced.

The Black Taj Mahal

The story goes that Shah Jahan planned to build a negative image of the Taj Mahal in black marble on the opposite side of the river as his own mausoleum, and that work began before he was imprisoned by his son Aurangzeb in Agra Fort. Extensive excavations at Mehtab Bagh have found no trace of any such construction.

Craftsmen Mutilations

Legend has it that on completion of the Taj, Shah Jahan ordered the hands of the project's craftsmen to be chopped off, preventing them from ever building anything as beautiful again. Some even say he went so far as to have their eyes gouged out. Thankfully, no historical evidence supports either story.

Sinking Taj

Some experts believe there is evidence to show that the Taj is slowly tilting towards and sinking into the riverbed due to the changing nature of the soil beside an increasingly dry Yamuna River. The Archaeological Survey of India has dismissed any marginal change in the elevation of the building as statistically insignificant, adding that it has not detected any structural damage at its base in the seven decades since its first scientific study of the Taj was carried out, in 1941.

Eating

Dalmoth is Agra's famous version of namkin (spicy nibbles). Peitha is a square-shaped sweet made from pumpkin and glucose that is flavoured with rosewater, coconut or saffron. You can buy it all over Agra. From October to March look out for gajak, a slightly spicy sesame-seed biscuit strip.

Taj Ganj Area

Saniya Palace Hotel

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹100-200; 🕒 6am-10pm; 📶)

With cute tablecloths, dozens of potted plants and a bamboo pergola for shade, this is the most pleasant rooftop restaurant in Taj Ganj. It also has the best rooftop view of the Taj, bar none. The kitchen is a bit rough and ready, but its mix of Western dishes and Western-friendly Indian dishes usually go down without complaints.

Taj Cafe

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹50-200; 🕒 7am-11pm; 📶)

Up a flight of steps and overlooking Taj Ganj's busy street scene, this friendly, family-run restaurant is a nice choice if you're not fussed about Taj views. There's a good choice of breakfasts, thalis (₹90 to ₹140) and pizza (₹160 to ₹200), and the lassis here won't disappoint.

Shanti Lodge Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹90-250; 🕒 6.30am-10pm)

The rooftop Taj view here is superb so this is a great place for breakfast or a sunset beer. There's some shade for hot afternoons, although it's not as comfortable as nearby Saniya Palace. The only let-down is the menu which, although not bad, lacks invention. Banana pancakes, anyone?

Shankara Vegis

VEGETARIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chowk Kaghzi; mains ₹90-150; 🕒 8am-10.30pm; 📶)

Most restaurants in Taj Ganj ooze a distinctly average air of mediocrity – Shankara Vegis is different. This cosy old-timer, with its red tablecloths and straw-lined walls, stands out not only for its decor, but for great vegetarian thalis (₹120 to ₹160) and, most pleasantly, the genuinely friendly, non-pushy ethos of its hands-on owners.

Joney's Place

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kutta Park, Taj Ganj; mains ₹70-120; 🕒 5am-10.30pm)

This pocket-sized institution whipped up its first creamy lassi in 1978 and continues to please despite cooking its meals in what must be Agra's smallest kitchen. The cheese and tomato 'jayfelles' (toasted sandwich), the banana lassi (with money-back guarantee) and the malai kofta all come recommended, but it's more about crack-of-dawn sustenance than culinary dazzle.

Yash Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 3/137 Chowk Kagziyan; mains ₹100-260; 🕒 7am-10.30pm; 📶)

This chilled-out, 1st-floor cafe has wicker chairs, sports channels on TV, DVDs shown in the evening and a good range of meals, from good-value set breakfasts to thalis (₹90), pizza (₹90 to ₹300) and Indian-style French toast (with coconut – we think they made that up). It also offers a shower and storage space (₹50 for both) to day visitors.

★ Esphahan

NORTH INDIAN $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 2231515; Taj East Gate Rd, Oberoi Amarvilas Hotel; mains ₹1550-3500; 🕒 dinner 6.30pm & 9pm; ❄️)

There are only two sittings each evening at Agra's finest restaurant (6.30pm and 9.30pm), so booking a table is essential. The exquisite menu is chock-full of unique delicacies and rarely seen regional heritage dishes.

Anything that comes out of the succulent North Indian tandoor is a showstopper (especially the bharwan aloo, a potato kebab stuffed with nuts, spices, mint and coriander). Melt-in-your-mouth dishes such as aloobukhara maaz (a Mughlai lamb kebab stuffed with prunes) and safri gosht (braised lamb with pickled onions, dried tomatoes and spiced pickle) redefine lamb as most know it. It's all set to a romantic background soundtrack of a live santoor (a stringed instrument) player.

Fatehabad Road Area

Dasaprakash

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.dasaprakashgroup.com; 18/163A/6 Shamshabad Rd; thalis ₹230-330, mains ₹230-330; 🕒 7am-11pm)

The Vibhav Nagar branch of this perennial South Indian upscale staple ups the ante with a North Indian tandoor. You get the pure veg love of other Dasaprakash branches, plus North Indian options such as veg tandoori kebabs, available from noon (that tandoor needs a few hours to heat up). It's inside the hotel of the same name.

Vedic

NORTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.vedicrestaurant.com; 1 Gwalior Rd; mains ₹150-275; 🕒 11am-10.45pm; ❄️ 🍴)

Modern decor meets traditional ambience at this North Indian veg hot spot, with paneer (unfermented cheese) dishes featuring highly. The paneer tikka masala and Navaratan korma are particularly good. There's also a range of delicious vegetarian kebabs.

★ Pinch of Spice

MODERN INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.pinchofspice.in; Fatehabad Rd; mains ₹280-410; 🕒 noon-11.30pm)

This modern North Indian superstar is the best spot outside five-star hotels to indulge yourself in rich curries and succulent tandoori kebabs. The murg boti masala (chicken tikka swimming in a rich and spicy country gravy) and the paneer lababdar (unfermented cheese cubes in a spicy red gravy with sauteed onions) are outstanding. Located opposite the ITC Mughal Hotel.

Portions are huge.

THE SPA MAHAL

If India's most glorious monument looks particularly glowing on your visit, it could come down to a day at the spa. After years of research, Indian and American scientists have identified the culprits behind the ongoing discolouration of the mausoleum, which was originally gleaming white. The dust and air pollution that's a feature of daily life in Agra have tarnished the surface of the Taj over the years, giving it a brownish hue. More recently, a greenish tint has begun to appear, due to the excrement of millions of insects that breed in the polluted Yamuna River and are drawn to the Taj's white-ish walls.

In an effort to restore the marble to some of its earlier glory, a mud-pack cleanse has been developed – based on a traditional recipe used by Indian women to restore their own facial radiance. The next full treatment is scheduled to last from April 2017 to March 2018, using a newly improved formula that experts say won't mar the Taj's surface, as previous applications may have done. Though it should look brilliant when finished, note that if you plan to visit during cleaning time, you'll find this wonder of the world covered by scaffolding! And of course, things may not go according to schedule... So if seeing the Taj is a top priority, check to confirm that the work is complete before you book your flights.

Sadar Bazaar Area

★ Mama Chicken

DHABA $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Stall No 2, Sadar Bazaar; items ₹40-440; 🕒 noon-midnight)

This superstar dhaba is a must: duelling veg and nonveg glorified street stalls employing 24 cooks during the rush, each of whom is handling outdoor tandoors or other traditional cookware. They whip up outrageously good kathi (flatbread wrap) rolls (try chicken tikka or paneer tikka), whole chickens numerous ways, curries and chow meins for a standing-room-only crowd hell-bent on sustenance.

Bright lights, obnoxious signage and funky Indian tunes round out the festive atmosphere – a surefire Agra must.

Lakshmi Vilas

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 50A Taj Rd; mains ₹110-130; 🕒 11am-10.30pm; ❄️ 🍴)

This no-nonsense, plainly decorated, nonsmoking restaurant is the place in Agra to come for affordable South Indian fare. The thali meal (₹145), served from noon to 3.30pm and 7pm to 10.30pm, is good though comes across as relatively expensive.

Brijwasi

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sadar Bazaar; sweets from ₹320 per kg, mains ₹95-170; 🕒 7am-11pm; ❄️)

Sugar-coma-inducing selection of traditional Indian sweets, nuts and biscuits on the ground floor, with a decent-value Indian restaurant upstairs. It's most famous for its peda (milk-based sweets).

Dasaprakash

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.dasaprakashgroup.com; Meher Theater Complex, Gwailor Rd; mains ₹210-325; 🕒 noon-10.45pm; ❄️🍴)

Fabulously tasty and religiously clean, Dasaprakash whips up consistently great South Indian vegetarian food, including spectacular thalis (₹230 to ₹330), dosas and a few token Continental dishes. The ice-cream desserts (₹100 to ₹220) are another speciality. Comfortable booth seating and wood-lattice screens make for intimate dining.

STAYING AHEAD OF THE SCAMS

As well as the usual commission rackets and ever-present gem-import scam, some specific methods to relieve Agra tourists of their hard-earned cash include the following.

Rickshaws

When taking an auto- or cycle-rickshaw to the Taj, make sure you are clear which gate you want to go to when negotiating the price. Otherwise, almost without fail, riders will take you to the roundabout at the south end of Shahjahan Gardens Rd – where expensive tongas (horse-drawn carriage) or camels wait to take tour groups to the west gate – and claim that's where they thought you meant. Only nonpolluting autos can go within a 500m radius of the Taj because of pollution rules, but they can get a lot closer than this.

Fake Marble

Lots of 'marble' souvenirs are actually alabaster, or even just soapstone. So you may be paying marble prices for lower quality stones. The mini Taj Mahals are always alabaster because they are too intricate to carve quickly in marble.

Drinking & Nightlife

A night out in Agra tends to revolve around sitting at a rooftop restaurant with a couple of bottles of beer. None of the restaurants in Taj Ganj are licensed, but they can find alcohol for you if you ask nicely, and don't mind if you bring your own drinks, as long as you're discreet.

Amarvilas Bar

BAR

(GOOGLE MAP ; Taj East Gate Rd, Oberoi Amar Vilas Hotel; 🕒 noon-midnight)

For a beer or cocktail in sheer opulence, look no further than the bar at Agra's best hotel. A terrace opens out to views of the Taj. Nonguests can wander onto the terrace, but staff can be funny about it.

Costa Coffee

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.costacoffee.com; 8 Handicraft Nagar, Fatehabad Rd; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

Agra's only outlet of this UK coffee chain offers a cool and clean caffeine fix (coffee ₹90 to ₹240) off Fatahabad Rd – and wi-fi.

Café Coffee Day

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.cafecoffeeday.com; 21/101 Taj East Gate; 🕒 6am-8pm)

This AC-cooled branch of the popular cafe chain is the closest place to the Taj selling proper coffee (₹90 to ₹140). Another branch is located at Sadar Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.cafecoffeeday.com; Sadar Bazaar; 🕒 9am-11pm).

Shopping

Agra is well known for its marble items inlaid with coloured stones, similar to the pietra dura work on the Taj. Sadar Bazaar, the old town and the area around the Taj are full of emporiums.

Other popular buys include rugs, leather and gemstones, though the latter are imported from Rajasthan and are cheaper in Jaipur.

Be sure to wander narrow streets behind Jama Masjid, where the crazy maze of overcrowded lanes bursting with colourful markets is known collectively as Kinari Bazaar (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 11am-9pm Wed-Mon).

★ Subhash Emporium

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9410613616; www.subhashemporium.com; 18/1 Gwalior Rd; 🕒 9.30am-7pm)

Some of the pieces on display at this renowned marble shop are simply stunning. While more expensive than many other shops, you definitely get what you pay for: high-quality stone and master craftsmanship. Some of the work is decorative, but some is functional, such as tabletops, trays, lamp bases, and candle holders that glow from the flame inside.

Subhash Bazaar

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 8am-8pm Apr-Sep, 9am-8pm Oct-Mar)

Skirts the northern edge of Agra's Jama Masjid and is particularly good for silks and saris.

Modern Book Depot

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sadar Bazaar; 🕒 10.30am-9.30pm Wed-Mon)

Great selection of novels (plus Lonely Planet guides) at this friendly, 60-year-old establishment.

Khadi Gramodyog

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Rd; 🕒 11am-7pm Wed-Mon)

Stocks simple, good-quality men's Indian clothing made from the homespun khadi fabric famously recommended by Mahatma Gandhi. There's no English sign – on Mahatma Gandhi (MG) Rd, look for the khadi logo of hands clasped around a mud hut.

Information

Agra is more wired than most, even in restaurants. Taj Ganj is riddled with internet cafes, most charging from ₹40 per hour.

Archaeological Survey of India Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(ASI; ;  0562-2227261; www.asiagracircle.in; 22 The Mall; Indian/foreigner ₹540/1000;  9.30am-5pm Mon-Fri)

The place to buy your full-moon Taj tickets. See its website for more info.

EMERGENCY

Tourist Police

POLICE

(;  0562-2421204; Agra Cantonment Train Station;  6.30am-9.30pm)

The helpful crew in sky-blue uniforms are based on Fatahabad Rd, but have an office here in the Tourist Facilitation Centre. Officers also hang around the East Gate ticket office and the UP Tourism office on Taj Rd, as well as at major sites.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Amit Jaggi Memorial Hospital

HOSPITAL

( ;  0562-2230515, 9690107860; www.ajmh.in; off Minto Rd, Vibhav Nagar)

If you're sick, Dr Jaggi, who runs this private clinic, is the man to see. He accepts most health-insurance plans from abroad; otherwise a visit runs ₹1000 (day) or ₹2000 (night). He'll even do house calls.

SR Hospital

HOSPITAL

( ;  0562-4025200; Laurie's Complex, Namner Rd)

Agra's best private hospital.

MONEY

ATMs are everywhere. There are four close to the Taj, one near each gate (though the East Gate Axis Bank ATM is often on the fritz) and another next to the East Gate ticket office complex. If you need to change money and are worried about being swindled in Taj Ganj, there is a government-sanctioned money changer at the East Gate ticket office complex as well.

POST

India Post

POST

(GOOGLE MAP ; www.indiapost.gov.in; The Mall; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri, to 4pm Sat)

Agra's historic GPO (General Post Office) dates to 1913 and includes a handy 'facilitation office' for foreigners.

TOURIST INFORMATION

India Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0562-2226378; www.incredibleindia.org; 191 The Mall; 🕒 9am-5.30pm Mon-Fri)

Very helpful branch; has brochures on local and India-wide attractions.

Tourist Facilitation Centre

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 9.30am-5pm Sat-Thu)

This helpful tourist office is part of the East Gate ticket office complex at Shilpgram.

UP Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0562-2421204; www.up-tourism.com; Agra Cantonment Train Station; 🕒 6.30am-9.30pm)

The friendly train-station branch inside the Tourist Facilitation Centre on Platform 1 offers helpful advice and is where you can book day-long bus tours of Agra. This branch doubles as the Tourist Police. There's another UP

Tourism (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0562-2226431; www.uptourism.gov.in; 64 Taj Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) office on Taj Rd.

TRAVEL AGENCIES

Backpacker Travel

TRAVEL AGENCY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 9997113228; www.backpackertravels.com; 4/62 Kutchery Rd;

🕒 9am-9pm)

An honest agency for all your travel and transport needs, run by the friendly Anil at Tourists Rest House. English and French spoken.

Getting There & Away

AIR

There are currently no commercial flights departing from Agra's Kheria Airport, but Agra will probably see better air service in the near future, as a long-planned Taj International Airport finally received approval to be built in 2016. Officials say they plan to have it operational sometime in 2017, but it's too early to tell whether or not they'll meet that goal.

BUS

The opening of the 165km Yamuna Expressway toll highway in 2012 cut drive time from Delhi to Noida, a southeastern suburb, by 30%. Some luxury coaches now use this route and reach central Delhi faster.

Some services from Idgah Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP ; off National Hwy 2, near Sikandra):

- ➔ Bharatpur (₹65, 1½ hours, every 30 minutes, 6am to 6.30pm)
- ➔ Delhi Non-AC (₹180, 4½ hours, every 30 minutes, 5am to 11pm)
- ➔ Fatehpur Sikri (₹40, one hour, every 30 minutes, 6am to 6.30pm)
- ➔ Gwalior (₹115, three hours, hourly, 6am to 6.30pm)
- ➔ Jaipur (₹262, six hours, every 30 minutes, 5am to 11pm)
- ➔ Jhansi (₹215, six hours, 8.30pm and 10.30pm)

A block east of Idgah, just in front of Hotel Sakura, the Rajasthan State

Road Transport Corporation (RSRTC; GOOGLE MAP; 📞0562-2420228; www.rsrtc.rajasthan.gov.in) runs more comfortable coaches to Jaipur throughout the day. Services include non-AC (₹256, 5½ hours, 7.30am, 10am, 1pm and 11.59pm), AC (₹440, five hours, 6.30am and 8.30am) and luxury Volvo (₹530, 4½ hours, 11.30am and 2.30pm).

From ISBT Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP; 📞0562-2603536), luxury Volvo coaches leave for Delhi (₹595, four hours, 7am, 1pm, 3.30pm and 6.30pm) and Lucknow (₹930, 7½ hours, 10am and 10pm); there are also standard non-AC services to Gorakhpur (₹625, 16 hours, 3.30pm and 9.30pm) and Allahabad (₹450, nine hours, 4.30am, 5.30am and 4pm) which continue on to Varanasi (₹600, 13 hours). Several classes of buses to Dehra Dun also depart from here: Volvo (₹1190, 9.30pm); AC (₹700, 4.30pm); non-AC (₹425, 7pm, 8pm, 9pm and 9.30pm). A few evening buses also run to Haridwar (AC/non-AC ₹1050/400, 10 hours), from where you can transfer to a bus for Rishikesh.

Bijli Ghar Bus Stand (Agra Fort Bus Stand; GOOGLE MAP) serves Mathura (₹65, 90 minutes, every 30 minutes, 6am to 6.30pm), and also Tundla (₹35, one hour, every 30 minutes, 8am to 7pm), from where you can catch the 12382 Poorva Express train to Varanasi at 8.15pm if the trains from Agra are sold out.

➔ Shared autos (₹10) run between Idgah and Bijli Ghar bus stands. To get to ISBT, catch an autorickshaw (₹200 to ₹250, depending on where your trip starts).

TRAIN

Most trains leave from Agra Cantonment (Cantt) train station (GOOGLE MAP), although some go from Agra Fort station. A few trains, such as Kota PNBE Express, run as slightly different numbers on different days than those listed, but timings remain the same.

Express trains are well set up for day trippers to/from Delhi but trains run to Delhi all day. If you can't reserve a seat, just buy a 'general ticket' for the next train (about ₹90), find a seat in sleeper class then upgrade when the ticket collector comes along (most of the time, he won't even make you pay any more). A new semi-express train between Delhi and Agra, the Gatimaan Express, is now up and running. It travels 160km per hour (India's fastest), a full 30km per hour faster than the Shatabdi Express.

For Orchha, catch one of the many daily trains to Jhansi (sleeper from ₹165, three hours), then take a shared auto to the bus stand (₹10), from where shared autos run all day to Orchha (₹20). An autorickshaw runs ₹200 for the same route.

If you are heading to Jaipur on Thursday, the best option is 12403/12404 ALD JP Express, departing Agra at 7.15am.

DELHI-AGRA TRAINS FOR DAY TRIPPERS

TRIP	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
New Delhi–Agra	12002 Shatabdi Exp	550/1010 (A)	2	6am
Agra–New Delhi	12001 Shatabdi Exp	690/1050 (A)	2	9.15pm
Hazrat Nizamuddin–Agra	12280 Taj Exp	100/370 (B)	2¾	7am
Agra–Hazrat Nizamuddin	12279 Taj Exp	100/370 (B)	3	6.55pm
Hazrat Nizamuddin–Agra*	12050 Gatimaan Exp	755/1505 (A)	1¾	8.10am
Agra–Hazrat Nizamuddin*	12049 Gatimaan Exp	755/1505 (A)	1¾	5.50pm

Fares: (A) AC chair/ECC, (B) 2nd-class/AC chair; * departs Saturday to Monday

MORE HANDY TRAINS FROM AGRA

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Gorakhpur*	19037/9 Avadh Exp	335/910/1305	15¾	10pm

		(A)
Jaipur*	12036 Shatabdi Exp	660/1225 (C)	3½	5.40pm (except Thu)
Khajuraho	12448 UP Sampark Kranti	280/720/1010 (A)	7½	11.10pm
Kolkata (Howrah)	13008 UA Toofan Exp	555/1500 (B)	31	12.15pm
Lucknow	12180 LNJ Intercity	145/515 (D)	6	5.50am
Mumbai (CST)	12138/7 Punjab Mail	580/1530/2215 (A)	23	8.35am
Varanasi*	14854/64/66 Marudhar Exp	340/930/1335 (A)	14	8.30pm

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC/2AC, (B) sleeper/3AC only, (C) AC chair/ECC, (D) 2nd-class/AC chair; * leaves from Agra Fort station

Getting Around

AUTORICKSHAW

Just outside Agra Cantt station is the prepaid autorickshaw booth (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 24hr), which gives you a good guide for haggling elsewhere. Usually, trips shorter than 3km should not cost more than ₹50. Always agree on the fare before entering the rickshaw.

Sample prices from Agra Cantt station: Fatahabad Rd ₹150; ISBT bus stand ₹200; Sadar Bazaar ₹70; Sikandra ₹400; Taj Mahal (Taj West Gate) ₹100, Taj South Gate ₹130, Shilpgram (Taj East Gate) ₹150; half-day (four-hour) Agra tour ₹400; full-day (eight-hour) Agra tour ₹600. If you just want to shoot to the Taj and back with waiting time, they will charge ₹250. Note: autorickshaws aren't allowed to go to Fatehpur Sikri.

CYCLE-RICKSHAW

Prices from the Taj Mahal's South Gate: Agra Cantt train station ₹80; Agra Fort ₹40; Biili Ghar bus stand ₹50; Fatahabad Rd ₹30; Kinari Bazaar ₹100; Sadar Bazaar ₹50; half-day tour ₹400. Tack on another ₹10 to ₹20 if two people are riding.

TAXI

Outside Agra Cantt the prepaid taxi booth (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 24hr) gives a good idea of what taxis should cost. Non-AC prices: Delhi ₹3500; Fatahabad Rd ₹200; Sadar Bazaar ₹100; Taj Mahal ₹200; half-day (four-hour) tour ₹750; full-day (eight-hour) tour ₹1000. Prices here do not include the ₹10 booking fee and tolls or parking charges (if applicable).

DANCING BEAR RETIREMENT HOME

For hundreds of years, sloth bear cubs were stolen from their mothers (who were often killed) and forced through painful persuasion to become 'dancing bears', entertaining kings and crowds with their fancy footwork. In 1996, Wildlife SOS (www.wildlifesos.org) – an animal rescue organisation that is often called around Agra to humanely remove pythons and cobras from local homes – began efforts to emancipate all of India's 1200 or so dancing bears. By 2009, nearly all were freed, and more than 200 of them live at the Agra Bear Rescue Facility (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9756205080; www.wildlifesos.org; Sur Sarovar Bird Sanctuary; 2hr/full day ₹2000/₹4000; 🕒 9am-4pm), inside Sur Sarovar Bird Sanctuary, 30km outside of Agra on the road to Delhi.

Visitors are welcome to tour the park-like grounds and watch the bears enjoying their new, better lives. Wildlife SOS also runs a refuge for rescued circus elephants (two-hour/full day ₹1500/₹3000), closer to Mathura, which is more hands-on, as you can feed and walk with the elephants. Email or phone in advance to arrange visits.

Around Agra

Fatehpur Sikri

📞 05613 / POP 30,000

This magnificent fortified ancient city, 40km west of Agra, was the short-lived capital of the Mughal empire between 1572 and 1585, during the reign of Emperor Akbar. Earlier, Akbar had visited the village of Sikri to consult the Sufi saint Shaikh Salim Chishti, who predicted the birth of an heir to the Mughal throne. When the prophecy came true, Akbar built his new capital here, including a stunning mosque, still in use today, and three palaces, one for each of his favourite wives – one a Hindu, one a Muslim and one a Christian (though Hindu villagers in Sikri dispute these claims). The city was an Indo-Islamic masterpiece, but erected in an area that supposedly suffered from water shortages and so was abandoned shortly after Akbar's death.

It's easy to visit this World Heritage Site as a day trip from Agra, but there are a couple of decent places to stay. In addition to the main attractions, the colourful bazaar in the village of Fatehpur, just below the ruins, as well as the small village of Sikri, a few kilometres north, are worth exploring.

The palace buildings lie beside the Jama Masjid mosque. Both sit on top of a ridge that runs between Fatehpur and Sikri. The red-sandstone palace walls are at their most atmospheric and photogenic near sunset.

Sights

Jama Masjid

MOSQUE

(GOOGLE MAP)

This beautiful, immense mosque was completed in 1571 and contains elements of Persian and Indian design. The main entrance, at the top of a flight of stone steps, is through the spectacular 54m-high Buland Darwaza (Victory Gate), built to commemorate Akbar's military victory in Gujarat. Inside is the stunning white marble tomb of Sufi saint Shaikh Salim Chishti, where women hoping to have children come to tie a thread to the jalis (carved lattice screens).

The saint's tomb was completed in 1581 and is entered through an original door made of ebony. Inside it are brightly coloured flower murals, while the sandalwood canopy is decorated with mother-of-pearl shell, and the marble jalis are among the finest in India. To the right of the tomb lie the gravestones of family members of Shaikh Salim Chishti and nearby is the entrance to an underground tunnel (barred by a locked gate) that reputedly goes all the way to Agra Fort. Behind the entrance to the tunnel, on the far wall, are three holes, part of the ancient ventilation system; you can still feel the rush of cool air forcing its way through them. Just east of Shaikh Salim Chishti's tomb is the red-sandstone tomb of Islam Khan, the final resting place of Shaikh Salim Chishti's grandson and one-time governor of Bengal.

On the east wall of the courtyard is a smaller entrance to the mosque – the Shahi Darwaza (King's Gate), which leads to the palace complex.

Jama Masjid, Fatehpur Sikri | DON MAMMOSER / GETTY IMAGES ©

Palaces & Pavilions

PALACE

(Indian/foreigner ₹40/510, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

The main sight at Fatehpur Sikri is the stunning imperial complex of pavilions and palaces spread among a large, abandoned 'city' peppered with Mughal masterpieces: courtyards, intricate carvings, servants quarters, vast gateways and ornamental pools.

A large courtyard dominates the northeast entrance at Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audiences). Now a pristinely manicured garden, this is where Akbar presided over the courts – from the middle seat of the five equal seatings along the western wall, flanked by his advisors. It was built to utilise an echo sound system, so Akbar could hear anything at any time from anywhere in the open space. Justice was dealt with swiftly if legends are to be believed, with public executions said to have been carried out here by elephants trampling convicted criminals to death.

The Diwan-i-Khas (Hall of Private Audiences), found at the northern end of the Pachisi Courtyard, looks nothing special from the outside, but the interior is dominated by a magnificently carved stone central column. This pillar flares to create a flat-topped plinth linked to the four corners of the room by narrow stone bridges. From this plinth Akbar is believed to have debated with scholars and ministers who stood at the ends of the four bridges.

Next to Diwan-i-Khas is the Treasury, which houses secret stone safes in some corners (one has been left with its stone lid open for visitors to see). Sea monsters carved on the ceiling struts were there to protect the fabulous wealth once stored here. The so-called Astrologer's Kiosk in front has roof supports carved in a serpentine Jain style.

Just south of the Astrologer's Kiosk is Pachisi Courtyard, named after the ancient game known in India today as ludo. The large, plus-shaped game board is visible surrounding the block in the middle of the courtyard. In the southeast corner is the most intricately carved structure in the whole complex, the tiny but elegant Rumi Sultana, which was said to be the palace built for Akbar's Turkish Muslim wife. Other theories say it was used by Akbar himself as a palace powder room or for a rest break during court sessions. On one corner of the Ladies Garden just west of Pachisi is the impressive Panch Mahal, a pavilion with five storeys that decrease in size until the top consists of only a tiny kiosk. The lower floor has 84 different columns; in total there are 176 columns.

Continuing anticlockwise will bring you to the Ornamental Pool. Here, singers and musicians would perform on the platform above the water while Akbar watched from the pavilion in his private quarters, known as Daulat Khana (Abode of Fortune). Behind the pavilion is the Khwabgah (Dream House), a sleeping area with a huge stone bunk bed. Nowadays the only ones sleeping here are bats, hanging from the ceiling; the small room in the far corner is full of them.

Heading west from the Ornamental Pool reveals the Palace of Jodh Bai, and the one-time home of Akbar's Hindu wife, said to be his favourite. Set around an enormous courtyard, it blends traditional Indian columns, Islamic cupolas and turquoise-blue Persian roof tiles. Just outside, to the left of Jodh Bai's former kitchen, is the Palace of the Christian Wife. This was used by Akbar's Goan wife Mariam, who gave birth to Jehangir here in 1569. (Some believe Akbar never had a Christian wife and that Mariam was short for Mariam-Ut-Zamani, a title he gave to Jodh Bai meaning 'Beautiful like a Rose', or 'Most Beautiful Woman on Earth'.) Like many of the buildings in the palace complex, it contains elements of different religions, as befitted Akbar's tolerant religious beliefs. The domed ceiling is Islamic in style, while remnants of a wall painting of the Hindu god Shiva can also be found.

Walking past the Palace of the Christian Wife once more will take you west to Birbal Bhavan, ornately carved inside and out, and thought to have been the living quarters of one of Akbar's most senior ministers. The Lower Haramsara, just to the south, housed Akbar's large number of live-in female servants.

Plenty of ruins are scattered behind the whole complex, including the Caravanserai, a vast courtyard surrounded by rooms where visiting merchants stayed. Badly defaced carvings of elephants still guard Hathi Pol (Elephant Gate), while the remains of the small Stonecutters' Mosque and a hammam (bath) are also a short stroll away. Other unnamed ruins can be explored north of what is known as the Mint but is thought to have in fact been stables, including some in the interesting village of Sikri to the north.

Archaeological Museum

MUSEUM

(near Diwan-i-Am; 🕒 9am-5pm Sat-Thu) FREE

Inaugurated in 2014 inside Akbar's former Treasury house, this museum about 100m from Diwan-i-Am showcases pre-Mughal artefacts excavated over many years at Fatehpur Sikri. Small but well presented, highlights include a few remarkably preserved sandstone Jain tirthankars (the 24 holy Jain supreme beings) dating between AD 982 and 1034.

Fatehpur Sikri

A WALKING TOUR OF FATEHPUR SIKRI

You can enter this fortified ancient city from two entrances, but the northeast entrance at Diwan-i-Am (Hall of Public Audiences) offers the most logical approach to this remarkable Unesco World Heritage site. This large courtyard (now a garden) is where Emperor Akbar presided over the trials of accused criminals. Once through the ticket gate, you are in the northern end of the 1 Pachisi Courtyard. The first building you see is 2 Diwan-i-Khas (Hall of Private Audiences), the interior of which is dominated by a magnificently carved central stone column. Pitch south and enter 3 Rumi Sultana, a small but elegant palace built for Akbar's Turkish Muslim wife. It's hard to miss the 4 Ornamental Pool nearby – its southwest corner provides Fatehpur Sikri's most photogenic angle, perfectly framing its most striking building, the five-storey Panch Mahal, one of the gateways to the Imperial Harem Complex, where the 5 Lower Haramsara once housed more than 200 female servants. Wander around the Palace of Jodh Bai and take notice of the towering ode to an elephant, the 21m-high 6 Hiran Minar, in the distance to the northwest. Leave the palaces and pavilions area via Shahi Darwaza (King's Gate), which spills into India's second-largest mosque courtyard at 7 Jama Masjid. Inside this immense and gorgeous mosque is the sacred 8 Tomb of Shaikh Salim Chishti. Exit through the spectacular 9 Buland Darwaza (Victory Gate), one of the world's most magnificent gateways.

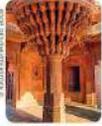

Buland Darwaza
Most tours end with an exit through Jama Masjid's Victory Gate. Walk out and take a look behind you. Behold! The magnificent 15-storey sandstone gate, 54m high, is a menacing monolith to Akbar's reign.

Hiran Minar
This bizarre, seldom-visited tower off the northwest corner of Fatehpur Sikri is decorated with hundreds of stone representations of elephant tusks. It is said to be the place where Minar, Akbar's favourite execution elephant, died.

Diwan-i-Khas
Emperor Akbar modified the central stone column inside Diwan-i-Khas to call attention to a new religion he called Din-i-Ilahi (God is One). The intricately carved column features a fusion of Hindu, Muslim, Christian and Buddhist imagery.

Pachisi Courtyard
Under your feet just past Rumi Sultana is the Pachisi Courtyard where Akbar is said to have played the game pachisi (an ancient version of ludo) using slave girls in colourful dress as pieces.

Rumi Sultana
Don't miss the headless creatures carved into Rumi Sultana's palace interiors: a lion, deer, an eagle and a few peacocks were beheaded by jewel thieves who swiped the precious jewels that originally formed their heads.

Ornamental Pool
Tansen, said to be the most gifted Indian vocalist of all time and one of Akbar's treasured nine Navarathnas (Gems), would be showered with coins during performances from the central platform of the Ornamental Pool.

Lower Haramsara
Akbar reportedly kept more than 500 concubines, but the 200 or so female servants housed in the Lower Haramsara were strictly business. Knots were tied to these sandstone rings to support partitions between their individual quarters.

Tomb of Shaikh Salim Chishti
Each knot in the strings tied to the 56 carved white marble designs of the interior walls of Shaikh Salim Chishti's tomb represents one wish of a maximum three.

Jama Masjid
The elaborate marble inlay work at the Bodshahi Gate and throughout the Jama Masjid complex is said to have inspired similar work 62 years later at the Taj Mahal in Agra.

Tours

Official Archaeological Society of India guides can be hired from the ticket office for ₹450 (English), but they aren't always the most knowledgeable (some are guides thanks to birthright rather than qualifications). The best guides are available in Agra, and charge ₹750. Our favourite is Pankaj Bhatnagar (8126995552; ₹750); he prefers to be messaged on WhatsApp.

Sleeping & Eating

Fatehpur Sikri's culinary specialty is khataie, the biscuits you can see piled high in the bazaar. For restaurants, head to one of the hotels.

Hotel Goverdhan

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP;  05613-282643; www.hotelfatehpursikriviews.com; Agra Rd; r ₹750-950, with AC ₹1300;   )

There are a variety of rooms at this old-time favourite, all of which surround a very well-kept garden. There's a communal balcony and terrace seating, free wi-fi, new beds in every room, air-coolers in the non-ACs and CCTV. The restaurant does decent work as well (meals ₹70 to ₹180).

Hotel Ajay Palace

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP;  9548801213; Agra Rd; r ₹500)

This friendly family-run guesthouse isn't pretty but offers a few very simple and cheap double rooms with marble floors and sit-down flush toilets. It's also a very popular lunch stop (mains ₹50 to ₹150). Sit on the rooftop at the large, elongated marble table and enjoy a view of the village streets with the Jama Masjid towering above.

Note that it's not 'Ajay Restaurant By Near Palace' at the bus stand – it's 50m further along the road.

Information

DANGERS & ANNOYANCES

Take no notice of anyone who gets on the Fatehpur Sikri–Agra bus before the final stop at Idgah Bus Stand, telling you that you have arrived at the city centre or the Taj Mahal. You haven't. You're still a long autorickshaw ride away, and the man trying to tease you off the bus is – surprise surprise – an autorickshaw driver.

i Getting There & Around

From the Fatehpur bus stand, buses run to Agra's Idgah Bus Stand every half-hour (₹40) from 5.30am to 6.30pm. If you miss those, walk 1km to Agra Gate and another 350m to Bypass Crossing Stop on the main road and wave down an Agra-bound bus. They pass every 30 minutes or so, day and night.

For Bharatpur (₹25, 40 minutes) or Jaipur (₹190, 4½ hours), wave down a westbound bus from Bypass Crossing Stop.

Regular trains for Agra Fort Station leave Fatehpur Sikri at 4.43am (59811 Haldighati Pass) and 8.16pm (19037/9 Avadh Express), but there are simpler passenger trains at 10.14am and 3.54pm, as well as four other trains that fly through at various times. Just buy a 'general' ticket at the station and pile in (₹20, one to two hours).

Uttar Pradesh

Uttar Pradesh Highlights

Varanasi

Sarnath

Gorakhpur

Kushinagar

Sunauli & the Nepal Border

Lucknow

Ayodhya & Around

Allahabad

Western Uttar Pradesh

Mathura

Vrindavan

Uttar Pradesh

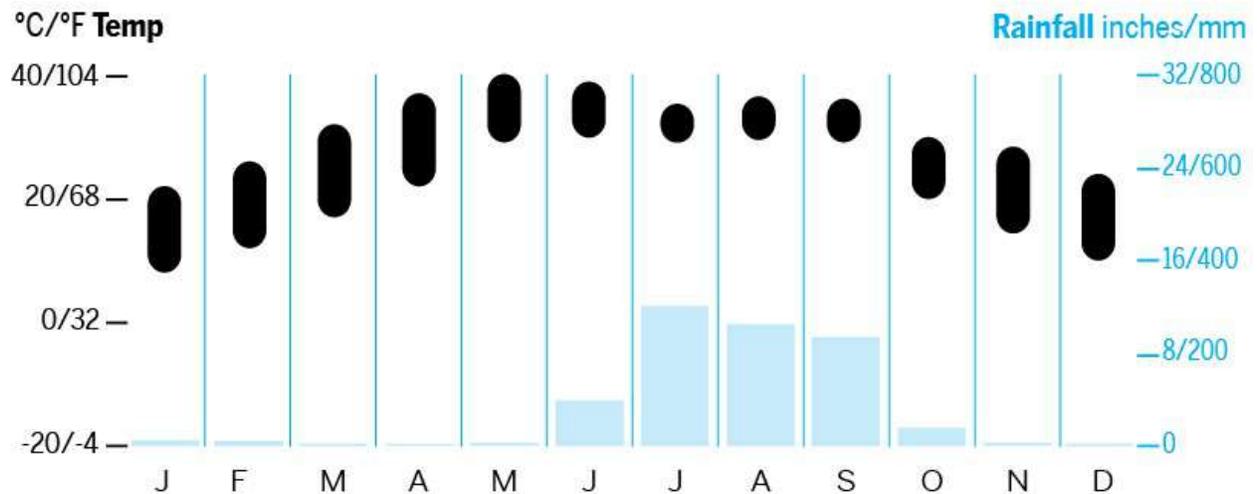

Why Go?

There are few states more quintessentially Indian than Uttar Pradesh. The subcontinent's historic and religious roots – Hindu, Buddhist, Islamic and secular – intertwine in this land of sacred rivers and vast plains, manifesting in sights of profound importance.

Aside from iconic Agra, UP is home to Varanasi, India's holiest city, famed for its cremation ghats and vibrant ceremonies along the Ganges River. Stories tell us that Krishna was born in Mathura, while Rama was born in Ayodhya – a place of tragic conflict in modern times that reveals much about the shadow side of the collective Indian psyche. Buddha gave his first sermon in Sarnath and died in Kushinagar, now tranquil pilgrimage destinations. And the Mughals and the Nawabs made their marks as well, leaving behind architectural and gastronomic masterpieces – particularly in Lucknow (and of course Agra). UP offers more than enough to satisfy the senses – and curiosities – of any traveller.

When to Go

Varanasi

- mid-Sep–Oct Monsoon rains are mostly over and temperatures have cooled...just enough.
- Nov–Feb Comfortable winter days and nippy nights means it's cool but overcrowded.
- Mar With evening chills subsided and raging midsummer heat still at bay, some say it's perfect.

Best Places to Eat

- Oudhyana
- Darbangha
- Tunday Kababi
- Eat On

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Brijrama Palace
- ➔ Kanchan Villa
- ➔ Hotel Ganges View
- ➔ Ganpati Guesthouse

Uttar Pradesh Highlights

- 1 Varanasi Having your mind blown in India as you've always imagined it, with sacred ghats along the Ganges and a maze of alleyways with surprises around every corner.
- 2 Lucknow Eating in the kebab capital of India, then strolling among impressively ornamented Mughal architecture.
- 3 Sarnath Roaming the peaceful park where Buddha delivered his first sermon.
- 4 Allahabad Joining 100 million devotees who converge at the confluence of two (or three) sacred rivers during the Kumbh Mela.

5 Chitrakut Experiencing Hindu devotions on a less overwhelming scale at this laid-back riverside town.

6 Vrindavan Temple-hopping at this spiritual centre and international home of the Hare Krishnas.

7 Ayodhya Veering off the beaten path to Lord Rama's mythic birthplace.

History

More than 2000 years ago this region was part of Ashoka's great Buddhist empire, remnants of which can be found in the ruins at the pilgrimage centre of Sarnath near Varanasi. Muslim raids from the northwest began in the 11th century, and by the 16th century the region was part of the Mughal empire, with its capital in Agra, then Delhi and, for a brief time, Fatehpur Sikri.

Following the decline of the Mughal empire, Persians stepped in briefly before the Nawabs of Avadh rose to prominence in the central part of the region, notably around the current capital of Lucknow. The Nawabs were responsible for turning Lucknow into a flourishing centre for the arts, culture and culinary delights, which continues to this day. But their empire came to a dramatic end when the British East India Company deposed the last nawab, triggering the First War of Independence (Indian Uprising) in 1857. During the 147-day Siege of Lucknow, British Chief Commissioner Sir Henry Lawrence was killed defending the British Residency, which remains in remarkable preservation in Lucknow.

Agra was later merged with Avadh and the state became known as United Province. It was renamed Uttar Pradesh after Independence and has since been the most dominant state in Indian politics, producing half of the country's prime ministers, most of them from Allahabad (locus of the Nehru/Gandhi dynasty). The people of UP don't seem to have benefited much from this, though, as poor governance, a high birth rate, a low literacy rate and an erratic electricity supply have held back the state's economic progress over the past 70 years.

In 2000, the mountainous northwestern part of the state was carved off to create the new state of Uttaranchal, now called Uttarakhand.

VARANASI

📍 0542 / POP 1.4 MILLION

Varanasi is the India of your imagination. One of the most colourful and fascinating places on earth, surprises abound around every corner.

This is one of the world's oldest continually inhabited cities, and one of the holiest in Hinduism. Pilgrims come to the ghats lining the Ganges to wash away sins in the sacred waters or to cremate their loved ones. It's a particularly auspicious place to die, since expiring here offers moksha (liberation from the cycle of rebirth).

Most visitors agree Varanasi is magical – but not for the faint-hearted. Intimate rituals of life and death take place in public, and the sights, sounds and smells on the ghats – not to mention almost constant attention from touts – can be intense. Still, the so-called City of Light may turn out to be your favourite stop of all. Walking the ghats and alleyways or watching sunrise from a boat can be unforgettable.

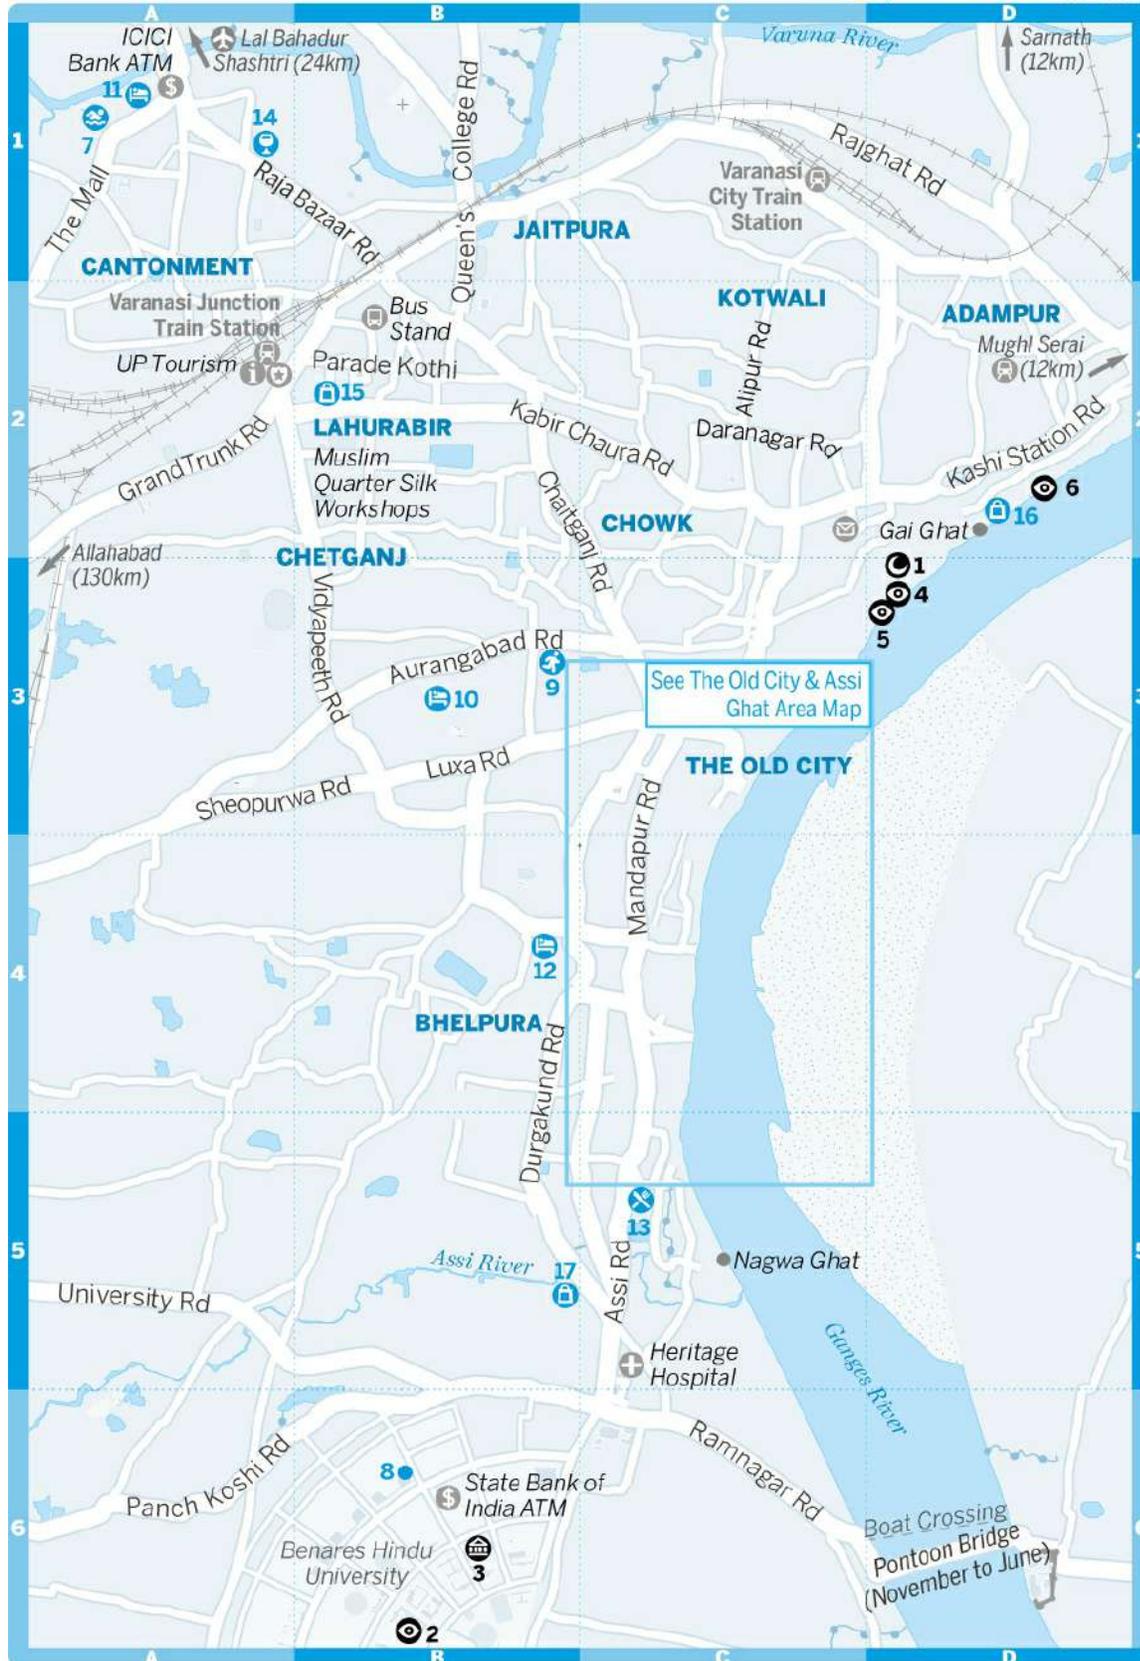

History

Thought to date back to around 1200 BC, Varanasi really rose to prominence in the 8th century AD, when Shankaracharya, a reformer of Hinduism, established Shiva worship as the principal sect. The Afghans destroyed Varanasi around AD 1300, after laying waste to nearby Sarnath, but the fanatical Mughal emperor Aurangzeb was the most destructive, looting and destroying almost all of the temples.

The old city of Varanasi may look antique, but few buildings are more than a couple of hundred years old. Rajas and other wealthy families from around India built palaces and mansions along the ghats to be close to the sacred river; most of these are now in states of serious disrepair, though a few have been bought by hotel companies and renovated into something resembling their previous glory.

Varanasi

Varanasi

Sights

1	Alamgir Mosque	D3
2	Benares Hindu University	B6
3	Bharat Kala Bhavan	B6
4	Panchganga Ghat	D3
5	Ram Ghat	D3
6	Trilochan Ghat	D2

Activities, Courses & Tours

	Aarna Spa	A1
7	Hotel Clarks Varanasi	A1
8	International Centre	B6
9	Learn for Life Society	B3

Sleeping

10	Homestay	B3
11	Hotel Surya	A1
12	Stops Hostel	B4

Eating

	Canton Royale	A1
13	Open Hand	C5

Drinking & Nightlife

	Mangi Ferra	A1
14	Prinsep Bar	A1

Shopping

15	Mehrotra Silk Factory	B2
16	Mehrotra Silk Factory	D2
17	Shri Gandhi Ashram Khadi	B5

Sights

★ Vishwanath Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Golden Temple; MAP GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 3am-11am, 12.30-8pm & 9-11pm)

There are temples at almost every turn in Varanasi, but this is the most famous of the lot. It is dedicated to Vishveswara – Shiva as lord of the universe. The current temple was built in 1776 by Ahalya Bai of Indore; the 800kg of gold plating on the tower and dome was supplied by Maharaja Ranjit Singh of Lahore 50 years later.

The area is full of soldiers because of security issues and communal tensions. Bags, cameras, mobile phones, pens and any electronic device must be deposited in lockers (₹20) before you enter the alleyway it's in – or just leave your stuff at your hotel. Though accounts vary as to whether or not foreigners can go in the temple itself, we found it to be fairly straightforward: Head to Gate 2 (MAP GOOGLE MAP), where security will instruct you to walk past the long lines of Indians waiting in the queue, then go through a metal detector and security check. Walk past another line of Indians until you are pointed to a desk, where you must show your passport (not a copy) and leave your shoes. Then enter the temple through a door across the alley.

Once inside, things can be quite intense, with people pushing and tripping over each other for a chance to give an offering and touch the lingam (phallic symbol of Shiva), which absolves one of all sins. At other times, it's much more peaceful. Hindus routinely wait in lines for 48 hours to enter on particularly holy days.

On the northern side of Vishwanath Temple is the Gyan Kupor Well (Well of Knowledge; MAP GOOGLE MAP). The faithful believe drinking its water leads to a higher spiritual plane, though they are prevented from doing so by a strong security screen. Non-Hindus are not allowed to enter here, and the rule is strictly enforced.

Benares Hindu University

UNIVERSITY, HISTORIC SITE

(BHU; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.bhu.ac.in)

Long regarded as a centre of learning, Varanasi's tradition of top-quality education continues today at Benares Hindu University, established in 1916. The wide, tree-lined streets and parkland of the 5-sq-km campus offer a peaceful atmosphere a world away from the city outside. On campus is Bharat Kala Bhavan (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹10/150; 🕒 10am-5.30pm Mon-Fri), a roomy museum with a wonderful collection of miniature paintings, as well as 12th-century palm-leaf manuscripts, sculptures and local history displays.

Ghats

Spiritually enlightening and fantastically photogenic, Varanasi is at its brilliant best by the ghats, the long stretch of steps leading down to the water on the western bank of the Ganges. Most are used for bathing but there are also several 'burning ghats' where bodies are cremated in public. The main one is Manikarnika: you'll often see funeral processions threading their way through the backstreets to this ghat.

The best time to visit the ghats is at dawn, when the river is bathed in a mellow light as pilgrims come to perform puja (prayers) to the rising sun, and at sunset when the main ganga aarti (river worship ceremony) takes place at Dashashwamedh Ghat.

About 80 ghats border the river, but the main group extends from Assi Ghat, near the university, northwards to Raj Ghat, near the road and rail bridge.

A boat trip along the river provides the perfect introduction, although for most of the year the water level is low enough for you to walk freely along the whole length of the ghats. It's a world-class 'people-watching' stroll as you mingle with the fascinating mixture of people who come to the Ganges not only for a ritual bath but also to wash clothes, do yoga, offer blessings, sell flowers, get a massage, play cricket, wash their buffaloes, improve their karma by giving to beggars or simply hang around.

Southern Stretch

★ Assi Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

The furthest south of the main ghats and one of the biggest, Assi Ghat is particularly important as the River Assi meets the Ganges near here and pilgrims come to worship a Shiva lingam (phallic image of Shiva) beneath a peepul tree. Evenings are particularly lively, as the ghat's vast concreted area fills up with hawkers and entertainers. There's also music and yoga at sunrise. It's a popular starting point for boat trips and there are some excellent hotels here.

Tulsi Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Named after a 16th-century Hindu poet, Tulsi Ghat has fallen down towards the river, but in the month of Kartika (October/November) a festival devoted to Krishna is celebrated here.

Bachraj Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This small ghat is marked by three Jain temples.

Shivala Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A small Shiva temple and a 19th-century mansion built by Nepali royalty sit back from Shivala Ghat, built by the local maharaja of Benares.

Hanuman Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Popular with Rama devotees (Hanuman was Rama's stalwart ally in his quest to rescue Sita from the demon Ravana).

★ Harishchandra Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Harishchandra Ghat is a cremation ghat – smaller and secondary in importance to Manikarnika, but one of the oldest ghats in Varanasi.

Kedar Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A colourful ghat with many steps and a small pool, where a fire aarti is held every evening at 6.30pm.

The Old City & Assi Ghat Area

The Old City & Assi Ghat Area

Top Sights

1	Assi Ghat	B7
2	Dashashwamedh Ghat	C2
3	Harishchandra Ghat	B5
4	Manikarnika Ghat	D1
5	Vishwanath Temple	C1

Sights

6	Bachraj Ghat	B6
7	Dattatreya Ghat	D1
8	Gate 2	C1
9	Gyan Kupor Well	C1
10	Hanuman Ghat	B5
11	Kedar Ghat	B4
12	Man Mandir Ghat	C2
13	Scindhia Ghat	D1
14	Shivala Ghat	B5
15	Tulsi Ghat	B7

Activities, Courses & Tours

16	International Music Centre Ashram	B2
17	Pragati Hindi	B4
18	Swasthya Vardhak	A7
19	Yoga Training Centre	C1

Sleeping

20	Brijrama Palace	C2
21	Brown Bread Bakery Guesthouse	B3
22	BunkedUp Hostel	B3
23	Ganpati Guesthouse	C1
24	Hotel Alka	C1
25	Hotel Ganges View	B7
26	Kedareswar	B4
27	Palace on Ganges	B7
28	Rashmi Guest House	C2
29	Sahi River View Guesthouse	B7

Eating

30	Aum Cafe	B7
31	Ayyar's Cafe	B2
32	Bhumi French Bakers	B3
33	Bona Cafe	B3
	Brown Bread Bakery	B3
	Darbangha	C2
	Dolphin Restaurant	C2
34	Keshari Restaurant	B1
	Vegan & Raw	A7

Drinking & Nightlife

35	Blue Lassi	C1
----	----------------------------	----

Shopping

36	Baba Blacksheep	A4
37	Organic by Brown Bread Bakery	A7

Transport

38	Cycle Repair Shop	A7
----	-----------------------------------	----

Old City Stretch

★ Dashashwamedh Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Varanasi's liveliest and most colourful ghat. The name indicates that Brahma sacrificed (medh) 10 (das) horses (aswa) here. In spite of the oppressive boat owners, flower sellers, massage practitioners and touts trying to drag you off to a silk shop, it's a wonderful place to linger and people-watch while soaking up the atmosphere. Every evening at 7pm an elaborate ganga aarti (river worship) ceremony with puja (prayers), fire and dance is staged here.

It's easily reached at the end of the main road from Godaulia Crossing.

Man Mandir Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Just north of Dashashwamedh Ghat, Man Mandir Ghat was built in 1600 by Raja Man Singh, but was poorly restored in the 19th century. The northern corner of the ghat has a fine stone balcony.

★ Manikarnika Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Manikarnika Ghat, the main burning ghat, is the most auspicious place for a Hindu to be cremated. Dead bodies are handled by outcasts known as doms, and are carried through the alleyways of the Old City to the holy Ganges on a bamboo stretcher, swathed in cloth. The corpse is doused in the Ganges prior to cremation.

Huge piles of firewood are stacked along the top of the ghat; every log is carefully weighed on giant scales so that the price of cremation can be calculated. Each type of wood has its own price, sandalwood being the most expensive. There is an art to using just enough wood to completely incinerate a corpse. You can watch cremations but always show reverence by behaving respectfully. Photography is strictly prohibited. You're almost guaranteed to be led by a priest, or more likely a guide, to the upper floor of a nearby building from where you can watch cremations taking place, and then asked for a donation (in dollars) towards the cost of wood. If you don't want to make a donation, don't follow them.

Above the steps here is a tank known as the Manikarnika Well. Parvati is said to have dropped her earring here and Shiva dug the tank to recover it, filling the depression with his sweat. The Charanpaduka, a slab of stone between the well and the ghat, bears footprints made by Vishnu. Privileged VIPs are cremated at the Charanpaduka, which also has a temple dedicated to Ganesh.

Dattatreya Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Dattatreya takes its name from a Brahmin saint, whose footprint is preserved in a small temple nearby.

Scindhia Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Scindhia Ghat was originally built in 1830, but was so huge and magnificent that it collapsed into the river and had to be rebuilt.

Northern Stretch

Ram Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

North from Scindhia Ghat, Ram Ghat was built by a maharaja of Jaipur.

Panchganga Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Just beyond Ram Ghat, this ghat marks where five holy rivers are supposed to meet.

Alamgir Mosque

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Dominating Panchganga Ghat, this small mosque was built by Aurangzeb on the site of a large Vishnu temple.

Trilochan Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

At Trilochan, two turrets emerge from the river, and the water between them is especially holy.

THE VARANASI SHAKEDOWN

- Don't take photos at the 'burning' ghats and resist offers to 'follow me for a better view', where you'll be pressured for money and possibly be placed in an uncomfortable situation.
- Do not go to any shop with a guide or autorickshaw driver. Be firm and don't do it. Ever. You will pay 40% to 60% more for your item due to insane commissions, and you'll also be passively encouraging this practice. Do yourself a favour and walk there, or have your ride drop you a block away.
- Imposter stores are rampant in Varanasi, usually spelled one letter off or sometimes exactly the same. The shops we have recommended are the real deal. Ask for a visiting card (ie business card) – if the info doesn't match, you have been had.
- When negotiating with boatmen, confirm the price and currency before setting out. Many just love to say '100!' and then at the end claim they meant dollars or euros.
- Do not book unofficial guides, which are whom most guesthouses hire. If you want a guide, go through UP Tourism to avoid most of the hassles above. If not, have fun shopping!
- Be wary of bhang lassis – these are made with hash (degraded cannabis) and can be very strong if that's not what you're looking for (we've heard reports of robberies of intoxicated people).
- Beware of fake 'yoga teachers' who are mainly interested in hands-on lessons with young women.

Activities

It's worth an early rise for two of your mornings in Varanasi, one to take in the action on a river-boat trip and another to experience the hubbub of activity on the ghats themselves. Nonguests can use the outdoor swimming pools at Hotel Surya for ₹300 and Hotel Clarks Varanasi (MAP GOOGLE MAP); The Mall; nonguests ₹500; 🕒 9am-6pm).

DarkLotus

YOGA

(www.banarasyoga.com)

Taking yoga out of the studio and around the sacred sites of Varanasi, these highly recommended classes are set along the river and at temples around the city. Contact through the website for courses and prices.

Aarna Spa

MASSAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0542-2508465; www.hotelsuryavns.com; Hotel Surya, S-20/51A-5 The Mall Rd; massage from ₹1400; 🕒 8am-8pm)

Hotel Surya's spa is a nice choice for soothing ayurvedic massages.

Swasthya Vardhak

AYURVEDA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0542-2312504; www.swasthyavardhak.in; Assi Crossing; 🕒 8am-7.30pm) 🌿

Varanasi is full of ayurvedic imposters. Serious seekers should come here, the city's real-deal ayurvedic pharmacy. Consultations with a doctor are free (from 9am to noon and 5pm to 7.30pm); prescriptions run from ₹20 to ₹2000. Additionally, it works with a government initiative that encourages struggling local farmers to turn over a new leaf planting ayurvedic herbs.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Magh Mela (Allahabad; 🕒 Jan/Feb) A huge annual religious fair that transforms into the world's largest human gathering, the Kumbh Mela, every 12th year (next in 2025).

Holi Perhaps the world's most colorful festival. Prepare to be powdered!

Purnima (🕒 Apr or May) Buddha's birthday party.

Janmastami Krishna's birthday party.

Dev Diwali (Ganga Diwali; Varanasi; 🕒 Nov) A festival of light in the 'City of Light'.

Ram Lila (GOOGLE MAP ; Varanasi; 🕒 Sep/Oct) The dramatic retelling of Lord Rama's quest to reclaim his wife, Sita, from the demon Ravana.

Volunteering

Learn for Life Society

VOLUNTEERING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0542-2390040; www.learn-for-life.net; D55/147 Aurangabad)

This small charity, run by two foreigners and contacted through Brown Bread Bakery, supports a unique school for disadvantaged children and a women's empowerment group, offering fairly paid work to local women. While there are some opportunities for short-term volunteers, volunteering in a classroom requires a commitment of at least a few months.

Courses

Pragati Hindi

LANGUAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9335376488; www.pragatihindi.com; B-7/176 Harar Bagh)

Readers recommend the flexibility of the one-to-one classes taught here by the amiable Rajeswar Mukherjee (Raju). Private classes start from ₹300 per hour. Call ahead, or just drop in to meet Raju and arrange a schedule. Walk up the stairs opposite Chowki Ghat and take the first left, following the 'Hindi' signs.

International Music Centre Ashram

MUSIC

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9415987283; tablateeteete@gmail.com; D33/81 Khalishpura; per class ₹400)

This family-run centre is hidden in the tangle of backstreets off Bengali Tola. It offers sitar, tabla, flute and classical-dance tuition, and performances are held every Saturday and Wednesday evening at 8pm (₹150). There's a small, easy-to-miss sign on Bengali Tola directing you here.

International Centre

LANGUAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0542-2368130; www.bhu.ac.in; C/3/3 Tagore House;  10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

If you're interested in studying at Benares Hindu University, contact this centre. Courses on offer include Hindi, Sanskrit and yoga, among others.

Yoga Training Centre

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP);  9919857895; www.yogatrainingcentrevaranasi.in; 5/15 Sakarkand Gali
2hr class group/private ₹300/800, reiki from ₹800;  8am, 10am & 4pm)

Former army clerk and yoga master Sunil Kumar and partners run set classes four times a day on the 2nd and 3rd floors of this small backstreet building near Meer Ghat (but you can drop in anytime for a session).

He teaches an integrated blend of hatha, shivananda, satyananda, pranayama and Iyengar, and serious students can continue on certificate and diploma courses in both yoga and reiki.

Tours

If time is short, UP Tourism can arrange guided tours by taxi of the major sites, including a 5.30am boat ride and an afternoon trip to Sarnath.

★ Varanasi Walks

WALKING

( 9793714111; www.varanasiwalks.com; tours ₹1000-1600)

The cultural walks on offer from this agency specialising in themed walks explore beyond the most popular ghats and temples, giving eye-opening insight into this holy city. The American founder, Jai, has lived in Varanasi for years, and most of the guides were born and raised here. Walks are available by reservation, booking online or by phone.

Sleeping

Most of Varanasi's budget hotels – and some midrange gems – are tucked among the narrow streets off the ghats. There's a concentration around Assi Ghat; others are in the bustling alleys of the Old City, between Scindhia and Meer Ghat. To experience local life, stay in a guesthouse.

For five-star luxury, there are some great choices in the neighborhoods west of the river, such as Bhelpura, Aurangabad Rd and Cantonment.

Old City Area

Brown Bread Bakery Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2450472, 9838888823; www.brownbreadbakery.com; Bengali Tola, Pandey Ghat; s without bathroom ₹250, with AC or heater ₹750, d with/without AC or heater from ₹1200/750; ❄️ 📶)

With the cleanest budget rooms in Varanasi, this well-run guesthouse is one of the best deals in town. Bonus: it shares space with the excellent restaurant of the same name and offers the best deals around on reliable sunrise boat tours – you can even arrange for breakfast on your boat! A two-minute walk from Pandey Ghat.

Hotel Alka

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2401681; www.hotelalkavns.com; 3/23 Meer Ghat; r ₹1200, with AC ₹1800-6300, without bathroom ₹700; ❄️ @ 📶)

This excellent ghat-side option could use an attentive eye on its exteriors, but the pretty much spotless rooms – either opening onto, or overlooking, a large, plant-filled courtyard over the Ganges – draw the lion's share of care here. In the far corner, a terrace juts out over Meer Ghat for one of the best views in all of Varanasi, a view shared from the balconies of eight of the pricier rooms.

BunkedUp Hostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2450508; www.bunkeduphostels.com; off Bengali Tola; dm with/without AC ₹460/360, r with/without AC ₹1500/1000; ❄️ 📶)

This brand-new hostel aims to please, with a couple of mixed-gender dorm rooms and a women-only dorm, plus some private rooms. The rooftop cafe has great views of the river, and there's a movie theatre in the basement. Currently, it's the only hostel in the Old City.

★ Ganpati Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2390057; www.ganpatiguesthouse.com; 3/24 Meer Ghat; r ₹1300-5630; 📶 @ 📶)

This old red-brick favourite has a pleasant, shaded courtyard as well as plenty of balcony space dotted around offering fine river views. Rooms are clean, brightly painted from the ceilings down and feature tasteful framed wall hangings and modern bathrooms. The best have private river-view balconies.

The least expensive rooms – very much budget offerings – are in an annexed building down the alley, which lacks the ambience of the main guesthouse. Be very wary of the aggressive monkeys!

Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9415449348; www.homestayvaranasi.in; 61/16 Sidhgiri Bagh; s ₹2300-2800, d ₹2500-3000; 📶 @ 📶)

This homestay in a 1936 colonial home in a residential neighborhood 1.5km from the Old City back alleys is a true catch. Good-hearted host Harish, a 30-year veteran of the textile industry (well-regarded, fixed-price shop on premises) has six exquisitely maintained deluxe and enormous super-deluxe rooms that are shielded from light, noise and mosquitoes. You'll truly appreciate the rest.

His wife, Malika, whips up exquisite home-cooked meals and has been known to give impromptu cooking classes. If you don't mind being a bit away from the heart of the action, it's a delightful choice.

Kedareswar

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2455568; www.kedareswarguesthouse.com; B14/1 Chowki Ghat ₹1840, with river view ₹3680, all incl breakfast; 📶 @ 📶)

Housed in a brightly painted aquamarine-green building, this friendly six-room place has cramped but immaculate rooms with sparkling bathrooms. Breakfast is served on the rooftop when it's not too hot or rainy. It's popular, so you'll want to book ahead.

Rashmi Guest House

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2402778; www.rashmiguesthouse.com; 16/28A Man Mandir Ghat; r incl breakfast ₹3200-6900; 📶 @ 📶)

Incense-scented, white-tile corridors and marble staircases lead to a variety of cramped but smart rooms boasting high marks for cleanliness and style. Many have artistically patterned walls and views of Man Mandir Ghat. Dolphin, the hotel's rooftop restaurant, is a fine place for a beer-chased evening meal and one of the Old City's few nonveg options.

★ Brijrama Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9129414141; www.brijrama.in; Munshi/Darbhanga Ghat; r ₹21,850-42,550; 📶 📶)

This meticulously renovated riverfront palace, built in 1812 and known as the Darbhanga Mahal, is simply exquisite. From the period chandeliers to the oriental rugs to the carved stone columns and artwork on the walls, this is the most authentic and luxurious heritage hotel along the ghats. Its Darbhanga restaurant may well be the best in Varanasi.

Enter from the ghats by elevator – the original was one of India's first, hoisted by horse and pulley!

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for this region are:

$ below ₹1500

$$ ₹1500–4000

$$$ above ₹4000

Assi Ghat Area

Stops Hostel

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9506118023; www.gostops.com; B20/47A2, Vijaya Nagaram Colony; tent Nov-Feb ₹250, dm from ₹500, d with AC ₹2000, all incl breakfast; 🌟@📶)

Varanasi's original hostel is in a four-story residential mansion 2km or so from Assi Ghat. Dorms in six-, eight- and 14-bed variations are livened up by colourful lockers, and there are ample hang-out spaces on various floors that cultivate the right vibe – a rare find in UP.

The few privates are basic and a bit overpriced; the real draws are the dorms, common areas and the rooftop showers, each uniquely painted by various artistic volunteers. The hostel offers all sorts of tours and activities, from cooking classes to sunrise river trips, making it easy to get the most out of your stay. It's a solid choice for the socially inclined – the only downside is its distance from the ghats.

Sahi River View Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2366730; www.sahiriverview.co.in; B1/158 Assi Ghat; s/d ₹400/800, r with AC from ₹1450, all incl breakfast; 🌟@📶)

You'll find a huge variety of rooms at this friendly place, which is better than it looks from its entrance down a side alley. Most rooms are good quality and clean, and some have interesting private balconies. Each floor has a pleasant communal seating area with river view, creating a great feeling of space throughout.

★ Hotel Ganges View

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2313218; www.hotelgangesview.co.in; Assi Ghat; r with AC ₹510/800; 🌟@📶)

Simply gorgeous, this beautifully restored and maintained colonial-style house overlooking Assi Ghat is crammed with books, artwork and antiques. Rooms are spacious and immaculate and there are some charming communal areas in which to sit and relax, including a lovely 1st-floor garden terrace. Book ahead.

Palace on Ganges

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0542-2315050; www.palaceonganges.com; B1/158 Assi Ghat; r ₹6900 9200; 📶 @ 📶)

Each room is individually themed on a regional Indian style, using antique furnishings and colourful design themes. The colonial, Rajasthan and Jodhpur rooms are among the best, but look at a few if you can, as the more expensive rooms aren't necessarily better than the less expensive ones.

Cantonment Area

Hotel Surya

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0542-2508465; www.hotelsuryavns.com; S-20/51 A-5 The Mall Rd; s/v incl breakfast from ₹3450/4025; 📶 @ 📶 📶)

Varanasi's cheapest hotel with a swimming pool, Surya has standard three-star Indian rooms, but a modern makeover in the superior and premium rooms means everything has been tightened up a bit, with stylish new furnishings, upholstery and the like – yours for ₹1500 or so more above standard rates.

Value here is palpable, as all is built around a huge lawn area that includes a colourful lounge-style bar and cafe flanked by a gorgeous, nearly 200-year-old heritage building (the former stomping grounds of a Nepali king), where the excellent-value Canton Royale (MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.hotelsuryavns.com S-20/51A-5 The Mall Rd; mains ₹200-390; 🕒 11am-11pm) is housed. There's also the good (but smoky) Sol Bar and the recommended Aarna Spa.

Eating

Look for locally grown langda aam (mangoes) in summer or sitafal (custard apples) in autumn. Singharas are water chestnuts that are sold raw (green) or cooked (black) – there's a risk of intestinal parasites with the raw ones.

Many eateries in the Old City shut in summer due to unbearable humidity and water levels that often flood the ghats and around.

Old City Area

Bhumi French Bakers

BAKERY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Bengali Tola; pastries ₹50; 🕒 6am-6pm; 📶)

This casual cafe creates some of the best pastries in Varanasi, and what might be the best chocolate croissants in all of India.

Keshari Restaurant

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 14/8 Godaulia; mains ₹130-200; 🕒 9.30am-10.30pm; 🍴)

Known as much for excellent cuisine as for surly service, this atmospheric spot (carved-wood panelling dons the walls and ceilings) has been famously at it for nearly a half-century. Indians pack in here for high-quality veg cuisine from all over India – a dizzying array of dishes are on offer (more than 40 paneer curries alone).

Those who like to dance with the devil should spring for the paneer Kadahi (spicy tomato-based gravy), sure to make your nose run. Note: this restaurant is about 20 metres down a side street off Dashashwamedh Rd. Do not confuse it with the less-desirable Keshari Ruchiker Byanjan around the corner on Dashashwamedh Rd.

Ayyar's Cafe

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dashashwamedh Rd; mains ₹35-120; 🕒 9.30am-8.30pm)

Excellent, no-nonsense choice off the tourist-beaten path for South Indian masala dosa, and its spicier cousin, the Mysore dosa; and one of the few cheapies to serve filtered coffee. It's tucked away at the end of a very short alley signed 'New Keshari Readymade' off Dashashwamedh Rd.

★ Brown Bread Bakery

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9792420450; www.brownbreadbakery.com; Bengali Tola, near Pandey Ghat; mains ₹125-400; 🕒 7am-10pm; ❄️ 📶 🍃)

This restaurant's fabulous menu includes more than 40 varieties of European-quality cheese and more than 30 types of bread, cookies and cakes – along with excellent pastas, sandwiches, pizzas and more. Sit downstairs at street level (AC in summer) or upstairs at the casual rooftop cafe, with seating on cushions around low tables and glimpses of the Ganges.

Pop in for the shockingly European breakfast buffet (7am to noon; ₹300) or the free, nightly live classical-music performances (7.30pm). Part of the profits goes to the Learn for Life school. Warning: don't be fooled by impostors who pretend to be the BBB. Note this new location (on Bengali Tola, near Pandey Ghat), and remember: the real BBB will never accept cash donations for Learn for Life.

Bona Cafe

KOREAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Bengali Tola; mains ₹100-500; 🕒 9am-10pm)

This cosy restaurant does everything well, but you really want to come here for the quality Korean food. Tasty full meals, such as jabchaebab (glass-noodle stir-fry), include soup and kimchi. Sit on floor cushions, at tables or on the patio overlooking Bengali Tola. The owner, Bona, is as kind as they come.

Dolphin Restaurant

INDIAN $$$

(Rashmi Guest House; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 16/28A Man Mandir Ghat; mains ₹130-340; 🕒 7am-10pm)

The atmosphere trumps the food at Dolphin – the rooftop restaurant at Rashmi Guest House – which is perched high above Man Mandir Ghat, but it's still a fine place for an evening meal. The breezy balcony is the most refined table in the Old City and one of the few that serves nonveg as well.

★ Darbangha

INDIAN, MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9129414141; Brijrama Palace Hotel, Munshi/Darbhanga Ghat; mains ₹750-1100, thalis ₹1750; 🕒 noon-3pm & 7.30-10.30pm)

Seriously some of the best Indian food we've ever had. The palak chaman (paneer in spinach and spices) is heaven in your mouth and the aloo chaat is a gourmet-street-food revelation. There's also a good list of continental and Thai options. For nonguests there's a minimum charge of ₹1000 per person. It's worth it.

DON'T MISS

NO 1 LASSI IN ALL VARANASI

Your long, thirsty search for the best lassi in India is over. Look no further than Blue Lassi (MAP GOOGLE MAP; lassi ₹40-90; 🕒9am-10pm; 📶), a tiny, hole-in-the-wall yoghurt shop that has been churning out the freshest, creamiest, fruit-filled lassis since 1925. The grandson of the original owner still works here, sitting by his lassi-mixing cauldron in front of a small room with wooden benches for customers to sit on and walls plastered with messages from happy drinkers.

There are more than 80 delicious flavour combos, divided by section – plain, banana, apple, pomegranate, mango, papaya, strawberry, blueberry, coconut and saffron. We think banana and apple, the latter flecked with fresh apple shreds, just about top the long list. (What the hell, make it banana-apple!)

The whole scene here is surreal: the lassi takes ages to arrive while a UN-rivalling group of thirsty nationalities chats away; when it does, it's handed off to you with the care of a priceless work of art as the deceased are carried by the front of the shop on the way to Burning Ghat (Manikarnika). Namaste!

Assi Ghat Area

Aum Cafe

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.touchoflight.us; B1/201 Assi Ghat; mains ₹70-180; 🕒8am-4.30pm Tue-Sun; 📶 🍴 🌿)

Run by an American woman who has been coming to India for more than 20 years, this colourful cafe has breakfast all day (good lemon pancakes!), astounding lemon-and-organic-green-tea lassis and a handful of light sandwiches and mains that offer a respite from all the curry. There's also massage therapy and body piercing available.

★ Open Hand

CAFE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.openhand.in; 1/128-3 Dumraub Bagh; mains ₹160-280; 🕒 8am-8pm 📶) 🌿

This shoes-off cafe-cum-gift shop serves real espresso and French-press coffee alongside breakfast platters featuring pancakes, omelettes and muesli. There's also a range of salads, sandwiches, pastas and baked goods, which are excellent. Sit on the narrow balcony or lounge around the former home all day on the free wi-fi.

There's also a large selection of gorgeous handicrafts (jewellery, toys, clothing) made in the local community. Couldn't be more pleasant.

Vegan & Raw

VEGAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Shivala Rd, near Tulsi Ghat; mains ₹170-220; 🕒 9am-9.30pm; 📶)

This casual courtyard restaurant is an offshoot of Brown Bread Bakery, featuring excellent vegan dishes, including a full page of salads from spinach-radish-walnut to papaya-pomegranate-linseed. Entrées lean toward pastas, but there's also tofu, momo (Tibetan dumplings) and couscous. Eclectic live music is performed Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at around 7pm. It's behind the Organic by Brown Bread Bakery shop.

Drinking & Nightlife

Wine and beer shops are dotted discreetly around the city, usually away from the river. (Note that it is frowned upon to drink alcohol on or near the holy Ganges.) Liquor laws regarding proximity of temples ensure nobody is licensed, but rooftops here can usually discreetly fashion up a beer. For bars, head to midrange and top-end hotels away from the ghats.

Mangi Ferra

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.hotelsuryavns.com; S-20/51A-5 The Mall Rd; 🕒 11am-11pm)

This colourful, laid-back lounge in the garden at Hotel Surya is a relaxing place where you can sip on espresso (₹70), a cold one or a cocktail (₹120 to ₹480) in the garden, or on waves of couches and armchairs.

Prinsep Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.tajhotels.com; Gateway Hotel Ganges, Raja Bazaar Rd; 🕒 noon-11pm Mon-Sat, to midnight Sun)

For a quiet drink with a dash of history, try this tiny bar named after James Prinsep, who drew wonderful illustrations of Varanasi's ghats and temples (but stick to beer as the 25ml cocktail pour is weak).

Entertainment

There's nightly live Indian classical music at Brown Bread Bakery.

The International Music Centre Ashram has small performances (₹150) on Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Shopping

Varanasi is justifiably famous for silk brocades and beautiful Benares saris, but don't believe much of what the silk salesmen tell you about the relative quality of products, even in government emporiums. Instead, shop around and judge for yourself.

There are loads of musical instrument shops on Bengali Tola (near Rana Ghat), many of which offer lessons.

★ Baba Blacksheep

FASHION & ACCESSORIES

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; B12/120 A-9, Bhelpura; 🕒 9am-8pm)

If the deluge of traveller enthusiasm is anything to go by, this is the most trustworthy, non-pushy shop in India. Indeed it is one of the best places you'll find for silks (scarves/saris from ₹500/4000) and pashmina (shawls from ₹1700).

Prices are fixed (though unmarked) and the friendly owner refuses to play the commission game, so autorickshaws and taxis don't like to come here (ignore anyone who says you cannot drive here, and make sure you're in the right place, not an imposter). It's located at Bhelpura crossing under the mosque. It's not the cheapest, but it's a pleasant experience.

Mehrotra Silk Factory

FASHION & ACCESSORIES

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.mehrotrasilk.in; 4/8A Lal Ghat; 🕒 10am-8pm)

In a labyrinth of alleys behind Lal Ghat, this fixed-price shop, its floor cushioned for seating, offers fine silks for fair prices. Grab something as small as a scarf or as big as a bedcover. There's another branch (MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.mehrotrasilk.in; 21/72 Englishia Line; 🕒 10am-8pm) near the railway station.

Organic by Brown Bread Bakery

COSMETICS, FOOD

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.brownbreadbakery.com; 2/225 Shivali; 🕒 7am-8pm; 📶) 🌿

This small shop sells natural cosmetics from the government-sponsored Khadi program, as well as baked goods, muesli and cheese from Brown Bread Bakery.

Shri Gandhi Ashram Khadi

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sankat Mochan Rd; 🕒 10am-7.30pm)

Stocks shirts, kurta shirts, saris and headscarves, all made from the famous homespun khadi fabric.

Information

There are several ATMs scattered around town, including State Bank of India in the lobby as you exit the train station.

Heritage Hospital

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2368888; www.heritagehospitals.in; Lanka)

English-speaking staff and doctors; 24-hour pharmacy.

Main Post Office

POST

(GPO; GOOGLE MAP; www.indiapost.gov.in; off Rabindranath Tagore Rd, Visheshwarganj;

 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Best PO for sending parcels abroad.

Tourist Police

POLICE

(GOOGLE MAP; UP Tourism office, Varanasi Junction train station;  5am-9pm)

Tourist police wear sky-blue uniforms.

UP Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP;  0542-2506670; www.uptourism.gov.in; Varanasi Junction Train Station;

 10am-6pm)

The patient Mr Umashankar at the office inside the train station has been dishing out reasonably impartial information to arriving travellers for years; he's a mine of knowledge, so this is a requisite first stop if you arrive here by train.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Lal Bahadur Shastri Airport, 24km north of town in Babatpur, is served by several airlines with nonstop flights to select cities in India, including Delhi, Mumbai, Bengaluru (Bangalore), and Hyderabad. Thai Airways flies directly to Bangkok on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday.

BUS

The main bus stand (GOOGLE MAP) is opposite Varanasi Junction train station. Lucknow Volvo AC buses can be reserved in advance at a dedicated ticket window at the station.

➔ Allahabad ₹120, three hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to 10pm; also eight daily AC buses for ₹193

→ Delhi AC buses ₹1227, 16 hours, 10am and 2.30pm

→ Faizabad ₹195, seven hours, frequent service from 5am to 9pm

→ Gorakhpur ₹185, seven hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to 10pm; also six daily AC buses for ₹317

→ Lucknow Non-AC ₹275, 7½ hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to 11pm; also AC buses ₹480-900, 7½ hours, 8am, 10.30am, 9pm, 9.30pm and 10.30pm

GETTING TO NEPAL

From Varanasi's bus stand there are regular services to Sunauli (₹293, 10 hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to 11pm), plus one nightly AC bus that goes all the way to Kathmandu (₹1370, 16 hours, 10pm). By train, go to Gorakhpur then transfer to a Sunauli bus. By air, you'll be connecting through Delhi. Nepali visas are available on arrival.

BUYER BEWARE: 'THROUGH' BUS TICKETS

Be wary of buying 'through' tickets from Kathmandu or Pokhara to Varanasi. Some travellers report being intimidated into buying another ticket once over the border. Travelling in either direction, it's better to take a local bus to the border, walk across and take another onward bus (pay the conductor on-board) – though there is one legit, direct Varanasi–Kathmandu bus each day (you can buy tickets from its booth at the bus stand).

Travellers have also complained about being pressured into paying extra luggage charges for buses out of Sunauli. You shouldn't have to, so politely decline.

TRAIN

Varanasi Junction train station, also known as Varanasi Cantonment (Cantt), is the main station.

There are several daily trains to Allahabad, Gorakhpur and Lucknow. A few daily trains leave for New Delhi and Kolkata/Howrah, but none go to Agra. (But there are daily trains from Mughal Sarai Junction, 18km from Varanasi, to Tundla, 24km from Agra). The direct train to Khajuraho only runs on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. On other days, go via Satna, a much larger rail transit hub from where you can catch buses to Khajuraho.

Luggage theft has been reported on trains to and from Varanasi so you should take extra care. Reports of drugged food and drink aren't unheard of, so it's probably best to politely decline any offers from strangers.

HANDY TRAINS FROM VARANASI

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURE
Agra Fort	14853 Marudhar Exp	350/950/1365 (A)	13	5.25pm
Allahabad	15159 Sarnath Exp	140/490/695 (A)	3	12.25pm
Gorakhpur	15003 Chaurichaura Exp	170/490/695 (A)	6½	12.35am
Jabalpur	12168 BSB-LTT Sup Exp	315/810/1140 (A)	8½	10.25am
Khajuraho	21108 BSB-Kurj Link E	265/720 (B)	11½	5.45pm*
Kolkata (Howrah)	12334 Vibhuti Exp	415/1100/1565 (A)	13½	6.08pm
Lucknow	14235 BSB-BE Exp	210/570/810 (A)	7¼	11.40pm
New Delhi	12561 Swatantra S Exp	415/1100/1565 (A)	12	12.40am

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC/2AC, (B) sleeper/3AC; * Monday, Wednesday, Saturday only

Getting Around

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

An autorickshaw to the airport in Babatpur, 24km northwest of the city, costs ₹350. A taxi is about ₹800.

BICYCLE

You can hire bikes from a small cycle repair shop (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 7860154166; 1/105 Assi-Dham; bike hire per day ₹30;  8am-7pm) near Assi Ghat.

CYCLE-RICKSHAW

A small ride – up to 2km – costs ₹50. Rough prices from Godaulia Crossing include Assi Ghat (₹50), Benares Hindu University (₹60) and Varanasi Junction train station (₹60). Be prepared for hard bargaining.

TAXI & AUTORICKSHAW

Prepaid booths for autorickshaws and taxis are directly outside Varanasi Junction train station and give you a good benchmark for prices around town – though it doesn't work as well as some other cities as there are usually no officials policing it, so you'll have to haggle here, too.

If the drivers are playing by the system, you'll pay an administration charge (₹5 for autorickshaws, ₹10 for taxis) at the booth then take a ticket which you give to your driver, along with the fare, once you've reached your destination. Note that taxis and autorickshaws cannot access the Dashashwamedh Ghat area between the hours of 9am and 9pm due to high pedestrian traffic. You'll be dropped at Godaulia Crossing and will need to walk the remaining 400m or so to the entrance to the Old City, or 700m or so all the way to Dashashwamedh Ghat. During banned hours, autorickshaws line up near Godaulia Crossing at a stand (GOOGLE MAP; Luxa Rd) on Luxa Rd.

Sample fares:

Airport auto/taxi ₹225/650

Assi Ghat auto/taxi ₹90/300

Godaulia Crossing auto/taxi ₹95/250

Sarnath auto/taxi ₹120/400

Half-day tour (four hours) taxi ₹500

Full-day tour (eight hours) taxi ₹900

Autorickshaws do not offer half-/full-day tours. Shared autos (GOOGLE MAP; Mandapur Rd; ₹15) to Assi Ghat and Benares University leave from Mandapur Rd.

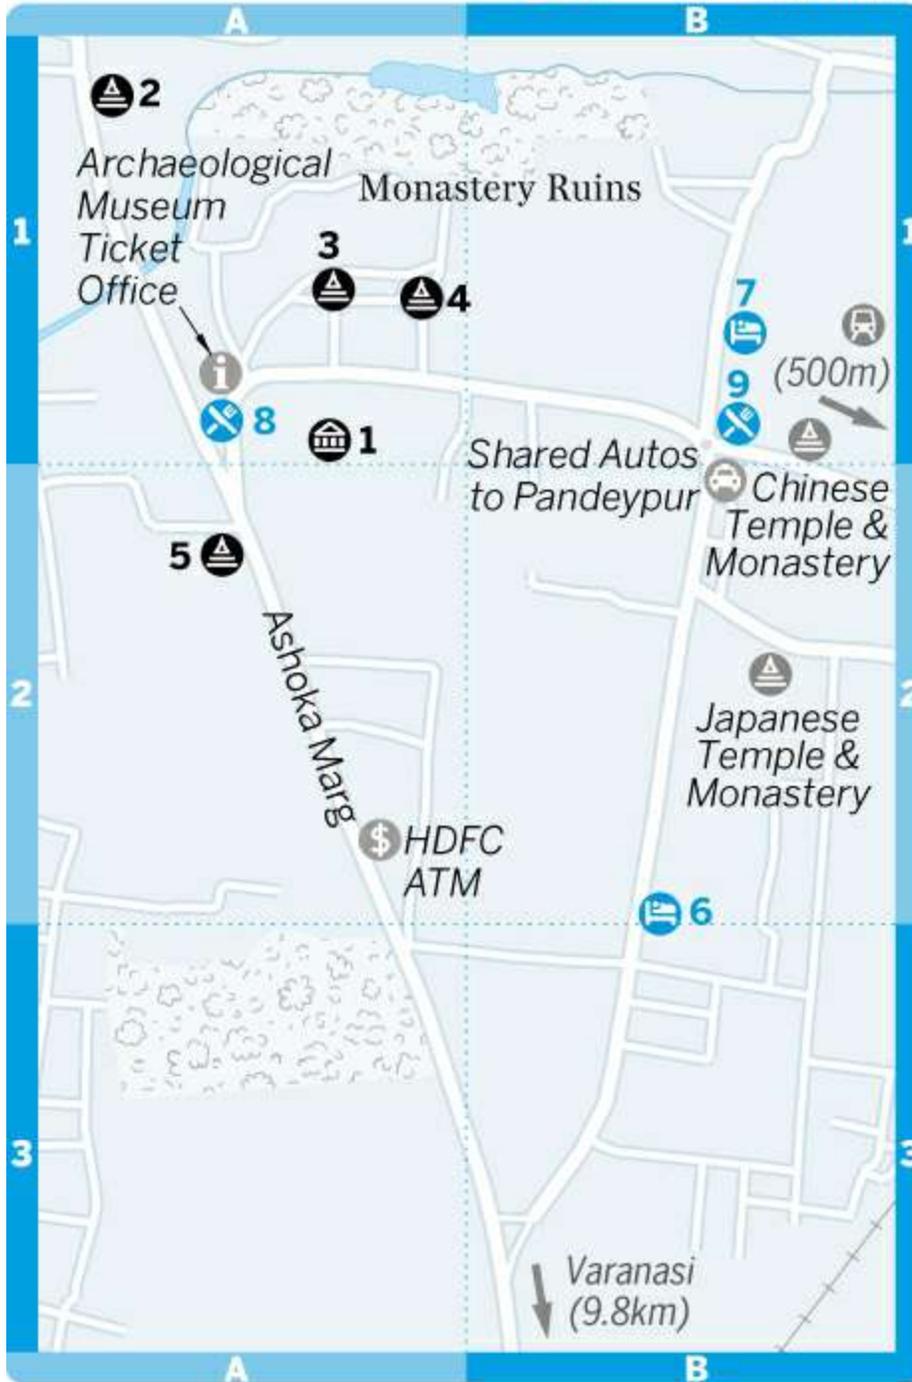

SARNATH

📍0542

Buddha came to Sarnath to preach his message of the middle way to nirvana after he achieved enlightenment at Bodhgaya, and gave his famous first sermon here. In the 3rd century BC, Emperor Ashoka had magnificent stupas and monasteries erected here, as well as an engraved pillar. When Chinese traveller Xuan Zang dropped by in AD 640, Sarnath boasted a 100m-high stupa and 1500 monks living in large monasteries. However, soon after, Buddhism went into decline and, when Muslim invaders sacked the city in the late 12th century, Sarnath disappeared altogether. It was 'rediscovered' by British archaeologists in 1835.

Today it's one of the four key sites on the Buddhist circuit (along with Bodhgaya, Kushinagar and Lumbini in Nepal) and attracts followers from around the world, especially on Purnima (or, informally, Buddha's birthday), when Buddha's life, death and enlightenment are celebrated, usually in April or May.

Sarnath

Sarnath

📍 Sights

1	Archaeological Museum	A1
2	Burmese Temple & Monastery	A1
3	Dhamekh Stupa & Monastery Ruins	A1
4	Mulgandha Kuti Vihar	A1
5	Thai Temple & Monastery	A2

Sleeping

6	Agrawal Paying Guest House	B2
7	Jain Paying Guest House	B1

Eating

8	Green Hut	A1
9	Vaishali Restaurant	B1

Sights

Purchase tickets for Sarnath's sights at the ticket office (GOOGLE MAP) opposite the Archaeological Museum gardens. In addition to the main sights, check out some of the temples and gardens created by various Buddhist nations.

Dhamekh Stupa & Monastery Ruins

BUDDHIST SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Set in a peaceful park of monastery ruins is this impressive 34m stupa, marking the spot where the Buddha preached his first sermon. The floral and geometric carvings are 5th century AD, but some of the brickwork dates back as far as 200 BC.

Nearby is the 3rd-century-BC Ashoka Pillar, engraved with an edict. It once stood 15m tall and had the famous four-lion capital, now in the museum, perched atop; all that remains are five fragments of its base.

Thai Temple & Monastery

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 6.30am-6pm Apr-Sep, 7.15am-5pm Oct-Mar)

With its unique, red-walled, white-roofed design, the temple is worth a look, but the real reason to visit are the peaceful gardens that surround it.

Burmese Temple & Monastery

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 7.30am-6pm)

The Burmese Temple features a triple-pagoda roof and several statues of the Buddha, set in lush gardens.

Archaeological Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ₹5; 🕒 9am-5pm)

This fully modernised, 100-year-old sandstone museum houses wonderfully displayed ancient treasures, such as the very well-preserved, 3rd-century-BC lion capital from the Ashoka Pillar, which has been adopted as India's national emblem, and a huge 2000-year-old stone umbrella, ornately carved with Buddhist symbols.

Mulgandha Kuti Vihar

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; video ₹25; 🕒 6am-6pm)

This turreted temple was completed in 1931 by the Mahabodhi Society, and is noted for its unique wall frescoes, which look almost like animation stills. Buddha's first sermon is chanted daily, starting between 6pm and 7pm, depending on the season. A bodhi tree growing outside was transplanted in 1931 from the tree in Anuradhapura, Sri Lanka, which in turn is said to be the offspring of the original tree in Bodhgaya.

Entry is through the Dhamekh Stupa grounds.

Sleeping & Eating

Agrawal Paying Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2595316; agrawalpg@gmail.com; 14/94 Ashok Marg; r ₹700-800)

with AC ₹1400; ❄️ 📶)

A peaceful place with a refined owner, and spotless marble-floored rooms overlooking a large garden.

Jain Paying Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0542-2595621; www.visitsarnath.com; Sa 14/37; s/d ₹500/750, r without bathroom ₹400; 📶)

This simple guesthouse is run by a friendly doctor of geography, whose wife whips up home-cooked pure veg thalis (₹180). The five rooms are rustic and well worn, but have mosquito window screens. Prices drop to ₹300 between April and September.

Vaishali Restaurant

INDIAN, CHINESE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹80-230; 🕒 8am-9pm)

Large and modern 1st-floor restaurant serving mostly Indian dishes, but some Chinese too. It's the best in town.

Green Hut

INDIAN, CHINESE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹60-230; 🕒 9am-7.30pm)

A breezy, open-sided cafe-restaurant offering snacks, thalis (₹90 to ₹140) and Chinese dishes.

i Information

HDFC (GOOGLE MAP) has an ATM.

i Getting There & Away

Local buses to Sarnath (₹20, 40 minutes) pass in front of Varanasi Junction train station, but you may wait a long time for one.

An autorickshaw costs ₹150 from Varanasi Junction train station (use that as your bargaining base if you catch one from the Old City); pay the same to get back. Or if you prefer, you can return to Varanasi in a shared auto or vikram (₹15) to Pandeypur, where you'll need to switch to another shared auto to Benia Bagh (₹15), which is just a ₹40 cycle-rickshaw ride from Godaulia.

There are unreserved trains from Varanasi to Sarnath at 6.55am (daily), 9.40am (Monday to Saturday) and 9.50pm (Sunday to Friday); hop on and pay ₹20. From Sarnath to Varanasi, catch train 15159 at 11.35am (Sarnath Express; sleeper/3AC ₹140/490, 45 minutes), or take an unreserved train at 5.43am (Sunday to Friday) or 3.38pm (Monday to Friday).

GORAKHPUR

 0551 / POP 675,000

There's little to see in Gorakhpur itself, but this well-connected transport hub is a short hop from the pilgrimage centre of Kushinagar – the place where Buddha died – making it a possible stopover on the road between Varanasi and Nepal.

Sleeping & Eating

Grand Kaushal Inn

HOTEL $

( 0551-2200690; Railway Station Rd; r from ₹600, with AC from ₹990;  )

Definitely the best choice of the hotels in front of the railway station. Rooms are on the smallish side but are modern and well kept. They offer 24-hour checkout.

Chowdhry Sweet House

MULTICUISINE, DESSERTS $

(Cinema Rd; mains ₹70-200;  7am-11pm; )

This bi-level madhouse is packed with locals taking in an extensive array of delicious Indian and Chinese veg dishes in a diner atmosphere, including ginormous dosas and excellent thalis (₹160 to ₹210). It specialises in sundaes, too, with a tasty boatload from which to choose. You can get a cycle-rickshaw ride (₹30) here from the railway station.

Shahanshah

INDIAN $$

(Royal Residency Hotel, Golghar Rd; mains ₹170-375;  11am-10.30pm)

At the Royal Residency Hotel, this restaurant is an homage to Bollywood icon Amitabh Bachhaan, featuring a wall full of headshots and a mural of the star. The atmosphere is modern and pleasant, with tasteful lighting and e-tablet menus. The food is good, too – definitely worth a visit.

Information

There are State Bank of India ATMs in the train station parking lot and across from Hotel Adarsh Palace.

UP Tourism Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(📞) 0551-2335450; (🕒) 10am-5pm Mon-Sat

Inside Gorakhpur's train station.

Getting There & Away

Frequent bus services run from the main bus stand to Faizabad (₹155, 3½ hours, every 30 minutes), Kushinagar (₹56, 1½ hours, every 30 minutes) and Sunauli (₹90, three hours, every 30 minutes). Private AC buses to Faizabad (₹245, 3½ hours) and Lucknow (₹500, six hours) also depart from here throughout the day. Faster collective cars and jeeps leave for Sunauli (per person ₹150 to ₹300, two hours) when full between 5am and 6pm, directly across from the train station.

Buses to Varanasi (₹200, seven hours, express at 7.30am then hourly 10am to 10pm) leave from the Katchari bus stand, as do buses to Allahabad (₹250, 10 hours, express at 7am, then hourly 10am to 10pm).

For the main bus stand, exit the train station and keep walking straight for about 400m. For Varanasi buses you need the Katchari bus stand, about 3km further south.

There are three daily trains (four on Tuesday and Thursday, five on Friday and Saturday) from big and bustling Gorakhpur Junction to Varanasi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹170/490/695, 5½ hours). A number of daily trains also leave for Lucknow (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹190/490/695, five hours) and Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹395/1080/1555, 14 to 17 hours) and one for Agra Fort (19038/40 Avadh Express, sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹335/910/1305, 14½ hours, 1.20pm).

The train ticket reservation office is 500m to the right as you exit the station.

KUSHINAGAR

📍 05564 / POP 23,000

One of the four main pilgrimage sites marking Buddha's life – the others being Lumbini (Nepal), Bodhgaya and Sarnath – Kushinagar is where Buddha died. There are several peaceful, modern temples where you can stay, chat with monks or simply contemplate your place in the world, and there are three main historical sights, including the simple but wonderfully serene stupa where Buddha is said to have been cremated.

Kushinagar

Kushinagar

🎯 Top Sights

1 Mahaparinirvana Temple

A3

Sights

2	Mathakuar Temple	A3
3	Ramabhar Stupa	D3
4	Wat Thai Complex	B3

Sleeping

5	Linh Son Vietnam Chinese Temple	A2
6	Tibetan Temple	A3

Eating

7	Yama Cafe	A2
---	---------------------------	----

Transport

8	Buses to Gorakhpur	A1
---	--------------------	----

Sights

In addition to the main ruins, Kushinagar's one road is lined with elaborate temples run by various Buddhist nations.

★ Mahaparinirvana Temple

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Marg; 🕒 6am-dusk)

The highlight of this modest temple, rebuilt in 1927 and set among extensive lawns and ancient excavated ruins with a circumambulatory path, is its serene 5th-century reclining Buddha, unearthed in 1876. Six metres long, it depicts Buddha on his ancient death-bed and is one of the world's most moving Buddhist icons. At sunset, monks cover the statue to the shoulders with a long saffron-coloured silk sheet, as though putting Buddha to bed for the night.

Behind the temple is an ancient 19m-tall stupa, and in the surrounding park is a large bell erected by the Dalai Lama.

Wat Thai Complex

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.watthaikusinara-th.org; Buddha Marg; 🕒 9-11.30am & 1.30-4pm)

Features an elaborate temple, beautifully maintained gardens with bonsai-style trees, a monastery and a temple containing a gilded Buddha. There's also a Sunday school and health clinic across the street, both of which welcome visitors. Unfortunately for the rest of us, accommodation is reserved for Thai citizens only.

Ramabhar Stupa

BUDDHIST SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Architecturally, this half-ruined 15m-high stupa is little more than a large, dome-shaped clump of red bricks, but there's an unmistakable aura about this place that is hard to ignore. This is where Buddha's body is said to have been cremated and monks and pilgrims can often be seen meditating by the palm-lined path that leads around the structure.

Mathakuar Temple

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Buddha Marg; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

This small shrine, set among monastery ruins, marks the spot where Buddha is said to have made his final sermon. It now houses a 3m-tall blue-stone Buddha statue, thought to date from the 10th century AD.

Sleeping & Eating

Some of the temples, which have basic accommodation for pilgrims, also welcome tourists.

Tibetan Temple

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 8795569357; Buddha Marg; d/tr ₹600/800)

By far the nicest of Kushinagar's pilgrim accommodation offerings, this a great temple choice – rooms are even nicer than in the more expensive neighbouring hotels. There's also a dormitory offering rooms by donation. Tibetan monks from Dharamsala do a one- to two-year managerial stint here and usually speak decent English.

Linh Son Vietnam Chinese Temple

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9936837270; www.linhsonnepalindiatemple.org; Buddha Marg; s/d/tr ₹400/550/800; 📶)

Simple, clean triples with private bathroom, hot water and a rare wi-fi signal.

Yama Cafe

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9956112749; Buddha Marg; mains ₹60-100; 🕒 8am-7.30pm)

Run by the welcoming Mr and Mrs Roy, this Kushinagar institution has a traveller-friendly menu that includes toast, omelettes, fried rice and thukpa (Tibetan noodle soup). It's also the best place to come for information about the area, including about the so-called Holy Hike, a 13km walk in the surrounding farmland.

i Information

There are two ATMs in town and a couple of private money changers.

Central Bank of India (GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Marg)

State Bank of India (GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Marg)

Kushinagar Clinic

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP)

Medical services operated by nearby Wat Thai.

i Getting There & Away

A new international airport has been approved nearby, but there's no firm date for its completion.

Frequent buses to Gorakhpur (₹56, 1½ hours) can be flagged down along the main road, in the middle lane across from the yellow archway entrance to town.

SUNAULI & THE NEPAL BORDER

 05522 / POP 700

Sunauli is a dusty town that offers little more than a bus stop, a couple of hotels, a few shops and a border post. The border is open 24 hours and the crossing is straightforward, so most travellers carry on into Nepal without stopping here, pausing just long enough to get their passport stamped. Some move on to the nearby town of Bhairawa (officially named Siddharthanagar), while others get straight on a bus to Kathmandu or Pokhara.

Buses drop you just a few hundred metres from the Indian immigration office (and jeeps at its doorstep) – it's on the main road in the middle of town – so you can ignore the cycle-rickshaws. Don't forget to stamp in or out of India here!

Sleeping & Eating

City Guest House

HOTEL $

( 7054378491; r ₹500-700)

This is the best you're going to do in Sunauli. Rooms are basic and on the scruffy side, but doable – look at a few before choosing. It's on the main road.

Apna Restaurant

DHABA $

(Main Road; thalis ₹50;  11am-9pm)

One of the better dhabas in town, on the main road. This place is on a rooftop, up a flight of stairs about 30m to the right when exiting the Indian immigration office.

Information

(www.welcomenepal.com; 🕒 10am-5pm)

If you're leaving India, the very helpful tourist info centre is on your right, in no-man's land.

i Getting There & Away

Frequent government and private buses run from Sunauli to Gorakhpur (₹90, three hours, 4am to 7pm) from where you can catch trains and buses to Varanasi and elsewhere. Two buses run direct to Varanasi (11 hours) – AC at 5pm (₹466), non-AC at 6pm (₹292) – but it's a long, bumpy ride.

Faster collective cars and jeeps to Gorakhpur hang out alongside the road beyond Indian immigration and leave when full (₹150 to ₹300, two hours).

CROSSING TO NEPAL: SUNAULI TO BHAIRAWA (SIDDHARTHANAGAR)

Border Hours

The border is open 24 hours but closes to vehicles from 10pm to 6am, and if you arrive in the middle of the night you may have to wake someone to get stamped out of India.

For further information, head to shop.lonelyplanet.com to purchase a downloadable PDF of the Kathmandu chapter from Lonely Planet's Nepal guide.

Foreign Exchange

There are a couple of money changers in Sunauli. On the Nepal side, there are a few ATMs on the Nepali side, including a State Bank of India adjacent to Hotel Akash – all accept international cards.

Small denominations of Indian currency are accepted for bus fares on the Nepal side.

Onward Transport

The most comfortable option to Kathmandu is the Golden Travels (☎071-520194) AC bus (US$15, six to seven hours); it leaves from 100m beyond Nepali immigration at 7am. AC micros (minivans) depart from the same spot every 30 minutes from 6am to 10am (₹800, six hours).

Local buses (₹20) and autorickshaws (₹100) can take you from the border to Siddharthanagar, 4km away, where you can also catch non-AC buses to Kathmandu (₹550, eight hours) via Narayangarh (₹350, three hours) and Pokhara (₹550, nine hours) via Tansen (₹250, five hours) along the Siddhartha Hwy or via the Mugling Hwy (₹650, eight hours). Local buses for Buddha's birthplace at Lumbini (₹80, one hour) leave from the junction of the Siddhartha Hwy and the road to Lumbini, about 1km north of Bank Rd.

Buddha Air (www.buddhair.com) and Yeti Airlines (www.yetiairlines.com) offer flights to Kathmandu from Siddharthanagar (from US$135).

Visas

Multiple-entry visas (15-/30-/90-day US$25/40/100) are available at the Nepal immigration post (note: you must pay with US cash, not rupees). You can now save time by applying online at <http://online.nepalimmigration.gov.np/tourist-visa>. Your receipt, which you must produce at the border within 15 days of your application, outlines the border procedures.

Always check with the Nepal Department of Immigration (☎+977-1-4429659; www.nepalimmigration.gov.np; Kalikasthan, Kathmandu) for the latest information on visas.

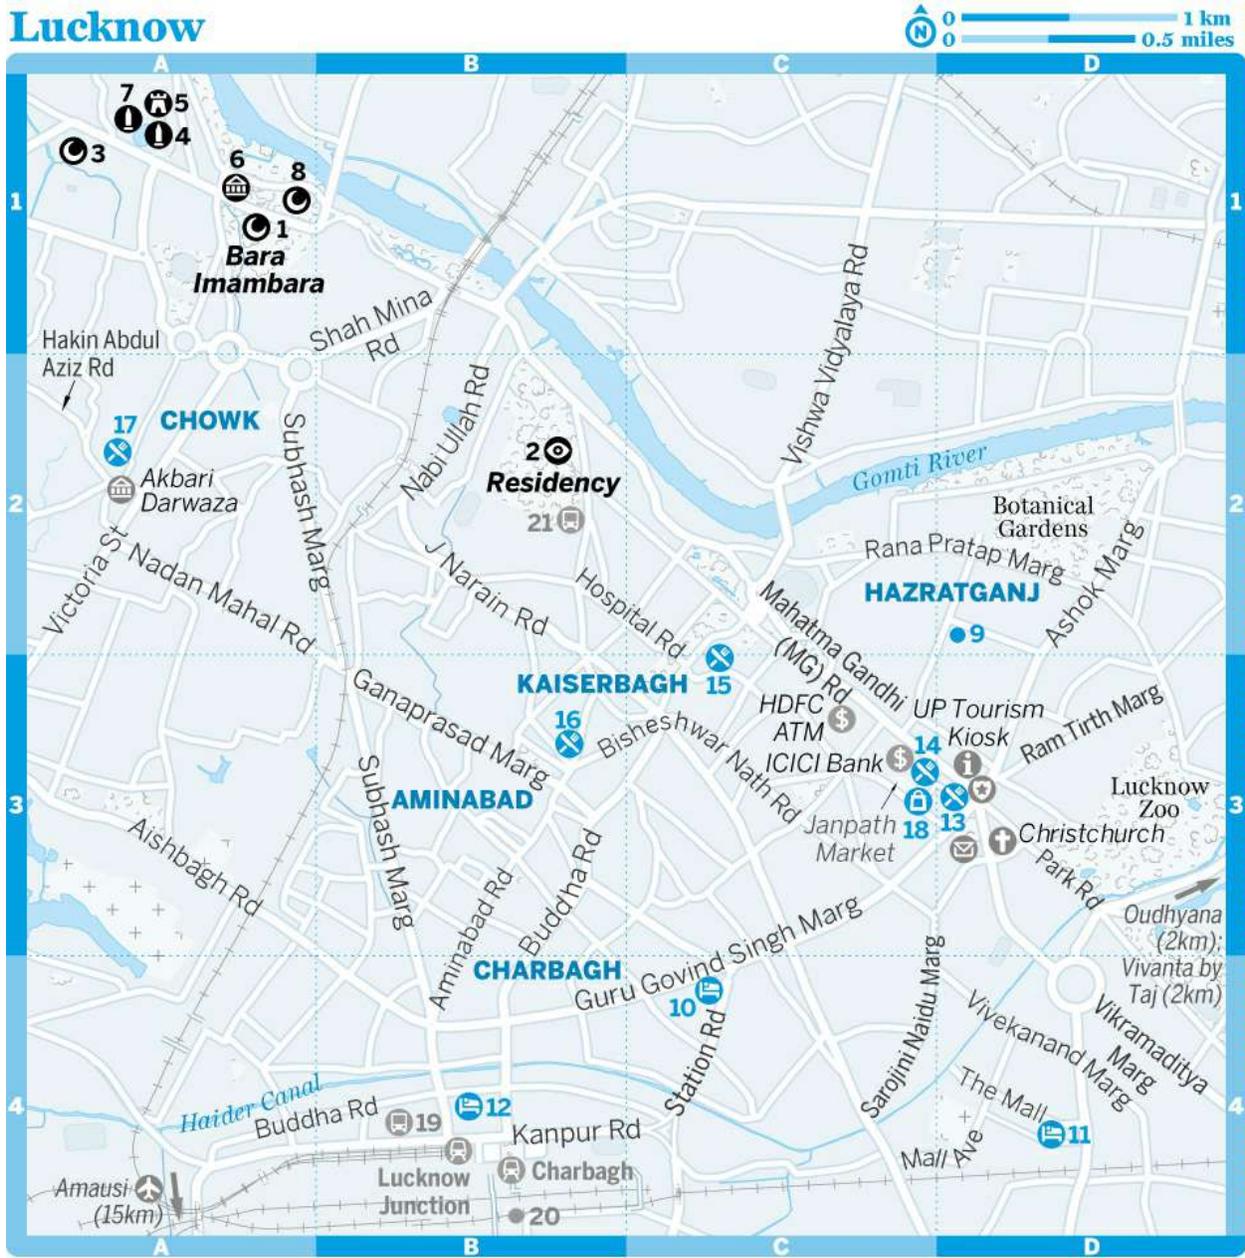

LUCKNOW

☎0522 / POP 3.3 MILLION

Sprinkled with exceptional British Raj–era buildings, boasting two superb mausoleums and famed throughout India for its food, the capital of Uttar Pradesh is something of a sleeper: plenty worth seeing, but often overlooked by travellers. Central Lucknow features wide boulevards, outsized monuments and several parks and gardens, but feels a bit worn out, creating an atmosphere of tired grandiosity. Locals tend to be welcoming, and you'll experience little of the hassle of more touristy towns.

The city rose to prominence as the home of the Nawabs of Avadh (Oudh) who were great patrons of the culinary and other arts, particularly dance and music. Lucknow's reputation as a city of culture, gracious living and rich cuisine has continued to this day – the phrase for which conveniently rhymes in Hindi: Nawab, aadaab ('respect'), kebab and shabab ('beauty').

Lucknow

📍 Top Sights

1 Bara Imambara

A1

2 Residency B2

Sights

3 Chota Imambara A1

4 Clock Tower A1

5 Hussainabad Picture Gallery A1

6 Rumi Darwaza A1

7 Satkhanda A1

8 Tila Wali Masjid A1

Activities, Courses & Tours

9 UP Tourism Heritage Walking Tour D2

Sleeping

10 Hotel Ganga Maiya C4

11 Lucknow Homestay D4

12 SSJ International B4

Eating

13 Moti Mahal Restaurant D3

14 Royal Cafe C3

15 Sakhawat C3

16 Tunday Kababi B3

17 Tunday Kebabi A2

Drinking & Nightlife

EOS D3

Shopping

18 Sugandhco C3

Information

UP Tourism D2

Transport

19 Charbagh Bus Stand B4

20 Foreign Tourist Help Desk B4

21 Kaiserbagh Bus Stand B2

Sights

★ Residency

HISTORIC SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹10/105, video ₹25; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

The large collection of gardens and ruins that makes up the Residency offers a fascinating historical glimpse of the beginning of the end for the British Raj. Built in 1800, the Residency became the stage for the most dramatic events of the 1857 First War of Independence (Indian Uprising): the Siege of Lucknow, a 147-day siege that claimed the lives of thousands.

The compound has been left as it was at the time of the final relief and the walls are still pockmarked from bullets and cannon balls.

The focus is the well-designed museum (8am to 4.30pm) in the main Residency building, which includes a scale model of the original buildings. Downstairs are the huge basement rooms where many of the British women and children lived throughout the siege.

The cemetery around the ruined St Mary's church is where 2000 of the defenders were buried, including their leader, Sir Henry Lawrence, who – according to the famous inscription on his weathered gravestone – 'tried to do his duty'.

★ Bara Imambara

ISLAMIC TOMB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hussainabad Trust Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹50/500; 🕒 6am-6pm)

This colossal imambara (tomb dedicated to a Shiite holy man) is worth seeing in its own right, but the highly unusual labyrinth of corridors inside its upper floors make a visit here particularly special. The ticket price includes entrance to Chota Imambara, the clock tower and the Hussainabad Picture Gallery, all walking distance from here.

The complex is accessed through two enormous gateways that lead into a huge courtyard. On one side is an attractive mosque, on the other a large baori (step-well), which can be explored – bring a torch (flashlight). At the far end of the courtyard is the huge central hall, one of the world’s largest vaulted galleries. Tazia (small replicas of Imam Hussain’s tomb in Karbala, Iraq) are stored inside and are paraded around during the Shiite mourning ceremony of Muharram.

But it’s what is beyond the small entrance – intriguingly marked ‘labyrinth’ – to the left of the central hall that steals the show. It leads to the Bhulbhulaiya, an enticing network of narrow passageways that winds its way inside the upper floors of the tomb’s structure, eventually leading out to rooftop balconies. As with the step-well, it’s handy to have a torch.

Just beyond the Bara Imambara is the unusual but imposing gateway Rumi Darwaza (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Hussainabad Trust Rd), said to be a copy of an entrance gate in Istanbul; ‘Rumi’ (relating to Rome) is the term Muslims applied to Istanbul when it was still Byzantium, the capital of the Eastern Roman empire. Across the road is the beautiful white mosque Tila Wali Masjid (MAP GOOGLE MAP), a deceptively shallow building built in 1680. The interior is repainted periodically over the original designs.

If you are visiting as part of an opposite-sex couple, you will be required to pay for a guide (₹100) to prevent any hanky-panky in the labyrinth (yes, we're serious).

Chota Imambara

ISLAMIC TOMB

(Hussainabad Imambara; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Hussainabad Trust Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹20/200, incl with Bara Imambara ticket; 🕒 6am-6pm)

This elaborate tomb was constructed by Mohammed Ali Shah (who is buried here, alongside his mother) in 1832. Adorned with calligraphy, it has a serene and intimate atmosphere. Mohammed’s silver throne and red crown can be seen here, as well as countless chandeliers and some brightly decorated tazia.

In the garden is a water tank and two replicas of the Taj Mahal that are the tombs of Mohammed Ali Shah’s daughter and her husband. A traditional hammam is off to one side.

Outside the complex, the decaying watchtower on the other side of the road is known as Satkhandra (Seven Storey Tower; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hussainabad Trust Rd). It has only four storeys because construction was abandoned in 1840 when Mohammed Ali Shah died.

The 67m red-brick clock tower (MAP GOOGLE MAP; free with Bara Imambara ticket; 🕒 dawn-dusk), the tallest in India, was built in the 1880s. Nearby is the Hussainabad Picture Gallery (Baradari; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹20/200, free with Bara Imambara ticket; 🕒 7am-6pm), a striking red-brick baradari (pavilion) built in 1842 that was once a royal summer house. It overlooks an artificial lake and houses portraits of the nawabs.

Tours

★ UP Tourism Heritage Walking Tour

WALKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9415013047; 3hr tour ₹300; 🕒 tours 7am Apr-Sep, 8am Oct-Mar)

This fabulous tour run by UP Tourism could well turn out to be the best ₹300 you ever spend. Meet your English-speaking guide outside Tila Wali Masjid, then follow them first around the mosque and the Bara Imambara before delving in to the architectural delights of the crazy maze of alleyways in the fascinating Chowk district.

You'll sample interesting nibbles such as refreshing thandai (made from milk, cardamom, almonds, fennel, saffron etc and – in this case – with or without marijuana!) and get an insider glimpse into various traditions, from indigo block printing to traditional unani medicine or vark making (edible silver foil). This is an eye-popping way to get your bearings among Lucknow's oldest neighbourhoods. Note: tours are best booked directly by phone and last between 2½ and three hours.

Sleeping

Lucknow Homestay

HOMESTAY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9838003590; lucknowhomestay@gmail.com; 110D Mall Ave; s/d ₹1000/1100, without bathroom ₹600/700, with AC ₹1500/1600; ❄️ 📶)

Lucknow's most accommodating budget option is in the leafy neighbourhood home of Naheed and her family, who keep their distance but offer six rustic rooms – four with private bathrooms. Breakfast is included with your stay. There's a sign in front – enter and go up one flight of stairs. Book ahead – it's popular for long stays.

Rickshaw drivers know Mall Ave, which is actually a neighbourhood (not merely an avenue), but you'll need to orient yourself upon arrival if you want to find your way back home, as the address is amid the maze if you enter the neighbourhood from anywhere other than the Mahatma Gandhi (MG) Rd side. Better yet, get to know Naheed's favourite rickshaw driver: the honest, reliable and English-speaking Guatam.

SSJ International

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0522-406609; www.ssjinternational.com; 46 Chandran Gupt Nagar, Charbagh; s/d ₹1725/2200)

If you want to be close to the railway station or bus stand but don't want to slum it, this is your place. New and modern, with excellent management and rooms that offer many business-quality comforts. It's on a small cross street just east of Subash Marg, about a block north of Kanpur Rd.

Hotel Ganga Maiya

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9335282783; www.hotelgangamaiya.com; 62/9 Station Rd; s/d from ₹1400/1600)

Clean and well run, and even the cheapest rooms have wi-fi, flat-screen TVs and good beds; the higher-priced rooms offer more space and a bit of extra glitz. What sets this place apart is the incredibly helpful staff. Overall one of Lucknow's best-value hotels. Conveniently located between the railway station and MG Road. Discounts usually available.

Eating

Lucknow is the undisputed king of UP cuisine. The refined palates of the Nawabs left the city with a reputation for rich, meaty and impossibly tasty Mughlai cuisine. Restaurants here are famous for mouth-watering kebabs and delicious biryanis.

In addition to its renowned kebabs, Lucknow is also famous for dum pukht – the art of steam-pressure cooking, in which meat and vegetables are cooked in a sealed clay pot. In winter, look out for namash, a surprisingly light and tasty concoction made from milk, cream and morning dew.

★ Tunday Kababi

NORTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Naaz Cinema Rd, off Aminabad Rd; dishes ₹95-200; 🕒 11am-11.30pm)

This is the cleaner, more hospitable outlet of Lucknow's renowned, 100-year-old, impossible-to-find kebab shop in Chowk (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; near Akbar Gate, Chowk; kebabs ₹5; 🕒 10am-11pm), where buffalo-beef kebabs go for ₹5! Here the prices are higher, but the boys put on quite a show streetside for to-go orders, while the proper restaurant behind dishes up scrumptious plates of mutton biryani, kebabs and tandoori chicken for throngs of carnivores.

The minced-mutton kebab (₹95 for four, eat them with paratha) here is impossibly delicious and a spicy punch in the gut. Rickshaw riders know how to find this place. It's tucked away down a narrow street in the bustling Aminabad district. You'll find other Tunday kebab restaurants around the city – some of which are franchises, most of which are copies.

Sakhawat

NORTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.sakhawatrestaurant.com; 2 Kaiserbagh Ave, behind Awadh Gymkhan Club; kebabs ₹110-140; 🕒 4.30-10.30pm Wed-Mon)

This highly recommended hole-in-the-wall doesn't look like much, but the daily-changing kebabs (galawat etc) at this locals' haunt are fabulous – the smoky, perfectly crispy char makes the difference – and, despite appearances, it has won international accolades and doubles as an Awadh cooking institute. Also serves biryanis and several curries.

Royal Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 51 MG Rd; chaat ₹50-180, mains ₹190-470; 🕒 noon-11pm)

Even if you don't step inside this excellent restaurant, don't miss its exceedingly popular chaat (spicy snack) stand at the front, where mixed chaats are served in an aloo (potato) basket or in mini puris.

Inside, you'll find it does a mouth-watering job of Mughlai cuisine and everything else, including Chinese, Continental, pizza and shakes and sundaes, which are whipped out along with classy service to a wildly mixed crowd that runs the gamut: Sikhs and Muslims over there, Hindus and hipsters over here. Our boneless murg mirch masala (chicken cooked with chilli peppers and ground spices with onion and tomatoes) was perfect.

Moti Mahal Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 75 MG Rd; mains ₹125-210; 🕒 7am-11pm; ❄️🍴)

If Mughlai meat country has got you down, seek refuge in this popular veg hideaway on MG Rd. It's perfect for breakfast (with great poori sabji – deep-fried bread rounds served with potato curry) or lunch. Come evening, head upstairs for more refined dining in the good-quality, low-lit, AC restaurant.

You could do worse here than try the Lucknow dum aloo (potatoes stuffed with nuts and paneer in a tomato-based sauce) and the kadhai paneer (paneer in a gravy made of capsicum, tomato, onion and traditional Indian spices) makes a stunning case for vegetarianism. It's all excellent.

★ Oudhyana

MUGHLAI, NORTH INDIAN $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; www.vivantabytaj.com; Vivanta by Taj Hotel, Vipin Khand, Gomti Nagar; mains ₹780-1350)

If you want to savor the flavours of the Nawabs performing at their culinary best, look no further than Oudhyana, where Chef Nagendra Singh gives Lucknow's famous Awadh cuisine its royal due at this signature restaurant inside the city's top hotel (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0522-6771000; www.vivantabytaj.com; Vipin Khand, Gomti Nagar; s/d from ₹13,110/14,375; 📶 @ 📶 📶).

The flavours of everything Singh does, from the famous galawat and kakori kebabs to an entire menu of long-lost heritage dishes, unravel like an intricate gastronomic spy novel in your mouth. The intimate room is impossibly striking as well, dressed up in soothing baby-blues with chandelier accoutrements. A special night out.

LUCKNOW'S KEBABS DECONSTRUCTED

Kakori Kebab

Originates from Kakori, a small town outside Lucknow. Legend has it that the old and toothless Nawab of Kakori asked his royal bawarchi (chef) to make kebabs that would simply melt in the mouth. So these kebabs are made adding papaya (as a tenderiser) to raw mincemeat and a mix of spices. They are then applied to skewers and barbecued over charcoals.

Galawat

This is the mouth-watering creation that is served up in Lucknow's most famous kebab restaurant, Tunday Kababi. There it is simply referred to as a mutton kebab, and in other restaurants it is often called Tunday. Essentially, they're the same as Kakori kebabs, except that rather than being barbecued they are made into patties and shallow-fried in oil or ghee.

Shami

Raw mincemeat is boiled with spices and black gram lentil. It is then ground on stone before being mixed with finely chopped onions, coriander leaves and green chillies, then shaped into patties and shallow-fried.

Drinking & Nightlife

EOS

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 72 MG Rd; 🕒 noon-11:45pm Mon-Fri, to 1am Sat)

This chic bar on the rooftop of the Best Western Levana is Lucknow's attempt at a genuinely trendy bar. It draws the young and restless, especially for Saturday night DJ sets. Otherwise, the breezy, plant- and bamboo-filled spot is pleasant enough for a cocktail (₹350 to ₹450), either in the open air or within the smart AC lounge.

Shopping

Lucknow is famous for chikan, an embroidered cloth worn by men and women. It is sold in a number of shops in the labyrinthine bazaars of Chowk (near the Tunday Kebabi there), and in the small, traffic-free Janpath Market, just south of MG Rd in Hazratganj.

Sugandhco

PERFUME

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.sugandhco.com; D-4 Janpath Market; 🕒 noon-7.30pm Mon-Sat)

A family business since 1850, the sweet-scented Sugandhco sells attar (pure essence oil extracted from flowers by a traditional method) in the form of women's perfume, men's cologne, household fragrances and incense sticks. Sweet-smelling stuff.

Information

ICICI Bank

BANK

(GOOGLE MAP; Shalimar Tower, 31/54 MG Rd, Hazratganj; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Fri, 9am-2pm Sat)

Changes travellers cheques (Monday to Friday only, 10am to 5pm) and cash, and has an ATM.

Main Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP; www.indiapost.gov.in; MG Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat)

In a building of Grand Raj–era architecture.

Sahara Hospital

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0522-6780001; www.saharahospitals.com; Gomti Nagar)

The best private hospital in Lucknow.

Tourist Police

POLICE

(GOOGLE MAP ; MG Road, Hazratganj; 🕒 8am-9pm Mon-Sat)

Located at the UP Tourism kiosk on MG Road.

UP Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0522-2615005; www.up-tourism.com; 6 Sapru Marg; 🕒 9am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Not a particularly helpful or well-informed government tourist office, but it happens to run Lucknow's excellent Heritage Walking Tour (though they couldn't tell us one single detail about it!). It operates a smaller kiosk (GOOGLE MAP ; MG Rd, Hazratganj; 🕒 8am-9pm Mon-Sat) on MG Rd's main drag as well as a Tourist Helpline (📞 0522-3303030).

Getting There & Away

AIR

The modern Chaudhary Charan Singh International Airport is 15km southwest of Lucknow in Amausi, with a number of different airlines offering direct daily service to many domestic cities, including Delhi, Mumbai, Ahmedabad, Kolkata and Bengaluru (Bangalore). Nonstop international flights head to Gulf destinations including Abu Dhabi, Dubai, and Muscat (Oman).

BUS

Most long-distance buses leave from Charbagh Bus Stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Kanpor Rd, at Subhash Marg), opposite the railway station. Services include the following:

- ➔ Agra Non-AC (₹395, seven hours, 4.30pm and 8.30pm), regular AC (₹530, six hours, 8.45pm and 9.45pm), Scania AC (₹905, six hours, 10am and 10.30pm)
- ➔ Allahabad Non-AC (₹175, five hours, every 30 minutes), regular AC (₹280, five hours, departs throughout day), Volvo AC (₹480, 4½ hours, 10 daily)
- ➔ Delhi Non-AC (₹510, 11 hours), AC Volvo/Scania (₹835/1510, nine hours). Departs throughout the day.
- ➔ Faizabad Non-AC (₹145, four hours, every 30 minutes), Volvo AC (₹345, three hours, 10am and 10pm)
- ➔ Gorakhpur Non-AC (₹285, 7½ hours, every 30 minutes), Volvo AC (₹718, six hours, 10am, 10pm and 11pm)
- ➔ Jhansi Non-AC (₹350, eight hours, 6pm, 7pm and 9.30pm)
- ➔ Varanasi Non-AC (₹290, eight hours, every 30 minutes), regular AC (₹405, six hours, 9am and 10.30pm), Volvo AC (₹710, six hours, 3pm and 10pm)

Kaiserbagh Bus Stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎0522-2622503; J Narain Rd) also has services to Faizabad (₹145, four hours) and Gorakhpur (₹285, eight hours, every 30 minutes, 6am to 10pm), as well as buses to Rupaiddha (₹210, seven hours, 9.30am, 11am, 7.30pm, 8.30pm, 9.30pm and 11pm), where there is a rarely used Nepal border crossing.

TRAIN

The two main stations, Lucknow NR (usually called Charbagh) and Lucknow Junction, are side by side about 4.5km or so south of the main sites. Services for most major destinations leave from Charbagh, including several daily to Agra, Varanasi, Faizabad, Gorakhpur and New Delhi. Lucknow Junction handles the one daily train to Mumbai and trains to Haldwani. Check your ticket and make sure you go to the right station!

The Foreign Tourist Help Desk (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Rail Reservation & Booking Centre, Charbagh Station; ⌚ 8am-1.50pm & 2-8pm) for booking train tickets is at window 601 inside the Rail Reservation and Booking Centre complex, 150m to your right as you exit Charbagh.

HANDY TRAINS FROM LUCKNOW

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURE
Agra	12179 LJN AGC INTRCT	145/515 (C)	6	3.55pm
Allahabad	14216 Ganga Gomti Exp	340 (B)	4¼	6pm
Faizabad	13010 Doon Exp	140/490/695 (A)	2½	8.45am
Gorakhpur	13020 Bagh Exp	190/490/695 (A)	6	6.20am
Jhansi	11016 Kushinagar Exp	195/490/695 (A)	6½	12.40am
Kolkata (Howrah)	13006 ASR-HWH Mail	480/1300/1890 (A)	20½	10.50am
Mumbai (CST)*	12533 Pushpak Exp	626/1627/2337 (A)	24	7.45pm
New Delhi	12553 Vaishali Exp	335/865/1220 (A)	8	10.25pm
Varanasi	14236 BE-BSB Exp	210/570/810 (A)	7½	11.25pm

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC/2AC, (B) AC chair only, (C) 2S/AC chair; * leaves from Lucknow Junction

Getting Around

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

An autorickshaw to the airport from the prepaid taxi stand outside the train station costs ₹125 (plus ₹20 airport entry) and takes about 30 minutes.

LOCAL TRANSPORT

A short cycle-rickshaw ride is ₹30. Dealing with autorickshaws demands some serious haggling. From the train station/Charbagh bus stand, pay about ₹80 to reach Hazratganj, or ₹120 to Bara Imambara.

The best way to get around is by shared autorickshaw – flag one down and tell them the neighbourhood you're headed for (like Hazratganj, for MG Road, or Charbagh, for the railway station) and they'll wave you in if they're going that way. Pay ₹5 to ₹15 depending on the length of the trip.

A metro system is under construction – we were told that the first phase was supposed to be completed in early 2017, but from what we saw, that seemed highly optimistic.

AYODHYA & AROUND

 05278 / POP 58,000

With monkeys galore, the usual smattering of cows and even the odd working elephant, the relatively traffic-free streets of Ayodhya would be an intriguing place to spend some time even if not for the religious significance of the place.

Ayodhya is revered as the birthplace of Rama – and as such one of Hinduism's seven holy cities – as well as the birthplace of four of Jainism's 24 tirthankars (religious teachers). It was also the site of one of modern India's most controversial religious disputes, but the only evidence you'll see of that today is a more robust police presence than a town of this size would usually warrant, and intense security precautions around the site where Rama is said to have been born.

The slightly larger town of Faizabad, 7km away, is the jumping-off point for Ayodhya and where you'll find more accommodation.

Sights

Bahu Begum Ka Maqbara

HISTORIC BUILDING

 dawn-dusk) FREE

In Faizabad, the so-called 'Taj Mahal of the East' (OK, an overstatement) is a unique mausoleum built for the queen of Nawab Shuja-ud-Daula. It has three domes built above each other, with wonderfully ornate decoration on the walls and ceilings, and is considered to be a prime example of Awadhi architecture.

Hanumangarhi

HINDU TEMPLE

(🕒 dawn-dusk)

This is one of the town's most popular temples, and is the closest of Ayodhya's major temples to the main road. Walk up the 76 steps to the ornate carved gateway and the fortress-like outer walls, and join the throng inside offering prasad (temple-blessed food).

Kanak Bhavan

HINDU TEMPLE

(Palace of Gold; 🕒 8.30-11.30am & 4.30-9.30pm Apr-Sep, 9am-noon & 4-9pm Oct-Mar)

This palace rebuilt into a temple is one of the most impressive in Ayodhya, It was supposedly given to Lord Rama and his wife Sita as a wedding present, and the interior features three shrines dedicated to the holy couple.

Ramkatha Museum

MUSEUM

(📞 9415328511; 🕒 10.30am-5pm Tue-Sat) FREE

Beyond the far northern end of the main road, this museum houses paintings and ancient sculptures. Every evening except Monday, the museum hosts free performances of the Ram Lila – a dramatic re-enactment of the battle between Lord Ram and Ravan, as described in the Hindu epic the Ramayana – at Tulsi Smarg Bhawan, a nearby park, from 6pm to 9pm.

Walk about 500m or so along the main road deeper into Ayodhya, turn right at the police station across from Akash Cycle Company, and the museum is another 500m or so on your right.

Ram Janam Bhumi

HINDU TEMPLE

(🕒 7-11.30am & 12.30-5pm)

This is the highly contentious spot said to be the site of Lord Rama's birth. Security here is staggering (think crossing from West Bank into Israel!). You must first show your passport, then leave all belongings apart from your passport and money (even your belt!) in nearby lockers. You are then searched several times before being accompanied through a long, caged corridor that leads to a spot 20m away from a makeshift tent shrine, which marks Rama's birthplace.

You get about 10 seconds to look at it before being hustled away. Go for the surreal experience, not the unremarkable tent shrine (and if lines are very long, skip it). To get there, turn left at Dashrath Bhavan, when coming from Hanumanghari.

TRANSIT HUB: JHANSI

This nondescript town near the Madhya Pradesh border is famous for its link to Rani Lakshmi Bai of Jhansi, a key player in the 1857 First War of Independence (Indian Uprising). It's commonly used as a transit hub and gateway to Orchha, Khajuraho and Gwalior.

Buses leave from the bus stand for Chhatarpur (₹130, three hours, hourly, 5am to 10pm), where you can switch for Khajuraho (₹50, 1½ hours); Chitrakut (₹250, six hours, 8.30am); and Gwalior (₹100, three hours, hourly). Tempos (₹20) go between Jhansi bus stand and Orchha all day; private autorickshaws charge ₹200. Handy trains include 12137 Punjab Mail to Gwalior (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹170/535/735, 1½ hours, 2.30pm) and Agra (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹195/540/740, 3½ hours, 2.30pm); 12138 Punjab Mail to Mumbai (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹530/1395/2010, 19 hours, 12.35pm); 12615 Grand Trunk Express to Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹280/830/1010, 7½ hours, 11.40pm); 11107 Bundelkhand Express to Varanasi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹305/720/1190, 12½ hours, 10.25pm); and 19666 Udz Kurj Express to Khajuraho (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹160/490/695, three hours, 3.30pm).

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Shane Avadh

HOTEL $

(☎ 05278-222075; www.hotelshaveavadh.com; Civil Lines, Faizabad; s/d from ₹450/550, with AC from ₹1300/1600; ❄)

There's a huge range of rooms at this well-run establishment in Faizabad (though only a few recently renovated ones are as smart as their website would have you believe). The cheapest ones are a bit gritty, but they improve rapidly if you pay a little more. Beds are rock-hard. Book ahead.

Awantika

MULTICUISINE $$

(Civil Lines, Faizabad; mains ₹95-235; 🕒 11am-10.30pm; 🍴)

Clean and hip, this out-of-place restaurant does a seriously good all-veg menu that runs the gamut from Chinese to Italian to Indian. The special thali (₹200) is a real treat, and it's all set to trendy tunes in a funky lounge atmosphere. It's across the street from Bharat Petroleum. (Don't mistake it for the nearby New Awantika snack house.)

i Information

There are a number of ATMs in Faizabad around Hotel Shane Avadh.

Cyber Zone

INTERNET

(Civil Lines, Faizabad; per hr ₹20; 🕒 10am-8.30pm)

A rudimentary internet cafe at the first intersection 50m on the right after Hotel Shane Avadh, on the road heading towards Ayodhya.

i Getting There & Away

From the Faizabad bus stand turn left onto the main road, where you'll find shared rickshaws (₹10 to ₹20, 20 minutes) to Ayodhya.

From Faizabad bus stand, frequent buses run to Lucknow (₹140, three hours), Gorakhpur (₹150, 3½ hours, 5am to 8pm) and Allahabad (₹150, five hours, 7am to 10pm). AC coaches head to Lucknow (₹190) every hour or so.

There are several handy trains from Faizabad:

Lucknow 13307 Gangasutlej Express, sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹140/485/690, 3½ hours, 11.08am

Varanasi 13010 Doon Express, sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹140/490/695, five hours, 11.10am

Delhi 12225 Kaifiyat Express, sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹380/995/1410, 11¼ hours,

7.52pm

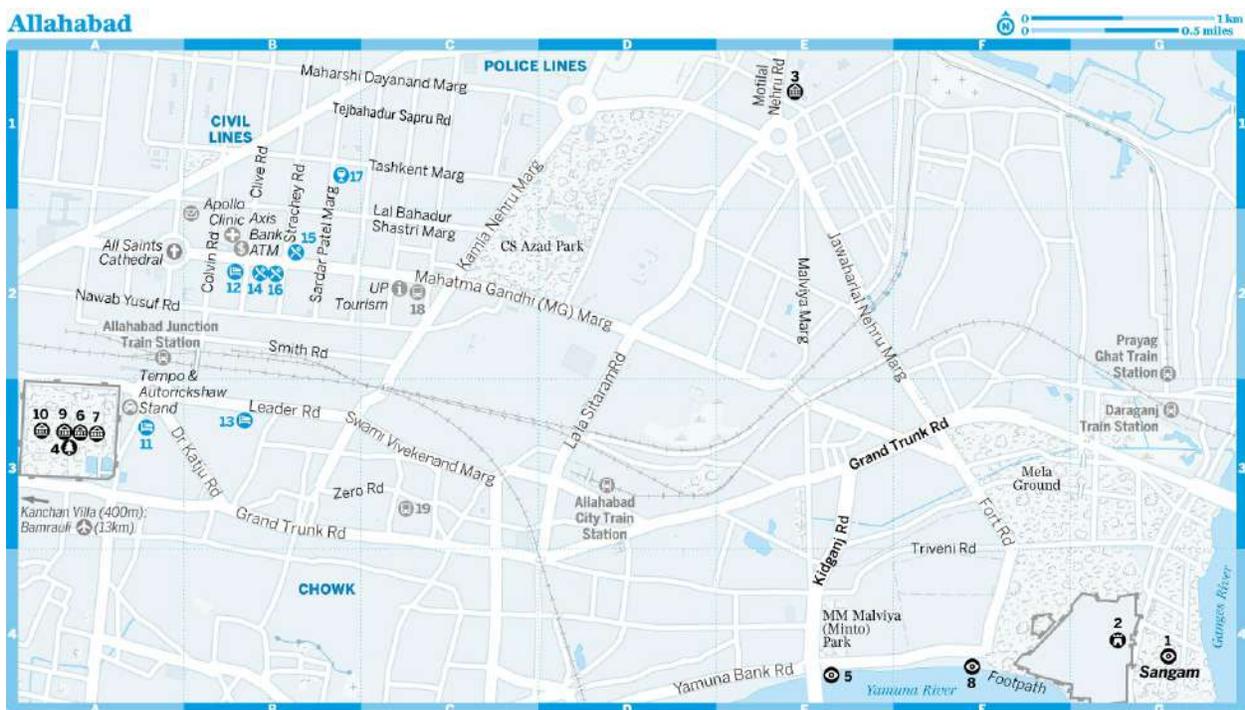

A cycle-rickshaw from the bus stand to the train station is ₹30.

ALLAHABAD

📍 0532 / POP 1.2 MILLION

Brahma, the Hindu god of creation, is believed to have landed on earth in Allahabad (or Prayag, as it was originally known), and to have named it the king of all pilgrimage centres. Indeed, Sangam, a river confluence on the outskirts of the city, is the most celebrated of India's four Kumbh Mela locations. Allahabad was also home to the Nehru family, whose house served as a headquarters for the independence movement against the British Raj.

Yet for all its importance in Hindu mythology, Indian history and modern politics, Allahabad today is a much humbler place. Though there are a few surprisingly good places to stay and eat, the main sights are of modest appeal – and the mix of dust, exhaust fumes and burning trash makes for eye-stinging air by late afternoon.

Allahabad

Top Sights

1 Sangam G4

Sights

2 Akbar's Fort & Patalpuri Temple G4

3 Anand Bhavan E1

4 Khusru Bagh A3

5 Nehru Ghat E4

6 Nesa Begum's Tomb A3

7 Prince Khusru's Tomb A3

8 Saraswati Ghat F4

9 Shah Begum's Tomb A3

10 Tamolon's Tomb A3

Sleeping

11 Hotel Prayag A3

12 Hotel U.R. B2

13 Milan Hotel B3

Eating

14 Eat On B2

15 El Chico B2

El Chico Cafe B2

16 Kamdhenu Sweets B2

Drinking & Nightlife

17 Patiyala Peg Bar B1

Transport

18 Civil Lines Bus Stand C2

19 Zero Road Bus Stand C3

Sights

★ Sangam

RELIGIOUS SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This is the particularly auspicious point where two of India's holiest rivers, the Ganges and the Yamuna, meet one of Hinduism's mythical rivers, the Saraswati. All year round, pilgrims row boats out to this holy spot, but their numbers increase dramatically during the annual Magh Mela, a six-week festival held between January and March, which culminates in six communal 'holy dips'.

Every 12 years the massive Kumbh Mela takes place here, attracting millions of people, while the Ardh Mela (Half Mela) is held here every six years.

In the early 1950s, 350 pilgrims were killed in a stampede trying to get to the soul-cleansing water, an incident recreated vividly in Vikram Seth's essential novel A Suitable Boy. The last Ardh Mela, in 2007, attracted more than 70 million people – considered to be the largest-ever human gathering until the 2013 Kumbh Mela, which attracted about 32 million on Mauni Amavasya, the main bathing day, and 100 million across the 55-day festival; expect equally astonishing numbers at the next Allahabad Kumbh Mela in 2025.

Old boat hands will row you out to the sacred confluence for around ₹50 per person (hard-bargaining Indian) or ₹100 (hard-bargaining foreigner), or ₹600 to ₹800 per boat.

Around the corner from Sangam (skirt the riverbank around the front of Akbar's Fort) is Saraswati Ghat (MAP GOOGLE MAP); further along the shore is Nehru Ghat (MAP GOOGLE MAP). Both host a nightly aarti (an auspicious lighting of lamps/candles), but neither is as impressive as what you'd see in Varanasi or Mathura.

Khusru Bagh

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

This intriguing park, surrounded by huge walls, contains four highly impressive Mughal tombs. One is that of Prince Khusru (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk), the eldest son of Emperor Jehangir, who tried to overthrow his father in 1606, but was instead apprehended, imprisoned and blinded. He was finally murdered in 1622 on the orders of his half-brother, who later took the throne under the name Shah Jahan. If Khusru's coup had succeeded, Shah Jahan would not have become emperor – and the Taj Mahal would not exist.

A second tomb belongs to Shah Begum (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk), Khusru's mother (Jehangir's first wife), who committed suicide in 1603 with an opium overdose, distraught over the ongoing feud between her son and his father. Between these two, a third, particularly attractive tomb was constructed by Nesa Begum (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk), Khusru's sister, although was never actually used as a tomb. A smaller structure, called Tamolon's Tomb (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk), stands to the west of the others, but its origin is unknown.

If you linger around the tombs of Prince Khusru and Shah Begum, someone will appear with keys to let you inside, where you can see a beautiful array of nature paintings and unique, tree-shaped window jalis (carved lattices). You'll have to negotiate a price – but don't pay more than ₹100 for all four tombs.

Anand Bhavan

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹10/100; 🕒 9.30am-1pm & 1.30-5pm Tue-Sun)

This picturesque two-storey house is a shrine to the Nehru family, which has produced five generations of leading politicians, from Motilal Nehru to the latest political figure, Rahul Gandhi. This stately home is where Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru and others successfully planned the overthrow of the British Raj. It is full of books, personal effects and photos from those stirring times.

Akbar's Fort & Patalpuri Temple

FORT, HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; by donation; 🕒 6am-5.30pm)

Built by the Mughal Emperor Akbar, this 16th-century fort on the northern bank of the Yamuna has massive walls with three gateways flanked by towers. Most of it is occupied by the Indian army and cannot be visited, but a small door in the eastern wall by Sangam leads to one part you can enter: the underground Patalpuri Temple.

This unique temple is crowded with all sorts of idols; pick up some coins from the change dealers outside so you can leave small offerings as you go. (You may be pressured into giving ₹10 to ₹100 at some shrines, but a few coins are perfectly acceptable.)

Outside the temple – though its roots can be seen beneath ground – is the Undying Banyan Tree. Pilgrims used to leap to their deaths from it, believing this would liberate them from the cycle of rebirth.

DIP DATES

The vast riverbanks at Sangam attract tens of millions of pilgrims every six years for either the Kumbh Mela or the Ardh (Half) Mela, but every year there is a smaller Magh Mela. The next Ardh Kumbh Mela is in 2019; the next full Kumbh Mela is in 2025.

The following are auspicious bathing dates during upcoming Magh Melas:

BATHING DAY	2018	2019	2020	2021
Makar Sankranti	14 Jan	15 Jan	15 Jan	14 Jan
Mauni Amavasya	16 Jan	4 Feb	20 Jan	11 Feb
Vasant Panchami	22 Jan	10 Feb	29 Jan	16 Feb
Magh Purnima	31 Jan	19 Feb	9 Feb	27 Feb
Mahashivatri	14 Feb	5 Mar	21 Feb	11 Mar

Sleeping

Hotel Prayag

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0532-2656416; www.prayaggroupofhotels.com; 73 Noorullah Rd; s/d from ₹500/700, without bathroom ₹300/350, s/d with AC ₹1200/1350; 🌳 @ 📶)

A stone's throw south of the train station, this sprawling, well-run place is helpful and boasts an internet cafe (₹30 per hour) with free wi-fi, a State Bank of India ATM and a funky restaurant. There's a wide variety of old-fashioned, basic rooms in various states of dilapidation, but staff are friendly and will even help negotiate autorickshaws.

Milan Hotel

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0532-2403776; www.hotelmilan.in; 46 Leader Rd; s ₹2300-4000, d ₹3000-4900; 🌳 📶)

One of the best values in Allahabad in this price range: rooms are modern and clean, with mellow colour schemes and good beds. You can pay more for more space, but even the cheapest rooms are of good quality.

Hotel U.R.

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0532-2427334; mj1874@gmail.com; 7/3, A/1 MG Marg, Civil Lines; r ₹1600-2200; 🌳 📶)

This professionally run 20-room midrange hotel is in a good location along MG Marg and offers a slight step up from similarly priced competition. A glass elevator leads to somewhat cramped (due to big beds) but clean rooms, the best of which open onto a plant-lined terrace. Staff is better trained than elsewhere in this price range. Discounts often available.

★ Kanchan Villa

HOMESTAY $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9838631111; www.kanchanvilla.com; 64 Lukerganj; s/d from ₹3000/3850, ste from ₹4950; 🌳 @ 📶)

Ivan – a guitar-wielding Indian rum enthusiast – and his wife, Purnima, are your South Indian/Bengali hosts at this fabulous homestay offering a window into a rarely seen side of Christian Indian culture. In a historic home nearing its centennial milestone, six rooms are decked out with period furnishings (our fave: Bengali); breakfast (included) can be taken on the lush, 2nd-floor patio.

The lovely staff will cook for you as well, serving up fresh kebabs from the outdoor tandoor, for example. You'll feel right at home in the living room–bar. Pick-up and drops-offs included; otherwise it's a short cycle-rickshaw ride (₹20) from the train station.

Eating

★ Eat On

MUGHLAI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Marg; mains ₹50-200; 🕒 11.30am-10pm Wed-Mon)

This standing-room-only food shack does four things, and does them astonishingly cheap and well: mouth-watering shami kebabs (minced mutton with black lentils and spices), perfectly spiced chicken biryani, roasted chicken (evenings only) and a lovely, thin paratha to accompany it all. Prepare to wait – this is one of Allahabad's best.

Kamdhenu Sweets

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 37, Palace Cinema Compound, MG Marg; snacks ₹20-80; 🕒 8.30am-10.30pm)

Very popular snack shop selling absolutely delicious house-made sweets, as well as cakes, samosas, sandwiches and ice cream.

El Chico Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 24/28 MG Marg; mains ₹200-400; 🕒 noon-10.30pm)

Cure your homesick hungries in a heartbeat among a forward-thinking Indian crowd. Big breakfasts all day – cinnamon pancakes, waffles, espresso – sandwiches, wood-fired pizzas and more sophisticated fusion fare fill out the menu. Try the Sizzlin' Brownie! The cafe is attached to El Chico.

El Chico

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 26/28 MG Marg; mains ₹200-500; 🕒 10am-10.30pm; 🚻)

This refined restaurant serves up absolutely wonderful Indian (the chicken-chilli-garlic kebab is every bit as delicious as it sounds), tasty-looking Chinese, popular sizzlers and Continental cuisine, along with coffee in pewter carafes. It's below the modern El Chico Cafe.

Drinking & Nightlife

Patiyala Peg Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Grand Continental Hotel, Sardar Patel Marg; 🕒 7-11pm)

Allahabad's most interesting bar for tourists has live ghazal (Urdu love songs) performed nightly from 7.30pm to 10.30pm. Serves mostly beers (from ₹300) and whisky.

Information

ATMs dot the Civil Lines area.

Axis Bank (GOOGLE MAP)

Apollo Clinic

HOSPITAL

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0532-2421132; www.apolloclinic.com; 28B MG Marg; 🕒 24hr)

A modern private medical facility with a 24-hour pharmacy.

Post Office

POST

(GOOGLE MAP; www.indiapost.gov.in; Sarojini Naidu Marg; 🕒 10am-1.30pm & 2-5pm Mon-Fri, 10am-4pm Sat)

UP Tourism

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0532-2408873; www.up-tourism.com; 35 MG Marg; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat each month)

At the Rahi Ilawart Tourist Bungalow, next to Civil Lines Bus Stand. Of marginal use.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Allahabad Airport is 15km west of Allahabad. Air India ( 0532-258360; www.airindia.com) has one daily flight to Delhi (from ₹3800, 3pm). An autorickshaw to the airport costs ₹450 and a taxi ₹600.

BUS

From the Civil Lines Bus Stand ( ; MG Marg) regular non AC buses run to Varanasi (₹120, three hours, every 10 minutes), Faizabad (₹170, five hours, every 30 minutes, 4.30am to 1am), Gorakhpur (₹250, 10 hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to midnight) and Lucknow (₹176, five hours, hourly, noon to 8pm). AC buses run to Varanasi (₹195, three hours) and Lucknow (₹510, five hours) throughout the day, and to Delhi (₹1680, 14 hours) at 7pm. To go to Delhi or Agra, you can change in Lucknow, or take a train.

To reach Chitrakut go to the Zero Road Bus Stand ( ; Zero Rd) and hop a bus for Karwi (₹125, three hours, every 30 minutes, 4am to 8.30pm), from where you can travel the final 10km by shared autorickshaw (₹10).

TRAIN

Allahabad Junction is the main station. A few daily trains run to Lucknow, Varanasi, Delhi, Agra and Kolkata. Frequent trains also run to Satna, from where you can catch buses to Khajuraho.

HANDY TRAINS FROM ALLAHABAD

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURE
Agra	12403 ALD JP Exp	295/765/1075 (A)	7½	11.30pm

Kolkata (Howrah)	12312 Kalka Mail	435/1150/1640 (A)	14½	5.20pm
Lucknow	14209 PRG-LKO Intercity	330 (B)	4	3.40pm
New Delhi	12559 Shiv Ganga Exp	375/985/1395 (A)	9¾	10.30pm
Satna	12428 ANVT REWA Exp	170/540/740 (A)	3	6.55am
Varanasi	15017 Gorakhpur Exp	140/490/695 (A)	4	8.45am

Fares: (A) sleeper/3AC/2AC, (B) AC chair only

Getting Around

Cycle-rickshaws are plentiful; pay ₹20 for a short trip of 1km to 2km but be prepared to haggle for it.

The stand at the train station or MG Marg are your best bet for autorickshaws. Consider hiring one for a half-day (₹500, four hours) to take in more of the sights.

Vikrams (large shared autos) hang about on the south side of the train station. Destinations include Zero Road Bus Stand (₹10), Civil Lines Bus Stand (₹10) and Sangam (₹15).

WORTH A TRIP

CHITRAKUT: VARANASI IN MINIATURE

Known as a mini Varanasi because of its many temples and ghats, this small, peaceful town on the banks of the River Mandakini is the stuff of Hindu legends. It is here that Hinduism's principal trinity – Brahma, Vishnu and Shiva – took on their incarnations. It is also the place where Lord Rama is believed to have spent 11½ years of his 14-year exile after being banished from his birthplace in Ayodhya at the behest of a jealous stepmother. Today Chitrakut attracts throngs of pilgrims, giving the area a strong religious quality, particularly by Ram Ghat, the town's centre of activity, and at the holy hill of Kamadgiri, 2km away.

Dozens, sometimes hundreds, of devotees descend onto Ram Ghat to take holy dips at dawn before returning at the end of the day for the evening aarti (an auspicious lighting of lamps/candles). Colourful rowboats (with rabbits!) wait here to take you across to the opposite bank, which is actually in Madhya Pradesh, or to scenic spots along the river.

The 2km trip to the Glass Temple, a building covered in religious mosaics made with thousands of pieces of coloured glass, is popular. During the day, many people make their way to Kamadgiri, a hill revered as the holy embodiment of Lord Rama. A 5km circuit (90 minutes) around the base of the hill takes you past prostrating pilgrims, innumerable monkeys and temples galore.

WESTERN UTTAR PRADESH

Side by side in the west of Uttar Pradesh, on the road from Delhi to Agra, Mathura and Vrindavan are a pair of sacred towns that have played a pivotal role in India's religious history.

Mathura

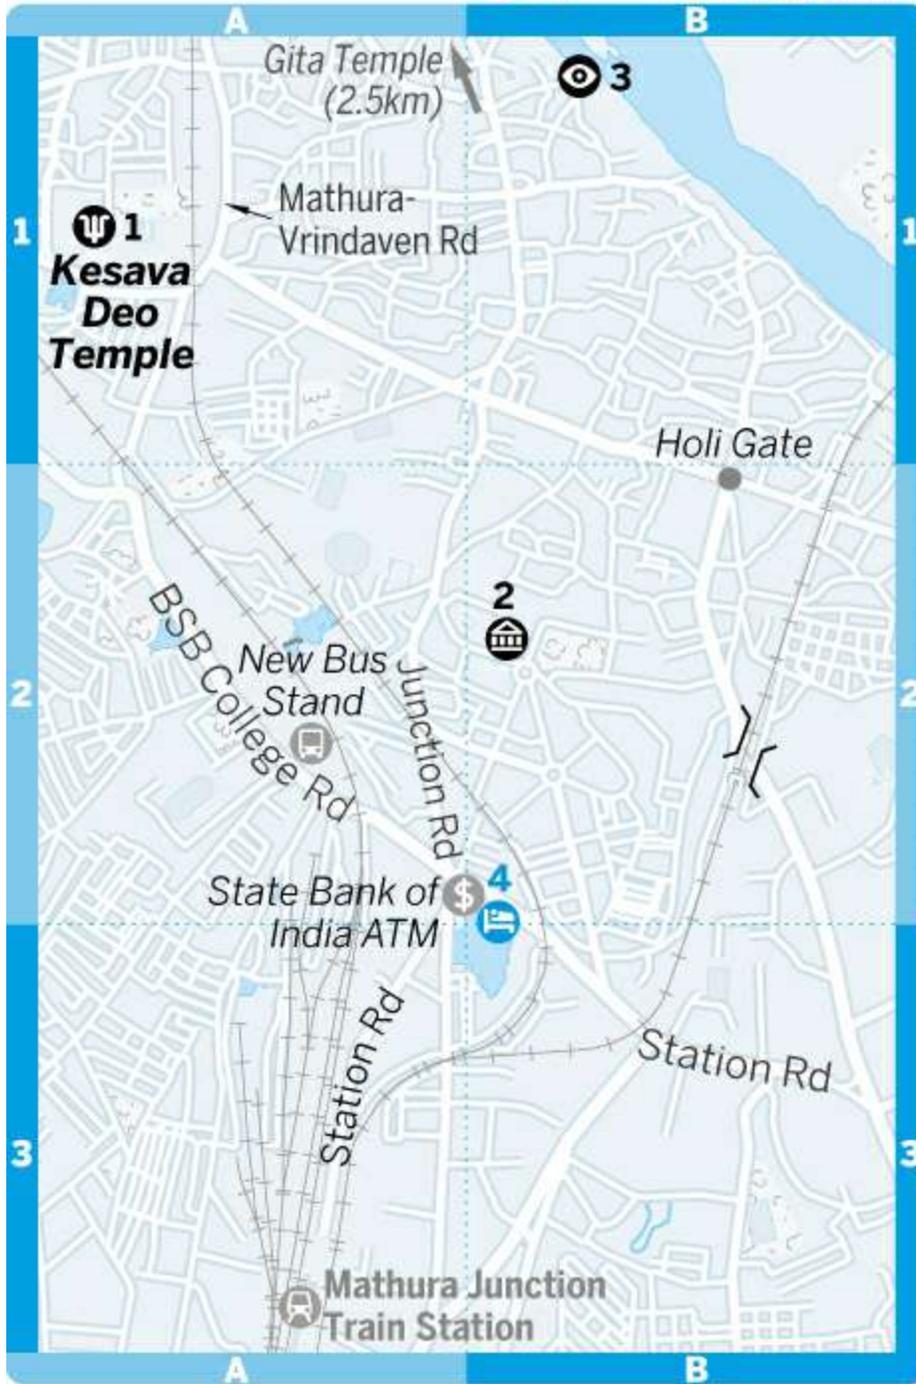

📍 0565 / POP 540,000

Famed for being the birthplace of the much-loved Hindu god Krishna, Mathura is one of Hinduism's seven sacred cities and attracts floods of pilgrims, particularly during Janmastami (Krishna's birthday) in August/September and Holi in February/March. The town is dotted with temples from various ages and the stretch of the sacred Yamuna River which flows past here is lined with 25 ghats. They're best seen at dawn, when many people take their holy dip, and just after sunset, when hundreds of candles are sent floating out onto the river during the evening aarti ceremony.

Mathura was once a Buddhist centre with 20 monasteries that housed 3000 monks, but after the rise of Hinduism, and later sackings by Afghan and Mughal rulers, all that's left of the oldest sights are the beautiful sculptures recovered from ruins, now on display in the Archaeological Museum.

Mathura

0 500 m
0 0.25 miles

Mathura

📍 Top Sights

1 Kesava Deo Temple A1

Sights

2 Archaeological Museum B2

Katra Masjid A1

3 Vishram Ghat B1

Sleeping

4 Hotel Brijwasi Royal B2

Eating

Status Restaurant B2

Sights

★ Kesava Deo Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Shri Krishna Janambhoomi; MAP GOOGLE MAP; ⌚ 5am-9.30pm summer, 5.30am-8.30pm winter)

In the most important temple complex in Mathura, the small, bare room known as Shri Krishna Janambhoomi marks the spot where Krishna is said to have been born in prison more than 5000 years ago. The much larger main temple is decked with murals depicting scenes from Krishna's life, and houses several statues of the god and his consort, Radha. Destroyed and rebuilt a number of times over the past thousand years, the current temple was erected in the 1950s.

Vishram Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A string of ghats and temples lines the Yamuna River north of the main road bridge. The most central and most popular is Vishram Ghat, where Krishna is said to have rested after killing the tyrannical King Kansa. Boats gather along the banks here to take tourists along the Yamuna (₹150 per hour for two people, ₹300 for a full boat).

Gita Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 dawn-dusk)

This serene marble temple on the road to Vrindavan has the entire Bhagavad Gita (Hindu Song of the Divine One) written on a red pillar in the garden.

Katra Masjid

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This fine sandstone mosque was built by the Mughal ruler Aurangzeb in 1661. To clear the site, he ordered the destruction of the then-standing incarnation of the Kesava Deo temple, which marked the spot of Krishna's birth. The mosque, which sits directly beside the current incarnation of the Kesava Deo temple, is now heavily guarded around the clock by soldiers to prevent a repeat of the tragic events at Ayodhya in 1992.

Cameras, bags, and mobile phones must be checked before entering, and you'll have to pass through a security screening.

Archaeological Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Museum Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹5/25, camera ₹20; 🕒 10.30am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

This large museum houses superb collections of religious sculptures by the Mathura school, which flourished from the 3rd century BC to the 12th century AD. It was closed for renovation at the time of research.

Festivals & Events

Janmastami

RELIGIOUS

(🕒 Aug/Sep)

You can barely move here during Krishna's birthday, when temples are swathed in decorations and musical dramas about Krishna are performed.

Holi

RELIGIOUS

(🕒 Feb/Mar)

Perhaps the world's most colourful festival – you've probably seen pictures of people covered in all shades of fluorescent powder – this nationwide party celebrates the arrival of spring and the triumph of good over evil. The action is particularly intense around Mathura and Vrindavan, the birthplace and spiritual home of Krishna.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Brijwasi Royal

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8191818818; www.brijwasihotels.com; SBI Crossing, Station Rd; r incl breakfast ₹3500-4900; 🏠 📶)

A clean and contemporary hotel, with 40 business-like rooms that come with either marble floors or carpets and bath-tubs; some overlook a buffalo pond behind the building. Substantial discounts are available if business is slow.

Status Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SBI Crossing, Station Rd; mains ₹195-275; 🕒 7am-11pm)

At the Hotel Brijwasi Royal, this well-staffed place serves up some tasty Indian veg plates, and is deservedly popular. Go for the tandoori platter.

Information

There is a State Bank of India ATM (GOOGLE MAP; Station Rd) at SBI Crossing, next door to Brijwasi Royal and not far from the New Bus Stand. There is a second one at Shri Krishna Janmbhoomi.

Getting There & Around

BUS

The so-called New Bus Stand (GOOGLE MAP; Vrindavan Rd) has buses to Delhi (₹135, four hours, every 30 minutes, 5am to 10pm) and Agra (₹65, 90 minutes, every 15 minutes, 4am to 9pm).

Shared autos and tempos that ply Station and Mathura-Vrindavan Rds charge ₹15 for the 13km Mathura–Vrindavan run.

TRAIN

Frequent trains go to Delhi (sleeper/AC chair ₹170/260, two to three hours), Agra (sleeper/AC chair ₹170/330, one hour), and Bharatpur (sleeper/AC chair ₹100/270, 45 minutes). The Bharatpur trains continue to Sawai Madhopur (for Ranthambore National Park; two hours) and Kota (5½ hours).

Vrindavan

 0565 / POP 65,000

The village of Vrindavan is where the young Krishna is said to have grown up. Pilgrims flock here from all over India – and in the case of the Hare Krishna community, from all over the world. Dozens of temples, old and modern, dot the area. They come in all shapes and sizes and many have their own unique peculiarities, making a visit here more than just your average temple hop.

Vrindavan

Vrindavan

🎯 Top Sights

1 Krishna Balaram Temple Complex A2

🎯 Sights

2 Govind Dev Temple B1

3 Madan Mohan Temple A1

4 Nidhivan Temple B1

5 Pagal Baba Temple A2

6 Radha Ballabh Temple B1

7 Rangaji Temple B1

Sleeping

ISKCON Guest House

A2

Eating

Sri Govinda Restaurant

A2

Information

International Society for Krishna Consciousness

A2

Krishna Balaram Welcome Office

A2

Sights

Most temples are open from dawn to dusk and admission is free. Among those worth a stop are Rangaji Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 5.30-10.30am 4-9pm summer, 6-11am & 3.30-8.30pm winter), Vrindavan's largest; Madan Mohan Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), Vrindavan's oldest; Radha Ballabh Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP), dedicated to Krishna's consort, Radha; and Nidhivan Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk), which Krishna is said to visit every night.

★ Krishna Balaram Temple Complex

HINDU TEMPLE

(Iskcon; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 7.30am-12.45pm & 4-9pm winter, 4.30-9pm summer)

The International Society for Krishna Consciousness (Iskcon; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0565-2540343; www.iskcon.org), also known as the Hare Krishnas, is based at the Krishna Balaram temple complex (Iskcon Temple). Accessed through a beautiful, white marble gate, the temple houses the tomb of Swami Prabhupada (1896–1977), the founder of the Hare Krishna organisation.

Inside the temple is a whirl of activity, filled with chanting and singing, and devotees prostrating in prayer, playing drums, and consulting with monks. Several hundred foreigners attend courses and seminars here annually.

The temple is closed to the public at various times of the day, most significantly from 12.45pm to 4pm (4.30pm in summer). If you're carrying a bag, you must use the side entrance.

Pagal Baba Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 6am-noon & 3.30-8.30pm winter, 5-11.30am & 3-9pm summer)

This 10-storey temple, a fairy-tale-castle lookalike, has an amusing succession of animated puppets and dioramas behind glass cases on the ground floor, which depict scenes from the lives of Rama and Krishna. Puppet shows telling the story are performed year-round.

Govind Dev Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 8am-12.30pm & 4.30-8pm)

This cavernous, red-sandstone temple, built in 1590 by Raja Man Singh of Amber, has cute bells carved on its pillars. The resident monkeys here are as cheeky as any in India, so stay alert!

Sleeping & Eating

It's possible to stay at the guesthouse (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0565-2540021; www.iskconvrindavan.com; r with AC ₹950; 🚫) at the back of the Hare Krishna temple complex (though devotees are prioritised). Otherwise, there are several hotels, ranging from modest to fancy, on the main road west of the complex.

Sri Govinda Restaurant

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; mains ₹100-200; 🕒 8am-2.30pm & 6-9.30pm)

Does Indian veg dishes, pasta, cakes, shakes, salads and soups. Located inside Krishna Balaram Temple Complex.

Information

The closest ATM is Andhra Bank (GOOGLE MAP), 250m down from the main entrance of the temple complex (near the Bhaktivedanta Swami gate).

Krishna Balaram Welcome Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9557849475; 🕒 10am-1pm & 5-8pm)

Has lists of places to stay in Vrindavan and can help with booking Gita (studies in the Bhagavad Gita, an ancient Hindu scripture) classes as well as all travel agency services.

Getting There & Around

Tempos, shared autos and buses all charge ₹15 between Vrindavan and Mathura.

The temples here are spread out, so a cycle-rickshaw tour is a good way to see them. Expect to pay ₹200 to ₹250 for a half-day tour (₹350 to ₹400 in an autorickshaw).

Uttarakhand

Uttarakhand Highlights

Rishikesh

Haridwar

Rajaji Tiger Reserve

Dehra Dun

Mussoorie

The Char Dham

Uttarkashi

Joshimath

Around Joshimath

Valley of Flowers & Hem Kund

Corbett Tiger Reserve

Nainital

Almora

Around Almora

Kausani

Bageshwar

Pithoragarh

Munsyari

Uttarakhand

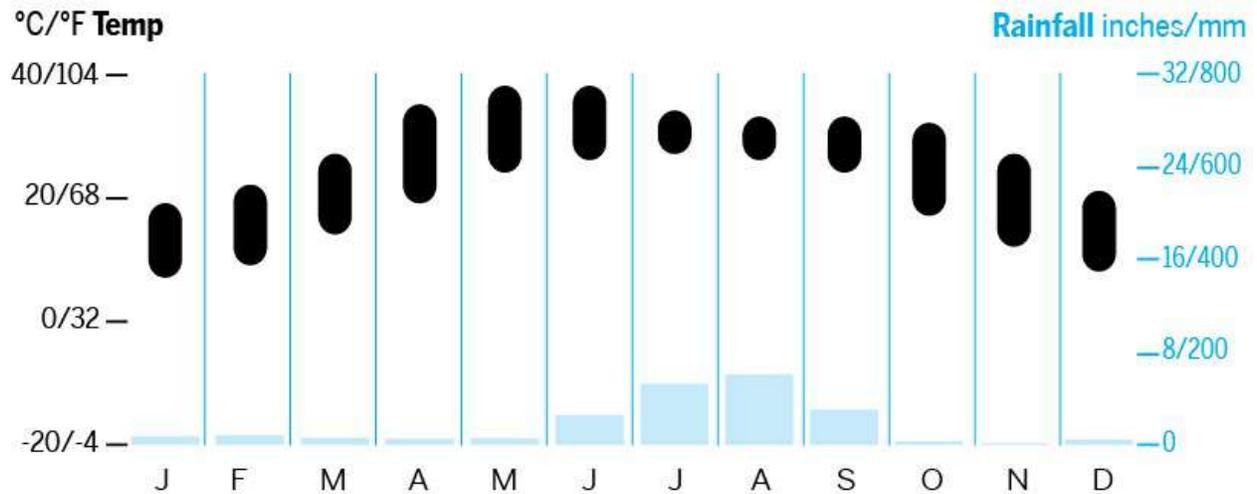

Why Go?

Uttarakhand is a place of myth and mountains. Hindus think of it as Dev Bhoomi – the Land of Gods – and the dramatic terrain is covered with holy peaks, lakes and rivers. Twisting roads and high-altitude hiking trails lead to spectacular pilgrimage sites where tales from Hindu epics are set. Though the presence of Shiva and Parvati (in a few of her forms) tower over the state, the imprint of the British is equally apparent: the legend of Jim Corbett lives on in the famed tiger reserve that bears his name; popular holiday towns were once Raj-era hill stations; and the Beatles turned Rishikesh into a magnet for spiritual seekers and yoga practitioners worldwide.

Uttarakhand may seem like a silver medallist: it's the state with the second-highest tiger population (after Karnataka) and boasts India's second-highest peak (Nanda Devi); but its diversity of activities and sheer natural beauty are pure travellers' gold.

When to Go

Rishikesh

- ➔ Apr–mid-Jun The best season for tiger spotting at Corbett Tiger Reserve.
- ➔ Jul–mid-Sep Monsoons may make travel difficult; Valley of Flowers blooms July and August.
- ➔ Mid-Sep–Nov The perfect time to trek the Himalaya.

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ Prakash Lok
- ➔ Chetan Puriwallah
- ➔ Little Buddha Cafe

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Mohan's Binsar Retreat
- ➔ Gateway Resort
- ➔ Haveli Hari Ganga
- ➔ Kasmanda Palace Hotel

Uttarakhand Highlights

1 Gaumukh Hiking below stunning peaks to the source of the holy Ganges.

2 Har-ki-Pairi Ghat Floating a candle down the Ganges at the gorgeous nightly ceremony in Haridwar.

- 3 Corbett Tiger Reserve Spotting some stripes at India's first national park.
- 4 Rishikesh Pursuing inner peace at the yoga and meditation capital of the universe.
- 5 Nainital Cooling off from the heat at this scenic Raj-era hill station.
- 6 Valley of Flowers National Park Strolling among a dazzling display of wildflowers, framed by snowy summits.
- 7 Kuari Pass Trekking amid a mind-blowing Himalayan landscape.

History

Over the centuries various dynasties have dominated the region, including the Guptas, Kuturyi and Chand rajas. In the 18th century the Nepalese Gurkhas attacked first the kingdom of Kumaon, then Garhwal, prompting the British to step in and take most of the region as part of the Sugauli Treaty in 1816.

After Independence, the region was merged with Uttar Pradesh, but a vocal separatist movement followed, and the present-day state of Uttaranchal was formed in 2000. In 2007 it was officially renamed Uttarakhand, a traditional name meaning 'northern country'.

Climate

Temperatures are determined by altitude in this state of elevation extremes. Trekking the Himalaya is possible from May to October, but can be dangerous between July and mid-September, during the monsoon, when violent cloudbursts cause landslides. Hill stations offer a welcome escape from summertime heat, while low-lying Rishikesh is most comfortable from October to March.

Information

Most towns in the region have an Uttarakhand Tourism office, however, the main responsibility for the region's tourism rests with the Garhwal Mandal Vikas Nigam (GMVN; www.gmvnl.in), in the Garhwal district and Kumaon Mandal Vikas Nigam (KMVN; <http://kmvn.gov.in>), in the Kumaon district.

Getting Around

Tough old government buses are the main means of travelling around Uttarakhand. In addition, crowded shared jeeps criss-cross the state, linking remote towns and villages to important road junctions. Pay 10 times the share-taxi rate to hire the whole vehicle and travel in comfort. Roads that snake through the hills can be nerve-racking and stomach-churning, and are sometimes blocked by monsoon-season landslides.

Rishikesh

 0135 / POP 102,200 / ELEV 356M

Ever since the Beatles rocked up at the ashram of the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi in the late '60s, Rishikesh has been a magnet for spiritual seekers. Today it styles itself as the 'Yoga Capital of the World', with masses of ashrams and all kinds of yoga and meditation classes. Most of this action is north of the main town, where the exquisite setting on the fast-flowing Ganges, surrounded by forested hills, is conducive to meditation and mind expansion. In the evening, an almost supernatural breeze blows down the valley, setting temple bells ringing as sadhus ('holy' men), pilgrims and tourists prepare for the nightly ganga aarti (river worship ceremony). You can learn to play the sitar or tabla; try Hasya yoga (laughter therapy), practise meditation or take a punt on crystal healing.

But Rishikesh is not all spirituality and contorted limbs; it's now a popular white-water rafting centre, backpacker hang-out and Himalayan-trekking gateway.

Rishikesh is divided into two main areas: the crowded, unattractive downtown area (Rishikesh town), where you'll find the bus and train stations as well as the Triveni Ghat (a popular and auspicious bathing ghat and place of prayer on the Ganges); and the riverside communities a few kilometres upstream around Ram Jhula and Lakshman Jhula, where most of the accommodation, ashrams, restaurants and travellers are ensconced. The two jhula (suspension bridges) that cross the river are pedestrian-only – though scooters and motorcycles freely use them. Swarg Ashram, located on the eastern bank, is the traffic-free ‘spiritual centre’ of Rishikesh, while High Bank, west of Lakshman Jhula, is a small enclave popular with backpackers.

Rishikesh

📍 Top Sights

1 Swarg Niwas & Shri Trayanakshwar Temple G1

📍 Sights

2 Maharishi Mahesh Yogi Ashram D3

👤 Activities, Courses & Tours

3 Anand Prakash Yoga Ashram F1

4 De-N-Ascent Expeditions	F1
5 GMVN Trekking & Mountaineering Division	A3
6 Omkarananda Ganga Sadan	D2
7 Parmarth Niketan Ashram	D2
8 Red Chilli Adventure	F1
9 Rishikesh Yog Peeth	E2
10 Shiva Yoga Peeth	G4
Sri Sant Seva Ashram	G4

Sleeping

11 Bhandari Swiss Cottage	E1
12 Dewa Retreat	F1
13 Dhiraj Guest House	F1
14 Divine Ganga Cottage	F1
15 Divine Resort	F1
16 Hotel Ishan	F1
New Bhandari Swiss Cottage	E1
17 Sudesh Guest House	E2
18 Vashishth Guest House	D3

Eating

19 Bistro Nirvana	E1
20 Chatsang Cafe	F4
21 Devraj Coffee Corner	F1
22 Ganga Beach Restaurant	G3
23 Little Buddha Cafe	F4
24 Madras Cafe	D2
Oasis Restaurant	E1
25 Pyramid Cafe	F4
26 Tip Top Restaurant	D2

Shopping

27 Adventure Axis	F1
-----------------------------------	----

Information

28 Shivananda Ashram	E1
--------------------------------------	----

Transport

Jeep Stand	G3
29 Main Bus Stand	B3

 Sights

Lakshman Jhula

The defining image of Rishikesh is the view across the Lakshman Jhula hanging bridge to the huge, 13-storey wedding-cake temple of Swarg Niwas and Shri Trayanbakshwar (MAP GOOGLE MAP). Built by the organisation of the guru Kailashanand, it resembles a fairy-land castle and has dozens of shrines to Hindu deities on each level, interspersed with jewellery and textile shops. Sunset is an especially good time to photograph the temple from the bridge itself, and you'll hear the bell-clanging and chanting of devotees in the morning and evening. Shops selling devotional CDs add to the cacophony of noise on this side of the river. Markets, restaurants, ashrams and guesthouses sprawl on both sides of the river; in recent years the area has grown into the busiest and liveliest part of upper Rishikesh.

Swarg Ashram

A pleasant 2km walk south of Lakshman Jhula, along the path skirting the east bank of the Ganges, leads to the spiritual community of Swarg Ashram, made up of temples, ashrams, a crowded bazaar, sadhus and the bathing ghats (steps or landing on a river) where religious ceremonies are performed at sunrise and sunset. The colourful, though rather touristy, ganga aarti is held at the riverside temple of the Parmarth Niketan Ashram every evening around sunset, with singing, chanting, musicians and the lighting of candles.

Maharishi Mahesh Yogi Ashram

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹100/600; 🕒 9am-4pm)

Just south of Swarg Ashram is what's left of the original Maharishi Mahesh Yogi Ashram, where the Beatles stayed and apparently wrote much of the White Album. After decades of neglect, the Forest Department has decided to reclaim it from the jungle growth that had nearly consumed it, turning it into a pilgrimage site for Beatles fans, as well as an evolving graffiti-art museum. Don't miss the meditation hall, with bizarre warrens of rock-lined hallways, plus striking new paintings.

Activities

Yoga & Meditation

Yoga and meditation are ubiquitous in India's yoga capital. Teaching and yoga styles vary tremendously, so check out a few classes and ask others about their experiences before committing yourself to a course. Many places also offer ayurvedic massage, and some residential ashrams have strict rules forbidding students from consuming drugs, alcohol, tobacco and meat during their stay.

Omkaranda Ganga Sadan

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0135-2430763; www.iyengaryoga.in; Lakshman Jhula Rd; r with/witho AC ₹2000/600, minimum 3-day stay)

On the river at Ram Jhula, this ashram has comfortable rooms and specialises in highly recommended Iyengar yoga classes. There are intensive seven- to 10-day courses (₹1200) from October to May; advance reservations recommended. In the gaps between the intensives, day classes are offered (₹300, beginners 4pm to 5.30pm, general 6pm to 7.30pm, Monday to Saturday, prices go down if you do more than one class).

Anand Prakash Yoga Ashram

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0135-2442344; www.anandprakashashram.com; Badrinath Rd, Tapovan; private/share r incl full board ₹1200/900)

About 1km north of Lakshman Jhula, you can stay at this ashram for as long or as little as you like, taking part in morning and afternoon Akhanda yoga classes (included in the price). The food is excellent and rooms are simple but comfortable and clean. Silence is the rule from 9pm to 9am. If you're not staying, drop in for classes for ₹200.

Parmarth Niketan Ashram

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2434301; www.parmarth.com; Swarg Ashram; r with/without AC ₹1600/600)

Dominating the centre of Swarg Ashram and drawing visitors to its evening ganga aarti on the riverbank, Parmarth has a wonderfully ornate and serene garden courtyard. The price includes a room with a private bathroom and basic hatha yoga sessions.

Rishikesh Yog Peeth

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2440193; www.rishikeshyogpeeth.com; Swarg Ashram; 40-day course US$1400)

With its excellent reputation, this popular yoga-teacher-training school has become something of a local industry.

Sri Sant Seva Ashram

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2430465; www.santsewaashram.org.in; Lakshman Jhula; r without/with AC ₹600/1500)

Sri Sant Seva Ashram overlooks the Ganges in Lakshman Jhula, and its large rooms are popular, so book ahead. The more expensive rooms have balconies with superb river views. The yoga classes are mixed styles and open to all. Beginner (₹100), and intermediate and advanced (₹200) sessions run daily. It is also home to the well-regarded Shiva Yoga Peeth (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9622724204; www.shivayogapeeth.org; 200/300/500hr $210/315/420) yoga-teacher-training program.

Rafting, Kayaking & Trekking

More than 100 operators offer full- and half-day rafting trips, launching upstream and paddling down to Rishikesh. Some also offer multiday rafting trips, with camping along the river. The official rafting season runs from 15 September to 30 June. A half-day trip starts at about ₹1000 per person, while a full day costs from ₹1800. Most companies also offer all-inclusive Himalayan treks to places such as Kuari Pass, Har-ki Dun and Gangotri/Tapovan from around ₹3500 per day.

Red Chilli Adventure

TREKKING, RAFTING

( ;  0135-2434021; www.redchilliadventure.com; Lakshman Jhula Rd;  9am-8pm)

Reliable outfit offering Himalayan trekking and rafting trips throughout Uttarakhand and to Himachal Pradesh and Ladakh.

De-N-Ascent Expeditions

KAYAKING, TREKKING

( ;  0135-2442354; www.kayakhimalaya.com; Badrinath Rd, Tapovan)

De-N-Ascent Expeditions are specialists in kayaking lessons and expeditions. Learn to paddle and Eskimo roll with an experienced instructor, or go on multiday kayaking or rafting adventures. Also organises trekking trips.

GMVN Trekking & Mountaineering Division

TREKKING

( ;  0135-2431793; www.gmvnl.in; Lakshman Jhula Rd, Muni-ki-Reti;  10am-5pm)

Can arrange high-altitude treks in the Garhwal Himalaya, and hires out trekking equipment, guides and porters.

Walks & Beaches

An easy, 15-minute walk to two small waterfalls starts 3km north of Lakshman Jhula bridge on the south side of the river. The start is marked by drink stalls and a roadside shrine, and the path is easy to find. 4WD taxis cost ₹100 from Lakshman Jhula.

On the other side of the river, a 20-minute uphill walk (signposted) to lovely Neer Garh Waterfall (₹30) starts about 2km north of Lakshman Jhula.

For a longer hike, follow the dedicated pilgrims who take water from the Ganges to offer at Neelkantha Mahadev Temple, a 7km three-hour walk along a forest path from Swarg Ashram. You can also reach the temple by road (about 20km) from Lakshman Jhula.

GARHWAL & KUMAON

Uttarkhand is split into two administrative districts: Garhwal and Kumaon. Locals consider the region of Garhwal, covering the western part of Uttarkhand, to be the masculine half of the state due to its exceptionally burly topography. The character of the landscape – and, some say, the people – is largely defined by the four major rivers that flow from Himalayan glaciers and have carved the terrain into a rugged network of ridges and canyons.

Blessed by a landscape that's gentler and sweeter than that of Garhwal, Kumaon is said to be the feminine half of Uttarakhand. With its rolling, terraced hills and graceful Himalayan summits, as well as the strength of its goddess-worshipping culture, there's something incredibly special here that's easy to experience but impossible to define.

Festivals & Events

International Yoga Festival

YOGA

(www.internationalyogafestival.com; 🕒 Mar)

In the first week of March, swamis and yoga masters from around the world flock to Rishikesh for lectures and training. Most of the action is centred on the Parmarth Niketan Ashram in Swarg Ashram. Check the website for dates.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Kumbh Mela, Haridwar
International Yoga Festival, Rishikesh
Shivaratri, Dehra Dun
Nanda Devi Fair, Almora

Sleeping

Most of the accommodation is spread on both sides of the river around Lakshman Jhula; there are a handful of hotels among the ashrams at Swarg Ashram and directly across the river around Ram Jhula, and some good budget places at High Bank.

Though many hotels have backpackers in mind, more and more decent midrange options are appearing each year, and the few top-end hotels are good.

Lakshman Jhula

There are several good budget options on both sides of the river here, the liveliest part of Rishikesh. Some of the best-value places are at the paying guesthouses in the Tapovan area, along the lane that leads to Divine Ganga Cottage.

Dhiraj Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9719357411; s/d ₹450/550)

Clean, friendly and cheap – this family-run place hits the trifecta. Rooms are simple and pleasant, and each has use of its own little kitchen (gas is extra). It's about a seven-minute walk from the bridge at Lakshman Jhula.

Divine Ganga Cottage

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0135-2442175; www.divinegangacottage.com; r ₹2400, with AC ₹3200;

Tucked away from the bustle of Lakshman Jhula, this neat hotel is surrounded by small rice paddies and local homes with gardens. The huge upstairs terrace has supreme river views. Non-AC rooms downstairs are small and overpriced but the larger stylish AC rooms upstairs are some of the best in town, with writing tables and modern bathrooms.

Hotel Ishan

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2431534; r ₹2000-4000; 📶 @ 📶)

This long-running riverfront place near Lakshman Jhula recently went upscale. Rooms are comfortable and tastefully furnished, with shared or private terraces overlooking the Ganges.

Divine Resort

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2442128; www.divineresort.com; r ₹3500-7000, ste ₹10,000-15,000; 📶 📶 📶)

Some rooms in this top-end hotel have stunning river views – but few rival that of the Ganges-facing glass elevator, which could be a tourist attraction all its own. Then there's the infinity pool, perched above the river bank... We'd say it's the top hotel around Lakshman Jhula. About half of the rooms are being freshly renovated.

Dewa Retreat

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2442382; www.dewaretreat.com; r without/with river view ₹4500/5000; 📶 📶 📶)

Lakshman Jhula's newest top-end hotel features immaculate rooms that blend simplicity with luxury. The best rooms have balconies with Ganges valley views, and the outdoor swimming pool takes the edge off a sultry day.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

The following price ranges refer to a double room with bathroom and are inclusive of tax:

$ less than ₹1000

$$ ₹1000–3000

$$$ more than ₹3000

High Bank

Bhandari Swiss Cottage

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2432939; www.bhandarisswisscottagerishikesh.com; r from ₹300 with AC from ₹800; 📶 @ 📶)

This backpacker favourite has rooms in several budgets – the higher up you stay, the higher the price. Rooms are varying degrees of worn and could use a bit of love, but the big balconies are winners, with expansive views of the green mountains. It has an excellent little courtyard restaurant, internet cafe and yoga classes.

New Bhandari Swiss Cottage

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2435322; www.newbhandarisswisscottage.com; r ₹400-800, with AC ₹1000-1500; 📶 @ 📶)

One of the last places on the High Bank lane, this is a large, popular place with rooms ranging from clean and simple to simply impressive. Many have been renovated recently. There's a massage centre and a good restaurant.

Swarg Ashram

If you're serious about yoga and introspection, stay at one of Swarg's numerous ashrams. Otherwise, there's a knot of hotels a block back from the river towards the southern end of Swarg.

Sudesh Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9760313572; sudeshguesthouse771@gmail.com; r without/with AC ₹300/800; 📶)

A good budget choice in Swarg Ashram, here you'll find some of the best-value rooms in the neighbourhood. There's a yoga hall, rooftop terrace, shared kitchen, and filtered water to fill up your bottle.

★ Vashishth Guest House

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2440029; www.vashishthgroup.com; r without AC ₹950, with ₹1500-1800; 🏠 📶)

This sweet little boutique hotel has colourfully painted walls, comfortable mattresses and a small lending library. A couple of the rooms boast good-sized kitchens with cooking utensils, table and chairs. For what you get, this is one of the best deals in Rishikesh.

Eating

Virtually every restaurant in Rishikesh serves only vegetarian food, but there are lots of travellers' restaurants whipping up various interpretations of Continental and Israeli food, as well as Indian and Chinese. High Bank is the only area in town where you'll find meat on the menu.

Lakshman Jhula

★ Devraj Coffee Corner

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lakshman Jhula; snacks & mains ₹50-230; 🕒 8am-9pm)

Perched above the bridge and looking across the river to Shri Trayanbakshwar temple, this German bakery is a sublime spot for a break at any time of the day. The coffee is the best in town and the menu ranges from specialities such as brown bread with yak cheese to soups and sizzlers, along with croissants, apple strudel and more.

There's a good bookshop next door.

Pyramid Cafe

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹110-180; 🕒 8am-10pm; 📶)

Sit on cushions under open-sided, pyramid-shaped roofs and choose from a menu of home-cooked Indian food, plus a few Tibetan and Western dishes including pancakes. The family that runs it is superfriendly and they also rent out a couple of peaceful, well-kept pyramid tents with double beds and attached baths (₹600).

Chatsang Cafe

FUSION $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lakshman Jhula; mains ₹150-250; 🕒 8am-10pm)

The clatter of chopping knives and sizzling pans coming from the open kitchen raises expectations that something delicious will soon be placed on your table – and you won't be disappointed. With innovative twists on Indian and international dishes, including several varieties of khichdi (spiced rice and lentils), the food here seems fresher than anywhere else in town.

★ Little Buddha Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lakshman Jhula; mains ₹110-250; 🕒 8am-11pm; 📶)

This funky treehouse-style restaurant has an ultraloungey top floor, tables overlooking the Ganges River and really good international food. Pizzas are big and the mixed vegetable platter is a serious feast. It's one of the busiest places in Lakshman Jhula, for good reason.

Ganga Beach Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lakshman Jhula; mains ₹100-200; 🕒 7.30am-10.30pm; 📶)

Ganga Beach Restaurant has a great riverside location, with a spacious terrace and a big menu including crêpes and ice-cold lassis.

High Bank

Oasis Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹90-170; 🕒 8am-10pm)

At New Bhandari Swiss Cottage, this place has some character, with candlelit tables in the garden and hanging lanterns inside. The menu covers oodles of world cuisines, from Mexican and Thai to Israeli and Tibetan, and features a number of chicken dishes. Great desserts include apple crumble.

Bistro Nirvana

INTERNATIONAL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; mains ₹80-250; 🕒 9am-10pm)

This new joint hits the right groove, with a shaded patio and elevated tables with cushioned bench seating. The theme is bamboo and the multi-regional food is tasty.

Swarg Ashram & Ram Jhula

Madras Cafe

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Ram Jhula; mains ₹100-180; 🕒 8am-9pm; 📶)

This local institution recently underwent a modern facelift but still dishes up tasty South and North Indian vegetarian food, thalis, a mean mushroom curry, wholewheat pancakes and the intriguing Himalayan 'health pilau', as well as superthick lassis.

Tip Top Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Swarg Ashram; mains ₹90-200; 🕒 9am-9.30pm)

This friendly little joint is perched up high, catching river views and breezes. Customise your own sandwich, or dig into Indian, Italian or Israeli dishes.

Shopping

Swarg Ashram is the place to go for bookshops, ayurvedic herbal medicines, clothing, handicrafts and tourist trinkets such as jewellery and Tibetan singing bowls, though there are also plenty of stalls around Lakshman Jhula.

If you need outdoor gear, your best bet is well-stocked Adventure Axis ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Badrinath Rd, Lakshman Jhula; 🕒 10am-8pm).

Information

DANGERS & ANNOYANCES

Be cautious of befriending sadhus – while some are on genuine spiritual journeys, the orange robes have been used as a disguise by fugitives from the law since medieval times, and people have been robbed and worse.

The current in some parts of the Ganges is very strong and people occasionally drown here. Don't swim beyond your depth.

INTERNET ACCESS

Internet access is available all over town, including The Great Himalaya (GOOGLE MAP; per hour ₹30; 🕒 8am-9.30pm; 📶), usually for ₹30 per hour.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Himalayan Institute Hospital (📞 0135-2471200, emergency 0135-2471225; 🕒 24hr)

The nearest large hospital, 17km along the road to Dehra Dun and 1km beyond Jolly Grant Airport.

Shivananda Ashram (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2430040; www.sivanandaonline.org; Lakshman Jhula Rd) Provides free medical services and has a pharmacy.

MONEY

Some travel agents around Lakshman Jhula and Swarg Ashram will exchange travellers cheques and cash.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Uttarakhand Tourism Office (GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2430209; Main Bus Stand; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) In a building behind the main bus stand, with eager staff.

Getting There & Away

BUS

There are frequent buses to Haridwar and Dehra Dun; for Mussoorie change at Dehra Dun. Buses run north to Char Dham sites during the yatra season

(May to October), though direct buses to Gangotri were infrequent at the time of research – to get there, connect in Uttarkashi; likewise, there are no buses to Yamunotri – you'll have to change in Dehra Dun and Barkot.

Private AC and Volvo buses run to Delhi (₹600 to ₹900, seven hours) several times a day.

Private night buses to Jaipur (seat/sleeper/AC sleeper ₹600/700/1200, 13 hours) and Pushkar (seat/sleeper ₹650/700, 16 hours) can be booked at travel agents in Lakshman Jhula, Swarg Ashram and High Bank, but they leave from Haridwar. You can also book a bus to Agra (AC sleeper/Volvo ₹750/1300, 12 hours) that departs from Dehra Dun.

BUSES FROM RISHIKESH

The following buses depart from the main bus stand (A) (MAP GOOGLE MAP) or the Yatra/GMOU bus stand (B) (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Badrinath (B)	425	14	5am
Dehra Dun (A)	51	1½	half-hourly
Delhi (A)	255/500 (ordinary/AC)	7	half-hourly
Gangotri (B)	380	12	5.30am
Haridwar (A)	35	1	half-hourly
Joshimath (B)	360	12	half-hourly 3.30-6am, 9am
Kedarnath (B)	400	12	6am
Uttarkashi (B)	240	7	8 buses 4.15am-noon

SHARE JEEPS & TAXI

Share jeeps (GOOGLE MAP) to Uttarkashi (₹280, five hours) and Joshimath (₹380, eight hours) leave when full from Natraj Chowk, near the corner of Dehra Dun Rd and Dhalwala Bypass Rd. It's best to get here between 5am and 7am.

To hire cars for out-of-town destinations, go to the taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP) at Lakshman Jhula; the taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP) between the main and yatra (pilgrimage) bus stands; or the taxi and autorickshaw stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP) at Ram Jhula. Rates include Haridwar (₹920, one hour), Dehra Dun (₹1250, 1½ hours), Jolly Grant Airport (₹820, one hour), Uttarkashi (for Gangotri; ₹4080, seven hours), Joshimath (₹5610, nine hours) and Almora (₹7000, 10 hours). For long-distance trips you may find a cheaper rate by asking around at travel agents and guesthouses.

Vikrams (large autorickshaws) charge ₹400 to make the trip to Haridwar.

TRAIN

Very few trains run from Rishikesh itself, so your best bet is to take a bus or taxi to the train station in Haridwar and hop on-board there. Bookings for trains from Haridwar can be made at the train station in Rishikesh, or at travel agents around Lakshman Jhula and Swarg Ashram (for a fee).

Getting Around

Shared vikrams run from the downtown Ghat Rd junction up past Ram Jhula (₹10 per person) and the High Bank turn-off to Lakshman Jhula. To hire a private vikram or autorickshaw from downtown to Lakshman Jhula should cost ₹100 to 'upside' – the top of the hill on which the Lakshman Jhula area sits – and ₹120 to 'downside' – closer to the bridge. Be prepared to haggle, hard. From Ram Jhula to High Bank or Lakshman Jhula is ₹50.

To get to the eastern bank of the Ganges you either need to walk across one of the suspension bridges or take the ferry (GOOGLE MAP); one way/return ₹10/15; 🕒 7.30am-6.15pm) from Ram Jhula.

On the eastern bank of the Ganges, taxis and share jeeps wait to take passengers to waterfalls and Neelkantha Mahadev Temple (shared/private ₹120/1000), but it's a 16km trip by road to get from one side of the river to the other. Lakshman Jhula to Swarg Ashram costs ₹10 in a shared jeep, or ₹80 for the whole vehicle. Find rides at the taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP) in Swarg Ashram, or the jeep stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP) in Lakshman Jhula.

Bicycles (per day ₹100), scooters (per day ₹300) and motorcycles (per day ₹400 to ₹700) can be hired around the Lakshman Jhula area. There are no actual shops – rent from guys on the street or ask at guesthouses.

Haridwar

📍01334 / POP 311,000 / ELEV 249M

Propitiously located at the point where the Ganges emerges from the Himalaya, Haridwar (also called Hardwar) is Uttarakhand's holiest Hindu city, and pilgrims arrive here in droves to bathe in the fast-flowing Ganges. The sheer number of people gathering around Har-ki-Pairi Ghat give Haridwar a chaotic but reverent feel. Within the religious hierarchy of India, Haridwar is much more significant than Rishikesh, an hour further north, and every evening the river comes alive with flickering flames as floating offerings are released onto the Ganges. It's especially busy during the yatra (pilgrimage) season from May to October, in particular during July, when hundreds of thousands of Shiva devotees, known as Kanwarias, descend upon the city.

Haridwar's main street is Railway Rd, becoming Upper Rd, which runs parallel to the Ganges canal (the river proper runs further to the east). Generally only cycle-rickshaws are allowed between Laltarao Bridge and Bhimgoda Jhula (Bhimgoda Bridge), so vehicles travel around the opposite bank of the river. The alleyways of Bara Bazaar run south of Har-ki-Pairi Ghat.

Haridwar

Haridwar

📍 Top Sights

1 Har-ki-Pairi Ghat

D2

📍 Sights

2 Mansa Devi Temple

C1

3 Shiva Statue

B3

Activities, Courses & Tours

4 Mohan's Adventure Tours B3

Sleeping

5 Bhaj-Govindam D1

6 Haveli Hari Ganga C2

7 Hotel Arjun B3

8 Hotel La Casa B3

Eating

9 Big Ben Restaurant B3

Haveli Hari Ganga Restaurant C2

10 Hoshiyar Puri D2

Drinking & Nightlife

11 Prakash Lok C2

Information

12 Rishikul Ayurvedic Hospital A4

13 Sai Forex C2

14 State Bank of India B3

15 Uttarakhand Tourism Office A4

Transport

16 GMOU Bus Stand A4

17 UK Roadways Bus Stand A4

18 Vikrams to Rishikesh B3

Sights

★ Har-ki-Pairi Ghat

GHAT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Har-ki-Pairi (The Footstep of God) is where Vishnu is said to have dropped some divine nectar and left behind a footprint. Every evening, hundreds of worshippers gather for the ganga aarti (river worship ceremony). Officials in blue uniforms collect donations and, as the sun sets, bells ring out a rhythm, torches are lit, and leaf baskets with flower petals inside and a candle on top (₹10) are lit and placed on the river to drift away downstream.

Tourists can mingle with the crowd to experience the rituals of an ancient religion that still retains its power in the modern age. Someone may claim to be a priest and help you with your puja before asking for ₹200 or more. If you want to make a donation, it's best to give to a uniformed collector.

The best times to visit the ghat are early morning or just before dusk.

Shiva Statue

LANDMARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This statue is a Haridwar landmark.

Mansa Devi & Chanda Devi Temples

To get to the crowded hilltop temple of Mansa Devi (MAP GOOGLE MAP); return cable car ₹95; 🕒 7am-7pm Apr-Oct, 8.30am-6pm Nov-Mar), a wish-fulfilling goddess, take the cable car (GOOGLE MAP); return ₹95; 🕒 7am-7pm Apr-Oct, 8am-6.30pm Nov-Mar). The path to the cable car is lined with stalls selling packages of prasad (a food offering used in religious ceremonies) to bring to the goddess on the hill. You can walk up (a steep 1.5km) but beware of prasad-stealing monkeys.

Many visitors and pilgrims combine this with another cable car (GOOGLE MAP); return ₹163; 🕒 8am-6pm) up Neel Hill, 4km southeast of Haridwar, to Chandi Devi Temple (GOOGLE MAP); return cable car ₹163; 🕒 8am-6pm), built by Raja Suchet Singh of Kashmir in 1929.

Pay ₹312 at Mansa Devi to ride both cable cars and take an AC coach between the two temples. Photography is forbidden inside the shrines.

Tours

Mohan's Adventure Tours

ADVENTURE

( ;  9837100215, 9412022966; www.mohansadventure.in; Railway Rd;
 8am-10.30pm)

Sanjeev Mehta of Mohan's Adventure Tours can organise any kind of tour, including trekking, fishing, birdwatching, cycling, motorcycling and rafting. An accomplished wildlife photographer, he specialises in five-hour safaris (₹2250 per person with two or more, singles pay ₹3500) within Rajaji Tiger Reserve. Sanjeev also runs overnight trips to Corbett Tiger Reserve (from ₹9950). Tours operate year-round.

Festivals & Events

Kumbh Mela

RELIGIOUS

The largest religious gathering on earth, drawing millions of worshippers, the Kumbh Mela is an auspicious time to wash away sins in a sacred river. It's celebrated in Haridwar every 12 years (rotating between Allahabad, Ujjain and Nasik for the years between). Every sixth year, the Ardh (half) Kumbh Mela is held, also bringing huge crowds to Haridwar.

Sleeping

Haridwar has loads of hotels catering to Hindu pilgrims. The busiest time of year is the May–October yatra season – outside this you'll find rooms discounted by 20% to 50%.

Jassa Ram Rd and other alleys running off Railway Rd have budget hotels, although most are grim. Rishikesh has far superior budget accommodation.

Down by the ghats are a number of high-rise hotels that have good views but worse-than-average rooms.

Hotel Arjun

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-220409; www.hotelarjun.com; Jassa Ram Rd; r with/without AC from ₹950/750; ❄️ 📶)

The best of the budget choices, the Arjun beats its neighbours for cleanliness and comfort. Some rooms have balconies. Most have their quirks, though – one a broken TV, another a dead overhead light – so take a look at a few if you can. It's walking distance from the train and bus stations.

Hotel La Casa

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-221197; www.lacasahotels.in; Bilkeshwar Rd, opposite Gurdwar; r from ₹2200; ❄️ 📶)

One of Haridwar's few solid midrange choices, La Casa boasts some of the least scuffed rooms in town. They strive for character, with splashes of colour, tasteful furnishings and modern bathrooms. In all, good value (though not quite as nice as it looks on the hotel website).

Bhaj-Govindam

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8881007007; <http://hotelbhajgovindam.com>; Upper Rd; r from ₹1500 ❄️ 📶)

About 100m north of Bhimgoda Jhula, Bhaj-Govindam is the most peaceful hotel in town, set around a grassy garden, with river frontage on the banks of the Ganges (easily accessed behind a metal wall). Rooms are comfortable, suites are huge, while cleanliness can be inconsistent. Fortunately, prices are negotiable.

★ Haveli Hari Ganga

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-226443; www.havelihariganga.com; 21 Ram Ghat; r incl breakfa ₹8000-10,000; ❄️ 📶)

Hidden away in Bara Bazaar, but right on the Ganges, this superb 1918 haveli (traditional, ornately decorated residence) is Haridwar's finest hotel. Interior courtyards and marble floors give it a regal charm. It's worth shelling out extra for a Ganges View room, with an airy balcony overlooking the river.

Eating

Being a holy city, only vegetarian food and nonalcoholic drinks are available.

Hoshiyar Puri

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Upper Rd; mains ₹90-175; 🕒 11am-4.30pm & 7-10pm)

Established in 1937, this place still has a loyal (and well-deserved) local following. The dhal makhani (black lentils and red kidney beans with cream and butter), lacha paratha (layered fried bread), aloo gobi (potato and cauliflower curry) and kheer (creamy rice pudding) are lip-smackingly good.

Big Ben Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Railway Rd, Hotel Ganga Azure; mains ₹110-200; 🕒 8am-10.30pm)

Watch the passing parade through the big windows and enjoy some of Haridwar's best food in this restaurant of mirrors, soft music and polite staff. It's a solid choice for breakfast, with good coffee. There's wi-fi in the adjoining lobby.

Haveli Hari Ganga Restaurant

INDIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-226443; www.havelihariganga.com; 21 Ram Ghat; lunch thali ₹450, dinner buffet ₹650; 🕒 12.30-2.30pm & 7.30-10pm)

The restaurant at this lovely heritage hotel is the classiest in Haridwar. Come for the thali lunch or buffet dinner.

Drinking & Nightlife

★ Prakash Lok

LASSI

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Bara Bazaar; 🕒 10am-midnight)

Don't miss a creamy lassi at this Haridwar institution, famed for its ice-cold, best-you'll-ever-have lassis served in tin cups (₹50). Just about anyone in the Bara Bazaar can point you to it.

Information

Rishikul Ayurvedic Hospital

HOSPITAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-221003; Railway Rd)

A long-established medical college and hospital with a good reputation.

Sai Forex

EXCHANGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Upper Rd; 🕒 10am-2pm & 4-9pm)

Changes cash and travellers cheques for a commission of 1%. Also has internet for ₹50 per hour.

Uttarakhand Tourism Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 01334-265304; Railway Rd, Rahi Motel; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

You can get a Char Dham biometric card here.

Getting There & Away

Haridwar is well connected by bus and train, but book ahead for trains during the pilgrimage season (May to October).

BUS

Government buses run from the UK Roadways bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Railway Rd) on the main road through town. Private deluxe buses run to Delhi (₹400), Agra (seat/sleeper ₹500/600), Jaipur (₹580/680) and Pushkar (₹500/600). Ask the travel agent who makes your booking where to find your bus.

BUSES FROM HARIDWAR

The following buses depart from the UK Roadways bus stand. Information about buses to Dharamsala and Shimla is available at counter 6.

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Agra	350	12	early morning
Chandigarh	211	10	hourly
Dehra Dun	68	2	half-hourly
Delhi (AC Volvo)	665	6	5 daily
Delhi (standard)	230	6	half-hourly
Dharamsala (ordinary/AC Volvo)	555/1190	15	2pm, 4pm/5pm
Haldwani	265	8	hourly
Jaipur (ordinary/AC)	484/930	12	4.30pm, 6.40pm, midnight/5.30pm
Rishikesh	35	1	half-hourly
Shimla	430	14	10am, 11am, noon
Uttarkashi	315	8	5am

In the yatra (pilgrimage) season from May to October, the following buses run from the GMOU bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Railway Rd). During monsoon season (July to mid-September), service is occasionally suspended. For info call 01334-265008. For Yamunotri, go to Dehra Dun, then take a bus to Barkot.

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Badrinath (via Joshimath)	480	15	3.15am, 5am, 8am, 11am
Gangotri	450	13	5.30am
Joshimath	395	10	7.45am
Kedarnath	345	10	5.15am
Uttarkashi	280	8	7am, 10am

TAXI

The main taxi stand (GOOGLE MAP; Railway Rd) is outside the train station. Destinations include Chilla (for Rajaji Tiger Reserve, ₹570), Rishikesh (₹820, one hour), Dehra Dun (₹1320), and Jolly Grant Airport (₹1120), but it's usually possible to arrange a taxi for less than these official rates. You can also hire taxis to go to one or all of the pilgrimage sites on the Char Dham between April and October. One-way rates to single temples range from ₹6550 to ₹7550; a nine-day tour of all four is ₹22,600. Hiring a jeep for the Char Dham costs marginally more, and can be well worth it in monsoon season, or for groups of four or more.

TRAIN

Haridwar Junction is well connected by train to Delhi, Haldwani and beyond. There are many more trains to/from Haridwar than to/from nearby Rishikesh.

TRAINS FROM HARIDWAR

DESTINATION	TRAIN NAME & NUMBER	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURE/ARRIVAL
Amritsar	12053 Jan Shatabdi	2nd class/chair car 185/615	7½	2.45pm/10.05pm (Fri-Wed)
	14631 Dehra Dun-Amritsar Exp	sleeper/3AC 250/670	10	9.25pm/7.30am
Delhi (New Delhi Station)	12018 Shatabdi Exp	chair car/executive 805/1275	4½	6.15pm/10.45pm
	12056 Jan Shatabdi Exp	2nd class/chair car 140/470	4½	6.22am/11.15am
Delhi (Old Delhi Station)	14042 Mussoorie Exp	sleeper/3AC/2AC/1AC 195/490/695/1160	8½	11.15pm/8.30am
Haldwani (for Nainital & Almora)	14120 Dehra Dun-Kathgodam Exp	sleeper/2AC/1AC 190/695/1160	6½	12.25am/6.48am
Kolkata/Howrah	13010 Doon Exp	sleeper/3AC/2AC 595/1600/2340	32¾	10.15pm/6.55am (2 nights later)
Lucknow	13010	sleeper/3AC/2AC	10¼	10.15pm/8.35am

	Doon Exp	285/765/1095
Varanasi	13010 Doon Exp	sleeper/3AC/2AC 405/1105/1595	17¾	10.15pm/4pm

Getting Around

Cycle-rickshaws cost ₹10 for a short distance and ₹30 for longer hauls, such as from the Haridwar train station to Har-ki-Pairi. Shared vikrams () run up and down Railway Rd (₹10) and all the way to Rishikesh (₹40, one hour) from Upper Rd at Laltarao Bridge, but for that trip buses are more comfortable. Hiring a taxi for three hours to tour the local temples and ashrams costs around ₹800; an autorickshaw costs ₹350.

Rajaji Tiger Reserve

Unspoilt Rajaji Tiger Reserve (Rajaji National Park;  0135-2621669; www.rajajitigerreserve.co.in; Indian/foreigner per day ₹150/600, vehicle fee ₹250/500;  15 Nov-15 Jun), covering over 1000 sq km in the forested foothills near Haridwar, was declared an official tiger park in 2015, despite having only about 13 of the striped cats within its boundaries. It's best known for wild elephants – around 600 at last count – and leopards (about 250). The village of Chilla, 13km northeast of Haridwar, is the base for visiting the park.

The thick deciduous forests are also home to chital, sambars, rarely seen sloth bears and some 300 species of birds. Though your chances of spotting a tiger are slim, you're likely to see some wildlife, and will get a feel for the wilderness.

Rajaji's forests include the traditional winter territory of more than 1000 families of nomadic Van Gujjar buffalo herders – most of whom have been evicted from the park against their will. Visit www.himalayanmigration.com for more on this and other issues affecting this unique tribe.

Tours

At the Forest Ranger's office, close to the tourist guesthouse at Chilla, you can organise a jeep tour (taking up to six people and starting at ₹885 per person for a standard safari, plus a ₹500 entry fee for the vehicle) – the price includes a guide.

For a more personalised experience of Rajaji Tiger Reserve with expert guides, go with Mohan's Adventure Tours, out of Haridwar, who offer abridged safaris even when the park is officially closed. These five-hour trips include a safari, a jungle walk and a visit to a Van Gujjar forest camp.

Sleeping

The Chilla Guesthouse ( 0138-266678; www.gmvnl.com; r from ₹2200; ) is the GMVN rest house and the most comfortable place to stay in Chilla.

You can stay inside the park at one of the rest houses run by the Forest Department. For information and reservations, contact the director at the Rajaji National Park Office ( 0135-2621669; 5/1 Ansari Rd, Dehra Dun;  10am-5pm Mon-Fri). Mohan's Adventure Tours can also make bookings. Also within the park, Camp King Elephant ( 9871604712; cottage incl full board Indian/foreigner from ₹8500/US$240) has solar power, private bathrooms, full meal service and jeep tours.

Getting There & Away

Buses to Chilla (₹35, one hour) leave the GMOU bus stand in Haridwar every hour from 7am to 2pm. The last return trip leaves Chilla at 5.30pm. Taxis charge ₹700 one way for the 13km journey.

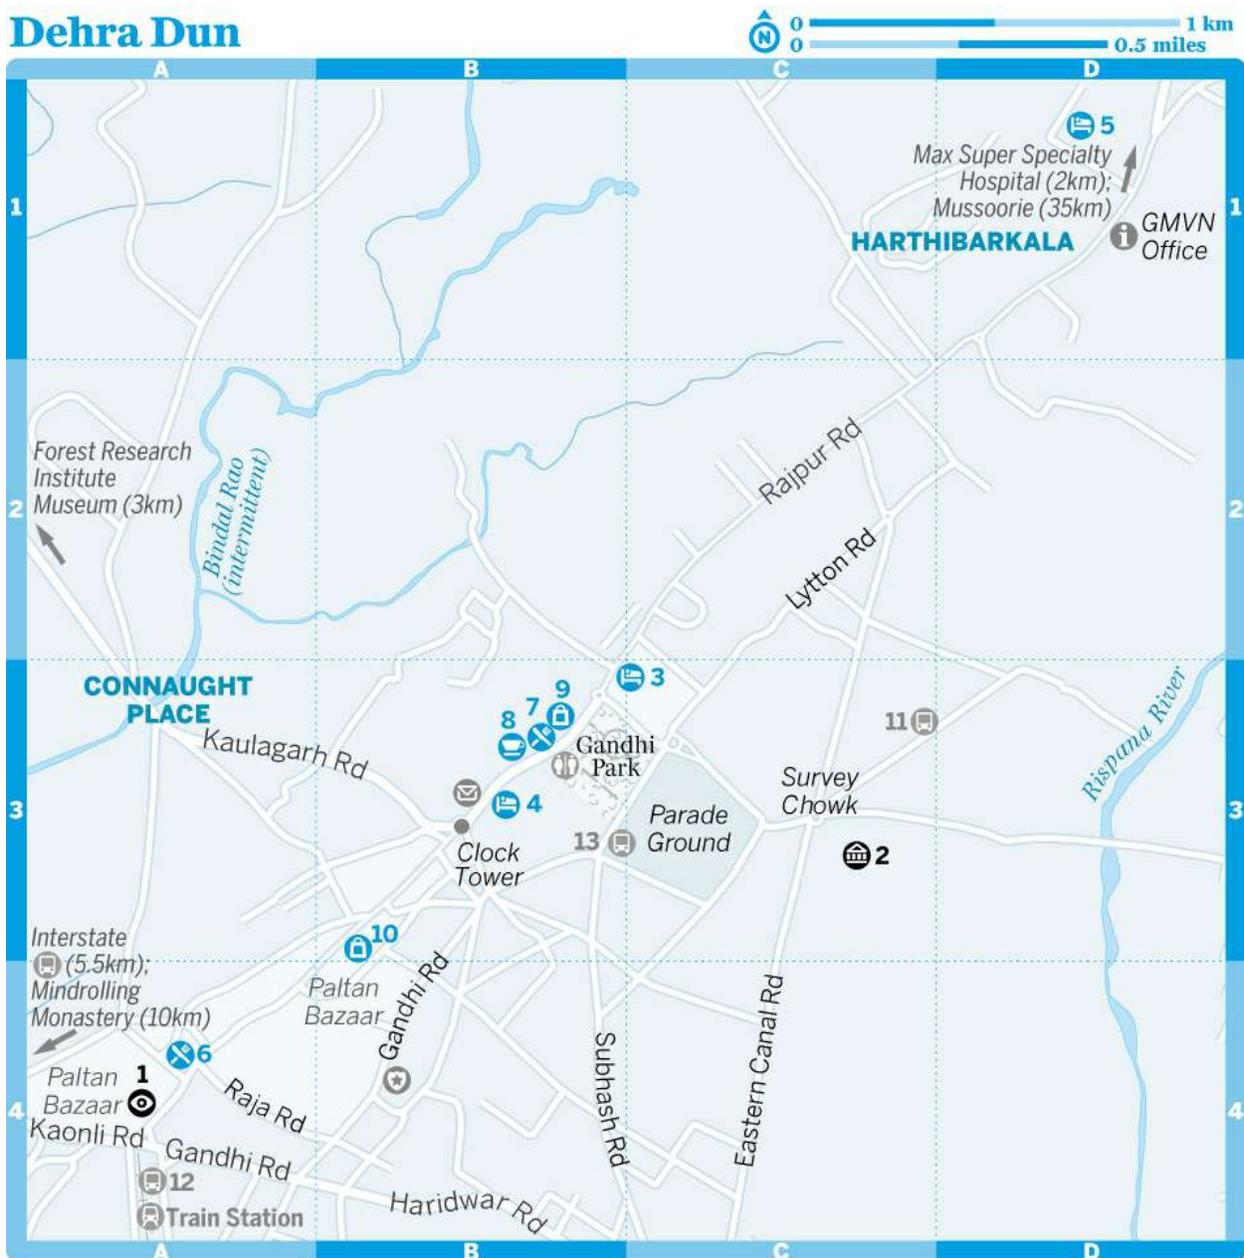

Dehra Dun

 0135 / POP 600,000 / ELEV 640M

Perhaps best known for the institutions the British left behind – the huge Forest Research Institute Museum, the Indian Military Academy, the Wildlife Institute of India and the Survey of India – the capital of Uttarakhand is a hectic, congested city sprawling in the Doon Valley between the Himalayan foothills and the Siwalik Range. Most travellers merely pass through on their way to nearby Rishikesh, Haridwar, Mussoorie or Himachal Pradesh, but if you have time, there's enough to do here to make Dehra Dun worth a stop.

Dehra Dun

Dehra Dun

Sights

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 1 | Ram Rai Darbar | A4 |
| 2 | Survey of India Museum | C3 |

Sleeping

- | | | |
|---|---|----|
| 3 | Hotel President | C3 |
| 4 | Moti Mahal Hotel | B3 |
| 5 | Samar Niwas Guest House | D1 |

Eating

- | | | |
|---|--|----|
| 6 | Chetan Puriwallah | A4 |
| 7 | Kumar Vegetarian & South Indian Restaurant | B3 |
| | Moti Mahal | B3 |
| | Salt & Cravings | C3 |

Drinking & Nightlife

- | | | |
|---|--------------------------|----|
| 8 | Barista | B3 |
| | Polo Bar | C3 |

Shopping

- | | | |
|----|------------------------------------|----|
| | English Book Depot | B3 |
| 9 | Natraj Booksellers | B3 |
| 10 | Paltan Bazaar | B3 |

Transport

- | | | |
|----|---|----|
| 11 | Chunabata Bus Stand | C3 |
| 12 | Mussoorie Bus Stand | A4 |
| 13 | Parade Ground Bus Stand | B3 |
| | Taxi Stand | A4 |

Sights

Mindrolling Monastery

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

( 0135-2640556; www.mindrolling.org)

The region around Dehra Dun is home to a thriving Tibetan Buddhist community, mainly focused on this monastery, about 10km south of the centre in Clement Town. Everything here is on a grand scale: at more than 60m tall its Great Stupa is believed to be the world's tallest and contains a series of shrine rooms displaying relics, murals and Tibetan art. Presiding over the monastery is the impressive 35m-high gold Sakyamuni Buddha Statue, dedicated to the Dalai Lama.

The streets around the monastery are lined with Tibetan cafes. Unfortunately, due to new government regulations, foreigners are no longer allowed to stay overnight in Clement Town – but the manager of the Devaloka House hotel on the monastery grounds may be willing to bend the rules. Simple rooms cost ₹350; the bed sheets have seen better days. Take vikram 5 from the city centre (₹10). An autorickshaw costs about ₹200.

Survey of India Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Survey Chowk; 🕒 10.30am-5pm Mon-Fri) FREE

Instruments used to accomplish the monumental task of mapping India in the 19th century are displayed here, including some designed especially for the mission by its leader, George Everest. See beautiful brass transits and scopes, plus a part-iron part-brass bar, which allowed surveyors to compensate for inaccuracies in measurements caused by the expansion and contraction of their instruments in heat and cold. The museum is not officially open to the public – you'll need permission to visit.

To get permission, go to the Surveyor General's office at the Survey of India Compound in Harthibarkala. There, you'll have to write a brief letter explaining why you want to view the collection. Permits are given only to those with an academic or professional interest in the subject – like a geography student or a historian – but proof of your vocation or college major isn't demanded.

Forest Research Institute Museum

NOTABLE BUILDING

(<http://fri.icfre.gov.in>; ₹25; 🕒 9pm-5pm)

The prime attraction of this museum is the building itself. Set in a 5-sq-km park, this grand remnant of the Raj era – where most of India’s forest officers are trained – is larger than Buckingham Palace. Built between 1924 and 1929, this red-brick colossus has Mughal towers, perfectly formed arches and Roman columns in a series of quadrangles edged by elegant cloisters. Six huge halls have displays on Indian forestry that look like leftovers from a middle-school science fair.

Highlights include beautiful animal, bird and plant paintings by Afshan Zaidi, exhibits on the medicinal uses of trees, and a cross-section of a 700-year-old deodar tree. A return autorickshaw from the city centre, including one-hour wait time, costs around ₹300. Or take vikram 6 from Connaught Place and get out at the institute’s entry gate.

Tapkeshwar Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(🕒 dawn-dusk)

In a scenic setting on the banks of the Tons Nadi River, you’ll find an unusual and popular Shiva shrine inside a small, dripping cave, which is the site of the annual Shivaratri festival (Tapkeshwar Temple; 🕒 usually Mar). Turn left at the bottom of the steps for the main shrine. Cross the bridge over the river to visit another shrine, where you have to squeeze through a narrow cave to see an image of Mata Vaishno Devi.

The temple is about 5km north of the centre. Take a rickshaw for ₹300 (round trip).

Ram Rai Darbar

MAUSOLEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Paltan Bazaar; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

The unique mausoleum of Ram Rai, the errant son of the seventh Sikh guru, Har Rai, is made of white marble, with paintings covering the walls, archways and ceilings. Four smaller tombs in the garden courtyard are those of Ram Rai’s four wives. A communal lunch of dhal, rice and chapatis is offered to anyone who wants it, for a donation.

Activities

Har Ki Dun Protection & Mountaineering Association

TREKKING

( 9412918140, 9410134589; www.harkidun.org)

Highly regarded company that offers guided treks in Har-ki-Dun, around the Garhwal Himalaya and beyond.

Sleeping

There are plenty of grungy cheapies along the Haridwar road outside the train station, some charging as little as ₹350 a double, but the better places can be found along Rajpur Rd.

Samar Niwas Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

( GOOGLE MAP;  0135-2740299; www.samarniwas.com; M-16 Chanderlok Colony; d ₹1600-1800;  )

This charming four-room guesthouse, in a peaceful residential area just off Rajpur Rd, is as welcoming as it gets. The owners are descendants of the Tehri royal family, but the rulers of the house seem to be the friendly pugs that roam the comfortable lounge-cum-lobby. Rooms are well appointed, but cleanliness can be hit or miss.

Moti Mahal Hotel

HOTEL $$

( GOOGLE MAP;  0135-2651277; www.motimahal.net; 7 Rajpur Rd; s/d from ₹1600/190  )

Centrally located, Moti Mahal offers well-kept rooms, with upholstered furnishings adding a touch of class. Those facing Rajpur Rd suffer from a bit of street noise, but not badly. Features an excellent restaurant.

Hotel President

HOTEL $$$

( GOOGLE MAP;  0135-2657082; www.hotelpresidentdehradun.com; Rajpur Rd, 6 Astley

Hall; r from ₹3000; 📶📶)

This Dehra Dun institution is one of the classiest hotels in town, despite being sandwiched within the complex of shops, restaurants and fast-food spots called Astley Hall. Rooms have been recently renovated and offer good value for money. There's a good restaurant, and the Polo Bar downstairs.

Eating & Drinking

Dehra Dun has an eclectic range of restaurants, but by far the best hunting ground is along Rajpur Rd, northeast of the clock tower. The Astley Hall precinct is popular and has a couple of upmarket bars.

★ Chetan Puriwallah

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; near Hanuman Chowk, Paltan Bazaar; per puri ₹18; 🕒 8am-4.30pm)

If you're looking for that authentic (and delicious) local dining experience, you've found it. Unlimited thalis are served on plates made of leaves in this bustling no-frills joint, and you just pay for the puri (deep-fried dough). The sweet gulab jamun (deep-fried dough in rose-flavoured syrup) ranks among the best we've ever had.

Kumar Vegetarian & South Indian Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 15B Rajpur Rd; mains ₹120-300; 🕒 11am-4pm & 7-10.30pm)

This popular, sparkling clean restaurant serves what surely comes close to the Platonic Form of a masala dosa (curried vegetables inside a crisp pancake), which is the main reason locals flock here. Other Indian dishes are also cooked to near perfection and even the Chinese food is quite good. The waitstaff are very attentive.

Moti Mahal

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 7 Rajpur Rd; mains ₹160-450; 🕒 8am-10.45pm; 📶)

Locals consistently rate Moti Mahal as one of the best midrange diners along Rajpur Rd. An interesting range of vegetarian and non-vegetarian options include Goan fish curry and Afghani murg (chicken), along with traditional South Indian fare and Chinese food.

Salt & Cravings

INTERNATIONAL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Astley Hall; mains ₹300-500; 🕒 11am-10.45pm)

This international bistro connected to Hotel President features one of the more modern and diverse menus in Dehra Dun, including sandwiches, wraps, pastas, and a wide range of dinner entrées. Desserts include ice cream and apple pie.

Barista

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 15A Rajpur Rd; 🕒 8am-9pm)

A popular modern cafe with an excellent bookshop in the back. Drinks and snacks cost ₹90 to ₹190.

Polo Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Rajpur Rd, 6 Astley Hall; 🕒 11am-11pm)

One of the more salubrious of Dehra Dun's many hotel bars, Polo Bar is at Hotel President and is newly renovated.

Shopping

★ Paltan Bazaar

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 hours vary)

The congested but relatively traffic-free area through Paltan Bazaar, running south from the clock tower, is a popular spot for an evening stroll. Here you can pick up everything from cheap clothing and souvenirs to camping and trekking gear. Most shops are open from about 10am to 9pm.

English Book Depot

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  0135-2655192; www.englishbookdepot.com; 15 Rajpur Rd;  11am-1.30pm & 2.30-7pm)

CDs, trekking books and maps are available, with the Barista cafe attached.

Natraj Booksellers

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 17 Rajpur Rd;  10.30am-8pm Mon-Sat)

Specialises in ecology, spirituality, local books and local author Ruskin Bond.

Information

The banks located on Rajpur Rd exchange travellers cheques and currency, and there are numerous ATMs that accept foreign credit cards.

GMVN Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 74/1 Rajpur Rd;  10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

For information on trekking in Garhwal, whether booking a GMVN trip or going independently, talk to BS Gusain on the ground floor of the tourism office, or call him on 9568006695.

Max Super Specialty Hospital

HOSPITAL

( 0135-6673000; Mussoorie Diversion Rd)

The best hospital in Dehra Dun; it's north of the centre.

Getting There & Away

AIR

A few airlines (Jet Airways, SpiceJet and Air India) fly daily between Delhi and Dehra Dun's Jolly Grant Airport – about 20km east of the city on the Haridwar road – with fares starting at around ₹3200 each way. A taxi to/from the airport costs ₹600, or take the AC coach for ₹100.

BUS

Nearly all long-distance buses arrive and depart from the huge Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT), 5km south of the city centre. To get there take a local bus (₹5), vikram 5 (₹10) or an autorickshaw (₹150). A few buses to Mussoorie leave from here but most depart from the Mussoorie bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (₹56, 1½ hours, half-hourly between 6am and 8pm) next to the train station. Some head to Mussoorie's Picture Palace bus stand while others go to Mussoorie's Library bus stand, across town. There are also buses from the Mussoorie bus stand to Barkot – for Yamnotri – (₹220, five hours, 5.30am and noon); Purola – for Har-ki-Dun – (₹230, seven hours, 6.30am, 9am and 1.30pm); Uttarkashi (₹255, seven hours, 5.30am) and Joshimath (₹480, 12 hours, 5.30am).

Private buses to Joshimath (₹400, 12 hours, 7am) and Uttarkashi (₹280, eight hours, 7am, 9am and 1.30pm) leave from the Parade Ground bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP), where you can show up and get your ticket on the bus. If you want to secure seats in advance, go to the ticket office at the Chunabata Bus Stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP), on Raipur Rd, a day early.

BUSES FROM DEHRA DUN

The following buses depart from the Inter State Bus Terminal (ISBT).

DESTINATION	FARE (₹)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURES
Chandigarh	230	6	hourly 4am-10pm
Delhi (AC/Volvo)	538/750 ordinary/AC	7	frequent
Delhi (ordinary)	270	7	hourly 4am-10pm
Dharamsala	576	14	5pm
Haldwani (for Nainital & Almora)	320	10	hourly
Haridwar	68	2	half-hourly
Manali	500	14	6.45am, 3pm, 10.15pm
Ramnagar	300	7	7 daily

Rishikesh	51	1½	half-hourly
Shimla	440	10	5 daily

TAXI

A full taxi to Mussoorie costs ₹1060, while a share taxi should cost ₹180 per person; both can be found in front of the train station at the taxi stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP). Taxis charge ₹1410 to Haridwar or Lakshman Jhula in Rishikesh, and ₹910 to Jolly Grant Airport.

TRAIN

Dehra Dun is well connected by train to Delhi, and there are a handful of services to Lucknow, Varanasi, Chennai (Madras) and Kolkata (Calcutta). Of the multiple daily trains from Dehra Dun to Delhi, the best are the expresses: Shatabdi (train 12018; chair/executive ₹885/1405; six hours; 5pm); Janshabdi (train 12056; 2nd class/chair ₹160/520; six hours; 5.10am); and Nanda Devi Express (train 12206; 3AC/2AC/1st class ₹590/825/1375; six hours; 11.30pm).

The overnight Dehradun–Amritsar Express (train 14631; sleeper/3A class ₹270/730; 13 hours) to Amritsar departs nightly at 7pm.

Getting Around

Hundreds of eight-seater vikrams (₹5 to ₹10 per trip) race along five fixed routes (look at the front for the number). Most useful is vikram 5, which runs between the ISBT stand, the train station and Rajpur Rd, and as far south as the Tibetan colony at Clement Town. Vikram 1 runs up and down Rajpur Rd above Gandhi Park, and also to Harthibarkala (check with the driver to see which route he's on). Autorickshaws cost ₹30 for a short distance, ₹150 from ISBT to the city centre or ₹180 per hour for touring around the city.

Mussoorie

☎0135 / POP 30,200 / ELEV 2000M

Perched on a ridge 2km high, the 'Queen of Hill Stations' vies with Nainital as Uttarakhand's favourite holiday destination. When the mist clears, views of the green Doon Valley and the distant white-capped Himalayan peaks are superb, and in the hot months the cooler temperatures and fresh mountain air make a welcome break from the plains below.

Established by the British in 1823, Mussoorie became hugely popular with the Raj set. The ghosts of that era linger on in the architecture of the churches, libraries, hotels and summer palaces. The town is swamped with visitors between May and July, when it can seem like a tacky holiday camp for families and honeymooners, but at other times many of the 300 hotels have vacancies and their prices drop dramatically. During monsoon, the town is often shrouded in clouds.

Central Mussoorie consists of two developed areas: Gandhi Chowk (also called Library Bazaar) at the western end, and the livelier Kulri Bazaar and Picture Palace at the eastern end, linked by the 2km Mall, which is still dominated by pedestrians but has sadly seen a notable increase in vehicle traffic and noise. Beyond Kulri Bazaar a narrow road leads 1.5km to the atmospheric Landour Bazaar.

Mussoorie

Sights

- | | |
|---------------------------------|----|
| 1 Christ Church | B2 |
| 2 Gun Hill | C1 |

Activities, Courses & Tours

- | | |
|-------------------------------|----|
| Trek Himalaya | D1 |
|-------------------------------|----|

Sleeping

- | | |
|---|----|
| 3 Hotel Broadway | E1 |
| 4 Hotel Padmini Nivas | B2 |
| 5 Kasmanda Palace Hotel | B1 |
| 6 Savoy | A2 |

Eating

- | | |
|--|----|
| 7 Imperial Square | A2 |
| 8 Lovely Omelette Centre | E1 |
| 9 Neelam | E1 |
| 10 Urban Turban | E1 |

Shopping

- | | |
|---|----|
| 11 Star Walking Stick Mfg | F1 |
| 12 Vinod Kumar | F1 |
| 13 Wildcraft | D1 |

Information

- | | |
|-------------------------------|----|
| 14 GMVN Booth | A2 |
| Trek Himalaya | D1 |

Transport

- | | |
|--|----|
| 15 Cable Car | D2 |
| 16 Cycle-Rickshaw Stand | D2 |
| 17 Cycle-Rickshaw Stand | A2 |
| 18 Library Bus Stand | A2 |
| 19 Northern Railway Booking Agency | D2 |

20 Picture Palace Bus Stand

F2

Taxi Stand

A2

Taxi Stand

F2

Sights & Activities

Gun Hill

VIEWPOINT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

From midway along the Mall, a cable car (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; return ₹100; 🕒 10am-7pm) runs up to Gun Hill (2530m), which, on a clear day, has views of several big peaks. A steep path also winds up to the viewpoint. The most popular time to go up is an hour or so before sunset. There's a minicarnival atmosphere in high season, with kids' rides, food stalls, magic shops and honeymooners having their photos taken in Garhwali costumes.

Christ Church

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; off the Mall)

Built in 1836 and featuring stained-glass windows, this is purported to be the oldest church in the Himalaya.

Trek Himalaya

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9837258589; www.trekhimalaya.com; Upper Mall; 🕒 11am-9pm)

Trek Himalaya can organise one- to three-day treks in the Mussoorie area, as well as longer customised treks to Har-ki-Dun, Darwa Top and beyond. If weather or road conditions are bad, they don't go. Based out of the Wildcraft outdoor-gear store.

Walks

When the clouds don't get in the way, the walks around Mussoorie offer great views. Camel's Back Rd is a popular 3km promenade from Kulri

Bazaar to Gandhi Chowk, and passes a rock formation that looks like a camel. There are a couple of good mountain viewpoints along the way, and you can ride a rickshaw (one way/return ₹200/350) along the trail if you start from the Gandhi Chowk end. An enjoyable, longer walk (5km one way) starts at the Picture Palace Cinema and goes past Union Church to Landour and the Sisters' Bazaar area.

West of Gandhi Chowk, a more demanding walk is to the Jwalaji Temple on Benog Hill (about 20km return) via Cloud's End Hotel. The route passes through thick forest and offers some fine views. Taking a taxi to Cloud's End (one way/return ₹600/1100) cuts the walk by more than half. A slightly shorter walk is to the abandoned Everest House (16km return), former residence of Sir George Everest, first surveyor-general of India and namesake of the world's highest mountain. You can also take a cycle-rickshaw (₹130) to Park Toll, cutting 5km off the distance.

Courses

Landour Language School

LANGUAGE

( 0135-2631487; www.landourlanguageschool.com; Landour; per hr group/private ₹350/575;

( Feb-Dec)

One of India's leading schools for teaching conversational Hindi at beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. There's an enrolment fee of ₹750, and course books are an extra ₹2200.

Sleeping

Peak season is summer (May to July) when hotel prices shoot up to ridiculous heights. There's a midseason during the honeymoon period around October and November, and over Christmas and New Year. At other times you should be able to get a bargain.

Budget places are scarce – you'll find some dives near Picture Palace. But many hotels offer budget rates out of season.

Hotel Broadway

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2632243; Camel's Back Rd, Kulri Bazaar; midseason d ₹650-150

The best of the budget places by a country mile, this historic 1880s wooden hotel with colourful flowerboxes in the windows oozes character. It's in a quiet location but close to the Mall. Cheaper downstairs rooms could use a refresh, but upstairs rooms are nice; the best has lovely sunlit bay windows.

★ Kasmanda Palace Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2632424; www.welcomheritagehotels.in; midseason s/d from ₹7400/8500)

Located off the Mall, this is Mussoorie's most romantic hotel. The white Romanesque castle was built in 1836 for a British officer and was bought by the Maharaja of Kasmanda in 1915. The red-carpeted hall has a superb staircase flanked by moth-eaten hunting trophies. All the rooms have charm but the wood-panelled and antique-filled Maharaja Room is the royal best.

Hotel Padmini Nivas

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2631093; www.hotel-padmininivas.com; The Mall; midseason d ₹3900-5550, ste ₹6670-7520; @)

Built in 1840 by a British colonel, this heritage hotel has real old-fashioned charm. Large rooms with quaint sunrooms are beautifully furnished; those in the main house are significantly nicer than those in the side building. The dining room, with its antique furniture, is an outstanding feature. The whole place is set on 2 hectares of landscaped gardens.

Savoy

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2637000; www.fortunehotels/savoy.in; behind Gandhi Chowk; midseason r from ₹13,680)

This famous Mussoorie hotel, built in 1902, has reopened after undergoing a seven-year renovation. Inside and out, the public spaces are magnificent, imparting a regal aesthetic with none of the rundown air that often infuses historic properties. The restaurant is as much an aesthetic as a culinary experience. Bedrooms, however, feel strangely generic.

Eating & Drinking

Most of Mussoorie's best spots to eat are at the Kulri Bazaar and Picture Palace end of town. True to the holiday feel there are lots of fast-food places, and most hotels have their own restaurants.

★ Lovely Omelette Centre

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall, Kulri Bazaar; mains ₹60-90; 🕒 8am-10pm)

Mussoorie's most famous eatery is also its smallest – a cubbyhole along the Mall that serves what many say are the best omelettes in India. The speciality is the cheese omelette, with chillies, onions and spices, served over toast, but the maestro at the frying pan will whip up a chocolate omelette on request. On weekends you might have to wait.

Urban Turban

PUNJABI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹190-400; 🕒 11am-11pm)

This new Punjabi bistro packs in the flavour, with perfectly spiced veg and nonveg options: the Turban Tikka Masala rocked our taste buds to a very happy place. Staff are exceptionally eager to please. If the music on the 1st floor is too loud for you, head up to the quieter 2nd floor. Windows overlook the street.

Neelam

PUNJABI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kulri Bazaar; mains ₹160-570; 🕒 9am-11pm)

Around in one form or another since 1949, Neelam specialises in paneer dishes, and boasts a long list of chicken and lamb. In high season they break out the tawa – a heated metal plate, which slow-cooks meat to perfection.

The affable manager, Sam, is exceptionally welcoming.

Imperial Square

INTERNATIONAL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2632632; Gandhi Chowk; mains ₹300-700; 🕒 7.30am-11pm; 📶)

With huge windows overlooking Gandhi Chowk, Imperial Square satisfies, but for a price. The menu emphasises Continental dishes, with long lists of platters and sizzlers, plus big toasted sandwiches. For breakfast you can even have waffles. The attached hotel has excellent rooms (from ₹5700) with valley views.

Shopping

Mussoorie has plenty of souvenir shops selling generic mementos. The most interesting store is the antiques and miscellany shop run by Vinod Kumar (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Clock Tower, Landour Bazaar; 🕒 10am-6pm), near the clock tower at the bottom of Landour Bazaar – a 10- to 15-minute walk from Picture Palace. And if you want something to protect yourself from monkeys, Star Walking Stick Mfg (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 10am-6pm) is your place!

Wildcraft

SPORTS & OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Upper Mall; 🕒 11am-9pm)

The best shop in Mussoorie for outdoor gear, and home base for the trekking company Trek Himalaya.

Information

GMVN Booth

TOURIST INFORMATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0135-2631281; Library bus stand; 🕒 8am-5pm)

Can book local tours, treks and far-flung rest houses.

Om Cybercafe

INTERNET

(GOOGLE MAP ; off the Mall, Kulri Bazaar; per hr ₹60; 🕒 10am-9pm; 📶)

Behind Lovely Omelette Centre.

Trek Himalaya

EXCHANGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0135-2630491; Upper Mall; 🕒 11am-9pm)

Exchanges major currencies at a fair rate.

Getting There & Away

BUS

Frequent buses head to Mussoorie (₹56, 1½ hours) from Dehra Dun's Mussoorie bus stand. Some go to the Picture Palace bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0135-2632259) while others go to the Library bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0135-2632258) at the other end of town – if you know where you're staying, it helps to be on the right bus. There's no direct transport from Mussoorie to Rishikesh or Haridwar – change at Dehra Dun.

To reach the mountain villages of western Garhwal, grab one of the buses passing through Gandhi Chowk. For Yamunotri, hop on a bus to Barkot (₹147, 3½ hours, 6.30am, 7.30am and 1.30pm), then transfer to another to Janki Chatti (₹65, three hours). A couple of buses go to Purola (₹158, five hours, 7.30am and 2.30pm). For Uttarkashi, take a bus to Barkot and transfer there, or head to the Tehri bus stand at Landour, hop a bus to Chamba, and transfer there.

TAXI

From taxi stands at both the Picture Palace bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP) and the Library bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP) you can hire taxis to Dehra Dun (₹1050) and Rishikesh (₹2250), or Uttarkashi (₹4550). A shared taxi to Dehra Dun should cost ₹180 per person.

TRAIN

The Northern Railway Booking Agency (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎0135-2632846; Lower Mall, Kulri Bazaar; 🕒8am-2pm Mon-Sat) books tickets for trains from Dehra Dun and Haridwar.

i Getting Around

Central Mussoorie is very walkable – for a hill station, the Mall and Camel’s Back Rd are surprisingly flat. Cycle-rickshaws along the Mall cost ₹50, but can only go between Gandhi Chowk (MAP GOOGLE MAP) and the cable-car station (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

The Char Dham

High in the Garhwali Himalaya sit some of the holiest sites in the Hindu religion – Yamunotri, Gangotri, Kedarnath, and Badrinath – where temples mark the spiritual sources of four sacred rivers: the Yamuna, the Ganges, the Mandakini and the Alaknanda. Together, they make up one of the most important yatra (pilgrimage) circuits in all of India, known as the char dham (four seats). Every year between April and November, hundreds of thousands of worshippers brave hair-raising mountain roads and high-altitude trails to reach them.

Travelling to one or more of the char dam temples is a great way to get a feel for the religious pulse of the subcontinent, amid incredible alpine scenery. Numerous buses, share jeeps, porters, ponies – and now helicopters – are on hand for transport, and there's a well-established network of guesthouses, ashrams and government rest houses. As a result, getting to these temples is easy enough without hiring guides or carrying supplies, and Gangotri and Badrinath temples can be visited without even having to hike. Monsoons in summer, however, can produce dangerous conditions, triggering landslides that block roads and trails for days or weeks.

In June 2013, a torrential cloudburst produced an epic flood that swept away entire villages – and thousands of local people and pilgrims. The official death toll is around 6000, but locals insist the real number was closer to 50,000. Since then the people and government of Uttarakhand have worked to rebuild confidence in the area's safety, in an effort to revive the region's main economic engine. After a few years of decline, the char dham has surged back to life. Note that before visiting char dham sites, you are supposed to obtain a free photometric ID card (the government's way of tracking people in the event of another natural disaster), which are easily available in many cities and towns around the state. You may never be asked to show yours, but you should get one anyway.

Vegetarian food is available around all char dham sites.

Yamunotri

Yamunotri Temple (🕒 late Apr-late Oct) is tucked in a tight gorge close to the source of the Yamuna, Hinduism's second-most sacred river after the Ganges. Yamunotri is the least visited and therefore least developed of the char dham sites, but once you get to the trailhead it's an easy trek in.

The 5km, 1½-hour hike begins at the tiny village of Janki Chatti. At Yamunotri Temple there are several hot-spring pools where you can take a dip, and others where pilgrims cook potatoes and rice as prasad. You'll find plenty of priests to help you make puja for a price. One kilometre beyond the temple, the Yamuna River spills from a frozen lake of ice and glaciers on the Kalinda Parvat mountain at an altitude of 4421m, but this is a very tough climb that requires mountaineering skills.

Across the river from Janki Chatti is the friendly village of Kharsali, which is worth a stroll if you have the time.

Accommodation is available at basic guesthouses or at the GMVN tourist lodges in Janki Chatti and Hanuman Chatti.

During peak yatra season (May to June), buses run from Dehra Dun, Mussoorie and Rishikesh to Janki Chatti, but the most frequent transport services originate in Barkot. Buses (₹65, three hours) depart Barkot for Janki Chatti at 9am, 1pm and 3pm; they make return runs to Barkot at 6am, 8.30am and 2pm. You can find sporadic share jeeps making the same runs (₹80, 2½ hours). A full taxi costs about ₹2000 each way.

Gangotri & Gaumukh Glacier Trek

In a remote setting at an altitude of 3042m, Gangotri Temple (🕒 late Apr-late Oct) is one of the holiest places in India. Near the source of the Ganges (known as the Bhagirathi until it reaches Devprayag), the shrine is dedicated to the origin of Hinduism's most sacred river. Nearby is the rock on which Shiva is said to have cushioned the impact of the water in his matted locks as it poured from the heavens, saving the earth from the destructive force of this great gift.

Erected by Gorkha commander Amar Singh Thapa in the 18th century, the temple – for a site of such significance – is surprisingly underwhelming. Unless you're a devout Hindu, to get a real sense of awe you'll probably have to trek from Gangotri to the true source of the river, at Gaumukh, 18km upstream. There, the water flows out of Gangotri Glacier beneath the soaring west face of Bhagirathi Parvat (6856m), with the peak of Shivling (the 6543m 'Indian Matterhorn') towering to the south.

Don't be daunted by the trek – the trail rises gradually and is completely solid. Four to six hours (14km) up the trail, at Bhojbasa (3790m), there's a GMVN Tourist Bungalow (Bhojbasa; dm ₹320) and other basic lodging; Gaumukh is 4km (1½ hours) past that. On clear days, the best time to visit the source is early to mid-afternoon, when it's out of the shadows. Porters (₹1000 each way) and horses (one way/return ₹1700/2500) can be hired in Gangotri. More ambitious hikers with camping gear often continue to the gorgeous meadow at Tapovan, 6km beyond Gaumukh.

Before trekking to Gaumukh, you must first get a permit, since access is limited to 150 people per day. This can be obtained from the District Forest Office (☎ 01377-225693; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd Sat of month), 3km north of the Uttarkashi bus stand, or from the satellite office above the bus stand at Gangotri, which is open every day from 6am to 2pm. At both places, you'll need to bring a copy of your passport ID page and visa. The permit is valid for two days and costs ₹150/600 per Indian/foreigner (then ₹50/250 for each extra day).

Gangotri village has plenty of guesthouses, ashrams and dharamsalas charging ₹300 or less per room. When hungry, follow the Indian families to the Hotel Gangaputra Restaurant (mains ₹70-150; 🕒 7am-11pm), which is busy for a good reason.

Bus service to Gangotri is sporadic. The best way to get there is to take a shared jeep (₹200) or full taxi (one way/return ₹3000/4000) from Uttarkashi, though taxis can also be hired from Rishikesh or Haridwar.

Kedarnath

In the epic Mahabharata, after the Pandavas defeated the Dhartarashtras, they sought forgiveness for killing their own family members, as their enemies also happened to be their cousins. Shiva refused them, but the Pandavas were so relentless in their quest for absolution that Shiva, in the form of a bull, dove into the ground to elude them. He left his hump behind at Kedarnath, below the source of the sacred Mandakini River, where a magnificent stone temple – built in the 8th century by Guru Shankara – marks the spot. (Other portions of Shiva's bull-form body are worshipped at the other four panch kedar shrines, which take some effort to reach but can be visited: the arms at Tungnath, the face at Rudranath, the navel at Madmaheshwar and the hair at Kalpeshwar.)

Tucked at the base of 6970m peaks, 18km from the nearest road, Kedarnath is in the most dramatic location of any of the char dham temples. The puja offered inside, especially around the stone 'hump', is fervent and can be quite intense. The site is so auspicious that pilgrims used to throw themselves from one of the cliffs behind the temple in the hope of instantly attaining moksha (liberation).

Kedarnath was at the epicentre of the devastating flood of 2013. Thousands of people – pilgrims and locals, porters and horse guides, among others – perished here. Much of the village around the temple was destroyed by the raging waters and the huge rocks that washed down from the surrounding slopes. Today, nearly as much reverence is paid to a massive boulder that sits behind the temple – which, incredibly, shielded it from the worst of the onslaught and saved it from collapse – as to the temple itself.

Kedarnath is slowly recovering, and the experience of visiting evolves year by year. Getting there involves an 18km uphill trek from the village of Gaurikund, which was an uninhabitable mess after the flood but has been revived into a scaled-down version of its formerly bustling self. Prior to hitting the trail, however, you must get a free photometric ID card in Sonprayag, a village 5km before Gaurikund, where all buses and taxis end their runs. From Sonprayag, shared jeeps (₹20) make the trip to the trailhead.

You'll walk alongside pilgrims on a stone-paved pathway etched into the steep slopes of canyon cut by the Mandakini, following the river upstream. On a clear day, you'll see the skyscraping, snow-covered summits that tower over the temple long before you reach it. In Kedarnath village, life is springing up around the wreckage from the flood, with a few shops, restaurants and hotels beginning to emerge between giant rocks and pulverised buildings. Currently, the best place to stay in Kedarnath is the Himachal House, which is a one-minute walk from the temple.

Basic accommodation is also available in Sonprayag and Gaurikund (rooms from ₹200 to ₹400) – Gaurikund is much quieter and more atmospheric, making it a better place to stay before or after trekking. A handful of better hotels can be found about 2km before Sonprayag, at Sitapur.

The main transit hub for the area is Guptkashi, from where you can take a shared/private jeep (₹80/1000) to Sonprayag. Alternatively, take a GMOU bus to Sonprayag from Rishikesh or Haridwar. From Sonprayag, morning buses run to Rishikesh (₹310, seven hours), Haridwar (₹340, eight hours), and Dehra Dun (₹350, nine hours). If you get stuck in Guptkashi, the New Viswanath Hotel (📞9720895992; Guptkashi Bus Stand; r from ₹500), at the bus stand, is a good choice.

Going to or from Kedarnath by helicopter is becoming an increasingly popular option for Indians, and a handful of operators have begun flying the route. It costs ₹3000 to ₹3500 to fly up, ₹2500 to ₹3000 to fly down, and ₹6000 to ₹6500 round trip. Several companies fly out of – and have offices in – Phata, between Guptkashi and Sonprayag, while Himalayan Heli Services (7895479452; www.himalayanheli.com; Guptkashi-Sonprayag Rd) is based in nearby Sersi. All companies have offices at the Kedarnath helipad. Flights typically end by early afternoon. Note that scientists are concerned about the impact of frequent helicopter flights on wildlife in the Kedarnath Wildlife Sanctuary, which surrounds the area.

Badrinath & Mana Village

01381 / POP 850 / ELEV 3133M

Basking in a superb setting in the shadow of snow-topped Nilkantha, Badrinath Temple (late Apr-Nov) appears almost lost in the tatty village that surrounds it. Sacred to Lord Vishnu, this vividly painted temple is the most easily accessible and popular of the char dham temples. It was founded by Guru Shankara in the 8th century, but the current structure is much more recent.

A scenic 3km walk beyond Badrinath along the Alaknanda River (cross over to the temple side to pick up the path), past fields divided by dry-stone walls, leads to tiny but charismatic Mana Village (May-Oct); you can also take a taxi there for ₹250. The village is crammed with stone laneways and traditional houses, some with slate walls and roofs while others are wooden with cute balconies. You can wander around and watch the villagers at work and play. They migrate to somewhere warmer and less remote – usually Joshimath – between November and April.

Just outside Mana village in a small cave is the tiny, 5000-year-old Vyas Temple. Nearby is Bhima's Rock, a natural rock arch over a river that is said to have been made by Bhima, strongest of the Pandava brothers, whose tale is told in the Mahabharata. The 5km hike along the Alaknanda to the 145m Vasudhara Waterfall has a great reward-to-effort ratio, with views up the valley of the Badrinath massif jutting skywards like a giant fang.

Sleeping & Eating

Badrinath can easily be visited in a day from Joshimath if you get an early start, but it's worth staying if you also want to see Mana Village and do any hiking. There is a slew of grim budget guesthouses lining the main road into town (₹400 to ₹600 per room); they can be loud with pilgrims.

Hotel Urvashi

HOTEL $

( 9411565459; r ₹800)

One of the few decent budget accommodations in Badrinath, with friendly staff.

Badriville Resort

BUNGALOW $$$

( 9412418725; www.badrivilleresort.in; r from ₹3000)

Our favourite hotel in Badrinath, Badriville Resort has clean and comfortable individual bungalow rooms, with the best beds in town. Most have patios with full valley views. The staff are helpful and friendly, and the restaurant serves up delicious fresh food. It's set back about 100m from the main road, just as you enter Badrinath. Major discounts available when slow.

Hotel Snow Crest

HOTEL $$$

( 9412082465; www.snowcrest.co.in; r ₹2500-4000)

The best standard hotel in Badrinath. While overpriced, it's modern and passably clean, and rooms have heaters, TVs and geysers. Prices rise in May and June.

Getting There & Away

From the large bus station at the entrance to Badrinath, GMOU buses run to Haridwar (₹455) via Rishikesh (₹420) at 5.30am, 7am, and 8am, but double-check departure times, as these may change. For Joshimath or Govindghat (for Valley of Flowers), try to grab a shared jeep at around 7am or earlier.

TREKKING THE HIMALAYA

There are many sublime trekking routes in Uttarakhand. For more information, contact GMVN in Dehra Dun or local trekking outfitters.

Har-ki-Dun Valley Trek

The wonderfully remote Har-ki-Dun Valley (3510m), within Govind Wildlife Sanctuary & National Park (Indian/foreigner up to 3 days ₹150/600, subsequent days ₹50/250), is a botanical paradise criss-crossed by glacial streams, surrounded by pristine forests and snowy peaks. You might be lucky enough to glimpse the elusive snow leopard above 3500m.

The three-day, 38km trail to Har-ki-Dun begins at Sankri (also called Saur), where the best place to stay is the new Wild Orchid Inn (☎9411500044; www.wildorchidin@gmail.com; Sankri; s/d ₹600/800). There are very basic GMVN tourist bungalows at Sankri and along the way in the villages of Taluka and Osla, but at the valley itself you have to stay in the Forest Department rest house or bring a tent. You can cut a day off the hike by taking a share jeep to Taluka and starting from there. A side trip to Jamdar Glacier takes another day. The trek can be busy during June and October.

A couple of reputable guides work out of Sankri – Chain Singh and Bhagat Singh – who run the Har Ki Dun Protection & Mountaineering Association. In addition to outfitting trips to Har-ki-dun, they can take you to the unique villages of the Rupin and Supin Valleys. They also lead treks from Sankri to the Sangla (Baspā) Valley in Himachal Pradesh and along other beautiful routes. Make arrangements in advance by email if possible – these guys are busy!

To get to Sankri, take a direct bus from Gandhi Chowk in Mussoorie or from Dehra Dun's Mussoorie Bus Stand – or hop a series of buses and shared or private jeeps until you get there.

Kuari Pass Trek

Also known as the Curzon Trail (though Lord Curzon's party abandoned its attempt on the pass following an attack of wild bees), the trek over the Kuari Pass (3640m) was popular in the Raj era. It's still one of Uttarakhand's finest and most accessible treks, affording breathtaking views of the snow-clad peaks around Nanda Devi –

India's second-highest mountain, at 7816m – while passing through the outer sanctuary of Nanda Devi Sanctuary. The trailhead is at Auli and the 75km trek to Ghat past lakes, waterfalls, forests, meadows and small villages takes five days, though it's possible to do a shorter version that finishes in Tapovan in three days. A tent, guide, permit and your own food supplies are necessary, all of which can be organised easily in Joshimath.

Milam Glacier Trek

This challenging eight-day, 118km trek to the massive Milam Glacier (3450m) is reached along an ancient trade route to Tibet that was closed in 1962 following the war between India and China. It passes through magnificent rugged country to the east of Nanda Devi (7816m) and along the sometimes spectacular gorges of the river, Gori Ganga. You can also take a popular but tough side trip to Nanda Devi East base camp, adding another 32km or three days.

Free permits (passport required) are available from the District Magistrate in Munsyari. You will also need a tent and your own food supplies, as villages on the route may be deserted. KMVN organises all-inclusive eight-day treks (from ₹10,500). These are best arranged at KMVN Parvat Tours in Nainital but the KMVN Rest House in Munsyari should be able to set you up too.

The base for this excursion is the spectacularly located village of Munsyari, where a guide, cook and porters can be hired and package treks can be arranged through Nanda Devi Tour N Trek (☎05961-222015, 9411130330; beerubugyal@yahoo.co.in).

Less travelled but equally (or more) stunning treks include the Begini/Dunagiri route north of Joshimath and the Panchachuli East/Chota Kailash route, north of Dharchula.

Pindari Glacier Trek

This six-day, 94km trek passes through truly virgin country that's inhabited by only a few shepherds. It offers wonderful views of Nanda Kot (6860m) and Nanda Khat (6611m) on the southern rim of Nanda Devi Sanctuary. The 3km-long, 365m-wide Pindari Glacier is at 3353m, so take it easy to avoid altitude sickness. Permits aren't needed but bring your passport.

The trek begins and finishes at Loharket (1700m), a village 36km north of Bageshwar. Guides and porters can be organised easily there, or in the preceding village of Song (1400m), or you can organise package treks through companies in Almora. KMVN operates all-inclusive eight-day treks starting from Song for ₹7000 per person, staying at government rest houses. KMVN dorms (mattresses on the floor for ₹200), basic guesthouses or dhaba huts (₹100 to ₹300) are dotted along the route, and food is available. KMVN tours are best arranged through KVMN Parvat

Tours in Nainital.

Buses (₹50, two hours) or share jeeps (₹60, 1½ hours) run between Song and Bageshwar. Private taxis between Bageshwar and Song/Loharket cost ₹3500/4000.

Uttarkashi

📍 01374 / POP 17,500 / ELEV 1158M

Uttarkashi, 155km from Rishikesh and the largest town in northern Garhwal, is a major stop on the road to Gangotri Temple and the Gaumukh Glacier trek. The main bazaar is worth a wander and has all the supplies you might need. A number of outfitters can arrange treks in the region, including to Tapovan (beyond Gangotri/Gaumukh).

The town is probably best known for the Nehru Institute of Mountaineering, which trains many of the guides running trekking and mountaineering outfits in India. The centre is across the river from the main market and has a museum and outdoor climbing wall. Basic and advanced mountaineering and adventure courses are open to all – check the website for details and admission information.

Uttarkashi also hosts the Makar Sankranti festival (🕒 Jan).

Nehru Institute of Mountaineering

OUTDOORS

(📞 01374-222123; www.nimindia.net; 🕒 10am-5pm)

Offers highly regarded mountaineering courses, guide training and trekking-guide services throughout the Garhwal Himalaya and beyond.

Sleeping & Eating

Monal Guest House

HOTEL $

(📞 01374-222270; www.monaluttarkashi.com; Kot Bungalow Rd; r ₹700-2300; @)

This hillside hotel feels like a large, comfortable house, and has clean, airy rooms, a big-windowed restaurant and peaceful garden setting. Wing A has a more homely feel than Wing B. It's off the Gangotri road 3km north of town, about 100m from the office that issues permits to Gamukh.

Hotel Govind Palace

HOTEL $

(📞) 01374-223815, 9411522058; near bus stand; r from ₹500

One of the best-value choices if you have to catch an early morning bus. It has good beds, hot showers and TVs, and the manager GS Bhandari is superhelpful. It also has one of the better restaurants in town.

i Getting There & Away

To get to Gangotri, take a shared jeep/full taxi (₹200/3000, five hours). Buses leave for Rishikesh (₹230, seven hours) at least every hour between 5am and 2pm. Buses go to Haridwar (₹280, eight hours) at 6.45am and 12.30pm, and to Dehra Dun (₹200, nine hours) at 6am, 7.30am and noon. Buses to Srinagar (₹210, eight hours) leave at 5.30am, 8am and 8.30am, and those to Barkot (₹120, five hours) run frequently until 3pm. In summer, a 7.45am bus runs directly to Janki Chatti (₹190, nine hours) for Yamunotri temple. Seats may sell out on some routes, so it's a good idea to buy tickets a day in advance.

Full taxis to Rishikesh cost ₹4500.

Joshimath

(📞) 01389 / POP 13,860 / ELEV 1875M

As the gateway to Badrinath Temple and Hem Kund, Joshimath sees a steady stream of Hindu and Sikh pilgrims from May to October. And as the base for the Valley of Flowers and Kuari Pass treks, and Auli ski resort, it attracts adventure travellers year-round.

Reached from Rishikesh by a serpentine mountain road, Joshimath is a thoroughly utilitarian two-street town with erratic power supply and limited places to eat. Although the big mountain views are lost from the town itself, it's only a short cable-car ride from here to Auli, which has magnificent vistas of Nanda Devi.

Activities

To trek the Kuari Pass and other routes in Nanda Devi Sanctuary, you need a permit and a registered guide. There are excellent operators in town who can organise everything, including further-flung and intensely adventurous multiday expeditions.

★ Himalayan Snow Runner

OUTDOORS

( 9756813236, 9412082247; www.himalayansnowrunner.com)

Highly recommended outfit for trekking (from around ₹3000 per person per day), skiing and adventure activities, with camping gear provided. The owner, Ajay, can customise unique trekking routes, takes cultural tours to Bhotia and Garhwali villages, and runs a guesthouse in his home in Mawari village, 5km from Joshimath (rooms ₹1550 to ₹4550).

Adventure Trekking

OUTDOORS

( 9837937948; www.adventuretrekking.org; opposite Hotel Mount View Joshimath)

Treks of anything from two to 10 days can be arranged here for around US$50 per person per day (with more than one person), as well as white-water rafting, skiing and peak ascents. The helpful owner, Santosh, runs a guesthouse on the way up to Auli (rooms ₹1000 to ₹2000).

Eskimo Adventures

OUTDOORS

( 9756835647; www.eskimoadventure.com)

Offers treks and rock-climbing expeditions from about ₹3000 per day, equipment rental (for trekking and skiing), and white-water rafting trips on the Ganges.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel New Kamal

HOTEL $

( 9411577880; Main Market; r ₹500)

Small and clean with TVs and bucket hot water; though the beds are hard, this is one of the better cheapies in Joshimath.

Malari Inn

HOTEL $$

( 01389-222257; www.hotel-malari-inn.weebly.com; Main Market; r ₹1800-3500)

This is the best place in Joshimath. Standard rooms are basic but spacious and clean; you pay more for more amenities, a fatter mattress and a balcony with valley views. All rooms have geysers. Discounts are offered outside peak season (May through to September).

Hotel Mount View Annexy

HOTEL $$

( 9634255572; r ₹1000)

Mount View Annexy is a short walk down the main road from where the buses stop. The rooms at this standard hotel deliver what many others in Joshimath lack: reliable cleanliness, soft mattresses, flat-screen TVs, 24-hour hot water, and a sense of being well maintained.

Auli D's Food Plaza

MULTICUISINE $$

(Main Market; mains ₹90-450;  7am-10pm)

Featuring a full menu of Indian, Chinese and Continental food, including veg and nonveg choices, this 1st-floor restaurant has plastic tablecloths and covered seats, and feels like a banquet hall.

Information

GMVN Tourist Office ( 01389-222181;  10am-5pm Mon-Sat) Located just north of the town (follow the Tourist Rest House sign off Upper Bazaar Rd).

i Getting There & Away

Although the main road up to Joshimath is maintained by the Indian army, and a hydroelectric plant on the way to Badrinath has improved that road, the area around Joshimath is inevitably prone to landslides, particularly in the rainy season from mid-June to mid-September.

The best way to get to Badrinath/Govindghat (for Valley of Flowers and Hem Kund) is by shared jeep (₹100/50), leaving from the Badrinath taxi stand at the far end of Upper Bazaar Rd. Hiring the whole jeep costs ₹1000. A few buses (₹65) leave throughout the day from the same place.

Buses run from Joshimath to Rishikesh (₹360, 10 hours) and Haridwar (₹400, 11½ hours), at 4am, 4.30am, 6am and 7am, departing from the tiny GMOU booth (Upper Bazaar Rd; 🕒 3am-7pm), where you can also book tickets. From the main jeep stand, private buses leave occasionally for Chamoli (₹80, two hours) and Karanprayag (₹130, four hours), with some continuing to Rishikesh.

To get to the eastern Kumaon region, take any bus or shared taxi to Chamoli then transfer onward to Karanprayag, from where a series of local buses and share jeeps can take you along the beautiful road towards Kausani, Bageshwar and Almora. You may have to change several times along the way. Transport winds down in the late afternoon, so get an early start.

Full taxis are best hired through a travel agency or hotel, as there is no taxi stand for these. Taking one to Rishikesh would cost about ₹6000.

Around Joshimath

Auli

📍 01389 / POP 300 / ELEV 3048M

Rising above Joshimath, 14km by road – and only 4km by the gondola-style cable car – Auli is India's premier ski resort. But you don't have to visit in winter to enjoy the awesome views of Nanda Devi (India's second-highest peak) from the top of the cable-car station.

As a ski resort, Auli is hardly spectacular, with gentle 5km-long slopes, one 500m rope tow (₹100 per trip) that runs beside the main slope, and an 800m chairlift (₹200) that connects the upper and lower slopes. The snow is consistently good, though, and the setting is superb. The season runs from January to March, and equipment hire and instruction can be arranged here or in Joshimath.

The state-of-the-art cable car (return ₹750; 🕒 every 20min 8am-5pm), India's longest, links Joshimath to the upper slopes above Auli. There's a cafe, of sorts, at the top, serving hot chai and tomato soup.

A handful of hotels are spread around the ski resort. The Clifftop Club (📞 7417936606; www.clifftopclubauli.com; studio ₹8500, ste ₹16,000) wouldn't look out of place in the Swiss Alps. Meals and all-inclusive ski packages, including equipment, are available.

If on a tighter budget, stay at the surprisingly good GMVN Tourist Rest House (📞 01389-223208; www.gmvnl.com; dm ₹280, r ₹1650-4500 incl breakfast) at the start of the chairlift. Devi Darshan (📞 9719316777; www.mountainshepherds.com; r incl meals from ₹4000) has a restaurant and common room with full-on Nanda Devi views, with dark bedrooms.

TUNGNATH & CHANDRISILLA

One of the best day hikes in Uttarakhand, the trail to Tungnath Mandir (3680m) and Chandrisilla Peak (4000m) features a sacred Panch Kedar temple and a stunning Himalayan panorama.

The trail starts at Chopta, a small village with no electricity, which is found on the winding road between Chamoli (south of Joshimath) and Kund (south of Gaurikund). A well-paved path switchbacks 3.5km uphill, gaining 750m in elevation, to Tungnath, the highest Shiva temple in the world. A dirt trail continues 1.5km further to the top of Chandrisilla. From the summit, the Garhwali and Kumaoni Himalaya stretch out before you, with awesome vistas of major mountains including Nanda Devi, Trishul and the Kedarnath group. Start early before the clouds move in, or head up in the afternoon, stay at one of the spartan guesthouses around Tungnath and hit Chandrisilla for sunrise. There's basic accommodation in Chopta: Hotel Neelkanth (☎7500139051; <http://www.neelkanthcampchopta.in>; r from ₹600) has the best rooms, but Hotel Rajkamal (r ₹400) is the friendliest.

The drive from Chamoli to Chopta is a worthwhile diversion in itself, as it traverses steeply terraced hillsides dotted with rural villages before entering a lushly forested musk-deer sanctuary pierced by dramatic cliffs.

Valley of Flowers & Hem Kund

British mountaineer Frank Smythe stumbled upon the Valley of Flowers in 1931. The bugyals (high-altitude meadows) of tall wildflowers are a glorious sight on a sunny day, rippling in the breeze, and framed by mighty 6000m mountains that have glaciers and snow decorating their peaks all year.

The 300 species of flowers make this World Heritage Site a unique and valuable pharmaceutical resource. Unfortunately, most flowers bloom during the monsoon season in July and August, when the rains make access difficult and hazardous. There's a widespread misconception that the valley isn't worth visiting outside peak flower season, but even without its technicolour carpet it's still ridiculously beautiful. And it's more likely to be sunny.

Overnight stays aren't permitted in the Valley of Flowers or at the sacred lake of Hem Kund so you must stay in Ghangaria. This one-street village shuts down outside the pilgrimage season (1 June to 1 October or thereabouts).

To reach the 87-sq-km Valley of Flowers National Park (Indian/foreigner up to 3 days ₹150/600, subsequent days ₹50/250; 🕒7am-5pm Jun-Oct, last entry 2pm) first requires a full-day hike from Govindghat to the village of Ghangaria (also called Govinddham), which is just outside the park. The fabled valley begins 2km uphill from Ghangaria's ticket office and continues for another 5km. Tracks are easy to follow.

A tougher hike from Ghangaria involves joining hundreds of Sikh pilgrims toiling up to the 4300m Hem Kund (🕒May-Oct), the sacred lake surrounded by seven peaks where Sikh Guru Gobind Singh is believed to have meditated in a previous life. Ponies (₹500) are available if you prefer to ride up the 6km zigzag trail. Remarkably, the climb is often undertaken by small children and people with weak legs or lungs – they ride up in a wicker chair hauled on the back of a kandi man or reclining in a dandi (litter), carried on the shoulders of four men like the royalty of old.

The trek to Ghangaria is a scenic but strenuous 14km uphill from Govindghat, which takes five to seven hours – though recent 'improvements' to the route have seen the paving of the first 3km into a driveable road, which many people choose to cover in a shared jeep (₹30). You can also ease the hike and help the local economy by hiring a pony (₹800) or a porter (₹800) at the bridge over the Alaknanda River, or at the end of the paved road. Top tip: if you have the time, sleep at Badrinath the night before you trek to Ghangaria to acclimatise your body to the altitude; it'll make the hike easier.

Sleeping & Eating

In Ghangaria, water and electricity supplies are erratic. It can get cold, so bring warm layers. All the accommodation here is relatively spartan, and none has heat, but they do have heaps of blankets.

At Govindghat, there are several hotels with rooms for around ₹300, but the Hotel Bhagat ( 9412936360; www.hotelbhagat.com; Badrinath Rd, Govindghat; r ₹2100-3000), up on the main road between Joshimath and Badrinath, has very clean rooms with river views, geysers and meals.

You don't need to carry food, as dhabas and drink stalls serve the army of pilgrims heading to Hem Kund, and there are plenty of restaurants in Ghangaria.

Hotel Kuber Annex

HOTEL $

(Ghangaria; r ₹400-800)

The super-deluxe rooms here are marginally better than any other options in Ghangaria.

Getting There & Away

All buses and share jeeps between Joshimath and Badrinath pass by Govindghat, so you can easily find transport travelling in either direction, though this trickles off later in the day and stops dead at night.

If you want to see the Valley of Flowers but are daunted by the trek, it's possible to get a helicopter from Govindghat to Ghangaria with Deccan Air (9412051036; www.deccanair.com; one way/return ₹3500/7000); the booking office is along the Joshimath–Badrinath road, just above Govindghat.

Corbett Tiger Reserve

05947 / ELEV 400-1210M

World-renowned Corbett Tiger Reserve (www.corbetttigerreserve.in;  15 Nov-15 Jun, Jhirna & Dhela zones open year-round) was established in 1936 as India's first national park, and covers 1318 sq km of wild forests. It's named for legendary British hunter Jim Corbett (1875–1955), who brought this region international fame with his book The Man-Eaters of Kumaon. Greatly revered by local people for killing tigers that preyed on people, Corbett eventually shot more wildlife with his camera than with his gun and became a prominent voice for conservation.

Though tiger attacks are on the rise in villages around Corbett Tiger Reserve, tiger sightings on safaris take some luck, as the 230 or so striped cats that roam the reserve are neither baited nor tracked. Your best chance of spotting one is late in the season (April to mid-June), when the forest cover is low and animals come out in search of water.

Notwithstanding tiger sightings, few serious wildlife enthusiasts will leave disappointed, as the park has a variety of wildlife and birdlife in grassland, sal forest and river habitats, and a beautiful location in the foothills of the Himalaya on the Ramganga River. Commonly seen wildlife include wild elephants (200 to 300 live in the reserve), sloth bears, langur monkeys, rhesus macaques, peacocks, romps of otters and several types of deer including chital (spotted deer), sambars, hog deer and barking deer. You might also see leopards, mugger crocodiles, gharials, monitor lizards, wild boars and jackals. The Ramganga Reservoir attracts large numbers of migrating birds, especially from mid-December to the end of March, and more than 600 species have been spotted here.

Of Corbett's six zones – Bijrani, Dhikala, Dhela, Durga Devi, Jhirna and Sonanadi – Dhikala is the highlight of the park, 49km northwest of Ramnagar and deep inside the reserve. This is the designated core area, where the highest concentration of the animals you probably hope to see are found. It's open from 15 November to 15 June and only to overnight guests, or as part of a one-day tour available through the park's reception centre ( 05947-251489; Ranikhet Rd;  6am-4pm), almost opposite Ramnagar's bus stand.

Jhirna and Dhela, in the southern part of the reserve, are the only zones that remain open all year, but your chances of seeing serious megafauna in those areas are iffy – at least for now. Dhela, which opened to the public in December 2014, may eventually include a large fenced section meant to house rescued tigers, which should be fairly easy to spot. There are also plans to create two nature trails in Dhela; we're told that these will mainly be for birdwatching, and that the trails will be protected by fences, so you don't have to worry about becoming tiger prey. Note that in some years, depending on conditions, the other four zones may open in October, but the only way to find out is to check online.

Be sure to bring binoculars (you can hire them at park gates) and plenty of mosquito repellent and mineral water.

Visiting the Reserve

The reception centre in Ramnagar runs daily bus tours ( 05947-251489; Ranikhet Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹1125/2250;  6am & noon) to Dhikala – called Canter Safaris – at 6am and noon.

Jeeps can be hired at the reception centre in Ramnagar, or through your accommodation or a tour agency. Jeep owners have formed a union, so in theory rates are fixed (on a per-jeep basis, carrying up to six people). Half-day safaris (leaving in the morning and afternoon) should cost ₹1600 to Bijrani, ₹1750 to Jhirna, ₹1750 to Dhela and ₹2350 to Durga Devi – not including the entry fees for you and your guide. Full-day safaris cost double. Overnight excursions to Dhikala cost ₹5200, while those to Sonanadi run ₹7000. Check current prices at the reception centre and at your hotel before hiring a jeep. Safaris offered by Karan Singh, who runs Karan's Corbett Motel, are highly recommended.

Two-hour elephant rides (Indian/foreigner ₹300/1000; 🕒 6am & 4pm) are available only at Dhikala and Bijrani on a first-come, first-served basis. However, animal welfare groups warn that carrying passengers can cause spinal damage to elephants.

CORBETT PERMITS

Corbett Tiger Reserve controls tourist impact by limiting the number of vehicles into each zone each day. You must book your entry permit in advance, via the park's website (www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in) or by signing up for a trip with a safari outfit. If you book online (fee ₹50), give your reservation confirmation to your driver, whether you hire one from the reservation centre or use a tour operator. Day trips can be booked 45 days in advance; if you can't plan ahead, you can probably still visit the park; safari operators will ask each other if anyone is running a jeep with open seats that you can fill. Overnight trips to Dhikala are best booked by a safari company.

For a day trip, the vehicle entry fee (not including passengers) costs ₹250/500 for Indians/foreigners; for an overnight jaunt, it's ₹500/1500. Then there's the visitor entry fee, which is about the craziest system we've seen in a while. Officially, the single-day fee (valid for four hours, available for every zone except Dhikala) is ₹100/450 per Indian/foreigner; three-day permits cost ₹200/900. But the park makes you pay visitor fees for every seat in the jeep, even if they are empty. Kindly, they imagine that unoccupied seats are filled by Indians, so jeep passengers will pay their own entry fees, plus ₹100 for the driver's entry, plus an extra ₹100 per seat for their invisible companions! On top of all of that, there's a ₹450 road tax.

How much does this all cost? Add up your jeep hire fee, vehicle entry fee, visitor entry fees, driver's entry fee and empty seat fees, road tax, and online booking fee... and that's your total. Taking a safari or hotel tour costs marginally more than arranging everything yourself, but since they provide expert guides fluent in English, they can be well worth the few extra rupees.

Sleeping & Eating

For serious wildlife-viewing, Dhikala – deep inside the reserve – is the prime place to stay, though prices for foreigners are exorbitant. Book through the park's website (www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in) at least one month in advance. The town of Ramnagar has budget accommodation, while upmarket resorts are strung out along the road skirting the eastern side of the park between Dhikuli and Dhangarhi Gate.

Dhikala

Easily the cheapest lodgings in the park are at Log Huts ( 9759363344, 05947-251489; <http://www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in>; dm Indian/foreigner ₹200/400), with 24 basic beds. Tourist Hutments ( 9759363344, 05947-251489; <http://www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in>; Indian/foreigner ₹1250/2500) offer the best-value accommodation in Dhikala and sleeps up to six people. Book via www.dhikalaforestlodge.in or www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in. Dhikala has a couple of restaurants serving vegetarian food. No alcohol is allowed in the park.

Accommodation at the New Forest Rest House ( 9759363344, 05947-251489; <http://www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in>; r Indian/foreigner ₹1250/2500), Annexe ( 05947-251489, 9759363344; r Indian/foreigner from ₹1000/2000) and the VIP Old Forest Rest House ( 05947-251489, 9759363344; <http://www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in>; r Indian ₹1500-2500, foreigner ₹3000-5000) can all be booked at the reception centre in Ramnagar.

Elsewhere in the Reserve

Most rest houses outside of Dhikala offer kitchen facilities but not restaurants, so check with your guide to see if you should bring your own food.

Bijrani Rest House

LODGE $$

(📞 05947-251489, 9759363344; www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in; s/d Indian ₹500/1250, foreigner ₹1000/2500)

The first place in from Amdanda Gate at the Corbett Tiger Reserve; meals are available.

Khinnanauli Rest House

BUNGALOW $$$

(📞 9759363344, 05947-251489; /www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in; r Indian/foreigner ₹5000/12,000)

VIP lodging near Dhikala, deep in the reserve.

Sarapduli Rest House

HOTEL $$$

(📞 05947-251489, 9759363344; www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in; r Indian/foreigner ₹2000/4000)

Clean and simple rooms, set in an area with lots of wildlife, especially birds and crocodiles, but tigers and elephants too.

Gairal Rest House

BUNGALOW $$$

(📞 9759363344, 05947-251489; www.corbettonline.uk.gov.in; r Indian/foreigner from ₹1250/2500)

On the Ramnagar River, accessed from Dhangarhi Gate; meals are available.

Ramnagar

A busy, unappealing town, Ramnagar has plenty of facilities, including internet cafes (₹30 per hour), ATMs (State Bank of India ATM at the train station and a Bank of Baroda ATM on Ranikhet Rd) and transport connections – mostly along Ranikhet Rd.

★ Karan's Corbett Motel

HOTEL $$

(📞 9837468933; www.karanscorbettmotel.com; Manglar Rd; r ₹1000-1200; 🏠)

On the fringes of town, surrounded by gardens and mango trees, here the rooms are spacious and have terraces with tables and chairs. The owner, Karan Singh, is as knowledgeable and helpful as you could ask for. Hands-down the best place to stay in Ramnagar (not to be confused with the Corbett Motel). Karan runs highly recommended jeep safaris in Corbett.

Hotel Corbett Kingdom

HOTEL $$

( 7500668883; www.corbettkingdom.com; Bhaghat Singh St; r from ₹2500;  )

This straightforward hotel is a comfortable, well-kept option right in Ramnagar. Marble floors add a touch of class.

Delhi Darbar Restaurant

INDIAN $

(Ranikhet Rd; mains ₹80-160;  9am-11pm)

The cleanest and quietest place to eat near the bus stand, with a typical Indian menu, plus pizza.

North of Ramnagar

A growing number of upmarket African-style safari resorts are strung along the Ramnagar–Ranikhet road that runs along the reserve’s eastern boundary. Most are around a settlement called Dhikuli – not to be confused with Dhikala. When most of the reserve is closed (15 June to 15 November), discounts of up to 50% are offered. Most rates are for a room only, but most have packages that include meals and safaris. All places have resident naturalists, recreational facilities, restaurants and bars. Note that a substantial number of resorts in this area were put on notice for polluting the Kosi River.

★ Gateway Resort

RESORT $$$

( 05947-284133; www.thegatewayhotels.com; r/cottage ₹15,000-16,500;   )

At the Taj Group's luxury offering, modern rooms and cottages are spread around a verdant garden. There's an outdoor pool and a full-service spa, but the real gem is the restaurant, whose outdoor terrace has picture-perfect views of the Kosi River. It's the best place on the resort strip.

Namah

RESORT $$$

( 05947-266666; www.namah.in; r ₹12,000-13,000, ste ₹20,000;  )

On the outside, this new resort looks and feels like a condo complex. Rooms, however, have personality, with two-toned walls and jungle-themed artwork. The playground, open spaces, pool and rec room make this a good choice for families. Prices fluctuate greatly depending on demand.

Tiger Camp

RESORT $$$

(📞 05947-284101; www.habitathotels.com; Dhikuli; r/cottage ₹10,700/11,700; 🏠 📶)

This mellow, good-value resort is nestled in a shady jungle-style garden by the Kosi River, 8km from Ramnagar. Cosy cottages are much better than the 'superior' rooms, with modern facilities. Nature walks and village tours are offered.

i Getting There & Away

Buses run almost hourly from Ramnagar to Delhi (₹260, seven hours), Haridwar (₹200, six hours) and Dehra Dun (₹275, seven hours). Frequent buses run to Haldwani (₹64, two hours), from where you can connect to just about anywhere. For Nainital, take a UK Roadways bus to Haldwani and change there, or hop on a private bus that runs direct to Nainital (₹80) – several depart throughout the morning from outside the main bus stand.

Ramnagar train station is 1.5km south of the main reception centre. The nightly Ranikhet Express-Slip 15013 (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹175/490/695) leaves Old Delhi at 10.30pm, arriving in Ramnagar at 4.50am. The return trip on train 25014 leaves Ramnagar at 10pm, arriving in Old Delhi at 3.55am. A daytime run from Old Delhi on train 15035-Slip (2nd class/chair ₹100/375) departs at 4pm, reaching Ramnagar at 8.40pm; the return on train 25036 departs Ramnagar at 9.50am, hitting Delhi at 3.25pm.

Nainital

(📞 05942 / POP 42,000 / ELEV 2084M)

Crowded around a deep, green volcanic lake, Nainital is Kumaon's largest town and favourite hill resort. It occupies a steep forested valley around the namesake lake Naini and was founded by homesick Brits reminded of the Cumbrian Lake District.

Plenty of hotels are set on the hillside around the lake. There's a busy bazaar, and a spider's web of walking tracks covers the forested slopes to viewpoints overlooking distant Himalayan peaks. For travellers it's an easy place to kick back and relax, eat well, and ride horses or paddle on the lake. In peak seasons – roughly May to mid-July and October – Nainital is packed to the gills with holidaying families and honeymooners, and hotel prices skyrocket.

Tallital (Lake's Foot) is at the southeastern end of the lake, where you'll find the bus stand and the main road heading east towards Bhowali. The 1.5km promenade known as the Mall leads to Mallital (Lake's Head) at the northwestern end of the lake. Most hotels, guesthouses and restaurants are strung out along the Mall between Mallital and Tallital. You'll find most shops, including pharmacies, in Bara Bazaar.

Nainital

Top Sights

1 Naini Lake E3

Sights

2 Snow View E1

Activities, Courses & Tours

3 Boat Hire D2

4 Cable Car D1

5 KMVN Parvat Tours F4

6 Nainital Boat Club D2

7 Pedal-boat Hire D2

8 Snout Adventures C1

9 Tiffin Top & Land's End B3

Sleeping

10 Evelyn Hotel E3

11 Hotel City Heart D1

12 Palace Belvedere D1

13 Traveller's Paradise C1

Eating

14 Embassy D2

15 Sakley's Restaurant D1

16 Sonam Chowmein Corner D2

Drinking & Nightlife

Nainital Boat Club D2

Information

17 Bank of Baroda ATM D1

Cyberden C1

18 HDFC Bank E2

19 State Bank of India D1

Transport

20 Sukhatal Bus Stand	B2
21 Tallital Bus Stand	F4
Train Booking Agency	F4

Sights & Activities

★ Naini Lake

LAKE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This pretty lake is Nainital's centrepiece and is said to be one of the emerald green eyes of Shiva's wife, Sati (naina is Sanskrit for eye) that fell to earth after her act of self-immolation. Boatmen will row you around the lake for ₹210 in the brightly painted gondola-like boats (MAP GOOGLE MAP), or the Nainital Boat Club (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.boathouseclub.in; Mallital; 🕒 10am-4pm) will sail you around for ₹500. Pedal boats (MAP GOOGLE MAP) can also be hired for ₹150 per hour.

Naina Devi Temple is on the precise spot where the eye is believed to have fallen. Nearby is the Jama Masjid and a gurdwara. You can walk around the lake in about an hour – the southern side is more peaceful and has good views of the town.

Raj Bhavan

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; ₹50; 🕒 8am-5pm Mon-Sat Jan-Mar, Sep & Oct, to 6pm Apr-Aug, to 4pm Nov & Dec)

About 3km south of Tallital, this is the official residence of the Governor of Uttarakhand. Styled on Buckingham Palace, it's a prime example of British Raj architecture, set among gardens, lawns and forests. Tours of the grounds are available but the residence itself is only open when the governor is away.

On the grounds is a lovely 18-hole golf course (green fee men/women ₹800/100); club hire and caddies are available. A taxi to Raj Bhavan from Tallital should cost about ₹200 round trip, or you can hike 1km by trail.

Snow View

VIEWPOINT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A cable car (MAP GOOGLE MAP); return adult/child ₹290/130; 🕒 8am-8pm May & Jun, 10.30am-4.30pm Jul-Apr) runs up to the popular Snow View at 2270m, which (on clear days) has panoramic Himalayan views, including of Nanda Devi. The ticket office is at the bottom. At the top you'll find the usual food, souvenir and carnival stalls, as well as Mountain Magic, an amusement park with kids' entertainment including bumper cars, trampolines and a flying fox.

A highlight of the trip to Snow View is hiking to viewpoints such as Cheena/Naina Peak, 4km away. Local guides may offer to lead you there.

If you want to get up to Snow View for sunrise, taxis charge ₹200.

Tiffin Top & Land's End

HORSE RIDING, WALKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A 4km walk west of the lake brings you to Tiffin Top (2292m), also called Dorothy's Seat. From here it's a lovely 30-minute walk to Land's End (2118m) through a forest of oak, deodar and pine. Many horses gather 3km west of town on the road to Ramnagar to take you on rides to these spots.

★ Tranquility Treks

TREKKING

(📞 9411196837; www.tranquilitytreks.in)

Experienced guide Sunil Kumar leads hikes and focuses on bird- and wildlife-watching. He can take you on day walks (₹1500), overnight hikes where you stay in local villages (₹2000), and two-week all-inclusive nature trips (from ₹75,000).

Snout Adventures

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9412306615; www.snoutadventure.com; Bara Bazaar)

A recommended outfit offering treks in the Nainital area (from ₹2200 per day, all inclusive, depending on group size). It also conducts rock-climbing courses (₹700 per day) and organises adventure camps.

KMVN Parvat Tours

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05942-231436; www.kmvn.org; Tallital; 🕒 8am-7pm)

A helpful office for information and booking KMVN's rest houses and trekking packages.

Sleeping

Traveller's Paradise

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 7417743236; www.travellersparadise.in; Mallital; r ₹2000-4500; 📶)

A bit north of the Mall, this exceptionally friendly hotel features spacious rooms with flat-screen TVs, couches, faux-wood panelling, wi-fi and quality beds. It's run by the amiable Anu Consul, who spent 10 years living in Mexico, and his wonderful father. Off-season prices start at ₹1800.

Hotel City Heart

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05942-235228; www.cityhearthotelnainital.com; Mallital; d ₹2000-5500)

Located off the Mall, with rooms ranging from small but cute to fabulous deluxe ones with a view. This place discounts more than most and is one of Nainital's best off-season bargains, with prices from ₹800. The rooftop terrace restaurant has fine lake views.

Evelyn Hotel

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05942-235457; www.hotelevelynnainital.com; The Mall, Tallital; d ₹2000-3500, ste ₹5000-6500)

This Victorian-looking hotel overlooking the lake is quintessential Nainital – charming and slightly eccentric. It's big, with stairways and terraces cascading down the hillside, and is a bit old-fashioned, but the well-tended rooms with retro furniture have a nice, cosy feel. Look at a few.

Palace Belvedere

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 05942-237434; www.palacebelvedere.com; Mallital; s/d/ste from ₹6700/7900/10,200; 📶)

Built in 1897, this was the summer palace of the rajas of Awagarh. Animal skins and old prints adorn the walls and lend a faded Raj-era charm. Rooms are spacious, high-ceilinged, and have an aged, if worn, soul. Upstairs gets much more light. Downstairs has an elegant dining room, lounge and verandah. It can be cold in winter.

Eating & Drinking

Sonam Chowmein Corner

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Flats, Mallital; mains ₹30-60; 🕒 11am-7.30pm)

In the covered alley of the Tibetan Market, this authentic Tibetan dhaba whips up fabulous chow mein and momos (dumplings) for the best cheap eats in town.

Embassy

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall, Mallital; meals ₹150-450; 🕒 9am-10.30pm)

With a wood-lined chalet interior and snappily dressed staff, Embassy has been serving up five pages of menu items for more than 40 years. For drinks try 'dancing coffee' or a rosewater lassi. There's a good terrace for people-watching.

Sakley's Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mallital; snacks from ₹125, mains ₹250-650; 🕒 9.30am-9.30pm)

A spotless restaurant found off the Mall, serving up a range of unusual global items such as Thai curries, honey chicken, roast lamb, pepper steaks, and plenty of Chinese dishes, pizzas and sizzlers. The cakes and pastries are great; even if you don't dine here, swing by and pick up some dessert to take back to your room.

Nainital Boat Club

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall, Mallital; 🕒 10am-10pm)

This club is a classic remnant of the Raj era. Temporary membership is ridiculously steep (men/women/couples ₹870/440/870), but the atmospheric bar – with timber beams, buttoned-up barmen with handlebar moustaches and an outdoor deck overlooking the lake – is perfect for an afternoon drink. The dress code specifies no shorts or slippers, and signs warn that ‘decorum should be maintained’.

Information

Cyberden

INTERNET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; per hr ₹40; 🕒 9am-9pm)

Upstairs in a quaint old building in Bara Bazaar.

State Bank of India

BANK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; The Mall, Mallital; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 1pm Sat)

Exchanges foreign currencies and travellers cheques.

Uttarakhand Tourism Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 05942-235337; The Mall; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Doesn't always follow official hours.

Getting There & Away

Train Booking Agency

TRAIN

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 9am-noon & 2-5pm Mon-Fri, 9am-2pm Sat)

The train booking agency, next to the Tallital bus stand, has a quota for trains to Dehra Dun, Delhi, Moradabad, Lucknow, Gorakhpur and Kolkata (Calcutta).

BUS

Most buses leave from the Tallital bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

Although there are direct buses from Nainital, many more services leave from the transport hubs of Haldwani and Bhowali. From Haldwani, regular buses head to Ramnagar, Delhi, Haridwar and the Nepal border at Banbassa.

Haldwani is also a major train terminus. For points north, take a bus or share jeep from Nainital to Bhowali (₹20, 20 minutes) and catch one of the regular onward buses to Almora, Kausani and Ranikhet.

Seven private buses direct to Ramnagar (₹80, 3½ hours) leave from the Sukhatal bus stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP), northwest of Mallital, between 8am and 3.30pm.

Travel agencies sell tickets for private overnight deluxe coaches (with reclining seats) to Delhi (₹350 to ₹800, nine hours), which leave from Tallital around 11am and 10pm.

BUSES FROM NAINITAL

The following buses leave from the Tallital bus stand. For Kathgodam, take the Haldwani bus.

Destination	Fare (₹)	Duration (hrs)	Departures
Almora	110	3	2pm
Dehra Dun	480	10	4 early morning, 3 evening
Delhi (AC/non-AC)	660/410	9	9am, 9.30am, 8.30pm, 9pm (AC)
Haldwani	60	2	half-hourly
Haridwar	350	8	6.30pm
Rishikesh	330	9	5am

TAXI & SHARE JEEP

From the Kumaon Taxi Union stand in Tallital, taxis cost ₹400 to Bhowali, ₹125/500 (shared/full) to Kathgodam or Haldwani (1½ hours), and ₹1500 to both Ramnagar and Almora (both three hours).

Share jeeps leave when full. They go to Bhowali (₹20, 20 minutes), where you can get buses and share taxis to Almora and beyond.

TRAIN

Kathgodam (35km south of Nainital) is the nearest train station, but Haldwani, one stop further south, is the regional transport hub. The train booking agency, next to the Tallital bus stand, can book trains to Dehra Dun, Delhi, Moradabad, Lucknow, Gorakhpur and Kolkata (Calcutta). The daily 12039 Kathgodam–New Delhi Shatabdhi (AC chair/Exec ₹745/1320) departs Kathgodam at 3.35pm, stops at Haldwani at 3.50pm, and reaches New Delhi station at 9.05pm. In the other direction, train 12040 departs New Delhi station at 6am, arriving at Haldwani at 11.18am and Kathgodam at 11.40am.

CROSSING TO NEPAL: BANBASSA TO MAHENDRANAGAR (BHIMDATTA)

Banbassa is the closest Indian village to the Nepal border post of Mahendranagar (Bhimdatta), 5km away. Check the current situation in western Nepal before crossing here, as roads during monsoon or immediate postmonsoon season may be impassable due to landslides and washed-out bridges.

Banbassa is easily reached by bus from Haldwani and Pithoragarh. The nearby town of Tanakpur has even more connections.

The border is open 24 hours, but before 6am and after 6pm you're unlikely to find anyone to stamp you out of India and into Nepal. While the border is officially open to vehicles only from 6am to 8am, 10am to noon, 2pm to 4pm and 6pm to 7pm, rickshaws and motorcycles are usually allowed to make the 1km trip across the bridge between the border posts at any time. Otherwise you have to walk it.

Single-entry Nepali visas valid for 15/30/90 days cost US$25/40/100 and are available at the Nepali side of the border between 9am and 5pm. Bring US dollars.

Hotels in Banbassa exchange Indian and Nepali rupees, as will a small office near the Nepal border post. Nabil Bank in Mahendranagar has an ATM and foreign-currency exchange. ATMs can be found in Banbassa.

Onward Transport

From the Nepali border, take an autorickshaw (₹100) or shared taxi to Mahendranagar. The bus station is about 1km from the centre on the Mahendra Hwy, from where eight daily buses depart for Kathmandu between 5.30am and 4.30pm. There's also a single Pokhara service at 2.20pm (16 hours).

Almora

📍 05962 / POP 35,500 / ELEV 1650M

Set along a steep-sided ridge, Almora is the regional capital of Kumaon, first established as a summer capital by the Chand rajas of Kumaon in 1560. These days you'll find colonial-era buildings, reliable trekking outfits and a couple of community-based weaving enterprises. Don't be put off by the utilitarian main street when you're first deposited at the bus stand – head one block south to the pedestrian-only cobbled Lalal Bazaar, lined with intricately carved and painted traditional wooden shop facades. It's a fascinating place to stroll, people-watch and shop. On clear days, you can see Himalayan snow peaks from various spots around town.

Sights & Activities

Nanda Devi Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(Lalal Bazaar)

The stone Nanda Devi Temple dates back to the Chand raja era, and is covered in folk-art carvings, some erotic. Every September the temple hosts the five-day Nanda Devi Fair.

Panchachuli Weavers Factory

FACTORY

(📍 05962-232310; www.panchachuli.com; off Bageshwar Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) FREE

The Panchachuli Weavers Factory employs some 700 women to weave, market and sell woollen shawls. The shop here has a wider range of products than the small shop in the Mall. Taxis charge ₹150 return to the factory, or you can walk the 3km – follow the continuation of Mall Rd to the northeast and ask for directions.

High Adventure

TREKKING, MOUNTAIN BIKING

(📞 9412044610; www.trekkinghimalayas.in)

Organises treks around Uttarakhand, and mountain-bike trips near Almora and Nainital. Prices vary depending on route and group size, so call for details.

Festivals & Events

Nanda Devi Fair

CULTURAL

(Almora; 🕒 Sep)

During this five-day fair, thousands of devotees parade the image of the goddess around and watch dancing and other cultural shows. The ritual slaughtering of a male buffalo at the fair's culmination was suspended in recent years due to controversy over the practice, though it still goes on in more remote Kumaoni villages.

Sleeping

Bansal Hotel

HOTEL $

(📞 05962-230864; Lalal Bazaar; r ₹400)

Above Bansal Cafe in the bustling bazaar, but easily reached from the Mall, this is a fine budget choice with small, tidy rooms (some with TV) and a rooftop terrace.

Hotel Shikhar

HOTEL $$

(☎ 05962-230253; www.hotelshikhar.in; The Mall; r ₹600-3500, ste ₹5000; 🏨)

Dominating the centre of town and built to take in the views, this large, boxlike hotel offers a maze of rooms covering all budgets. The cheaper rooms are soulless and worn, but not too awful. The top-tier rooms are Almora's nicest.

Savoy Hotel

HOTEL $$

(☎ 05962-230329; www.ashoknainital.com; The Mall; r ₹1000-1800)

At the southern end of the Mall, just past the tourist office, the Savoy is in a quiet location. Some cheaper downstairs rooms are simple, musty affairs, but the pricier upstairs rooms strive for comfort and style; best of all, they have tables and chairs on a shared terrace that overlooks the valley below Almora.

Eating

Saraswati Sweet & Restaurant

TIBETAN $

(Pithoragarh Rd; dishes ₹30-60; 🕒 7.30am-7.30pm)

This busy place with upstairs tables quickly dishes up veg and nonveg momos and other Tibetan food, along with Chinese. The thukpa (Tibetan noodle soup) is spicy enough to clear your sinuses. It also has mutton burgers and a full list of cold drinks.

Glory Restaurant

INDIAN $

(LR Sah Rd; mains ₹65-190; 🕒 9am-10pm)

This long-running family eatery features popular South and North Indian veg and nonveg dishes, including biryanis and lemon chicken. Pizzas are extra cheesy.

Information

Joshi's Cybercafe

INTERNET

(per hr ₹30; 🕒 9am-8pm Mon-Sat, 9am-1pm Sun; 📶)

One of several places with internet. It's opposite the main post office.

Uttarakhand Tourism Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(📞 05962-230180; Upper Mall; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

i Getting There & Away

The vomit-splattered sides of the buses and jeeps pulling into Almora tell you all you need to know about what the roads are like around here.

KMOU buses operate from the Mall – starting early morning until 2.30pm or 3pm – to Kausani (₹85, 2½ hours), Bageshwar (₹120, two hours) and Haldwani (₹125, three hours) via Bhowali (₹80, two hours) near Nainital. Buses to those places – except Ranikhet – also leave from the adjacent Roadways stand, where you'll find buses to Delhi (₹448, 12 hours) at 5.30pm and 6.30pm – it's best to book Delhi tickets in the morning. For Pithoragarh, head to the Dharanaula bus stand east of the bazaar on Bypass Rd, where several buses (₹165, five hours) depart between about 8.30am and 11am. For Banbassa on the Nepal border, take a bus to Haldwani and change there.

You can get a taxi or jeep to Kausani (shared/full ₹120/1200, 2½ hours), Bageshwar (₹250/1800, two hours), Bhowali (₹200/1000, three hours), Kasar Devi (₹30/300), Pithoragarh (₹350/2000, five hours) and Munsyari (full taxi only, ₹5000, 10 hours). All leave from the Mall, except the shared taxis to Pithoragarh, which leave from Dharanaula bus stand. We can recommend Kishan Bisht (9410915048) as a remarkably sane driver.

The nearest railway stations are at Kathgodam and Haldwani. There's a Railway Reservation Centre (📞 05962-230250; KMVN Holiday Home, Mall; 🕒 9am-noon & 2-5pm Mon-Sat) at the southern end of town.

Around Almora

Kasar Devi

ELEV 2100M

This peaceful spot about 8km north of Almora has been luring alternative types for close to 100 years – as a result, it's also known as Crank's Ridge. The list of luminaries who've visited, some for extended stays, includes Bob Dylan, Cat Stevens, Timothy Leary, Allen Ginsberg and Swami Vivekananda, who meditated at the hilltop Kasar Devi Temple. Today, the village is a low-key backpacker destination, with a mellow vibe and clear-day Himalayan views. There's not a lot to do here, but it's a great place to chill. And Mohan's Binsar Retreat can arrange multiday fishing, rafting or trekking trips.

Sleeping & Eating

Manu Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9410920696; below Binsar Rd; r ₹400-600)

Set amid an orchard with a couple of cows, this place feels like a rural homestay. The largest stone or brick cottages include kitchenettes, making it a great choice for long stays.

Kripal House

HOTEL $

( 9690452939; off Binsar Rd; r from ₹800, without bathroom from ₹600)

This basic guesthouse, down a dirt lane off the main road, boasts mind-blowing views of the Himalaya from its unfurnished rooftop terrace. The more expensive rooms have private kitchens, others share a kitchen with another room.

★ Freedom Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

( 7830355686; www.freedomguesthouse.in; Binsar Rd; r from ₹1500)

Big, immaculately clean rooms open onto shared terraces with sublime valley views, catching the afternoon and sunset light. The newer rooms on the upper floors have a touch more luxury, but each one is a winner. The owners, Sunder and Gita, go out of their way to please.

★ Mohan's Binsar Retreat

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(📞 9412977968, 05962-251215; www.mohansbinsarretreat.com; Binsar Rd; r incl breakfast from ₹5250; 📶)

Arguably the nicest place in Kasar Devi, Mohan's has huge, beautiful rooms with luxurious beds and wooden ceilings and floors. The real draw is the indoor-outdoor terrace restaurant, with great views of the valley below and a shot of distant Himalayan peaks. It's said that Bob Dylan hung out here when it was a humble tea shop in the 1960s.

Rainbow Restaurant

INTERNATIONAL $$

(📞 9720320664; mehra.harsh145@gmail.com; Binsar Rd; mains ₹100-250; 🕒 9am-9pm; 📶)

Sit at tables or cushions on the floor while ordering Indian, Asian, Western or Middle Eastern food, and choose from a long list of fresh juices. Everything we tried was delicious – especially dessert! The owners also run a brand new, top-notch guesthouse and yoga retreat with rooms from ₹3500 (discounts often available).

Binsar

ELEV 2420M

Beyond Kasar Devi, picturesque Binsar, 26km from Almora, was once the hilltop summer capital of the Chand rajas. Now it's a sanctuary protecting 45 sq km. You may spot a leopard or some barking deer, but many people come here for the 200-plus species of birds. On clear days, the Himalayan panorama is breathtaking – from the tower at 'Zero Point,' Binsar's summit (2420m), you can see Kedarnath, Trishul, Nanda Devi, Panchachuli and more. Hiking trails wend throughout the lush forest; their main nexus is the KMVN Rest House. There is one good map of Binsar put out by the Forest Department, with trails and topo lines, but this is very hard to find; it's not offered at the entry gate.

The fee to enter the sanctuary is ₹150/600 per Indian/foreigner, plus a ₹250 to ₹500 vehicle fee depending on what you're driving. Guides, who can be hired at the sanctuary gate or the Rest House, charge ₹250 for a 1½-hour hike.

A return taxi from Almora costs about ₹1100.

Two highly recommended outfits run single- and multiday trekking tours between the villages in and around the sanctuary, offering a deeper experience of the natural environment and rural culture of the area. Village Ways (9759749283; www.villageways.com) has its own private guesthouses in several villages. The Grand Oak Manor (9412094277; shikhatripathi.travel@gmail.com) is run by adventure travel writer Shikha Tripathi and her husband Sindhu Shah, whose family has been in Binsar for over 100 years, and customises treks with overnight stays in the homes of villagers.

Jageshwar

ELEV 1870M

An impressive and active temple complex is set along a creek in a forest of deodars at the village of Jageshwar, 38km northeast of Almora. The 124 temples and shrines date to the 7th century AD and vary from linga shrines to large sikhara (Hindu temples) dedicated to different gods and goddesses.

Down the street is the Jageshwar Archaeological Museum (www.asi.nic.in; Jageshwar; 10am-5pm Sat-Thu), which houses a small collection of exquisite religious carvings taken from the temples for preservation purposes and is well worth a look. An October instalment of the International Yoga Festival was first held here in 2016.

A 3km trail that starts below the centre of the village leads to the top of the ridge behind it. The ridge has dizzying views of the sculpted valley on the other side and the big peaks in the distance.

There are a handful of hotels. The best of the bunch is Tara Guest House ( 9411544736; www.jageshwar.co.uk; Jageshwar; r from ₹400; ).

The easiest way to get from Almora to Jageshwar is by taxi (₹1200 return) or shared taxi (₹75). There's one direct bus daily at around noon. It returns to Almora at 8am the following day. You can also take any bus going through Artola, get off there, and either walk 4km to Jageshwar or take a taxi for ₹80.

Kausani

 05962 / POP 4100 / ELEV 1890M

Perched high on a forest-covered ridge, this tiny village has lovely panoramic views of distant snowcapped peaks, fresh air and a relaxed atmosphere.

Mahatma Gandhi found Kausani an inspirational place to write his Bhagavad Gita treatise Anasakti Yoga in 1929, and there is still an ashram devoted to him here. Baijnath village, 19km north, has an intriguing complex of 12th-century sikhara-style temples in a lovely location shaded by trees, with other shrines in the nearby old village.

Sights

Kausani Tea Estate

PLANTATION

( 9am-6pm mid-Mar–mid-Nov) FREE

At Kausani Tea Estate – a tea plantation that involves private enterprise, the government and local farmers – you can look around and sample and buy products that are exported around the world. It's 3.5km north of the village on the road to Baijnath, an easy and scenic walk.

Anasakti Ashram

HISTORIC SITE

( 05962-258028; Anasakti Ashram Rd) FREE

About 1km uphill from the bus stand, Anasakti Ashram is where Mahatma Gandhi spent two weeks pondering and writing Anasakti Yoga. It has a small museum (Anasakti Ashram Rd;  6am-noon & 4-7pm) that tells the story of Gandhi's life through photographs and words. Visit at 6pm to attend nightly prayers in his memory.

Sleeping & Eating

Outside the two short peak seasons (May to June and October to November), accommodation is often discounted by 50%.

Hotel Uttarakhand

HOTEL $$

( 05962-258012; www.uttarakhandkausani.com; d ₹1250-2550;

Just north of the bus stand, but in a quiet location with a panoramic view of the Himalaya from your verandah, this is Kausani's best-value accommodation. The cheaper rooms are small, with bucket hot water, but upper-floor rooms are spacious and have hot showers and TVs. The manager is helpful and friendly.

Krishna Mountview

HOTEL $$$

( 9927944473; www.krishnamountview.com; Anasakti Ashram Rd; d ₹3650-6250, ste ₹8550-10,250;

Just past Anasakti Ashram, this is one of Kausani's smartest hotels, with clipped formal gardens (perfect for mountain views). Try to get a spacious upstairs room; they have balconies, bay windows and rocking chairs.

Garden Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $$

(mains ₹80-250;  7am-10pm)

In front of Hotel Uttarkhand and enjoying fine Himalayan views, this bamboo and thatch-roofed restaurant is Kausani's coolest. The food comprises first-class dishes from Swiss rösti to chicken tikka and imported pasta, as well as some Kumaon specialities, using fresh ingredients.

Getting There & Away

Buses and share jeeps stop in the village centre. Several buses run to Almora (₹125, 2½ hours), but in the afternoon they generally stop at Karbala on the bypass road, from where you need to take a share jeep (₹10). Heading north, buses run every hour or so to Bageshwar via Baijnath (₹55, 1½ hours). Share jeeps (₹30, 30 minutes) run to Garur, 16km north of Kausani, which is a much more active transport hub, and where you can find share jeeps to Gwaldam for onward buses and jeeps to Garhwal (via Karanprayag).

A taxi to Almora costs around ₹1500; to Nainital or Karanprayag about ₹3200.

Bageshwar

📍05963 / POP 9100 / ELEV 975M

Hindu pilgrims visit Bageshwar, at the confluence of the Gomti and Saryu Rivers, for its ancient stone Bagnath Temple. For travellers, it's more important as a transit town connecting Munsyari and other points east with Kausani and Almora. There are a couple of internet cafes around, and there's a State Bank of India ATM in the main bazaar. The valley around the town, with fields sculpted above the riverbanks, is strikingly beautiful, and the main market is worth a wander.

The bare-bones Hotel Annapurna (📞05963-220109; r ₹300-400, s/d without bathroom ₹100/200) is conveniently next to the bus stand, but for something much better, head for Hotel Narendra Palace (📞05963-220166; Pindari Rd; r ₹500-1500; 🌐📶), about 1km from the bus stand on Pindari Rd.

i Getting There & Away

Several daily buses go to Almora (₹120, three hours) and Kausani (₹50, 1½ hours). Frequent buses run to Bhowali (₹185, six hours) and Haldwani (₹230, 7½ hours). For connections to Garhwal, take a bus to Gwaldam (₹60, two hours) and change there. There are several morning buses to Pithoragarh (₹170, seven hours) and one at 9am to Munsyari (₹160, six hours).

There's a jeep stand near the bus stand, along with a few other spots around town. Share jeeps go to Garur (₹35, 45 minutes), Kausani (₹55, 1½ hours) and Gwaldam (₹85, two hours). A shared/private jeep costs ₹200/2000 to Song (two hours), ₹300/3000 to Loharket (2½ hours), ₹400/4000 to Munsyari (five hours), ₹350/4000 to Pithoragarh (six hours) and ₹200/2000 to Almora (two hours).

Pithoragarh

📞05964 / POP 56,050 / ELEV 1514M

Spread across the hillsides above a scenic valley that's been dubbed 'Little Kashmir', Pithoragarh is the main town of a little-visited region that borders Tibet and Nepal. Its sights include several Chand-era temples and an old fort, but the real reason to come here is to get off the tourist trail. The busy main bazaar is good for a stroll, and townspeople are exceptionally friendly. Picturesque hikes in the area include the rewarding climb up to Chandak (7km) for views of the gorgeous Panchachuli (Five Chimneys) massif.

For a good meal at a good price, locals swear by Jyonar Restaurant (Gandhi Chowk; mains ₹90-250; 🕒10am-9.30pm) in the bazaar.

Hotel Yash Yatharth

HOTEL $$

(📞05964-225005; www.punethahotels.com; Naya Bazaar; dm ₹200, r ₹1200-3500)

The best value accommodation in Pithoragarh, rooms here range from simple with shared bath to large and ornately furnished. In the main bazaar, it's close to the bus stand, and rates are negotiable.

Information

A State Bank of India ATM is in the bazaar.

Tourist Office (📞05964-225527; 🕒10am-5pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat) Located 50m uphill from the jeep stand; can help with trekking guides and information.

Getting There & Away

Buses leave at 5.30am and 9am for Almora (₹280, five hours) and Haldwani (₹336, 10 hours). Frequent buses go to Delhi until 4pm (₹600, 18 hours); there are hourly services from 5am to 2pm to Banbassa (₹260, six hours), the border crossing into Nepal. To get to Munsyari, take a share jeep (₹300, seven hours).

Munsyari

Perched on a mountainside surrounded by plunging terraced fields, where the 6000m Panchachuli peaks scrape the sky across the Johar Valley, Munsyari (2290m) is one of the most scenic villages in Uttarakhand. Visited mostly by trekkers heading to the Milam Glacier, the surrounding landscape makes this a worthwhile destination even if you don't plan on lacing up your boots and hitting the trail.

There are some nice day hikes in the area – ask how to get to Kalya Top (it's a couple of miles off the road that heads uphill, toward Bageshwar) with views of Nanda Devi and Nanda Kot, as well as the Panchachulis. The small Tribal Heritage Museum ( 9411337094; ₹10;  10am-5pm most days), 2km downhill from the bazaar, is run by the charming scholar SS Pangtey and has artefacts from the days when Munsyari was an important nexus of trade with Tibet. Munsyari is also a unique place to experience the Nanda Devi Festival in September.

Several new, modern hotels have popped up in Munsyari, but we still like Hotel Pandey Lodge ( 9411130316; www.munsyarihotel.com; r ₹550-1500), by the bus stand, with its range of good-value rooms, some with amazing views. Across the street, Snow View Hotel ( 7534881686; r ₹500-1200; ) is exceptionally friendly.

Buses run to Bageshwar (₹150, six hours) at 7.30am. Another bus at 6.30am goes all the way to Dehra Dun. Share jeeps run to Pithoragarh (₹180, eight hours), Almora (₹180, eight hours) and Thal (₹120, three hours), where you can change for onward transport. If travelling to Munsyari via Thal, get a right-side window seat for the best views along the road. If you came from Thal and are heading to Pithoragarh, consider taking the longer route via Jauljibi for a change of scenery, including some amazing vistas of the Kumaon and Nepali Himalaya.

Kolkata (Calcutta)

Sights

Activities

Courses

Tours

Sleeping

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping

Kolkata (Calcutta)

📍 033 / POP 14.5 MILLION

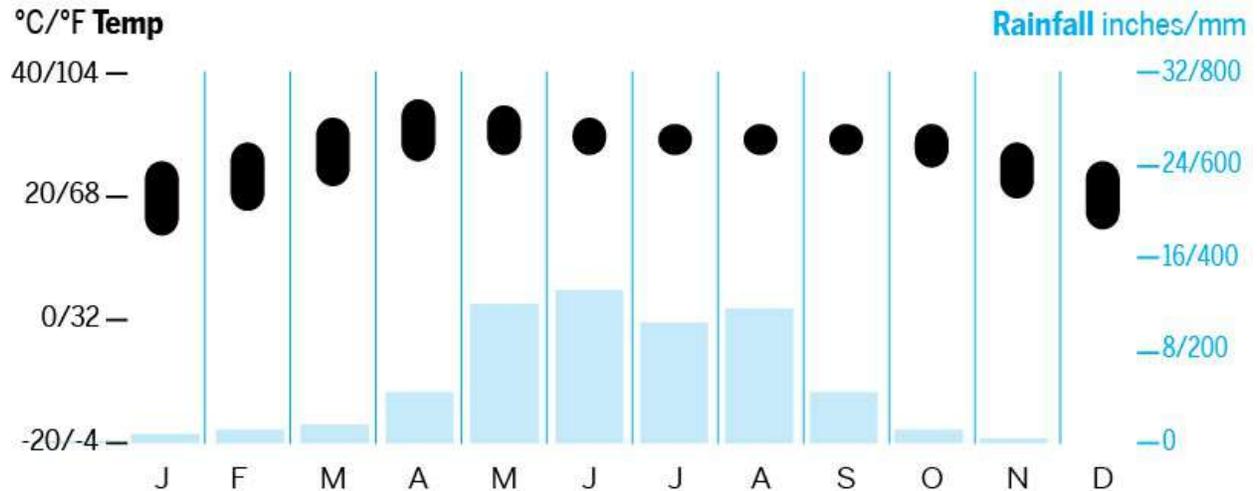

Why Go?

India's second-biggest city is a daily festival of human existence, simultaneously noble and squalid, cultured and desperate, decidedly futuristic while splendid in decay. By its old spelling, Calcutta readily conjures images of human suffering to most Westerners – although that's not a complete picture of this 350-year-old metropolis. Locally, Kolkata is regarded as India's intellectual, artistic and cultural capital. Although poverty is certainly apparent, the self-made middle class drives the city's core machinery, a nascent hipster culture thrives among its millennial residents and its dapper Bengali gentry frequent grand, old colonial-era clubs.

As the former capital of British India, Kolkata retains a feast of colonial-era architecture contrasting starkly with urban slums and dynamic new-town suburbs with their air-conditioned shopping malls. Kolkata is the ideal place to experience the mild yet complex tang of Bengali cuisine. Friendlier than India's other metropolises, this is a city you 'feel' more than simply visit.

When to Go

Kolkata (Calcutta)

- May–Sep Best avoided due to heavy rains that leave the city cat-drenched.
- Sep & Oct The city dresses up magnificently for the colourful mayhem of Durga Puja.
- Nov–Jan Cool and dry, the winter months are a time for film and music festivals.

Best Places to Eat

- 6 Ballygunge Place
- Arsalan
- Kewpies
- Fire and Ice
- Tamarind

Best Places to Sleep

- Astor

- ➔ Corner Courtyard
- ➔ Oberoi Grand
- ➔ Park Hotel
- ➔ Sunflower Guest House

Kolkata Highlights

1 Kumartuli Watching clay goddesses come to life in sculptors' studios along the narrow lanes in this atmospheric neighbourhood.

2 Mullik Ghat Flower Market Riding a boat on the Hooghly River and visiting colourful stalls selling tropical blossoms.

③ Victoria Memorial Pondering the architectural brilliance of the British Raj's majestic tribute to Queen Victoria.

④ Dacres Lane Sampling lip-smacking creole cuisine at street-food stalls in this serpentine lane.

⑤ South Park Street Cemetery Discovering stories from the city's past etched on tombstones shaded by verdant groves.

⑥ Marble Palace Being intrigued by the idiosyncratic exuberance of Bengal's erstwhile zamindars in arguably the city's most curious museum.

⑦ Maidan Hopping onto a tram and enjoying a fun ride through this lush green colonial-era park.

⑧ Belur Math Acquainting yourself with Bengali spirituality on an excursion to this awe-inspiring institution.

History

Centuries before the advent of Western seafarers, the settlement of Kalikata (site of present-day Kalighat) had been home to a much-revered temple consecrated to the Hindu goddess Kali, which still stands today. That aside, the area was very much a rural backwater, and tales of tigers roaming the impenetrable jungles (where Park St now runs!) are rife in the city's lores. When British merchant Job Charnock showed up in 1690, he considered the site appropriate for a new, defensible colonial settlement, and within a few decades a miniature version of London – christened Calcutta – was sprouting stately buildings and English churches amid wide boulevards and grand formal gardens. The grand European illusion, however, vanished abruptly at the new city's frayed edges, where Indians servicing the Raj mostly lived in cramped, overcrowded slums.

The most notable hiccup in the city's meteoric rise came in 1756, when Siraj-ud-daula, the nawab of nearby Murshidabad, captured the city. Dozens of members of the colonial aristocracy were imprisoned in a cramped room beneath the British military stronghold of Fort William (currently a base of the Indian Army). By dawn, around 40 were dead from suffocation. The British press exaggerated numbers, drumming up moral outrage back home: the legend of the 'Black Hole of Calcutta' was born.

The following year, Lord Robert Clive – then Viceroy of India – retook Calcutta for Britain. The nawab sought aid from the French but was defeated at the Battle of Plassey (now Palashi), thanks to the treachery of former allies. A stronger moated 'second' Fort William was constructed in 1758, and Calcutta became British India's official capital, though well into the 18th century one could still hunt leopards in the bamboo forests around where Sudder St lies today.

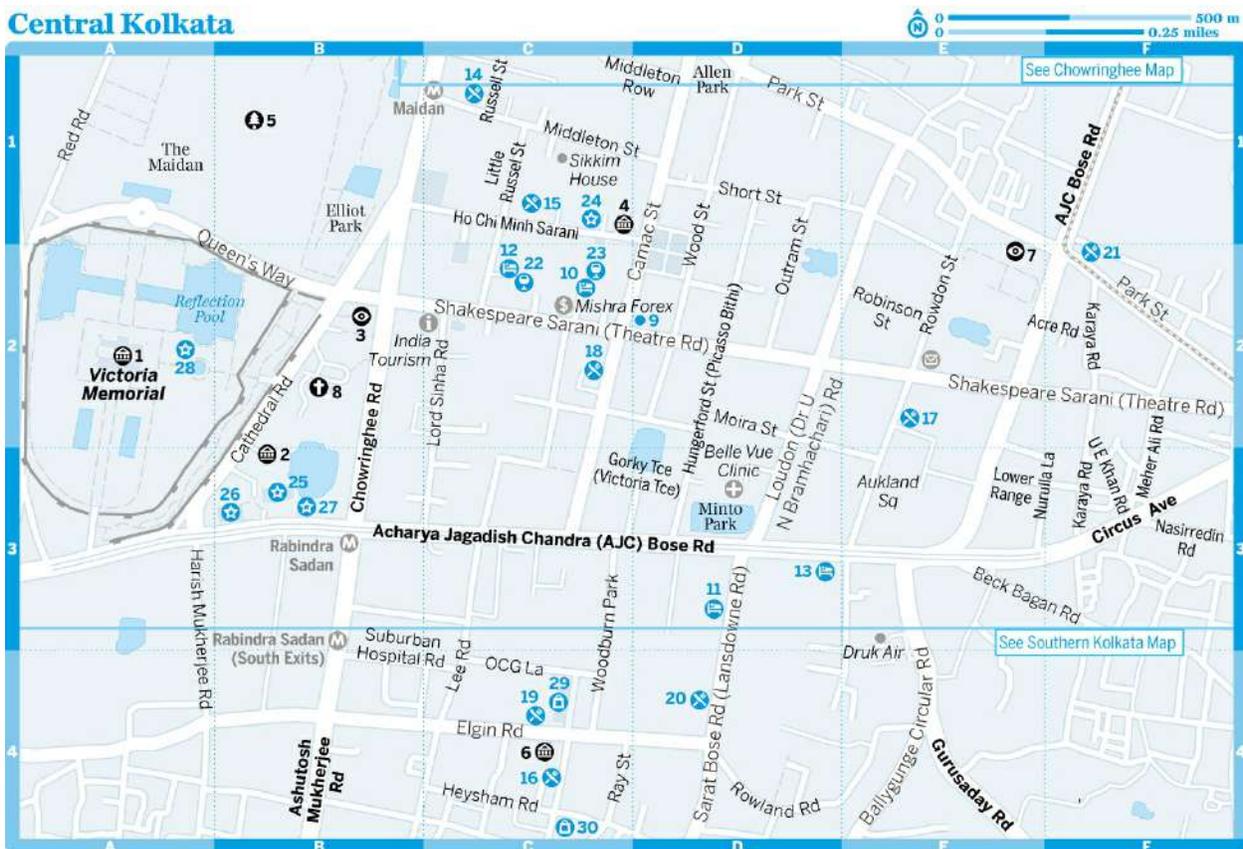

The late-19th-century Bengali Renaissance movement saw a great cultural reawakening among middle-class Calcuttans. This was further galvanised by the massively unpopular 1905 division of Bengal, which sowed the seeds of the Indian Independence movement. Bengal was reunited in 1911, but the British promptly transferred their colonial capital to less troublesome New Delhi.

Initially, loss of political power had little effect on Calcutta's economic status. However, the impact of 1947's partition was devastating. While West Pakistan and Punjab saw a fairly equal (and bloody) exchange of populations, migration in Bengal was largely one way. Around four million Hindu refugees from East Bengal arrived, choking Calcutta's already overpopulated bastis (slums). For a period, people were literally dying of hunger in the streets, creating Calcutta's abiding image of abject poverty. No sooner had these refugees been absorbed than a second wave arrived during the 1971 India-Pakistan War.

After India's partition, the port of Calcutta was hit very hard by the loss of its main natural hinterland, which lay behind the closed East Pakistan (later Bangladesh) border. Labour unrest spiralled out of control while the city's dominant party (Communist Party of India) spent most of its efforts attacking the feudal system of land ownership and representing proletarian demands and interests. Despite being well intentioned, many of these moves backfired. Bandhs (strikes) were called by labour unions almost fortnightly, severely affecting the commercial productivity of the region. Strict rent controls to protect tenants' interests were abused to the extent that even today some tenants pay only a few hundred rupees occupying quarters in the grandest heritage buildings, which are sadly crumbling away because landlords have no interest in maintaining these loss-making properties.

In 2001 Calcutta officially adopted the more phonetic spelling, Kolkata. Around the same time the city administration implemented a new, relatively business-friendly attitude that has encouraged a noticeable economic resurgence. The most visible results are numerous suburban shopping malls and apartment towers, plus the rapid emergence of Salt Lake City's Sector 5 as Kolkata's alternative corporate and entertainment centre (albeit well off tourists' radars). In 2011 the Trinamool Congress Party swept the state elections to end the Communist Party's 34-year reign in West Bengal, and promised to usher in large-scale paribartan (change). It's a work in progress that continues to the present day.

Central Kolkata

Top Sights

1 Victoria Memorial A2

Sights

2 Academy of Fine Arts B3

3 Birla Planetarium B2

4 Harrington Street Arts Centre C1

5 Maidan B1

6 Netaji Bhawan C4

7 South Park Street Cemetery E2

8 St Paul's Cathedral B2

Activities, Courses & Tours

9 Mystic Yoga Studio D2

Sleeping

10 Astor C2

11 Central B&B D3

12 Kenilworth C2

13 Park Prime D3

Eating

14 Fire and Ice C1

15 Gabbar's Bar & Kitchen C1

16 Kewpies C4

17 Kookie Jar E2

18 Monkey Bar C2

19 Oh! Calcutta C4

20 Picadilly Square D4

21 Shiraz F2

Drinking & Nightlife

22 Big Ben C2

23 Plush C2

★ Entertainment

24	ICCR	C1
	Nandan Cinema	B3
25	Nandan Complex	B3
26	Rabindra Sadan	B3
27	Sisir Mancha	B3
28	VM Sound & Light Show	A2

🛒 Shopping

29	Anokhi	C4
30	FabIndia	C4

Sights

Chowringhee

★ Victoria Memorial

HISTORIC BUILDING

(VM; MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎033-22235142; www.victoriamemorial-cal.org; Indian/foreigner inc park ₹20/200; 🕒10am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

The incredible Victoria Memorial is a vast, beautifully proportioned festival of white marble: think US Capitol meets Taj Mahal. Had it been built for a beautiful Indian princess rather than a colonial queen, this domed beauty flanking the southern end of the Maidan would surely be considered one of India's greatest buildings. Commissioned by Lord Curzon, then Viceroy of India, it was designed to commemorate Queen Victoria's demise in 1901, but construction wasn't completed until 20 years after her death.

Inside, highlights are the soaring central chamber and the Calcutta Gallery, an excellent, even-handed exhibition tracing the city's colonial-era history. Even if you don't want to go in, the building is still worth admiring from afar: there are magnificently photogenic views across reflecting ponds from the northeast and northwest. Or you can get closer by paying your way into the large, well-tended park, open from dawn to dusk. Entrance is from the north or south gates (with ticket booths at both). The east gate is exit-only by day, but on winter evenings, enter here for the 45-minute English-language sound & light show (Story of Calcutta; MAP GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹10/20; 🕒 7.15pm Tue-Sun mid-Oct–Feb, 7.45pm Tue-Sun Mar-Jun). Tickets available from 5pm. Show seating is outside and uncovered. There are no shows in summer.

★ Indian Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22861702; www.indianmuseumkolkata.org; 27 Chowringhee Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹20/500, camera ₹50; 🕒 10am-4pm Tue-Sun)

India's biggest and oldest major museum celebrated its bicentenary in February 2014. It's mostly a lovably old-fashioned place that fills a large colonnaded palace ranged around a central lawn. Extensive exhibits in various galleries include fabulous sculptures dating back two millennia (notably the lavishly carved 2nd-century-BC Bharhut Gateway), Egyptian mummies, relics from the ancient Indus Valley civilisation of Harappa and Mohenjo-daro, pickled human embryos, dangling whale skeletons and some 37 types of opium in the library-like commercial botany gallery.

Chowringhee

Chowringhee

📍 Top Sights

1 Indian Museum A3

📍 Sights

2 Clocktower B2

3 Mother Teresa's Motherhouse F4

4 New Market B2

👤 Activities, Courses & Tours

5 Backpackers C2

6 Sishu Bhavan F3

Sleeping

7 Afridi International D1

8 Bawa Walson Spa'O'Tel D2

9 Corporate B4

10 DK International C3

11 Georgian Inn E2

12 Golden Apple Hotel D1

13 Hotel Aafreen D3

14 Hotel Galaxy D2

15 Hotel Lindsay C1

16 Lytton Hotel B2

17 Monovilla Inn F3

18 Oberoi Grand B1

19 Park Hotel B4

20 Sunflower Guest House C4

21 YWCA B5

Eating

22 Arsalan C4

23 Bhoj Company D2

Blue & Beyond C1

24 Blue Sky Cafe C2

25 Hot Kati Rolls A4

26 JoJo's Restaurant D2

27 Mocambo B4

28 Nahoum Bakery B2

29 Peter Cat B5

30 Raj Spanish Cafe D1

31 Suruchi D5

Drinking & Nightlife

32 Aqua B4

33 Flury's B4

34 OlyPub B4

Entertainment

35 Someplace Else B4

Shopping

36 Chamba Lama

B2

37 Oxford Bookstore

B4

St Paul's Cathedral

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Cathedral Rd; 🕒 9am-noon & 3-6pm)

Arguably Kolkata's most iconic Gothic superstructure, decorated with a central crenellated tower, St Paul's would look quite at home in Cambridgeshire but cuts an equally impressive profile against Kolkata's skyline. Built between 1839 and 1847, it has a remarkably wide nave and features a stained-glass west window by pre-Raphaelite maestro, Sir Edward Burne-Jones. Reputedly the first cathedral built outside of the UK, St Paul's takes centre stage on Christmas Eve, when hundreds of people flock in to attend midnight Mass.

South Park Street Cemetery

CEMETERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Park St; donation ₹20, guide booklet ₹100; 🕒 8am-4pm)

Active from 1767 to about 1840, this historic cemetery remains a wonderful oasis of calm, featuring surreal mossy Raj-era graves from rotundas to soaring pyramids, all jostling for space in a lightly manicured jungle. Apart from their sculptural beauty, some of the crumbling graves here house mortal remains of eminent citizens from Kolkata's colonial era, including academic Henry Derozio, scholar William Jones and eminent botanist Robert Kyd. Entry is from the north gate on Park St, and photography is allowed.

New Market

MARKET

(Hogg Market; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Lindsay St)

Marked by a distinctive red-brick clocktower (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; New Market), this enormous warren of market halls dates to 1874, but was substantially rebuilt after a 1980s fire. By day, handicraft touts can be a minor annoyance, and the crowds can swell in the evenings, especially on weekends. It's more engrossing just after dawn, when there's a harrowing (and a wee morbid) fascination in watching the arrival of animals at the meat market, with its grizzly chopping blocks, blood-splattered floors and pillared high ceilings.

Within the main market, Chamba Lama (MAP GOOGLE MAP); New Market; 🕒 11am-8pm Mon-Sat) is one of the best-known shops to pick up silver and semiprecious jewellery. Another curiosity is Nahoum Bakery (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Stall F-20, New Market; snacks/brownies ₹30/50; 🕒 9.30am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 1pm Sun), with plum cakes and lemon tarts displayed in its showcases. Little has changed here since 1902, when its original Jewish owners arrived from Baghdad. The little teak cash desk is more than 80 years old.

Mother Teresa's Motherhouse

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 033-22497115; www.motherteresa.org; 54A AJC Bose Rd; 🕒 8am-noon & 3-6pm Fri-Wed) FREE

A regular flow of mostly Christian pilgrims visits the Missionaries of Charity's 'Motherhouse' to pay homage at Mother (and now Saint) Teresa's large, sober tomb. A small adjacent museum room displays Teresa's worn sandals and battered enamel dinner bowl. Located upstairs is the room where she worked and slept from 1953 to 1997, preserved in all its simplicity. From Sudder St, walk for about 15 minutes along Alimuddin St, then two minutes' south. It's in the second alley to the right.

Maidan

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

A vast expanse of green in the heart of the city's brick-and-mortar matrix, the Maidan is where Kolkata's residents congregate for walks, spirited cricket and football matches, family outings, dates, tonga rides and general idling. The grounds are flanked by the Victoria Memorial and St Paul's Cathedral to the south and the Hooghly riverbanks (GOOGLE MAP) to the west. A tram line cuts through the greens, and hopping onto of the carriages for a slow ride is great fun.

Historically, the Maidan was created in in 1758, in the aftermath of the ‘Black Hole’ fiasco. A moated ‘second’ Fort William, it was shaped in octagonal, Vaubanesque form, and the whole village of Gobindapur was flattened to give the new fort’s cannons a clear line of fire. Though sad for then-residents, this created a 3km-long park that is today as fundamental to Kolkata as Central Park is to New York City. Fort William itself remains hidden within a walled military zone.

Birla Planetarium

PLANETARIUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Chowringhee Rd; ₹30; 🕒 in English 1.30pm & 6.30pm)

Loosely styled on Sanchi’s iconic Buddhist stupa, this 1962 planetarium presents slow-moving, half-hour audio-visual programs on the wonders of the universe and mysteries of deep space. It's quite convenient as a rest stop in between your day's explorations of nearby sights, and the shows aren't half bad in their execution (the baritone voice-over is particularly dramatic!).

Netaji Bhawan

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 033-24868139; www.netaji.org; 38/2 Elgin Rd; adult/child ₹5/2; 🕒 11am-4pm Tue-Sun)

Celebrating the life and vision of controversial Bengali leader and pro-Independence radical Subhas Chandra Bose is this house-turned-museum, which also houses an academic research bureau. The yellow limewashed building was Bose’s brother’s residence, from where he made his famous ‘Great Escape’ from British-imposed house arrest in January 1941, before eventually joining hands with the Japanese to wage war against British forces. Some rooms retain a 1940s feel, and the original Wanderer getaway car is parked in the drive.

Academy of Fine Arts

GALLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 2 Cathedral Rd; 🕒 2-8pm) FREE

Several bright, ground-floor gallery rooms in this 1933 building feature changing exhibitions by local artists. It's a good place to check out young-and-upcoming city talents, as well as some senior artists from the academic circuit. There's also a theatre on-site, where local groups often stage their plays that are mostly written and performed in regional languages.

Information regarding ongoing and upcoming productions can be found at the main entrance.

Harrington Street Arts Centre

GALLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22829220; www.hstreetartscentre.com; 2nd fl, 8 Ho Chi Minh Sarani; 🕒 2-8pm) FREE

Imaginative exhibitions of contemporary artworks, by Indian and international artists in diverse media, are spread through four spacious rooms of this classic Kolkata colonial building, restored painstakingly by the gallery proprietors. The verandah with chequered floor tiles leads to a cosy cafe. Interestingly, the gallery has two charming guest rooms (double including breakfast ₹5000) adjoining the exhibition space, which are normally reserved for visiting artists but opened up for tourists when they're vacant. Call the gallery for details.

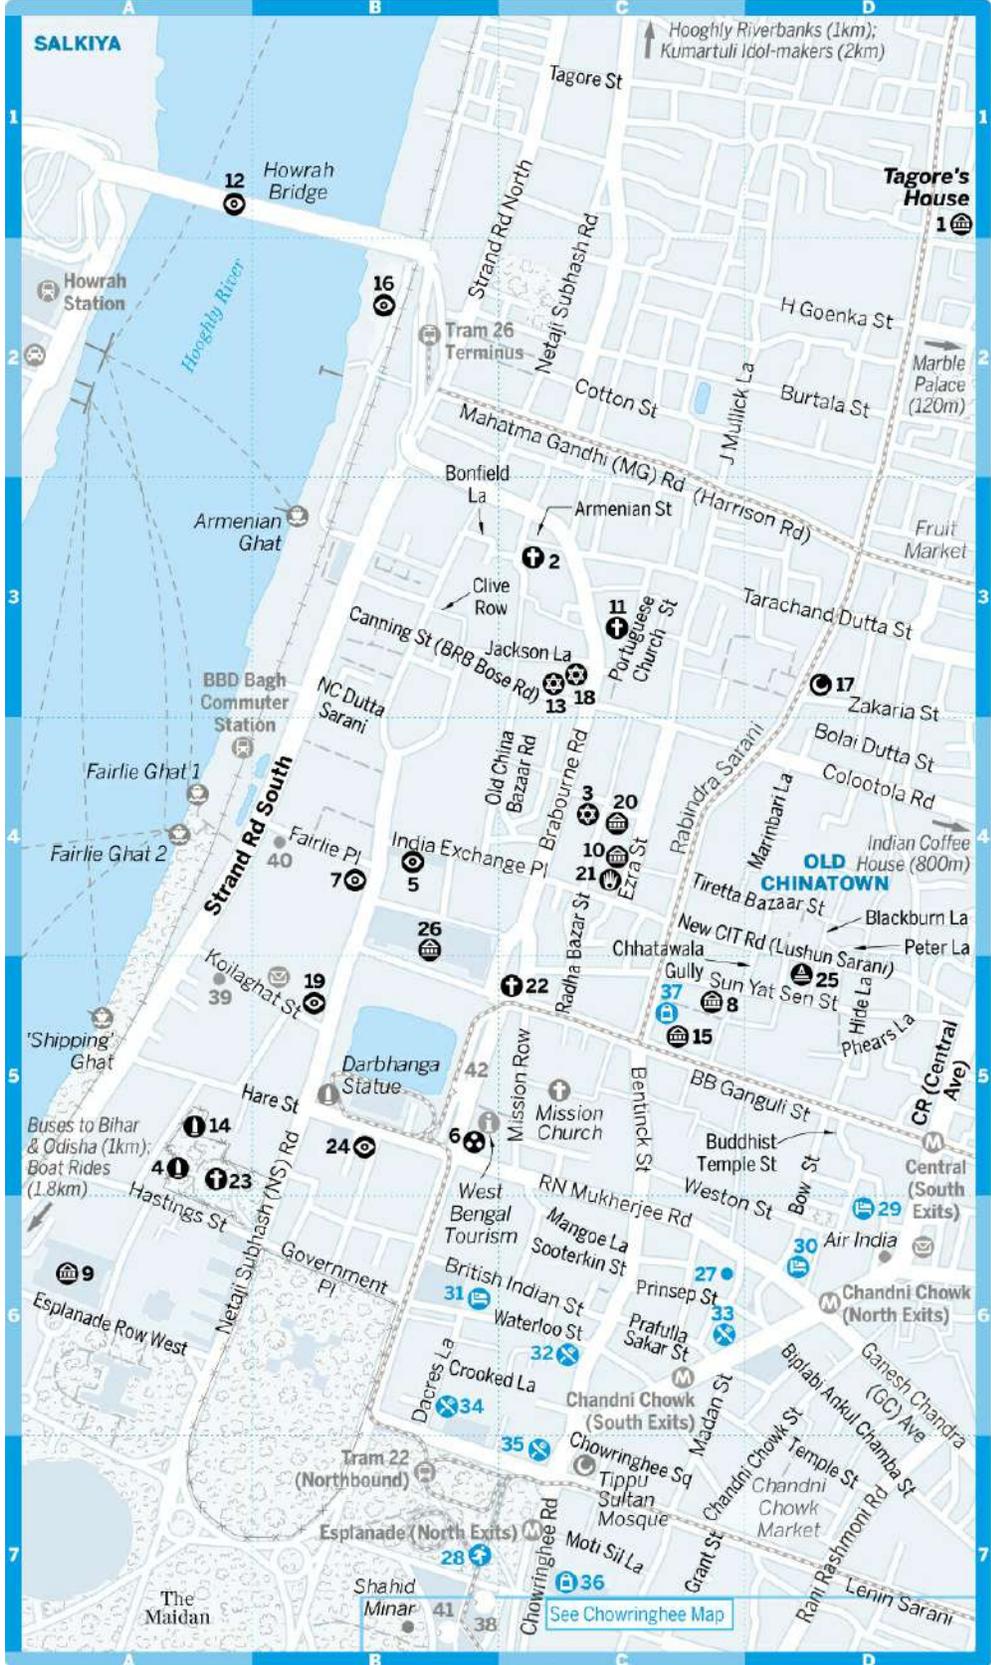

BBD Bagh

One of Raj-era Calcutta's foremost squares, BBD Bagh (formerly Dalhousie Sq) is centred on a palm-lined central reservoir-lake called Lal Dighi, which once supplied the young city's water. Although concrete intrusions detract from the overall spectacle, many a splendid colonial-era edifice remains. Some of them still serve as office buildings and wandering in is prohibited, but you are free to admire the structures from outside.

Foremost is the 1780 Writers' Buildings (MAP GOOGLE MAP; BBD Bagh), twin-block office complex whose glorious south facade looks something like a French provincial city hall. It was originally built as a workplace for clerks (‘writers’) of the East India Company, and has been under restoration since 2013. Behind, past the joyously repainted Eastern Railways Building (MAP GOOGLE MAP; NS Rd), the former Chartered Bank Building (MAP GOOGLE MAP; India Exchange Pl) has a vaguely Moorish feel with shrubs sprouting from the untended upper turrets. The 1860s GPO has a soaring rotunda, and the Standard Life Building (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 32 BBD Bagh) sports cherubic details that have been given a fresh lease of life by a new restoration project. Although dilapidated, the ruins of the once-grand Currency Building (MAP GOOGLE MAP; BBD Bagh East; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri) have been stabilised, making an interesting venue for an exhibition-bookshop of the Archaeological Survey of India. Standing proud to the north is St Andrews Church (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 15 Brabourne Rd, BBD Bagh; 🕒 7-11am & 3-6pm) with a fine Wren-style spire.

BBD Bagh

BBD Bagh

Top Sights

1 Tagore's House D1

Sights

2 Armenian Church of Nazareth C3

3 BethEl Synagogue C4

4 Black Hole Memorial A5

5 Chartered Bank Building B4

6 Currency Building B5

7 Eastern Railways Building B4

8 Hap Hing C5

9 High Court A6

10 Hind Perfumerie C4

11 Holy Rosary Cathedral C3

12 Howrah Bridge A1

13 Maghen David Synagogue C3

14 Mausoleum of Job Charnock A5

15 ML Bhunja C5

16 Mullik Ghat Flower Market B2

17 Nakhoda Mosque D3

18 Neveh Shalome Synagogue C3

19 Old GPO Building B5

20 Pollock St Post Office C4

21 Shree Cutchi Jain Temple C4

22 St Andrews Church C5

23 St John's Church A5

24 Standard Life Building B5

25 Toong On Temple D5

26 Writers' Buildings B4

Activities, Courses & Tours

27 Calcutta Walks C6

28 Heritage Tram B7

Sleeping

29 Bengal Buddhist Association D6

30 Broadway Hotel D6

31 Lalit Great Eastern B6

Eating

32 Amber C6

33 Anand C6

34 Dacres Lane B6

35 KC Das C7

Drinking & Nightlife

Broadway Bar D6

Shopping

36 Central Cottage Industries C7

37 Mondal & Sons C5

Transport

38 Bhutan Bus Ticket Booths B7

39 Computerised Train Booking Office A5

40 Eastern Railways' International Tourist Bureau B4

41 Esplanade Bus Station B7

42 Minibus Station B5

High Court

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.calcuttahighcourt.nic.in; Esplanade Row West; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Fri) FREE

One of Kolkata's greatest architectural triumphs, the High Court building was built between 1864 and 1872, loosely modelled on the medieval Cloth Hall in Ypres (Flanders). The grand Gothic exterior is best viewed from the south. To enter, you'll have to go to the eastern entrance security desk and apply for an entry pass (carry ID). Once inside, it's fun to explore the endless arches following brigades of lawyers shuffling around in white collar pieces overlaid with flapping black gowns.

St John's Church

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Netaji Subhash (NS) Rd; admission ₹10, with car ₹25; 🕒 8am-5pm)

This stone-spired 1787 church is ringed by columns and contains a small, portrait-draped room once used as an office by Warren Hastings, India's first British governor-general. It's on the right as you enter (entry to the main church is via the rear portico). The tree-shaded grounds have several interesting monuments, including the mausoleum of Job Charnock (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; St John's Church) and the relocated Black Hole Memorial (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; St John's Church). The church is home to an exquisite painting depicting the Last Supper, by 18th-century German artist Johann Zoffany.

Old GPO Building

ARCHITECTURE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; BBD Bagh)

One of the most iconic buildings on BBD Bagh is the old General Post Office, with its central rotunda soaring nearly 40m around a statue of a lance-wielding mail runner. Most postal transactions, however, are in a building 100m further up Koilaghat St. Outside that is a philatelic bureau where you can get commemorative issues or design yourself a sheet of ₹5 stamps incorporating your own photo (₹300). However, these can take up to seven days to be delivered.

Barabazar & Howrah

The following walk links several minor religious sights, but much of the fun comes from exploring the vibrantly chaotic alleys en route that teem with traders, rickshaw couriers and baggage-wallahs hauling impossibly huge packages balanced on their heads. Hidden away amid the paper merchants of Old China Bazaar St, the Armenian Church of Nazareth (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Armenian St; 🕒 9am-4pm Mon-Sat) was founded in 1707 and is claimed to be Kolkata's oldest place of Christian worship. The larger 1797 Portuguese-Catholic Holy Rosary Cathedral (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Brabourr Rd; 🕒 6am-11am & 5-6pm) has eye-catching crown-topped side towers and an interior whose font is festively kitsch.

Kolkata's Jewish community once numbered around 30,000 but these days barely 30 ageing co-religionists turn up at Maghen David Synagogue (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Canning St). Around the corner, the Neveh Shalome Synagogue (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Brabourne Rd) is almost invisible behind sho stalls. Once you've fought your way across Brabourne St, go down Pollock St between very colourful stalls selling balloons, tinsel and plastic plants to the decrepit Pollock St Post Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Pollock St), once a grand Jewish school building. Opposite, BethEl Synagogue (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Pollock St) has a facade that looks passingly similar to a 1930s cinema. The synagogue has a fine colonnaded interior, but to get into this or the other synagogues you'll generally need to have contacted the Jewish Community Affairs Office (tel 9831054669; 63 Park St).

Parallel to Pollock St, wider Ezra St has a brilliant old perfumerie (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 55 Ezra St; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Fri), just before the Shree Cutchi Jain Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Ezra St). From there, follow Parsee Church St east to reach Old Chinatown or swing back up the ever-fascinating Rabindra Sarani to find the shop-clad 1926 Nakhoda Mosque that was loosely modelled on Akbar's Mausoleum at Sikandra.

Howrah Bridge

LANDMARK

(Rabindra Setu; MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Howrah Bridge is a 705m-long abstraction of shiny steel cantilevers and rivets, which serves as a carriageway of nonstop human and motorised traffic across the Hooghly River. Built during WWII, it's one of the world's busiest bridges and a Kolkatan architectural icon. Photography of the bridge is prohibited, but you might sneak a discreet shot from one of the various ferries that ply across the river to the vast 1906 Howrah train station.

To lessen traffic load on the bridge and provide easy access to the city's southern districts from Howrah, a newer Vidyasagar Setu bridge was inaugurated in 1992. It can be seen about 3km downstream, cutting a Golden Gate Bridge–like profile across the river, if you look south from Howrah Bridge.

Mullik Ghat Flower Market

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Strand Rd)

Near the southeast end of Howrah Bridge, this flower market is fascinatingly colourful virtually 24 hours a day. However, if you visit at daybreak, you'll see wholesalers arrive with huge consignments of flowers that are then auctioned to retailers. Many workers live in makeshift shacks, bathing in the river behind from a ghat with sunset views of Howrah Bridge. At around 7am, local wrestlers practise their art on a small caged area of sand set slightly back from the river.

Nakhoda Mosque

MOSQUE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Zakaria St) FREE

Located amid the din and chaos of Rabindra Sarani, the 1926 red-sandstone Nakhoda Mosque rises impressively above the bustling shopfronts of its neighbouring commercial establishments. Its roof, which is adorned with emerald green domes and minarets, was loosely modelled on Akbar's Mausoleum at Sikandra, while the main entrance gate was inspired by the Buland Darwaza at Fatehpur Sikri. The mosque is Kolkata's largest, and is at the centre of festive action every evening during the holy month of Ramadan.

MOTHER TERESA

For many people, Mother Teresa (1910–97) was the living image of human compassion and sacrifice. Born Agnes Gonxha Bojaxhiu to Albanian parents in then-Ottoman Üsküp (now Skopje in Macedonia), she joined the Irish Order of Loreto nuns and worked for more than a decade teaching in Calcutta's St Mary's High School. Horrified by the city's spiralling poverty, she established a new order, the Missionaries of Charity and founded refuges for the destitute and dying. The first of these, Nirmal Hriday (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 251 Kalighat Rd), opened in 1952.

Although the order swiftly expanded into an international charity, Mother Teresa herself continued to live in absolute simplicity. She was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979, beatified by the Vatican in 2003 and eventually made a saint in 2016.

However, there are some who detract and question the social worker's call of duty. Feminist author Germaine Greer has accused Mother Teresa of religious imperialism, while journalist Christopher Hitchens' book, The Missionary Position, decried donations from dictators and corrupt tycoons. Many have also questioned the order's minimal medical background as well as Teresa's staunch views against contraception. Regardless, her defenders continue to look up to her for her noble lifelong mission to offer love, care and dignity to the dying and the destitute, while inspiring several others to follow in her charitable steps.

Old Chinatown

For nearly two centuries, the area around Bentinck St and Phears Lane was Kolkata's Chinatown, populated by Chinese merchants who settled here during Kolkata's maritime heydays. However, dwindling business prospects, relocation to newer suburban colonies and the migration of later generations to the USA and Australia have taken their toll, and today 'old' Chinatown is predominantly Muslim. However, just after dawn, there's a lively market scene in the tiny square of Tiretta Bazaar. It's closed by 10am, as is the archetypal old shop, Hap Hing (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 10 Sun Yat Sen St; 🕒 6am-10am), whose owner Stella Chen can tell you lots more about the Chinese community.

Other historic shops nearby include musical instrument makers Mondal & Sons and the fascinating 1948 gun shop ML Bhunja (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9831134146; 301 BB Ganguli St, Lal Bazar; 🕒 11am-6.30pm Mon-Fri), with its musty old cases of rifles, sabres, a flintlock and many an old bayonet laced with snake venom.

Around the once-grand 1924 Toong On Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Blackburn Lane), destitute scavengers sift through rubbish heaps, sleeping in tent-and-box shacks on neighbouring pavements. It's a very humbling experience; take care to respect the dignity of others while walking around the area.

Rabindra Sarani & Around

The ever-fascinating Rabindra Sarani, a street of densely packed shops and workshops, is threaded through by trams running north from Esplanade via the clay idolmakers' workshops of Kumartuli, before terminating at Galiff St, the site of Kolkata's curious Sunday-morning pet and bird market. There are a few interesting sights around the Kolkata University building on College St, east of Rabindra Sarani, including the impressive facade of the 1817 Presidency University.

★ Marble Palace

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP ; 46 Mukhtaram Babu St; 🕒 10am-3pm, closed Mon & Thu) FREE

Built in 1835 by a raja from the prosperous Mallick family, this resplendent mansion is as grand as it is curious. Arguably one of India's best-preserved royal homes, its marble-draped halls are overstuffed with dusty statues of thinkers and dancing girls, much Victoriana, ample Belgian glassware, game trophies of moose heads and fine paintings, including supposedly original works by Murillo, Joshua Reynolds and Rubens. Admission is free, but you need prior written permission from West Bengal Tourism.

Of particular note within the building is the music room, lavishly floored with marble inlay, where Napoleons beat Wellingtons three to one. The ballroom retains its vast array of candle chandeliers with globes of silvered glass to spread illumination (original 19th-century disco balls!). There's also a private menagerie on the mansion's grounds, dating back to the early years, which is home to a few monkey and bird species.

To find Marble Palace from MG Rd metro, walk north and turn left at the first traffic light – 171 Chittaranjan (CR) Ave. From the east, it's on the lane that leaves Rabindra Sarani between Nos 198 and 200.

★ Tagore's House

MUSEUM

(Jorasanko Thakurbari; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.rbu.ac.in/museum; Dwarkanath Tagore Lane, off Rabindra Sarani; Indian/foreigner adult ₹10/50, student ₹5/25; 🕒 10.30am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

The stately 1784 family mansion of Rabindranath Tagore has become a shrine-like museum to India's greatest modern poet. Even if his personal effects don't inspire you, some of the well-chosen quotations might spark an interest in Tagore's deeply universalist and modernist philosophy. There's a decent gallery of paintings by his family and contemporaries, and an exhibition on his literary, artistic and philosophical links with Japan. There's also a 1930 photo of Tagore with Einstein shot during a well-publicised meeting.

Northern Kolkata

★ Kumartuli Idol-makers

AREA

(GOOGLE MAP; Banamali Sarkar St)

Countless clay effigies of deities and demons immersed in the Hooghly during Kolkata's colourful pujas (offering or prayers) are created in specialist kumar (sculptor) workshops in this enthralling district, notably along Banamali Sarkar St, the lane running west from Rabindra Sarani. Craftsmen are busiest from August to October, creating straw frames, adding clay coatings, and painting divine features on idols for Durga and Kali festivals. In November, old frameworks wash up on riverbanks and are often repurposed the following year.

★ Belur Math

RELIGIOUS SITE

(GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 033-26541144; www.belurmath.org; Grand Trunk Rd; 🕒 6.30am-noon & 3.30pm; 🚏 54, 56) FREE

Set very attractively amid palms and manicured lawns, this large religious centre is the headquarters of the Ramakrishna Mission, inspired by 19th-century Indian sage Ramakrishna Paramahansa, who preached the unity of all religions. Its centrepiece is the 1938 Ramakrishna Mandir (GOOGLE MAP; Belur Math; 🕒 6.30am-noon & 3.30-6pm), which somehow manages to look like a cathedral, Indian palace and Istanbul's Aya Sofya all at the same time. Several smaller shrines near the Hooghly riverbank include the Sri Sarada Devi Temple (GOOGLE MAP); Belur Math; 🕒 6.30am-noon & 3.30-6pm), entombing the spiritual leader's wife, Sarada.

Accessed from the car park, a beautifully presented dual-level museum (GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 8.30-11.30am & 3.30-5.30pm Tue-Sun) charts Ramakrishna's life and the travels of his great disciple Swami Vivekananda. During Durga Puja, the institution comes to life with absorbing spells of ritual and festive splendour, and the immersion of the goddess on the ultimate day in the Hooghly River is a spectacular draw.

From the main road outside, six daily suburban trains run between Belur Math and Howrah (25 minutes), most usefully at 10.45am and 4.45pm. Picking up next door to Belur Math train station, minibuses as well as buses 54 and 56 run to Esplanade/Howrah in stop-start traffic. Southbound, they pass almost beside Bandaghat from where you can take the thrice-hourly ferry to Ahiritola, then switch to the Bagbazar boat for Kumartuli. From Belur Jetty (GOOGLE MAP), ferries (hourly) and open boats (when full) operate to Dakshineswar. Southbound ferries to Howrah via Bagbazar depart at 6.30pm and 8pm (plus 9.15am/1.30pm weekdays/Sunday).

Southern Kolkata

Southern Kolkata

📍 Sights

1	Alipore Zoo	A1
2	Birla Mandir	D2
3	CIMA	D1
4	Horticultural Gardens	A2
5	Kalighat Temple	B3

Nirmal Hriday B3

6 Rabindra Sarovar C3

Activities, Courses & Tours

7 Help Tourism B3

Sleeping

8 Bodhi Tree B4

9 Corner Courtyard C2

Eating

10 6 Ballygunge Place D2

11 Bhojohori Manna D3

Corner Courtyard C2

12 Tamarind C3

Drinking & Nightlife

13 Basement C1

Dolly's Tea Shop D4

14 Irish House D1

15 Mrs Magpie D3

16 Smoke Shack D2

Entertainment

GD Birla Sabaghar D2

Inox \(Quest Mall\) D1

17 Seagull Arts & Media Resource Centre B2

Shopping

Aranya D4

18 Byloom D3

19 Dakshinapan Shopping Centre D4

20 Sienna Store & Cafe D3

21 Weaver's Studio D2

Transport

22 Auto Stop \(Hazra–Bondel Route\) B2

23 Auto Stop \(Hazra–Kidderpore Route\) B2

Kalighat

Surrounding Kalighat Temple is a fascinating maze of alleys jammed with market stalls selling votive flowers, brassware and religious artefacts. The ritualistic splendour is worth a few hours of your exploration, preferably camera in hand.

Kalighat Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kali Temple Rd; 🕒 5am-10pm, central shrine closed 2-4pm)

This ancient Kali temple is Kolkata's holiest spot for Hindus, and possibly the source of the city's name. Today's version is the 1809 rebuild, with floral- and peacock-motif tiles that look more Victorian than Indian. More interesting than the architecture are the jostling pilgrim queues that snake into the main hall to fling hibiscus flowers at a crowned, three-eyed Kali image with a gold-plated tongue. Behind the bell pavilion, goats are ritually beheaded (generally mornings) to honour the Tantric goddess.

Ballygunge, Gariahat & Lansdowne

East of Kalighat, these modern and cosmopolitan residential and commercial areas are a fascinating mixture of new and old, with a generous scattering of fancy restaurants, glitzy shopping malls, sophisticated galleries, urban-chic boutiques and espresso-punching cafes.

Rabindra Sarovar

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Southern Ave) FREE

The lakes here prettily reflect hazy sunrises, while middle-class Kolkatans jog, row and meditate around the tree-shaded parkland that was once the site of an Allied Forces medical camp during WWII. Some form circles to do group yoga routines culminating in forced, raucous laugh-ins, engagingly described by Tony Hawks as Laughing Clubs in The Weekenders: Adventures in Calcutta. Young love birds match the park's avian residents in numbers, and street musicians enthrall listeners with soulful tunes, mostly on weekends.

Birla Mandir

HINDU TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gariahat Rd; 🕒 6-11am & 5-9pm) FREE

A graceful 20th-century structure built in cream-coloured sandstone, this temple is consecrated to the Hindu gods Narayan (Vishnu) and his wife Lakshmi. The three corn-cob shaped towers are more impressive for their size than their carvings, and the courtyards are a nice place to sit and spend a few moments in quiet contemplation. There's a state-of-the-art auditorium adjacent to the temple complex called GD Birla Sabaghar (MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.gdbirlasabghar.com; Queens Park Rd) that often hosts musical programs and other performances; see website for upcoming schedules.

CIMA

GALLERY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-24858717; www.cimaartindia.com; Sunny Towers, 43 Ashutosh Chowdhury Ave; 🕒 noon-7pm Tue-Sat, 3-7pm Mon) FREE

A cutting-edge contemporary art gallery located on the 2nd floor of an upmarket South Kolkata building complex, CIMA is a great place to check out works by some of India's top-line contemporary artists as well as old masters. Exhibitions change on a biweekly or monthly basis, and there are occasionally specially curated shows. There's also a design shop and gift store within the premises, selling an eclectic and highly desirable collection of souvenirs, handicrafts and urban-chic designware.

Alipore & Around

★ Botanical Gardens

PARK

(GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹10/100; 🕒 6am-5pm Tue-Sun; 🚏 55, 213)

Despite being an awkward journey by public transport, Kolkata's lovely 109-hectare Botanical Gardens makes for a great place to escape from the city's frazzling sounds and smells. Founded in 1786, the gardens – home to more than 12,000 plant species – played an important role in cultivating tea bushes smuggled in from China by the British, long before the drink became a household commodity. Today, there's a cactus house, palm collection, river-overlook and a boating lake with splendid Giant Amazon Lily pads.

The most touted attraction in the park is the 250-year-old 'world's largest banyan tree'. That's a little misleading – the central trunk rotted away in the 1920s, leaving an array of cross-branches and linked aerial roots that collectively look more like a copse than a single tree. The banyan is five minutes' walk from the park's Bicentenary Gate on buses 55 and 213, or a 30-minute walk from the main gate where minibuses as well as bus 55 terminate after a painfully slow journey from Esplanade via Howrah. Taxis from Shakespeare Sarani charge around ₹200 via the elegant Vidyasagar Setu.

Horticultural Gardens

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Belvedere Rd; ₹10; 🕒 6-10am & 2-7pm)

A hidden island of tranquillity in the heart of Kolkata, this delightful garden complex offers visitors an opportunity to acquaint themselves with tropical plant species, even while feasting their eyes on its placid green surroundings. Hundreds of tropical shrubs and flowering plants blossom around the central lawn, as well as in the themed Japanese Garden and around a cute stony waterfall. There's also an orchard with fruit trees (no plucking), and separate gardens for cacti and orchids.

Alipore Zoo

ZOO

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.kolkatazoo.in; Alipore Rd; admission ₹20, video ₹250; 🕒 9am-5pm Fri-Wed)

Kolkata's 16-hectare zoo opened its doors in 1875 as one of British India's showpiece zoological gardens, but has gradually dropped in stature and standards over the years. The spacious lawns and lakeside promenades are very popular with weekend picnickers (hence all the rubbish). Avoid visiting between Christmas and New Year as the place is swamped by locals. You'll find toilets and stalls selling snacks and bottled water within the premises.

KOLKATA IN...

Three Days

On the first day, admire the Victoria Memorial and surrounding attractions, then visit India Tourism to grab a Marble Palace permit (to be used two days hence). Steal an evening boat ride from a pier on the Hooghly Riverbanks and then drink and dine at a Park St institution, such as OlyPub or Peter Cat.

On day two, wander through the colonial-era wonderland of BBD Bagh, experience the fascinating (albeit wistful) alley life of Old Chinatown and Barabazar, and observe Howrah Bridge from the colourful Mullik Ghat Flower Market.

Day three is best spent visiting Marble Palace and its surrounding attractions, continuing to Kumartuli directly or by a vastly longer detour via the spiritual stops of Dakshineswar (GOOGLE MAP ; www.dakshineswarkalitemple.org; 🕒 6am-12.30pm & 3.30-8pm) and Belur Math.

One Week

In addition to the three-day itinerary, experience the contrasts of Southern Kolkata, with its art galleries, textile boutiques, buzzing cafes, green areas, fancy shopping malls, delicious Bengali food and the ritualistic splendour of Kalighat Temple. Then take a short tour to the Sunderbans in the lower Ganges Delta, and explore the charming former European outposts located up the Hooghly.

Activities

Boat Rides

BOATING

(GOOGLE MAP ; Outram Ghat)

A fantastic way to watch the sun go down over the Hooghly River is by riding a skiff into the waters at dusk. Oarsmen line up their boats along the pier at Outram Ghat, and offer rides that take you under the Vidyasagar Setu bridge on a round trip from the jetty. Prices range around ₹500 for an hour's ride.

Heritage Tram

TRAM RIDE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; tickets incl snacks ₹260; 🕒 7am & 2pm Sat & Sun)

The state-owned Calcutta Tramways Company operates a few trams in Kolkata only on select routes. For a special experience of Kolkata's tramways, however, you could hop onto a renovated air-conditioned heritage tram from the Esplanade tram depot, and embark on a pleasure ride across the Maidan or the charming northern districts extending along Rabindra Sarani.

Royal Calcutta Golf Club

GOLF

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-24731352; www.rcgc.in; 18 Golf Club Rd; nonmember green fees ₹6500, 9-/18-hole caddy fee ₹225/450)

The magnificent Royal Calcutta Golf Club was established in 1829, making it the oldest golf club in the world outside Britain. It's also one of India's few colonial golf clubs where you can tee off as a walk-in nonmember, although for a steep fee. For other facilities (such as swimming or tennis), you'll have to come as a member's guest.

Responsible Charity

VOLUNTEERING

(www.responsiblecharity.org)

This US-based humanist charity works with destitute families in the Jadavpur area of Kolkata. Volunteers should ideally be trained in medicine or have educational experience. Alternatively just donate (decent) old clothes to its collection bank at JoJo's Cafe.

Missionaries of Charity

VOLUNTEERING

(📞 033-22497115; www.motherteresa.org)

This charitable religious order, founded by Mother (St) Teresa, helps large numbers of the city's destitute sick and dying. Volunteers are universally welcome, with no minimum service period, experience or specific skills required other than a warm heart and patience to listen to and empathise with those whose language they may not understand.

Volunteers need to attend an orientation briefing, held three times weekly at Sishu Bhavan (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 78 AJC Bose Rd; 🕒 3pm Mon, Wed & Fri), two blocks north of Mother Teresa's Motherhouse. A volunteering 'day' starts at 7am with a bread-and-banana breakfast at the Motherhouse, and is generally over by early afternoon.

TOP FESTIVALS

Dover Lane Music (GOOGLE MAP ; www.doverlanemusicconference.org; Nazrul Mancha, Rabindra Sarovar; 🕒 late Jan) Conference Indian classical music and dance at Rabindra Sarovar.

Saraswati Puja (🕒 late Jan/early Feb) Prayers for educational success, all dress in yellow.

Kolkata Book Fair (GOOGLE MAP ; www.kolkatabookfair.net; Milan Mela, EM Bypass; 🕒 late Jan/early Feb) Asia's biggest book fair.

Eid-ul-fitr Celebrated after the Islamic holy month of Ramadan.

Rath Yatra (🕒 late Jul/early Aug) Major Krishna chariot festival similar to the Puri equivalent.

Durga Puja (🕒 late Sep/early Oct) Kolkata's biggest festival.

Kolkata Film Festival (www.kff.in; 🕒 mid-Nov) Weeklong festival of Indian and international movies.

Kolkata Jazzfest (GOOGLE MAP ; www.jazzfest.in; Dalhousie Institute; 🕒 late Nov) Three days of jazz, blues and world music.

Boro Din Kolkata's version of Christmas.

There is also a wide range of village craft festivals in the area outside the city. Bangla Natak (www.banglanatak.com) is an NGO that helps raise awareness and encourage visitors.

Mystic Yoga Studio

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.mysticyoga.in; 2nd fl, 20A Camac St; drop-in sessions ₹600; 🕒 8am-8pm)

This mirror-walled commercial studio offers one-hour guided yoga sessions (mostly basic) for drop-in guests. If you're on a long stay, try one of its monthly courses, which are more structured. There's an attached juice bar and organic cafe that plays recorded mantras. Hours vary on weekends, when they remain open till 5pm.

Kali Travel Home

COOKING

(📞 033-25550581; www.traveleastindia.com; courses per person from ₹1200)

Enthusiastic expats at Kali Travel Home offer personalised Bengali cooking courses with local families. Courses range from basic dishes to special fare (both vegetarian and non-vegetarian), including tossing up a full Bengali lunch platter. Kali also offers guided tours of Kolkata and neighbouring areas. Call for more information.

Tours

★ Calcutta Walks

WALKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-40052573, 9830184030, 9830604197; www.calcuttawalks.com; 5 Khairu Pl; per person from ₹2000)

A super-professional outfit run by the knowledgeable conservationist Iftekhar, this organisation offers a wide range of walking, cycling and motorbike tours, plus homestays with local families. It produces what is arguably the best printed map of Kolkata. Apart from fixed departure shared walks, you can also customise a private walk for a higher price.

Backpackers

MOTORBIKE TOURS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9836177140; www.tourdesundarbans.com; Tottee Lane; per person per bike incl lunch ₹2200)

Best known for their Sundarban mangrove trips, the inspiring 'brothers' at Backpackers also offer innovative pillion-ride city tours on the back of an iconic Royal Enfield motorbike. Classic tours (from 8.30am to 3pm) drive past several well-known sites, such as Old Chinatown, Victoria Memorial, South Park Street Cemetery, Howrah Bridge and Kumartuli, and might also throw in a few curiosities.

Bomti

TOURS

(Surajit Iyengar;  9831314990; bomtiyengar@yahoo.com; per group per day ₹8000-10000, plus per person for meals ₹2500-3000)

More than merely a tour guide, Bomti is an art collector and a veritable well of information on the city's heritage. Residing in a fascinating heritage apartment stuffed with art and artisana that was once featured in Elle Decor, tailor-made personalised tours for up to four people typically end with a lavish and traditional Bengali meal in Bomti's home.

Calcutta Photo Tours

PHOTOGRAPHY

( 9831163482; www.calcuttaphototours.com; per person from ₹1750)

A range of photography tours on foot, themed on Kolkata's culture, colonial heritage and markets, is offered by this professional outfit. Tours start at 6am or 2pm, and are offered throughout the year.

Sleeping

Decent accommodation is expensive in Kolkata, and budget places are often dismal. Top-end hotels have significant discounts online. Midrange hotels are usually better value as walk-ins, while budget places rarely take bookings. The Salt Lake area has many business hotels, but it's badly connected so travellers might regret staying there. Accommodation fills to bursting before and during Durga Puja, and demand is high from mid-November to February.

Around Sudder Street

The nearest Kolkata gets to a traveller ghetto is around helpfully located Sudder St. There's a range of backpacker-oriented services, and virtually every second building is a guesthouse or hotel, from charming heritage palaces to ultra-budget dives that represent a whole new league of nastiness. When we list Sudder St area accommodation under ₹1000, we're usually identifying the least objectionable options rather than making a recommendation.

Hotel Lindsay

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  033-30218866; www.thelindsay.in; 8 Lindsay St; s/d incl breakfast from ₹4150/4750;

A thorough redecoration gives an attractive old-Kolkata 'heritage' ambience to the Lindsay's guest rooms and corridors, belying the 1970s architecture of the tower in which they lie. Some of the rooms overlook the atmospheric New Market area. Walk-in rates can be lower, but thanks to its unbeatable location and great in-house terrace bar-restaurant, rooms are hard to find without prior bookings.

Afridi International

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  033-66077525; goldenapplegroup-hotels@gmail.com; 3 Cowie Lane; d incl breakfast ₹1450;

Possibly the most professionally managed budget hotel in Sudder St, the furniture and fittings are top-notch, while the entrance is floored in crystalline marble. Some rooms are small and suffer from a trace of damp, but maintenance is regular and the smart upholstery and comfy beds ensure a pleasant stay.

Golden Apple Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  033-66077500; www.goldenapplehotel.in; 9 Sudder St; dm cubicles ₹700, d incl breakfast from ₹3550)

The Golden Apple has accommodation that's mostly fresh and tastefully appointed for the price. Even the cramped cheapest rooms somehow jam in a small desk. A handy and stylish backpacker feature is the set of 15 top-floor deluxe dorm cubicles, each a lockable bedspace partitioned off by smoked-glass walls and equipped with a storage area beneath the mattress.

Bawa Walson Spa'O'Tel

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22521512; 5A Sudder St; s/d incl breakfast ₹3600/4230; 🌳 📶)

Plenty of brass mudra-hands, Buddha heads and pretty metal leaf sculptures along with multicoloured fabrics give the Walson visual hints of a Thai boutique hotel. However, while pretty, the less pricey rooms are undersized, lack enough natural light and are prone to damp. The lounge bar has film posters of Hollywood classics doubling as decor.

★ Oberoi Grand

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22492323; www.oberoihotels.com; 15 Chowringhee Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹12,100/14,200; 🌳 @ 📶 🛏)

Saluting guards usher you out of the chaos of Chowringhee Rd and into a regal oasis of genteel calm that deserves every point of its five stars. Immaculate accommodation exudes timeless class, the swimming pool is ringed with five-storey palms and proactive staff anticipate your every need. Remarkably comfortable rooms come with a five-choice pillow menu and soothing pool views.

Online bargains available from ₹8454.

Hotel Aafreen

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22654146, 033-32261780; www.goldenapplehotel.in; Nawab Abdu Rahman St; d with/without AC ₹1400/1250; 🌳 📶)

Offering midrange quality at budget prices, the Aafreen has patterned pink-marble floors and ample-sized rooms that are regularly repainted and boast smart furniture and clean linen. The fan-cooled rooms make the deal a notch more attractive for those travelling on a budget.

Hotel Galaxy

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22524565; hotelgalaxy.kol@gmail.com; 3 Stuart Lane; d/tr ₹900/1200; ❄️ 📶)

This quiet, ever-popular guesthouse looks dowdy from outside but the tiny rooms are unexpectedly comfortable and well appointed. Hot water flows freely in the en-suite bathrooms and there's free wi-fi (add ₹200 for air-con). There's a small front-porch sitting area, with a mini library, where you can leave your hand imprint on a wall that serves as a guestbook.

DK International

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22522540, 033-40019283; www.dkinthotel.com; 11/1A Marquis S d from ₹2400; ❄️ 📶)

This five-storey glass tower has a certain neo-art deco feel in its corridors, soap-stone 'jade' ornamentation and rooms with golden curtains. Despite its affordability, it tries to emulate a business hotel, throwing in complimentary newspapers and fruit baskets, and offers prompt and efficient service.

Lytton Hotel

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22491872, 033-39841900; www.lyttonhotelindia.com; 14 Sudder St; s/d incl breakfast ₹5800/7100; ❄️ 📶)

Sudder St's only 'real' top-end hotel is slightly old-fashioned, but well maintained with polite service and little Tiffany-style panels in the stairwells. There are sitting areas in the attractively appointed bedrooms along with kettle, safe, fridge and wi-fi, but mattresses could be thicker and the bathrooms more modern. Room sizes vary significantly.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

The following price ranges refer to a double room including tax (5% on rooms over ₹1000, 17.42% on those over ₹3000). When bargaining, double-check whether the quote is 'plus plus'.

$ less than ₹2000

$$ ₹2000–6000

$$$ more than ₹6000

Around Park Street

Sunflower Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22299401; www.sunflowerguesthouse.com; 5th fl, 7 Royd St; d with/without AC from ₹1650/1450; 🌳 @ 📶)

The Sunflower is what all budget hotels in Kolkata should strive to be. It's housed in a grand 1865 residential building – take the vintage lift to the top then climb one floor to check in. Rooms can be slightly spartan but they're assiduously cleaned, with high ceilings. Pleasant communal spaces are available, and the rooftop garden at dusk is delightful.

YWCA

HOSTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22292494; www.ywcalcutta.org; 1 Middleton Row; s/d ₹700/1000, without bathroom ₹450/750, with AC ₹1000/1300; 🌳)

You don't have to be a woman to get a room in this well-kept, imposing but basic 1925 building. Old high-ceilinged rooms have slatted green doors opening onto a wide arched corridor whose other open side faces a central tennis court. Large, sparse sitting rooms have a sense of times gone by, without the slightest hint of luxury.

★ Park Hotel

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22499000; www.theparkhotels.com; 17 Park St; s/d incl breakfast from ₹6250/7250; 🌳 @ 📶 🚰)

A top central choice for hip, upmarket accommodation. Modern rooms are snug and feature snazzy decor, while hidden to the rear of the 1st floor is a trio of classy restaurants and a passage past waterfall foliage to Aqua, one of India's coolest poolside bars. Curiously, the hotel's main entrance is through the Street, a cafe-deli.

Corporate

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22267551, 8981011686; www.thecorporatekolkata.com; 4 Royd St d incl breakfast ₹4650; ❄️ 📶)

In the suave designer lobby of this slick hotel, the receptionist seems to float in luminous marble. Compact well-maintained rooms in beige and brown tones have comfy thick mattresses with satin sashes and pale polished stone bathrooms. Suites have small balconies and there's a four-table 'garden' behind the kitchen windows. Creature comforts such as kettle, fridge and hairdryer are provided.

Southern Chowringhee

Central B&B

B&B $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9836465400; www.centralbnb.com; Flat 28, 7th fl, Lansdowne Crt, 5B Sarat Bose Rd; d incl breakfast ₹3550; ❄️ 📶)

Probably the best Kolkata apartment-guesthouse to have made its name on the B&B circuit, Central lives up to all its promises. The four rooms are huge and comfortable, with a large shared lounge and communal kitchen. There's fast wi-fi, a basic but sumptuous breakfast, a basket of complimentary snacks and ever-obliging (if usually invisible) hosts.

Astor

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22829950; www.astorkolkata.com; 15 Shakespeare Sarani; s/d ₹8300/8900; ❄️ 📶)

Artful evening floodlighting brings out the best of the Astor's solid 1905 architecture, while inside walls are lavished with B&W photos of old Kolkata. A creative palette of chocolate, beige and iridescent butterfly blue brings to life beautifully furnished rooms, fully refurbished in 2012. Some suites include a four-poster bed. Sizes and shapes vary. There's no lift, however.

Kenilworth

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22823939; www.kenilworthhotels.com; 1 Little Russell St; d incl breakfast from ₹7150; ❄️ 📶)

The pleasingly bright, fully equipped rooms in this classy Kolkata address have some of the city's most comfortable beds. The deep lobby of marble, dark wood and chandeliers contrasts successfully with a more contemporary cafe that spills out onto an attractive quadrangle of lawn. The Irish-style in-house pub attracts the city's beautiful people in the evenings.

Park Prime

BUSINESS HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-30963096; www.chocolatehotels.in; 226 AJC Bose Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹6800/7600; ❄️ @ 📶 🚰)

Sleep in an artistic statement with an exterior that looks like a seven-storey computer punch card and rooms that have optical-illusion decor. Bedboards carry up across the ceiling and sweep down the wall to emerge as a dagger of desk. It's all done without compromising comfort, the foyer is spaciouly inviting and the rooftop swimming pool nestles beside hip Henry's Lounge Bar.

Motherhouse Area

The Motherhouse and Park St areas feature a few prosaic hotels and guesthouses that are handy for those wishing to visit points of interest in the area. However, they are rather scattered, and lack backpacker facilities or any sense of 'traveller community'.

Monovilla Inn

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-40076752; www.monovillainn.com; 79/26/D AJC Bose Rd; s/d ₹1200/1500, with AC ₹1800/2100; ❄️ @)

Fresh and modern rooms here back a 1940s three-storey building with just two guest rooms per floor. Those located upstairs have better light. There's minimal communal space so you'll be confined to your room most of the time. The toilets are very good for the price.

Georgian Inn

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 9830156625, 9830068355; www.georgianin.com; 1 Doctor Lane; s/d ₹1150/1350, with AC ₹1500/1750; 🚽)

Very functional but friendly and cheap, this hotel gains in atmosphere thanks to the fascinating melee of Taltala Market that surrounds it. Streetscapes of Doctor Lane to the direct east have architectural hints of old Penang. It's within walking distance of the New Market and Sudder St areas.

DURGA PUJA

Much as Carnival transforms cities such as Rio or New Orleans, Durga Puja brings Kolkata to a fever pitch of colourfully chaotic mayhem, as the city's biggest festival celebrates the maternal essence of the divine. For five days in late September or early October, people venerate ornate idols of the 10-armed goddess Durga and her entourage, displayed in pandals (temporary shrines) that dominate yards and little parks and block roads.

Over the past 30 years, design competitions and increasing corporate sponsorship have seen pandals growing ever more ornate and complex, some with topical or political messages. West Bengal Tourism tours try to take tourists around a selection of the best pandals, but getting anywhere within the city can take hours given the general festive pandemonium. At the festival's climax, myriad Durga idols are thrown into the sacred Hooghly River amid singing, water throwing, fireworks and indescribable traffic congestion. If you just want pandal photos and not the festival aspect, consider visiting just after Durga Puja when the idols have gone but pandals have yet to be deconstructed. Note that the city is virtually on shutdown mode during these five days. Do not schedule any important work during the festival.

BBD Bagh

Bengal Buddhist Association

GUESTHOUSE $

(Buddha Dharmankur Sabha; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 033-22117138; bds1892@yahoo.com; 1 Buddhist Temple St; d/tr without bathroom ₹300/400; 🚽)

Although meant for visiting Buddhist students, the guesthouse opens its doors to all travellers, as long as they maintain house decorum (the gates are locked from 10pm to 6am – and you can't hobble in drunk). The simple rooms share basic common bathrooms with geysers, although there are a few en-suite rooms with air-con (₹750).

Broadway Hotel

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22363930; www.broadwayhotel.in; 27A Ganesh Chandra (GC) Ave s/d/tr/ste ₹980/1150/1610/1980; ❄️ 📶)

The Broadway is a simple colonial-era hotel that has kept its character without going upmarket. An antiquated lift accesses plain but well-maintained rooms with high ceilings and reupholstered 1950s-style furniture. There's good service and a free newspaper under the door, but hot water is by the bucket in cheaper rooms. The in-house bar is delightfully atmospheric.

Lalit Great Eastern

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-44447777; www.thelalit.com; 1 Old Court House St; d incl breakfast from ₹8400; ❄️ 📶 🛁)

The 1840 Great Eastern Hotel was once one of India's finest hotels. It lay derelict for years, and the original west-facing facade still remains a work in progress. Behind that, however, is an entirely new, sleek business hotel. Rooms are spacious and modernist, with very comfortable super-king beds and stylish black-pebble surround showers. Enter via Waterloo St.

Southern Kolkata

★ Corner Courtyard

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-40610145; www.thecornercourtyard.com; 92B Sarat Bose Rd; d ir breakfast ₹5000; ❄️ 📶)

Seven perfectly pitched rooms at this stylish address are named after colours, but they also take photographic subthemes – such as Bengali cinema in

'Charcoal', Kumartuli goddesses in 'Vermilion' and Kolkata's architectural heritage in 'Ivory'. Rooms are on two storeys above a superb little restaurant in a recently restored 1904 townhouse, which includes a charming roof garden drooping with bougainvillea.

Bodhi Tree

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 033-24246534, 8017133921; www.bodhitreekolkata.com; 48/44 Swiss Park; d incl breakfast from ₹2500; 🌿 📶)

Atmospheric and characterful, a bunch of stone-walled, rustic Buddha-themed guest rooms are attached to this intriguing little 'monastery of art' gallery cafe, which positions itself as a hippie-chic address for flashpackers. Access is from behind Rabrindra Sarovar metro's southeast exit, walking east for around 10 minutes.

Airport Area

Celesta

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(📍 033-71000131; www.celesta.in; VIP Rd, Rangunathpur; d incl breakfast from ₹3600; 🌿 📶)

Celesta is the suavest of over a dozen hotels in the Rangunathpur area that target travellers in transit (the airport is 15 minutes away by taxi). It makes a style statement with big plate-glass lobby walls and an upper exterior looking like a Mondrian painting. Luxurious beds are piled with pillows in retro art-deco rooms with rain showerheads.

It's beside the well-signed KFC on the east side of VIP Rd, 4km south of the airport.

Hotels Balaji & Tirupati

HOTEL $$

(📍 033-25120065, 033-25132005; www.hotelbalajiinternational.in; 32 Jessore Rd; d Balaji/Tirupati from ₹1550/1850; 🌿 📶)

Off Jessore Rd between Airport Gates 1 and 2, this smart twin-hotel (named after South Indian divinities) has heavy timber doors, plants on the stairs and good rooms with decent bathrooms, though the mattresses are thin and there's a Donald Duck painted incongruously on some mirrors. Prices include a ride to the airport.

Eating

Bengali cuisine is a wonderful discovery once you've mastered a new culinary vocabulary. Cheaper eateries often serve tapas-sized portions, so order two or three dishes per person along with rice or luchi (deep-fried Bengali puris). Most restaurants add 19.4% tax to food bills (included in prices quoted). Posher places add service fees. Tips are welcome at cheaper places and expected at most expensive restaurants. Check Times Food Guide (book ₹239) and Zomato (www.zomato.com/kolkata).

Around Sudder Street

Bhoj Company

BENGALI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sudder St; mains veg ₹60-90, nonveg ₹100-200; 🕒 8.30am-11.30pm; 🚻)

Excellent, inexpensive Bengali food comes to your table in this tiny restaurant, where colourful naive art sets off white walls inset with little terracotta-statuettes. A deliciously safe bet here is the rui kalia (ginger- and garlic-based fish curry) or giant prawn malaikari (in coconut milk gravy), and dhal and rice with jhuri alu bhaja – crispy potato whisps to add crunch.

Suruchi

BENGALI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22290011; 89 Elliot Rd; mains ₹150-200; 🕒 10am-5pm; 🚻)

This canteen-style eatery run by an NGO committed to women's empowerment serves fabulous fish, meat and vegetarian dishes redolent with homemade flavours and aromas. The decor is spartan yet ethnic, featuring reed blinds on windows, and food is served in an elaborate arrangement of stainless-steel tableware. It's behind an easy-to-spot vermilion-coloured door on Elliot Rd.

Raj Spanish Cafe

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Sudder St; mains ₹90-150, pizzas ₹240-390; 🕒 8.30am-10pm; 📶)

Popular as a hang-out for medium-term charity volunteers, this unpretentious place serves good coffee, lassis, pancakes, and a range of Italian, Mexican and Spanish dishes. The pizzas come out of a wood-fired oven, which is a rarity in town. There's a small outdoor area with some cursory foliage. It's hidden in a lane behind the Roop Shringar fabric shop.

Blue Sky Cafe

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chowringhee Lane; mains ₹70-250, juices ₹100; 🕒 8am-11pm; ❄️)

Wise-cracking staff at this travellers' cafe serve up a vast selection of reliable standbys (including great old-style banana pancakes and milkshakes) at long glass tables set close enough to make conversation between strangers a little more likely. The place fills up quickly during meals. The salads are safe to consume as they're washed in bottled water only.

JoJo's Restaurant

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Sudder St; snacks ₹50-70, mains ₹80-120; 🕒 8am-11pm; ❄️ 📶)

This pleasant, well-run backpacker cafe flaunts some original fresh juices and smoothies with evocative names (Liquid Breakfast, Kung Flu Fighter etc). There's free wi-fi, flags and frescoes for wall decor and an overall cheerful ambience.

Blue & Beyond

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 9th fl, Lindsay Hotel, Lindsay St; mains ₹250-350, beer/cocktails from ₹220/300; 🕒 noon-10.45pm; ❄️)

The drawcard here is an open-air rooftop terrace with wide views over New Market, plus a small glass-walled cocktail bar that falls somewhere between 1970s retro and a space-station acid trip. The globetrotting menu swerves from khawsuey (Burmese-style curried noodles) and Roquefort prawn sizzler to Greek chicken and Mexican 'veg-steak'.

BENGALI FOOD

Bengali food is an exceptionally evolved cuisine that is characterised by the astringent aroma of mustard oil, its principal cooking medium. A typical Bengali meal starts with a few preparations of leafy greens and a selection of fried vegetables such as eggplant, bitter melon or potatoes. The next course comprises a few curries, many of which are accented with the generous use of posto (poppy seeds). Other excellent vegetarian choices include mochar ghonto (mashed banana flower with potato and coconut), doi begun (eggplant in curd) and shukto, a favourite starter combining at least five different vegetables in a coconut-milk-based sauce, topped with fried bitter melon and bori (crunchy savouries made from mashed dhal paste).

Next comes fish, for which Bengal has earned a legendary reputation. Typical Bengali fish curry types include the light, cumin- or nigella-scented jhol, the drier and spicier jhal or the richer, ginger- and garlic-based kalia. Strong mustard notes feature in shorshe curries and paturi dishes that come steamed in a banana leaf. Popular fish species include chingri (river prawns), meaty rohu (white rui), fatty chital and the snapper-like bhetki. If you can handle the bones, ilish (hilsa) is considered the tastiest fish. While it's not de rigueur, meat or murgi (chicken) dishes also often feature towards the end of a meal. All of this is polished off with gobindobhog bhaat (steamed aromatic rice) or luchi (small puris).

Mishti (desserts), the final items on the menu, form an important part of Bengali meals. Subtly flavoured mishti doi (sweetened yoghurt), roshogolla (deep-fried spongy cottage cheese balls soaked in sugar syrup) and cham-cham (double-textured curd-based desserts) are the more iconic sweetmeats.

In between meals, Bengal's trademark fast food is the kati roll, an oily paratha fried with a coating of egg and filled with sliced onions, chilli and your choice of stuffing (curried chicken, grilled meat or paneer). It is generally eaten as a takeaway from hole-in-the-wall serveries. You could also try the spicy phuchka, hollow semolina balls stuffed with spicy potato masala dipped in tamarind sauce, or jhal muri, a spicy mixture with a base of puffed rice and peanuts.

For a colourful and very affectionate portrait of Kolkata's cuisine, along with a historical record of myriad colonial-era influences and adaptations over centuries, buy a copy of The Calcutta Cookbook (₹399), written by Minakshie Dasgupta, Bunny Gupta and Jaya Chaliha, available at leading bookstores.

Around Park Street

Peter Cat

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22298841; Middleton Row; mains ₹200-430; 🕒 11am-11pm; 🚫)

This phenomenally popular Kolkata institution is best known for its Iranian-style chelo kebabs (barbequed fingers of spiced, minced meat on buttered rice). Other dishes such as the tandoori mixed grill and the chicken sizzler also fly thick and fast. Beer (₹190) comes in pewter tankards and waiters wear Rajasthani costumes. No reservations – just join the queue!

★ Arsalan

MUGHLAI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 119 Ripon St; mains ₹120-280; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; 🚫)

Consistently popular with locals, this central branch of Kolkata's best biriyani house is high ceiled and attractively modern without being fashion-conscious. The main attractions are the celebrated biryanis – aromatic basmati rice, steamed potato and huge chunks of juicy mutton or chicken – that are best paired with melt-in-mouth chicken tikka, skewer-grilled mutton seekh kebab and the creamy mutton galawati kebab.

Hot Kati Rolls

BENGALI $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Park St; rolls from ₹40; 🕒 11am-10.30pm)

This is one of Kolkata's best known hole-in-the-wall places for a kati roll. For first-timers, this hit snack is essentially a paratha, fried one-sided with a coating of egg and then filled with sliced onions, chilli and your choice of stuffing (curried chicken, grilled meat or paneer). Eat it rolled up in a twist of paper as a takeaway.

Mocambo

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Mirza Ghalib St; mains ₹300-450; 🕒 11am-11pm; 🚫)

Mocambo dates back to 1956, but with old-fashioned seats in scalloped red leather, it feels more like a mood-lit 1970s steakhouse. A very loyal following comes regularly for its mixed grills, devilled crabs, fish Wellington, chicken Kiev and bhetki meunière (barramundi fillets in lemon butter sauce). An unwritten admission code applies.

Southern Chowringhee

★ Kewpies

BENGALI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-24861600; 2 Elgin Lane; thalis ₹450-1050, mains ₹150-500; 🕒 12.30-3pm & 7.30-10.30pm Tue-Sun; 🍷)

Kewpie's is a Kolkata gastronomic institution, and dining here feels like a lavish dinner party in a gently old-fashioned home. Reared to perfection by a speciality Bengali chef, this place serves impeccably traditional and authentic Bengali dishes made from the best local ingredients, and though on the pricy side, the food (as well as the experience) is worth every rupee.

Kookie Jar

CAFE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Rawdon St; pastries/savouries from ₹60/80; 🕒 8.30am-9pm; 🍷)

This confectionery is a long-time favourite with Kolkata's pastry lovers. Try the myriad forms of chocolate cakes and brownies, or bite into a freshly baked slice of pizza, a meaty puff or a subtly flavoured sandwich. For vegans, there are a few eggless preparations available.

★ Fire and Ice

ITALIAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22884073; www.fireandicepizzeria.com; Kanak Bldg, Middleton S; mains ₹500-700, beer/cocktails from ₹200/450; 🕒 11.30am-11.30pm; 🍷)

Founded and directed by an Italian lady from Naples, Fire and Ice's waiters bring forth real Italian-style pastas and Kolkata's best thin-crust pizzas. Old film posters give character to the spacious dining room set behind foliage in a huge heritage building. Few other Kolkata restaurants keep serving as late, or as consistently.

It has a well-stocked cellar, so you can pair a good glass of wine with your food. The proprietor is often around to offer her suggestions.

Picadilly Square

CAFE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-30990354; 15B Sarat Bose Rd; mains ₹150-300, beverages from ₹120; 🕒 11am-10pm; ❄️ 🍷)

This cute six-table cafe with two Victorian-style lampposts and a serving counter is fashioned like a street cart, with flooring designed to feel like a Parisian sidewalk. It serves imaginative savoury crepes (try the Rakakat Jibneh), pitas, pastas, ice creams, waffles and very good espressos to a seemingly endless Bruno Mars soundtrack.

Gabbar's Bar & Kitchen

MULTICUISINE $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-40602507; 11/1 Ho Chi Minh Sarani; mains ₹350-650, beers ₹200; 🕒 12.30-11pm; ❄️)

This excellent eatery has evolved from what used to be Kolkata's coolest Tex-Mex restaurant. It's now a Bollywood-themed resto-bar, the name being a take on a famous Hindi movie villain. The setting is easy and relaxed, the menu is a mix of hearty Indian, Chinese, Italian and Mexican fare, and there's chilled beer to go with the spicy grub.

Shiraz

MUGHLAI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 135 Park St; mains ₹180-300; 🕒 5am-11.30pm)

Synonymous with Kolkata's signature biryani (basmati rice with juicy mutton chunks and steaked potatoes), Shiraz also offers a range of curries, including a superb ₹100 mutton keema (spiced minced meat) breakfast until noon.

Monkey Bar

GASTRONOMY $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-30990381; Fort Knox Bldg, Camac St; mains ₹350-600; 🕒 4pm-midnight; ❄️)

A fancy new entrant in Kolkata's fine dining scene, this upscale eatery tosses up an imaginative range of fusion and experimental delicacies within its grunge-modern environs. Take your pick from items such as five-spice duck confit in pita pockets, peppered calamari with garlic and curry leaves, or baked brie with caramelised onion and marmalade. The only downer – there's no alcohol.

Oh! Calcutta

BENGALI $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22837161; 4th fl, Forum Mall, Elgin Rd; mains ₹250-600, cocktails from ₹290; 🕒 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm; 🍷)

Situated within a shopping mall, the shutter-edged mirror 'windows', bookshelves, paintings and B&W photographs create a casually upmarket feel for enjoying some of the city's best Bengali-fusion food. The mild, subtle and creamy Daab Chingri (₹790) is served in a green coconut, its subtleties brought out particularly well by a side dish of fragrant lime salad (₹90).

BBD Bagh

Amber

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22486520; 11 Waterloo St; mains ₹200-450, beer ₹250; 🕒 noon-11pm; 🍷)

This two-hall middle-class restaurant serves reliable Indian food, though the signature brain curry isn't to everyone's taste. Of the two dining areas, Amber (1st floor) is more family oriented, while Essence (2nd floor) is more dimly lit and predominantly for businesspeople. Menus are essentially the same at both places.

Dacres Lane

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; James Hickey Sarani; mains from ₹20; 🕒 8am-9pm)

A series of food stalls selling a unique combination of creole cuisine is interspersed by a few somewhat dodgy bar-restaurants, whose fairy lights add some warmth to the narrow and dingy lane. Choose from quick-and-easy bites, including paratha (Indian-style flaky bread) and curry, toasted bread with mutton, papaya and carrot stew, vegetable fritters, wok-fried noodles and chicken curry with rice.

KC Das

SWEETS $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lenin Sarani; sweets from ₹20; 🕒 7.30am-9.30pm; 🍷)

This bustling Bengali sweet shop claims to have invented the iconic roshogolla (rosewater-scented, deep-fried cheese balls dipped in sugar syrup) way back in 1868. Try the mishti doi – Bengali sweet; curd sweetened with jaggery – as well. Seating is available in the form of simple wrought-iron tables and chairs.

Anand

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 19 CR Ave; dosas ₹80-130, fresh juice ₹70; 🕒 9am-9.30pm, closed Wed; 🍷 🍴)

Unbelievably tasty pure-veg dosas are served in this well-kept if stylistically dated family restaurant with octagonal mirror panels and timber strips on the somewhat low upper ceiling. It also serves a delicious milky South Indian coffee (₹50) through the day to go with your food of choice.

Southern Kolkata

★ 6 Ballygunge Place

BENGALI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-24603922; 6 Ballygunge Pl; mains ₹200-300; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 7-10.30pm; 🍷)

Housed in a superbly renovated mid-20th-century mansion, this top-notch restaurant serves some of the best Bengali fare in town. If you're confused about the ingredients, spices and gravies, skip the menu and hit the lunch buffet (vegetarian/non-vegetarian ₹600/700), and you'll be treated to a fantastic sampling of classic and contemporary Bengali cuisine.

Flavours here are less intense and more subtle than several other speciality Bengali restaurants, and are suited to a wide range of palates.

★ Tamarind

SOUTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-30990434; 177 Sarat Bose Rd; mains ₹250-400; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 7-11pm; 🍷)

This unpretentious restaurant on one of South Kolkata's main thoroughfares serves a melange of traditional and improvised dishes curated from Kerala, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu. Dishes such as Coorgi mutton fry, Chettinad chicken, kottu paratha (a fluffy crumble featuring a paratha, eggs and spices) and appams (South Indian rice pancake) with mutton stew are simply unbeatable, probably even by restaurants in South India.

Bhojohori Manna

BENGALI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.bhojohorimanna.com; 18/1 Hindustan Rd; mains ₹50-270, small/larg veg thali ₹210/280; 🕒 12.30-10.30pm; 🍷)

Each Bhojohori Manna branch in town feels very different, but all feature good-quality Bengali food at sensible prices. The branch on Hindustan Rd is comparatively spacious, decorated with tribal implements, and the menu allows you to pair a wide selection of fish types with the sauce of your choice. Don't miss the echorer dalna (green jackfruit curry) in summer.

★ Corner Courtyard

FUSION $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9903990597; 92B Sarat Bose Rd; mains ₹350-650, beers/cocktails ₹180/300; 🕒 8am-11pm, reduced menu 3-7pm; 🍷)

This reincarnated 1904 mansion has had its walls artistically splattered with doorknobs, locks and old books, complementing its stylish distressed-look decor. The menu is creative, imaginative and designed to please discerning foodies, from Thai curry-spiced risotto and Brazilian salmon to Finnish fondue and Uruguayan calamari, with many a daring flavour combination.

Drinking & Nightlife

Central Kolkata & Chowringhee

OlyPub

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 21 Park St; beers ₹190; 🕒 11am-11pm)

This grungy yet oddly convivial central watering hole is a low-key Kolkata classic. The upper-floor bar has comfortable sofa seating, although the ground-floor lounge with rickety chairs and boisterous drinkers is far more atmospheric. Special promotional offers on select booze brands are often available. Chateaubriand-style steaks (₹250 a platter) are served by the dozens every evening.

Big Ben

PUB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kenilworth Hotel, Little Russel St; beers ₹300; 🕒 noon-midnight)

An upscale pub with a 'Britain' theme, this cosy watering hole features a good selection of beers and has live sports on TV. It's a fairly casual setting, but avoid wearing shorts or flip-flops.

Flury's

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Park St; coffee/tea from ₹130/140; 🕒 7.30am-10pm)

Dating back to 1927, Flury's is an enticing art-deco palace that's a real Kolkata institution. The best time to drop by is during breakfast, or in the evenings when you can just drink coffee and eat slices of gooey Sacher-Torte (cake from ₹70). It's surely the only major iconic world cafe to cite beans on toast as a heritage speciality.

Plush

LOUNGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Astor Hotel, 15 Shakespeare Sarani; beers ₹200; 🕒 4pm-2am)

This stylish yet unthreateningly casual bar is most appealing on Thursday evenings when young local musicians perform jazz, blues and progressive sets (from 9pm). It's also one of the city's few nightlife spots to remain open well past midnight. A 'smart casual' dress code applies to all guests.

Aqua

LOUNGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-22499000; Park Hotel, Park St; cocktails ₹400; 🕒 7pm-midnight

This luxurious yet laid-back open-air lounge allows you to nurse your booze while soothing your eyes on the dreamy waters of the neon-lit pool around which it is located. Dress for the evening to be allowed entry (no shorts or flip-flops).

Irish House

PUB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Quest Mall, Syed Amir Ali Ave; beers ₹200; 🕒 noon-11.30pm)

While not really Irish at all, this is the nearest Kolkata gets to a fully fledged non-hotel pub-sports bar. There's lots of weekend ambience and a showman holding fort at the well-stocked bar.

BBD Bagh

Broadway Bar

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Broadway Hotel, 27A GC Ave; beers ₹150, shots ₹50-150; 🕒 noon-10.30pm)

Back-street Paris? Chicago in the 1930s? Prague circa 1980s? This cavernous, unpretentious old-men's pub defies easy parallels, but has a compulsive left-bank fascination with cheap booze, heavy ceiling fans, bare walls, marble floors and, thankfully, no music.

REVOLUTIONARY CAFE

If you're walking down College St to the Ashutosh Museum of Indian Art from MG Rd, after one block turn left, take the fourth doorway on the left and climb the stairs to the mythic Indian Coffee House (GOOGLE MAP ; 1st fl, 15 Bankim Chatterjee St; 🕒 9am-9pm Mon-Sat, 9am-12.30pm & 5-9pm Sun). The cheap, dishwasher coffee can't be recommended, but it's incredibly fascinating to look inside this unpretentious high-ceilinged place that was once a meeting place of freedom fighters, bohemians and revolutionaries.

Southern Kolkata

Smoke Shack

ROOFTOP BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Park Plaza, Dover Pl; cocktails/beers ₹450/300; 🕒 4-11.30pm)

Fancy to the hilt, this open-air terrace bar attracts stylish people and serves a good selection of mojitos and cocktails through the evening. There's tasty kebabs and other assorted finger food to go with your drinks.

Dolly's Tea Shop

TEAHOUSE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; G62 Dakshinapan; teas/mocktails ₹100/150; 🕒 11am-7pm)

For sampling authentic Darjeeling teas as well as refreshing mocktails featuring the brew, visit this popular teahouse run by a veteran tea taster. Try the orange mint julep tea or the lemon barley tea, with a grilled bacon sandwich on the side if you like.

Mrs Magpie

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 570 Lake Tce; coffee from ₹50; 🕒 9am-10.30pm)

Cosy, cheerfully lit and adorned with pretty wallpapers, this popular cafe serves cheap and tasty cupcakes (from ₹40) in a wide range of flavours, best paired with a cup of fresh espresso. It also serves breakfast platters and afternoon-tea sets.

Basement

CLUB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Samilton Hotel, Sarat Bose Rd; beers ₹200; 🕒 7pm-midnight)

A relaxed and inexpensive mini-club with live music from 9pm on Thursday evenings, this is a good place to unwind after a long day of sightseeing. The piped music can get a bit loud at times, though.

Entertainment

Seagull Arts & Media Resource Centre

ARTS CENTRE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.seagullindia.com; Rupchand Mukherjee Lane; 🕒 11am-8pm)

Owned by the same management that operates Seagull Bookstore, this acclaimed institution regularly organises art and media exhibitions, film screenings, workshops, panel discussions and a host of other activities, with themes ranging from sociology and philosophy to religion and politics. Most events are free; check the website for details.

Someplace Else

LIVE MUSIC

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.theparkhotels.com/kolkata/someplace-else.html; Park Hotel, Park S

This nightclub has been steadily promoting live music in Kolkata since the mid-1990s. Acts perform nightly, although you'll have to be lucky to catch some original music. Most are cover bands who belt out regulation rock and blues hits. The ambience is laid-back, and the crowd gets rather raucous on weekends.

Jamsteady

LIVE MUSIC

(GOOGLE MAP ; www.jamsteady.in; Princeton Club, Prince Anwar Shah Rd)

The most happening place in Kolkata's underground and indie-music circuit, Jamsteady has packed gigs every Friday evening featuring a diverse array of musicians playing jazz, blues, electronica, folk and world music. There's a minimum cover charge that secures entry, and cheap booze is available against prepurchased coupons.

ICCR

CULTURAL PROGRAM

(Rabindranath Tagore Centre; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-22822895; www.tagorecentreiccr.org; 9A Ho Chi Minh Sarani)

This state-run cultural melting pot is a large, multilevel operation that regularly hosts exhibitions, dance shows, recitals and lectures in its many galleries and auditoriums. The programs are often free, and snacks (also free!) are usually offered to guests on inauguration days.

Inox (Quest Mall)

CINEMA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.inoxmovies.com; Syed Amir Ali Ave)

This is one of Kolkata's top-tier multiplexes, screening brand-new Hollywood, Bollywood and local Bengali flicks. It's located on the top floor of the Quest Mall.

Nandan Complex

CULTURAL PROGRAM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22235317; 1/1 AJC Bose Rd)

This complex is made up of the auditoriums and theatre halls at Rabindra Sadan (MAP GOOGLE MAP; AJC Bose Rd), Sisir Mancha (MAP GOOGLE MA AJC Bose Rd) and the central Nandan Cinema (MAP GOOGLE MAP; AJC Bose Rd). Apart from sundry cultural programs through the year, the complex also hosts the popular Kolkata Film Festival. Tourist information offices and pamphlets give extensive listings of events here and at many other venues.

Shopping

Sienna Store & Cafe

GIFTS & SOUVENIRS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-40002828; 49/1 Hindustan Park; 🕒 11.30am-10pm)

Very hipster, very chic, yet unbelievably affordable. Housed in a tastefully renovated mansion, this boutique specialises in a delightful collection of wearables, souvenirs, lifestyle products and tiny bits and bobs that double as great gifts for people back home. There's a cosy, buzzy cafe to the rear, which makes light and delicious organic sandwiches, juices, pasta and salads (dishes ₹250).

Byloom

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.byloom.co.in; 58B Hindusthan Park; 🕒 11am-8pm)

Some of Kolkata's most exquisite handmade saris are sold at this speciality boutique. There's also a fair smattering of semiprecious jewellery, and an impressive collection of shawls and scarves. Look for pieces that feature the intricate kantha embroidery style, or the khes method of weaving employing strips of cloth. A cafe on-site dishes up tasty bites (snacks ₹100).

Weaver's Studio

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.weaversstudio.in; 5/1 Ballygunge Pl; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Gorgeous handmade textiles and traditional fabrics vie for your attention at this upmarket boutique, run by an organisation that works with artisanal communities. Choose from a plethora of styles, such as exquisite hand-block prints, appliques, tribal designs, batik and embroidery, and expect to pay a premium price for your unique and indulgent purchase.

Aranya

GIFTS & SOUVENIRS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; F56 Dakshinapan Shopping Centre, Gariahat Rd; 🕒 11am-7.30pm) 🌿

Thoughtfully designed toys, stationery and souvenirs, made mostly from recycled materials, feature at this boutique run by a city-based designer duo. There's also a range of dresses to choose from, mostly in the smart-casual category.

Anokhi

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Shop 209, Forum Mall; 🕒 11am-8pm)

This boutique sells tasteful ethno-chic garments made from hand-dyed and hand-printed fabrics. Creations featuring Gujarati block prints seem to be the most popular, although tie-dye and batik have a strong presence as well. Most of the collection caters to women, while men have a limited choice of shirts to browse through.

Central Cottage Industries

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Metropolitan Bldg, Chowringhee Rd; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

An impressive array of traditional arts and tribal crafts are on sale at this well-stocked government emporium. Service is a bit impersonal and prices can be steeper than some street establishments, but you can rest assured that you're only buying genuine and well-curated merchandise here. There are separate sections for textiles, artefacts, metalwork, woodwork and handmade paper, among others.

FabIndia

FABRICS, HANDICRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.fabindia.com; 11A Allenby Rd; 🕒 11am-8.30pm)

India's top consumer line of ethno-chic dresses and Indo-Western apparel has one of its city stores in this central location. Apart from garments, there's a wide selection of upholstery, jewellery, ceramics, woodwork, home decor and organic food products. Look for items bearing the 'Craftmark' seal, implying they are of a premium quality and made in association with traditional artisans.

Dakshinapan Shopping Centre

SHOPPING CENTRE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Gariahat Rd; 🕒 11am-7pm Mon-Sat)

It's worth facing the soul-crushing 1970s architecture for Dakshinapan's wide range of government emporia, which brings together a mind-boggling artisanal diversity from across India under one roof. There's plenty of tack, but many shops offer excellent-value souvenirs, crafts and fabrics. Prices are usually fixed, but buying at an emporium means that authenticity and quality are never called into question.

Oxford Bookstore

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 033-22297662; www.oxfordbookstore.com; 17 Park St; 🕒 11am-8pm)

This is an excellent full-range bookshop that sells a variety of titles, including an impressive catalogue of coffee-table books on India. It stocks Lonely Planet guides and the indispensable Calcutta Walks Tourist Map (₹100). Value additions come in the form of a stationery section, a DVD section, and a cafe where you can sit and browse titles.

Mondal & Sons

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9804854213; 8 Rabindra Sarani; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat)

For sitars (from ₹5000) or violins (from ₹3000), visit Mondal & Sons, a family-run musical establishment dating back to the 1850s. Do not be misled by the modest appearance of the store: the Mondals count Yehudi Menuhin among their satisfied customers.

Information

DANGERS & ANNOYANCES

Kolkata feels remarkably unthreatening, and is usually safe (though stray incidents involving tourists can and do occur).

Predictable beggar-hassle is a minor irritant around Sudder St.

Bandhs (strikes) occasionally stop all land transport, including suburban trains and taxis to the airport.

Monsoon-season waterlogging can be severe.

INTERNET ACCESS

Inexpensive and widespread 4G/LTE cellular services have slowly begun to phase out internet cafes. A central survivor is Cyber Zoom (GOOGLE MAP); 27B Park St; per hr ₹20; 🕒 10am-9pm), which also does passport photos. Around Sudder St, some back-alley cubby-hole places charge ₹20 per hour for internet access, but it's worth paying a little more for fast connections and more comfortable seating at the travel agency with internet cafe R-Internet Travels (GOOGLE MAP ; ntrncf@gmail.com; Tottee Lane; per hour ₹20; 🕒 9am-10pm).

MEDICAL SERVICES

Medical contacts (including chemists, doctors, hospitals and clinics) are widely listed on the popular web portal www.justdial.com/kolkata.

Apollo Gleneagles (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-23202122, emergency 033-60601066; www.apollogleneagles.in; off EM Bypass; 🕒 24hr)

Belle Vue Clinic (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9163058000; www.bellevueclinic.com; Loudon (Dr UN Brahmachari) St, Minto Park; 🕒 24hr)

Eastern Diagnostics (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-22178080; www.easterndiagnostics.com; 13C Mirza Ghalib St; 🕒 9am-2pm Mon-Sat)

MONEY

You won't have to walk far to find ATMs that accept Visa, MasterCard, Cirrus and Maestro cards. International credit cards are widely accepted at stores.

Money Changers

Many private money changers around Sudder St offer commission-free exchange rates that are significantly better than banks. Some will exchange travellers cheques. Shop around and double-check the maths. In the city centre, Mishra Forex (GOOGLE MAP ; 11 Shakespeare Sarani; 🕒 10am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 4pm Sun) gives reasonable rates and opens daily.

Airport money changers give predictably poor rates and charge up to 5% in commission. There's an ATM in the arrival lounge (booth 22) between exit gates 3B and 4A.

POST

The new General Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; 7 Koilaghat St; 🕒 7.30am-8.30pm Mon-Sat, 10am-4pm Sun, parcel service 10am-2.30pm, philatelic office 10am-6pm Mon-Fri) is located along Koilaghat St. The philatelic bureau sells commemorative issues, or can turn your own photos into a sheet of ₹5 stamps (₹300), which can take up to seven days to be ready.

CR Ave Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; CR Ave; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat) is handy for the Chandni Chowk area, and has snail mail, speed post and parcel facilities.

Shakespeare Sarani Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; Shakespeare Sarani; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat) is a minor but helpful and conveniently located central post office, with general and speed post services.

TELEPHONE

Sudder St agency-shops will sell you a SIM card (₹200), given a copy of your ID, a passport photo and details of your address/hotel. SIMs are available in micro and nano versions for use with smartphones, but make sure your handset is unlocked. Local/national calls can be made and text messages sent for only a few rupees, while 4G data packs start from ₹250 per GB.

TOURIST INFORMATION

India Tourism (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-22821475; www.incredibleindia.org; 4 Shakespeare Sarani; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Fri, to 1pm Sat) This office hands out free maps of greater Kolkata, with major sights and stops marked, and also has useful information about travelling to other parts of India.

West Bengal Tourism (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 033-22488271; www.wbtdc.gov.in; 3/2 BBD Bagh; 🕒 10.30am-1.30pm & 2-5.30pm Mon-Fri, 10.30am-1pm Sat) The office primarily sells its own tours (last sales 4.30pm), and has good free city maps. Its website is useful for local travel information, as well as booking state-operated hotels and lodges across the state.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Rebuilt in 2013, the glassy Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose International Airport (NSCBIA (CCU); 📍 033-25118036) has an impressive terminal building, although services can get strangely bottlenecked at times, especially in the departures area. If you're flying out, arrive with ample time and expect long queues at passport control and security check.

Kolkata has a vast selection of domestic connections from early morning to late night. It's also a useful hub for regional flights linking Bangladesh (Air India, Biman, Jet Airways and Regent Airways), Bhutan (Bhutan Airlines and Druk Air), Myanmar (Air India) and Nepal (Air India). East Asian destinations include Bangkok (Air Asia, IndiGo, Jet Airways, SpiceJet and Thai), Hong Kong (Dragonair), Kuala Lumpur (Air Asia), Kunming (China Eastern Airlines) and Singapore (SilkAir). For long-haul connections to Europe and the USA, there are daily flights via Abu Dhabi (Etihad), Doha (Qatar Airways) and Dubai (Emirates).

Several airlines have offices with booking counters in the city.

Air Asia (GOOGLE MAP); 📍 033-33008000; www.airasia.com; 55A Mirza Ghalib St; 🕒 10am-8pm Mon-Sat)

Air India (GOOGLE MAP); 📍 033-22110730; www.airindia.in; 39 CR Ave; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat)

Druk Air (GOOGLE MAP); 📍 033-22900050; www.drukair.com; 51 Tivoli Crt; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Emirates (GOOGLE MAP); 📍 033-40099555; www.emirates.com; Trinity Tower, 83 Topsia Rd; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP); 📍 033-39893333; www.jetairways.com; Park St; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

BOAT

Shipping Corporation of India has five ships that depart on scheduled monthly dates to Port Blair. The vessels sail from Kidderpore Docks (GOOGLE MAP), accessed via Gate 3 opposite Kidderpore commuter train station. Tickets (bunk/cabin/deluxe ₹2500/6420/9750) go on sale from the 1st floor of the corporation's office around 10 days prior to the voyage .

BUS

Domestic

For Darjeeling or Sikkim, start by taking a bus to Siliguri (12 to 14 hours).

All drive overnight departing Esplanade bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP

Esplanade) between 5pm and 8pm (seat/sleeper from ₹550/650, with AC

₹1200/1400). An NBSTC bus for Cooch Behar leaves at 8pm (₹520, 18 hours).

Buses to Bihar and Odisha (GOOGLE MAP ; Strand Rd) line up along the road running parallel to the riverbank south of Eden Gardens commuter train station. Most run overnight, departing between 5pm and 8.30pm. Arrive very early if you have baggage. Destinations:

- ➔ Bhubaneswar (fan/AC ₹380/430, 10 hours)
- ➔ Gaya (seat/sleeper ₹300/450, 13 hours)
- ➔ Puri (seat/sleeper ₹410/460, 12 hours)
- ➔ Ranchi (seat/sleeper from ₹250/290, 10 hours)

International

➔ Bangladesh Buses advertised to Bangladesh actually run to Benapol (international checkpost), where you walk across and board another vehicle operated by the same company on to Dhaka. Shohagh Paribahan (

GOOGLE MAP ; 📞033-22520696; shohagh12@sify.com; 23 Marquis St; 🕒5am-10.30pm) has five morning 'Dhaka' services (fan/AC ₹900/1550, 14 hours). GreenLine (

GOOGLE MAP ; 📞033-22520571; 12 Marquis St; 🕒5am-10.30pm) has three AC buses to Benapol (₹400), all leaving by 7am. Connecting tickets to Dhaka cost Tk1200 (about ₹1000).

➔ Bhutan A Bhutan government-operated bus to Phuentsholing (₹600, 15 hours) leaves at 7pm daily, except Sunday, from the walled northeast yard of Esplanade bus station where there are two special ticket booths (MAP GOOGLE MAP : 📍 033-22627735; Esplanade bus station; 🕒 9.30am-1pm & 2-6pm Mon-Sat). It's faster and more comfortable to take the 13149 Kanchankanya Express (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹370/1000/1450, 8.30pm, 14 hours) from Sealdah train station to Hasimara, and then travel the last 18km by bus or taxi to Phuentsholing. Note that you may have to camp a night at this border town for your visa to be processed.

TRAIN

Stations

Long-distance trains depart Kolkata from three major stations. Gigantic Howrah (pronounced 'hao-rah'; HWH) has the most connections and is across the river, often best reached by ferry. Sealdah (pronounced 'shey-al-dah'; SDAH) is at the eastern end of MG Road; and the eponymous Kolkata (or Chitpore; KOAA) is around 5km further north (near Belgachia metro station).

Tickets

To buy long-distance train tickets with 'tourist quota', foreigners should use the Eastern Railways' International Tourist Bureau (MAP GOOGLE MAP : 📍 033-22224206; 6 Fairlie Pl; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun). Bring your passport, as well as a book to read as waits can be very long, but there are usually seats. On arrival, take and fill in a booking form (forms are numbered and double as queuing chits). Lines form well before opening. If you're travelling as a group, just one of you can be present, as long as you have everyone else's passports. Note that it's sometimes quicker to use the nearby standard computerised train booking office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Koilaghat St; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun), although that has no tourist quota.

MAJOR TRAINS FROM KOLKATA

DESTINATION	TRAIN NO & NAME	FARE (₹; SLEEPER/3AC/2AC UNLESS OTHERWISE STATED)	DURATION (HR)	DEPARTURE
Bhubaneswar	12839 Chennai	290/745/1045	6½	11.45pm

	Mail			(HWH)
Chennai	12841 Coromandal	665/1745/2540	26½	2.50pm (HWH)
	12839 Chennai Mail	665/1745/2540	28	11.45pm (HWH)
Delhi	Poorva (Nos 12303/81)	630/1665/2415	23½	8.05am (HWH)
	12313 SDAH Rajdhani	3AC/1AC 2105/4875	17½	4.50pm (SDAH)
Gorakhpur	Purvanchal/KOAA-GKP (Nos 15047/49/51)	420/1140/1650	17¼-19	2.30pm (KOAA)
Guwahati	12345 Saraighat	500/1315/1890	17¾	3.50pm (HWH)
	15657 Kanchanjunga	455/1235/1795	21¾	6.35am (SDAH)
Hooghly	Bandel Local	unreserved ₹10	50min	several hourly (HWH)
Lucknow	13151 Jammu Tawi	470/1270/1845	22¾	11.45am (KOAA)
	Upasana/Kumbha (Nos 12327/69)	510/1350/1980	18¼	1pm (HWH)
Mumbai CST	12810 Mumbai Mail	740/1945/2840	33	8.15pm (HWH)
New Jalpaiguri	12343 Darjeeling Mail	350/920/1295	10	10.05pm (SDAH)
	12377 Padatik	350/920/1295	10¼	11.15pm (SDAH)
Patna	13005 Amritsar mail	315/840/1205	9	7.10pm (HWH)
	12351 Danapur	340/890/1250	9½	8.35pm (HWH)
Puri	18409 Sri Jagannath	300/815/1160	9¾	7pm (HWH)
	12837 Howrah-Puri	330/860/1210	8¾	10.35pm (HWH)
Varanasi	13005 Amritsar Mail	385/1055/1530	14	7.10pm (HWH)

HWH = ex-Howrah, SDAH = ex-Sealdah, KOAA = ex-Chitpur

Getting Around

Tickets for buses, trams and the metro on most city transport routes cost ₹5 to ₹20. Men shouldn't sit in clearly assigned 'Ladies' seats.

Note that between 1pm and 9pm, much of the city's one-way road system reverses direction, so bus routes invert and taxis hailed on one-way thoroughfares may be reluctant to make journeys in the other direction.

TO/FROM THE AIRPORT

NSCBIA Airport is around 16km northeast of central Kolkata. A dedicated feeder road accesses the new combined terminal from the south (VIP Rd) via Airport Gate 1. Integrated within the arrival lounge of the terminal are several public-transport options into the city, including a computerised train ticket booking counter (booth 25) for trains out of the city.

AC Bus

Airport buses start from a stand that's a minute's walk south of Arrivals Gate 1A. Pay on-board. The punctual AC-39 (🕒 8am-8pm) departs hourly, stopping en route at the Esplanade bus station (₹80, one hour) before terminating at Howrah train station (₹100, 1½ hours).

City Bus

Cheap ordinary buses and minibuses are available if you walk about 500m south of the airport terminal building to reach the VIP Rd crossing. Look out for carriages to BBD Bagh (₹20) and Howrah (₹25). Bus 237 will take you to the ferry pier at Babughat (₹20), while bus L238 connects to Howrah train station (₹25). The ride will be crowded and sweaty, and there may not be room for large bags or suitcases.

Taxi

Fixed-price yellow taxis cost ₹320/380 to Sudder St/Howrah train station, taking around one hour when traffic is kind. Prepay at booth 12 in the new arrivals area between exits 3B and 4A. Radio taxis offer an air-con ride into town, charging around ₹20 per kilometre, and are available at booth 11.

AUTORICKSHAW

Tuk-tuk-style autorickshaws ('autos') operate as fixed-route hop-on share taxis with three passengers in the back and one beside the driver. Fares are typically ₹6 to ₹10, depending on distance.

Key routes:

Loha Pool–Dharamtala (GOOGLE MAP ; Elliot Rd) Starts from Park Circus using Park St (or after 1pm looping via Nasreddin and Karaya roads), goes up AJC Bose Rd (near Mother Teresa's Motherhouse), then along Elliot Rd/Royd St and finally up Mirza Ghalib St/RAK Rd (mornings/afternoons) near Sudder St. Loop reverses after 1pm.

Hazra–Bondel (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Hazra Rd) Runs along Hazra Rd, starting a block east of Jatin Das Park metro station, and goes to Ballygunge.

Hazra–Kiddepore (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Hazra Rd) Goes west from Jatin Das Park metro station, past the Kalighat idol-makers and on through Alipore.

Rashbehari–Gariahat (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Rashbehari Ave) This is the mid segment of a longer route, and connects the Kalighat metro station to the shopping district of Gariahat along Rashbehari Ave.

BUS & TRAM

Buses in Kolkata come in different forms. The best are a limited fleet of shiny new air-con buses, but the standard tumbles quickly down to crowded blue-and-yellow rattletraps and red-and-yellow minibuses, mostly run by manic drivers and motormouth conductors. A large selection of minibuses start from the Minibus Station (MAP GOOGLE MAP) on the eastern side of BBD Bagh, including a service to Airport Gate 1 via Dum Dum.

Dinky but photogenic trams follow more predictable routes along select city tracks, and are immune to one-way traffic.

FERRY

Crossing the Hooghly River is generally faster and more agreeable by boat than by using the clogged road bridges, especially during rush hour. River ferries (tickets ₹5-10; 🕒 8am-8pm) depart every 15 to 20 minutes from Howrah to jetties in central Kolkata. Convenient drop-off points include Chandpal (for Babughat), Bagbazar (for Kumartuli), Belur and Dakshineswar.

METRO

Kolkata's busy and crowded metro (www.kmrc.in; tickets ₹5-20; 🕒 6.45am-9.55pm Mon-Sat, 9.45am-9.55pm Sun) has trains every five to 15 minutes (fewer on Sundays). For Sudder St, use Esplanade or Park St. Some trains are air-con, although you pay the same fare for fan-cooled carriages.

Only one line (running in a north-south direction) is operational so far, but several extensions are planned. Line 2 linking Howrah, Sealdah and Salt Lake is due by late 2017.

Theoretically you may not carry bags over 10kg. If you're staying in the city for a while, consider buying a multiride ticket to save yourself the hassle of queuing every time you ride the service.

RICKSHAW

Human-powered 'tana rickshaws' work within limited areas, notably around New Market and some southern zones. Although rickshaw pullers sometimes charge foreigners disproportionate fares, many are virtually destitute, sleeping on the pavements beneath their rented vehicles at night, so tips are heartily appreciated.

TAXI

Kolkata's yellow Ambassador cabs charge ₹25 for up to 2km, and ₹12 per kilometre thereafter. Meters are digital and show the exact fare due. A few air-con taxis (white with blue stripe) also use the same fare structure, with a 25% air-con surcharge on the metered fare. Taxis are generally easy to flag down, except during the 5pm to 6pm rush hour and after 10pm when some cabs refuse to use the meter. There are prepaid taxi booths at Howrah train station (GOOGLE MAP ; Howrah train station), Sealdah train station and at the airport.

Clean and cool Uber cabs currently abound in Kolkata, and can be accessed by updated versions of the app on your smartphone. The minimum fare is ₹60. Surge fares during peak demand can be many times the fare of a regular yellow taxi.

STREET NAMES

Since Independence, street names with Raj-era connotations have been officially changed, but while street signs and business cards use the new variant, citizens and taxis often still refer to the British-era names. The following italicised street names are what we have found, quite unscientifically, to be the most commonly employed variant and these have been used in our listings.

OLD NAME	NEW NAME
Allenby Rd	Dr Sisir Kumar Bose Sarani
Ballygunge Rd	Ashutosh Chowdhury Ave (AC Rd)
Brabourne Rd	Biplabi Trailokya Maharaja Rd
Camac St	Abinindranath Tagore St
Central Ave	Chittaranjan (CR) Ave
Chitpore Rd	Rabindra Sarani
Chowringhee Rd	Jawaharlal Nehru Rd
Dalhousie Sq	BBD Bagh
Free School St	Mirza Ghalib St
Harrington St	Ho Chi Minh Sarani
Harrison Rd	Mahatma Gandhi (MG) Rd
Hungerford St	Picasso Bithi
Kyd St	Dr M Ishaque Rd
Lansdowne Rd	Sarat Bose Rd
Loudon St	Dr UN Brahmachari St
Lower Circular Rd	AJC Bose Rd
Old Courthouse St	Hemant Basu Sarani
Park St	Mother Teresa Sarani
Rawdon St	Sarojini Naidu Sarani
Theatre Rd	Shakespeare Sarani
Victoria Terrace	Gorky Terrace
Waterloo St	Nawab Siraj-ud-Daula Sarani

Wellesley St

RAK (Rafi Ahmed Kidwai) Rd

Wood St

Dr Martin Luther King Sarani

West Bengal & Darjeeling

Sunderbans Tiger Reserve

Mandarmani

Up the Hooghly

Bishnupur

Shantiniketan

Nabadwip & Mayapur

Murshidabad & Berhampore

Siliguri & New Jalpaiguri

Jaldhpara Wildlife Sanctuary

Kurseong

Darjeeling

Singalila Ridge Trek

Kalimpong

West Bengal & Darjeeling

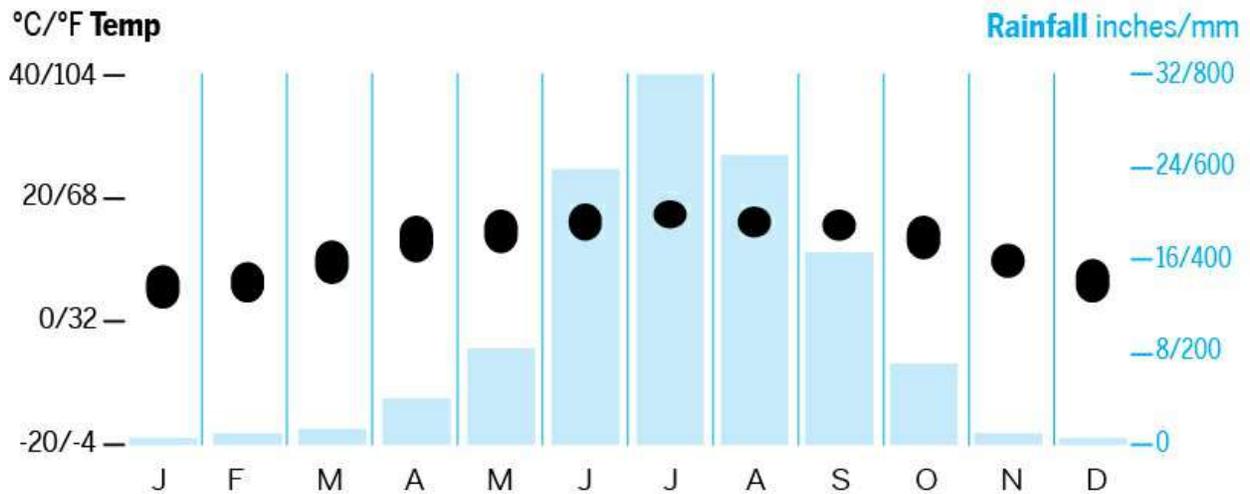

Why Go?

A sliver of fertile land running from the tea-draped Himalayan foothills to the sultry mangroves of the Bay of Bengal, West Bengal offers a remarkable range of destinations and experiences within a single state. In the tropical southern areas, the sea-washed hamlet of Mandarmani vies for attention with Bishnupur's ornate terracotta-tiled Hindu temples and palaces. The striped Bengal tiger stealthily swims through muddy rivulets in the Sunderbans, while a bunch of European ghost towns line the banks of the Hooghly (a branch of the Ganges) further upstream as reminders of the state's maritime heyday. In the cool northern hills, the 'toy train' chugs its way up the charming British-era hill station of Darjeeling, revered for its ringside views of massive Khangchendzonga. West Bengal also boasts a vibrant art scene, delectable cuisine and a genuinely hospitable population.

When to Go

Darjeeling

➔ Jan Ideal for navigating the dense mangrove forests of the Sunderbans Tiger Reserve.

➔ Mar–May & Oct–Dec Best for hill views, trekking and spring blooms up north, but high season in October.

➔ Oct–Mar Best time for avoiding the heat on the lower southern plains.

Best Places to Eat

➔ Glenary's

➔ Cochrane Place

➔ Amber

Best Places to Sleep

➔ Dekeling Hotel

➔ Holumba Haven

➔ Vedic Village

West Bengal & Darjeeling Highlights

- 1 Singalila Ridge Trek Enjoying 360-degree mountain views over breakfast at hilltop lodges on this ridgeline walk.
- 2 Toy train Riding the tiny colonial-era steam-driven train as it puffs and pants its way between the tea towns of Kurseong and Darjeeling.
- 3 Shantiniketan Exploring rural wonders and getting arty on a visit to this university town.
- 4 Darjeeling Visiting a tea estate, sipping a delicate local brew and enjoying fantastic mountain views from this historic hill station.
- 5 Bishnupur Admiring intricate scenes from the Hindu epics carved on the many medieval terracotta temples.
- 6 Sunderbans Cruising the river channels of the world's most extensive mangrove forest, to spot darting kingfishers, spotted deer and the elusive Royal Bengal tiger.

History

Referred to as Bongo in the Mahabharata, Bengal was part of the Mauryan empire in the 3rd century BC, and was successively controlled by the Guptas, the Buddhist Palas and the Islamic sultans of Delhi. Following the death of Aurangzeb in 1707, Bengal became an independent Islamic state.

The British East India Company established a trading post in Kolkata (Calcutta) in 1698, which quickly prospered and outshone other European outposts along the Hooghly River belonging to Portuguese, Dutch and Danish merchants. Annoyed by rapid British expansion, Siraj-ud-daula, the nawab of Bengal, marched out of his capital at Murshidabad and easily took Kolkata in 1756. Robert Clive defeated him the following year at the Battle of Plassey, helped by the treachery of Siraj-ud-daula's uncle, Mir Jafar, a commander in the nawab's army. Jafar succeeded his nephew as nawab, but after the Battle of Buxar in 1764 the British took full control of Bengal.

West Bengal was the cradle of the Indian Renaissance and national freedom movement, and has long been considered the country's cultural and intellectual heartland – Calcutta was the political capital of India until the British shifted office to Delhi in 1931. In 1947 Indian independence from Britain – and the subsequent partition of the country – saw the state of Bengal (which had already been split for administrative purposes in 1905) divided into Hindu-predominant West Bengal and Muslim-oriented Bangladesh, causing the upheaval and migration of millions of Bengalis.

Since the late 1980s, Darjeeling's demand for political autonomy saw phases of unrest in the state's northern mountains. This eventually led to the establishment of the Gorkhaland Territorial Administration in 2012, which has stabilised the situation for the time being.

Activities

Trekking

There are enjoyable walks along pine-scented trails in all of West Bengal's hill stations, but the most popular place for a multiday trek is Singalila Ridge, near Darjeeling, where teahouse-style trekking is possible. Kalimpong boasts some fantastic walks, both in the town's backstreets and along the surrounding ridges for Himalayan views.

Wildlife-Watching

The Sunderbans remains the state's prime forest area for spotting such species as crocodiles, Gangetic dolphins, deer, water monitors, myriad birds and the Royal Bengal tiger. In the jungles of Jaldhpara, you can get up close with elephants and grumpy rhinos.

Getting There & Away

Kolkata is the natural gateway to the southern half of the state, with flights and trains from across India, as well as a sprinkling of international flights. Bagdogra airport and New Jalpaiguri train station at Siliguri are the main gateways to the northern hills, whether via India's northeastern states or overland from neighbouring northern Bangladesh. Bagdogra Airport has international flights to Paro and Bangkok, and helicopter passenger flights to Gangtok. Frequent sleeper trains and air-conditioned day and night buses shuttle between Kolkata and Siliguri (12 hours).

SOUTH OF KOLKATA

Sunderbans Tiger Reserve

Home to one of the largest concentrations of Royal Bengal tigers on the planet, the 2585-sq-km Sunderbans Tiger Reserve (admission/video ₹60/200) is a network of channels and semi-submerged mangroves that forms the world's largest river delta. The ecosystem here is contiguous with the Sunderbans delta in Bangladesh, which lies eastward across the international border along the same shoreline. Tigers (officially estimated to number a few more than 100) lurk in the impenetrable depths of the mangrove forests, and also swim the delta's innumerable channels. Although they do sometimes attack villagers and prey on livestock, tigers are typically shy and sightings are rare. Nevertheless, cruising the broad waterways through the world's biggest mangrove sanctuary (now a Unesco World Heritage Site) and watching wildlife, whether it be gangetic dolphins, water monitors, 5m-long saltwater crocodiles or luminescent kingfishers, is a world away from Kolkata's chaos. The best time to visit is between November and February – the warmer months of March and April are better for tiger-spotting.

Sights

Mangrove Interpretation Centre

MUSEUM

(Sajnekhali; 🕒 8.30am-5pm) FREE

This tree-shaded complex located at the entrance of the reserve is looked after by the forest department, and has some useful information on the local ecosystem, a small turtle and crocodile hatchery, a museum of wildlife and a blackboard where the date of the last tiger-spotting is routinely updated.

Activities

India Beacons

BOATING

( 9903295920; www.indiabeacons.com)

Motorboats and guides are available for hire in Godkhali, en route to Sajnekhali. Expect to pay about ₹8000 for groups of up to four people. India Beacons has a good selection of boats for cruising the waterways deep in the Sunderbans.

Tours

Organised tours are the best way to navigate this tricky and harsh landscape, not least because all your permits, paperwork, guiding duties and logistical problems are taken care of. In fact, travelling alone is not recommended.

Tour prices vary widely. They typically include return transport from Kolkata, accommodation, food, park entry fees, as well as guide- and boat-hire charges. Do check what is and isn't included. Motorboats and guides are available for hire at Godkhali port, en route to Sajnekhali. Expect to pay about ₹8000 for groups of up to four people. India Beacons has a good selection of boats.

Backpackers

WILDLIFE

( 9836177140; www.tourdesundarbans.com; 11 Tottee Lane, Kolkata; 1/2 nights per person all-inclusive ₹4000/4500;  10am-7pm)

Reliable yet laid-back, fun yet spiritual, this very knowledgeable 'three brothers' outfit conducts highly recommended tours of the jungle, including birdwatching and local music. Accommodation is either on a cruise boat converted from a fishing trawler, or in a traditional village-style guesthouse, with folk music in the evenings. Rates depend on group size and number of days.

Sunderban Tiger Camp

WILDLIFE

( 033-32935749; www.waxpolhotels.com; 71 Ganesh Chandra Ave, Kolkata; 1/2 nights per person all-inclusive from ₹4940/9880)

This well-managed outfit provides expert guides and quality accommodation (on dry land) in huts and lovely red-brick cottages with forest-themed wall murals. The huts are the cheapest, but come with a sense of adventure. The staff can arrange cultural shows and birdwatching tours on prior request.

Help Tourism

WILDLIFE

( ;  033-24550917; www.helptourism.com; 67A Kali Temple Rd, Kalighat, Kolkata; 2 nights per person all-inclusive ₹16,400)

Actively associated with local communities, this tour operator takes you up close to rural life in the delta, and provides wonderful access into the forest. Accommodation is in a luxury eco-themed camp. Prices drop dramatically as group size increases; enquire directly.

West Bengal Tourism

CRUISE

( 033-22488271; www.wbtcd.gov.in; 2 nights per person all-inclusive from ₹6600)

West Bengal's state tourism board organises weekly boat cruises from September to April, including food and on-board accommodation in dedicated vessels. It's mostly booked out by local tourists through the high season between December and February. Reserve online and well in advance.

Getting There & Away

Guided tours include pick-up and drop-off facilities in Kolkata, so you'll never have to worry about transport. If you intend to go it alone, the best option is to take a local train from Kolkata's Sealdah train station to Canning (₹15, 1½ hours), from where you'll find shuttle minibuses (₹50) to Godkhali. The last stretch to Sajnekhali is by local boat (₹20).

SAGAR ISLAND

According to Hindu legend, Sagar Island – at the confluence of the Ganges – was where King Sagar's 60,000 sons were brought back to life by the flowing river after they had been reduced to ashes by a sage named Kapil Muni. Each year in January, the Ganga Sagar Mela is held here near the Kapil Muni Temple, honouring the legend. The best way to see the festival is the two-day, one-night boat tour operated from Kolkata by West Bengal Tourism, with accommodation on-board (per person all-inclusive from ₹8800). The island hibernates for the rest of the year.

Buses (₹60, two hours) run frequently from Kolkata's Esplanade bus station to Namkhana pier, from where ferries head to the island. Buses and share taxis shuttle around the island between points of tourist interest.

Mandarmani

📞03220

About 180km south of Kolkata, the sleepy fishing village of Mandarmani sports a heavenly beach stretching nearly 15km. It remains one of the more unpolluted beaches in the country, and supports countless colonies of sand bubbler crabs. The beaches see some additional action at dawn, when fishing boats drop anchor and disgorge their catches of marine goodies.

Adventure Zone (📞9830033896) conducts parasailing (₹800) on the beaches, and offers an adventure-sports package (₹1500) that includes kayaking, zip-lining, rock climbing and rappelling.

Most of Mandarmani's accommodation is thrown along the beach, and can vary widely in quality. Sana Beach (📞9330633111; www.mandarmanihotels.com; d incl breakfast from ₹3750; 🌳 🏠), at the far end of the sands, is by far the best among all the resorts lining the sea. It has a mix of comfy rooms done up in cheerful hues, ethno-chic cottages and tents, a lovely swimming pool and a good bar restaurant.

To get to Mandarmani, take the 6.40am 12857 Tamralipta Express (2nd class/chair ₹100/370, 3½ hours) from Kolkata's Howrah train station to Digha. A taxi drop from Digha train station to Mandarmani costs about ₹500.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Ganga Sagar Mela (Sagar Island; 🕒mid-Jan) Hundreds of thousands of Hindu pilgrims converge where the Ganges meets the sea, to bathe en masse in a riotous festival.

Bengali New Year (Naba Barsha; Statewide; 🕒mid-Apr) A holiday celebrating the first day of the Bengali calendar, also called Nabo Barsho.

Rath Yatra (Chariot Festival; Mahesh, Serampore; 🕒Jul/Aug) Attendees celebrate by dragging the juggernaut chariot of Lord Jagannath between temples.

Durga Puja (Statewide; 🕒Sep/Oct) Across the state, especially in Kolkata, temporary pandals (pavilions) are raised and celebrations take place to worship the Hindu goddess Durga. After four colourful days, beautiful clay idols of the 10-armed deity are immersed in the rivers. Celebrated as Dussehra or Dashain in the Himalayan foothills. Banks and offices can be closed for a week.

Jagaddhatri Puja (Chandarnagar; 🕒Nov) Honours the Hindu goddess Jagaddhatri, an incarnation of Durga.

Poush Mela Folk music, dance, theatre and Baul songs radiate across the university town of Shantiniketan.

NORTH OF KOLKATA

Up the Hooghly

Located on the Hooghly River about 25km north of Kolkata, Serampore was a Danish trading centre until Denmark's holdings in India were transferred to the British East India Company in 1845. Serampore College was founded in 1818 by the first Baptist missionary to India, William Carey, and houses a library that was once one of the largest in the country.

Further upstream is the former French outpost of Chandarnagar. Here you can visit the Eglise du Sacre Coeur (Sacred Heart Church) and the nearby 18th-century mansion now housing the Cultural Institut de Chandarnagar (🕒 11am-5.30pm, closed Thu & Sat), which has several collections documenting the glorious era of this colonial trading outpost. In November, there are gorgeous public lighting displays for Jagaddhatri Puja, a festival devoted to the worship of an incarnation of the Hindu mother goddess. Enthusiastic locals throng festive arenas to pay their respects to gigantic clay idols of the four-armed deity, housed in temporary pavilions called pandals.

In 1571, the Portuguese set up a factory in Bandel, 41km north of Kolkata and close to Saptagram, which was an important Portuguese trading port long before Kolkata rose to prominence. Here, In Bandel, you can climb the lofty clock tower of the romantically crumbling Imambara (admission ₹10; 🕒 10am-6pm Apr-Jul, to 5.30pm Aug-Nov, to 5pm Dec-Mar), which has breathtaking views of the Hooghly River and houses a giant mechanical clock. The building was inaugurated in 1861 as a centre for learning and worship, and its grand Indo-Saracenic profile offers some very interesting photo ops.

Only 1km south of Bandel, Chinsurah was ceded by the Dutch to the British in exchange for Sumatra in 1825. There are dilapidated ruins of a fort and a cemetery, about 1km to the west.

About 6km north of Bandel, Bansberia has two interesting temples. The imposing Hanseswari Temple is devoted to an avatar of the goddess Kali. Its tower, comprising 13 sikharas (Hindu temple-spires), looks like something you'd expect to see in Moscow. Within the temple premises is the small but elegant terracotta-tiled Vasudev Temple, which resembles terracotta temples seen in Bishnupur.

To visit these settlements on a day tour from Kolkata, take any Bandel-bound local train (₹15, one hour, hourly) from Howrah train station. From Bandel train station, you'll find autorickshaws going to all places of interest – you can reserve one for a day's sightseeing for about ₹500. Alternately, hire a taxi for the day from Kolkata (₹3000).

RIVER CRUISES

For those with a Piscean bent of mind (and pockets deep enough to match), the Hooghly River doubles as a corridor for luxury boat cruises, which slosh their guests with a host of fine on-board comforts while allowing them to visit the Ganges Delta in a most memorable manner. Cruises usually range from four days to about two weeks, and stop in places such as Chandarnagar, Bandel, Mayapur, Murshidabad and Farakka (for Gaur and Pandua), along with side excursions to some little-known places along the way. Bengal Ganga (☎011-41085922; www.bengalganga.com; per person per day all-inclusive from ₹46,800) and Assam Bengal Navigation (☎9207042330; www.assambengalnavigation.com; per person per day all-inclusive from US$210) come highly recommended.

Bishnupur

☎03244

Known for its beautiful terracotta temples, Bishnupur flourished as the capital of the Malla kings from the 16th to the early 19th centuries. The architecture of these intriguing temples (Indian/foreigner ₹30/750; 🕒dawn-dusk) is a bold mix of Bengali, Islamic and Oriya (Odishan) styles. Intricately detailed facades of numerous temples play out scenes of the Hindu epics, the Ramayana and Mahabharata.

Bishnupur is in Bankura district, famous for its Baluchari silk saris and its pottery, particularly the stylised and iconic terracotta Bankura horse. Reproductions of detailed terracotta tiles from the temples are sold everywhere.

The most striking structures include Jor Bangla, Madan Mohan Temple, the multi-arched Ras Mancha and the elaborate Shyam Rai Temple. You need to pay for your ticket at Ras Mancha and show it at the other temples. Cycle-rickshaw-wallahs offer tours (the best way to negotiate the labyrinth of lanes) for ₹300. There's a small museum (admission ₹15; 🕒11am-7pm Tue-Sun) that's worth a look for its collection of painted manuscript covers, stone friezes, musical instruments and folk art.

Bishnupur Tourist Lodge (☎03244-252013; www.wbtdc.gov.in; College Rd; d from ₹880; ❄️), flaunting a red-and-white exterior, is perhaps the best place to sleep in town, with clean pastel-shaded rooms and a good bar restaurant. It's close to the museum and a ₹80 rickshaw ride from the train station. It's often full, so book ahead.

i Getting There & Away

Regular buses run between Bishnupur and Kolkata (₹160, five hours). For Shantiniketan (₹120, four hours) you have to change in Durgapur. Two fast trains run daily from Howrah (2nd class/chair ₹110/395, four hours): the 6.25am 12883 Rupashi Bangla Express and the 4.50pm 12827 Howrah Purulia Express.

DON'T MISS

SPA TREATS

Looking to experience the best of rural Bengal while treating yourself to a spot of wellness and luxury? Head to one of these two recommended spa resorts, set amid scenic landscapes, and indulge in some of the best comforts and therapies, while soaking up the bucolic charms of the region.

Hemmed by blooming vegetable gardens and centred around a tree-lined lake only an hour's drive north of Kolkata is Vedic Village (☎033-66229900; www.thevedicvillage.com; Shikharpur village, Rajarhat; spa package from ₹8500; 🌿@🧘), a luxury resort known as much for its fine hospitality as its showcase facility – a speciality spa-cum-naturopathy clinic that's touted to be the first (and best) medical spa in the country. Long-stay treatment packages, built around several sessions of consultation with in-house doctors, can be customised upon prior notice. Casual holidaymakers can simply kick back in one of the luxury villas, de-stress to the chirping of myriad bird species, tuck into mouth-watering cuisine, or float in the ultramarine waters of the swimming pool.

En route to Diamond Harbour, about two hours south of Kolkata, stands Ganga Kutir (☎033-40404040; www.raichakonganges.com; Sarisa village, Raichak; r incl breakfast from ₹8550; 🌿@🧘), another popular destination for those wanting some solitude. Located on the banks of the Hooghly, this swish resort offers a range of wellness packages that – paired with yoga and meditation – are a great nourisher for tired sinews. Accommodation is in chic suites appointed with snazzy mural-covered walls and great river views.

Shantiniketan

📄03463

In addition to epitomising its Bengali name – meaning 'abode of peace' – the university town of Shantiniketan is a veritable nerve centre of Bengal's art and culture. Nobel laureate, poet and artist Rabindranath Tagore (1861–1941) founded a school here amid pastoral settings in 1901. It later developed into the famous university called Visva Bharati, with an emphasis on the study of liberal arts as well as humanity's relationship with nature. A relaxed place, it attracts students from all over India and overseas.

Sights

Spread throughout the leafy university grounds of Visva Bharati are a rush of eclectic statues, the celebrated Shantiniketan murals and the Belgian glass-panelled university prayer hall.

Uttarayan Complex

MUSEUM

(Visva Bharati Campus; adult/student ₹10/5; 🕒10am-1pm & 2-4pm Thu-Mon, to 1pm Tue)

This beautiful complex thrown around tree-lined avenues, gravelled courtyards and exotic gardens boasts several buildings built in architectural styles varying from art deco to rural Bengal. Once the residence of Rabindranath Tagore, the complex now houses a few offices of the university, as well as a museum and an art gallery that are both worth a peek if you are a Tagore aficionado. Reproductions of his sketches and paintings are sold here from a publications sales counter by the main entrance.

Festivals & Events

Poush Mela

CULTURAL

(Shantiniketan; 🕒 23-26 Dec)

The highpoint of Shantiniketan's festive calendar, the Poush Mela fair brings together artists, musicians, artisans and poets from nearby villages and far-flung continents. You can spend time with the bauls – the wandering minstrels of Bengal – and listen to their songs about life and love, or roam stalls selling tribal artefacts, clothing and jewellery. There's some lip-smacking regional food available at the food stalls.

Magh Mela

CULTURAL

(Shantiniketan; 🕒 6-8 Feb)

At the three-day Magh Mela held in the village of Sriniketan (contiguous to Shantiniketan), crafts and rural arts take centre stage. On the second evening, a spectacular fireworks show attracts a huge audience.

Sleeping

Shantiniketan Tourist Lodge

HOTEL $

(📞 03463-252699; www.wbtdc.gov.in; Bhubandanga; d from ₹1180; 🌳)

Industrial but friendly, this large-scale government operation is worth considering only if you go for one of its deluxe air-conditioned rooms (₹2950), located in cottages standing around a pretty lawn. There's a decent restaurant (mains ₹80 to ₹140) that works up delicious local Bengali fare.

Mitali Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(📞 9433075853; krishno.dey@gmail.com; Phool Danga; d incl breakfast ₹3500; 🌳)

Located about 2km north of the university in verdant Phool Danga village, this charming home of a retired diplomat and his designer wife promises a languid and bucolic experience featuring great company, snug air-con rooms (both within the family home and in an annexe) and some delicious home-style food (lunch or dinner per person ₹400). An autorickshaw from the campus costs ₹50.

Discounts are often thrown in for stays longer than three nights.

Chhuti Holiday Resort

RESORT $$

(📞03463-252692; www.chhutiresort.co.in; Charu Palli; d from ₹1800; 🚫)

This tree-shaded property offers cottage-style rooms with ethnic trimmings, good food in its multicuisine restaurant and an overall sense of peace and quiet. There's no wireless connectivity comped in, but the reception can arrange for cultural programs upon prior request. It's located close to the Jambuni bus stand in Bolpur, and an autorickshaw to the university will cost you ₹50.

Park Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞9434012420; www.parkguesthouse.in; Deer Park; d incl breakfast from ₹1730; 🚫 📶)

Bordering a quaint tribal village, this modest place appeals to those who like a dash of rustic essence and solitude on their holidays. The basic but comfortable rooms sport some tribal decor, and the elaborate thali meals (prepared upon advance notice) are simply awesome. There's a lovely lawn where you can nurse a quiet beer in the evening.

Eating

Alcha Foods

BENGALI $$

(Tourist Lodge Rd; thalis vegetarian/fish ₹100/190; 🕒 noon-3pm & 4-8pm Mon-Sat)

This tiny restaurant is known for its yummy lunch platters that feature a fabulous spread of traditional Bengali dishes. Unique seasonal menus are followed for each day of the week. In the evenings, you can order yourself a range of crispy fried snacks to go with a cup of aromatic filter coffee.

Ghare Baire

BENGALI $$

(Geetanjali Cinema complex; meals ₹190; 🕒 11.30am-9.30pm)

A restaurant specialising in traditional Bengali fare, this cafeteria-style eatery churns out sumptuous and delectable platters for lunch and dinner. There are a few generic snacks and Chinese preparations on offer as well. There's a souvenir store on-site, selling a line of exquisite pottery and textiles that you might want to check out in between morsels.

Information

Post Office

POST

(Shantiniketan Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat)

Located on the main road, this post office has speed post and parcel facilities.

State Bank of India

BANK

(Shantiniketan Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat)

This bank has an ATM that accepts foreign cards.

Getting There & Away

The town of Bolpur, contiguous to Shantiniketan, serves as its transport hub. Several daily trains ply the route between Kolkata and Bolpur train station, 2km south of the university. The best is 12337 Shantiniketan Express (2nd class/chair ₹95/305, 2½ hours) departing at 10.10am from Howrah train station. For New Jalpaiguri, take the 9.20am 15657 Kanchenjunga Express (sleeper/3AC ₹250/670, nine hours). There's a train booking office (Shantiniketan Rd; 🕒 8am-noon & 12.30-2pm Thu-Tue) within the university campus for information and ticketing.

Bolpur's Jambuni bus stand has connections to Berhampore/Murshidabad (₹110, four hours) and Bishnupur (₹100, four hours). Change in Suri and Durgapur respectively.

PALACES GALORE

Thrown around the vicinity of Kolkata's city limits are a handful of rajbaris (palaces) belonging to families of erstwhile zamindars (landowners). While most of them stand dilapidated and forlorn, a few have recently made a promising turnaround and joined the top-end tourism bandwagon. Among the palaces offering a luxury experience woven around the bygone regal life is the palace of Itachuna (☎9830142389; www.itachunarajbari.com; Halusai village; d from ₹2100; 🌳), 110km from Kolkata. It packs a punch with its renovated stately interiors, fine Bengali food and an overall bucolic ambience. The palace of Bawali (☎9830383008; www.therajbari.com; Bawali village; d incl breakfast from ₹8000; 🌳), a one-hour drive south of Kolkata, also makes for a lovely getaway, with a striking doric-pillared facade, carefully preserved distressed decor and excellent overall hospitality.

Nabadwip & Mayapur

☎03472

About 115km north of Kolkata, Nabadwip is an important Krishna pilgrimage centre, attracting throngs of devotees, and is also an ancient centre of Sanskrit culture. The last Hindu king of Bengal, Lakshman Sen, moved his capital here from Gaur.

Across the river from Nabadwip, Mayapur is the headquarters of the Iskcon (Hare Krishna) movement. There's a large, colourful temple and the basic but clean Iskcon Guest House (☎03472-245620; mghb@pamho.net; Main Complex; d/tr/q from ₹600/800/900; 🌳), which has a variety of rooms for guests wishing to spend a night. Iskcon also runs a package bus tour from Kolkata, leaving early on Friday, Saturday and Sunday mornings, returning the subsequent evening. For details or to make a booking, call Iskcon Kolkata.

Besides the Iskcon Guest House, there are no hotels catering to foreign tourists. It's quite easy, however, to visit Mayapur on a day trip from Kolkata.

A simple cafeteria within the Iskcon premises has vegetarian snacks (₹40 to ₹70) on offer. You can also sit in for the communal vegetarian lunch (₹70), served daily at 1pm at Gada Bhavan.

Getting There & Away

Local suburban trains (₹20, two hours, hourly) connect Kolkata's Sealdah train station to the town of Krishnagar, from where shared autorickshaws (₹20) can shuttle you to Mayapur. Alternately, join the bus tour operated by Iskcon Kolkata ( 033 -64588777; 22 Gurusaday Rd).

Murshidabad & Berhampore

 03482 / POP 195,200

In Murshidabad, rural Bengali life and 18th-century architecture meld on the verdant shores of the Hooghly River, locally also known as the Bhagirathi River. When Siraj-ud-daula was nawab of Bengal, Murshidabad was his capital, and he was assassinated here after his defeat by Robert Clive at Plassey (now Palashi) in 1757.

The main draw here is the palace of Hazarduari (Indian/foreigner ₹30/750;  10am-4.30pm Sat-Thu), a royal mansion famous for its 1000 doors (real and false), built here for the nawabs in 1837. It houses an astonishing collection of antiquities from the 18th and 19th centuries. Other beautiful structures within the complex include the Nizamat Imambara with a clock tower, the Wasef Manzil (a former regal residence) and the elegant Madina Mosque.

Murshid Quli Khan, who moved the capital here in 1700, is buried beneath the stairs at the impressive ruins of the Katra Mosque. Siraj-ud-daula was assassinated at the Nimak Haram Deori (Traitor's Gate). Within the Kathgola Gardens (admission ₹10;  6.30am-5.30pm) is an interesting family mansion of a Jain trading family, dating back to 1873.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Sagnik

HOTEL $

( 09434021911; Omrahaganj; d from ₹950; )

Conveniently located between Murshidabad and Berhampore, this friendly place has good-value rooms and a decent restaurant, but scores mostly on service, which is prompt and personalised. It's a 10-minute cycle-rickshaw ride from Murshidabad train station.

Hotel Samrat

HOTEL $

(📞 03482-251147; NH34 Panchanantala; d incl breakfast from ₹1150; 🏠)

This is one of Berhampore's longest-running operations. It offers spacious and clean rooms opening along corridors painted in orange and cream. The Mahal restaurant (mains ₹80 to ₹150) downstairs is a good place for meals. It's located on the main highway, though, so expect some vehicle noise at night.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

The following price ranges refer to a double room with bathroom in high season. Unless otherwise stated tax is included in room rates.

$ less than ₹1300

$$ ₹1300–3000

$$$ more than ₹3000

i Getting There & Around

The 13113 Hazarduari Express (2nd class/chair ₹85/320, 3½ hours) departs Kolkata train station at 6.50am. Regular buses leave for Kolkata (₹150, six hours) and Malda (₹90, four hours). For Shantiniketan/Bolpur (₹110, four hours) you'll have to change in Suri.

Shared autorickshaws (₹50) whiz between Murshidabad and Berhampore through the day. Cycle-rickshaws/autorickshaws offer guided half-day tours to see the spread-out sites for ₹500/800.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

GAUR & PANDUA

Rising from the flooded paddy fields of Gaur (355km from Kolkata) are mosques and other crumbling ruins of the 13th- to 16th-century capital of the Muslim nawabs of Bengal. Little remains from the 7th- to 12th-century pre-Islamic period, when Gaur was the capital of the successive Buddhist Pala and Hindu Sena dynasties.

Malda, 340km north of Kolkata, is a convenient base for exploring both Gaur and Pandua. Malda is also famed for its mangoes ripening in summer. Even if it's not mango season when you visit, you can buy delicious mango pickle and candied mango from the local market.

Hiding behind lush mango orchards, the most graceful monuments in Gaur are the impressive Baradwari Mosque (1526) – the arcaded aisle of its corridor still intact – and the fortress-like gateway of Dakhil Darwaza (1425). The Qadam Rasul Mosque enshrines the flat footprint of the Prophet Mohammed. Remnants of colourful enamel cling to the Chamkan Mosque and the Gumti Gate nearby.

In Pandua (about 25km from Gaur) are the vast ruins of the 14th-century Adina Masjid, once India's largest mosque. About 2km away is the Eklakhi Mausoleum, so called because it cost ₹1 lakh (₹100,000) to build back in 1431.

Malda has a few very basic hotels catering to local travellers. The best of the lot is Hotel Kalinga (☎03512-283567; www.hotelkalingamalda.com; NH34, Ram Krishna Pally; d ₹1050; 🏨), with OK-ish rooms and a multicuisine restaurant. The reception arranges taxis for touring the ruins.

Several express trains run daily from Kolkata's Howrah train station to Malda, including the 12041 Shatabdi Express (chair ₹750, five hours, 2.15pm) and the 13011 Howrah-Malda Intercity Express (2nd class/chair ₹130/470, 7½ hours, 3.25pm). The former continues to New Jalpaiguri (chair ₹600, three hours, 7.10pm), which is the access point for Darjeeling.

Buses depart regularly for Siliguri (₹150, six hours), Berhampore/Murshidabad (₹90, four hours) and Kolkata (₹200, 10 hours).

For touring the monuments in Gaur and Pandua, you have to hire a taxi for the day (₹2500) in Malda. There's no public transport to the ruins.

WEST BENGAL HILLS

Siliguri & New Jalpaiguri

☎0353 / POP 701,000 / ELEV 120M

The crowded and noisy transport hub encompassing the twin towns of Siliguri and New Jalpaiguri (NJP) is the jumping-off point for Darjeeling, Kalimpong, Sikkim, the Northeast States, eastern Nepal and Bhutan.

However, despite this being one of the largest cities in the state, there's little to see or do here, apart from staying the night in transit, if you have to.

Most of Siliguri's hotels, restaurants and services are spread along riotously noisy Tenzing Norgay Rd, better known as Hill Cart Rd. NJP Station Rd leads southward 6km to NJP train station. Branching northeastward off Hill Cart Rd are Siliguri's other main streets, Sevoke and Bidhan Rds.

If you have time to kill, visit the colourful Tibetan-style Salugara Monastery (Sed-Gyued Gompa; GOOGLE MAP; www.sed-gyued.org; Sevoke Rd), 5km north of town, adorned with an imposing 30m tall chorten (Tibetan-style stupa).

Sleeping

Hotel Rajdarbar

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  0353-2511189; rajdarbarhotel@yahoo.com; Hill Cart Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹2050/2280;  )

A fresh and tidy option in a group of similar hotels, this place has well-maintained rooms, a good restaurant and lobby wi-fi. Rooms come with free breakfast. Best by far are the spacious and quiet top-floor premium suites (single/double ₹3930/4170).

Evergreen Inn

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP;  0353-2510426; innevergreen@yahoo.in; Pradhan Nagar, Ashana Purna Sarani; d with/without AC from ₹1440/990;  )

Located just 100m from the central bus terminal, this hotel down a side street is surprisingly peaceful. Each of the 11 rooms is different, but they all are clean and fresh with flat-screen TVs and stylish bathrooms. You'll find it down a lane on the opposite side of the bus terminal.

Hotel Conclave

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  0353-2516155; hotelconclave@rediffmail.com; Hill Cart Rd; s/d with AC from ₹1865/2035, without AC ₹850/990;  )

Located conveniently close to town's bus stands, Hotel Conclave has quality beds and prim cedar-themed decor. The cheaper rooms are quieter and the pricier rooms come with complimentary breakfast. All have a small balcony.

Hotel Himalayan Regency

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP ;  0353-2516624; himalayanhatchery@gmail.com; Hill Cart Rd, Pradhan Nagar; d with/without AC ₹1500/800;  )

Despite some eyebrow-raising decor choices, rooms here are clean and comfortable, with circular beds in the air-con rooms. You'll find it near Pradhan Nagar police station.

Hotel Sinclairs

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP ;  0353-2512675; www.sinclairshotels.com; off NH31; s/d incl breakfast from ₹5800/6200;   )

This comfortable three-star hotel, 1km north of the central bus terminal, offers an escape from the noise of Hill Cart Rd. It's one of Siliguri's longest-standing luxury addresses, and offers fresh, modern and comfortable rooms with good bathrooms. There's an excellent patio restaurant-bar and a cool clean pool, perfect for escaping the heat of the plains.

Eating

★ Khana Khazana

MULTICUISINE $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; Hill Cart Rd; mains ₹120-200;  9am-10pm)

On a side alley off the busy main highway, the secluded outdoor garden here offers merciful relief from the thunderous chaos outside. The extensive menu ranges from fine curries and naan (tandoor-cooked flat bread) to Mumbai street snacks, with plenty of hearty vegetarian options and kulfi, flavoured (often with pistachio) firm-textured ice cream.

Amber

INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0353-2431682; Hill Cart Rd; mains ₹190-330; 🕒 10am-11pm; 🍷)

This trusted and air-conditioned restaurant attached to Hotel Saluja Residency serves mouth-watering dishes, including fluffy naans, lip-smacking curries, tender meat dishes and subtly flavoured biryanis that go down extremely well with the city's food lovers. Evenings are an especially buzzy time to be here.

Sartaj

INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0353-2431758; Hill Cart Rd; mains ₹120-220; 🕒 9am-11pm; 🍷)

In a cluster of similar bar restaurant operations, this sophisticated eatery boasts a huge range of first-rate North Indian tandooris and curries, some decent Continental sizzlers and top-notch service, including a fantastic uniformed doorman. It's also a good place for a cold beer.

Information

INTERNET ACCESS

Krishna Travels (GOOGLE MAP; Hill Cart Rd; per hour ₹80; 🕒 9am-9pm Mon-Sat)

Internet access (but no wi-fi) down a side street across from Hotel Conclave.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Sadar Hospital (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0353-2436526; Hospital Rd) Siliguri's main state-run hospital with emergency and outpatient services.

MONEY

Delhi Hotel (GOOGLE MAP; Hill Cart Rd; 🕒 9am-2pm) Cash foreign currency exchanged, opposite the Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal. Flexible hours often extend into the evening.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Sikkim Tourist Office (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0353-2512646; SNT terminal, Hill Cart Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat) Issues permits for Sikkim on the spot. Bring copies of your passport and visa, and one passport-sized photo.

West Bengal Tourism (WBTD; GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 bookings 9832492417, information 0353-2511974; www.wbtcd.gov.in; Hill Cart Rd; 🕒 10.30am-5.30pm Mon-Fri, to 1.30pm Sat) Can book accommodation online for Jaldhpara Wildlife Sanctuary, including forestry lodges.

TRAVEL AGENCIES

Private transport booking agencies line Hill Cart Rd.

Help Tourism (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0353-2535896; www.help-tourism.com; 143 Hill Cart Rd) A recommended agency with a strong environmental and community-development focus, including voluntourism. It has links to dozens of homestays and lodges around the hills, including a historic tea estate at Damdin and the stylish Neora Valley Jungle Camp outside Lava.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Bagdogra Airport is 12km west of Siliguri. There are daily flights to Delhi, Kolkata and Guwahati, plus seasonal international connections on Druk Air to Bangkok and Paro.

Five-seater helicopters (₹3500, 30 minutes, 10kg luggage limit) travel daily from Bagdogra to Gangtok at 2.30pm in good weather. You need to book in advance through Sikkim Tourism Development Corporation (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 03592-209031, 03592-203960; <http://www.sikkimstcd.com/HeliServiceGeneral/HeliGeneralReservation.aspx>) in Gangtok; or book at the airport.

A prepaid taxi stand at Bagdogra Airport offers fixed fares to Darjeeling (₹1800), Kalimpong (₹1410), Gangtok (₹2200) and Kakarbhitta (₹500) on the Nepal border, allowing you to bypass Siliguri completely. It's not difficult to hook up with other airline passengers to share the cost. Prices indicated are to the local jeep stand; a hotel drop will cost a little more.

BUS

Most North Bengal State Transport Corporation (NBSTC) buses leave from Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal (GOOGLE MAP; Hill Cart Rd), as do many private buses plying the same routes. Private long-distance bus companies line the entrance.

NBSTC buses include frequent buses to Malda (₹175, 6½ hours), plus six daily services to Kolkata (₹390 to ₹420). Assam State Transportation Corporation runs a daily 4pm bus to Guwahati (₹550, 15 hours). The Hill Region Minibus Owners Association booth has minibuses to Kalimpong (₹200, 2½ hours) every 30 minutes.

For a 6pm Patna departure (seat/sleeper ₹350/400, 12 hours) try Gupta Travels (GOOGLE MAP; ☎0353-2513451; Hill Cart Rd), just outside the bus station. Deluxe air-con Volvo buses for Kolkata (₹1200, 11 hours) leave around 7pm from this company and many other agencies. Non-air-con coaches cost around ₹400.

Sikkim Nationalised Transport (SNT) buses to Gangtok (₹150, 4½ hours) leave every 40 minutes between 6am and 3pm from the SNT terminal (GOOGLE MAP; Hill Cart Rd), 250m southeast of the bus terminal. Arrange your permit in advance at the Sikkim Tourist Office next door.

BORDER CROSSING: BANGLADESH, BHUTAN & NEPAL

To/From Bangladesh

A number of private agencies in Siliguri, including Shyamoli (GOOGLE MAP; ☎9932628243; Hotel Central Plaza complex, Mallagauri More, Hill Cart Rd, 1km northwest of central bus terminal), run daily air-con buses direct to Dhaka (₹1200, 18 hours), departing at 1.30pm. You'll need to complete border formalities at Chengrabandha. Book a day or two in advance.

Buses also run every 45 minutes from the Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal to Chengrabandha (₹60, 2½ hours) between 7am and 5pm. The border post is open from 8am to 6pm daily. From near the border post you can catch buses on to Rangpur, Bogra and Dhaka. Visas for Bangladesh can be obtained in Kolkata and New Delhi.

To/From Bhutan

Bhutan Transport Services runs two daily buses from Sevoke Rd to Phuentsholing inside Bhutan (₹100, departs 7.15am and noon), but it makes more sense to take one of the more frequent local buses to Jaigaon (₹106, four hours) on the Indian side of the border, where you clear Indian immigration. The gate between Phuentsholing and Jaigaon opens at 6am and closes at 9pm for vehicles, but people can cross on foot until 10pm.

A chartered jeep from Bagdogra Airport to Jaigaon costs ₹2510. Non-Indian nationals need visa clearance from a Bhutanese tour operator to enter Bhutan.

To/From Nepal

For Nepal, local buses pass the Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal on Hill Cart Rd every 30 minutes for the border town of Panitanki (₹25, one hour). Nearby shared jeeps to Kakarbhitta (₹125) are faster but only leave when full. The Indian border post in Panitanki is officially open 24 hours but the Nepali post in Kakarbhitta is open from 7am to 7pm.

Onward from Kakarbhitta there are numerous buses to Kathmandu (17 hours) and other destinations. Bhadrapur Airport, 23km southwest of Kakarbhitta, has regular flights to Kathmandu (US$185) on Buddha Air (www.buddhaair.com). Visas for Nepal can be obtained at the border (bring two passport photos).

JEEP

An efficient if somewhat cramped way of getting around the hills is by shared jeep. There are a number of jeep stands lining Hill Cart Rd: for Darjeeling (₹130, three hours) and Kurseong (₹70, 1½ hours) look around opposite the bus terminal or outside the Conclave Hotel until late afternoon; for Kalimpong (₹130, 2½ hours) head to the Panitanki Mall stand on Sevoke Rd (take an autorickshaw for ₹20); and for Gangtok (₹200, four hours) jeeps leave from next to the SNT terminal until around 4pm. Shared and chartered jeeps for all these destinations also leave from NJP train station. Mirik-bound jeeps (₹100, 2½ hours) leave most frequently from Siliguri train station, 200m southwest of Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal.

Chartering a jeep privately costs roughly 15 times that of a shared ticket. A recommended option for XL-sized travellers is to pay for and occupy the front two or three seats next to the driver.

TRAIN

When booking tickets to/from Siliguri be sure to confirm whether your ticket is from central Siliguri Junction or New Jalpaiguri (NJP) train stations, 6km to the southeast.

Buy tickets at Siliguri junction train station or at the train booking office (GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0353-2537333; cnr Hospital & Bidhan Rds; 🕒 8am-noon, 12.30-2pm & 2.15-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun), 1.5km southeast of the Hotel Conclave.

The 8pm 12344 Darjeeling Mail is the fastest of the many daily services to Kolkata (sleeper/3AC ₹350/915, 10 hours), via Malda.

For Delhi, the 1.15pm 12423 Rajdhani Express is your best and quickest bet (3AC/2AC ₹2200/3020, 21 hours). Alternatively, board the 5.15pm 12505 North East Express (sleeper/3AC ₹625/1630, 26 hours).

The easiest train to get tickets for to head to Patna (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹280/750/1490, 13 hours) is the Capital Express, though it arrives at an unsociable 3.20am. For Guwahati, board the 8.35am 12506 North East Express going in the other direction (sleeper/3AC ₹275/710, eight hours).

TOY TRAIN WOES

The toy train to Darjeeling continues to remain suspended from Siliguri, due to damaged tracks near Tindharia. Until it's repaired, the only option will be to drive to Kurseong and then catch the toy train on to Darjeeling. Even when it's open, the daily 9.30am departure for Darjeeling (seat ₹350) is for die-hards only, since it takes seven hours to cover 88km, well over twice as long as by road!

Getting Around

From Tenzing Norgay central bus terminal to NJP train station, a taxi/autorickshaw costs ₹230/100. Taxis/autorickshaws between Bagdogra Airport and Siliguri cost ₹460/250.

Shared autorickshaws (₹7) run continuously along the length of Tenzing Norgay Rd.

Jaldhapara Wildlife Sanctuary

📍 03563 / ELEV 60M

The little-visited Jaldhapara Wildlife Sanctuary (GOOGLE MAP);

📞 03563-262239; www.jaldapara.in; Indian/foreigner ₹60/200, camera/video ₹50/500; 🕒 mid-Sep–mid-Jun) protects 114 sq km of lush forests and grasslands along the Torsa River and is a refuge for 150 Indian one-horned rhinoceros (Rhinoceros unicornis). It's not the easiest place to visit independently and booking accommodation inside the park needs to be done months in advance, so plan ahead. The best time to visit is mid-November to April, with March and April being the best months for wildlife-spotting. Bring mosquito repellent.

Your best chance of spotting a rhino is on an elephant ride (GOOGLE MAP); 📞 03563-262230; Indian/foreigner per person ₹600/1000; 🕒 5-8am), though these limited lumbering safaris are often booked out by the tourist lodges, and are discouraged by animal welfare groups because of the potential harm that this can cause to the elephants. Even if you are staying at Jaldhapara Tourist Lodge for a night, you are not guaranteed a ride, as full occupancy is double that of their daily elephant quota. An hour-long elephant ride will cost at least US$50 per person, after all costs are added in. Bear in mind that tourists ride in a howdah (wooden seat) on the elephant's back, a practice that animal welfare groups discourage.

Jeep safaris (GOOGLE MAP); 📞 03563-262230; 4/6 person jeep foreigners ₹1840/2240, Indians ₹1520/1640) operate in the early morning and afternoon and stop at viewing platforms, but these can also be hard to arrange unless you are on a tour or staying at one of the two tourist lodges.

Mithun of Wild Planet Travel Desk (📞 9735028733; easthimalayan3@yahoo.com) and Hotel Relax can often book accommodation and safaris when no one else can and are probably your best option for a DIY trip, including cycling and birdwatching options.

Sleeping & Eating

Hollong Tourist Lodge

LODGE $$

(;  03563-262228; www.wbtourism.gov.in; d ₹2850)

This green-coloured wooden lodge right in the heart of the park is perhaps the best place to stay, though booking one of the six non-air-con rooms can be a real challenge. You can spot animals right from the verandah and the package includes a morning elephant ride, but you may want to avoid this because of the animal welfare issues. Book up to six months in advance.

The lodge doesn't take direct bookings, bookings are made online at www.wbtfdc.gov.in or via West Bengal Tourism.

Jaldhapara Tourist Lodge

HOTEL $$

(;  9733008795, 03563-262230; www.wbtourism.gov.in; Madarihat; d with AC ₹2200-3200, without AC ₹1600; )

This functional but comfortable West Bengal Tourism Development Corporation (WBTDC) hotel is just outside the park in Madarihat town. It has rooms in wooden and concrete blocks or in new cottages. Weekends can be swamped with noisy local families and youth groups.

The lodge doesn't take direct bookings; bookings are made online at www.wbtfdc.gov.in or via West Bengal Tourism.

Getting There & Away

Jaldhapara is 124km east of Siliguri. Local buses run every 30 minutes from Siliguri bus terminal to Madarihat (₹87, four hours) until 3.30pm. Book at the 'Inter District Minibus Owners Association' booth.

There are also slow but scenic mail trains (unreserved seat ₹40 to ₹65, three to four hours), leaving Siliguri Junction train station at 6am, 7.15am, 5pm and 6pm, returning from Madarihat at 6.05am, 7.50am and 1.30pm.

From Madarihat, it's a 7km trip to the park headquarters. A return taxi costs ₹700, including waiting time, plus you'll also have to pay the ₹275 vehicle entry fee.

Kurseong

 0354 / POP 40,100 / ELEV 1460M

Kurseong, 32km south of Darjeeling, is a tiny but bustling hill town best known for its tea estates and Raj-era boarding schools. Its name derives from the Lepcha word khorsang, a reference to the small white orchid prolific in this area. Flanked by hilly slopes draped with manicured tea estates, it is also currently the southern terminus for the charming toy trains of the Darjeeling Himalayan Railway.

Hill Cart Rd (Tenzing Norgay Rd) – the noisy, traffic-choked main thoroughfare from Siliguri to Darjeeling – and its remarkably close shadow, the railway line, wind through town.

Sights

Makaibari

TEA ESTATE

( GOOGLE MAP;  0353-2510071; www.makaibari.com; Pankhabari Rd;  Tue-Sat mid-Mar–mid-Nov) FREE

If you like tea, you should visit this organic and biodynamic tea estate; the factory is open to visitors. In-between the huge sorting and drying machines, and the fields of green bushes, you may run into the owner, tea guru and local character, Rajah Banerjee. Short visits are free, or you can opt for a plantation walk with tea plucking and tasting (per person ₹200 to ₹300, with lunch in a local homestay an additional ₹200 or so).

Mornings before 10am between mid-March and mid-November are the best time to see the production process. There's no picking on Sunday or processing on Monday. Horse riding and even canopy climbing are planned, and a spa resort is under construction.

The estate is 3km below Kurseong along Pankhabari Rd, and 1km below Cochrane Place. A taxi here costs ₹200, or it's a pleasant downhill walk (it's much steeper coming back so take a ₹20 shared taxi from Cochrane Place). En route, the lush, overgrown old graveyard at St Andrew's has poignant reminders of the tea-planter era.

Makaibari runs a homestay and volunteer program from a separate office 50m below the main entrance. Volunteers can find placements in teaching, health and community projects; for details, see www.volmakaibari.org. Ask for Nayan Lama. This is also the place to book a plantation walk.

Ambootia Tea Estate

TEA ESTATE

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9434045602; www.ambootia.com) FREE

The organic Ambootia Tea Estate welcomes visitors to its aromatic factory and is a good walking destination from nearby Cochrane Place.

Sleeping

Makaibari Homestays

HOMESTAY $$

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9832447774; www.volmakaibari.org; Makaibari tea estate; per person incl full board ₹800)

This pioneering program aims to harness tourism to empower local women tea pickers. There are 16 family houses currently involved in the project, and more are planned in a new environmentally sustainable and midrange bamboo village nearby. Houses are simple but comfortable and families speak basic English. Activities on offer include tea picking and birdwatching trips (guide ₹100).

Cochrane Place

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9932035660; www.cochraneplacehotel.com; 132 Pankhabari Rd; s/d from ₹3050/3820; @ 📶)

With 360-degree plantation views and the twinkling lights of Siliguri below, this charming getaway offers oodles of quaintness in the form of period furniture and quirky artefacts in its bright and airy pastel-shaded rooms. There's a delicious mix of Anglo-Indian, Continental and Indian food on offer, and a fine selection of Darjeeling teas at Chai Country, the in-house cafe.

Eating

Kurseong Tourist Lodge

NORTH INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2345608; Hill Cart Rd; mains ₹80-140; 🕒 7am-8.30pm)

This old-fashioned, government-run lodge has a popular cafe where you can snack on excellent chicken or vegetarian momos as the toy train whistles past just outside. The restaurant serves a wider range of Indian treats for lunch and dinner. It's a 10-minute walk out of town along the main road towards Darjeeling.

There are also some rooms with balcony (single/double ₹1850/2050).

Getting There & Away

Numerous shared jeeps run to Darjeeling (₹70, 1½ hours) and Siliguri (₹70, 1½ hours) until around 4pm, with 8am and 1pm departures for Kalimpong (₹150, 3½ to four hours) and Mirik (₹80, 2½ hours).

The Darjeeling Himalayan Railway's toy train to Darjeeling (1st/2nd class ₹210/60, three hours) is scheduled to leave at 7am and 3pm but takes twice as long as a shared jeep. The 3pm service was not running at the time of research.

Darjeeling

📍 0354 / POP 120,400 / ELEV 2135M

Spread in ribbons over a steep mountain ridge, surrounded by emerald-green tea plantations and towered over by majestic Khangchendzonga (8598m), Darjeeling is the definitive Indian hill station and is arguably West Bengal's premier attraction. When you aren't gazing open-mouthed at Khangchendzonga, you can explore colonial-era architecture, visit Buddhist monasteries, and spot snow leopards and red pandas at the nearby zoo. The adventurous can arrange a trek to Singalila Ridge or hire a mountain bike for a guided ride around the hilltops. Meanwhile the steep and winding bazaars below the town bustle with an array of Himalayan products and faces from across Sikkim, Bhutan, Nepal and Tibet. And finally, when energies start to flag, a good, steaming Darjeeling brew is never far away.

History

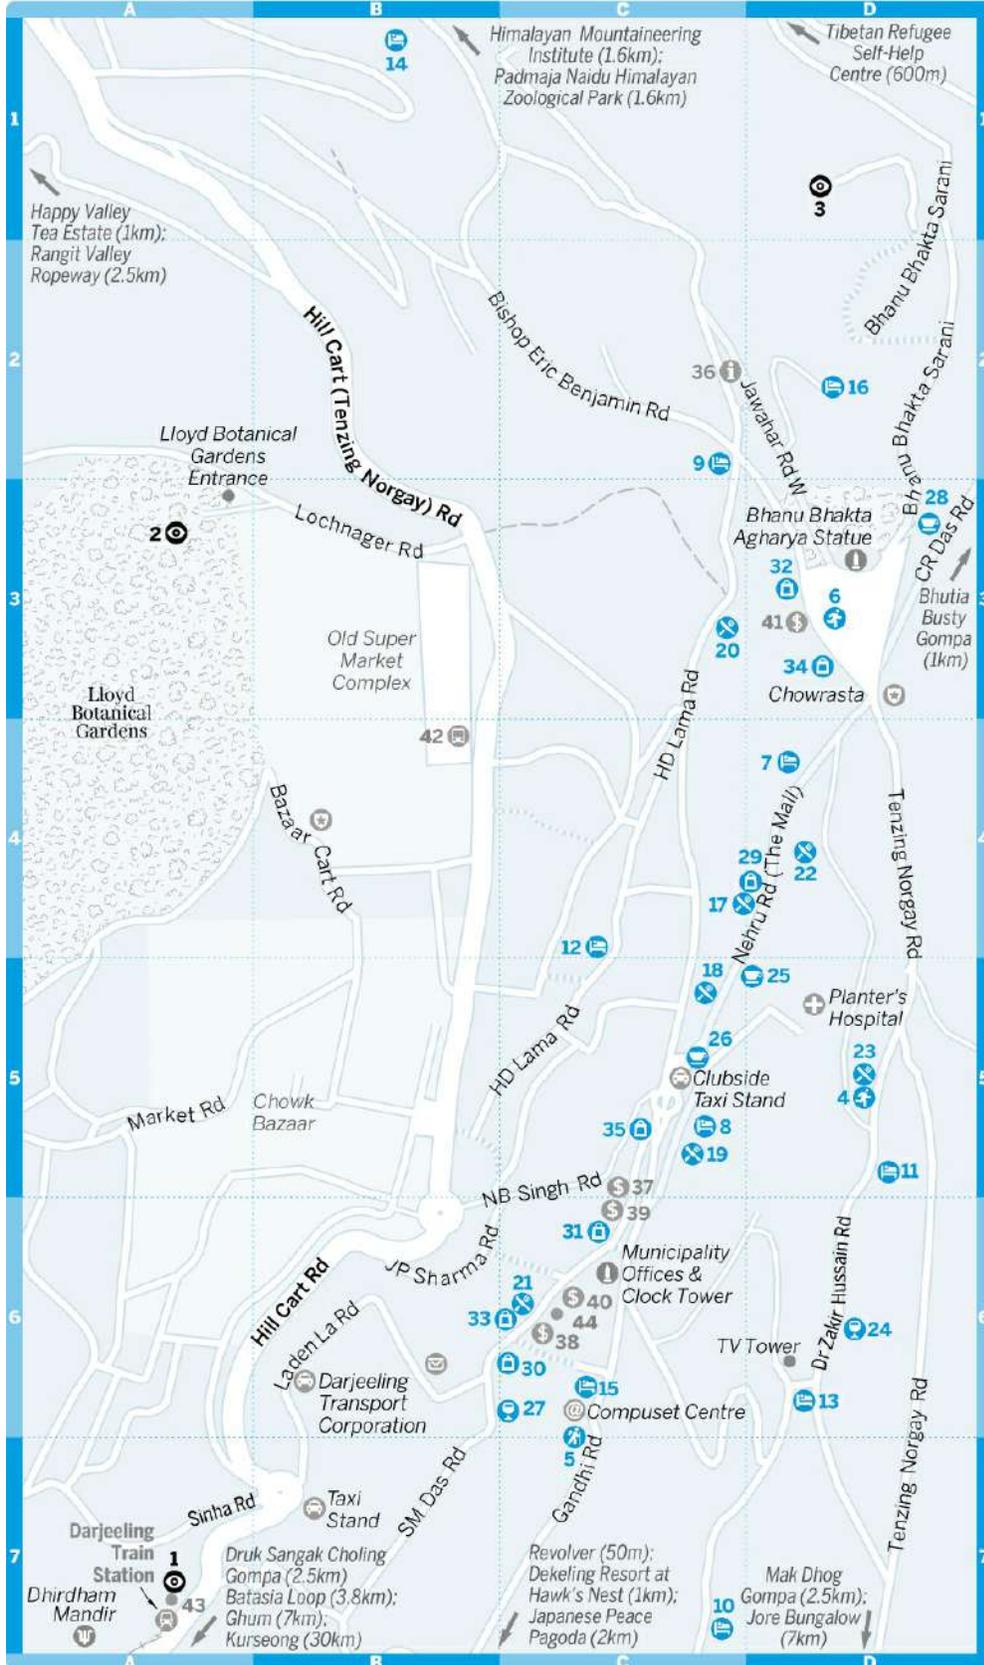

Darjeeling originally belonged to the Buddhist chogyals (kings) of Sikkim until 1780, when it was annexed by invading Gurkhas from Nepal. The East India Company gained control of the region in 1816, but soon returned most of the lands to Sikkim in exchange for British control over any future border disputes.

During one such dispute in 1828, two British officers stumbled across the Dorje Ling monastery, on a tranquil forested ridge, and passed word to Kolkata (Calcutta) that it would be a perfect site for a sanatorium (they were sure to have also mentioned its strategic military importance in the region). The chogyal of Sikkim (still grateful for the return of his kingdom) agreed to lease the uninhabited land to the East India Company for the annual fee of £3000. In 1835 the hill station of Darjeeling was born and the first tea bushes were planted. By 1857 the population of Darjeeling had reached 10,000, mainly because of a massive influx of Gurkha tea labourers from Nepal.

Since Independence, the Gurkhas have become the main political force in Darjeeling. Friction with the state government led to calls for a separate state of Gorkhaland in the 1980s. In 1986 violence and riots orchestrated by the Gorkha National Liberation Front (GNLF) brought Darjeeling to a standstill. As a result, the Darjeeling Gorkha Hill Council (DGHC) was given a large measure of autonomy from the state government, later replaced by the Gorkhaland Territorial Administration (GTA). The political situation is now calm but political agitation and strikes could reappear any time.

Darjeeling

Darjeeling

Top Sights

1 Darjeeling Himalayan Railway	A7
--	----

Sights

2 Lloyd Botanical Gardens	A3
3 Observatory Hill	D1

Activities, Courses & Tours

4 Adventures Unlimited	D5
5 Himalayan Travels	C6
Manjushree Centre of Tibetan Culture	C6
6 Pony Rides	D3

Sleeping

7 Bellevue Hotel	D4
8 Dekeling Hotel	C5
9 Elgin Darjeeling	C2
10 Hotel Aliment	C7
11 Hotel New Galaxy	D5
12 Hotel Seven Seventeen	C4
13 Hotel Tranquillity	D6
14 Mayfair Darjeeling	B1
15 Tibet Home	C6
16 Windamere Hotel	D2

Eating

Dekeva's	C5
17 Glenary's	C4
18 Hasty Tasty	C5
19 Kunga	C5
Lunar Restaurant	C5
20 Mamta Pizza	C3
21 Park Restaurant	C6
22 Shangri-La	D4
23 Sonam's Kitchen	D5

Drinking & Nightlife

24	Gatty's Cafe	D6
	Glenary's	C4
25	Himalayan Java	D5
26	House of Tea	C5
27	Joey's Pub	C6
28	Sunset Lounge	D3
	Windamere Hotel	D2

Shopping

29	Das Studios	D4
30	Dorjee Himalayan Artefacts	C6
31	Hayden Hall	C6
32	Life & Leaf Fair Trade Shop	D3
33	Nathmull's Tea Room	C6
34	Oxford Book & Stationery Company	D3
35	Rope	C5

Information

36	GTA Tourist Reception Centre	C2
37	ICICI Bank ATM	C6
38	Poddar's	C6
39	Ridhi Siddhi	C5
40	State Bank of India	C6
41	State Bank of India ATM	D3

Transport

42	Chowk Bazaar Bus & Jeep Station	B4
43	Darjeeling Train Station	A7
44	Samsara Tours, Travels & Treks	C6

Sights

Tiger Hill

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP)

To watch the dawn light break over a spectacular 250km stretch of Himalayan horizon, including Everest (8848m), Lhotse (8501m) and Makalu (8475m) to the far west, rise early and take a jeep out to Tiger Hill (2590m), 11km south of Darjeeling, above Ghum. The skyline is dominated by Khangchendzonga ('great five-peaked snow fortress'), India's highest peak and the world's third-highest. On either side of the main massif are Kabru (7338m), Jannu (7710m) and Pandim (6691m), all serious peaks in their own right.

This daily morning spectacle (views are best in autumn and spring) is a major tourist attraction, and you'll find hundreds of jeeps leaving Darjeeling for Tiger Hill every morning at 4am – traffic snarls en route are quite common. At the summit you can pay to stand in the pavilion grounds or warm up in one of the heated lounges (₹30 to ₹100 with tea). It can be a real bunfight here, so if you prefer your Himalayan views in solitude you might want to try somewhere else.

Organised sunrise trips (usually with a detour to Batasia Loop and the monasteries in Ghum on the way back) can be booked through a travel agency or directly with jeep drivers at the Clubside taxi stand. Return trips cost ₹1300 per vehicle, or ₹250 per seat.

Observatory Hill

RELIGIOUS SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Sacred to both Buddhists and Hindus, this hill was the site of the original Dorje Ling monastery that lent Darjeeling its name. Today, devotees come to a temple in a small cave to honour Mahakala, a Buddhist protector deity also worshipped in Hinduism as a wrathful avatar of Shiva the destroyer. The summit is marked by several shrines, a flurry of colourful prayer flags and the ringing notes from numerous devotional bells, but sadly no mountain views.

Bhutia Busty Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP)

This temple originally stood on Observatory Hill, but was rebuilt in its present location by the chogyals of Sikkim in the 19th century. It houses fine murals depicting the life of Buddha, with Khangchendzonga providing a spectacular backdrop. Come for prayers at 4pm; it's often locked during the day. To get here, follow CR Das Rd downhill for five minutes from Chowrasta Sq, past a trinity of Buddhist rock carvings.

Japanese Peace Pagoda

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 4.30am-7pm, prayers 4.30-6am & 4.30-6.30pm)

Perched on a hillside at the end of AJC Bose Rd, this gleaming white pagoda is one of more than 70 pagodas built around the world by the Japanese Buddhist Nipponzan Myohoji organisation. During the drumming puja (prayers) sessions, visitors are offered a hand drum and encouraged to join in the rituals. Getting here involves a pleasant, gentle 30-minute walk from Clubside junction along Gandhi and AJC Bose Rds, past the curiously named Institute of Astroparticle Physics and Space Science.

Padmaja Naidu Himalayan Zoological Park

ZOO

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0354-2254250; www.pnhzp.gov.in; Indian/foreigner incl Himalayan Mountaineering Institute ₹50/100; camera/video ₹10/25; 🕒 8.30am-4pm Fri-Wed, ticket counter closes 3.30pm)

This zoo, one of India's best, was established in 1958 to study, conserve and preserve Himalayan fauna. Housed within its rocky and forested environment are species such as Asiatic black bears, cloud leopards, red pandas and Tibetan wolves. The zoo, and its attached snow leopard-breeding centre (closed to the public), are home to the world's largest single captive population of snow leopards (currently 11). The zoo is a pleasant 20-minute downhill walk from Chowrasta along Jawahar Rd West.

Himalayan Mountaineering Institute

MUSEUM

(HMI; GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0354-2254087; www.hmi-darjeeling.com; Indian/foreigner incl zoo ₹50/100; 🕒 8.30am-4.30pm Fri-Wed)

Tucked away within the grounds of the zoo, this prestigious mountaineering institute was founded in 1954 and has provided training for some of India's leading mountaineers. Within the complex is the fascinating Mountaineering Museum. It houses sundry details and memorabilia from the 1922 and 1924 Everest expeditions, which set off from Darjeeling, as well as more recent summit attempts. Look for the Carl Zeiss telescope presented by Adolf Hitler to the head of the Nepali Army.

Rangit Valley Ropeway

CABLE CAR

(GOOGLE MAP; return adult/child ₹175/90; 🕒 10am-4pm, ticket office closes 2pm, closed 19th of every month)

This scenic ropeway reopened in 2012, after a fatal accident halted operations in 2003. The 20-minute ride takes you from North Point down to the Takvar Valley tea estate, gliding over manicured tea bushes that look like giant broccoli growing on mountain slopes. Get here early if you want to explore the village and tea plantation. The last lift back is 5pm.

Tibetan Refugee Self-Help Centre

FACTORY

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 2255938; www.tibetancentredarjeeling.com; Lebong Cart Rd; 🕒 9am-4.30pm Mon-Sat) 🍃

Established in 1959, this refugee centre comprises a home for the aged, a school, an orphanage, a clinic, a gompa (Tibetan Buddhist monastery) and craft workshops that produce carpets, woodcarvings and woollen items.

There's also an interesting, politically charged photographic exhibition portraying Tibetan history through B&W photos. Visitors are welcome to wander through the workshops. The handicrafts are for sale in the showroom and proceeds go straight back into the Tibetan community.

Happy Valley Tea Estate

PLANTATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8017700700; www.ambootia.com; Lebong Cart Rd; tour ₹100; 🕒 8am-4pm Tue-Sun)

This 1854 tea estate below Hill Cart Rd is worth visiting, especially when the plucking and processing are in progress (March to November). An employee will guide you through the aromatic factory and its withering, rolling, fermenting and drying processes, explaining how green, black and white teas all come from the same leaf. Take the marked turn-off about 1km northwest of town on Hill Cart Rd.

Lloyd Botanical Gardens

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2252358; 🕒 8am-4.30pm) FREE

These pleasant gardens contain an impressive collection of Himalayan plants, most famously orchids and rhododendrons. Follow the signs along Lochnager Rd from the Chowk Bazaar bus and jeep station, until the hum of cicadas replaces the honking of jeeps at the main entrance. A map is posted at the office at the top of the park.

Batasia Loop

MONUMENT

(GOOGLE MAP; ₹10)

If you're travelling on the toy train, or walking back from Tiger Hill, look out for this famous railway loop that goes around the open-air Gorkha War Memorial, erected in honour of the brave soldiers from the region who laid down their lives in WWI and WWII. Some tours stop here after the sunrise trip to Tiger Hill. The views are almost as good and the atmosphere much more serene.

Druk Sangak Choling Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(Dali Gompa; GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

About halfway between Ghum and Darjeeling is the huge Druk Sangak Choling Gompa, inaugurated by the Dalai Lama in 1993. Known for its vibrant frescoes, it is home to 300 Himalayan monks who study philosophy, literature, astronomy, meditation, dance and music. Come for prayers between 4pm and 6pm.

GHUM

The junction of Ghum, 7km southwest from Darjeeling, is home to three colourful Buddhist monasteries, all 10 minutes' walk from each other. You can get to Ghum from Darjeeling by toy train (2nd/1st class ₹30/145), shared taxi (₹30), chartered taxi (one way ₹300) or on the way back from Tiger Hill.

Yiga Choling Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; Ghum; 🕒 dawn-dusk), the region's most famous monastery, has wonderful old murals and is home to some 30 monks of the Gelugpa school. Built in 1850, it enshrines a 5m-high statue of Jampa (Maitreya or 'Future Buddha') and 300 beautifully bound Tibetan texts. It's just west of Ghum, about a 10-minute walk off Hill Cart Rd.

Other gompas of interest nearby include the fortress-style Guru Sakya Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; Ghum; 🕒 dawn-dusk), which conducts prayer sessions between 5.30am and 7.30am (useful if returning from a dawn visit to Tiger Hill). The active Samten Choling Gompa (New Monastery; GOOGLE MAP ; Ghum; 🕒 dawn-dusk), just downhill, has the largest Buddha statue in West Bengal, a memorial chorten dedicated to German mystic Lama Govinda and a small cafe.

Activities

Adventures Unlimited

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9933070013; www.adventuresunlimited.in; Dr Zakir Hussain Rd; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Offers treks to Singalila Ridge (US$50 per person per day) and Sikkim (US$60 to US$75 per person per day), plus Enfield motorbike hire (₹1500 to ₹1850) and mountain-bike hire and trips. Ask for Gautam.

Himalayan Travels

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0354-2252254; kkguring@cal.vsnl.net.in; 18 Gandhi Rd, Darjeeling)

Experienced company that's been arranging treks (US$60 to US$70 per person per day) and mountaineering expeditions in Darjeeling and Sikkim since 1975.

Pony Rides

HORSE RIDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

From Chowrasta, children can take a ride around Observatory Hill for ₹200, or through tea estates to visit a monastery for ₹400 per hour (two-hour minimum). A horseman accompanies the horse at all times, and the activity is fairly safe. No riding helmets are provided though.

SEEING THE SIGHTS IN DARJEELING

Darjeeling's sights are quite spread out and road transport is a bit of a hassle. You'll make things easier by visiting certain sights together as clusters.

One popular idea is to jump out of bed at 4am and take a jeep up to Tiger Hill in time for the spectacular sunrise over Khangchendzonga. After a regulation photo op with the mountain in the backdrop, continue down to Ghum and spend the morning/day visiting Batasia Loop and the monasteries there. An alternative 90-minute walking route back to Darjeeling is along quiet Tenzing Norgay Rd from the junction at Jore Bungalow, via the charming Mak Dhog Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; Alu Bari). Despite the lack of mountain views, this also makes a nice cycling route.

If you can't face a dawn trip to Tiger Hill, take an early-morning stroll around Bhanu Bhakta Sarani, which runs from Chowrasta around the north side of Observatory Hill and offers several stunning viewpoints. Combine the stroll with a visit down to Bhutia Busty Gompa or up to Observatory Hill.

A good half-day itinerary is to walk 20 minutes from Chowrasta Sq to the zoo and Himalayan Mountaineering Institute, then continue around the hill on the road above busy Hill Cart Rd for 15 minutes to the Rangit Valley Ropeway. From here take a shared minivan from North Point back to Darjeeling, getting off at Happy Valley Tea Estate. Then walk the short-cut footpath to Chowk Bazaar jeep stand via Lloyd Botanical Gardens. Alternatively, walk 20 minutes from the ropeway along Lebung Cart Rd to the Tibetan Refugee Self-Help Centre and hike back steeply uphill to Chowrasta via Bhutia Busty Gompa.

Courses

Himalayan Mountaineering Institute

CLIMBING

(HMI; GOOGLE MAP ;  0354-2254087; www.hmi-darjeeling.com; Indian/foreigner

₹7500/US$800)

The HMI runs 28-day basic and advanced mountaineering courses from March to May and September to December. These courses are oriented to teach candidates a broad range of skills required for high-altitude climbing. Foreigners should apply at least three months in advance.

The first week is spent in Darjeeling, learning theory, knots and basic mores, before moving to Sikkim for two weeks. The price includes food and dormitory/tent accommodation. Figure on up to 60 people in a class.

Manjushree Centre of Tibetan Culture

LANGUAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2252977; www.manjushreetibcentre.org; 12 Gandhi Rd; tuition p/hr ₹200; 🕒 mid-Mar–mid-Dec)

Private lessons in written and spoken Tibetan can be organised through this cultural centre, which has a good library and can arrange for students to stay in local Tibetan homes. The office is above the Himalayan Tibet Museum.

Sleeping

Darjeeling has a large selection of hotels. The main backpacker enclave is Dr Zakir Hussain Rd, which follows the highest ridge in Darjeeling, so be prepared for a hike to the best budget places.

Prices given are for the high season (October to early December and mid-March to mid-May), when it's wise to book ahead. In the low season prices can drop by 50%.

Hotel New Galaxy

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9775914939; Dr Zakir Hussain Rd; d from ₹700)

A simple budget option, with small but neat rooms and hot-water buckets in the cheaper rooms. Rooms vary considerably; corner rooms with a mountain view are easily the best (try for room 104). Unexpected pluses include a sun terrace and an authentic Thai restaurant.

Hotel Tranquillity

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2257678; hoteltranquillity@yahoo.com; 13A Dr Zakir Hussain Rd d/tr ₹700/900; 📶)

This good-value place is sparkling clean, with 24-hour hot water, nice lobby seating, views from the rooftop and small but neat baby-blue rooms. The helpful owner is a local schoolteacher, and can provide all kinds of info about the area.

★ Dekeling Hotel

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2254159; www.dekeling.com; Gandhi Rd; d ₹2380-3810, without bathroom ₹998; @ 📶)

Spotless Dekeling is full of charming touches such as coloured diamond-pane windows, a traditional bukhari (wood-fired oven) in the cosy and sociable lounge-library, wood panelling and sloping-attic ceilings, plus superb views. Tibetan owners Sangay and Norbu play perfect hosts and the service is excellent. The central location is also a plus, even if some rooms suffer from traffic noise.

★ Revolver

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8371919527; www.revolver.in; 110 Gandhi Rd; d ₹1310-1760; 📶)

This Beatles-themed hotel is a must for fans. Five small but stylish rooms are each named after one of the Fab Four (plus Brian Epstein), so you can choose your favourite Moptop (John fills up first; Ringo brings up the rear). It's chock-a-block with Beatles memorabilia, and well thought out (free filtered water), but there's a certain coolness to the hospitality.

The downstairs restaurant serves good fresh-ground coffee and interesting local and Naga set meals (₹150). The entrance is easily missed behind the Union Church.

Hotel Seven Seventeen

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2255099; www.hotel717.com; 26 HD Lama Rd; s/d from ₹2620/2975; )

This friendly Tibetan-run place on the edge of the bazaar has pleasant wood-skirted rooms with clean toilets. Upper-floor rooms are best; back rooms have great views overlooking the valley. The excellent-value ground-floor restaurant (mains ₹150) is spacious and civilised, and if you get chatting to the owners you might get invited upstairs for tea and biscuits.

Hotel Aliment

HOTEL $

( ;  0354-2255068; alimentweb98@gmail.com; 40 Dr Zakir Hussain Rd; r ₹870-1950;  )

A budget travellers' favourite, with a good top-floor restaurant (and cold beer), lending library, helpful owners and wood-lined rooms. There's a wide range of rooms, from the cheapest small singles to upstairs doubles (₹1950) with a TV and valley views. All the double rooms have geysers, but these only operate in the mornings and evenings.

Bellevue Hotel

HOTEL $$

( ;  0354-2254075; www.bellevuehotel-darjeeling.com; d from ₹2420;  )

This atmospheric but somewhat faded old-school building has a variety of renovated wood-panelled rooms, most of which come with grass-mat floors and a bukhari. The communal breakfast-lounge area and location by Chowrasta compensate for the idiosyncratic management. Head to the rooftop terrace for fine views. Don't confuse it with the rival Olde (Main) Bellevue Hotel up the road.

Tibet Home

GUESTHOUSE $$

( ;  0354-2252977; tibethome2006@gmail.com; 12 Gandhi Rd; r ₹1900)

Clean, bright and modern rooms make this a solid, central option, with profits going to the attached Manjushree Centre of Tibetan Culture. There are great views from the rooftop.

★ Windamere Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0354-2254041; www.windamerehotel.com; Jawahar Rd West; s/d incl full board from ₹12,630/15,750; @ 📶)

This quaint, rambling relic of the Raj on Observatory Hill offers one of Darjeeling's most atmospheric digs. The charming colonial-era Ada Villa was once a boarding house for British tea planters, and the well-tended grounds are spacious with lots of pleasant seating areas. The comfortable rooms, fireplaces and hot-water bottles offer just the right measures of comfort and mothballed charm.

Nonguests can book afternoon tea, Sunday lunch or a set dinner (₹1400) and sample the vintage charm of the place. Keep your eyes peeled for the Jan Morris poem in the tearoom. It's a particularly great place to spend Christmas.

Elgin Darjeeling

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0354-2257226; www.elginhotels.com; HD Lama Rd; s/d incl half-board ₹10,970/11,350; @ 📶)

Grand yet friendly and full of classy ambience, the Elgin was once the summer residence of the maharaja of Cooch Bihar. The restaurant is elegant and the garden terrace is the perfect place to nurse a beer (₹250). For historic charm, ask for the 'attic room' underneath the dripping eaves; for the biggest rooms, try the new, modern wing.

Dekeling Resort at Hawk's Nest

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0354-2253298; www.dekeling.com; 2 AJC Bose Rd; d from ₹4760; 📶)

Run by the good people at Dekeling Hotel, this is a quiet, exclusive place, 1km outside of Darjeeling en route to the Japanese Pagoda. The four 140-year-old, colonial-style, two-room suites have antique touches and fireplaces, and there's a nice sunny terrace. Seven fresh and modern mountain-facing super-deluxe rooms were recently added. It's a great escape from Darjeeling's increasingly noisy centre.

Mayfair Darjeeling

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2256376; www.mayfairhotels.com; Jawahar Rd West; s/d incl ha board from ₹10,533/13,220; 📶)

Originally a maharaja's summer palace but renovated within an inch of its life, this plush choice sits among manicured gardens and a bizarre collection of kitschy sculptures. The communal areas don't have quite the charm of some of Darjeeling's other historic hotels, but the plush rooms are well decorated and many have balconies.

Eating

Most restaurants close by 9pm. Tax will add on 14.5% to most bills, with service on top of that.

Dekeva's

TIBETAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 51 Gandhi Rd; mains ₹100-180; 🕒 9am-9pm)

Next door to Kunga, this cosy place offers generous servings of Tibetan staples and tasty Chinese dishes, and a range of noodles for connoisseurs who can tell their thenthuk (Tibetan noodles) from their sogthuk (also Tibetan noodles). Prices include tax, so are particularly good value.

★ Glenary's

MULTICUISINE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; mains ₹235-300; 🕒 noon-9pm; 📶)

This elegant restaurant sits atop the famous bakery and cafe of the same name and is a Darjeeling staple. Of note are the Continental and Chinese dishes and the tandoori specials; try the beef steak and potato or the delicious-smelling baked-cheese macaroni. The wooden floors, linen tablecloths and recently expanded window seating add to the classy atmosphere.

Kunga

TIBETAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 51 Gandhi Rd; mains ₹120-190; 🕒 7.30am-8.30pm)

Kunga is a cosy wood-panelled place run by a friendly Tibetan family, strong on noodles and momos, and with excellent juice, fruit muesli curd and shabhaley (Tibetan pies). The clientèle includes locals, which is a mark of its culinary authenticity. You'll find it at street level below Dekeling Hotel.

Sonam's Kitchen

INTERNATIONAL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 142 Dr Zakir Hussain Rd; mains ₹90-180; 🕒 8am-2.30pm & 5.30-9pm Mo-Sat, 8am-2pm Sun; 📶)

Sonam's serves up strong brewed coffee, authentic French toast, fluffy pancakes (breakfasts until 2.30pm), fresh soups (nettle in season) and yummy pasta, from two dining rooms across the road from each other. The chunky wholemeal sandwiches can be packed to go for picnics. Book the Nepali-style dinners three hours in advance.

Hasty Tasty

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; mains ₹90-140, set meals ₹160-190; 🕒 8.30am-8.30pm)

There's nothing fancy at this vegetarian self-service canteen, but the bustling open kitchen churns out great paneer masala dosas (curried vegetables inside a crisp pancake) and several types of set meals. It's a hit with domestic tourists, so expect some rush during mealtimes. Prices include tax.

Shangri-La

CHINESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; mains ₹200-300; 🕒 noon-9.30pm)

This classy and modern bar-restaurant near the top of the Mall specialises in local Chinese and Indian offerings in stylish surrounds, with sleek wooden floors, clean tablecloths and roaring fires in winter. There are also a couple of stylish hotel rooms upstairs (doubles ₹4640).

Mamta Pizza

ITALIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8967203905; HD Lama Rd; pizza ₹150-220; 🕒 10am-7pm)

An unlikely address (or name) for a pizzeria, this cramped but sociable one-table place tosses up excellent European-accented pizza, pasta, panini and salads, alongside delicatessen rarities such as bacon, beef merguez sausage and Nepali cheese (₹500 per kg). Expect to wait about 20 minutes for a pizza.

Lunar Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 51 Gandhi Rd; mains ₹160-200; 🕒 7.30am-9pm)

This bright and clean space just below Dekeling Hotel is perhaps the best vegetarian Indian restaurant in town, with good service and great views from the large windows. The masala dosas come with delicious dried fruit, nuts and cheese. Access to this 1st-floor joint is via the same staircase as Hotel Dekeling.

Park Restaurant

INDIAN, THAI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0354-2255270; 41 Laden La Rd; mains ₹200-350; 🕒 noon-9pm)

The intimate Park is deservedly very popular for its tasty North Indian curries (great chicken tikka masala) and surprisingly authentic Thai dishes, including the tasty tom kha gai (coconut chicken soup) and spicy green papaya salad. Renovations plan to move the Thai dishes to a separate pan-Asian dining area; look for the ornate Thai-style entrance.

Drinking & Nightlife

The top-end hotels all have classy bars; the Windamere is the most atmospheric place to kick back with an early-evening gin and tonic if you are having dinner there.

Gatty's Cafe

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dr Zakir Hussain Rd; beer ₹170; 🕒 6-11pm; 📶)

Backpacker-friendly Gatty's is the only place in town that has a pulse after 9pm, with live music on the weekend and open mic and movie nights during the week. The food (mains ₹170 to ₹200) includes housemade lasagne, and pita with hummus and felafel, plus good espresso and cold Kingfisher and Tuborg.

Joey's Pub

PUB

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; SM Das Rd; beer ₹180-250; 🕒 1-10pm)

Joey's has suffered from the eponymous owner's passing but if your preferred beverage comes in a pint not a pot, this long-standing pub near the post office is a decent place to meet other travellers. It has sports on TV, cold beer and hot toddys in winter.

Himalayan Java

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; coffee ₹100; 🕒 7am-8.30pm; 📶)

Branch of the Nepal cafe chain, serving up good coffee and cakes, plus breakfast pancakes, waffles and sandwiches (snacks ₹150 to ₹250), in a stylish industrial interior.

Sunset Lounge

TEAHOUSE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chowrastra Sq; cup of tea ₹25-400; 🕒 9.30am-9pm; 📶)

This tearoom run by Nathmull's Tea offers aficionados a range of white, green and black teas by the cup, with inhouse baked treats, fine valley views and free wi-fi. Ask for its six-cup tasting sample for two people (it's not on the menu).

Glenary's

TEAHOUSE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; pot ₹80; 🕒 7.30am-7.30pm; 📶)

This teahouse and bakery (pastries ₹30 to ₹60) has massive windows and good views from the new outdoor balcony. Order your tea, select a cake, grab your book and sink into a cosy wicker chair. It's a good place to grab breakfast, from oatmeal to eggs and bacon.

House of Tea

TEAHOUSE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Nehru Rd; cup of tea ₹30-80; 🕒 10am-8pm; 📶)

Sit and sip a range of brewed teas from several local Goodricke estates before purchasing a package of your favourite leaves.

TEA TOURISM

Darjeeling's most famous export is its aromatic muscatel tea, known for its amber colour, tannic astringence and a musky and spicy flavour. These days, however, other teas including green, oolong and premium white varieties are produced alongside the traditional black tea. Most of the produce is now organic, and the best grades fetch several hundred dollars per kilogram at auctions. Purists will tell you that Darjeeling teas are best taken alone or with a slice of lemon (and/or a pinch of sugar), but never with milk.

While in Darjeeling, a pot of this fine brew is best enjoyed at Sunset Lounge or House of Tea. The true-blue afternoon-tea experience at Windamere Hotel (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; afternoon tea ₹800; 🕒4-6pm) is a joy for aficionados of all things colonial, with shortcake, scones, cheese and pickle sandwiches, and brews from the reputed Castleton Tea Estate; book in advance

For a more absorbing and enlightening experience, we recommend a day visit to one of the tea estates that currently welcomes visitors. The easiest places to learn about tea production are Makaibari in Kurseong and Happy Valley outside Darjeeling. Spring, monsoon and autumn are the busiest times, when the three respective 'flushes' are harvested. There's no plucking on Sunday, which means most of the machinery isn't working on Monday.

If you wish to spend a night amid the plantations, try a tea pickers' family at a homestay at Makaibari, where you'll get to join your hosts for a morning's work in the tea bushes. If you have three days to spare, you can pick your own leaves, watch them being processed and then return home with a batch of your very own hand-plucked Darjeeling tea.

If you're in the mood for splurging, accommodation doesn't get any more exclusive than top-end Glenburn (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9830070213; www.glenburnteaestate.com; Darjeeling; s/d incl full board ₹19,900/31,500), between Darjeeling and Kalimpong, a working tea estate and resort that boasts five members of staff for every guest. A stay at Glenburn is rumoured to have given director Wes Anderson inspiration for his film The Darjeeling Limited.

To learn more about the past and present of Darjeeling's tea history, read Jeff Koehler's 2016 book Darjeeling: A History of the World's Greatest Tea.

Shopping

Nathmull's Tea Room

TEA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.nathmulltea.com; Laden La Rd; 🕒 9am-8pm Mon-Sat, daily Mar-May, Oct & Nov)

Darjeeling produces some of the world's finest teas and Nathmull's is the best place to pick up some, with more than 50 varieties. Expect to pay ₹200 to ₹400 per 100g for a decent tea, and up to ₹5000 per 100g for the finest flushes. There are also attractive teapots, strainers and cosies as souvenirs. To taste the teas for sale here head to Sunset Lounge.

Hayden Hall

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.haydenhalldarjeeling.org; Laden La Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm) 🍃

Sells Tibetan-style yak wool carpets as part of its charitable work (₹10,800 for a 0.9m by 1.8m carpet) and offers shipping. You can see the carpets being made out the back. There are also good jumpers, caps, gloves, shrugs and bags made by local women.

Oxford Book & Stationery Company

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Chowrasta Sq; 🕒 10am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, daily Mar-May, Oct & Nov)

The best bookshop east of Kathmandu, selling a good selection of novels and Himalayan titles.

Dorjee Himalayan Artefacts

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Laden La Rd; 🕒 11am-7pm Mon-Sat)

This tiny Aladdin's cave is crammed full of Himalayan knick-knacks, some antique, some made yesterday, from Tibetan gau (amulets) to cast Buddhas and silver prayer wheels. A good collection of masks and thangkas is also on offer.

Tibetan Refugee Self-Help Centre

CARPETS

(GOOGLE MAP  0354-2252552; www.tibetancentredarjeeling.com; Lebong Cart Rd; carpet incl shipping from US$380)

This centre makes gorgeous Tibetan carpets to order, if you don't mind waiting six months for one to be made. Choose from the catalogue and staff will ship the finished carpet to your home address.

Das Studios

PHOTOGRAPHY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP  10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Digital photo accessories, printing and instant passport photos (six for ₹75). The reprinted early-20th-century photographs depicting old Darjeeling and Himalayan scenes make for great souvenirs (₹500); ask to look at the catalogue.

Rope

SPORTS & OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP  10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

This shop stocks quality imported gear alongside decent Chinese knock-offs, including backpacks, stoves and trek boots. The fakes come at nearly half-price; you get what you pay for.

Life & Leaf Fair Trade Shop

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP  10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Supports local artisans and environmental projects through the sale of organic honey and tea sourced from local small farmers, plus jute bags and Assamese silk scarves. The selection is small.

Information

EMERGENCY

Police Assistance Booth (GOOGLE MAP  Chowrasta Sq)

Sadar Police Station (GOOGLE MAP  0354-2254422; Market Rd)

INTERNET ACCESS

Compuset Centre (GOOGLE MAP ; Gandhi Rd; per hour ₹30; 🕒 9am-7pm Mon-Sat; 📶) Offers printing and passport photos (₹40) but no Skype.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Planter's Hospital (D&DMA Nursing Home; GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0354-2254327; Nehru Rd)
The best private hospital in town.

MONEY

A number of shops and hotels around Darjeeling can change cash and travellers cheques at fairly good rates; shop around.

ICICI Bank Atm (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 49 Laden La Rd)

Poddar's (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0354-2252841; Laden La Rd; 🕒 10am-9pm) Better rates, longer hours and shorter queues than the State Bank of India next door. Changes most currencies and travellers cheques at no commission. It's inside a clothing store.

Ridhi Siddhi (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Laden La Rd; 🕒 9.30am-8pm) Changes cash at good rates with no commission.

State Bank of India (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Laden La Rd; 🕒 10am-2pm & 2.30-4pm Mon-Fri, to noon every other Sat) Changes major foreign currencies plus US-dollar Amex travellers cheques, with a commission of ₹100 per transaction. It has an adjacent ATM, and another in Chowrasta (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Chowrasta Sq; 🕒 24hr).

POST

Main Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; Laden La Rd; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat, to 4pm Sun)

TOURIST INFORMATION

GTA Tourist Reception Centre (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9434247927; Silver F Bldg, Jawahar Rd West; 🕒 9am-6pm Mon-Sat, to 1pm every other Sat) The staff are friendly, well organised and the best source of information on Darjeeling.

TRAVEL AGENCIES

Most travel agencies in town can arrange local tours.

Samsara Tours, Travels & Treks (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☎ 0354-2252874

www.samsaratourstravelsandtreks.com; Laden La Rd)

Getting There & Away

AIR

The nearest airport is 90km away at Bagdogra, about 12km from Siliguri. A chartered taxi from Darjeeling costs ₹2200. Allow four hours for the drive, to be safe.

BUS

Samsara Tours, Travels & Treks can book ‘luxury’ air-con buses from Siliguri to Kolkata (₹1300 to ₹1700, 12 hours), and ordinary night buses to Guwahati (₹600, 10 hours, 4pm), Patna (₹550 to ₹700, 10 hours, 6pm) and Gaya (₹750, 4pm). These tickets don’t include transfers to Siliguri.

Foreigners can only cross the border into Nepal at Kakarbhitta/Panitanki (not at Pasupatinagar, en route to Mirik).

Samsara Tours, Travels & Treks can book day and night buses from Kakarbhitta to Kathmandu (₹1000 to ₹1500, departure 4am and 4pm), leaving you to hire a jeep to Kakarbhitta or catch a shared jeep to Siliguri and then Karkabhitha. Samsara can also book Nepali domestic flights from Bhadrapur to Kathmandu (US$182), or book online directly with Buddha Air (www.buddhaair.com).

Any tickets you see advertised from Darjeeling to Kathmandu are not direct buses and involve transfers in Siliguri and at the border – leaving plenty of room for problems – it’s just as easy to do it yourself.

JEEP & TAXI

Numerous shared jeeps leave the crowded Chowk Bazaar Bus & Jeep Station (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Old Super Market Complex) for Siliguri (₹130, three hours) and Kurseong (₹70, 1½ hours). Jeeps for Mirik (₹100, 2½ hours) leave from the northern end about every 30 minutes. A ticket office inside the ground floor of the Old Super Market Complex sells advance tickets for the frequent jeeps to Kalimpong (₹130, 2½ hours), while two roadside stands sell advance tickets for Gangtok (₹200, four hours). All jeeps depart between 7am and 3.30pm.

To New Jalpaiguri or Bagdogra, get a connection in Siliguri, or charter a jeep or taxi from Darjeeling for ₹2200.

Darjeeling Transport Corporation (GOOGLE MAP ; Laden La Rd) offers chartered jeeps to Gangtok (₹3000), Kalimpong (₹2500), Kurseong (₹1500), Kakarbhitta (₹3500) and Mirik (₹2000).

TRAIN

The nearest major train station is at New Jalpaiguri (NJP), near Siliguri.

Tickets can be bought for major services out of NJP at the Darjeeling train station (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎0354-2252555; www.irctc.co.in; Hill Cart Rd; 🕒8am-5pm

Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun). Fares from Darjeeling include Ghum (2nd/1st class ₹140/20, 30 minutes) and Kurseong (2nd/1st class ₹30/210, three hours).

THE TOY TRAIN

The Darjeeling Himalayan Railway (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; steam/diesel joy ride ₹1100/630), known affectionately as the toy train, is one of the few hill railways still operating in India. The panting train made its first journey along its precipice-topping, 2ft-wide tracks in September 1881. These days, it passes within feet of local shopfronts as it weaves in and out of the main road, bringing traffic to a standstill and tooting its whistle incessantly for almost the entire trip. The train has been a Unesco World Heritage Site since 1999.

Services on the section of line south of Kurseong are constantly in flux and monsoon rains seem to block sections of track as fast as engineers can repair them. At the time of research it was suggested that services to and from New Jalpaiguri (NJP) train station should resume soon.

At the time of research there was only one daily passenger service between Darjeeling and Kurseong. Train No 52588 departs Darjeeling at 4pm, stopping in Ghum at 4.30pm and arriving in Kurseong at 6.50pm. Fares (1st/2nd class) are ₹145/30 to Ghum and ₹210/60 to Kurseong. The 10.15am departure from Darjeeling was not running at the time of research but might resume in the future.

Steam-powered joy rides (₹1100) leave Darjeeling at 10.40am, 1.20pm and 4.05pm for a two-hour return trip. The same trips on a diesel service leave at 8am, 11am and

1.30pm and are cheaper at ₹630. During high season (March to May and October to November) there are often an additional three steam departures. All joy rides pause for 10 minutes at the scenic Batasia Loop and then stop for 20 minutes in Ghum, India's highest train station, to visit the small railway museum (GOOGLE MAP); Ghum; admission ₹20; 🕒10am-1pm & 2-4pm). Enthusiasts can see the locomotives up close in the shed across the road from Darjeeling train station.

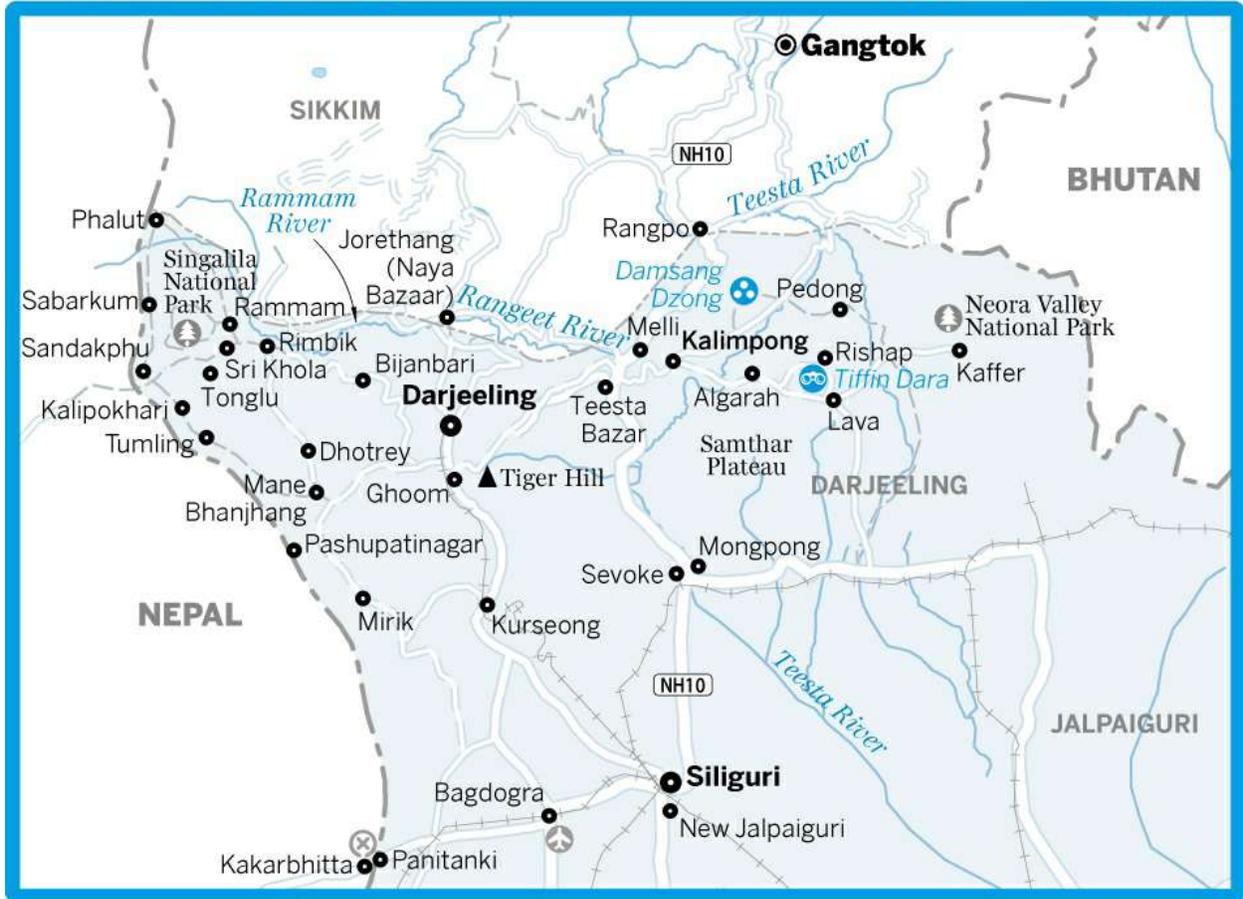

Book joy rides at least a day or two ahead at the Darjeeling train station or online at www.irctc.co.in.

i Getting Around

There are several taxi stands around town, including at Clubsid (GOOGLE MAP); Clubsid) and on Hill Cart Road (GOOGLE MAP); Hill Cart Rd) near the train station, but rates are absurdly high for short hops. Darjeeling's streets can be steep and hard to navigate. You can hire a porter to carry your bags up to Chowrasta Sq from Chowk Bazaar for around ₹100.

Shared minivans to anywhere north of the town centre (eg to North Point) leave from the northern end of the Chowk Bazaar Bus & Jeep Station. For Ghum, get a shared jeep (₹20) from along Hill Cart Rd.

Around Darjeeling

Singalila Ridge Trek

The most popular multiday walk from Darjeeling is the five-day Singalila Ridge Trek from Mane Bhanjhang to Phalut, through the scenic Singalila National Park (GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹100/200, camera/video ₹100/500).

The highlights are the great views of the Himalayan chain stretching from Nepal to Sikkim and Bhutan. Sandakhphu in particular offers a superb panorama that includes Lhotse, Everest and Khangchendzonga peaks. October and November's clear skies and warm daytime temperatures make it an ideal time to trek, as do the long days and incredible rhododendron blooms of late April and May.

Local guides (₹1200 per day, including food and accommodation) are mandatory within the park and must be arranged at the office of the Highlander Trekking Guides Association (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9734056944; www.highlanderguidesandporters.com; Mane Bhanjhang), if you don't already have one, along with porters (₹700) if required.

Mane Bhanjhang is 26km from Darjeeling and is served by frequent shared jeeps (₹70, 1½ hours), as well as a 7am bus from Darjeeling's Chowk Bazaar bus & jeep station. A chartered jeep costs ₹1200. From Rimbik, there are shared jeeps back to Darjeeling (₹150, five hours) at 7am and noon, and a bus at 6.30am (₹90). Book seats in advance. Roads now reach Sri Khola, so you could arrange private transport to pick you up there.

If you have to stay overnight in Rimbik, the best lodges are Hotel Sherpa (Rimbik; d ₹900), with pleasant lawns and Alpine-style huts, and Green Hill (📞9593720817; Rimbik; r ₹500-700), with quieter wooden rooms out the back.

The usual trekking itinerary is 83km over five days. A shorter four-day option is possible by descending from Sandakhphu to Sri Khola on day three. A rough jeep road follows the trek from Mane Bhanjhang to Phalut but traffic is light and the walking trail partly avoids the road. Some organised groups start in Dhodrey and agencies offer a day hike from here to Tumling. A few fit die-hards cycle the route on mountain bikes in three days, though the section from Kalipokhari to Sandakphu is generally too steep to ride.

Private lodges, some with attached bathrooms, are available along the route for around ₹200 for a dorm bed or ₹700 to ₹1400 per room. All offer food, normally a filling combo of rice, dhal and vegetables (₹200). Rooms have clean bedding and blankets so sleeping bags are not strictly necessary, though they are nice to have. At a minimum, bring a sleeping bag liner and warm clothes for dawn peak viewing. The only place where finding a bed can be a problem is at Phalut where there is only one reliable place to stay. Bottled and boiled water is available along the route, though it's better and cheaper to purify your own water. Trekkers' huts can be booked at the GTA Tourist Reception Centre in Darjeeling but even they will tell you that you are better off at one of the private lodges.

The main lodges for each overnight stop are listed below in ascending order of price and quality:

Day 1: Trekkers' Hut, Mountain Lodge, Siddharta Lodge and Shikhar Lodge in Tumling; Trekkers' Hut in Tonglu

Day 2: Chewang Lodge in Kalipokhari; Trekkers' Hut, Namobuddha, Sunrise and Sherpa Chalet Lodge in Sandakphu

Day 3: Trekkers' Hut and Forest Rest House in Phalut

Day 4: Eden Lodge in Gorkhey; Trekkers' Hut, Namobuddha Lodge and Sherpa Lodge in Rammam

All-inclusive guided treks on this route are offered by Darjeeling agencies for about ₹3000 per person per day, though it's easy enough to arrange a DIY trek for less. Lodges can get booked out in the busy month of October and early November, so consider a mid- to late November itinerary if you're planning the trek in autumn.

Remember to bring your passport, as you'll have to register at half a dozen army checkpoints. The ridge forms the India–Nepal border and the trail actually enters Nepal in several places.

For a relaxing end to a trek, consider a stay at Karmi Farm

(www.karmifarm.com; per person incl full board ₹2000), a two-hour drive from Rimbik near Bijanbari. It's managed by Andrew Pulger-Frame, whose Sikkimese grandparents once ran an estate from the main house here. The simple but comfortable rooms are attractively decorated with colourful local fabrics, and bathrooms have 24-hour hot water. A small clinic for villagers is run from the farm, providing a volunteer opportunity for medical students and doctors. Singalila treks and other activities can be organised, but it is just as easy to sit here for a week with a book and a pot of tea, overlooking the bird- and flower-filled gardens in the foreground and towering peaks in the distance. Staff can arrange transport given advanced notice.

SINGALILA RIDGE TREK

DAY	ROUTE	DISTANCE (KM)
1	Mane Bhanjhang (2130m) to Tonglu (3070m)/Tumling (2980m) via Meghma Gompa	14
2	Tonglu to Sandakphu (3636m) via Kalipokhari & Garibas	17
3	Sandakphu to Phalut (3600m) via Sabarkum	17
4	Phalut to Rammam (2530m) via Gorkhey	16
5	Rammam to Sri Khola or Rimbik (2290m)	19

Kalimpong

☞ 03552 / POP 43,000 / ELEV 1250M

This bustling bazaar town sprawls along a saddle-shaped mountain ridge overlooking the roaring Teesta River and lorded over by the summit of Khangchendzonga. It's not a must-see, but it does boast Himalayan views, Buddhist monasteries, colonial-era architecture and a fascinating nursery industry, all linked by some fine hikes. You could easily fill three days here.

History

Kalimpong's early development as a major Himalayan trading centre focused on the tea and wool trade with Tibet, across the Jelep La Pass, as well as a staging base for Victorian travellers headed into Tibet. Like Darjeeling, Kalimpong once belonged to the chogyals of Sikkim, but it fell into the hands of the Bhutanese in the 18th century and later passed to the British, before becoming part of India at Independence. Scottish missionaries, particularly the Jesuits, made great efforts to win over the local Buddhists in the late 19th century and the town remains an important educational centre for the entire eastern Himalaya.

Kalimpong

Kalimpong

Sights

1 Lepcha Heritage Museum	D4
2 MacFarlane Church	C1
Nurseryman's Haven	A5
3 Pineview Nursery	A5

Activities, Courses & Tours

Anandavan Yog Peeth	A5
-------------------------------------	----

Sleeping

4 Cloud 9	B6
5 Elgin Silver Oaks	C3
6 Himalayan Hotel	C4
7 Holumba Haven	A5
8 Kalimpong Park Hotel	B6
9 Manokamana Lodge	D1

Eating

10 Cafe Refuel	B4
11 Gompu's Bar & Restaurant	A2
12 King Thai	A3
Lee's	B1
13 Paris Kalimpong Bakery	D1

Drinking & Nightlife

14 Art Cafe	C3
15 One Cup	B1

Shopping

16 Haat Bazaar	D1
17 Kashi Nath & Sons	A1
18 Lark's Provisions	B1

Transport

Himalayan Travellers	B2
Kalimpong Mainline Taxi Driver's Welfare Association	B2
Kalimpong Motor Transport	B2
19 Kalimpong Railway Out Agency	B1
Kalimpong, Sikkim All Highway Taxi Driver's Owner's Association	B2
20 Motor Stand	B2
21 Sikkim Nationalised Transport	A2

Sights

Durpin Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP) FREE

Kalimpong's largest monastery, formally known as Zangtok Pelri Phodang, sits atop panoramic Durpin Hill (1372m) and was consecrated by the Dalai Lama in 1976. There are impressive religious murals in the main prayer room downstairs (photography is permitted), interesting 3D mandalas (visual meditational aids) on the 2nd floor, and stunning Khangchendzonga views from the terrace. Prayers are held at 6am and 3pm.

MacFarlane Church

CHURCH

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

One of Kalimpong's most imposing churches, this 1870 church was severely damaged by a 2011 earthquake, when one of its steeples came crashing to the ground. After renovations, the church is now open to visitors and believers alike, and its wood-buttressed Gothic interiors are a wonderful place to spend a few moments in quiet contemplation.

Tharpa Choling Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP ; off KD Pradhan Rd;  5.30am-5pm) FREE

Built in 1922, this Gelugpa-school Tibetan monastery of 50 monks contains statues of the past, present and future Buddhas. Don't miss the fascinating museum, next to an unusual Chinese temple, just above the main monastery. It's a 30-minute walk (uphill) from town along KD Pradhan Rd, 50m past Tripai Rd.

Deolo Hill

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP ; 9km from Kalimpong; ₹50; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

On a clear day the morning views of Khangchendzonga from this hilltop park are simply superb. After savouring the views you can have breakfast (₹100 to ₹150) at the attached Tourist Lodge (from 8am) and then walk down to Kalimpong via Dr Graham's Home. A taxi here costs around ₹300.

Dr Graham's Home

HISTORIC BUILDING

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 museum 9am-noon & 1.15-3.30pm Mon-Fri) FREE

This orphanage and school was built in 1900 by Dr JA Graham, a Scottish missionary, to educate children of tea-estate workers, and now has 1300-odd students. There's a museum that commemorates Graham and his wife, Katherine. The 1925 chapel above the school seems lifted straight out of a Scotland parish, with its grey slate, spire and fine stained-glass windows.

The gate is 4km up the steep KD Pradhan Rd. Many people charter a taxi to get here (₹150) and then do the downhill walk back to town via Tharpa Choling Gompa and the Himalayan Handmade Paper Industry workshop. Shared minivans (₹30) run sporadically from below One Cup cafe.

Himalayan Handmade Paper Industry

WORKSHOP

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9932388321; Panlook Compound, KD Pradhan Rd; 🕒 9am-noon & 1-3pm Mon-Sat) FREE

Visitors are welcome to drop into this small unsigned workshop to see traditional paper-making processes, from boiling and pulping of the local argayli (daphne) bush to sifting, pressing and drying. The resulting insect-resistant paper is used to block-print monastic scriptures, but it is also sold as notebooks and cards. Morning is the best time to see production. It's a 15-minute walk from town, on the right side of the road.

Lepcha Heritage Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍9933780295; 🕒10.30am-4.30pm Mon-Fri) FREE

This offbeat collection of Lepcha treasures could be likened to rummaging through the attic of your grandfather's house (if he were a Lepcha elder). A guide explains Lepcha creation myths, while pointing out religious texts, sacred porcupine quill hats and old pangolin skins. It's a 10-minute walk downhill below the Sports Ground. Times vary so call ahead.

St Teresa's Church

CHURCH

(GOOGLE MAP)

A fascinating missionary church built in 1929 by Swiss Jesuits, St Teresa was constructed to incorporate designs from a Bhutanese gumpa. The wooden apostles resemble Buddhist monks, and carvings on the doors resemble the tashi tagye, eight auspicious symbols of Himalayan Buddhism. The church is off 9th Mile, about 2km downhill from town. If it's locked, ask the next-door neighbours.

DON'T MISS

NURSERIES

Kalimpong is a major flower exporter and produces about 80% of India's gladioli and sundry orchid varieties. Visit Nurseryman's Haven (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍03552-256936; Holumba Haven, 9th Mile) at Holumba Haven to see some 200-odd species of orchids; Santi Kunj (GOOGLE MAP ; BL Dixit Rd; 🕒8.30am-noon & 1.30-4pm Sun-Fri) to see anthuriums and the bird of paradise; and Pineview Nursery (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍03552-255843; Atisha Rd; admission ₹10; 🕒9am-5pm Mon-Sat) to gaze at its eminently photographable cactus collection.

Activities

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9635156911; www.himalayaneagle.in)

Manali-based pilots offers paragliding flights from Deolo Hill. Tandem flights cost ₹3000/5000 for a 5/15km flight from Deolo Hill. Weather conditions have to be perfect for flights.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

KALIMPONG WALKS

There's plenty of scope for some great walking around Kalimpong, so allow an extra day or two to stretch your legs. Helpdesk Tourism at Sherpa Lodge and Holumba Haven offer information on all these walks and can arrange guides (per day ₹800 to ₹1500) and transport if needed.

In Kalimpong itself, Helpdesk can arrange a half-day guided crafts walk (guide ₹600 to ₹800), taking in a traditional incense workshop, working silversmiths, noodle makers and a thangka (Tibetan cloth painting) studio, all hidden in the backstreet bazaars near Haat Bazaar.

One easy half-day walk close to town leads from near Holumba Haven to the villages of Challisey and Chibo Busty to a grand viewpoint over the Teesta River. En route, you can drop by the LK Pradhan Cactus Nursery and a small curd production centre at Tharker Farm, with the option of descending to see two fascinating traditional Lepcha houses at Ngassey village.

Heading further afield, one potential DIY hike starts at a wide track at 20th Mile, 2km past Algarah on the road to Pedong. The track climbs gently along a forested ridge to the faint 17th-century ruins of Damsang Dzong, site of the last stand of the Lepcha kings against the Bhutanese. Continue along the ridge and then descend to views of Khangchendzonga at Tinchuli Hill, before following the dirt road back from Sillery to the main Algarah–Pedong road. From here you can walk back 4km to Algarah to catch a shared jeep to Kalimpong (last jeep 3pm), or continue 3km to Pedong via the Bhutanese-influenced Sangchen Dorje Gompa in Sakyong Busty, just below Pedong. Buses and jeeps leave Kalimpong for Pedong (₹30 to ₹50) and Algarah (₹30) at 8.15am, or charter a return taxi for the day (₹1000 to ₹1500). If you want to stay overnight, the five cottages at the laid-back Silk Route Retreat, 1.5km before Pedong, offer a fine hiking base.

For the ultimate dawn and dusk views of Khangchendzonga, head to the Tiffin Dara viewpoint, just above the village of Rishap, about 30km from Kalimpong. A rough road branches off the main Kalimpong–Lava road and climbs for 3km to a signed footpath 1km before Rishap. The path detours left after 20 minutes to the viewpoint and, once back at the junction, it continues through forest for 45 minutes to rejoin the main Kalimpong–Lava road. Just before this junction, by some prayer flags, a shortcut footpath drops down to Lava village via the Forest Lodge. For transport take the 7am shared jeep to Lava (₹80) or the slower 8am bus (₹60). The last bus back to Kalimpong is at 1.30pm. A chartered one-way jeep costs ₹1600 to Rishap or ₹2000 for a day's return hire, taking in Lava.

Lava (2353m), 34km from Kalimpong, is a worthy destination in itself, especially if you time your walk with the bustling Tuesday market, or the 10am debating or 3.30pm prayers at the modern Kagyupa Thekchenling Gompa. Adjoining Lava is Neora Valley National Park (GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹60/200, vehicle hire ₹1500, guide ₹200; 🕒15 Sep-15 Jun), whose lush forests are home to red pandas, clouded leopards and myriad bird species. Jeep tours are available (₹1300 to ₹1600) and travel agents can arrange a four-day camping trek to Roche La (3155m), at the high junction of West Bengal, Sikkim and Bhutan. The cottages of the Lava Forest Lodge (📞033-23350064; www.wbfdc.com; Lava; d ₹800-1500) just above town offer the nicest accommodation but can be hard to book; try through West Bengal Tourism in Siliguri or Holumba Haven in Kalimpong. The private Hotel Orchid is another decent choice. Avoid October, when Bengali tourists flood the town. Shared jeeps (₹80) run back to Kalimpong when full, until around 3.30pm and there is one bus at 1.30pm.

Courses

Anandavan Yog Peeth

YOGA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞3552-256936; www.anandavanyogpeeth.com)

This Yoga Alliance–registered organisation runs 17-day yoga teacher-training courses for US$1400, based at Holumba Haven.

Tours

Gurudongma Tours & Travels

TREKKING

(📞03552-255204; www.astonishingindiatours.com; Rinkingpong Rd, Hilltop)

This local operator run by 'General Jimmy' organises interesting trekking, mountain-biking and birdwatching tours, based out of its luxury farmhouse on the Samthar Plateau.

Sleeping

Manokamana Lodge

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  03552-257047; manokamanalodge@gmail.com; DB Giri Rd; s/d ₹500/700;  )

This simple, family-run place is somewhere between a local hotel and a backpackers' dive. Its central location, combined with an internet cafe and an excellent-value restaurant add to its shoestring appeal, even though accommodation is fairly basic, characterised by linoleum-floored rooms and bucket hot water in clean attached bathrooms. Ask for one of the quieter rear rooms.

Deki Lodge

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP;  03552-255095; www.dekilodge.yolasite.com; Tripai Rd; s/d from ₹990/1100; )

This friendly Tibetan-owned place is set around a peaceful flower-hemmed family house, and boasts an airy terrace cafe. The rooms are plain and a tad overpriced for what's on offer, but the pricier upper-floor rooms (₹1330/1760) are comfortable, with shared balconies. It's a 10-minute walk northeast of the town centre, just up a side road.

★ Holumba Haven

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  03552-256936; www.holumba.com; 9th Mile; r ₹1800-3000; )

A unique and utterly charming property combining a nursery and a family-run guesthouse, Holumba is located amid sylvan settings a walkable 1km below town. The spotless, comfy rooms are arranged in cosy cottages spread around the lush orchid gardens, and good homestyle meals (preorders only) are available in the sociable dining room.

The owner Norden is a great source of information on local hikes and trips.

Kalimpong Park Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03552-255304; www.kalimpongparkhotel.com; Rinkingpong Rd; s/d ₹2530/3200; @ 📶)

This former summer home of the maharajas of Dinajpur is perched on a mountain shelf overlooking the Relli Valley, and packs in oodles of Raj-era charm. Wicker chairs and scarlet blossoms line the verandah and there's a charming lounge bar, along with a restaurant offering British boarding-school staples, such as jelly custard (order in advance).

Cloud 9

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03552-255410; cloudnine.kpg@gmail.com; Rinkingpong Rd; s/d from ₹1000/1400; 📶)

The five wood-panelled rooms on the 1st floor of this cheerful property are irreverently homey, and the restaurant below serves interesting Bhutanese dishes and chilled beer. Binod the owner is a Beatles junkie and loves to bond over music in the late evenings – he might even buy you a beer if you're good with the guitar! Front-facing rooms are brighter but slightly more expensive.

Himalayan Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03552-255248; www.himalayanhotel.com; Upper Cart Rd; s/d ₹2400/3600; 📶)

This historic hotel was opened by David MacDonald, an interpreter from Francis Younghusband's 1904 Lhasa mission, and over the years has housed such Himalayan legends as Alexandra David-Neel, Heinrich Harrer and Charles Bell. The brash Mayfair chain recently bought the property and renovations are underway, so it remains to be seen how much ambience will survive.

Elgin Silver Oaks

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03552-255296; www.elginhotels.com; Rinkingpong Rd; s/d incl full board ₹8100/8400; @ 📶)

This centrally located Raj-era homestead-turned-heritage hotel packs plenty of atmosphere but isn't brilliantly run. The rooms are plushly furnished and offer grand views down the valley towards the Relli River (ask for a garden-view room). The tariff includes all meals in the classy restaurant.

Hotel Orchid

HOTEL $$

( 03552-282213; www.hotelorchid.com; Lava; d ₹1200-2200)

A middle-of-town inn featuring 12 bright pine-skirted rooms, fresh linen and clean bathrooms with hot water, the Orchid is one of Lava's few overnight options. There's some decent Chinese food available in the in-house restaurant on the ground floor.

Silk Route Retreat

RESORT $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  9932828753; www.thesilkrouteretreat.com; 21st Mile, Pedong; s/d cottage ₹1600/2500; )

The five clean and modern cottages make a good base for hiking or biking the region (hiking guides are available) and the food is good (mains ₹180 to ₹250), with a sociable verandah hang-out.

Eating

Gompu's Bar & Restaurant

TIBETAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gompu's Hotel, off DB Giri Rd; mains ₹120-200;  7am-9pm)

Gompu's is known for its signature oversized pork momos (₹130), which have been drawing locals and travellers alike for as long as anyone can remember. Lunchtime is the best time to find them. It's also a good place for a cold beer (₹210) chased by a plate of garlic chilli potatoes or crispy pork.

Lee's

CHINESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP;  9593305812; DB Giri Rd; mains ₹80-150, set meal ₹250;  11am-7.30pm Mon-Sat)

Mr Lee and his daughter serve up fantastic and unique Chinese-style dishes at this eatery with a red interior. Stand-out dishes include the mun wontons (dumplings fried in egg), mun chu nyuk (red pork), homemade mefun (rice noodles), a delectable golden chicken in garlic gravy and a refreshing pot of good-quality green tea. It's on the top floor above One Cup cafe.

Paris Kalimpong Bakery

BAKERY $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; DB Giri Rd; pastries ₹30-50; 🕒 9am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Surprising French-owned bakery that serves up excellent baguettes, eclairs, cheese brioches, quiches and cakes, plus coffee. Opening hours can be erratic but it's worth persevering.

King Thai

CHINESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 3rd fl supermarket, DB Giri Rd; mains ₹160-200; 🕒 11am-9pm)

A multicultural hang-out with a Thai name, Chinese food and Bob Marley posters on the walls, this place draws in monks, businessmen and Tibetan cool kids. The generously portioned food is mainly Chinese with some Indian accents, and there's a bar with comfy chairs.

Cafe Refuel

INTERNATIONAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.caferefuel.com; Rishi Rd, 9th Mile; 🕒 10.30am-8pm)

Cool place with a motorbike-themed decor that uses classic old Vespas for counter seats. The food has a Mexican twist, with homemade nachos and burritos, hamburgers, pizza and pita sandwiches, plus espresso coffee and a foosball table to keep things lively.

Drinking & Nightlife

★ Art Cafe

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Rishi Rd; coffee ₹40; 🕒 10am-7pm)

Cool cafe with a breezy terrace offering fine views over the Teesta Valley towards Darjeeling. There is good coffee, shakes, lemonade coolers (served in Mason jars) and great thin-crust pizzas (₹160 to ₹180), plus magazines to read. It's a good place to meet Kalimpong's hip set, especially as there's no wi-fi.

One Cup

CAFE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; DB Giri Rd; coffee ₹50-90; 🕒 11am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Kalimpong's first coffee house serves a decent espresso hit, alongside some quality cakes, brownies and ice-cream specials. No wi-fi.

Shopping

Lark's Provisions

FOOD & DRINKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; DB Giri Rd; 🕒 9.30am-6.30pm)

This is the best place to pick up local cheese (per kg ₹600), produced in Kalimpong since the Jesuits established a dairy here in the 19th century. It also sells locally made milky lollipops (₹30) and yummy homemade pickles.

Haat Bazaar

MARKET

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; btwn Relli & RC Mintri Rds)

On Wednesdays and especially Saturdays, this normally quiet bazaar roars to life with a plethora of merchandise ranging from food and textiles, to objects of daily life and sundry other knick-knacks.

Kashi Nath & Sons

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; DB Giri Rd; 🕒 10am-6.30pm Mon-Sat)

This, and the attached stationary shop next door, has a modest collection of Himalayan titles, plus some international bestselling novels and nonfiction titles.

Information

Cyber Infotech (GOOGLE MAP); per hr ₹30; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat; 📶) Tiny internet cafe opposite Gompu's that offers computers and wi-fi.

Helpdesk Tourism (GOOGLE MAP); 📞 7363818059, 8967938378; helpdesktourism@gmail.com; Sherpa Lodge; 🕒 9am-5pm) This private information centre on the ground floor of Sherpa Lodge offers guides, a useful map and information on trips around Kalimpong, including hikes and regional homestays. Ask for Jigme or Norden.

Post Office (GOOGLE MAP); Rinkingpong Rd; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Fri, to 4pm Sat)

State Bank of India ATM (GOOGLE MAP); DB Giri Rd) One of several ATMs located together.

Tourist Reception Centre (DGHC; GOOGLE MAP); 📞 03552-257992; DB Giri Rd; 🕒 10am-4.30pm Mon-Sat, closed 2nd & 4th Sat) Sleepy staff can organise local tours and accommodation.

i Getting There & Away

All the bus and jeep options and their offices are found next to each other at the chaotic Motor Stand (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

BUS & JEEP

Bengal government NBSTC buses run hourly to Siliguri (₹80, 2½ hours).

Himalayan Travellers (MAP GOOGLE MAP); 📞 9434166498; Motor Stand) This helpful transport company runs shared jeeps to Lava (₹80, 1½ hours, five daily from 7am).

Kalimpong Mainline Taxi Driver's Welfare Association (KMTDWA; MAP GOOGLE MAP); Motor Stand) Frequent shared jeeps to Siliguri (₹130, 2½ hours) and two daily to Jorethang (₹100, two hours, 7.30am and noon).

Kalimpong Motor Transport (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Motor Stand) Frequent shared jeeps (₹130, three hours) to Darjeeling until midafternoon, plus charters (₹1800).

Kalimpong, Sikkim All Highway Taxi Driver's Owner's

Association (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 259544; Motor Stand) Shared jeeps to Gangtok (₹140, three hours, hourly until 11.30am), Ravangla (₹150, 3½ hours, 2pm) and Namchi (₹110, 8am and 1pm) in Sikkim.

Sikkim Nationalised Transport (SNT; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Ongden Rd) Operates a single bus to Gangtok (₹105, three hours) departing at 1pm from opposite the Motor Stand.

TRAIN

Kalimpong Railway Out Agency (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Mani Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, to 1pm Sun) Sells train tickets from New Jalpaiguri (NJP) train station but has no tourist quota.

Getting Around

Taxis (mostly unmarked minivans) can be chartered for local trips from along DB Giri Rd. A half-day rental to see most of the sights should cost ₹1000.

Bihar & Jharkhand

Patna

Vaishali

Kesariya

Motihari

Raxaul

Gaya

Bodhgaya

Rajgir

Nalanda

Ranchi

Betla (Palamau) National Park

Bihar & Jharkhand

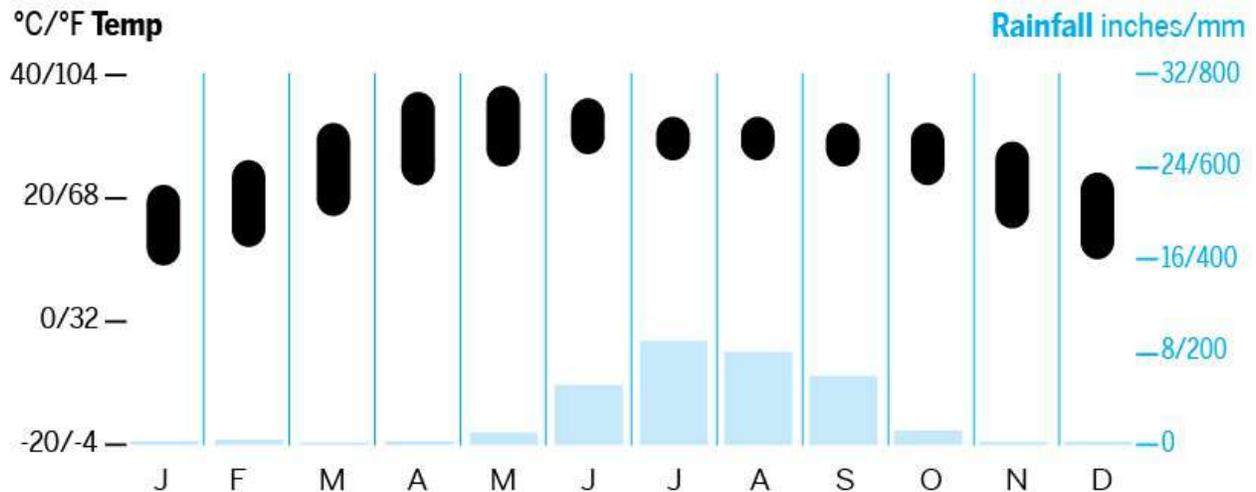

Why Go?

Remote and rural, Bihar is the birthplace of Buddhism – indeed its very name derives from vihara, the Sanskrit word for Buddhist monastery. Thousands of pilgrims from around the world throng its many places of religious significance, most extraordinary of which is Bodhgaya, the site of Buddha's enlightenment, where getting caught up in the spiritual atmosphere is a major draw for travellers. In tribal Jharkhand, holy Parasnath Hill is a revered Jain pilgrimage site, and joining devotees on the hike to the top is a surreal highlight for those who like to get off the beaten track.

Truth be told, the whole of this region is off the beaten track. Outside Bodhgaya, foreign tourists are almost nonexistent, so if you're looking to sidestep mainstream travel, and especially if you have an interest in Buddhism, this unfashionable pocket of India could be an unexpected highlight.

When to Go

Patna

→ Jan & Feb Temperatures hover between a chilly-to-pleasant 12°C and 25°C.

→ Jun–Sep Monsoon season. Steer clear – Bihar is India’s most flood-prone state.

→ Oct & Nov Warm days in October and comfortably cool in November.

Best Places to Eat

- Mohammad Restaurant
- Be Happy Cafe
- Pind Balluchi
- Nook

Best Places to Sleep

- Rahul Guest House
- Hotel Nalanda Regency
- Chanakya BNR Hotel

→ Hotel President

Bihar & Jharkhand Highlights

① Bodhgaya Witnessing Buddhists from around the world praying, prostrating and meditating at the powerfully serene site of Buddha's enlightenment.

② Parasnath Hill Getting up at 4am for the surreal day-long Jain pilgrimage to the top of Jharkhand's tallest peak.

③ Nalanda Visiting the peaceful ruins of this once-huge ancient university.

④ Rajgir Hiring a tonga (two-wheeled horse-drawn carriage) for the day to explore the myriad Buddhist sites and stupas of this laid-back village.

⑤ Betla \(Palamau\) National Park Touring the deliciously peaceful forests of this protected area to spot wild elephants, gaur (wild bison) and spotted deer.

⑥ Vaishali Walking through northern Bihari villages to the ancient stupas and ruins of this Buddhist pilgrimage spot.

History

Bihar's ancient history kicks off with the arrival of Prince Siddhartha during the 6th century BC, who spent many years here before leaving, enlightened, as the Buddha. Mahavira, a contemporary of Buddha and the founder of Jainism, was born in Bihar and attained nirvana near Nalanda at the age of 72. In the 4th century BC, after Chandragupta Maurya conquered the Magadha kingdom and its capital Pataliputra (now Patna), he expanded into the Indus Valley and created the first great Indian empire. His grandson and successor, Ashoka, ruled the Mauryan empire from Pataliputra, which was one of the largest cities in the world at that time. Emperor Ashoka embraced Buddhism, erecting stupas, monuments and his famous Ashokan pillars throughout northern India, notably at Sarnath (Uttar Pradesh) and Sanchi (Madhya Pradesh). In Bihar, Ashoka built the original shrine on the site of today's Mahabodhi Temple in Bodhgaya and the lion-topped pillars at Vaishali and Lauriya Nandangarh.

Bihar continued to be coveted by a succession of major empires until the Magadha region rose to glory again during the reign of the Guptas (7th and 8th centuries AD). With the decline of the Mughal empire in the 17th century AD, Bihar came under the control of Bengal until 1912, when a separate state was formed. Part of this state later became Orissa (Odisha) and, more recently in 2000, Jharkhand.

BIHAR

Most people travel to Bihar to visit the hallowed Buddhist circuit of Bodhgaya, Rajgir, Nalanda and Vaishali, with Patna as a transport hub. It's not the easiest state to visit, with limited English and higher than normal levels of chaos, but explorers will enjoy tracking down the many fascinating, off-the-beaten track destinations waiting to be discovered.

Patna

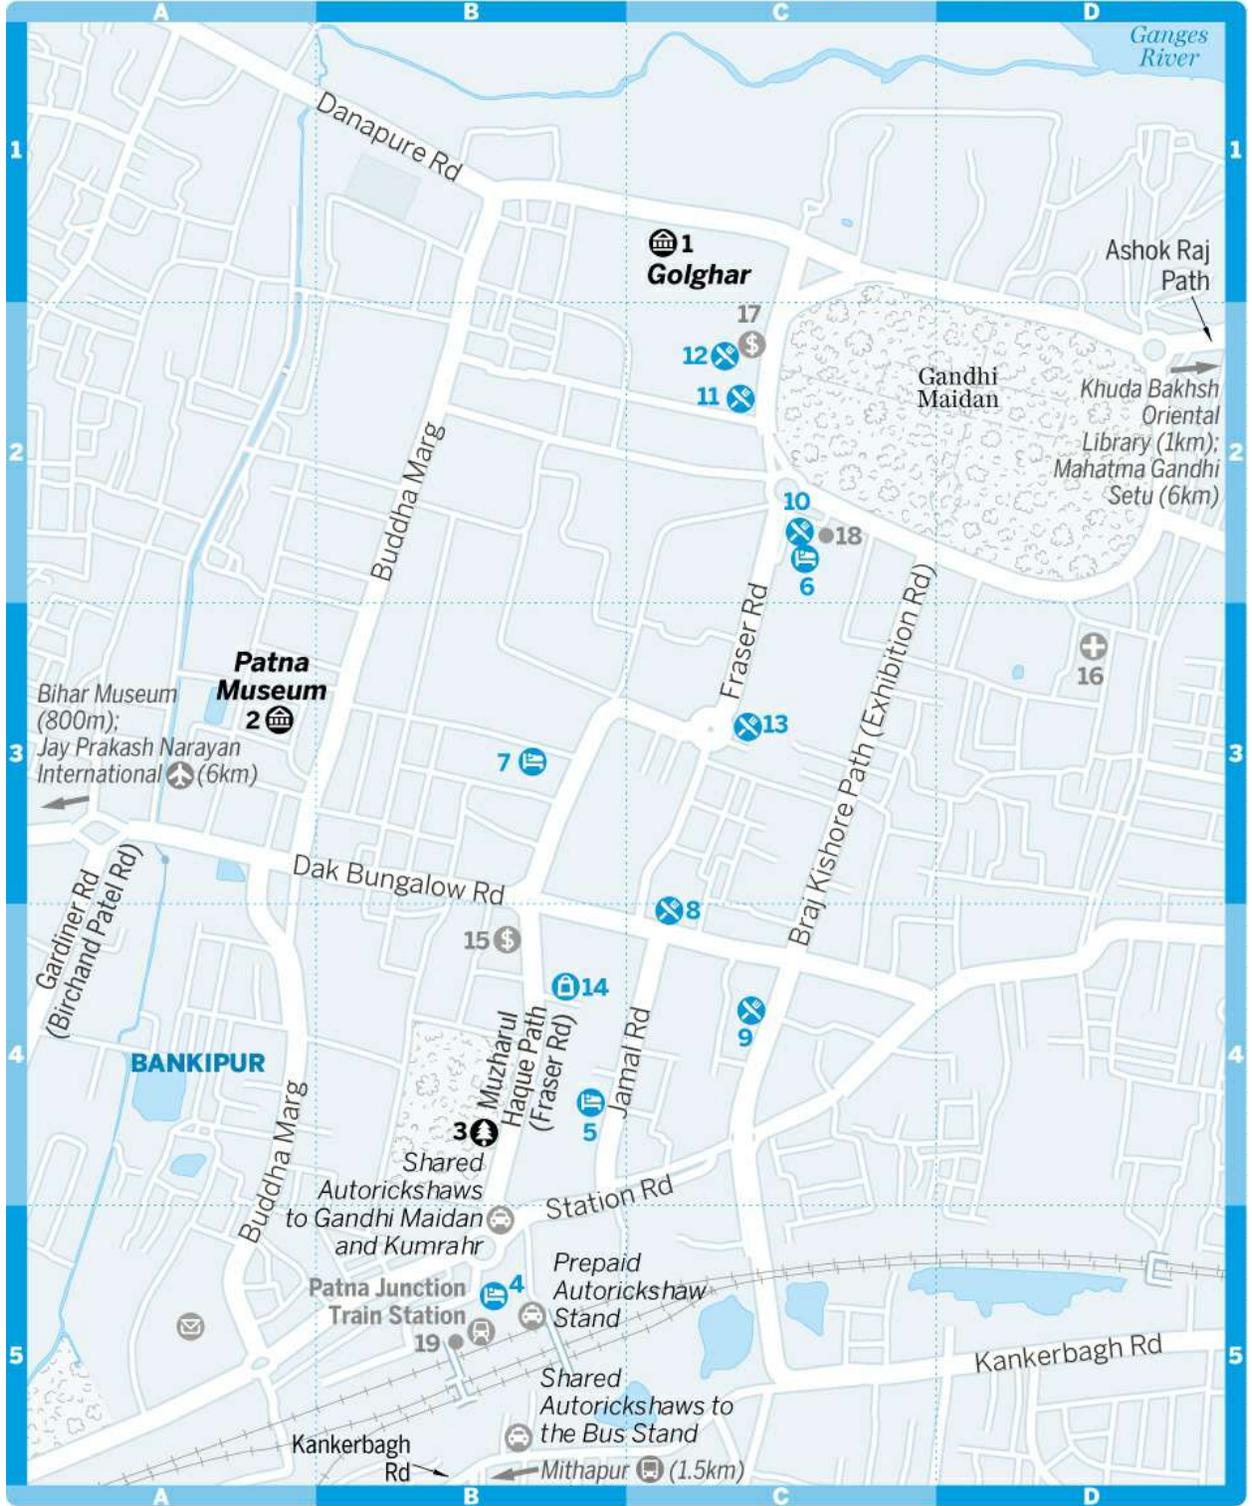

📍0612 / POP 1,697,900

Bihar's chaotic capital sprawls along the south bank of the Ganges for 15km, just east of the river's confluence with three major tributaries. Patna has a couple of worthwhile sights but it's a noisy, congested city that's used mostly as a transport hub, or as a base for day trips to sights in northern Bihar.

For more than a millennium Patna was one of India's most powerful cities. Early in the 5th century BC, Ajatasatru shifted the capital of his Magadha kingdom from Rajgir to Pataliputra (Patna), fulfilling Buddha's prophecy that a great city would arise here. Emperors Chandragupta Maurya and Ashoka also called Pataliputra home, making it the centre of empires that stretched across most of the subcontinent. Little trace of these glory days remains.

Patna

0 0 500 m
0 0.25 miles

Patna

Top Sights

- | | | |
|---|------------------------------|----|
| 1 | Golghar | C1 |
| 2 | Patna Museum | A3 |

Sights

- | | | |
|---|------------------------------------|----|
| 3 | Buddha Smriti Park | B4 |
|---|------------------------------------|----|

Sleeping

- | | | |
|---|------------------------------------|----|
| 4 | Hotel City Centre | B5 |
| 5 | Hotel Clark Inn | B4 |
| 6 | Hotel Maurya Patna | C2 |
| 7 | Hotel President | B3 |

Eating

- | | | |
|----|---------------------------------------|----|
| 8 | Baba Hotel | C4 |
| 9 | Bellpepper Restaurant | C4 |
| 10 | Bollywood Treats | C2 |
| 11 | Litti Chokha Stall | C2 |
| 12 | Pind Balluchi | C2 |
| 13 | Tandoor Hut | C3 |

Shopping

- | | | |
|----|------------------------|----|
| 14 | Ajanta | B4 |
|----|------------------------|----|

Information

- | | | |
|----|--|----|
| 15 | Axis Bank | B4 |
| 16 | Dr Ruban Memorial Hospital | D3 |
| 17 | State Bank of India | C2 |
| 18 | Thomas Cook | C2 |

Transport

- | | | |
|----|--|----|
| 19 | Foreign-Tourist Ticket Counter | B5 |
|----|--|----|

★ Patna Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Marg; Indian/foreigner ₹15/250, camera ₹100; 🕒 10.30am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

Housed in a majestic colonial-era building, this museum contains a splendid collection of Mauryan and Gupta stone sculptures, some beautiful bronze Buddhist statuary, and a gallery of early-19th-century landscape paintings by Thomas and William Daniells. Don't miss the fine collection of thangkas (Tibetan cloth paintings) brought to India by the Benagli Tibetologist and traveller Rahul Sankrityayan in the early 20th century.

★ Golghar

HISTORIC BUILDING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Danapure Rd; ₹5; 🕒 10am-6pm)

For a dome with a view, climb this massive, bulbous granary, built by the British army in 1786 and renovated in 2016. The idea behind its construction was to avoid a repeat of the terrible 1770 famine – look for the old carved sign on one side, reading: 'For the perpetual prevention of famine in these provinces' – although fortunately it was never required.

Bihar Museum

MUSEUM

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0612-2235732; www.biharmuseum.org; Bailey Rd (Jawaharlal Nehru Marg))

This impressive new museum, one of the largest in south Asia, was only partially opened at time of research but when finished it will boast three impressive history galleries, plus displays on contemporary art and ethnic groups of Bihar. It may well poach some of the finer pieces of the Patna Museum, including the famous Mauryan-era Didarganj Yakshi statue, dating from the 3rd century BC.

Buddha Smriti Park

PARK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Muzharal Haque Path (Fraser Rd); park ₹20, museum ₹40; 🕒 9am-7pm Tue-Sun)

This peaceful 9-hectare park, inaugurated by the Dalai Lama in 2010, is notable for its massive sandblasted charcoal stupa (₹50), which houses a unique, bulletproof relic chamber, and sapling plantings from both the Bodhi Tree in Bodhgaya and Anuradhapura in Sri Lanka. The strikingly modern Buddhist museum is worthwhile, and there is a library (₹50) and a meditation centre (free).

TOP FESTIVALS

Pataliputra Mahotsava (Patna; 🕒 Mar) A celebration of Patna's historic past with parades, sports, dancing and music.

Chhath Festival (Bihar & Jharkhand; 🕒 Oct/Nov) People perform sunset and sunrise rituals on the banks of rivers and ponds to honour Surya, the Sun God.

Rajgir Mahotsava A performing-arts gala with dances, devotional songs and instrumental music.

Sonepur Mela (Sonepur; 🕒 Nov/Dec) With 700,000 attendees and countless thousands of animals taking part, this three-week festival is four times the size of Pushkar's Camel Fair.

Sleeping

Most budget hotels in Patna do not accept foreigners.

Hotel Clark Inn

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9939726620; Jamal Rd; r from ₹660)

The cheapest hotel we could find that welcomed foreigners, Clark Inn has simple budget rooms with TVs and squat toilets, or bigger and cleaner rooms with air coolers (₹1100). Some have small balconies.

★ Hotel President

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0612-2209203; www.hotelpresidentpatna.com; off Fraser Rd; s/d ₹2020/2620; 🌐 @ 📶)

This recently remodelled, family-run hotel is in a useful and relatively quiet location off Fraser Rd and close to Patna Museum. Rooms – all with air-con – are spacious, stylish and fresh, with TV, seating areas and hot-water bathrooms. Some have small balconies. It's an excellent lower midrange choice, especially if you can get a discount.

Hotel City Centre

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0612-2208687; www.hotelcitycentre.in; Station Rd; d incl breakfast with/without AC ₹2000/1000; 🌐 📶)

This modern glass tower to your right just as you exit the train station is temptingly convenient for a transit overnigher. Rooms are simple but decent value (non-air-con rooms have squat toilets), staff are helpful and there are several restaurants on the ground floor. The upper floors are a bit of a rabbit warren.

Hotel Maurya Patna

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0612-2203040; www.maurya.com; Gandhi Maidan; s/d incl breakfast ₹15,780/17,000; 🌐 @ 📶 🚰)

Patna's top business hotel has tastefully furnished rooms, a rather barren pool, a couple of nice restaurants and a gym. It all adds up to comfort rather than luxury. Booking online can bring discounts of 50%.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for this chapter (referring to double rooms with bathroom in high season, and including taxes):

$ less than ₹1000

$$ ₹1000–2500

$$$ more than ₹2500

Baba Hotel

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Dak Bungalow Rd; mains ₹70-110; 🕒 9am-10pm)

Clean, good-value, pocket-sized restaurant serving Indian and Chinese dishes (including some good vegetarian options), as well as ₹85 to ₹95 thalis.

Litti Chokha Stall

STREET FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; opposite Gandhi Maidan; per plate ₹15)

One of numerous streetside stalls dotted around the city cooking up Patna's signature snack: litti chokha (grilled chickpea-powder dough balls served with a side sauce of mashed tomatoes, aubergine and potatoes).

Bollywood Treats

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Gandhi Maidan; mains ₹80-150; 🕒 noon-9pm)

This somewhat anaemic fast-food place dishes out South Indian snacks, Chinese stir-fries, decent pizza and tempting brownies to Patna's blossoming middle class. There is a Baskin-Robbins ice-cream kiosk, and it serves instant coffee (₹115). Opens at noon, but doesn't start serving food until 1pm.

★ Bellpepper Restaurant

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Hotel Windsor, Braj Kishore Path (Exhibition Rd); mains ₹120-320; 🕒 11am-3pm & 7-10.30pm; 🍷)

Intimate and contemporary, this small restaurant inside Hotel Windsor is popular for its tandoori dishes. The murg tikka lababdar (boneless tandoori chicken basted with garlic, ginger, green chillies, and a pistachio- and cashew-nut paste) is melt-in-your-mouth sinful. The biryanis are good here too.

Pind Balluchi

NORTH INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0612-2219101; www.pindballuchi.com; 16-18 fl, Biscomaun Tower, Gandhi Maidan; 🕒 noon-10pm; 🍷)

For Patna's best food and views, head to this revolving restaurant with ever-shifting vistas over Gandhi Maidan, Golghar and the Ganges beyond. The kebabs are excellent (try the murgh malai kebab), and there is a full range of vegetarian dishes such as kadai paneer, and fine kheer for dessert. Enter on the north side of the building.

Tandoor Hut

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 delivery 9386851333; Fraser Rd; kebabs ₹150-180; 🕒 11am-11pm)

Streetside grill that serves delicious kebabs and other tandoor offerings, as well as huge biryanis and curries. Eat on-site or take them back to your hotel. The chicken malai and reshmi kebabs are both superb.

NO ALCOHOL

Since 2016 Bihar has been a dry state, so there's no alcohol of any kind for sale.

Shopping

Ajanta

ARTS & CRAFTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Fraser Rd; 🕒 10.30am-9pm Mon-Sat, 1-8pm Sun)

This unassuming little shop has a delightful selection of colourful Mithila (Madhubani) paintings secreted away in drawers and cupboards. Prices range from ₹300 (handmade paper) to ₹950 (silk). It's next to Harrison's Hotel.

Information

MEDICAL SERVICES

Dr Ruban Memorial Hospital

HOSPITAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 0612-2320446, 0612-2320404; www.rubanpatliputrahospital.com; Gandhi Maidan; 🕒 24hr)

Emergency room, clinic and pharmacy.

MONEY

Axis Bank

BANK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Fraser Rd; 🕒 9.30am-3.30pm Mon-Fri & 1st & 3rd Sat of month)

Exchanges currency and has ATMs.

State Bank of India

BANK

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Gandhi Maidan; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri & 1st & 3rd Sat of month)

Exchanges currency and travellers cheques. Has ATMs.

TRAVEL AGENCIES

Thomas Cook

TRAVEL AGENCY

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0612-2221699, 9334942188; www.thomascook.in; Hotel Maurya, Patna Arcade; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

Helpful for booking airline tickets and car rental. Also exchanges currency with a ₹150 commission. Contact Sami.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Patna's Jay Prakash Narayan International Airport is 8km southwest of the city centre. Between them, Air India (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0612-2223199; www.airindia.in; Patna airport), IndiGo (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 1800 1803838; www.goindigo.in; Patna airport), Go Air (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0612-2227148; Patna airport) and Jet Airways (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0612-2223045; www.jetairways.com; Patna airport) fly direct daily to Delhi and Kolkata, with onward connections to other cities.

BUS

The main bus stand occupies a large, dusty space about 1.5km southwest of the train station (₹10 shared autos run here from the back of the train station). It's a noisy, anarchic place, with little English and no booking offices, but if you walk into the chaos telling people where you want to go, you'll eventually get directed to the right bus; buy tickets on-board.

There are frequent services throughout the day to the following destinations:

- ➔ Gaya ₹100, three hours; there are also a couple of direct buses a day to Bodhgaya (₹120)
- ➔ Kesariya ₹80, three hours
- ➔ Motihari ₹145 to ₹170, 4½ hours
- ➔ Ranchi AC/non-AC ₹350/280, eight hours
- ➔ Raxaul AC/non-AC ₹230/180, six hours
- ➔ Vaishali ₹50, two hours

There are also 9pm sleeper buses to Ranchi and Raxaul.

CAR

Hiring a car and driver can be done through Thomas Cook, starting from ₹12 per kilometre (minimum 200km) plus a driver allowance of ₹300 per overnight stay. A taxi from Patna to Bodhgaya costs around ₹3000.

TRAIN

Patna Junction has a foreign-tourist ticket counter (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Window 3, Patna Junction train station; 🕒 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun) at the 1st-floor reservation office, in the right-hand wing of the train station.

Trains leave roughly hourly for Gaya (2nd class/AC chair ₹25/260, two to three hours), with the 11.40am Patna-Hatiya Express offering air-con chair seats. For other trains just buy a 2nd-class 'general' ticket and hop on the next available service.

More than a dozen daily trains leave for New Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹490/1300/1860, 12 to 18 hours); the quickest and most convenient time-wise is the RJPB Rajdhani (3AC/2AC/1AC ₹2180/2660/3765), which leaves at 7.25pm and arrives in Delhi at 7.40am.

Ten daily trains go to Kolkata (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹340/890/1250, eight to 14 hours). The best time-wise is probably the Vibhuti Express (10.35pm, nine hours).

At least 20 daily trains go to Varanasi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹200/540/740, four to six hours) between 5am and 9pm.

Three fast trains go to Ranchi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹250/670/960, eight to 10 hours), leaving at 6am, 11.40am and 9.45pm. The first two trains offer chair-car class (₹540 to ₹630)

The most comfortable option to Rajgir is air-con chair car (₹260, three hours) on the 9.15am 13234 Rajgriha Express.

Note that you may also find trains arriving at Patna's minor stations, such as Rajendra Nagar, 3km east of Patna Junction, or inconvenient Patna Sahib, 11km east.

Getting Around

Autorickshaws/taxis to Patna airport cost ₹160/350 from the prepaid autorickshaw stand (GOOGLE MAP; Patna Junction train station) by the train station.

Cramped shared autorickshaws (GOOGLE MAP) depart from in front of the train station for Gandhi Maidan (₹7). Head to the rear of the train station for autorickshaws (GOOGLE MAP) to the bus stand (₹10).

A metro system is currently under construction, allegedly due for completion in 2021.

PRECAUTIONS

Bihar and Jharkhand have a reputation for lawlessness. Conditions have improved in recent years, and bandit activity – such as holding up cars, buses and trains – is only a remote possibility.

- ➔ Locals will advise you to avoid travelling after dark or hiking in the hills alone, and this is a sensible precaution.
- ➔ Although tourists are not specific targets, it's a good idea to keep up to date with the latest info; check the newspapers Bihar Times (www.bihartimes.in) or Patna Daily (www.patnadaily.com) before arrival.

Vaishali

📍06225

A quiet, yet significant Buddhist pilgrimage site, Vaishali, 55km northwest of Patna, makes a lovely rural escape from hectic Patna. The small museum is engaging, while the ruins of Kolhua are wonderfully serene. Simply walking around the surrounding villages and farmland is a treat in itself.

The bus from Patna will drop you at a junction, from where it's a 1km walk west past monasteries built by Thai, Cambodian and Vietnamese Buddhists to the large ancient coronation water tank known as Abhishek Pushkarini. On the left side of the tank is the modern, whitewashed, Japanese-built World Peace Pagoda (GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk).

On the opposite side of the tank, and of more historical interest, is the Buddha Relic Stupa (GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk). The 5th-century stupa, originally 12m tall, is now in ruins, but it was once one of the eight locations in which Buddha's ashes were interred. The soapstone relic casket housing the ashes now resides in Patna Museum. The small Archaeological Museum (GOOGLE MAP ; admission ₹10; 🕒 9am-5pm Sat-Thu) here contains some fine 1000-year-old Buddhist statuary and an intriguing 1st- to 2nd-century-AD toilet pan. It also has an interesting scale model of the nearby site of Kolhua.

Between the Buddha Relic Stupa and the Archaeological Museum, a single-lane countryside road winds its way north through farming villages to the Kolhua Complex (GOOGLE MAP ; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200; 🕒 dawn-dusk), 5km away. It's worth making time for this very pleasant walk, although shared autos also make the trip. Set in a landscaped park, Kolhua comprises a large, hemispherical brick stupa guarded by a lion crouching atop a 2300-year-old Ashoka pillar. The pillar is plain and contains none of the Ashokan edicts usually carved onto these pillars. Nearby are the ruins of smaller stupas, monastic buildings where Buddha spent several monsoons, and also one of the first ever Buddhist nunneries. According to legend, Buddha was given a bowl of honey here by monkeys, who also dug out the rainwater tank for his water supply.

Eating options are limited in Vaishali. The best place to grab lunch is the Buddha Fun & Food Village (GOOGLE MAP; 📍997316874; mains ₹80-200), located at the southeastern corner of the ceremonial tank. The outdoor seating of thatched huts is pleasant and cottage accommodation is available.

Buses run every hour or so from Patna to Vaishali, and on to Kesariya. The last bus back to Patna swings by the main road at around 4pm.

Kesariya

Rising high out of the earth from where the dying Buddha donated his begging bowl, the enormous Kesariya Stupa (GOOGLE MAP; 🕒dawn-dusk) is an enthralling example of how nature can reclaim a deserted monument. Excavated from under a grassy and wooded veil is one of the world's tallest (38m) Buddhist stupas dating from the Pala period (200–750 AD). Above the 425m-circumference pedestal are five uniquely shaped terraces that form a gargantuan Buddhist tantric mandala. Each terrace has a number of niches containing disfigured Buddha statues, which were destroyed during attacks by foreign invaders in the Middle Ages. The rural setting is a joy, but there is nothing else to see here apart from the stupa and you are not allowed to climb it.

Buses from Patna (via Vaishali) can drop you by the stupa, which is visible from the main road. The last bus back swings by at around 3.30pm. Buses from Motihari will drop you at the main crossroads in the village of Kesariya, where there are roadside dhabas (casual eateries, serving snacks and basic meals) that you could have lunch in, leaving you with a 2km walk or rickshaw ride south. If you can't find a direct onward bus to Motihari from Kesariya village, take one to the junction of Khajuriya and change there.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

LAURIYA NANDANGARH

Fans of Buddhist history will enjoy the off-beat trip to the huge stupa at Lauriya Nandangarh, 25km northwest of Bettiah. The 2000-year-old, 25m-tall brick stupa consists of five circular and zig-zag terraces. The upper section remains covered in foliage and you can climb up for views of the pancake-flat countryside. To get here from the west end of town head 2km south and take a left just past the sugar/ethanol factory, following the factory wall for 1km. An autorickshaw costs around ₹150 return.

Also at the west end of town, 500m north of the main junction, is an 18.5m tall Ashoka pillar, one of only a handful remaining that feature all six of Ashoka's edicts, along with a seated lion carving on top, and the only such pillar still in its original location. Look for the colonial-era graffiti dating from 1873.

To get here from Motihari take one of the frequent buses to Bettiah (₹40, 90 minutes) and then take a Ramnagar-bound bus to Lauriya Nandangarh (₹30, 45 minutes). On the return you might find a Patna-bound bus direct to Motihari. For Raxaul take a cramped share jeep to Sagauli (₹30) and change there, or hire an entire jeep to the border for ₹1200.

If you are travelling in a hired vehicle from Patna and Kesariya, you can stop to visit another Ashoka pillar en route, just west of the village of Lauriya Areraj, 37km southeast of Bettiah.

Motihari

📍 06252 / POP 100,000

Bustling Motihari is not a particularly pleasant town but you may need to change buses here en route to Kesariya, Raxaul or Lauriya Nandangarh. If you need to stay, the modern and friendly Hotel Rajeshwari Palace (GOOGLE MAP; 06252-222222; Main (Bank) Rd; r with/without AC from ₹2000/1000; 🏠 📶) has fresh, clean rooms 10 minutes' walk west of the bus stand.

Frequent buses head to Patna (₹145 to ₹170, 4½ hours), Raxaul (₹50, 2½ hours) and Kesariya (₹40, two hours), from where you can catch passing buses to Vaishali.

Raxaul

📍06255 / POP 41,600

Raxaul is a dusty, congested border town that provides passage into Nepal via a hassle-free border post. It's no place to linger, but if you must spend the night, Hotel Kaveri (📍06255-221148; Main Rd; r with/without AC ₹1200/500; 🏨), on the main road leading to the border (about 1km from the border), has decent air-con rooms with modern bathrooms, and very basic non-AC rooms with tap-and-bucket showers, but shared toilets. Restaurants are scarce and none have English menus; the dhaba opposite Hotel Kaveri is probably your best bet.

The bus stand is 200m down a lane off the main road, about 2km from the border on the right. There are frequent buses, day and night, to Patna (AC/non-AC ₹230/180, seven to eight hours) via Motihari (₹50, 2½ hours). The road to Motihari is dreadfully bumpy so sit near the front of the bus if you can.

The train station is off the main road, 750m from the border, but isn't well connected. The Mithila Express runs daily to Kolkata (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹365/990/1425, 18 hours, 10am). The Satyagrah Express runs daily to New Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹455/1215/1765, 24 hours, 9.05am).

CROSSING TO NEPAL: RAXAUL TO BIRGANJ

The busy border crossing between Raxaul and Birganj, open from 6am to 10pm, is the most direct route to Kathmandu and eastern Nepal.

Nepali 15-, 30- and 90-day visas (US$25/40/100 and one passport photo) are only available from 6am to 6pm on the Nepal side of the border.

No banks change money in Raxaul but there are many private money changers on both sides of the border. The State Bank of India (📍GOOGLE MAP; 🕒10.30am-4.30pm Mon-Fri, to 1.30pm Sat), on the main road in Raxaul, has an ATM. Note that Nepali rupees trade at a different rate to Indian rupees.

Onward Transport

On the Nepal side, the town of Birganj is about 3km from the border. You are free to walk across the border to Birganj, or shared autorickshaws and tongas (two-wheeled horse carriages) charge NRs25 per person from the border to Birganj. A cycle-rickshaw costs about NRs300.

From Birganj, there are frequent buses to Kathmandu (ordinary/deluxe/AC NRs550/600/800, six to seven hours, 5am to 8pm). However, the most comfortable and quickest option is to get a Tata Sumo '4WD' (NRs550 to NRs800, four to five hours, every 20 minutes until 5pm). There are also morning buses to Pokhara (NRs600, eight hours) via Narayangarh (NRs250, four hours) at 5am, 6.30am and 7.30am.

Buddha Air (www.buddhaair.com) has up to five daily flights between Simara (the airport for Birganj) and Kathmandu (US$105, 20 minutes). The airport is 22km from Birganj and a taxi costs around NRs1000.

Gaya

 0631 / POP 395,000

The hectic town of Gaya is a religious centre for Hindu pilgrims, who believe that offerings at the town's riverside Vishnupad Temple relieve the recently departed from the cycle of birth and rebirth. For foreign tourists, it merely serves as a transit point for Bodhgaya, 13km away.

Sleeping & Eating

Ajatsatru Hotel

HOTEL $

( GOOGLE MAP;  0631-2222961; Station Rd; r with/without AC ₹1430/840;  )

If you get stuck for the night in Gaya, this hotel is the best value of a cluster of hotels directly opposite the train station. It has decent-sized but noisy rooms and an OK vegetarian restaurant. There are a few cheaper (and smaller) single rooms.

Getting There & Around

AUTORICKSHAW

Shared autos leave when full from Gaya Junction train station for Bodhgaya (₹20 per person), Manpur bus stand (₹10) and Gandhi Maidan bus stand (₹5).

A private auto from Gaya to Bodhgaya should cost ₹150, although they usually start at ₹200 or more.

BUS

- Patna (₹100, three hours, hourly) Buses leave from the train station.
- Rajgir (₹55, 2½ hours, hourly) Buses leave from Manpur bus stand, across the river to the east.
- Ranchi (₹180, seven hours, twice hourly) Buses leave from the Gandhi Maidan bus stand.

TRAIN

Passenger trains leave every couple of hours for Patna (2nd class/AC chair ₹25/260, two to three hours). Buy a 2nd-class 'general' ticket and hop on. Express trains (two hours) run at 1.15pm and 8.25pm and offer comfortable chair-car seats.

The fastest overnight trains to New Delhi (sleeper/3AC/2AC from ₹490/1560/2585, 11 hours) leave at 10.38pm, 10.55pm and 11.11pm.

At least eight trains run daily to Kolkata (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹270/730/1045, eight to 10 hours), the most convenient being the Doon Express (9½ hours, 9.27pm).

Almost a dozen daily trains go to Varanasi (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹195/540/740, three to six hours). The quickest are the Purushottam Express (to Mughal Serai; 2.05pm) and Poorva Express (2.55pm).

Bodhgaya

📍0631 / POP 30,900

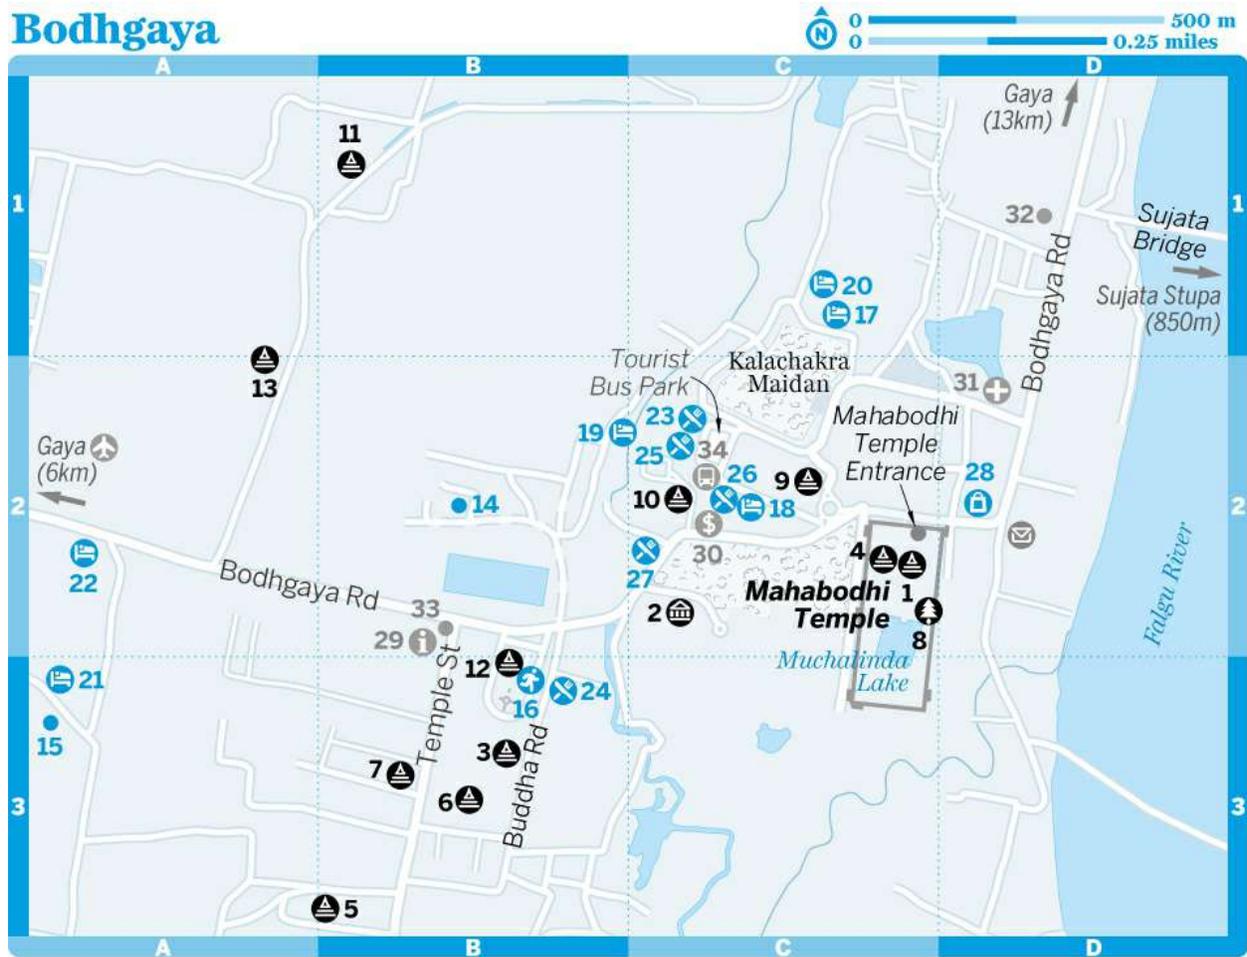

The crucible of Buddhism, Bodhgaya was where Prince Siddhartha attained enlightenment beneath a bodhi tree 2600 years ago and became Buddha (the 'Awakened One'). In terms of blessedness, this tiny temple town is to Buddhists what Mecca is to Muslims. Unsurprisingly, it attracts thousands of pilgrims from around the world every year, who come for prayer, study and meditation.

The most hallowed spot in town is the bodhi tree that flourishes inside the Mahabodhi Temple complex, amid a beautiful garden setting, its roots embedded in the same soil as its celebrated ancestor. Additionally, many monasteries and temples dot the town, built in their national style by foreign Buddhist communities. The ambience is a mix of monastic tranquillity, backpacker comforts and small-town hustle, underpinned by an intensity of devotion that makes it endlessly interesting.

The best time to visit is November to March when the weather is cool and Tibetan pilgrims come down from McLeod Ganj in Dharamsala. The high season is from December to January, which is also when the Dalai Lama often visits to teach in the large central Kalachakra Maidan.

Bodhgaya

Bodhgaya

📍 Top Sights

1 Mahabodhi Temple C2

📍 Sights

2 Archaeological Museum C2

3 Bhutanese Monastery B3

4 Bodhi Tree C2

5 Great Buddha Statue B3

6 Indosan Nipponji Temple B3

7 Karma Temple B3

8 Meditation Park C2

9 Namgyal Monastery C2

10 Shechen Monastery C2

11	Tergar Monastery	B1
12	Thai Temple	B3
13	Vietnamese Monastery	A2

Activities, Courses & Tours

14	International Meditation Centre	B2
15	Root Institute for Wisdom Culture	A3
	Tergar Monastery	B1
16	Thai Massage	B3

Sleeping

17	Gupta House	C1
18	Kirti Guest House	C2
19	Mohammad House	B2
20	Rahul Guest House	C1
21	Shantidevi Ashram's Guesthouse	A3
22	Taj Darbar	A2

Eating

23	Be Happy Cafe	C2
24	Bodhgaya City Cafe Restaurant	B3
	Hari Om International Cafe	C1
25	Mohammad Restaurant	C2
26	Ram Sewak Tea Corner	C2
27	Siam Thai	C2

Shopping

28	Middle Way Bookshop	D2
----	-------------------------------------	----

Information

29	BSTDC Tourist Complex	B2
30	State Bank of India	C2
31	Verma Health Care Centre	D2

Transport

32	Autorickshaws to Gaya	D1
33	Indian Railways Reservation Counter	B2
34	Jayjagdamba Travels	C2

Sights & Activities

★ Mahabodhi Temple

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; camera ₹100; 🕒 5am-9pm) FREE

The magnificent Unesco World Heritage-listed Mahabodhi Temple, marking the hallowed ground where Buddha attained enlightenment and formulated his philosophy of life, forms the spiritual heart of Bodhgaya. Built in the 6th century AD atop the site of a temple erected by Emperor Ashoka almost 800 years earlier, it was razed by foreign invaders in the 11th century, and subsequently underwent several major restorations.

Topped by a 50m pyramidal spire, the inner sanctum of the ornate structure houses a 10th-century, 2m-high gilded image of a seated Buddha. Amazingly, four of the original sculpted stone railings surrounding the temple, dating from the Sunga period (184–72 BC), have survived amid the replicas. Others are now housed inside the archaeological museum.

Pilgrims and visitors from all walks of life and religions come to worship or just soak up the atmosphere of this sacred place. An enthralling way to start or finish the day is to stroll around the inside of the perimeter of the temple compound (in an auspicious clockwise pattern) and watch a sea of maroon and yellow dip and rise, while Tibetan monks perform endless prostrations on their prayer boards. There's a less atmospheric Meditation Park (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Mahabodhi Temple; visitors/meditators ₹20/25; 🕒 visitors 10am-5pm, meditators 5-10am & 5-9pm) for those seeking extra solitude within the temple grounds.

Leave your bags and MP3 players in the lockers 50m to the west of the entrance. Security has been fairly tight since bombs exploded in the complex in 2013.

Bodhi Tree

BUDDHIST SITE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

Undoubtedly, the most sacred fig tree ever to grace the Earth was the Bodhi

Tree at Bodhgaya, under which Prince Siddhartha, the founder of Buddhism, achieved enlightenment. Buddha was said to have stared unblinkingly at the tree in an awed gesture of gratitude and wonder after his enlightenment. Today, pilgrims and tourists alike flock here to pray and meditate at the most important of Buddhism's four holiest sites.

Known as Sri Maha Bodhi, the original tree was paid special attention by Ashoka, a mighty Indian emperor who ruled most of the subcontinent from 269 to 232 BC, a century or two after Buddha's believed death. His wife, Tissarakkhā, wasn't such a fan of the tree and in a fit of jealousy and rage, caused the original Bodhi Tree's death by poisonous thorns shortly after becoming queen.

Thankfully, before its death, one of the tree's saplings was carried off to Anuradhapura in Sri Lanka by Sanghamitta (Ashoka's daughter), where it continues to flourish. A cutting was later carried back to Bodhgaya and planted where the original once stood. The red sandstone slab between the tree and the adjacent Mahabodhi Temple was placed by Ashoka to mark the spot of Buddha's enlightenment – it's referred to as the Vajrasan (Diamond Throne).

Great Buddha Statue

BUDDHIST, MONUMENT

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Temple St; 🕒 7am-5.30pm) FREE

This 25m-high Japanese-style statue towers above a pleasant garden at the end of Temple St. The impressive monument was unveiled by the Dalai Lama in 1989 and is surrounded by 10 smaller sculptures of Buddha's disciples. The statue is partially hollow and is said to contain some 20,000 bronze Buddhas.

Archaeological Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; off Bodhgaya Rd; ₹10; 🕒 9am-5pm, closed Fri)

This museum contains a number of (mostly headless) stone Buddhist sculptures dating from the 8th to 12th centuries, but the highlight is the collection of 2000-year-old granite and sandstone railings and pillars rescued from the Mahabodhi Temple. No photos.

Dungeshwari Cave

BUDDHIST SITE

(Mahakala Cave; GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

This fairly nondescript cave in the Pragbodhi Hills northeast of Bodhgaya is where Buddha is said to have spent seven years living as an ascetic, almost dying from starvation in the process. There's not much to see but getting here is fun; either on a motorbike tour or on foot.

Sujata Stupa

BUDDHIST STUPA

(GOOGLE MAP)

The huge Sujata Kuti stupa, across the Fagu River from Bodhgaya, was built to commemorate the residence of Sujata, the cow-herder who fed the starving Buddha rice pudding, thus ending his seven years of asceticism and spurring him to follow the Middle Way. The ancient brick stupa was originally covered with lime plaster and painted white. It's a 20-minute walk from Bodhgaya.

Thai Massage

MASSAGE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8294782534; Thai Temple; 1/2hr massage ₹800/1500; 🕒 8am-noon & 1-6pm)

Authentic Thai massage in a clinic at the Thai Hospital, located within the grounds of the Thai Temple; take the entrance to the left of the main temple entrance. Book a day or two in advance.

Other Temples & Monasteries

One of Bodhgaya's great joys is its collection of monasteries and temples, each offering visitors a unique opportunity to peek into different Buddhist cultures and compare architectural styles.

The Indosan Nipponji Temple (Japanese Temple; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Rd; 🕒 6am-noon & 2-6pm) is an exercise in quiet Japanese understatement and has meditation at 5pm. In contrast is the nearby ornate Bhutanese Monastery (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Buddha Rd), which has images of the kings of Bhutan and the bearded Zhabdrung, Bhutan's religious leader, as well as some unusual 3D frescoes. The most impressive of all the modern monasteries is the Tergar Monastery (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Sujata Bypass Rd) of the Karmapa school of Tibetan Buddhism, where the 17th Karmapa is often in residence. It has a small cafe. Nearby is the calming Vietnamese Monastery (MAP GOOGLE MAP) with lush gardens and an eight-storey pagoda. Another stunner is the sublime Thai Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bodhgaya Rd), a brightly coloured wat with gold leaf shimmering from its arched rooftop and manicured gardens. Meditation is held here mornings and evenings.

The Tibetan Karma Temple (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Temple St) (note the double-dragon brass door knockers) and Namgyal Monastery (Tibetan Temple; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Kalachakra Maidan Rd) each contain large prayer wheels. The Nyingmapa-school Shechen Monastery (MAP GOOGLE MAP) has a large stupa that contains bone fragments of the Buddha.

Monasteries are open sunrise to sunset, closed noon to 2pm. Between 4pm and 6pm is a good time to visit, as there is often chanting and meditation.

Courses

Root Institute for Wisdom Culture

MEDITATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0631-2200714; www.rootinstitute.ngo; 🕒 office 9am-noon & 1.15-5pm)

Located in a tranquil, tree-shaded corner of town, this foreign-run institute holds various meditation courses (from two to 21 days) between October and March. Courses cost around ₹1000 per day, including meals and accommodation. The 6.45am meditation session is open to all.

Tergar Monastery

MEDITATION

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0631-2201256)

Offers courses on Tibetan Buddhism and welcomes long-term qualified volunteer English teachers.

Sleeping

Budget guesthouses are concentrated on the northern side of the Kalachakra Maidan.

If there's space, you can stay at the peaceful Root Institute for Wisdom Culture even if you're not attending any of its courses. Dorm beds cost ₹250, while double rooms go for ₹900, or ₹1500 with a private bathroom.

★ Rahul Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0631-2200709; rahul_bodhgaya@yahoo.co.in; near Kalachakra Maidan; s/d ₹500/700, with AC ₹800-1000; 📶)

Clean and serene, with sociable balcony seating, this family home makes for an excellent stay away from the din, even if the welcome is slightly cool. The rooms upstairs, with whitewashed walls, nice breezes and simple furnishings, are better than those on the ground floor, but all are good value, particularly the four air-con rooms. Laundry service is available.

Mohammad House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9934022691, 9431085251; yasmd_2002@gmail.com; r ₹300-600; 📶)

There's an authentic village atmosphere at this hard-to-find, no-frills guesthouse, which is hidden away from the more touristy parts of town. Ducks and chickens scuttle around the narrow lanes that link villagers' colourfully painted homes to the Kalachakra Maidan area.

The guesthouse has two buildings, almost side by side; the older one has very basic rooms with shared squat bathrooms (₹300). The newer one has cleaner, nicer modern twin rooms with clean attached bathrooms and powerful, hot-water showers (₹600). Both have rooms on upper floors with lovely views of the surrounding paddy fields. To find this guesthouse, either take the lane beside Mohammad Restaurant (same owners), and walk through the village, turning left then right, or take the lane diagonally opposite the Thai Temple (signposted towards the International Meditation Centre) and keep walking straight.

Gupta House

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0631-2200933; jyoti_gupta2000in@yahoo.com; beside Kalachakra Maidan; d ₹500-600; 📶)

Rooms are spartan but comfortable enough at this newly renovated guesthouse, with back rooms looking out onto a huge new Tibetan monastery. The alfresco Hari Om International Cafe out the front is an advantage.

★ Shantidevi Ashram's Guesthouse

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9852053186; www.shantideviashramguesthouse.com; r ₹2000; 📶)

This unassuming but tastefully decorated boutique-like guesthouse makes a simple Zen-like retreat from the hustle and bustle of the main drags. Fan-cooled rooms come with pieces of artwork, colourful rugs on concrete floors and super-hard beds. Bathrooms are small but spotless. There's no restaurant, but guests can use the kitchen and washing machine.

Kirti Guest House

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0631-2200744; kirtihouse744@yahoo.com; off Bodhgaya Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹2500/2750; 📶 📧 📞)

Run by the Kiirti Monastery in Dharamsala, this central hotel offers a quiet atmosphere despite its central location. It's set back from the road slightly and has 60 comfortable modern rooms.

Taj Darbar

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📍 7739320524, 0631-2200053; www.hoteltajdarbar.com; Bodhgaya Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹5490/6570; 📶 📶)

A somewhat old-fashioned, upper midrange choice, this smart hotel comes with polished marble hallways and spacious rooms with ivory-white bed sheets, small seating areas, working desks and sporadic bath-tubs. It's comfortable but not luxurious. Discounts of 20% are standard.

Eating

★ Mohammad Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹80-220; 🕒 7.30am-9.30pm; 📶)

Tucked away behind the market stalls at the Tourist Bus Park (take the lane beside Fujiya Green restaurant), Mohammad's whips up a fine array of food from across the Buddhist world – Tibetan, Chinese, Thai, Indian – as well as doing a strong line in Western favourites, including breakfasts and espresso coffee. The fresh fruit juices are superb and there's pleasant outdoor seating.

Hari Om International Cafe

MULTICUISINE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Kalachakra Maidan; mains ₹80-120; 🕒 7am-10pm; 📶)

This informal, shanty-like, alfresco restaurant on the north side of the Kalachakra maidan has a backpacker-friendly menu, with lots of vegetarian options. Among the banana pancakes you'll find local specialities such as litti chokha and khichdi (a rice thali with chutneys and mashed potato).

Bodhgaya City Cafe Restaurant

INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Buddha Rd; mains ₹60-200; 🕒 8am-9.30pm)

Good-value local food with pleasant outdoor seating in a newly built restaurant-and-cafe complex. It's conveniently close to many of the monasteries.

Ram Sewak Tea Corner

FAST FOOD $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; dishes ₹50-100; 🕒 6am-10pm)

If you're seeking sustenance at rock-bottom prices, look no further than this dhaba-style eatery, little more than a glorified roadside stand, for excellent snacks (including samosa, dosa and idli – a South Indian spongy, round, fermented rice cake), sweets, lassis and basic thalis.

The outdoor bench seating is a great spot to lounge with a cup of masala chai and watch Bodhgaya go by.

★ Be Happy Cafe

ITALIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; beside Kalachakra Maidan; mains ₹150-420; 🕒 8am-8.30pm; 📶 📶)

Quaint, cosy, cafe serving fresh coffee (₹100), herbal teas and healthy Italian cuisine: salads, pastas and freshly baked pizza. This is one place where you can trust the salads and fresh vegetables, and the desserts are the best in town. Reservations are a good idea for lunch.

Siam Thai

THAI

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bodhgaya Rd; curries ₹200; 🕒 8.30am-10pm)

Authentically delicious curries made from ingredients flown in from Thailand, plus interesting starters such as fish cakes and larb kai (minced chicken with lemon, lemongrass and mint). The chicken paenang is addictive; for something sweeter try the massaman curry. The yellow-robed monks who fill the place know a good curry when they see it.

Shopping

Middle Way Bookshop

BOOKS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 10am-9pm)

A good selection of new and used novels and books on Buddhism and spirituality.

Information

BSTDC Tourist Complex (MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0631-2200672; cnr Bodhgaya Rd & Temple St;  10.30am-5pm Tue-Sat) Basic information available.

Main Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; cnr Bodhgaya & Godam Rds;  10am-3pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat)

State Bank of India (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bodhgaya Rd;  10.30am-4.30pm Mon-Fri, to 1.30pm Sat) Best rates for cash and travellers cheques; has an ATM.

Verma Health Care Centre

HOSPITAL

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  0631-2201101, 9934290324;  24hr)

Emergency room and clinic. Staffed round the clock, but a doctor is only on location from 11.30am to 8pm.

Getting There & Away

Gaya airport is 8km west of Bodhgaya, on the back route to Gaya. Air India (GOOGLE MAP ;  0631-2201155; www.airindia.com; Airport) flies daily to Delhi and Varanasi, and twice weekly to Kolkata. Between October and March there are direct international flights from Bangkok (Thailand), Colombo (Sri Lanka), Paro (Bhutan) and Yangon (Myanmar).

Shared autorickshaws (MAP GOOGLE MAP) (₹25) leave from north of the Mahabodhi Temple for the 13km trip to Gaya, though not all go as far as the train station. A private autorickshaw to Gaya costs ₹150.

Note, autos occasionally take the back route from Gaya to Bodhgaya, via Sikadia More, and then drop passengers on the approach to Mahabodhi Temple on Bodhgaya Rd.

A few noiseless electric autorickshaws run in Bodhgaya; you can encourage this trend by taking these whenever possible.

Jayjagdamba Travels (MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9472964873; Tourist Bus Park) operates non-air-con buses to Varanasi (₹350, seven hours) at 7am, 9am and 5pm, as well as a 2pm bus to Siliguri (₹700 to ₹750, 16 hours), and can arrange a private car to Varanasi for ₹4500.

You can buy train tickets from the Indian Railways Reservation Counter (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bodhgaya Rd; 🕒 8am-noon & 12.30-2pm Mon-Sat), next to the BSTDC Tourist Complex.

Rajgir

📍 06112 / POP 33,700

The fascinating surrounds of Rajgir are bounded by five semiarid rocky hills, each lined with ancient stone walls – vestiges of the ancient capital of Magadha. As both Buddha and the Mahavira spent some serious time here, Rajgir is an important pilgrimage site for Buddhists and Jains. And a mention in the Mahabharata also means that Rajgir sees a large number of Hindu pilgrims, who come to bathe in the hot springs at the Lakshmi Narayan Temple.

Rajgir is littered with historic sites, so bank on spending a couple of days here, including a side trip to Nalanda. It's a lovely part of Bihar; greener and more rural than other places in the region, and relatively hassle-free.

Rajgir Mahotsava (Rajgir; 🕒 end Nov) is the town's major cultural festival, featuring three days of classical Indian music, folk music and dance at the end of November, or sometimes December.

Sights & Activities

The most pleasant way to see Rajgir's scattered sites is to rent a tonga (two-wheeled horse-drawn carriage). A half-day tour including the ropeway (chairlift) to Vishwa Shanti Stupa and surrounding sights is around ₹500. You can also pay for one-way journeys to single sites (eg ₹100 to Vulture Hill).

★ Vishwa Shanti Stupa

BUDDHIST STUPA

(GOOGLE MAP); Shanti Stupa Rd; chairlift return ticket ₹60; 🕒 ropeway 8.15am-1pm & 2-5pm)

Constructed in 1965, this blazing-white, 40m stupa stands atop Ratnagiri Hill about 5km south of town. Recesses in the stupa feature golden statues of Buddha in four stages of his life – birth, enlightenment, preaching and death. A fun, but wobbly, single-person chairlift runs to the summit, which affords expansive views of hills and a few Jain shrines dotting the landscape.

Vulture Hill

BUDDHIST SITE

(Griddhakuta; GOOGLE MAP)

Buddha is thought to have preached the Lotus sutra on this rock outcrop. There are some faint remains of a 1500-year-old stupa, some prayer flags and a small shrine where Buddhist pilgrims come to pray. Get here by walking down from the Vishwa Shanti Stupa and detouring for a 10-minute walk uphill along a processional way built by King Bimbisara 2500 years ago.

Saptaparni Cave

BUDDHIST SITE

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 dawn-4pm)

A 40-minute uphill hike from the back of the Lakshmi Narayan Temple takes you past Jain and Hindu temples to this atmospheric cave and natural rock platform, where Buddha is said to have meditated. It's the likely location for the First Buddhist Council, held six months after Buddha's death to define the direction of the new faith.

Lakshmi Narayan Temple

HINDU TEMPLE

(GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Hindu pilgrims visit the Lakshmi Narayan Temple, about 2km south of town (turn right out of the bus stand and keep walking), to enjoy the health benefits of the hot springs here. The murky grey Brahmakund, the hottest spring, is a scalding 45°C. Temple priests will show you around, pour hot water on your head as a blessing and ask for generous donations (there's no obligation to give).

Buddha Jal Vihar

SWIMMING

(GOOGLE MAP; swimming ₹25; ⌚ men 5-10am & noon-9pm, women 10am-noon)

Next to the Lakshmi Narayan Temple complex (on your left as you approach the temple), the Jaipur-pink Buddha Jal Vihar is an inviting, crystal-clear swimming pool set in well-manicured gardens and perfect to beat the heat.

Sleeping

Hotel Vijay Niketan

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 06112-255555, 9334647881; www.hotelvijayniketan.com; Police Station Rd; ₹750-900; ❄️ 📶)

The budget rooms here are a bit rough at the edges but are decent for the price (which is often negotiable). It's run by two helpful English-speaking brothers, who can fix any issues with hot water or wi-fi. Upper-floor rooms are best but can be hot, and there are a couple of overpriced air-con rooms (₹1650).

Hotel Nalanda Regency

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 7766969099; www.hotelnalandaregency.com; r incl breakfast ₹4500; ❄️ 📶)

Perhaps the best-run hotel in town, rooms here are fresh and modern with hot-water bathrooms and an excellent restaurant (mains ₹125 to ₹225), just two minutes' walk north of the bus stand. Walk-in discounts of 40% can make it excellent value.

Indo Hokke Hotel

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 06612-255245; www.theroyalresidency.co; Veerayatan Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹6000/6500; ❄️ @ 📶 🛁)

Surrounded by 3 hectares of lovely gardens, this modern, red-brick building features clean, modern rooms and good service. It's a quiet place with a Buddhist chapel and hot bath for groups. The rooms with tiled floors are biggest. It's 500m beyond Veerayatan museum, 3km south and then west of the bus stand.

Eating

Hotel Anand

PUNJABI $

(GOOGLE MAP; Dharmshala Rd; mains ₹50-100; 🕒 8am-10pm; 🍴)

This small, fan-cooled, vegetarian restaurant serves good-value Punjabi and South Indian dishes, including good thalis (₹90 to ₹150). It's 100m beyond the Hotel Raj.

Green Hotel

INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹60-150, thali ₹125-250; 🕒 7.30am-9.30pm)

Diagonally opposite the Lakshmi Narayan Temple complex, this simple restaurant is one of several in a row that offers very pleasant alfresco seating. The food is good and it's a great place to relax at the end of the day.

Lotus Restaurant

INDIAN, JAPANESE $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; Veerayatan Rd; mains ₹150-375, Japanese dishes ₹300-600; 🕒 11am-3pm & 7-10pm; 🍴)

The air-conditioned restaurant at the Indo Hokke Hotel has superb Indian food and a pricier Japanese menu featuring soba noodles, teriyaki and tempura, with authentic flavours and fresh ingredients (including pepper, pickles and green tea).

Information

Tourist Information Centre

TOURIST INFORMATION

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 8292984850; 🕒 10am-5pm)

The tourist information centre near the bus stand has a few leaflets and a map of Rajgir.

Getting There & Away

Buses run every 30 minutes to Gaya (₹50 to ₹55, 2½ hours) and Nalanda (₹10, 20 minutes) from the bus stand. For Nalanda take a bus bound for Bihar Sharif.

Two fast trains runs daily to Patna (2nd class/sleeper/AC chair ₹50/140/260, 2½ hours) at 8.10am (sleeper) and 2.40pm (chair car).

The bus stand is in the centre of town, with the train station 1km to the north; turn left out of the bus stand and take the third left to reach the train station. Turn right out of the train station road to reach the bus stand and the town centre.

Nalanda

 06112

Founded in the 5th century AD, Nalanda – 15km north of Rajgir – was one of the ancient world’s great universities and an important Buddhist centre of academic excellence. When Chinese scholar and traveller Xuan Zang visited sometime between 685 and 762 AD, about 10,000 monks and students lived here, studying theology, astronomy, metaphysics, medicine and philosophy. It’s said that Nalanda’s three libraries were so extensive they burnt for six months when foreign invaders sacked the university in 1193.

Buses from Rajgir (₹10) drop you at Nalanda village. From there you can take a shared tonga (per person/cart ₹5/50) for the final 2km to the ruins.

Allow at least an hour or two for wandering the extensive monastery ruins (GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹15/200, video camera ₹25; 🕒 9am-5.30pm). They’re peaceful and well maintained with a parklike atmosphere of clipped lawns and shrubs. The red-brick ruins consist of 11 monasteries and six temples. Most impressive is the Great Stupa (Number Three), with steps, terraces, monks' residences and a few intact Gupta-era stupas. It is thought that a huge statue of Buddha once crowned the building. Climbing the structures is not allowed. Unofficial guides (₹100) will approach you, but each of the ruins has signboards beside them including explanatory text in English.

Across from the entrance to the ruins is the archaeological museum (GOOGLE MAP); admission ₹5; 🕒 9am-5pm, closed Fri), a small but fascinating museum housing the Nalanda University seal and a host of beautiful stone sculptures and bronzes unearthed from Nalanda and Rajgir. Among the many Buddha figures and kirtimukha (gargoyle) is a bizarre multiple-spouted pot (probably once used to contain perfumed water).

About 2km further on from the museum and the ruins (take the first right) is the huge, modern Xuan Zang Memorial Hall (GOOGLE MAP); Indian/foreigner ₹5/50; 🕒 8am-5pm), built by the Chinese in honour of the famous Chinese pilgrim who walked to India from China before studying and teaching for several years at Nalanda, and eventually returning home with Buddhist scriptures he would later translate into Chinese. His epic trip was immortalised in Journey to the West, one of China's classic pieces of literature. The story was then turned into the cult 1970s TV show, Monkey. Modern-day backpackers will appreciate the statue of Xuan Zang at the front of the memorial hall. A return tonga ride here costs ₹100.

About 1.5km beyond the Nalanda ruins (bear left, then right, then take the first right turn after Surya Kund pond), you'll find the striking Nandyavarta Mahal (GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 5am-9pm) at Kundalpur, a temple complex believed by the Digambar Jain sect to be the birthplace of Lord Mahavira, the final tirthankar and founder of Jainism. You can also walk here from the Xuan Zang Memorial Hall.

On the pathway leading to the archaeological museum, Cafeteria Nalanda (GOOGLE MAP); mains ₹150-250; 🕒 8am-7pm) makes a pleasant spot for lunch. Otherwise a few simple roadside stalls sell snacks.

JHARKHAND

Hewn out of neighbouring Bihar in 2000 to meet the autonomy demands of the Adivasi (tribal) population, Jharkhand is a land of immense natural and anthropological wealth. However, despite boasting an incredible 40% of the country's mineral wealth (mostly coal, copper and iron ore), rich forests and cash-rich industrial hubs, it is plagued by poverty, social injustice, corruption, and sporadic outbursts of Maoist and Naxalite violence. For travellers, Jharkhand's prime attractions are the Jain pilgrimage centre at Parasnath Hill, its national parks, and the chance to explore a relatively tourist-free and unspoilt part of India.

Ranchi

 0651 / POP 1.1 MILLION

Set on a plateau at 700m and marginally cooler than the plains, Jharkhand's capital, Ranchi, was the summer capital of Bihar under the British. There's little of interest here for travellers, but the city acts as a gateway to Betla (Palamau) National Park, and there are numerous waterfalls you can visit in the surrounding countryside.

Sights

State Museum

MUSEUM

( GOOGLE MAP;  0651-2270011; www.statemuseumranchi.in; Hotwar, Khelgaon;

Indian/foreigner ₹5/100, camera/video ₹25/100;  10.30am-4.30pm Tue-Sun)

This surprisingly large state museum has some ethnographic displays, featuring ornate bows and jewellery, but the main draw is the sculpture gallery, with its fine carvings and intriguing photos of remote architectural sites across Jharkhand. It's 8km northeast of the train station; figure on a one-way autorickshaw ride of around ₹200.

Sleeping

Station Rd, running between the train and bus stations, is lined with hotels and a convenient place to stay, but most budget places don't have permits for hosting foreigners.

Hotel AVN Plaza

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  0651-2462231; www.hotelavnplaza.com; off Station Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹1700/2190;  )

This neat, modern hotel has small but spotlessly clean rooms with TV, wi-fi and modern hot-water showers. Some rooms have no windows. There are only six standard non-air-con rooms (double ₹1070), but these are small and stuffy, with no natural light. It's down a lane, off Station Rd, so is pretty quiet. It has 24-hour checkout. Ask for a 15% discount.

★ Chanakya BNR Hotel

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP;  0651-2461211; www.chanakyabnrranchi.com; Station Rd; s/d incl breakfast ₹6350/7880;    )

This charming hotel could be your sole reason for visiting Ranchi. A part-historic railways property located outside the train station, it's a superbly renovated terracotta-roofed Raj relic that oozes vintage and boutique appeal. The property's trees are home to parrots, and it has a small outdoor pool, two excellent restaurants and a modern bar.

Eating

Hotel AVN Plaza and Chanakya BNR Hotel both have restaurants that are open to nonguests; Chanakya BNR's two restaurants are particularly good (mains ₹400).

Nook

INDIAN $$

(GOOGLE MAP; Station Rd; mains ₹100-200;  7.30am-11pm)

Arguably the best midrange hotel restaurant in the train-station area, this in-house dining facility at Hotel Kwaliti Inns is comfortable and the service attentive without being obsequious. The tandoori dishes are excellent, especially the creamy murgh tikka lababdar.

Orientation

Turn left out of the train station to reach Chanakya BNR Hotel (100m), Nook, Suhana Tour & Travels (200m), Hotel AVN Plaza (300m) and the government bus stand (500m), just beyond the junction where shared autorickshaws pick up passengers.

Getting There & Around

AIR

Ranchi's Birsa Munda Airport is 6km south of the city centre. Between them Air India ( GOOGLE MAP;  2503255; www.airindia.com), Indigo and GoAir ( 1800 222111; www.goair.in) fly daily to Kolkata, Delhi, Patna and Mumbai.

A prepaid taxi to Station Rd from the airport is ₹250. An autorickshaw in the opposite direction is ₹150.

BUS

From the government bus stand on Station Rd, there are hourly buses to Gaya throughout the day (₹160, six hours) and numerous overnight services to Patna (standard/AC ₹250/450, nine hours), which leave from around 9pm onwards.

Private sleeper and air-con buses to cities such as Kolkata (seat/sleeper ₹250/300, AC bus ₹360 to ₹850, 10 hours, from 8pm onwards) and Bhubaneswar (sleeper ₹500, 13 hours, 7pm) leave from Khartatoli bus stand, 2km northeast of Station Rd (shared/private autorickshaw ₹10/100).

Buses to Daltonganj leave from ITI bus stand, 8km northwest of Station Rd (shared/private autorickshaw ₹20/200).

TRAIN

The handy 12366 Janshatabdi Express departs daily at 2.25pm to Patna (2nd class/chair ₹185/630, seven hours), via Parasnath (₹110/375, three hours) and Gaya (₹160/530, 5½ hours). Alternatively, try the 18626 Hatia-Patna Express, departing at 6.35am.

For Kolkata (chair car/3AC/2AC ₹980/670/960, nine hours) the handiest trains are the daytime Shatabdi Express (1.45pm), or the overnight Kriya Yoga Express (9.40pm).

The once-daily Tapaswini Express goes to Bhubaneswar (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹340/930/1335, 13 hours, 3.55pm).

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

HIKING HOLY PARASNATH

For a fabulously off-beat experience with a spiritual leaning, consider joining the hundreds of Jain pilgrims who hike each morning to the top of holy Parasnath Hill.

Also known as Shikarji (Venerated Peak), Parasnath is the highest mountain in Jharkhand at 1336m, and is a major Jain pilgrimage centre. The ridge top is studded with 31 tonk (shrines), including the striking white Parasnath Temple, where 20 of the 24 Jain tirthankars (including Parasnath, at the age of 100) are believed to have reached salvation.

The approach to the hill is from the small temple town of Madhuban, 13km northeast of Parasnath train station. The daily pilgrimage begins from the town at around 4am; it's a 9km hike to the top, gaining 1000m elevation, followed by a 9km clockwise loop around a ridgeline, before reaching the highest peak at Parasnath Temple. For the correct clockwise circuit, take the left branch about halfway up the hill, rather than the right-hand trail straight up to Parasnath Temple. The entire 27km circuit – up, round and back down – takes about eight hours; three hours up, three hours circuiting the peaks, and two hours back down. You could start later in the day and still get back before dark, but hiking while you're half asleep with hundreds of pilgrims as dawn breaks across the mountain is a big part of the experience, and it means you avoid the worst of the midday heat. Water, chai and snacks are available along the way. During holidays and major festivals, you could end up walking with as many as 15,000 people, many of whom pay to be carried up in a dholi (litter).

You're likely to spend at least one night in Madhuban. There are three or four hotels in town (plus numerous dharamsalas – pilgrims' rest houses). Best value is the ageing government-run Yatri Nivas (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9470184432, 8102761253; Madhuban; r ₹400-500) with simple but huge rooms. It's at the bottom end of the main road leading up to the mountain, next to a creek, and just before you reach the museum; there's no English sign. Just before Yatri Nivas, turn left down a lane off the main road, and keep walking for 500m to reach the Shikarji Continental (GOOGLE MAP; 📍9323360708, 9334294965; Madhuban; ₹1500; 📶📶). This is Madhuban's best-quality hotel, with modern but grubby air-con rooms; the massage room (per hour ₹400) is perfect after your hike. Hotel Sapna & Veg Restaurant (GOOGLE MAP; 📍06558-232234; Main Rd, Madhuban; mains ₹50-130; 🕒11am-10pm; 🍴), towards the top end of the main road at a bend, has a 1st-floor restaurant serving simple South Indian and Punjabi dishes.

Parasnath is most easily reached from Gaya, from where there are frequent trains (two hours). For maximum comfort book an air-con chair-car class (₹285 to ₹355) on the 8.20am Janshatabdi Express or the 2.08pm Patna-Hatia Express. Returning to Gaya these trains leave at 10.10am and 5.45pm. Alternatively, just buy a 'general' 2nd-class ticket (₹65 to ₹80) and hop on the next train; you'll usually get a seat, and if not, it's only two hours.

Cramped shared vehicles (jeeps, autos and even the odd bus) carry passengers from Parasnath train station to Madhuban (per person ₹30). A chartered minivan costs ₹300.

From Parasnath there are also trains to Ranchi (2nd class ₹110, AC chair ₹300 to ₹375, four hours, 10.20am and 4.25pm) and Varanasi (2nd class/sleeper ₹130/255, six hours, 11.21am), and a handful of trains to Kolkata, the most convenient being the Doon Express (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹210/555/790, seven hours, 11.55pm).

Betla (Palamau) National Park

📍06562

Wild elephants freely roam the virgin forests of this lovely, rarely visited national park (📍06562-222650, 9939341211; 🕒6-10am & 2-5pm), spread over the hilly landscape of picturesque Palamau district, 140km west of Ranchi. Tiger sightings are extremely rare, but a trip to this primeval region of Jharkhand offers a glimpse into the rich tribal heritage of the state. The park covers around 1026 sq km, much of which comprises the Palamau Tiger Reserve. Hiding behind stands of sal forest, rich evergreens, teak trees and bamboo thickets are some 17 tigers, 52 leopards, 216 elephants and four lonely nilgai (antelope). You'll also see plenty of monkeys, spotted deer and possibly some gaur (Indian bison).

The park is open year-round, but the best time to visit is November to April. If you can stand the heat, May is prime for tiger spotting as forest cover is reduced and animals venture out in search of waterholes.

Activities

The two main ways to visit Betla are on a jeep safari or on elephant-back, and both can be arranged at the park gate. However, elephant rides involve the use of a howdah – a common practice in India but one which is discouraged by animal-welfare groups because of the injuries that this can cause to elephants.

Jeep safaris can be taken either during the park's morning session (between 6am and 10am) or afternoon session (between 2pm and 5pm), but elephant safaris can only be taken in the morning and cost a flat-rate ₹400 per elephant (for up to four people). The elephant takes you off-piste, into thick forest cover, although not as deep into the park as the jeeps do.

It's a good idea to book a morning safari the night before. If you take a morning safari, wrap up warm; it's freezing in the forest before the sun comes up properly. If you don't have any warm clothes, borrow a blanket from your guesthouse to wrap yourself in.

If you have time on your hands, consider the hour-long jeep excursion to the ruined Palamau Fort, a 16th-century citadel of the local tribal Chero dynasty sited spectacularly within the forest. Alternatively, plan a picnic on the sandy banks of the scenic Kechki River. A jeep tour to the fort or Kechki River costs the same as a jeep safari, minus the ₹150 park entry fee.

JEEP SAFARI COSTS

Jeep safaris can be arranged at the Betla (Palamau) National Park gate. The breakdown of the costs for jeep safaris is as follows:

Park entry (per vehicle, per hour) ₹150

Compulsory guide (per vehicle, per hour) ₹100

Jeep hire (per vehicle, per hour) ₹500

Camera fee (per person, per safari) ₹100

So, for example; a two-hour jeep safari for two people, both with cameras, would cost a total of ₹1700. For a single person, it would cost ₹1600. Jeep safaris can last from one hour to up to three or four hours, depending on how long you wish to spend in the park.

Sleeping & Eating

The majority of visitors stay overnight at the government-run Van Vihar ( 9102403882; d ₹1580; ) , 100m before the park entrance. Rooms are comfortable, spacious and clean, with hot-water bathrooms and a balcony, though the exuberant groups can be noisy.

The other sleeping options are just inside the park gate and can only be booked through the Forestry Department in Daltonganj, which can be a hassle. The most atmospheric accommodation is Tourist Lodge ( bookings 06562-222650; d from ₹1180; ). It's not luxurious, but boasts large clean rooms with TV, spacious bathrooms and private balconies with views of the deer-filled meadow in front of the forest.

About 50 paces from the lodge, and also just inside the park entrance, is the Tree House ( bookings 06562-222650; r ₹690), with two elevated sets of rooms, a bathroom and an observation deck with the same views as Tourist Lodge. It's more basic, but great value.

Food options can be limited in Betla, so bring some snacks. The well-priced canteen beside the Tourist Lodge does post-safari breakfasts and arranges a hearty vegetarian thali (₹100) for lunch and dinner with advance notice.

Getting There & Away

The nearest town to the park entrance is Daltonganj, about 20km away, which has frequent bus services to Ranchi throughout the day (₹150, 4½ hours). From Daltonganj take a local bus (₹20, roughly hourly until around 4pm) or shared autorickshaw (₹30) to Betla. A private auto from Daltonganj will cost around ₹300. You can save some time by getting off the Ranchi bus at Dubiamar, the turn-off for Betla, about 10km before Daltonganj. From here you can wave down a passing bus (₹10) or hire a private auto (₹200) to the park. Buses run from Betla back to Daltonganj and on to Ranchi until around 4pm.

If you don't fancy going it alone, Suhana Tour & Travels (

: 9431171394; suhana_jharkhandtour@yahoo.co.in; Gurunanak Market, Station Rd; 8am-8pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun), based in Ranchi, does two-day trips to Betla for ₹4600 per person (minimum two people).

Sikkim

Gangtok

Rumtek

Tsomgo (Changu) Lake

Gangtok to Mangan

Far North Sikkim

Namchi

Ravangla (Rabongla)

Temi Tea Garden

Pelling

Khecheopalri Lake

Yuksom

Dzongri & Goecha La The Khangchendzonga Trek

Tashiding

Kuluk & Rinchenpong

Sikkim

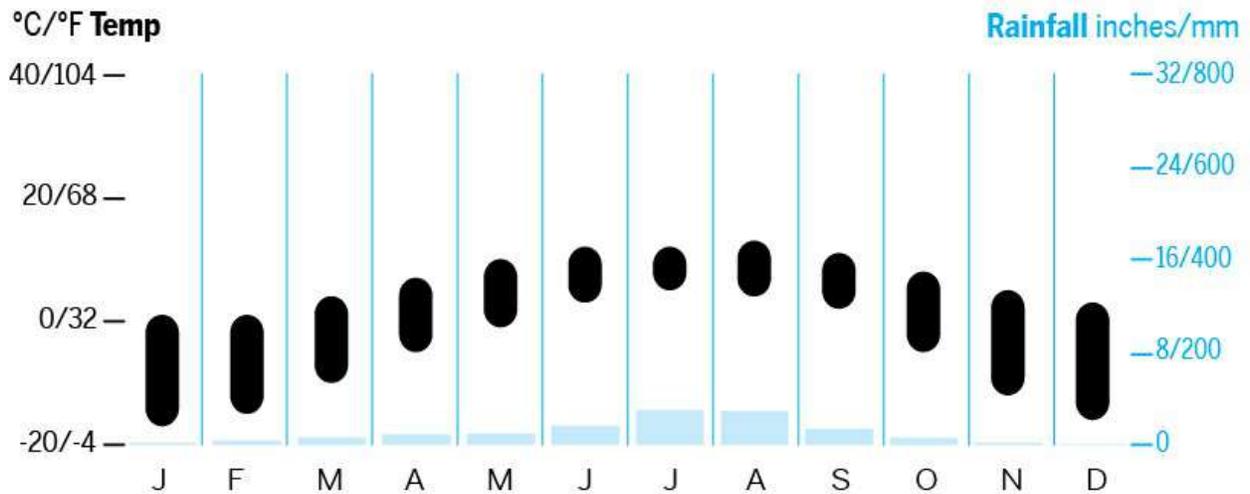

Why Go?

Sikkim was its own mountain kingdom till 1975 and still retains a very distinctive personality. The meditative, mural-filled traditional monasteries of Tibetan Buddhism coexist with Hindu shrines of the ever-growing Nepali community, both religions creating some astonishing latter-day mega-sculptures to adorn the skyline.

Hassle-free and warm-hearted, it's a state that's all too easy to fall in love with, explaining perhaps why permit regulations prevent foreigners staying too long or going too far. Clean, green and 'all organic' since 2016, Sikkim is mostly a maze of plunging, super-steep valleys thick with lush subtropical woodlands and rhododendron groves, rising in the north to the spectacular white-top peaks of the eastern Himalaya. When clouds clear, an ever-thrilling experience from many a ridgetop perch is spotting the world's third-highest mountain, Khangchendzonga (8598m), on the northwestern dawn horizon.

When to Go

Gangtok

- ➔ Apr & May Beautiful spring blossoms, partly clear skies, high-season crowds.
- ➔ mid-Jun–Sep Monsoon plays spoilsport, but there are great discounts on offer.
- ➔ mid-Oct–mid-Nov Clearest weather for fabulous views but gets cold at altitude.

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Chumbi Mountain Retreat
- ➔ Bamboo Retreat
- ➔ Lake View Nest
- ➔ Mayallyang Homestay
- ➔ Hotel Garuda
- ➔ Elgin Mount Pandim

Best Monasteries

- ➔ Resum Gompa
- ➔ Tashiding Gompa
- ➔ Lingdum Gompa
- ➔ Palchen Choeling Monastery
- ➔ Ngadak Gompa
- ➔ Rumtek Gompa

Sikkim Highlights

1 Yuksom Planning short hikes or adventurous Himalayan treks from this cosy, historic village.

2 Yumthang Valley Driving through a kaleidoscope of sceneries to and through this picture-perfect valley.

- 3 Buddha Park Gazing at Ravangla's giant, serene Buddha statue, backed by white-topped peaks and serenaded with piped mantras.
- 4 Kuluk Waking up to dazzling Khangchendzonga views.
- 5 Namchi Finding a gigantic Shiva statue overshadowing a selection of India's greatest Hindu temples all recreated on a ridge above town.
- 6 Rinchenpong Exploring half-forgotten old monasteries with stunning views.
- 7 Tashiding Gompa Wandering among prayer flags, flower hedges and ancient chortens (stupas) within this magical monastery.
- 8 Dzongu Unwinding and learning about Lepcha culture in an authentic Dzongu homestay.

History

The etymology of Sikkim's traditional place names indicates that the Lepcha people were Sikkim's earliest long-term inhabitants, arriving by the 13th century from Assam or Myanmar/Burma. They were followed by Bhutias who struck south from Tibet in the 15th century, having secured a much-celebrated bond of friendship with the Lepchas at Kabi Lunchok. However, the ascendancy of the Bhutias and their Nyingmapa form of Vajrayana (Tibetan) Buddhism was underlined when three Tibetan lamas met in Yuksom in 1641 to crown Phuntsog Namgyal (a Bhutia) as first chogyal (king) of Sikkim. The capital later moved to Rabdentse (near Pelling), then to Tumlong in North Sikkim, before finally settling in Gangtok.

In their heydays, the chogyals ruled parts of what is now eastern Nepal, upper Bengal and Darjeeling. However, much territory was lost during wars with Bhutan and Nepal. In 1835, the British bamboozled the chogyal into ceding Darjeeling to the East India Company for a nominal rent, a move that was strongly opposed by Tibet, which had regarded Sikkim as a vassal state. In 1849, the British annexed the entire area between the present Sikkim border and the Ganges plains, and subsequently repulsed a counter-invasion by Tibet in 1886. The later 19th century saw large numbers of Hindu migrants, encouraged by the British, arriving from Nepal; these migrants would ultimately form a majority of Sikkim's population.

When India gained independence in 1947, Sikkim's status was nebulous, as there had never been a formal agreement with Britain and the chogyal hoped to follow the Nepali and Bhutanese examples of independence. This worked for a couple of decades, with the Sikkimese kingdom retaining formal autonomy but allowing India to direct all foreign policy. However, in 1975 the last chogyal and his American-born queen were deposed when Sikkim became incorporated as an Indian state.

Activities

Trekking is a high point of any Sikkim sojourn. Mountaineers considering the state's numerous 6000-plus-metre peaks should plan carefully with Namgyal Treks & Tours in Gangtok. Paragliding is possible in Gangtok and Pelling. BB Line arranges motorbike tours and is developing rafting, kayaking and bungee-jumping plans. It and Hub Outdoor (GOOGLE MAP;  9443203848; www.huboutdoor.in; NH31A, Bojoghari; bike rental per day ₹1000;  call ahead) have mountain-biking trips for the super-fit.

Permits

STANDARD PERMITS

Foreigners require an Inner Line Permit (ILP) to enter Sikkim (Indians don't). These are free and getting one is a formality, although to apply you'll need a passport-sized photo and photocopies of your passport and visa (show the original too). You can usually apply on the spot at the entry checkpoints at Melli (24 hours) and Rangpo (permits issued 8am to 7.30pm), though a few unlucky travellers report having found offices temporarily unstaffed. If you are arriving towards Gangtok outside the Rangpo hours you'll need the permit in advance. If you fly into Bagdogra, there's a small Sikkim Tourism booth (open 10am to 4pm or 5pm) at the airport that will usually issue the permit for you. You can also apply at Sikkim House (GOOGLE MAP; 4/1 Middleton St; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) in Kolkata, at the Sikkim Tourist Office in Siliguri, at Sikkim House in Delhi or by a more complicated two-stage process in Darjeeling involving first visiting the FRO (Foreigners' Registration Office) then crossing town to the DCO (District Commissioner's Office). You could also ask for a 15-day Sikkim permit at Indian embassies abroad when applying for your Indian visa.

A new checkpoint at Jorethang is planned.

The standard ILP is valid for 15 days, though longer validity is sometimes provided on request.

The permit allows you to travel to:

Gangtok, Rumtek and Lingdum

the southern parts of East Sikkim as far east as Rhenock and Aritar

all of South Sikkim

North Sikkim as far as Singhik (just beyond Mangan)

most of West Sikkim where paved roads extend.

SPECIAL PERMITS

High-altitude treks require trekking permits, organised by trekking agents, but you must be accompanied by a guide. Application is made in Gangtok, so if you join a tour in Yuksom or Utterrey, allow at least a day (and pay suitable expenses) for your documents to be delivered to the capital and back.

For travel beyond Singhik up the Lachung and Lachen valleys in North Sikkim, foreigners need restricted area permits. These allow travel up to the Tsopta and Yumthang valleys. Indian citizens need a police permit to travel north of Singhik but can venture further up the Thanggu valley to Gurudongmar Lake, or to Yume Samdong (Zero-Point) past Yumthang. Permits can be procured in Gangtok on the morning of departure, or in Mangan in advance, but always through a registered agency and (for foreigners) requiring a minimum of two travellers.

For Dzongu (the Lepcha area north of Dikchu) you'll also need a special permit, usually organised through your pre-booked homestay. While the permit is free, homestay owners incur significant costs copying documents and taking taxis to Mangan to make arrangements on your behalf so will normally charge around ₹500 for the service.

A restricted area permit is required to visit Tsomgo (Changu) Lake, with only Indian citizens permitted to travel onward to the Tibetan border post at Nathu La. Again, tours are required and a minimum group of two foreigners.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Sikkim's new airport (GOOGLE MAP; Pakyong) at Pakyong might have been completed a year or two back had it not been for a catastrophic collapse of the runway's high-tech mud-banking. Even when it does open, most travellers will probably still arrive at busy Bagdogra airport near Siliguri in West Bengal. There's a daily helicopter shuttle from there to Gangtok, but only five passengers are carried and it gets cancelled in inclement weather.

LAND

The nearest train station is at New Jaipalguri near Siliguri. The transfer to Siliguri from most tourist centres in Sikkim should take four to six hours by jeep, but potentially huge delays due to landslides and chaotic traffic mean that locals allow at least nine hours. Consider staying a night in Darjeeling or Kurseong the night before a flight or train journey to make the NJP–Bagdogra a lot dash less stressful.

Border Crossings

Sikkim's internal border with West Bengal has several crossing points, but due to permit-check procedures, foreigners are only supposed to use the Melli and Rangpo ones (both open 24 hours, but Rangpo issues permits between 8am and 7.30pm only). For now there's significant inconvenience if you want to link Pelling to Darjeeling via Jorethang, where the crossing has been only for Indians since 2016, though a new checkpoint there is planned.

Permit rules also blur the issue of legally trekking near Aritar, as some major trails cross into West Bengal.

BORDER CROSSING: TIBET

None of Sikkim's international border crossings are open to non-locals, though longer term there are discussions about opening the Nathu La. It is currently open only to select traders and groups of pilgrims. Indeed non-Indians aren't even allowed to visit the border zone.

EAST SIKKIM

Gangtok

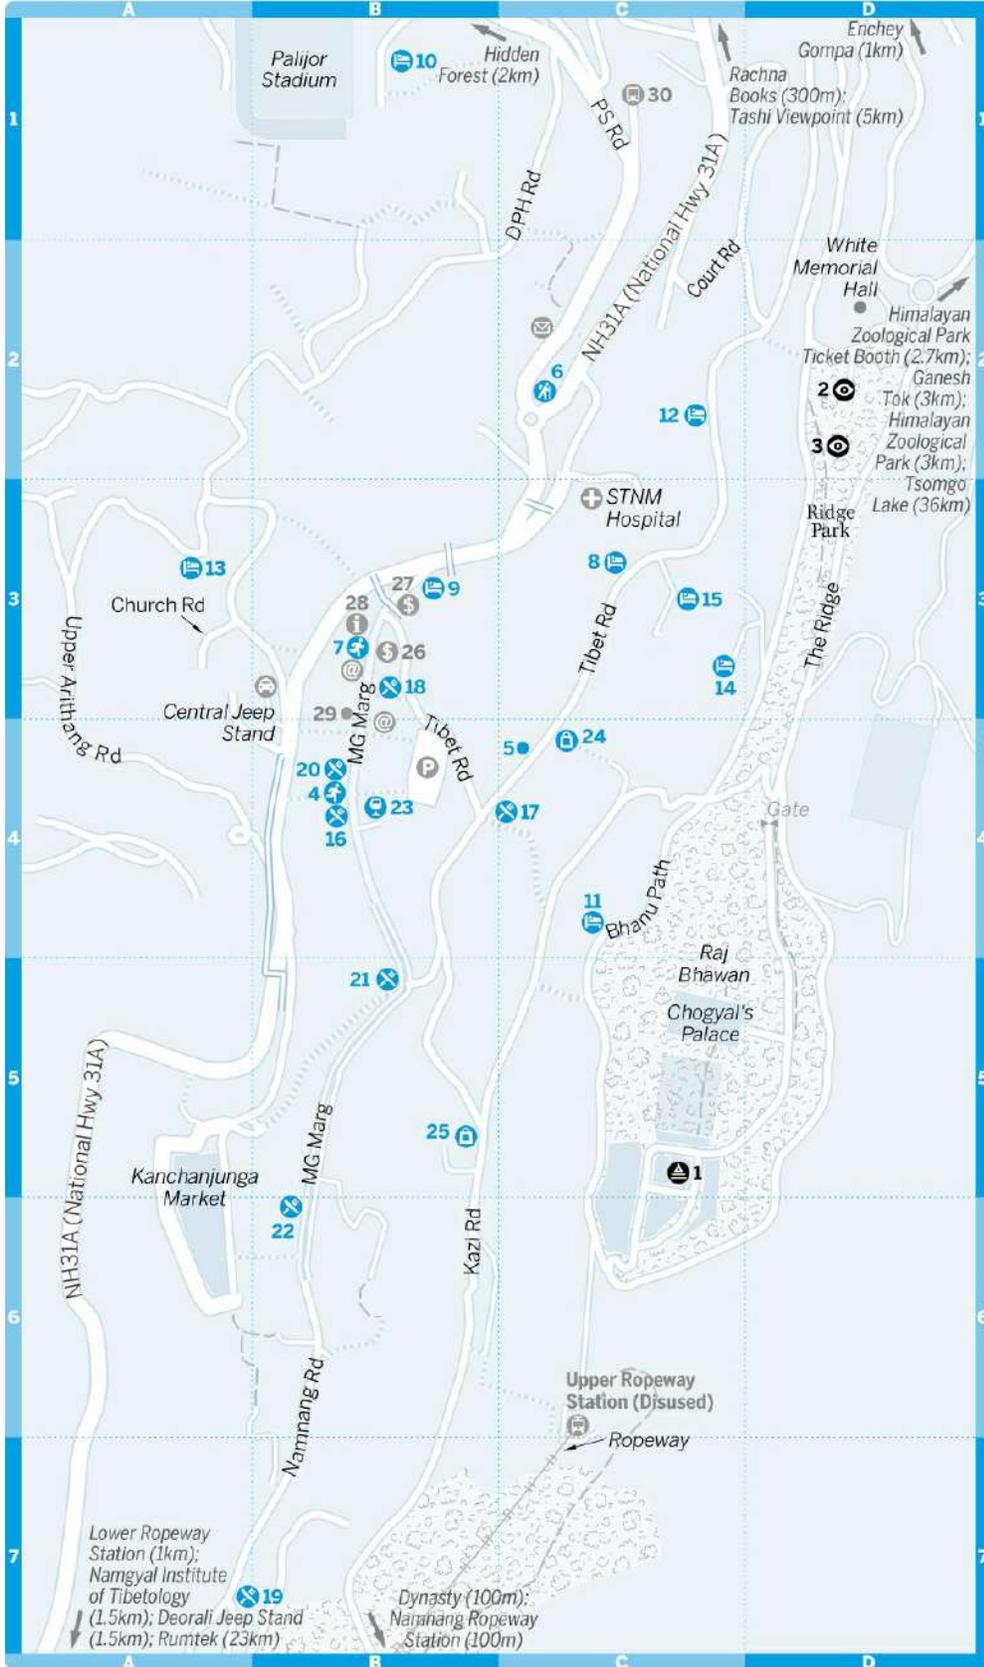

📍03592 / POP 106,300 / ELEV 1620M

Irreverent, cheerful and pleasantly boisterous, Sikkim's modern capital is layered along a precipitous mountain ridge, descending the hillside in steep tiers. It's a confusing spaghetti of winding lanes flanked by tall, mostly concrete-block buildings that might appear to be two storeys high from one side but often have several more floors descending behind. As well as a handful of minor sights, there are countless viewpoints with panoramas that encompass plunging green valleys and, if you're lucky weather-wise, glimpses of Khangchendzonga on the distant skyline.

More than anything, Gangtok's a good place for post-trek R&R, for organising tours and permits, and for meeting fellow travellers to make up a necessary group.

The NH31A (Rangpo–Mangan road) is Gangtok's crooked north–south spine. Mostly pedestrianised Mahatma Ghandi (MG) Marg, the social-commercial hub, is packed with restaurants, shops, travel agents and a bustling early-evening passeggiata of relaxed wanderers.

Gangtok

Gangtok

Top Sights

1 Tsuklakhang C5

Sights

2 Flower Exhibition Centre D2

3 The Ridge D2

Activities, Courses & Tours

4 BB Line B4

Blue Sky Treks & Travels B3

5 Namgyal Treks & Tours C4

6 Potala Tours & Treks C2

7 STDC B3

Sleeping

8 Chumbi Residency C3

9 Gangtok Lodge B3

10 Hotel Nor-Khill B1

11 Hotel Pandim C4

12 Hotel Sonam Delek C2

13 Hotel Yavachi A3

14 Mintokling Guest House C3

15 Netuk House C3

Eating

16 Bakers Cafe B4

17 Dekid C4

18 Golden Dragon B3

19 Mu Kimchi A7

20 Parivar Restaurant B4

21 Taste of Tibet B5

22 The Coffee Shop B6

Drinking & Nightlife

Clique A7

23 Downtown	B4
The Square	B6

★ Entertainment

Cafe Live & Loud	C4
--------------------------------------	----

🛒 Shopping

24 Climate Zone	C4
Golden Tips	B4
25 Golden Tips II	B5

📍 Information

Pankhuri Enterprises	B3
26 RS Enterprises	B3
27 SBI	B3
28 Tourist Office	B3

Transport

29 DJ Mandap Tours	B3
Railway Booking Counter	C1
30 SNT Bus Station	C1

Sights

★ Namgyal Institute of Tibetology

MUSEUM

(NIT; GOOGLE MAP; www.tibetology.net; Deorali; ₹10; 🕒 10am-4pm)

The NIT's 1958 core building feels like a Tibetan fantasy palace, with corner towers, colourful mural frontage and a forest-glade setting. The main hall houses a priceless and well-explained collection of culturally Tibetan/Buddhist iconography and artefacts, ranging from thangkas (cloth paintings), coins and amulets to tantric skull-cap bowls and trumpets made from human thigh bones. Beautiful Buddhist statuary includes an eight-armed bronze image of victory goddess Namgyalama, who appears to be texting on an invisible phone.

Few tourists venture upstairs to the shrine-like library, whose teak-and-glass cases house mostly wrapped religious scriptures along with the 135-volume Encyclopaedia Tibetica. The rooftop has pleasant views.

The institute is six minutes' walk from Deorali Bazaar Ropeway Station (GOOGLE MAP); Deorali Chowk) and Deorali taxi stand.

★ Tsuklakhang

BUDDHIST TEMPLE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Bhanu Path; 🕒 dawn-dusk, prayers 6am & 4pm)

Gangtok's 'royal' monastery has a very impressive centrepiece temple whose superb interior incorporates a pair of carved dragon columns flanking the main images. The whole compound is an oasis of calm and, though surrounding monastic quarters are contrastingly neutral, you can get a decent glimpse of the private Chogyal Palace while wandering across the monks' football pitch.

Tashi Viewpoint

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP ; Gangtok-Mangan Rd Km1.4; observation tower ₹5) FREE

When clouds lift, Gangtok's best glimpses of Khangchendzonga are from this roadside knoll at the junction of routes to Mangan and Nathu La, around 7km northwest of the centre.

Ganesh Tok

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP)

Named for the tiny associated Hindu temple, this viewpoint tower is an eagle's perch surveying a vast sweep of cityscape. Notice the Royal Palace visible amid trees way beyond Enchey Gompa.

The Ridge

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

With gorgeous views to east and west through the trees, the city's green heart consists of manicured gardens at the northern end along with a handful of park cafes. Further south, you enter what almost feels like jungle as you skirt the Chogyal Palace (former royal residence).

Himalayan Zoological Park

ZOO

(Gangtok Zoo; GOOGLE MAP; Indian/foreigner ₹25/50, motorbike/car/jeep ₹10/40/100, video ₹500; 🕒 9.30am-4pm Fri-Wed)

Among India's better-maintained zoos, the Himalayan Zoological Park occupies an entire hillside. The star attraction is a pair of red pandas, Sikkim's animal emblem, looking a little like small foxes. There are also Himalayan bears, clouded leopards and snow leopards roaming extensive forested enclosures. These are very widely separated, such that without a vehicle you'll need around three hours to see the main sites. With a car, an hour should suffice. The ticket booth (GOOGLE MAP) is opposite the Ganesh Tok viewpoint but is a long way from the main enclosures.

Enchey Gompa

MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 prayer hall 5am-11am & noon-4pm Mon-Sat, to 1pm Sun) FREE

On the city's northern outskirts, approached through rustling conifers, Enchey is a small but appealing Buddhist monastery that is, in a sense, Gangtok's raison d'être: it was the site's perceived sanctity that attracted people to this once-obscure area. A small, vibrant prayer hall sports tantric statues and a three-dimensional scene that plays out behind the central Buddha figure.

Flower Exhibition Centre

GARDENS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ₹10; 🕒 9am-6pm)

Especially during late March and April, when alpine flowers are in bloom, it's worth peeping inside this modestly sized covered garden, which has changing displays of potted flowers around a central pond. It's often blasted with Bollywood hits – perhaps orchids thrive on rhythm?

Activities

Namgyal Treks & Tours

OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  03592-203701, 9434033122; www.namgyaltreks.com; Enchey Compound, Tibet Rd;  10am-5pm Mon-Sat)

One of Sikkim's best established agencies for treks and especially mountaineering expeditions, founded in 1991 by Namgyal Sherpa, a highly experienced climber and now president of the local Rotary club.

BB Line

ADVENTURE SPORTS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  03592-206110; www.bbline.co.in; 2nd fl, Yama House, MG Marg;  9.30am-6.30pm)

BB Line is one of Sikkim's most forward-thinking adventure-tourism agencies. The first major outfit to offer motorbike rental and tours, it's also developing mountain-bike tours, kayaking and rafting, and it has plans for a bungee-jumping experience in Dzongu.

STDC

SCENIC FLIGHTS

(Sikkim Tourism Development Corporation; MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  03592-203960; www.sikkimtourism.gov.in; MG Marg;  9am-7pm)

This well-organised office offers a pre-booked taxi service (cars collect you at your hotel) and sells helicopter tickets both for transfers to Bagdogra and for pleasure flights, most affordably a 15-minute buzz over Gangtok (₹9500 for up to five people). Longer variants can take you as far as the Khangchendzonga ridge (₹90,000 for four people, 75 minutes). Book early.

Potala Tours & Treks

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9434257036; www.potalatreks.in; PS Rd)

Treks, tours, mountain biking and trips for school groups that can be linked up with routes in Darjeeling and Bhutan.

Fly Sikkim Adventure

PARAGLIDING

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9197207767; www.paraglidingsikkim.com; Banjhankri Rd)

One of Gangtok's main paragliding operators.

Blue Sky Treks & Travels

TREKKING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  03592-205113; www.blueskysikkim.com; Tourism Bldg, MG Marg;  10.30am-7pm)

This is a go-to agent for foreigners looking to share relatively inexpensive but decent-quality budget tours to Lachung. It also arranges treks.

TOP STATE FESTIVALS

Losar ( Feb/Mar) Sikkim's biggest chaam (masked dance) rings in the Tibetan New Year.

Bumchu Lamas open a bum (pot) containing chu (holy water) to foretell the year's fortunes.

Saga Dawa ( May/Jun) Religious ceremonies and parades commemorate Buddha's birth, enlightenment and death.

Pang Lhabsol (GOOGLE MAP ;  Aug) Prayers and religious dances are performed in honour of Sikkim's guardian deity.

Losoong (Namsoong;  Dec/Jan) The Sikkimese harvest festival is preceded by flamboyant chaam dances.

Sleeping

★ Hotel Pandim

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  03592-207540, 9832080172; www.hotelpandim.com; Bhanu Path; dm/d from ₹500/1500; )

Almost too good to be true, this family hotel has jaw-dropping mountain panoramas from its top-floor deluxe rooms (₹2000 to ₹2300), from super-clean four-bed dorms, and especially from the delightful Tibetan-styled top-floor cafe-restaurant where you check in. Even the cheaper basement rooms are eminently liveable, with ample space and thangkas (cloth paintings) as decoration.

Gangtok Lodge

GUESTHOUSE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-206562; NH31A; d ₹1500)

Formerly the Modern Central Lodge, this neat little eight-room guesthouse has simple rooms with small double beds. Nepali curtains and hand-painted Sikkimese cabinets add a little colour. Curfew 10pm.

★ Hidden Forest

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-205197; www.hiddenforestretreat.org; NH10, Middle Sichey; s/d ₹2750/3300.; @ 📶)

This collection of high-quality, lovingly maintained cottage rooms and houselets is interspersed with countless blooming shrubs and orchids. Though partly masked by new building work below, valley vistas remain gorgeous, and there's a well-stocked library downstairs and a nursery full of flowers. By advance arrangement you can enjoy delicious home-cooked meals (₹220/330 for breakfast/dinner).

It's around 2km from central Gangtok, ₹150 by taxi. Enter via the garden path behind Hotel Vajrakila.

Hotel Yavachi

DESIGN HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-204666; www.hotelyavachi.com; Church Rd; r from ₹3300, wal in from ₹2400; 📶)

Despite the modest rates, Yavachi is a well-executed festival of comfortable modernism, with ceiling-panel lighting and abstract art thoughtfully designed to coordinate with the fabrics in each room. Views are limited – those from the very inviting rooftop Rockefeller Bar (beer ₹100) are better than the mere glimpses you get from some guest rooms.

Hotel Tashi Tagey

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-231631; www.tashitagey.com; NH10, Tadong; d ₹1500-3500; @)

For quality at affordable prices, it's worth venturing to this hotel in Tadong, 3km below Gangtok. Corridors with botanical prints lead to spotless rooms, wi-fi is available in a lounge adorned with the hostess's needlepoint, and unbeatable rooftop views are framed by a priceless collection of bonsai trees, some more than 50 years old. A shared taxi from town costs ₹20.

Hotel Sonam Delek

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-202566; www.hotelsonamdelek.com; Tibet Rd; r without/with view from ₹1870/3960, ste ₹5610; 📶)

The view, the view! Most of the 20 highly comfortable if slightly dated rooms have it, and even the other three have access to a communal vista-gazing terrace. Upper rooms and suites have private balconies for that top-of-the-world feeling.

Service is obliging and efficient. Parking is a squeeze.

Mintokling Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-208553; www.mintokling.com; Bhanu Path; s/d/ste ₹2530/2750/3300; @ 📶)

Nestled amid exotic greenery and set around pretty lawns, this oasis of peace and quiet has a dozen large, well-kept if slightly austere rooms that are partly wood-panelled. There's a family-style warmth in the welcome, yet the dining room offers a restaurant-worthy range of guest meals, including several genuine Sikkimese options.

★ Netuk House

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-206778; www.netukhouse.com; r/ste ₹5500/7500)

Netuk House is a luxurious 'heritage' B&B with a dozen rooms in three very different buildings. The most visually exciting is the two-storey temple-esque 'Annex', a festival of colourful Sikkimery with superb panoramas from upper rooms set back from a gorgeous crazy-paved view patio. The octagonal 'Heritage' building has three huge rooms with lashings of old wood. It's off Tibet Rd.

Chumbi Residency

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-206618; www.thechumbiresidency.com; Tibet Rd; s/tw/d ₹4740/5920/7100; 📶)

In a building whose half-timbered exterior has an almost Japanese vibe, rooms are tastefully understated, and on upper floors you'll easily forgive the lacklustre old bathrooms as you sit in your window gazing towards Khangchendzonga. Most lower floors have views too, albeit partly tree-obstructed. Four floors down (no lift) is the appealing bar-restaurant Tangerine and a delightful shady garden area.

Hotel Nor-Khill

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-205637; www.elginhotels.com; s/d/ste incl half-board ₹11,565/11,945/13,335; 🅅 📶)

Checking into the Nor-Khill is like time travelling back to the pre-Independence era, when this stately property served as the royal guesthouse. Countless historical photos, splendid period furniture and crystal chandeliers lend a vintage feel to the hallways and the indulgent lobby-lounge. Rooms are spaciouly classy, too, though some can smell a little musty. The hotel is off PS Rd.

SLEEPING PRICE RANGES

Accommodation price ranges for Sikkim:

$ below ₹1500

$$ ₹1500–5000

$$$ above ₹5000

Taste of Tibet

TIBETAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MG Marg; mains ₹160-230, momos ₹90-140; 🕒 11am-8.30pm)

With a perfect central location and a reputation for Gangtok's best Tibetan food, this place always draws throngs of diners chomping shyabhale (fried meat pasties) and slurping thentuk (thukpa; noodle soup), but the decor (or lack thereof) offers little romance. Try for a people-watching window seat.

Dekid

BHUTANESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 1st fl, Tibet Rd; mains ₹90-150, half/full portion rice ₹60/120; 🕒 8.30am-8.30pm)

Fancy trying Bhutanese food? This pleasantly unsophisticated three-table place makes it straightforward by offering just two main styles to choose from: red-orange shakam curry using dried meat, and deliciously creamy, mid-spiced datshi cheese-based dishes with kawa (potato), pepper, beef or short strips of fatty pork. The complimentary bowl of soup is a nice touch.

The Coffee Shop

INTERNATIONAL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.facebook.com/thecoffeeshopgangtok; pizza ₹290-380, snacks ₹130-220, mains ₹280-320; 🕒 9.30am-9.30pm; 📶)

Upstairs above The Square, this ever-popular cafe-diner is known not just for excellent coffee and smoothies but also for familiar international meals from nachos and falafels to grilled chops, rosemary tenderloin and various thin-crust pizzas. Behind a tempting cake display, the Dalai Lama raises his mug in approval.

Bakers Cafe

BAKERY $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MG Marg; pastries/snacks from ₹20/65, mains ₹80-220, mixed grill ₹380; 🕒 8am-8pm)

Lilting twangs of country music often serenade this timber-panelled cafe that's especially popular with families and local women. Robust espressos (₹70), organic ginger tea (₹60) and other exotic infusions wash down a range of paninis and Western-style pastries from the bakery counter. The menu also offers fast food and traveller favourites including banana pancakes, hummus and all-day breakfasts.

★ Mu Kimchi

KOREAN $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9593340401; <https://www.facebook.com/MuKimchi/>; 5th fl, Clique Bldg, Namnang Rd; snacks ₹190-310, meals ₹300-700; 🕒 10am-10.30pm)

Longing for perfectly prepared, authentic Korean cuisine? Then it's well worth climbing the 80 steps to Mu Kimchi, with an interior that cleverly cultivates a special ambience, balancing original bamboo ceilings and woven lamps with a pared-down contemporary minimalism matching the sound system's insistent, bass-heavy mash-ups.

Beer/cocktails/soju cost from ₹150/350/250.

Parivar Restaurant

SOUTH INDIAN $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MG Marg; curries ₹100-180, dosas ₹110-150, rice ₹70, small/large thalis ₹180/280; 🕒 9.30am-9pm; 🍴)

Ever popular for pure-veg South Indian food, the reliable Parivar plays a stylistically straight bat with red-leatherette bench booths and almost no decor beyond a token ornate dragon column.

Dynasty

CHINESE $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03592-206444; 1st fl, Namnang Ropeway Bldg, Kazi Rd; mains ₹180-440, half/whole Peking duck ₹800/1400, rice ₹80; 🕒 11.30am-9.30pm; 📶)

Enjoy some of Gangtok's most authentic Chinese cuisine while settled into black-patterned sofas upstairs in the Namnang Ropeway Station building (GOOGLE MAP; Kazi Rd). Dynasty does a passable approximation of Thai food too.

SIKKIMESE FOOD

The most common dishes are Tibetan/pan-Himalayan favourites, including momos (dumplings) and rich noodle soups including thentuk/thukpa, gyathuk and bhathuk. More archetypally Sikkimese soups use local organic vegetables, whether fermented (gundruk spinach, sinki radishes) or fresh (karela bitter gourds, sisnoo nettles). Curries might incorporate fried ningro (fiddlehead ferns), bareh (ground-orchid bud heads) or fing (rice-noodle strands). Unusually for India, beef is popular. If ordering pork, beware: locals like it indulgently fatty, often with rind.

Drinking & Nightlife

There's no beating the regal setting of the Hotel Nor-Khill for an indulgent, very British Empire-style afternoon tea (₹495) with engraved pewter teapots and scones on doiled stands. If you just want to taste Sikkimese Temi tea (₹40), head for Golden Tips or Cafe Fiction within Rachna Books, which also has good French press coffee. For espresso, hit The Coffee Shop or Bakers Cafe.

Clique

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Namnang Rd; beer/juice from ₹120/110; 🕒 10am-11pm)

Decorated with old 33rpm records, this cube of a bar often offers live music (pop to Nepali traditional) on weekend nights. It supplements its range of alcoholic drinks with a series of healthy fresh-juice alternatives saddled with brutal names such as Liver Cleanser and Go Nuts Shake.

★ Downtown

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; MG Marg; beer/wine/shots from ₹130/60/40; 🕒 noon-9pm)

Central Gangtok's most alternative little bar has seats like midget sofas with stuffing coming out, and guests seem to flout the no-smoking rules. Yet somehow the low-lit atmosphere works, with its curtained balconies, little performance space, informal jam sessions and murals of Marley, Lennon and Hendrix.

The Square

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); MG Marg; beer/shots/cocktails/wine from ₹149/33/193/83; 🕒 10am-9.30pm)

Moodily lit, with booth seating, pacey music, and walls chock-a-block with black-and-white portrait photos, The Square pulls off a clever balance between 'family friendly' and 'comfortably contemporary'. The drink list includes a selection of cocktails and various wines by the glass. Food ranges from spicy barbeque ribs to bacon-wrapped shrimps to an array of curries (mains ₹190 to ₹440).

★ Entertainment

★ Cafe Live & Loud

LIVE MUSIC

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.facebook.com/CafeLiveAndLoud; Tibet Rd; beer/cocktails/tea/coffee from ₹160/350/54/95, hookah ₹250; 🕒 11am-11pm Sun-Fri, to 1am Sat; 📶)

Gangtok's most happening music bar bathes its drinkers in a tsunami of sound Wednesday to Friday evenings, when live bands typically crank out rock or alternative-pop sets. On Saturday, pay ₹300 after 6pm to join the DJ party. By day there's a relaxed, jazzy vibe, especially on the plush, partly curtained balcony terrace. Full food menu (mains ₹200 to ₹600).

Service, tax and food VAT add a whopping 25.5% to meal bills.

🛍 Shopping

★ Golden Tips

TEA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.goldentipstea.in; MG Marg; 🕒 9.30am-8.30pm)

This boutique tea store stocks a fine selection of beautifully packaged teas, mostly premium Darjeeling and Temi (Sikkimese) variants. A cafe-style tasting area allows you to sip from a choice of 48 types. A cup/pot costs from ₹40/160, but drinking delicate white tea made from hand-selected buds picked before sunrise can set you back ₹160/800.

There's a second shop (MAP GOOGLE MAP); Kazi Rd; 🕒 9am-7.30pm).

★ Rachna Books

BOOKS

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 03592-204336; www.rachnabooks.com; Jeewan Theeng Marg, Development Area; tea/coffee from ₹40/90; 🕒 9.30am-7pm Mon-Sat, closed during Dasain)

Gangtok's 'alternative cultural hub' as well as the city's best-stocked and most convivial bookshop, Rachna also has a three-room B&B (rooms ₹1500 to ₹1900) and a jazzy little cafe serving French-press and filter coffees, Temi teas and snacks. Occasional events include possible film shows.

Climate Zone

SPORTS & OUTDOORS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP); Tibet Rd; 🕒 9.30am-9pm)

Reasonably well-stocked outdoors shop for hiking and camping equipment, including trekking sticks, umbrellas and various sizes of backpack.

i Information

INTERNET ACCESS

Some hotels offer wi-fi, as do a handful of restaurants and cafes. Speeds can be far from impressive. Internet Cafe (GOOGLE MAP ; MG Marg; per hour ₹30, minimum charge ₹20; 🕒 8.30am-7.30pm) allows customers to use wi-fi on their own computers; Cyber Cafe (GOOGLE MAP ; MG Marg; per hour ₹30; 🕒 9am-9pm) doesn't. For ₹198 you can get 1GB of data valid for a month on a BSNL sim. That works OK in the city but barely functions in rural Sikkim.

MEDICAL SERVICES

STNM Hospital (GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 03592-222059; NH31A) Government hospital with emergency and outpatient facilities. Take a copy of your travel insurance for major treatments.

MONEY

ATMs are widespread. Gangtok is essentially the only place in Sikkim with currency-exchange facilities.

Money changers aren't particularly common. A good place to look is MG Marg, where you can compare rates at a trio of tiny booths in the building opposite Golden Dragon (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Marg; mains ₹200-440; 🕒 11am-9pm). Pankhuri Enterprises (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.pankhurienterprises.com; MG Marg; 🕒 9.30am-6.30pm) offers OK deals, but the best rates are from RS Enterprises (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Marg; 🕒 9.15am-7.15pm) opposite the Gandhi statue. Other than SBI (State Bank of India; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; NH31A; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, plus alternate Sats), banks that claim to offer forex services usually require you to have an account before changing money, and rates are usually poor.

POST

Main Post Office (GOOGLE MAP ; PS Rd; 🕒 for stamps 10am-4pm Mon-Sat, to 2pm Sun) This is one of relatively few GPOs in India to offer the 'My Stamp' service, where you can get your own photograph turned into a postage stamp (sheet of 12 stamps for ₹300).

TOURIST INFORMATION

STDC Makes practical arrangements including helicopter and taxi bookings.

Tourist Office (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 03592-209090; www.sikkimtourism.gov.in; MG Marg; 🕒 9am-7pm) Relatively helpful at answering questions; offers a comprehensive info pamphlet that includes useful schematic maps.

Getting There & Away

AIR

Until the much-delayed Pakyong airport opens, the nearest airport to Sikkim is at Bagdogra, near Siliguri in West Bengal. It has plentiful flights to Kolkata, Delhi and Guwahati.

Foreigners without pre-arranged Sikkim permits can get one quickly at the airport's Sikkim Tourism counter, important if you've arrived after around 3pm and are thus unlikely to reach the Rangpo border before 7.30pm, when it stops issuing permits.

BUS & JEEP

Government buses from the SNT bus station (MAP GOOGLE MAP; PS Rd; 🕒 tickets 6am-6pm) run approximately hourly to Siliguri (₹190) between 6am and 1.30pm, and there are daily services to Pakyong (₹45, 4.15pm) and Rhenock via Rangpo (₹80, 2pm).

Most jeeps running to destinations within Sikkim start from the three-layered Central Jeep Stand (GOOGLE MAP; Church Rd).

Vehicles to Rumtek and Ranka start from the top, jeeps to West and South Sikkim use the midlevel, and to Singtam, Pakyong and Rhenock they start from the bottom. The booking offices will only sell same-day tickets, but locals call the driver to reserve seats, especially for early departures. Some main-road hotels, including Tashi Tagey, are happy to do this for you so that you're picked up from your door and don't need to go to the jeep stand at all.

Useful departures:

- ➔ Dentam ₹250, six hours, 6.15am
- ➔ Geyzing ₹250, 4½ hours, 6.30am, 7am, 7.30am, 7.45am
- ➔ Jorethang ₹150, three hours, every half-hour 6.45am to 4.30pm via West Bengal
- ➔ Namchi ₹150, four hours, every half-hour 7am to 3pm
- ➔ Pelling ₹300, five hours, 1pm, or use Geyzing vehicles
- ➔ Ravangla ₹140, four hours, 7am, 7.45am, noon, 12.30pm, 1.30pm, 2pm
- ➔ Rhenock ₹120, 2½ hours, 7am, 9.30am, 10.30am, 12.30pm, 3.30pm
- ➔ Singtam ₹60, one hour, three or more hourly 7am to 5pm. Can take two hours in heavy traffic
- ➔ Tashiding ₹250, five to 6½ hours, 7am
- ➔ Yuksom ₹300, 6½ to eight hours, 7am

Note that journey times can vary enormously according to road conditions and traffic. Estimates above might sound pessimistic but are in fact realistic.

TRAIN

The nearest major train station is about 125km away at New Jalpaiguri (NJP). Tickets can be purchased through the computerised railway booking counter (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; SNT bus stand; 🕒 8am-2pm Mon-Sat, to 11am Sun & public holidays) at the SNT bus station or more centrally at DJ Mandap Tours (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9832373337; MG Marg; commission ₹100; 🕒 10am-6pm).

Rumtek

ELEV 1660M

Facing Gangtok distantly across a plunging green valley, Rumtek's extensive gompa complex is one of Tibetan Buddhism's most venerable institutions as the home-in-exile of the Kagyu (Black Hat) sect. The main route up starts near Ranipul and passes some lovely city views as it climbs. You can also make Rumtek part of a day-trip loop that includes more peaceful and arguably lovelier Lingdum Gompa (GOOGLE MAP ; www.zurmangkagyud.org; Ranka; butter-lamp donation small/medium/large ₹10/20/100; 🕒 dawn-dusk). Though stretches of the road are in dire need of repair, the route winds through mossy forests, bamboo groves and terraced paddy fields, presenting many more super viewpoints. Nearer to Gangtok you'll pass minor attractions, including the try-hard Kanchendzonga Tourist Centre (GOOGLE MAP ; <http://www.ktcranka.com/>; Ranka; adult/child/parking ₹100/50/25, simulator/panorama show/mini train ₹80/90/40; 🕒 11am-8pm, rides till 6pm) and the modest Banjhakri Waterfalls in a park of garish figures portraying pre-Buddhist animist myths.

Sights

Rumtek Gompa

MONASTERY

(Rumtek Dharma Chakra Centre; GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 03592-252329; www.rumtek.org; monastery ₹10; 🕒 6am-6pm)

Rumtek is Sikkim's most spiritually significant monastery complex. It's essentially a self-contained village with a colourful main prayer hall that was built (1961–66) to replace Tibet's Tsurphu Monastery, destroyed during the Chinese Cultural Revolution (though since rebuilt). The interior's centrepiece is a giant yellow throne awaiting the long-overdue coronation of the Kagyu spiritual leader, the (disputed) 17th Karmapa. He currently resides in Dharamsala due to the Karmapa controversy, sensitivity over which explains all the armed soldiers and why foreigners must show their passport and Sikkim permit on entry.

Behind the monastery, stairs rise beside the distinctively painted Karma Shri Nalanda Institute of Buddhist Studies, leading quickly to a smallish room containing an ornate Golden Stupa (GOOGLE MAP; Rumtek Gompa; 🕒 6-11.45am & noon-5pm) studded with turquoise and amber gemstones. That's the reliquary of the 16th Karmapa, founder of the current complex and considered almost a saint hereabouts.

The gompa hosts some of Sikkim's finest chaam masked dances, notably at Saga Dawa and especially at the Gutor Chaam directly before Losar, Tibetan New Year.

Old Rumtek Gompa

MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Old Rumtek Gompa, around 1.5km beyond the Rumtek main gate, is an oasis of peace away from the tourist crowds. Originally founded in 1734 but thoroughly rebuilt, the prayer hall has an intensely colourful interior. Valley views can be glimpsed through the trees from foreground lawns, on which three rotundas are provided for people to picnic.

Festivals & Events

Rumtek holds impressive masked chaam dances during the annual drupchen (group meditation) in May/June, and at Old Rumtek Gompa two days before Losar. The much-fancied Mahakala Dance (🕒 Feb) takes place in February, when giant figurines of fierce protector deities come to life in the central courtyard.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Bamboo Retreat

BOUTIQUE HOTEL $$$

(;  9434382036, 3592252516, 9647851055; www.bambooretreat.in; Sajong; incl breakfast s without/with view ₹4700/6700, d ₹6000/7000, apt ₹15,000;

Climb stone steps through terraced organic gardens to reach this fabulous pseudo-temple resort, set gloriously alone in partly cleared forest. Comfy rooms are named for their coordinating colours, and all but three have balconies offering superb views. Communal spaces ooze atmosphere and include a library, a museum-like dining room with fireplace, a TV lounge (no TVs in rooms) and a meditation room.

THE KARMAPA CONTROVERSY

The 'Black Hat' sect takes its name from the priceless ruby-topped black headgear traditionally worn by the Karmapas (reincarnated spiritual leaders). Said to be woven from the hair of dakinis (female spirits who carry the souls of the dead), the hat must be kept locked in a box to prevent it from flying back to the heavens. Nobody, however, has actually seen the hat since 1993, when a bitter controversy arose within the Kagyu sect over the legitimacy of two candidates, with both claiming their right to the throne following the death of the 16th Karmapa in 1981.

The main candidate, recognised by the Dalai Lama, is Ogyen Trinley Dorje (<http://kagyuoffice.org>), who fled Tibet in 2000. He holds 'temporary' office at the Gyuto Tantric Monastery near Dharamsala, but Indian authorities are believed to have prevented him from officially taking up his Rumtek seat for fear of upsetting Chinese-government sensibilities. His rival, Thaye Dorje (www.karmapa.org), operates from the Karmapa International Buddhist Institute in Delhi. Supporters of the two lamas have now been locked in a legal dispute over who can control Rumtek for more than two decades. During 2016 supporters of Ogyen Trinley Dorje launched a renewed series of demonstrations and hunger strikes aimed at persuading the Indian government to allow their candidate to finally take up his Rumtek seat.

Only when the dispute is resolved and the 17th Karmapa is finally crowned will anyone dare to unlock the box and reveal the sacred black hat. To learn more about the controversy, read The Dance of 17 Lives by Mick Brown.

Tsomgo (Changu) Lake

ELEV 3750M

Mysterious for its lack of feeder river, Tsomgo (Changu Lake) (pronounced Changu) is not the prettiest mountain lake in the world, but excursions here are the quickest way to get above the tree line, making it a wildly popular destination for those in-a-hurry Indian tourists who have never before experienced alpine scenery. Short yak rides (₹200) potter along the shore, completing the tourist experience. The altitude might make you short of breath, but don't believe scare stories that suggest you'll need to carry oxygen or take diamox for a day trip.

Permits are required for foreigners and Indians alike, but these can generally be arranged for a next-day departure by virtually any Gangtok agent (photos and document copies required).

Only Indians can continue to Nathu La, the Chinese border post, and only then to snap a few photos, not to cross into Tibet – at least for now.

At the lakeside, food stalls sell hot chai, chow mein and momos (dumplings).

The lake is 38km from Gangtok. A budget day tour typically costs around ₹4500 per vehicle. Joining a group tour is easy for Indians (around ₹800 per person including Nathu La) but pretty much impossible for foreigners, since they can't do the Nathu La section, leading to the logistical problem of who stays with them while the rest of the group continues to the Chinese border.

NORTH SIKKIM

Gangtok to Mangan

The frail, narrow and sometimes infuriatingly muddy NH31A winds tortuously through thickly wooded slopes high above the Teesta River. Streams cascade between mossy boulders half-hidden by curtains of foliage and bamboo thickets. Larger white-water rivers are glimpsed from bridges fluttering with prayer flags. But Yumthang-bound tour jeeps generally zoom right by, stopping only at Tashi Viewpoint and the impressive Seven Sisters Waterfall (GOOGLE MAP ; Gangtok-Mangan Rd Km30). To see Kabi Lunchok (GOOGLE MAP ; Gangtok-Mangan Rd, Km17.6) and Tumlong (GOOGLE MAP ; Gangtok-Mangan Rd Km36), which are only vaguely worthwhile, you'll need to ask, as the reluctant driver will be rushing to reach Lachung before dark.

Mangan, North Sikkim's regional capital, is a good place to organise DIY Lachung tours. Its commercial centre is a dreary, Y-shaped concrete scar high on a steep, jungle-covered hillside, but attractive outskirts hide two appealing accommodation choices. Across the Teesta, the Lepcha protected area of Dzongu (GOOGLE MAP) is delightful for low-key village homestay experiences.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Mayallyang Homestay

HOMESTAY

(GOOGLE MAP ;  9647872434, 8348332721; www.mayallyang.com; Passingdang, Dzongu; per person incl full board ₹1800)

One of Sikkim's most magical getaways. Youthful host Gyatshe is an energetic anti-dam campaigner who sees homestays as an important part of sharing his message about ecological and cultural sustainability. Watch interesting videos in the inviting lounge, or relax on the half-timbered homestead's enchanting porch. Rooms are simple, with shared bathrooms. It's down nearly 100 steps from Passingdang's main street.

GUIDED TOURS

There are essentially two valleys to explore: Lachen and Lachung. But since foreigners aren't permitted to visit Gurudongmar Lake (the Lachen area's main attraction), most visitors choose Lachung-Yumthang. From Gangtok you'll need three days to do justice to Yumthang and Zero Point. Starting from Mangan makes things far more relaxed – two days would suffice.

All-inclusive two-night, three-day tours from Gangtok to Yumthang start from around ₹6000 per person (including bed and board) if you're in a group of four. Vehicle-only 'tours' from Mangan cost around ₹3500 per day for the jeep, accommodation extra. Double-check what accommodation is offered, and whether the second day includes a trip to Zero Point or only to Yumthang (the official fare for Yumthang and Zero Point is ₹2500).

Far North Sikkim

Lachung

 03592 / ELEVATION 2680M

Soaring, rock-pinnacled valley walls embroidered with long ribbons of waterfalls surround the scattered village of Lachung. To appreciate the full drama of its setting, take the metal cantilever bridge across the wild Yumthang River and wander up through the older part of town to the colourful Lachung Gompa (Sarchok Gompa; GOOGLE MAP); Katao Rd, Km1.8), established 1880, or along to a viewpoint field in which stands the distinctive Shakathang Stupa (GOOGLE MAP).

Much more of this wonderful scenery is to be found along the majestic Yumthang Valley – excursions here are the main reason visitors stay in Lachung in the first place.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Kalden Residency

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP);  8900085244; Yumthang Rd; r ₹1000-2000, full board extra ₹500)

Our favourite budget digs in Lachung, the Kalden Residency is based around a local-style timber house, with a couple of newer, house-like buildings around a yard blooming with pot plants. Rooms are simple but far better than average for the price, and the family owners are charming.

Yarlam Resort

RESORT $$$

(GOOGLE MAP); 📍 9434330033; www.yarlamresort.com; Yumthang Rd Km1.3; d without/with view ₹10,000/11,000, ste ₹15,000; 🕒 Mar–mid-Jun & Aug–Dec; 📧)

Remarkably luxurious for remote Lachung, Yarlam greets new arrivals with tea in the part-Tibetanised lobby lounge or serene library. Indulgent rooms have comfy beds overloaded with pillows and DVD-TVs; suites have spacious balcony seating (notably room 301). Their wonderful mountain views are shared by the communal games room (snooker, table tennis, Carrom, chess). No wi-fi.

Yumthang Valley

One of North Sikkim's greatest highlights is driving the 52km route between Lachung and Zero Point through the ever-changing scenic kaleidoscope of the Yumthang Valley. Though you'll no doubt hope for clear skies to see the mountains' full magnificence, swirling clouds can actually help emphasise their contours and let you focus on their natural botanical beauty. Ascending over 2000m, you'll pass through lush mixed forest, rhododendron groves, sturdy old pines draped with garlands of moss, and wild, tundra-like uplands above the tree line.

Around halfway, don't miss Yumthang Hot Springs (GOOGLE MAP): Yumthang Rd Km21.9): not for the tiny, unappealing bathing pool but for the approach across prayer-flag-draped suspension footbridges, with picture-postcard views of the towering valley wall. Beyond Yumthang's basic gaggle of shop and cafes, stop again to stroll Yumthang Meadow (GOOGLE MAP); Yumthang Rd Km23). Some tours end here; others continue another 30km up a seemingly endless series of hairpins to Zero Point (GOOGLE MAP) (at a breathless 4825m).

Transport is by tour jeep with pre-approved permits. It takes around an hour to reach Yumthang Meadow from Lachung, and as long again to Zero Point. Start early – there are plenty of photo stops en route and you'll need to be back in Lachung by around 2pm as per army rules.

Lachen

ELEV 2700M

Lachen was once a quaint village of old wooden homes on sturdy stone bases with ornate Tibetan-style window frames. These days, however, it's largely a mass of concrete box hotels serving streams of Indian tourists heading for Gurudongmar Lake. The scene is more attractive up by the Lachen (Nyudrup Choeling) Gompa, a 15-minute walk above the town.

Lachen can also be used as the trailhead for eight-day expeditionary treks to Green Lake (5050m) towards Khangchendzonga's northeast face. The trek is partly along the Zemu Glacier, considered the legendary home of the yeti (aka 'the abominable snowman'). Until 2015, permits had to be applied for in Delhi and could take months. But that's changed – at least for a trial period – and the paperwork can now be sorted in a week or so. Contact Namgyal Treks & Tours in Gangtok for information and assistance.

As you'll almost certainly arrive on a tour, it's likely that your hotel will be pre-selected. If you get to choose, and you're seeking luxury a little away from the main centre, hospitable Apple Orchard Resort ( 9474837640; www.theappleorchardresort.com; s/d incl full board ₹7479/9619; ) next to the ani gompa (nunnery) is worth considering. In smart buildings set around a leafy, tiered complex, its cosy, inviting rooms have graceful wooden flooring and panelling.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK
THANGGU & TSOPTA

Beyond a sprawling army camp 32km north of Lachen, Thanggu (3850m) is essentially a summer herders' settlement with an end-of-the-world feel. A few hardy travellers spend the night here, but most groups just stop for breakfast en route to Gurudongmar Lake (5150m), a memorable sight reflecting its backdrop of snowy peaks in mirror-calm water, at least when it isn't frozen. Chomalu, around 10km further, is India's highest lake. Unfortunately, foreigners are not permitted to visit either lake.

Foreigners usually can wander in the Tsopta Valley though, reached by a boulder-strewn stream some 2km from Thanggu. Just above the tree line, the scenery takes on the added drama of a glacier-toothed mountain wall framing the western horizon. A two-hour hike leads up to a pair of meditation caves, one of which was reputedly used for two years by the famous French traveller and mystic Alexandra David-Neel. A few houses in Thanggu offer homestay-style accommodation but most visitors stay in Lachen.

SOUTH SIKKIM

Namchi

☞ 03595 / POP 12,920 / ELEV 1470M

Two hulking religious superstructures on the the jagged horizon around Namchi are the town's great 'sights', but it's pleasant enough as a staging post, with a convivial pedestrianised centre formed from twin plazas, each with an ancient tree.

Sights

★ Samdruptse

BUDDHIST MONUMENT

(Padmasambhava Statue; GOOGLE MAP; ₹30, parking ₹30; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Visible for miles, this 45m-high statue of Padmasambhava (Guru Rimpoche) is painted in shimmering copper and gilt and sits on a lotus plinth high above Namchi on the forested Samdruptse ridge. Completed in 2004 on a foundation stone laid in 1997 by the Dalai Lama, the statue turns his back on a superlative view of the Khangchendzonga Massif, which is best seen from beside his right haunch.

Around the base are some fading historical photos of old Sikkim and within is a prayer room. From the car park, a 15-minute cable car (return ₹173; 🕒 9.30am-5pm) excursion takes you down to a rock garden (GOOGLE MAP); 🕒 9.30am-5.30pm) and back.

Samdruptse is 7km from Namchi, 2km off the Damthang/Ravangla road. Taxis from town charge ₹330 return. Or pay ₹930 to charter a one-way to Ravangla with a Samdruptse side trip en route.

★ Char Dham

HINDU MONUMENT

(Siddesvara Dham; GOOGLE MAP ; adult/student/parking ₹50/25/30; 🕒 6am-7pm)

This unmissable feast of colour is a remarkable Hindu religious theme park crowning Solophuk hilltop, 5km southwest of Namchi. It brings together replicas of great Indian pilgrimage sites, including Rameshwarm, Dwarka and Jagarnath, beneath a towering 33m Shiva statue. Whether you find it moving or kitschy, the views and photo opportunities are spectacular.

Be prepared to walk a fair distance barefooted. A taxi here from Namchi, with a one-hour wait, costs ₹330 return.

Ngadak Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP)

The Ngadak gompa complex is dominated by a gigantic 2014 prayer hall containing some of the richest new paintings in Sikkim; beside it is the ruinous, unpainted shell of a far older monastery building. Exuding a sense of antique Sikkim and reputedly haunted, it was previously the palace of Pedi Wangmu, the Sikkimese queen who temporarily overthrew her half-brother in 1700 and finally had him killed years later (only to be murdered by his followers).

Sleeping & Eating

Dungmali Heritage Resort

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9734126039; minurai81@yahoo.com; Solophuk Rd; s ₹600, d rear/front ₹1200/1500, cottage ₹2500; 📶)

Some 4km from Namchi, overlooking town from the first hairpin as you climb to Char Dham, this family-run guesthouse has great-value rooms in an organic cardamon grove, with valley views from the front doubles. Upon prior request, the proprietors can organise forest walks and birdwatching tours nearby.

Summit Sobralia Resort

HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9083246084, central reservations 0359-520113; www.summithotels.in; Chardham Rd; s/d ₹7000/8000, walk-in ₹4000/5000; 📶 🚿)

Namchi's swankiest option so far has framed views of Khangchendzonga from its little outdoor pool and from several of the smart (if somewhat formulaic) top-end rooms. It's 1.8km southwest of Namchi on the road towards Char Dham.

Hotel Sangay

TIBETAN, INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP; mains ₹70-160; 🕒 8am-8pm)

Overlooking the central fountain and an ancient bodhi tree, this gently stylish restaurant is cleaner and more inviting than most of the competition – but other than momo (Tibetan dumplings) and a basic veg thali, the majority of the extensive menu requires you to order an hour or two before you dine.

i Getting There & Away

The multi-storey jeep-stand (GOOGLE MAP) building is directly east of the pedestrianised town centre. Buses and shared jeeps start from the base; private taxis with fixed rates queue on the 1st floor.

Pre-purchase tickets for shared jeeps to Gangtok (₹150, four hours) and Siliguri (₹150, three to six hours depending on traffic), which leave once or twice an hour from 6.30am to 3pm. For Jorethang (₹40, two hours) and Ravangla (₹60, 1¼ hours) vehicles depart when full, with few services after noon.

There are daily morning buses for Siliguri (₹90) and Gangtok (₹90), plus two to Ravangla at 11.30am and 2pm (₹35).

Ravangla (Rabongla)

📍03595 / ELEVATION 2050M

The small, ridge-top settlement of Ravangla (aka Rabongla or Rabong) is one of Sikkim's must-see destinations thanks to the remarkable new Buddha Park, whose gigantic golden statue sits serenely with a stunning dawn backdrop of white-topped Himalayan peaks.

Views aren't nearly as dramatic from the two main streets where the majority of Ravangla's central hotels are clustered, but a central taxi stand is handily placed to explore nearby sights, most notably the monasteries at Ralang and Yungdrung Kundrakling.

Sights

★ Buddha Park

BUDDHIST MONUMENT

(Tathagata Tsal; GOOGLE MAP; www.tathagatatsal.com; Ralang Rd Km2; Indian/foreigner ₹50/200; 🕒9am-5.30pm)

With a breathtaking backdrop of Himalayan peaks, this gigantic, 41m-tall Buddha statue contains holy relics from 11 countries. A spiral interior gallery showcases scenes from Buddha's life in two very different but colourfully intricate styles. Blessed by the Dalai Lama in 2013, the statue is set in manicured lawns behind a central fountain; piped-in mantras add a meditative atmosphere.

Palchen Choeling Monastery

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(New Ralang Gompa; GOOGLE MAP; Ralang; P)

Near Ralang, 10.5km northwest of Ravangla, this monastery complex built in 1995 is home to more than 300 monks. It's highly significant in Kagyu Buddhism as residence of Gyaltsap Rinpoche, one of the order's five top figures. The main prayer hall is a spectacular feast of coloured walls and gilded roofs set around a wide courtyard with swastika-patterned tiling. The superb, two-storey-high golden Buddha inside sports an iridescent-blue haircut.

Yungdrung Kundrakling

MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; Ravangla-Kewzing Rd; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

One of only two Bon monasteries in India, this small, double-prayer-hall complex enjoys superb mountain views but has only around 25 monks and three teachers, plus a school full of (mostly orphaned) youngsters. It's beside the main Legship road, 5.5km from central Ravangla, just beyond an area of beautiful deep forest. If you visit, a donation to the monastery will be greatly appreciated.

Old Ralang Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; Ralang)

About 1.5km downhill from Palchen Choeling, Old Ralang monastery was established in 1768. The main temple has been totally rebuilt since 2012 but the complex does retain a handful of old stone-and-timber monks' dwellings preserved as examples of historic Bhutia architecture – and there are unforgettable mountain panoramas to your right as you pass through the outer gate. The Mahakala Puja (🕒 Dec) festival is held here.

Mane Choekhorling Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Built between 1984 and 2008 according to classic traditional designs, this flamboyant gompa has an impressive central temple with an octagon stone base. The annual Pang Lhabso festival honours Kanchendzonga here. It makes an attractive quick stop if you're walking back from the Buddha Park to Ravangla's Main Bazaar.

Activities

Maenem Hill Hike

HIKING

(GOOGLE MAP)

For a fairly strenuous day hike ask at Kanchan Himalayas (GOOGLE MAP) 8768442600; khtoursntravels@gmail.com; Kewzing Rd; ⌚ 9.30am-6pm) or find yourself a guide (from ₹500) and trek through the woodlands, springtime-blooming rhododendrons and magnolias of the Maenam Wildlife Sanctuary, continuing up Maenem Hill and on to Bhaledunga Rock for sweeping views. There's just a chance that you'll encounter red pandas and monal pheasants (Sikkim's state animal and bird, respectively).

Sleeping & Eating

Red Panda

GUESTHOUSE $$

(GOOGLE MAP);  9733193884, 9735264819; Buddha Park Rd; without/with view ₹1500/2000)

Above a snack cafe (great chicken momo) that looks far from promising are nine new guest rooms, almost all of which have views of the Buddha with a full Himalayan peak backdrop that is unbeatable. Conditions are comfortable without particular luxury.

Mt Narsing Village Resort

RESORT $$

(GOOGLE MAP);  8145841614, 8145294900; www.mtnarsingresorts.com; off Kewzing Rd; d from ₹3025)

Set 1km off the Ravanla–Legship road, this gaggle of rustic bungalows is arrayed on pretty garden lawns with Himalayan views that would be perfect were it not for an annoying electricity pylon. Room conditions are a tad scraggy for the price but the central restaurant is a complete delight, overflowing with character and packed with local artefacts.

Blue Spring Residency

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 8927479246, 9733121105; raju1881975@gmail.com; Main Bazaar; d/tr ₹2200/2500, off-season ₹1600/1800)

Slightly smarter than Ravangla's average boxy hotels, Blue Spring's smallish rooms have two-colour pastel walls and decent bathrooms. Fifteen of the 19 rooms have balconies with lovely mountain views (albeit not encompassing the full range of peaks). The pleasantly airy multicuisine restaurant (mains ₹60 to ₹180) has similarly fine panoramas, thought not necessarily every dish listed on the menu.

Taste of Sikkim

MULTICUISINE $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; mains ₹80-180; 🕒 8.30am-9pm)

The name is misleading as the only Sikkimese dishes served are Tibetan standards momo (dumplings) and thukpa (noodle soup), but it's the cutest of the Main Bazaar's restaurants, with B&W travel prints and small framed weapons. The food is tasty and imaginatively presented: the fried rice is a star streaked with decorative lines of carrot.

Kookay Restaurant

TIBETAN, INDIAN $

(GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar; mains ₹80-120; 🕒 8.30am-8pm)

Right at the jeep stand, this long-standing favourite offers Tibetan soups, shaya phalays (deep-fried meat turnovers), Chinese sizzlers (₹250 to ₹300) and six delicious thali variants (₹100 to ₹200).

Getting There & Away

Buses leave for Siliguri (₹170, five hours, 7am) and Namchi (₹35, one hour, 9am and 2.30pm); the 9am service continues to Jorethang (₹70). The SNT bus office (GOOGLE MAP ; Main Bazaar) is beneath Hotel 10Zing at the main junction and taxis wait near the same point. Shared jeeps use a multi-storey garage (GOOGLE MAP ; Yangang Rd) 500m down the Yangyang Rd from there.

Departures include the following:

- ➔ Gangtok (₹140, 7am, 7.30am, 8am, 11am and noon) Or take the (sometimes cancelled) 2.30pm Singtam service and change.
- ➔ Geyzing For Pelling (₹100, two hours, 9am only). Or change at Legship.
- ➔ Legship (₹60) Leaves when full; no set timetable, but fairly regular till around 2pm.
- ➔ Siliguri (₹220, 7am and 7.30am)

Jeeps to Namchi (₹60) fill slowly, as most locals take the bus.

Temi Tea Garden

As you wind up, up and up again on the beautiful (if seriously potholed) Singtam-Damthang lane, much of the upper route passes through the very extensive jade-green Temi Tea Garden. The meticulous steep terracing is impressive in itself, but if the weather is clear, it's the stupendous views that you'll remember – across a vast green valley with the Khangchendzonga Massif towering above.

Accommodation with superb views is available in the midst of the tea fields at the slightly institutional Cherry Resort (GOOGLE MAP ; 8016488737; www.cherryresort.com; Temi Tea Estate; s/d from ₹3040/3490).

The Cherry Resort has a passable restaurant and there are two additional roadside cafes in the tea gardens for a cuppa and a few very basic snacks;

Organic Tea Point (GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 7am-9pm) is the nicer one.

If you've rented your own vehicle it's easy to stop off at the tea factory, the resort and one of the roadside cafes. Each is a few kilometres from the next over bumpy switchback roads, though far closer on foot using paths through the tea bushes.

A return taxi from Namchi or Ravangla costs ₹800. Namchi to Ravangla one way with a Temi side trip en route costs ₹1100, including waiting time while you visit the factory.

Gangtok–Temi shared jeeps do exist but these only go to Temi village (1400m), which is far below the tea estate.

WEST SIKKIM

Pelling

📍03595 / ELEV 1930M

Pelling's raison d'être is to provide hordes of visitors with stride-stopping dawn views of white-robed Khangchendzonga. At first glance the small town is an architecturally uninteresting cascade of concrete hotels tumbling down an otherwise gorgeous woodland ridge – but walk a little and you'll quickly find yourself wandering through beautiful natural forest.

Helpful agencies make excursions easy to organise. Within 3km of Pelling along the same ridge-top are two historic monasteries: busy Pemayangtse Gompa and peaceful Sanghak Choeling, plus the ruins of the 18th-century royal palace of Rabdentse. Directly below the latter is Tikjuk, West Sikkim's administrative complex (for permit extensions), from where it's another 3km to the commercial and transport centre at Geyzing (Gyalshing).

Pelling

Pelling

Sleeping

1	Hotel Garuda	B2
2	Hotel Phamrong	B2
3	Norbu Ghang	A2
4	Rabdentse Residency	A1

Eating

	Hotel Garuda	B2
5	Kabur Resto-Bar	B2

Sights

Pemayangtse Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP ;  03595-250656; www.sangchenpemyangtse.org; ₹20;  7am-5pm)

One of Sikkim's oldest and most significant Nyingmapa monasteries, Pemayangtse is atmospherically backed by traditional wood-and-stone monastic cottages descending from a 2080m hilltop towards the Rabdentse ruins. The oft-remodelled central temple's most memorable attraction is the top floor's seven-tiered model representing Zangtok Palri (Padmasambhava's heavenly abode), handmade over five laborious years by a single dedicated lama. Unheralded in a surrounding attic passage is an underlit, museum-like collection of costumes, implements and remnants from previous incarnations of the monastic buildings.

There has been a Buddhist shrine on the site since 1647. Literally translated, Pemayangtse means 'Perfect Sublime Lotus'. The monastery is 500m off the Geyzing Road – turn north 1.5km east of Upper Pelling.

Rabdentse

HISTORIC SITE, RUINS

(GOOGLE MAP ; parking ₹20;  8am-5pm, last entry 4pm) FREE

A few partially rebuilt wall-stubs are all that remains of the palace complex at Rabdentse, which was Sikkim's royal capital from 1670 until it was sacked by Nepali forces in the 18th century. Its main selling point today is the fabulous viewpoint on which the ruins are located, best photographed between a trio of small, bare-stone stupas.

The site's entrance gateway (GOOGLE MAP) is 2.3km along the Geyzing road from Upper Pelling, 800m further east than the Pemayangtse turn-off. From the gate the ruins are 1km through woodland, passing a large new aviary area, and only accessible on foot.

Sanghak Choeling Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP ;  dawn-dusk)

At least until the vast new Chenrezig Statue (GOOGLE MAP); Sanghak Choeling Rd) is completed, this monastery complex is a calm, meditative place with fabulous views, set photogenically behind a collection of seven stone stupas, attractively unpainted other than their golden spires.

Sleeping

★ Hotel Garuda

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9647880728, 9733076484; www.hotelgarudapelling.com; Main Rd, Upper Pelling; dm/s/d from ₹250/600/700, online s/d from ₹850/1100; )

Great for meeting fellow travellers, Pelling's backpacker classic offers specially low walk-in rates for foreigners. Even the more basic rooms are remarkably clean, spacious and equipped with geyser, towels and soap. Smarter, brighter upstairs rooms can still cost less than ₹1500, even with Khangchendzonga views. With free wi-fi, book-swap library, travel assistance and authentic Sikkimese food, the Garuda is very hard to beat.

Rabdentse Residency

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9681292163, 03592-92163; www.saikripa.in; Main Rd, Lower Pelling; d without/with balcony ₹1200/1500, ste without/with view ₹3000/3500)

A good notch up from most budget hotels, with rooms with bright white linens, thangka and wood-panelling and small but functional bathrooms; north-facing rooms have brilliant views. The restaurant has a lounge area and opens onto a large, concrete terrace with more unimpeded views. It's hidden down a stepped path opposite Hotel Sand & Snow.

Hotel Phamrong

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ;  9733085318, 9733240742; www.hotelphamrong.com; Main Rd, Upper Pelling; s/d/ste incl breakfast ₹2450/3135/4290)

This pleasant midrange choice throws in curiosities such as a Tibetan-styled reception booth, four-storey atrium with dangling streamers and ethnographic corner on the 2nd-floor landing, along with a hodgepodge of artefacts, maps and faded mountain photos. Rooms are well-enough appointed minus the odd dusty surface and faded mirror. Some upper versions have superb views.

★ Chumbi Mountain Retreat

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9933126619; www.thechumbimountainretreat.com; Chumbong Rd; d incl half-board walk-in/rack-rate ₹9800/17,250; P 📶)

This truly exceptional resort blows visitors away with its artful blend of traditional Sikkimese architecture and 21st-century luxury. Just a kilometre from Pelling yet with a secluded forest setting, it has fabulous mountain views, curious public spaces with Bhutanese antique fireplaces and a museum-like thatched farm building, all genteelly directed by ever-helpful staff.

★ Elgin Mount Pandim

HERITAGE HOTEL $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03595-250756; www.elginhotels.com; Pemayangtse; s/d/ste incl half-board ₹9295/9625/10,725; P @ 📶)

This erstwhile royal getaway is perched on a hilltop with stupendous views in all directions. Highlights are the manicured lawns and the welcoming lobby; it's everything you'd want in a heritage hotel, busy with uniformed staff and packed with interest but welcomingly unstuffy. Cosily luxurious rooms come with very fresh but unflashy bathrooms.

It's a 10-minute stroll from Pemayangtse Gompa, less than 2km from Upper Pelling.

Norbu Ghang

RESORT $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 03595-258272; www.norbughanghotels.com; Main Rd, Upper Pelling; c resort/retreat from ₹6630/11,664; 📶)

Sharing oblique views of Khangchendzonga, Norbu Ghang has two entrances and two personas. The 'Resort' places Sikkimese-style half-timbered duplex cottages amid exuberant gardens (very pretty but masking views). The upper 'Retreat' welcomes guests with inviting lounges and the huge rooms come with fireplaces and corner-tub baths in what look like semi-detached English houses dressed for a Tibetan fancy-dress party.

Eating

Kabur Resto-Bar

TIBETAN, CHINESE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Geyzing Rd; mains ₹90-250; 🕒 9am-9pm)

This Pelling traveller classic creates a wonderfully cosy atmosphere at night with candles and colourful, half-lit globe lamps; by day the balcony has great views. The menu favours Tibetan soups, momo and taipoo – a delicious, fist-sized, filled steamed bun. But there's also plenty of Chinese options.

Hotel Garuda

MULTICUISINE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Upper Pelling; 📶)

It doesn't advertise its dining room as a restaurant and will only serve nonguests when the kitchen is quiet, but if you're staying at the Garuda don't miss their home-cooked Sikkimese food, including excellent churpi (tomato-cheese soup), fried cheese momo and nicely balanced ema datshi (chilli-cheese curry).

Lotus Bakery

CAFE

(GOOGLE MAP; Geyzing Rd; cakes ₹10-30; 🕒 7am-5pm; 🅇)

If you are walking to or from Pemayangtse, it's worth popping into the lovably ramshackle Lotus Bakery, 1km from Upper Pelling junction, for a cup of locally grown Demajong Tea (₹15) or instant coffee (₹20). They also bake buns, conical macaroons and cakes imprinted with a Buddhist symbol of luck. Pizza is occasionally available.

Getting There & Away

A battered old SNT bus runs to Siliguri (₹180, eight hours) via Jorethang and Melli starting around 6.15am from outside the Hotel Garuda, then trailing around Pelling till 7am (by when it's likely over-full). It stops again in Geyzing, finally leaving at 7.45am. Pay on-board.

Shared jeeps from Pelling depart at 7am to Gangtok (₹300, six hours) and Siliguri (₹350, six hours); book ahead through Father Tours ( GOOGLE MAP; 📍7797283512; Upper Pelling). There's also a Pelling–Kalimpong jeep but oddly you can only book that in Geyzing. Almost all other transport starts from Geyzing's packed jeep stand (GOOGLE MAP; Mani Rd), which is West Sikkim's de facto transport hub.

For Yuksom, Utterrey, Khecheopalri and Dentam, ask your hotel to phone possible shared-jeep drivers to try to arrange a pick-up at Upper Pelling, since they all pass through on their way back from Geyzing, mid-afternoon – but that doesn't always work as most will be full of locals. Many tourists simply book a private vehicle through one of the numerous Pelling agencies.

Khecheopalri Lake

ELEV 1800M

Pronounced like 'ketchup-perry', Khecheopalri Lake (Kechuperi Lake; GOOGLE MAP; ₹10; 🕒 tickets sold 5am-5.30pm) is a placid 'holy' reservoir precipitously ringed with thickly forested hills. Its attraction is its serenity, rather than any great visual drama: you'll do best to avoid arriving mid-morning in high season, when streams of day trippers disturb the peace. Late afternoon is a fine time to arrive – most tourists have left and the low light glows beautifully through the trees and endlessly flapping multicoloured prayer flags.

Better still, hike around a half-hour up from the car park through dense forest to idyllic Khacheopalri Village on the ridge-top above (south). The place has a wonderful timeless quality, a 400-year-old stupa, 360-degree views and two particularly wonderful, if simple, homestays. Ask your hosts about day hikes, or practise meditation with Pala, an octogenarian monk who was once a cook for the Dalai Lama.

Sleeping & Eating

Flanking the lake's car park are a series of small, simple restaurants and shops serving instant noodles and momo. In the village, homestays provide guests with meals; Sonam's Homestay (GOOGLE MAP; 📞9735589678; zamyang22@gmail.com; Khecheopalri village; per person incl meals ₹600) can provide day-hiking nonguests with lunch for ₹100 (with around an hour's notice).

★ Lake View Nest

HOMESTAY $$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞9735945598, 9593976635; lakeviewnest@gmail.com; Khecheopalri village; per person incl meals ₹850-1250) 🍃

All alone at the western end of Khecheopalri village, around 10 minutes' walk from the gompa, this delightful homestay has four guesthouse-standard rooms with wicker lamps, thangka (Tibetan cloth painting) and comfy beds, sharing one remarkably clean bathroom downstairs, with sit-down flush toilet and giant geyser.

Getting There & Away

Two or three shared jeeps to Geyzing via Pelling (₹60, 1½ hours) leave the car park around 6am, returning early afternoon via Pelling. A private taxi from Yuksom or Pelling typically costs around ₹1500/2200 one way/return with all-day waiting. Hitching a ride back to Pelling with other tourist vehicles is often possible in the mid-morning if you ask nicely.

Yuksom

📞03595 / ELEV 1750M

Charming and still relatively unspoilt, Yuksom is the historical starting point of the Sikkimese nation, its first capital and the coronation place of its first chogyal (king). For adventurers the village is also a starting point – as the main trailhead for treks towards Mt Khangchendzonga. If you don't have that kind of energy, though, it's just the ticket as a relaxed, friendly place to kick back quietly for a few nights.

Sights

Norbugang Park

HISTORIC SITE

(GOOGLE MAP); ₹20; 🕒 5am-6pm)

Yuksom means ‘meeting place of the three lamas’, referring to the trio of Tibetan holy men who crowned the first chogyal of Sikkim at this historic site in 1641. Aflutter with prayer flags, the charming woodland garden contains a small temple, a huge prayer wheel, a chorten containing earth from each corner of Sikkim and the supposedly original four-seat Coronation Throne (Norbugang).

Dubdi Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP); ₹20; 🕒 9am-3pm)

High on the ridge above Yuksom, this compact, peaceful gompa is beautifully set in tended gardens, with dawn views of white peaks between high green folds of forested foothills. Established in 1647 in honour of Lhatsun Chenpo, Dubdi is said to be Sikkim’s oldest still-functioning monastery, though many signs oddly misdate it to 1701.

Tashi Tenka

VIEWPOINT

(GOOGLE MAP)

When Yuksom was Sikkim’s capital, a royal palace complex known as Tashi Tenka sat on a ridge to the south of town. Today, barely a stone remains but the views are superb. To get here, walk around five minutes towards Pelling and take the long stairway up through a 'heritage garden' near the school football pitch for another 10 minutes. The best viewpoint is beyond the four-house hamlet on the top.

Activities

Heavenly Traveller

TREKKING

(;  9733084983; www.goechalatrek.org)

Responsive and good-value, DS Limboo offers a well-oiled service for standard Dzungri and Goecha La treks. There's also a guesthouse.

Red Panda Tours & Travels

TREKKING

(;  9733196470, 9002322885; www.redpandatreks.weebly.com; Main Rd;

 8am-6pm)

Beside Gupta Restaurant, 'Panda' is a former-porter-turned-guide with considerable expertise and experience. As well as standard trekking packages, he offers guide-only Goecha La treks and permits for those with all their own equipment.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

YUKSOM TO TASHIDING HIKE

This wonderful one-day hike requires no permits and can be done quite easily if you start in Yuksom. Figure on at least six hours of walking (19km), excluding stops. Porter-guides are available in Yuksom for around ₹600 if you're not confident with way-finding.

Start by ascending to Dubdi Gompa, descending behind the monastery and contouring around on the road to Tsong (around 4km total). There are some rough steps up to the left of the road around 100m before you reach Tsong's three-jeep parking stand and shop; if you miss them there's a second chance with clearer steps rising up to the volleyball court. The stone-reinforced trail runs behind, heading up, then down, finally steeply up again in around 45 minutes to reach lonely Hongri Gompa () (keep left when the path splits). At the toilet block directly behind the gompa the path splits, offering three directions – take the grassy central option, then five minutes beyond take the lower path. Allow around an hour to reach upper Nessa hamlet, staying high at any major junction. Some 10 minutes further is the village of Pokhari Dara, locally famed for its little pea-green pond. After another 3km by road (slightly less using a rather overgrown parallel footpath) you reach the access path for Silnon Gompa (GOOGLE MAP). From here it's an hour or so down steps and steep trails to Tashiding, starting behind the yellow school building – but check with monks that you're on the right path, because if you miss the key shortcuts, it's a 12km plod by road.

If you arrive at Tashiding by 2pm it's usually possible to find a shared jeep back to Yuksom the same afternoon.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Limboo Homestay

GUESTHOUSE $

(GOOGLE MAP;  09733084983; www.limboohomestay.com; s/d/cottage ₹800/1000/1200)

Above a shop and highly reputable trekking agency, rooms here are sparkling clean. There's little decor but the forest is close enough for dawn birdsong choruses, there are fine views from the roof and the glorious vegetable garden behind produces most of the food for delicious home-cooked food (by pre-order).

Hotel Tashi Gang

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  9933007720, 9733077249; hoteltashigang@gmail.com; Main Rd; s/d from ₹1650/2200)

Half-timbered inside and out, the Tashi Gang has an old-fashioned heritage feel set in spacious lawns hemmed with flowers and subtle lighting. Beyond the fireplace lounge, grey-marble corridors with B&W photo portraits lead to pleasant rooms with Sikkimese floral headboards and colourful thangka (cloth paintings), but somewhat dated bathrooms.

Hotel Yangrigang

HOTEL $

(GOOGLE MAP;  03595-241217, 9434164408; Main Rd; s/d from ₹600/800)

At first glance there's not much to this fairly functional hotel near the start of Yuksom's main street. But the family are helpful, the food is good and the rooms are large and very fair value, with geysers that heat up well (given a half-hour).

Hotel Red Palace

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP ; 📍 9593668773; www.hotelredpalace.com; Nghadak Monastery Rd; s ₹1830-2830, d ₹1980-3190, ste ₹3790)

Looking from the outside like a Darjeeling mansion but with Sikkimese lintels, this hotel has a lobby that feels more like a sofa-strewn temple, and a dining hall with token Tibetan motifs. Basic rooms are simpler but comfy and clean.

Mama's Kitchen

SIKKIMESE, BAKERY $

(GOOGLE MAP ; Mangsabung Path; mains ₹30-200; 🕒 6am-10pm)

Charming hostess Pema serves delicious, very genuine Sikkimese home cuisine, along with fresh muffins, sponge cake and even bowls of creamy pasta in this tiny one-room cafe. Preparation takes a while so it's worth pre-ordering and fixing a dining time.

Gupta Restaurant

MULTICUISINE $

(GOOGLE MAP ; Main Rd; mains ₹50-120; 🕒 5.30am-8pm)

Yuksom's foremost traveller meeting point is little more than a shack with a one-table thatched rotunda, but it's an old-school classic serving thali, thukpa (noodle soup), pizzas and paneer curries, as well as curious quesadillas that take your taste buds south of the border (even if it's only the Tibetan one).

i Getting There & Away

At around 6.30am, several shared jeeps leave for Jorethang (₹250, three to four hours) via Tashiding (₹60, 1½ hours); Geyzing via Pelling (₹100, 2½ hours); and Gangtok (₹300, six hours) – book the day before at the shop next to Gupta Restaurant. There's also a Gangtok service around 2pm, as well as a Geyzing via Tashiding jeep at around 12.30pm (call the driver on 8763952216 to book, but be aware that as many as 15 people have been known to squeeze into the seven seats).

Dzongri & Goecha La – The Khangchendzonga Trek

For guided groups (no lone hikers) Sikkim's classic trek is a five- to nine-day epic from Yuksom to the 4940m Goecha La and back. The route showcases more than a dozen massive peaks; a gruelling, pre-dawn slog gets you unforgettable views of the awesome Khangchendzonga Massif (weather permitting). With less time, a five-day return to Dzongri still gives superb panoramas of Mt Pandim; even a two-day return to Tsokha is a memorable experience, with waterfalls, hanging bridges and lovely valley views. While the trek is not a technical climb, the high altitude, long days and pre-dawn summit-day start make it comparatively challenging, especially when the trail is foggy or slippery after rain.

The trek is only feasible several months a year. Late March to mid-May offers the best temperatures but rain is common in the afternoons and trails get muddy. October to November have the highest chance of clear skies, but snow and subzero temperatures are possible; upper camps will see frost in November.

You must have a permit and guide organised through a registered agency. The permits are only available in Gangtok, but (miraculously) if you book in the evening, most Yuksom fixers can send copies of your documents by the next morning's jeep and have everything arranged for departure the day after.

Technically, foreigners are required to be at least in pairs or bigger groups. However, we twice encountered exceptions – one foreigner alone with guide; one Indian/non-Indian couple (also with guide) – so the rule may be bendable in certain circumstances.

If you carry your own gear and pay for your own food and lodging along the way, the cost for the guide of a return trek will be about ₹20,000 total, split among the group.

With tents, cook, porter yaks and all food, you're looking at around ₹30,000 per person for a couple, or as little as ₹20,000 per person in a large group of a dozen or more.

Dzongri & Goech La

Tashiding

ELEV 1240M

Little Tashiding is essentially a low-rise one-street market village sloping up from its jeep stand and briefly bypassed by the Yuksom–Legship road. It's notable as the access point for the Tashiding Gompa and its enchanting crop of stupas, set on an isolated ridge 3.5km away. While you don't see many white-top mountains from here, views over plunging green valleys, forested slopes and occasional stripes of rice terracing more than compensate.

Tashiding is also the destination of a popular one-day hike from Yuksom via isolated monasteries Hongri and Silnon.

If you arrive by 2pm you can generally nip back to Yuksom by shared jeep. If you pay for a whole taxi you can admire several waterfalls en route, the most impressive of which is Phamrong.

Sights

Tashiding Gompa

MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP ; 🕒 dawn-dusk, main hall closes around 3pm) FREE

The ridge between Ralang and Yuksom ends with an upturned promontory (1450m) on which sits the multi-building complex of Tashiding Gompa, an important Nyingmapa monastery. At its heart, a beautifully proportioned prayer hall has a delicate topknot that contrasts with the two lower stone floors. The murals inside are somewhat time-darkened and the main images fronted with numerous colourful butter sculptures. Behind the Guru Lakhang building is a unique 'forest' of chorten stupas (GOOGLE MAP ; Tashiding Gompa), mantra stones and a dharma bell, overlooked by two ancient Kashmir cypress trees.

Phamrong Falls

WATERFALL

(GOOGLE MAP ; Yuksom-Tashiding Rd, Km6) FREE

The most dramatic of four waterfalls between Yuksom and Tashiding, the Phamrong's powerful flow fires itself through a high, green notch then crashes down a steep cliff. Viewed from the road, it's fronted by several sub-cascades; climbing an overgrown path for around five minutes gets you to a vandalised octagonal viewing pavilion, beyond which are a couple of natural pools just before the main spray. Locals bathe here but access can be rather dicey.

Sleeping & Eating

Sanu Homestay

HOMESTAY $

(Sanoo Homestay; GOOGLE MAP;  9635060062; www.facebook.com/sanu.bhutia.94; Tashiding Gompa Path; per person incl meals ₹600)

With a minor cult following among foreign backpackers, Sanu and her mother offer great food and very simple lodging in a wild garden reached after about 15 minutes' walk off the road to Tashiding Gompa.

Getting There & Away

The jeep stand (GOOGLE MAP; Tashiding Bazaar) is at the south end of the shor bazaar street. Departures for Gangtok (₹200, six hours), Jorethang (₹150, three hours) and Siliguri (₹250, seven hours) all leave by around 7am. Several Geyzing jeeps (₹100, two hours) leave between 6.30am and 8.30am, with one more around 2pm. For Yuksom (₹70, 2½ hours) there's one jeep at around 9am (usually very full on arrival) and several more between 2pm and 3pm.

Chartering a vehicle to Yuksom (₹600, 1½ hours) costs a lot more but you'll save an hour in travel time.

KHANGCHENDZONGA TREK SCHEDULE

STAGE	ROUTE	DURATION (HR)
1	Yuksom to Baktim/Tsokha	7-8
2	Optional acclimatisation day at Tsokha

3	Tsokha to Dzongri	4-5
4	Acclimatisation day at Dzongri, or continue to Kokchurong
5	Dzongri (or Kokchurong) to Lamuni	6-7
6	Lamuni to Goecha La and back (most groups descend further to Thangsing)	9-12 (11-14)
7	Lamuni (Thangsing) to Tsokha	8 (7)
8	Tsokha to Yuksom	5-7

Kuluk & Rinchenpong

ELEV 1600M

The small ridge-top settlements of Martam, Bermiok, Kaluk and Rinchenpong stare north across a gaping valley, towards a magnificent mountain panorama taking in a series of white Himalayan peaks and a saw-toothed range of lower crags to the east of the main massif. The scene is arguably even more memorable than from much more developed Pelling, especially viewed from Rinchenpong, which also has a pair of historic monasteries, and from Kuluk, 3km east, where there's a handy junction bazaar and taxi stand.

Sights

★ Resum Gompa

BUDDHIST MONASTERY

(GOOGLE MAP ; Rinchenpong)

If you love forgotten, naively painted temples, little Resum Gompa is likely to be one of the highlights of your monastic wanderings in Sikkim. Adding to the fun is the lack of any access road, forcing you to walk around 20 minutes through the forest, encountering occasional collapsing stupas and mani walls with sacred inscriptions. With 360-degree views, this wobbly old place is a peaceful delight with an incredible mountain panorama.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Ghonday Village Resort

HOTEL $$

(GOOGLE MAP;  9593979695, 03595-210339; www.ghondayresort.com; Kuluk; r ₹3500-4500, walk-in from ₹1500; )

A complimentary coffee and traditional silk-scarf welcome underline the high-quality service and upmarket feel to this lovely resort, which has jaw-dropping panoramic views. Sturdy fittings work remarkably well in large, well-appointed rooms. Some units are airy cottages set in lush, sloped gardens, where there's a playground-sized chess set.

★ Biksthang

FARMSTAY $$$

(GOOGLE MAP;  9593779077; www.biksthang.com; Mangalbarey Rd; s incl half-board ₹6000-13,000, d ₹6450-22,050;  )

If you'd like to escape from techno-modernity, yet unwind with highly educated, thoughtful hosts, it's hard to imagine anywhere better than this isolated but very classy farmstay. Eight artistically appointed cottages are tucked between turmeric, mandarin and cardamon groves; the unique dining room is within a photogenic 19th-century farmhouse and Khangchendzonga reflects grandly in the infinity pool.

Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps operate on two main routes, Rinchenpong–Dentam–Pelling–Geyzing and Dentam–Bermiok–Kuluk–Soreng–Jorethang, heading outbound early morning and returning from Jorethang or Geyzing in the early afternoon.

Kuluk's tiny bazaar (GOOGLE MAP; Kuluk Bazaar), where the Rinchenpong road turns off the main Dentam–Soreng road, is a good place to find a private taxi; Dentam–Jorethang shared jeeps drop passengers off here fairly regularly. Central Rinchenpong has a small, slightly less busy taxi rank ( GOOGLE MAP), 2.6km from Kuluk.

Northeast States

Northeast States Highlights

Assam

Guwahati

Around Guwahati

Tezpur

Nameri National Park

Kaziranga National Park

Jorhat

Majuli Island

Sivasagar

Dibrugarh

Manas National Park

Arunachal Pradesh

Itanagar

Central Arunachal Pradesh

Western Arunachal Pradesh

Nagaland

Dimapur

Kohima

Northern Nagaland

Manipur

Imphal

Mizoram

Aizawl

Tripura

Agartala

Udaipur

Neermahal & Melaghar

Meghalaya

Shillong

Garo & Jaintia Hills

Cherrapunjee \(Sohra\)

Northeast States

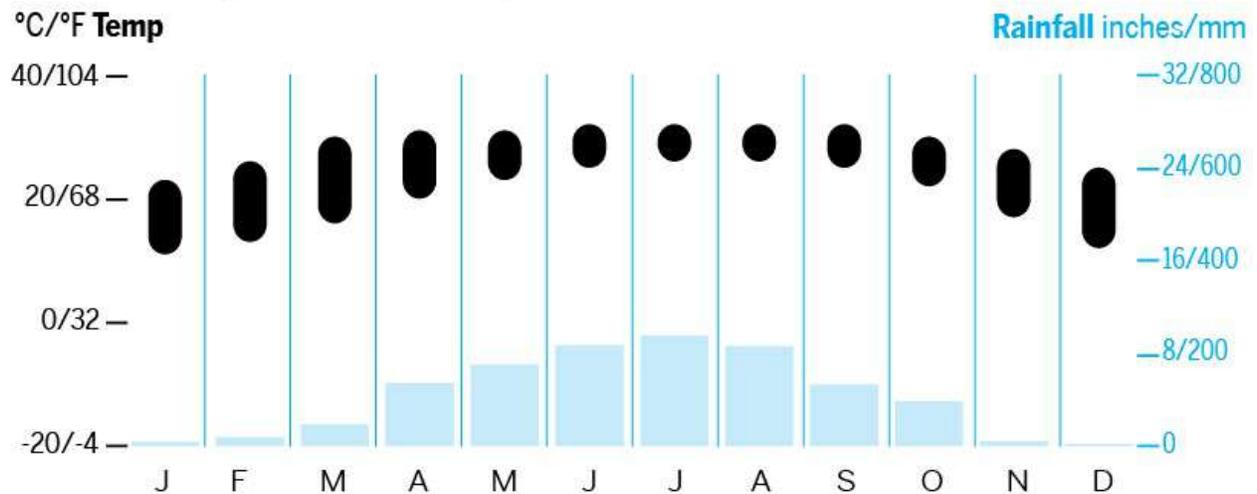

Why Go?

Thrown across the farthest reaches of India, obscured from the greater world by ageless forests and formidable mountain ranges, the Northeast States are one of Asia's last great natural and anthropological sanctuaries. Sharing borders with Bhutan, Tibet, Myanmar (Burma) and Bangladesh, these remote frontiers are a region of rugged beauty, and a collision zone of tribal cultures, climates, landscapes and peoples. In this wonderland for adventurers, glacial Himalayan rivers spill onto Assam's vast floodplains, faith moves mountains on the perilous pilgrimage to Tawang, rhinos graze in Kaziranga's swampy grasslands and former headhunters slowly embrace modernity in their ancestral longhouses in Nagaland.

Of course, it's not all smooth sailing in these faraway states, and there's a horde of obstacles to battle along the way (bad roads, poor infrastructure and rebel armies, to name a few). Only those with a taste for raw adventure need apply.

When to Go

Assam (Guwahati)

- ➔ Mar The best season for rhino-spotting in Kaziranga.
- ➔ Oct A time for dazzling Himalayan vistas and trips to remote outposts such as Tawang, Pemako and Mechuka.
- ➔ Dec Fierce Naga warriors in ethnic regalia assemble for Kohima's spectacular Hornbill Festival.

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ Paradise
- ➔ Luxmi Kitchen
- ➔ Moti Mahal
- ➔ Maihang
- ➔ Trattoria

Best Places to Sleep

- ➔ Diphlu River Lodge
- ➔ Puroni Bheti
- ➔ Ri Kynjai
- ➔ Prabhakar Homestay
- ➔ Longchen Homestay

Northeast States Highlights

① Kaziranga National Park Roaming the expansive grasslands in search of rhinos.

② Tawang Valley Touching the clouds at the 4176m Se La pass before descending to the Tawang Valley, a Tibetan Buddhist hot spot.

- 3 Ziro Valley Visiting scenic villages where you can meet the intriguing Apatani tribe and learn about their unique way of life.
- 4 Cherrapunjee Gazing down on the plains of Bangladesh from a lofty escarpment.
- 5 Unakoti Staring in awe at massive rock-cut sculptures of gods amid the wilderness.
- 6 Kohima Visiting a quaint WWII cemetery and sampling traditional Naga hospitality.
- 7 Loktak Lake Exploring the lake's unique ecosystem and floating islands.

ASSAM

Sprawled like a prehistoric leviathan along the length of the Brahmaputra valley, Assam (also known as Ahom) is the biggest and most accessible of the Northeast States. A hospitable population, a cuisine with its own distinctive aromas and flavours, a vibrant artistic heritage marked by exotic dance forms, and a string of elegant Hindu temples top its list of innumerable attractions. The archetypal Assamese landscape is a picturesque golden-green vista of rice fields and manicured tea estates, framed by the blue mountains of Arunachal in the north and the highlands of Meghalaya and Nagaland to the south.

Assam's culture is proudly sovereign. The gamosa (a red-and-white scarf worn around the neck by men) and the mekhola sador (the traditional dress for women) are visible proclamations of regional costume and identity, while the subtly flavoured fish tenga (sour curry) is distinctly different from its regional culinary cousins.

Guwahati

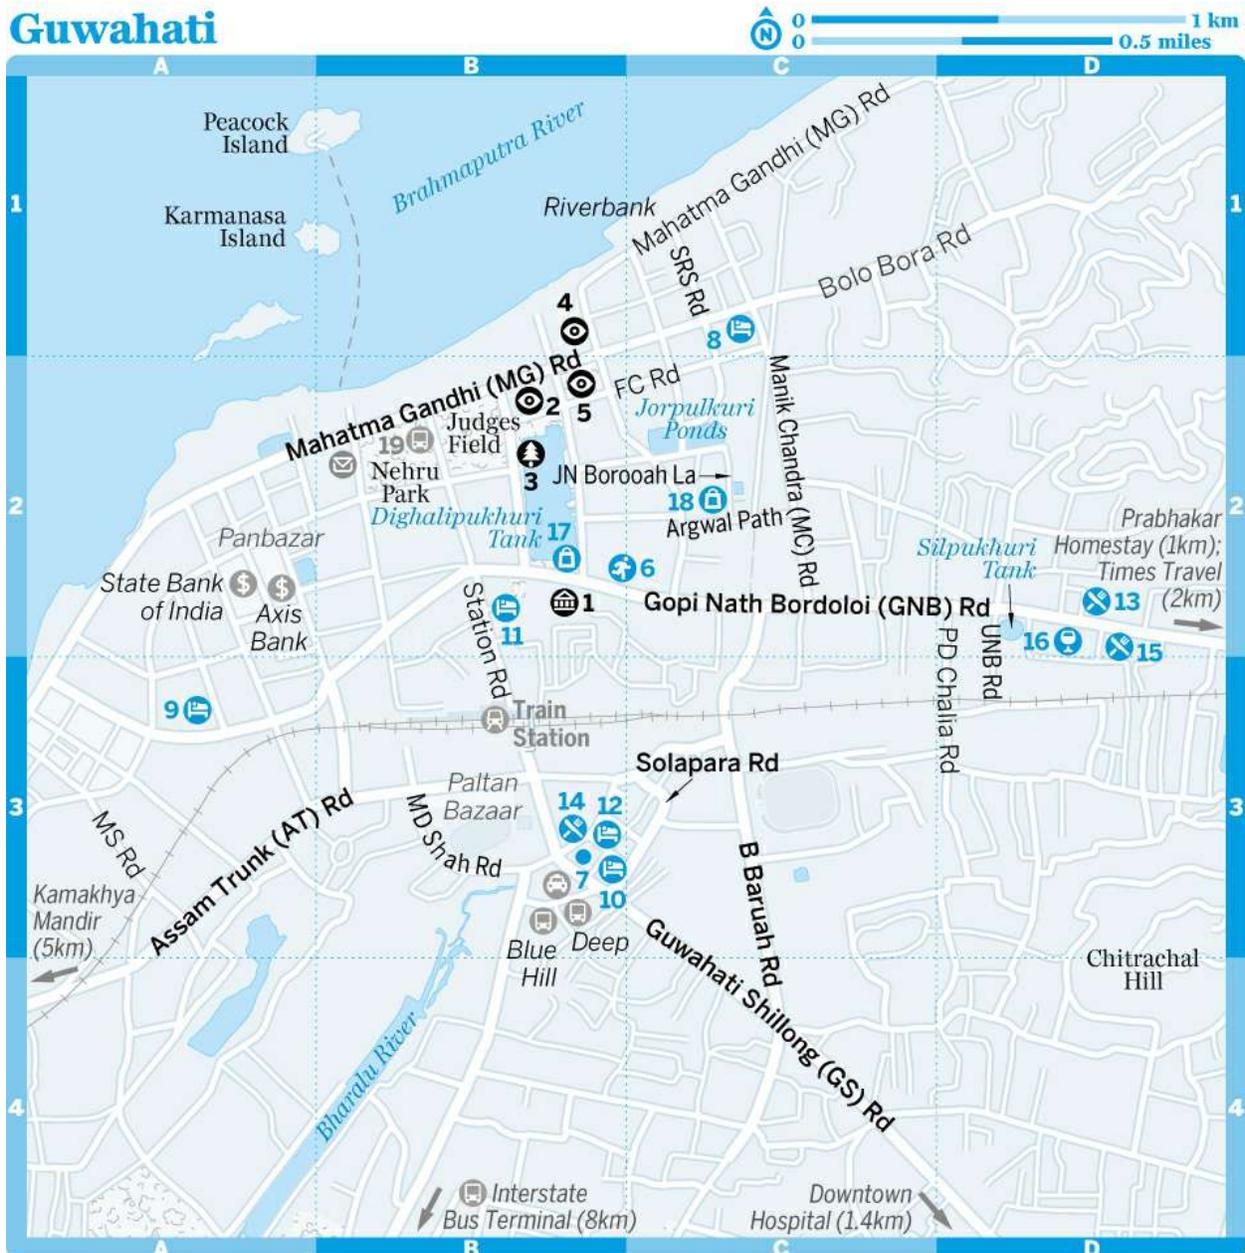

📍 0361 / POP 810,000

History

Guwahati is considered the site of Pragjyotishpura, a semi-mythical town founded by Asura king Naraka (son of an avatar of Vishnu who later transformed into a demon), later killed by Krishna for a pair of magical earrings. The city was a vibrant cultural centre well before the Ahoms arrived from Southeast Asia around the 13th century, and it was subsequently the theatre of intense Ahom–Mughal strife, changing hands eight times in 50 years before 1681. In 1897, a huge earthquake – followed by a series of devastating floods – wiped out most of the old city.

Dormant through much of India's colonial history, Guwahati gained metropolitan prominence after the formation of Assam state in the post-Independence era. Though technically not the state capital (the title goes to contiguous Dispur), Guwahati is Assam's number-one city.

Guwahati

Guwahati

📍 Sights

1	Assam State Museum	B2
2	Courthouse	B2
3	Dighulipukhuri Park	B2
4	Guwahati Planetarium	B1
5	Old Guwahati	B2

Activities, Courses & Tours

6	Assam Bengal Navigation	B2
	Jungle Travels India	B2
7	Network Travels	B3

Sleeping

8	Baruah Bhavan	C1
9	Dynasty	A3
10	Hotel Siroy Lily	B3
11	Prashanti Tourist Lodge	B2
12	Sundarban Guest House	B3

Eating

13	Khorikaa	D2
14	New Maa Kali	B3
15	Paradise	D2

Drinking & Nightlife

16	Trafik	D2
----	------------------------	----

Shopping

17	Artfed	B2
18	Northeast Network	C2

Information

	Assam Tourism	B2
--	-------------------------------	----

Transport

19	Kachari Bus Stand	B2
	Network Travels	B3

Sights

(no queue/short queue/queue ₹500/100/free; 🕒 8am-1pm & 3pm-dusk)

According to Hindu legend, when an enraged Shiva divided his deceased wife Sati's body into 108 pieces and scattered them across the land, her yoni (vagina) fell on Kamakhya Hill. This makes Kamakhya Mandir one of the most hallowed shrines for practitioners of shakti (tantric worship of female spiritual power). It is here that the Ambubachi Mela festival takes place. Kamakhya is 7km west of central Guwahati and 3km up a spiralling side road.

Assam State Museum

MUSEUM

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; GNB Rd; ₹5, camera/video ₹10/100; 🕒 10am-5pm Wed-Mon Mar-Oct, to 4pm Nov-Feb)

Housed in an imposing colonial-era building, this museum has a large sculpture collection and upper floors devoted to informative tribal-culture displays. In the anthropological galleries, you can walk through reconstructed tribal homes that give a glimpse of everyday rural life. Time permitting, it's worth a visit.

Old Guwahati

AREA

(MAP GOOGLE MAP)

This quaint area of Guwahati, bordering the Brahmaputra River, is best explored on foot. Walk past the beehive dome of the Courthouse (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Rd), which rises above attractive Dighulipukhuri Park (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; HB Rd; ₹10; 🕒 9.30am-8pm). The nearby Guwahati Planetarium (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; MG Rd; shows ₹20; 🕒 noon & 4pm, closed 1st & 15th month) looks somewhere between a mosque and a landed UFO and offers entertainment in the form of space shows projected on a dome-like screen. A short walk due northwest takes you to the riverbank, where you can take in sweeping views of the Brahmaputra along a well-maintained promenade.

DON'T MISS

RIVER CRUISES

To experience the beauty of Assam from a unique perspective (and all of it in style), consider a plush river cruise. Departing Guwahati between September and April, these multiday luxury rides take you upstream along the Brahmaputra River to Dibrugarh, dropping anchor at essential stops such as Kaziranga National Park, Majuli Island and Sivasagar. Activities en route include wildlife tours, cultural excursions and simply lazing on the sun deck with a drink in hand. Guwahati-based Assam Bengal Navigation (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞9207042330; www.assambengalnavigation.com; Dirang Arcade, GNB Rd; per person per day all-inclusive from US$195) has all the information.

Sleeping

Prashanti Tourist Lodge

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0361-2544475; Station Rd; s/d from ₹1000/1550; 🏠)

This central hotel is convenient for the train station. A fancy elevator takes you up to your room, which will be clean and tidy and might overlook an inviting (but out-of-bounds) swimming pool to the rear. There are drinking-water dispensers at the end of each corridor, some train noise to put up with, and no room service after 9pm.

Sundarban Guest House

HOTEL $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0361-2730722; Paltan Bazaar; s/d/tr from ₹800/900/1000; 🏠)

Reminiscent of a classic backpacker hang-out, this cheery, busy hotel sits in Guwahati's central market area and offers great value for those travelling on a budget. Rooms are typically featureless but clean and tidy, with fresh sheets, and the management is helpful. The in-house restaurant offers a decent range of basic dishes.

★ Baruah Bhavan

GUESTHOUSE $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞0361-2541182; www.baruahbhavan.com; MC Rd, Uzanbazar; d incl breakfast from ₹2750; 🏠 @)

Owned and managed by the affable and hospitable Baruah family, this charming 1970s bungalow on Manik Chandra (MC) Rd oozes nostalgia in the form of innumerable antiques and memorabilia strewn across its living areas. The six plush rooms are appointed with elegant period furniture and brocaded upholstery. The home-cooked food is matchless in terms of local flavour and character.

The manicured front lawns go extremely well with chilled beer in the evenings (just remember to carry mosquito repellent).

Hotel Siroy Lily

HOTEL $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0361-2608492; www.hotelsiroygroup.com; Solapara Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹1550/1950; 🌳 📶)

This trusted oldie is professionally run and offers superb value for money, and is thus a favourite with midrange travellers transiting through Guwahati. Rooms are well serviced; those with AC offer a significantly better deal for a few hundred extra rupees. Book in advance, as it's packed most of the time.

★ Prabhakar Homestay

HOMESTAY $$$

(GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9435033222; www.prabhakarhomestay.com; House 2, Bylane 2, KP Barua Rd, Chandmari; s/d incl breakfast ₹4180/4640; 🌳 📶)

In a quiet residential area, this utterly delightful place run by ex-professor Sheila and her husband, Mahesh, is probably one of the best homestays in all India. The property is hemmed by lush gardens outside and adorned with ecochic decor within. The Assamese meals (₹650) prepared by in-house chef Pankaj give serious competition to restaurants in town.

Dynasty

HOTEL $$$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 0361-2516021; www.dynastyhotel.in; SS Rd; d incl breakfast from ₹5500; 🌳 @ 📶)

Once the best among Guwahati's hotels, the Dynasty on Sir Shahdullah (SS) Rd retains a sense of nostalgia and offers magnificent rooms with a colonial flavour. It has all the facilities you'd expect from a top-end hotel, including a couple of superb restaurants, a sauna and a spa.

Eating

New Maa Kali

ASSAMESE $

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Paltan Bazaar, ME Rd; mains ₹70-120; 🕒 9am-11pm)

This straightforward, no-frills restaurant serves a rustic but delicious version of local Assamese dishes, with an accent on fish. The menu is in Assamese, but waiters are happy to help you choose your food.

★ Paradise

INDIAN $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9435548812; GNB Rd; mains ₹100-200; 🕒 10.30am-10.30pm; 🍷)

The lunch thali at Paradise is considered by many to be the archetypal Assamese spread, bringing together a wide range of local culinary flavours on one platter. Try the subtly flavoured fish tenga (sour curry) and you're bound to become a fan for life. A vegetarian version of the thali is also available, featuring a few additional no-meat delights.

Khorikaa

ADIVASI $$

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 📞 9864157454; GNB Rd; mains ₹100-180; 🕒 11am-4pm & 7-10.30pm; 🍷)

Named after Assamese khori (barbecued dishes), this restaurant serves a superb selection of regional fare in upscale air-conditioned comfort. Try the barbecued small fish and fried pigeon meat, or go for the delicious pork seasoned with sesame seeds.

Drinking & Nightlife

Trafik

BAR

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; GNB Rd; beer ₹140; 🕒 11am-10pm)

Dim and buzzy, this popular bar is a hit with the city's office workers and, true to its name, attracts heavy traffic after sundown. There's a vast TV screen for cricket matches and Bollywood music, and a tiny platform where live bands play local hits at weekends.

GUIDED TOURS

While joining a tour might seem restrictive, remember that independent travel in the Northeast can be a very tricky affair on the ground. Licensed tour agents in the region are highly experienced in dealing with permit-related red tape and negotiating with local officials, and will also help you bridge linguistic and cultural barriers in a way that would be almost impossible if you were travelling independently. Indeed, it would be very difficult to have any meaningful encounters with tribal people without a local go-between to explain the proper etiquette. A tour agent will also help you steer clear of insurgent hot spots and situations.

A few reputable tour companies in the region:

Abor Country Travels & Expeditions (📞 9436053870, 0360-2292969; www.aborcountrytravels.com; B Sector)

Alder Tours & Travels (📞 9402905046; www.aldertoursntravels.com; Imphal Rd; 🕒 9am-5pm Mon-Sat)

Jungle Travels India (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0361-2667871; www.jungletravelsindia.com; Dirang Arcade, GNB Rd)

Network Travels (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 0361-2605335; GS Rd; 🕒 10am-7pm Mon-Sat)

Purvi Discovery (📞 0373-2301120; www.purviweb.com; Medical College Rd, Jalan Nagar)

Shopping

Northeast Network

CLOTHING

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 📞 9435017824; www.northeastnetwork.org; JN Borooh Lane; 🕒 11am-4pm Mon-Fri)

This NGO seeds self-help projects in villages to empower rural women and works as an umbrella organisation for several handloom-weaving cooperatives. Buying beautiful (and good-value) woven products here supports this social mission.

Artfed

GIFTS & SOUVENIRS

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 0361-2548987; GNB Rd; 🕒 10am-8pm)

Fine bamboo crafts, textiles, wickerwork, bell-metal and terracotta handicrafts, and many a carved rhino, are on offer at this state-operated emporium.

Information

MEDICAL SERVICES

Downtown Hospital (☎ 0361-2331003, 9864101111; www.downtownhospitals.in; GS Rd, Dispur) Among the best hospitals in town for emergencies. Dispur, Assam's state administrative district, is contiguous to Guwahati along GS Rd in an easterly direction.

MONEY

ATMs and banks abound all around town. It's a good idea to stock up on some local currency here if you're planning long excursions into remote parts of Northeast India.

Axis Bank (GOOGLE MAP; M Nehru Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat) Has an ATM and handles foreign exchange.

State Bank of India (GOOGLE MAP; Pan Bazaar; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Fri, to 2pm Sat) Has an ATM and changes major currencies. Off Hem Barua Rd.

POST

Main Post Office (GOOGLE MAP; Ananda Ram Barua Rd; 🕒 10am-4pm Mon-Sat)

TOURIST INFORMATION

Arunachal House (☎ 0361-2840215; GS Rd, Rukmini Gaon; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) Has info on travel in Arunachal Pradesh and processes permits. Also sells helicopter tickets for flights to Naharlagun helipad near Itanagar.

Assam Tourism (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0361-2544475; www.assamtourism.gov.i Prashaanti Tourist Lodge, Station Rd; 🕒 10am-5pm Mon-Sat) Little more than an informal help desk in the Prashaanti Tourist Lodge and a tour booth just outside the building.

i Getting There & Away

AIR

Air India (☎ 011-24624075; www.airindia.in), IndiGo (☎ 9212783838; www.goindigo.in),
GoAir (☎ 9223222111; www.goair.in), Jet Airways (☎ 1800225522; www.jetairways.com)
and SpiceJet (☎ 9654003333; www.spicejet.com) connect Guwahati to most major Indian cities (often with a stopover in Kolkata).

Arunachal Helicopter Service (☎ 0361-2842175; www.pawanhans.nic.in; Guwahati Airport; 🕒 9am-2pm Mon-Sat) For those with permits, Arunachal Helicopter Service has flights to Naharlagun helipad near Itanagar (₹4000, 1½ hours, 1.30pm Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 2pm Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday).

Meghalaya Helicopter Service (☎ 9859021473; Guwahati Airport; 🕒 flights 9am-
2.50pm) Shuttles to Shillong (₹1500, 30 minutes, 9am and 12.30pm) and Tura (₹1900, 45 minutes, 10.30am and 2pm). Note that helicopters won't fly in bad weather.

BUS & SUMO

Long-distance buses leave from the Interstate Bus Terminal (ISBT), 8km from the town centre along NH37. Private bus operators run shuttle services from their offices to the ISBT. Blue Hill (GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0361-2609440; HPB Rd; 🕒 6am-8pm), Deep (GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 9435118527; HPB Rd; 🕒 6am-9pm) and Network Travels (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 0361-2605335; www.networkbus.in; Paltan Bazaar, GS Rd; 🕒 5am-9pm) have extensive networks. All companies hire out Sumos and other sturdy 4WD vehicles for travel in the region, and charge the same regulated fares of ₹4000 per day, including fuel and driver. Times Travel (☎ 9435110947; timestravel24@gmail.com; GM Path, New Guwahati) has a good fleet of cabs and 4WD vehicles for multiday hire.

BUSES FROM GUWAHATI

Destination	Fare (₹)	Duration (hr)
Agartala (Tripura)	950	24-26
Aizawl (Mizoram)	760	28
Dibrugarh	510	10
Imphal (Manipur)	750	17
Jorhat	320	7
Kaziranga	260-350	6
Kohima (Nagaland)	410	13
Shillong (Meghalaya)	120	2½
Sivasagar	410	8
Tezpur	190	5

TRAIN

Four daily trains connect Guwahati to Delhi, among which the 12423 Dibrugarh–Rajdhani Express (3AC/2AC ₹2560/3565, 28 hours, 7am) is the fastest and most comfortable. The best daily train to Kolkata (Howrah) is the 12346 Saraighat Express (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹500/1315/1885, 17 hours, 12.30pm). If travelling to Darjeeling and Sikkim, get off at New Jalpaiguri (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹295/765/1075, seven hours).

Several trains also serve Dimapur (2nd seating/sleeper/3AC ₹105/180/460, four to six hours), Jorhat (2nd seating/sleeper/3AC ₹175/235/585, seven to 11 hours) and Dibrugarh (sleeper/3AC/2AC ₹180/315/860, 10 to 14 hours).

Getting Around

Getting into town from Guwahati's orderly Lokpriya Gopinath Bordoloi International Airport (23km away) costs ₹500/150/100 for a taxi/shared taxi/airport bus. Shared taxis (GOOGLE MAP) (per person/car ₹150/500) travel to the airport from outside Hotel Mahalaxmi on GS Rd. Autorickshaws charge ₹50 to ₹100 for short hops within the city. You could also call an Uber through your mobile-based app and enjoy a comfortable air-con ride for less than ₹10 per kilometre within town or to the airport.

Buses leave for several local destinations from Kachari bus stand ( MAP GOOGLE MAP; MG Rd).

TOP REGIONAL FESTIVALS

Losar (🕒Feb) Masked Tibetan Buddhist dances in Tawang.

Rongali Bihu (🕒Apr) Assamese New Year festivities.

Ambubachi Mela (🕒Jun/Jul) A melange of tantric fertility rituals at Kamakhya Mandir in Guwahati.

Ziro Music Festival (www.zirofestival.com; 🕒Sep) The region's very own Glastonbury takes place in Ziro Valley.

Wangala (🕒Oct/Nov) Garo harvest festival with dancing and drumming.

Ras Mahotsav (🕒Nov) Much song and dance in praise of Lord Krishna on Majuli Island.

Hornbill Festival (www.hornbillfestival.com; 🕒1-10 Dec) Naga tribes take the stage in full warrior gear just outside Kohima in Nagaland.

Around Guwahati

Hajo & Poa Mecca

Some 30km northwest of Guwahati, the pleasant little town of Hajo attracts Hindu and Buddhist pilgrims to its five ancient temples topping assorted hillocks. Hayagriva Madhav Temple is the main shrine, which is accessed by a long flight of steps through an ornate quasi-Mughal gateway. The images inside of Madhav, an avatar of Krishna, are believed to be 6000 years old. To get here, take local bus 25 from the Adabari bus stand in Guwahati (₹60, one hour).

Two kilometres east of Hajo is Poa Mecca mosque, sheltering the tomb of Hazarat Shah Sultan Giasuddin Aulia Rahmatullah Alike, an emperor-saint from Iraq who came here to preach Islam and died some 800 years ago. Muslims need to walk (the less pious may drive) 4km up a spiral road to reach the mosque, which is architecturally unremarkable.

Pobitora National Park

Located about 40km east of Guwahati, Pobitora (Pobitora; Indian/foreigner ₹50/500, camera ₹50/500, video ₹500/1000; 🕒 4WD access 7.30am-noon & 2.30pm-dusk Nov-Apr) is known for its thriving population of one-horned rhinoceros: nearly 100 of these hulking creatures call this 17-sq-km park their home. Besides, Pobitora is also popular among wildlife enthusiasts for other species such as leopard, wild buffalo, wild boar and almost 2000 resident and migratory bird types. Getting into the park involves a boat ride over the river boundary to the elephant-mounting station, from where you could embark on a one-hour trip atop an elephant, lumbering through boggy grasslands and stirring up petulant rhinos. Note, however, that elephant rides here incorporate the use of howdahs, which have been known to cause spinal injuries to the jumbos; many prefer to avoid these rides in the interests of elephant welfare. To get here, hire a half-day cab (₹1500) from Guwahati.

Tezpur

📍 03712 / POP 105,500

Little more than a utilitarian stopover for travellers journeying into Arunachal Pradesh or Upper Assam, Tezpur is a charming town with some beautifully kept parks, attractive lakes and enchanting views of the mighty Brahmaputra River as it laps the town's edge.

Sights

Chitrlekha Udyan

PARK

(Cole Park; Jenkins Rd; ₹20, camera/video ₹20/100; 🕒 9am-7pm)

Chitrlekha Udyan has a U-shaped pond (paddle-boat hire ₹20 per person) wrapped around pretty manicured lawns dotted with fine ancient sculptures. From April to September, the park also contains bumper cars and water slides. A block east, then south, stands Ganeshgarh Temple, which backs onto a ghat overlooking the surging Brahmaputra. It's a good place to take in river sunsets.

Sleeping & Eating

Prashaanti Tourist Lodge

HOTEL $

(📞 03712-221016; touristlodgetezpur@gmail.com; Jenkins Rd; s/d/tr ₹850/950/1300)

Facing Chitrlekha Udyan south of the bus station, this government-run hotel has been spruced up to cater to international budget travellers. The spacious, good-value rooms have clean attached bathrooms, fresh sheets and mosquito nets. The staff is extremely efficient and obliging by government standards.

Hotel KRC Palace

HOTEL $$

(krc.tezpur@rediffmail.com; JN Rd; s/d from ₹2530/2970; 🏠 📶)

Touting itself as 'one of the finest hotels in Assam', this smart midrange address offers great value for money. The spacious rooms have comfy beds, large windows, clean and airy loos, and mod cons such as flat-screen TVs and wi-fi. It's a five-minute walk along JN Rd from Mission Chariali.

KF

HOTEL $$$

(📞 03712-255203; kfhotel@gmail.com; Mission Charali; s/d from ₹2420/2970; 🏠 📶)

With slick, contemporary rooms, good customer service and plenty of attention to detail, this hotel – located about 3km north of the town centre – has lots going for it. There's an in-house restaurant, a coffeeshop and, most importantly, a well-stocked department store downstairs where you can buy essentials before venturing into remote areas.

Chat House

FAST FOOD $

(Baliram Bldg, cnr NB & NC/SC Rds; snacks from ₹50; 🕒 8am-9.30pm; 📍)

On the rooftop terrace, Chat House has an open-sided, but roofed, dining area boasting cooling breezes, good views, Indian snacks, noodles, pizzas and momos (Tibetan dumplings).

Spring Valley

CAFETERIA $

(NC Rd; snacks/mini meals ₹40/60; 🕒 7.30am-9pm; 📍)

This incredibly busy and popular cafeteria serves hot, tasty all-day snacks and mini meals – the puris (deep-fried flatbreads) are simply scrumptious – through the day. The bakery section has a decent range of puffs, pastries and bread, while the upstairs vegetarian restaurant comes alive during lunch and dinner.

Getting There & Away

Jeep-booking counters are located on Jenkins Rd and run to Bomdila (₹400, eight hours), Dirang (₹400, six hours) and Tawang (₹750, 12 hours) in Arunachal Pradesh. Bargain for a private taxi on the same street for Nameri National Park (₹800) and Kaziranga National Park (₹1500). A little further on is the bus station (Jenkins Rd) with frequent services to Guwahati (₹190, five hours), Jorhat (₹200, four hours) and Kohora village (₹100, two hours) for Kaziranga.

Nameri National Park

Scenic Nameri National Park specialises in low-key, walk-in birdwatching treks.

Sights

Nameri National Park

NATURE RESERVE

(Indian/foreigner ₹70/520, camera/video ₹50/500; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Around 374 bird species have been recorded in Nameri, including such rarities as the greater spotted eagle and the white-winged duck. Birdwatching treks are a park speciality; make arrangements through Eco-Camp and Jia Bharelli Wild Resort (📞 03715-247109; Nameri National Park; d ₹2200). Mammals include wild elephants, a few rarely seen tigers and the critically endangered dwarf hog. Park fees include the compulsory armed guard. Access is from Potasali, 2km off the Tezpur–Bhalukpong road.

Sleeping & Eating

Eco-Camp

TENTED CAMP $$

(📞 9854019932, 8472800344; ecocampnameri@gmail.com; Nameri National Park; dm/d ₹400/1900)

Eco-Camp organises park visits, including two-hour birdwatching rafting trips (₹1650/2200 in a two/four seater). Accommodation is in ‘tents’, but colourful fabrics, private bathrooms, sturdy beds and thatched-roof shelters make the experience relatively luxurious. The camp is set within lush gardens full of tweeting birds and butterflies drunk on tropical nectar, while the exotic plants are all labelled for easy identification.

Eastern Himalayan Botanic Gardens

RESORT $$$

(Wild Mahseer; 📞 03714-234354; wildmahseer@gmail.com; d incl full board from ₹12,000; 🌳)

Set amid rolling tea gardens about 5km from Balipara and 30km northeast of Tezpur, this resort offers luxury accommodation in four superbly renovated planter’s bungalows on a picturesque 9-hectare campus canopied with evergreen trees. The showcase Heritage Bungalow (₹29,500 per double including full board) is a stately 100-year-old building that preserves a slice of the high life from its past.

Getting There & Away

You can hire a taxi from Tezpur to Nameri National Park for ₹800.

Kaziranga National Park

 03776

The famed one-horned rhinoceros, one of India's best-known tourism wildlife mascots, calls the expansive grasslands of the Kaziranga National Park home.

The park consists of western, central and eastern ranges, with the central range doubling as the venue for early-morning elephant safaris.

Sights

Kaziranga National Park

NATURE RESERVE

(Indian/foreigner ₹50/500, camera ₹50/500, video ₹500/1000;  4WD access 7.30am-noon & 2.30pm-dusk Nov-Apr)

The park's population of 1800-odd rhinos represents more than two-thirds of the world's total (in 1904, there were just 200). Kaziranga offers popular 4WD and elephant safaris that allow you to get close to the rhinos. Pay park fees at the range office, in the Kaziranga Tourist Complex (marked by an obvious rhino gate) about 800m south of Kohora village.

Tours

Elephant Safaris

TOURS

( 03776-262428; Kaziranga Tourist Complex; incl park Indian/foreigner ₹875/1875;  safaris 5.30-8.30am, book the previous night)

These popular safaris can be arranged at the Kaziranga Tourist Complex (located about 800m south of Kohora village and marked by an obvious rhino gate) or directly with your accommodation. Note that, while the safari elephants are well cared for by forest authorities, the rides incorporate the use of howdahs, which have the potential to cause spinal injuries to jumbos.

While no control or restrictions on elephant rides are currently in place, you may prefer to avoid them.

An armed guard accompanies some elephants as they enter the park. A ₹100 tip for mahouts and guards is customary.

4WD Safaris

TOUR

(📞 03776-262428; Kaziranga Tourist Complex; per vehicle incl toll fee western/central/eastern ranges ₹1600/1500/2000)

These popular safaris can be arranged at the Kaziranga Tourist Complex (located about 800m south of Kohora village and marked by an obvious rhino gate) or directly with your accommodation. An armed guard accompanies all vehicles entering the park. A ₹100 tip for drivers and guards is customary.

Sleeping & Eating

Tourist Complex

Jupuri Ghar

RESORT $$$

(📞 9435196377, 0361-2605335; www.jupurigharkaziranga.com; d incl breakfast ₹4200; ❄️)

A holiday atmosphere adds to the appeal of this pretty property, comprising traditional-style cabins set around pleasant, mature gardens in a tranquil setting. It's well managed and has an open-air restaurant where you can compare your safari notes with other guests over the complimentary breakfast.

Aranya Tourist Lodge

HOTEL $$

(📞 03776-262429; d from ₹1250; ❄️)

A somewhat characterless and boxy government operation masquerading as a forest getaway, this garden-fronted hotel features clean rooms, prompt service, decent food and a well-stocked bar. It's popular with large groups, so expect some noisy company. At the time of research, renovations were due to be completed that might work a few wonders on the place.

★ Maihang

INDIAN $$

(📞 9435600879; Kohora Village; mains ₹200-250; 🕒 noon-3.30pm & 7-10pm)

Fried duck, fish in sesame-paste gravy, fried pork with dried bamboo shoots or spicy mutton chunks – local cuisine can't get more varied than at this tiny roadside restaurant. A defunct vintage car repurposed into a reception desk leads to a cane-furnished dining area, where you can sample some of Assam's best ethnic delights in their most authentic form.

Beyond The Complex

Wild Grass Resort

RESORT $$

(📞 8876747357, 03776-262085; wildgrasskaziranga@gmail.com; d incl breakfast ₹2450)

This slightly ramshackle yet cheerful resort, about 10km east of Kohora, is so popular that it doesn't bother with a sign – it carefully labels all the trees instead! Its colonial-era decor makes you feel the clock has slowed. Tasty Indian food is served in the dining room. Bookings essential in peak season.

★ Diphlu River Lodge

RESORT $$$

(📞 0361-2667871, 9954205360; www.diphfluriverlodge.com; jungle plan per person Indian/foreigner ₹10,000/18,000; ❄️ 📶)

Easily the classiest place to stay in the Kaziranga region, this fantastic resort combines fine luxuries with a rustic look and an ethno-chic theme. The bamboo cottages lining the Diphlu River boast soft beds, rain showers in stylish bathrooms, and pleasant sit-outs from where lucky guests might spot rhinos grazing the grasslands. Oh, and the food is delicious.

Bonhabi Resort

RESORT $$

(☎ 03776-262675; www.bonhabiresort.com; d from ₹2010; ❄)

This quiet, friendly place consists of an old villa with a colonial-era look and feel, plus a series of comfortable cottages set amid gorgeous gardens. The food is well cooked but somewhat unimaginative. It's well signposted on the way to the eastern range.

Iora

RESORT $$$

(The Retreat; ☎ 9957193350; info@kazirangasafari.com; s/d incl breakfast from ₹6150/7380;

❄ @ 📶 🛀)

Somewhat formal and oversized for a place like Kaziranga, this sprawling property has excellently maintained rooms (42 in all) featuring tasteful decor, modern amenities and efficient service. The swimming pool is a big draw for kids, while adults can spend a lazy afternoon indulging in a range of therapies at the in-house spa.

i Information

Range Office

TOURIST INFORMATION

(☎ 03776-262428; Kaziranga Tourist Complex; per person forest tax/road tax/wildlife-society tax ₹100/300/100; 🕒 24hr)

Pay park fees at this office, located at the Kaziranga Tourist Complex (marked by an obvious rhino gate) about 800m south of Kohora village. Note that the approachway to the park entrance is via a dirt track diverting to the right 1km west of the tourist complex.

i Getting There & Away

Buses travel from Kohora village to Guwahati (₹350, four hours, hourly 7.30am to 4.30pm), Dibrugarh (₹300, four hours) and Tezpur (₹100, two hours).

A private taxi from Tezpur should cost ₹1500.

Jorhat

📞 0376 / POP 140,000

Apart from being the access point for Majuli Island, bustling Jorhat has little on offer for travellers. Gar Ali, the town's commercial street, meets the main AT Rd (NH37) in front of a lively central market.

Sleeping & Eating

Conveniently tucked behind the Assam State Transport Corporation (ASTC) bus station, Solicitor Rd has a bunch of reasonable hotels.

Hotel Paradise

HOTEL $

(📞 0376-2321521; paradisejorhat@gmail.com; Solicitor Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹770/1050;

Hotel Paradise has well-kept interiors, chequered blankets, friendly service, deep-fried snacks and free wi-fi in the lobby.

New Park

HOTEL $

(📞 0376-2300721; hotelnewparkjorhat@gmail.com; Solicitor Rd; s/d from ₹1050/1150; 🛏)

At the end of Solicitor Rd is New Park, a smart establishment with tidy, breezy rooms, hot showers and lots of daylight.

★ Puroi Bheti

GUESTHOUSE $$$

(📞 9954150976; rajibbarooah@yahoo.co.in; Haroocharai Tea Estate; d incl breakfast from ₹5000;

The highlight of Jorhat is the delightful Puroi Bheti, standing amid lush tea gardens on the western edge of town and run by a super-hospitable planter and his family. Personalised attention, premium accommodation, lip-smacking homemade food and song- and laughter-filled evenings with the hosts guarantee a memorable and luxurious stay. House dogs Elsa and Bamby are great company.

i Getting There & Away

The ASTC bus station (AT Rd) has frequent services to Sivasagar (₹80, one hour), Tezpur (₹160, four hours), and Guwahati (₹320, seven hours, eight buses 6am to noon), passing Kaziranga en route.

Jorhat's train station is in the heart of town, about 500m south of AT Rd along Gar Ali. The 12068 Jan Shatabdi Express (AC chair ₹585, seven hours, 2.30pm Monday to Saturday) is the most convenient of the three trains to Guwahati.

The windswept sandbank of Nimati Ghat, pockmarked with chai shacks, is the departure point for overcrowded ferries to Majuli Island (adult/4WD ₹20/600, 1½ hours, 8.30am, 10.30am, 1.30pm and 3pm). Nimati Ghat is a 12km ride from Jorhat by bus (₹30, 40 minutes).

Majuli Island

📍03775 / POP 168,000

Beached amid the mighty Brahmaputra River's ever-shifting puzzle of ochre sandbanks is Majuli, which at around 450 sq km is India's largest river island. For a place continually ravaged by the primal forces of nature (much of the island disappears under water every monsoon), Majuli flaunts unparalleled scenic beauty. The island is a relaxed, shimmering mat of glowing rice fields and water meadows bursting with hyacinth blossoms.

The two main villages are Kamalabari, 3km from the ferry port, and Garamur, 5km further north. Highlights of a visit here include birdwatching (nearly 100 species live here) and learning about neo-Vaishnavite philosophy at Majuli's 22 ancient satras (Hindu Vaishnavite monasteries and centres for art).

Surveys indicate that, at current levels of erosion, the island will cease to exist within the next two decades.

Tours

Majuli Tourism

BIRDWATCHING

( 9435657282; jyoti24365@gmail.com; Garamur Village; full-day tour ₹1000, bicycle hire per day ₹200)

Run by the friendly and knowledgeable Jyoti Narayan Sarma, Majuli Tourism conducts birdwatching tours and rents bicycles.

Sleeping & Eating

Some of the satras on Majuli Island have very basic guesthouses (per person ₹200). Remember to dress conservatively on the premises.

La Maison de Ananda

GUESTHOUSE $

( 9957186356; monjitrison@gmail.com; Garamur Village; r ₹600-900)

In Garamur, this thatched guesthouse on bamboo stilts has rooms decked out in locally made fabrics, giving it a hippie-chic atmosphere. There's also a new concrete block that sticks out like a sore thumb. It's run by a friendly tribal family, and the kitchen serves a delicious range of local Mishing dishes (meals ₹250).

Ygdrasill Bamboo Cottage

GUESTHOUSE $

( 8876707326; bedamajuli@gmail.com; Garamur Village; d/q ₹600/1200)

En route from Kamalabari to Garamur, this stilted guesthouse perches on a marshy, bird-spotted lake. Listen to the chorus of a thousand cicadas before dropping off to sleep in a comfy bamboo bed in one of the spartan, traditionally furnished cottages (bring that insect repellent along!). Dinner (₹250) can be organised by prior request.

Mepo Okum

GUESTHOUSE $$

( 9435203165; Garamur Village; d ₹1800)

A pretty complex of eight cottages ranged around a grassy lawn trimmed by seasonal blossoms, this place is often booked out by top-end international tour groups and is clearly the best of Majuli's overnight options. A very tasty local meal (₹500) can be enjoyed with advance arrangement.

i Getting There & Around

Ferries (adult/4WD ₹20/600, 1½ hours) leave Nimati Ghat in Jorhat for Majuli Island at 8.30am, 10.30am, 1.30pm and 3pm; return trips are at 7.30am, 8.30am, 1.30pm and 3pm. Departures depend on tidal conditions and season.

Jam-packed buses/vans (₹20/30) meet arriving ferries at the pier and then drive to Garamur via Kamalabari. For long stays, consider arranging a bicycle (per day ₹200) through Majuli Tourism.

SATRAS

A satra is a monastery for Vishnu worship, Assam's distinctive form of everyman Hinduism. Formulated by 15th-century Assamese philosopher Sankardev, the faith eschews the caste system and idol worship, focusing on Vishnu as God, especially in his Krishna incarnation. Much of the worship is based on dance and melodramatic play-acting of scenes from the holy Bhagavad Gita. The heart of any satra is its namghar (a large, simple prayer hall), housing an eternal flame, the Gita and possibly a horde of instructive (but not divine) images. Traditionally, satras have also patronised the elegantly choreographed Satriya dance form and the folk-performing-arts tradition of Ankiya Bhawna, in which masked dancers play out tales from Hindu mythology. To purchase traditional dance masks (₹300 to ₹2000) as souvenirs, visit Samaguri Satra, a 15-minute drive from Garamur village.

The most interesting and accessible satras in Majuli are the large, beautifully peaceful Uttar Kamalabari (1km north, then 600m east of Kamalabari) and Auni Ati (5km west of Kamalabari), where monks are keen to show you their little museum (Auni Ati Satra; Indian/foreigner ₹10/50, camera/video ₹50/200; 🕒9.30-11am & noon-4pm) of Ahom royal artefacts. The best chances of observing chanting, dances or drama recitations are around dawn and dusk or during the big Ras Mahotsav Festival, in celebration of the birth, life and feats of Krishna.

Sivasagar

📍03772 / POP 53,800

Once the capital of the Ahom dynasty, sleepy Sivasagar (literally ‘the ocean of Shiva’) takes its name from the expansive and graceful reservoir complex in the heart of town. It's otherwise a chaotic suburban settlement, important to tourists as a base for exploring some beautiful outlying Ahom ruins, as well as a transit point into Nagaland.

Sights

Ahom Temples

HINDU TEMPLE

(Shiva Dol; 🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

Three typical Ahom temple towers rise proudly above the partly wooded southern banks of Sivasagar tank. To the west stands Devi Dol, to the east Vishnu Dol and, in the centre, the 33m-high Shiva Dol, consecrated to the mother goddess, Lord Vishnu and Lord Shiva respectively. It's a good place to spend some time, quietly watching pilgrims go about their rituals within the atmospheric complex shaded by tropical trees. Ask before taking photographs.

Rang Ghar

MONUMENT

(Indian/foreigner ₹15/300; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

About 4km south along AT Rd from central Sivasagar, approximately 2km past a WWII-era metal lift-bridge, look right to see the rather beautiful Rang Ghar, a two-storey, oval-shaped pavilion that has now been impeccably restored and stands amid pretty lawns. Its gleaming sienna exterior sports some subtle stucco work in the form of floral motifs. The interiors are mostly unadorned, but you can walk up to the top floor, from where the Ahom monarchs once watched buffalo and elephant fights.

Talatal Ghar

RUINS

(Indian/foreigner ₹15/300; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

The ruins of Talatal Ghar are located about 4km south of central Sivasagar on AT Rd. Designed as a subterranean palace complex for the Ahom kings, this sprawling structure is now mostly in ruins, although it's possible to walk along its ramparts and explore some of the arched portals that now stand above ground level. Adjacent to the palace is Gola Ghar, an elegant structure with a vaulted roof that is believed to have been the royal armoury.

Gauri Sagar

HINDU TEMPLE

(Indian/foreigner ₹15/300; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

The somewhat grandiose complex of Gauri Sagar has an attractive central tank and a trio of distinctive 1720s temples – Vishnudol, Shivadol and Devidol – built by the Ahom queen Phuleswari. The most impressive of the three structures is Vishnudol, not as tall as Sivasagar's Shivadol but with much finer (though eroded) carvings. Gauri Sagar is on the main AT Rd about 16km south of Sivasagar en route to Kaziranga.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Shiva Palace

HOTEL $

(📞 03772-222629; hotelshivapalace.1811@rediffmail.com; AT Rd; s/d ₹990/1320, with AC from ₹1650/1980; 🏠 📶)

Around 500m south of Shiva Dol along AT Rd is this surprisingly appealing hotel, where you'll find a line of super-smart rooms with comfy beds, clean sheets, tasteful laminate furniture and good bathrooms. It's clearly the best of Sivasagar's meagre budget options, and the pricier rooms easily conjure a faithful illusion of a business hotel. There's a good in-house restaurant.

Hotel Brahmaputra

HOTEL $$$

(📞 03772-222200; www.hotelbrahmaputra.com; BG Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹1800/2970; 🏠 📶)

Now in its 25th year of operation, this trusted address features 34 rooms that – despite offering varying standards of comfort – all guarantee excellent value for money. Service is professional and prompt, and in-house restaurant Kaveri does a good job of Indian and Chinese staples.

Sky Chef

MULTICUISINE $$

(Hotel Shiva Palace, AT Rd; mains ₹160; 🕒 noon-10.30pm; 🍷)

Smartly appointed and featuring a good range of North Indian, Chinese and local Assamese fare, this restaurant is a great place to grab dinner after a long day's sightseeing around town. The staff will happily explain the nuances of local cuisine and help you order your preferred dishes.

i Getting There & Away

The ASTC Bus Station (cnr AT & Temple Rds) has frequent services to Jorhat (₹80, one hour), Dibrugarh (₹100, two hours), Tezpur (₹250, five hours) and Guwahati (₹410, eight hours, hourly from 7am).

For local sightseeing trips to Rang Ghar, Talatal Ghar, Gauri Sagar and Kareng Ghar, use a tempo (half/full day ₹300/600). You'll find them at an unmarked stop about 300m up BG Rd from AT Rd.

Dibrugarh

 0373 / POP 137,500

Cheerful and clement Dibrugarh, Assam's original tea city, usefully closes a loop between Kaziranga National Park and the Ziro–Along–Pasighat route in Arunachal Pradesh. It's also the terminus (or starting point) for the fascinating ferry ride along the Brahmaputra River to Pasighat.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Rajawas

HOTEL $

( 0373-2323307; www.hotelrajawas.com; AT Rd; s/d incl breakfast from ₹1000/1400;   )

Hotel Rajawas has 30 delightful rooms with modern amenities. Management does an excellent job of maintaining the property.

Hotel Little Palace

HOTEL $$

( 0373-2328700; www.hotellp.com; AT Rd; s/d from ₹1320/1920;  )

Anything but little, Hotel Little Palace has 48 well-appointed rooms with clean linen. The views of the Brahmaputra from the verandah at the end of the corridor are free.

Mancotta Heritage Chang Bungalow

RESORT $$$

( 0373-2301120; purvi@sancharnet.in; Mancotta Rd; d incl meals ₹8500;  )

The best place to enjoy a planter-style cuppa, Mancotta offers accommodation in a charming planter's bungalow fronted by lawns. It also arranges tea tours and river cruises on request.

Moti Mahal

NORTH INDIAN $$

(AT Rd; mains ₹180-250;  11am-3pm & 7-11pm; )

Hotel Rajawas boasts the highly recommended Moti Mahal restaurant, an upmarket eatery popular with the town's gastronomes that serves superb North Indian food, including staples such as naan, butter chicken, palak paneer (unfermented cheese chunks in pureed-spinach gravy) and tarka dhal (lentils seasoned and tempered with spices).

Getting There & Away

From Mohanbari Airport, 16km northeast of Dibrugarh and 4km off the Tinsukia road, Air India and Jet Airways fly to Guwahati, Kolkata and Delhi, and IndiGo flies to Guwahati and Kolkata.

From the main bus station (Mancotta Rd), both ASTC and private buses depart for Sivasagar (₹100, two hours, frequent 6am to 9am), Jorhat (₹200, three hours, frequent 6am to 9am), Tezpur (₹400, six hours, hourly 6am to 6pm) and Guwahati (₹550, nine hours, hourly 6am to 8am and 8pm to 10pm). There's also an AC Volvo service to Guwahati (₹790, seven hours, 8.30pm).

From the train station in the town centre, the overnight 12423 Dibrugarh–Rajdhani Express leaves for Guwahati (3AC/2AC ₹1150/1560, 8.35pm, 10 hours).

Rattletrap ferries (person/vehicle ₹60/1000;  hourly 9am-3pm) cruise daily to Bogibil Ghat (1½ hours) on the Arunachal side of the Brahmaputra River, where they're met by a bus to Pasighat in Arunachal Pradesh. Challenging the basic laws of flotation, the rickety steamboats carry up to four cars, a few dozen motorcycles and an army of humans. There's little shelter, so bring hat, sunglasses, water and sunscreen. Exact departure times depend on the Brahmaputra's water level. During the dry season, ferries cruise further upstream to Oiram Ghat, which can take up to five hours. Many hotels in Dibrugarh sell 4WD-ferry-4WD combination tickets (per person ₹300) for travel to Pasighat.

Manas National Park

☎03666

About 180km from Guwahati, along the Assam–Bhutan border, lies Bodoland’s Manas National Park (☎03666-261413; incl elephant safari Indian/foreigner ₹1100/2100, camera/video ₹50/500; 🕒Nov-Apr). The park has three forest ranges, of which the central Bansbari Range is the most accessible, reached from the town of Barpeta Road, northwest of Guwahati. The forests here are contiguous with the wilderness zone on the Bhutanese side of the international border, which bears the same name.

Sleeping & Eating

Bansbari Lodge

LODGE $$$

(☎0361-2667871; www.assambengalnavigation.com/bansbarilodge.html; per person incl full board ₹4500; ❄)

The Bansbari Range can be appreciated in delightful comfort at Bansbari Lodge. Jungle packages (per person ₹9000) cover full board, an early-morning elephant safari, a jeep safari, a guide and the park entry fee. However, you may prefer to avoid the elephant ride because of the animal welfare issues. Ask about river rafting, village tours and tribal cultural programs. Access is from Barpeta Road. Book through the Guwahati-based Assam Bengal Navigation.

Bear in mind that the elephant safaris here incorporate the use of howdahs, which can be harmful to the animals.

Getting There & Away

Guwahati–Kokrajhar buses (₹120) serve Pathsala junction and pass within 3km of Barpeta Road.

The 15960 Kamrup Express (sleeper/3AC ₹140/490, 2½ hours, 7.45am) and 14055 Brahmaputra Mail (sleeper/3AC ₹100/490, 2½ hours, 12.50pm) connect Guwahati and Barpeta Road.

Jeep rental is available at Barpeta Road and at Bansbari Lodge (for guests only).

ARUNACHAL PRADESH

Virginal Arunachal Pradesh appears as a giant patch of green on the country's map. India's wildest and least explored state, Arunachal (literally the 'land of dawn-lit mountains') rises abruptly from the Assam plains as a mass of densely forested and impossibly steep hills, culminating in snowcapped peaks along the Tibetan border. Home to 26 indigenous tribes, Arunachal is perhaps the last sanctuary for India's natural and anthropological heritage. Much of the state remains beyond tourism's reach, but new areas are slowly being opened to visitors.

China has never formally recognised Indian sovereignty here, and it took the surprise Chinese invasion of 1962 for Delhi to begin funding significant infrastructure (the Chinese voluntarily withdrew after a few days). Border passes are heavily guarded by the Indian military, but the atmosphere is generally calm. Arunachal has been relatively untouched by political violence, though Naga rebels are active in the state's far-eastern corner.

Permits

Foreigners can access Arunachal Pradesh only if they have a Protected Area Permit (PAP) from the Indian government, which is usually only granted if you are travelling in a group. Permits are issued through registered travel agents, meaning that even if you plan to travel independently, you will have to approach a tour operator to process the PAP for you. In practice, almost everyone joins a tour because of the difficulties of dealing with local officials and avoiding political unrest and insurgent groups without a guide who speaks the local language.

The rules in the other states change regularly. Manipur, Mizoram and Nagaland (all under permit clauses at different times) enjoyed 'permit free' status as of 2016, but the scene could well be different by 2018. Check ahead before you travel.

ARUNACHAL'S TRIBAL GROUPS

An astonishing patchwork quilt of ethnic populations, Arunachal is home to 26 tribal groups, including the Adi (Abor), Nishi, Tagin, Galo, Apatani and Monpa people. Many tribes are related to each other, while some consider themselves unique.

Modernity is slowly making inroads into the local society, but most tribes straddle the boundary between old and new – it's not uncommon to see a modern concrete building outfitted with a traditional open-hearth kitchen over stilted bamboo flooring.

The traditional animistic religion of Donyi-Polo (sun and moon worship) is still prevalent in the region, although Christian missionaries have had a significant impact on the religious beliefs and way of life in this area. For ceremonial occasions, village chiefs typically wear scarlet shawls and a bamboo wicker hat spiked with porcupine quills or hornbill beaks. Women favour hand-woven wraparounds like Southeast Asian sarongs, while some of the older men still wear their hair long, with a topknot above their foreheads. The artistic traditions of weaving and wickerwork are very much alive in these hills.

Architecture varies from tribe to tribe – traditional Adi villages are generally the most photogenic, with luxuriant palmyra-leaf thatching and wobbly bamboo suspension bridges strung across river gorges.

Itanagar

📍 0360 / POP 35,000 / ELEV 770M

Arunachal's capital takes its name from the mysterious Ita Fort, the brick ruins of which crown a hill above the burgeoning mercantile town. Awash in concrete, this somewhat characterless urban hub serves as the state's power centre (travel permits for Arunachal Pradesh are issued here).

Sights

Jawaharlal Nehru State Museum

MUSEUM

(Museum Rd; Indian/foreigner ₹10/75, camera/video ₹20/100; 🕒 9.30am-4pm Sun-Thu)

The spruced-up and well-maintained Jawaharlal Nehru State Museum has a decent representation of Arunachal Pradesh's tribal and natural heritage. The brightly coloured gompa of the Centre for Buddhist Culture is set in the gardens nearby.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel SC Continental

HOTEL $$

( 9436075875; www.hotelsccontinental.com; Vivek Vihar; s/d from ₹2200/2640;  )

This upscale, well-maintained hotel offers Itanagar's equivalent of business-class luxury in a quiet neighbourhood southwest of the bustling Ganga Market. The in-house Fire & Ice restaurant serves good Indian and Chinese fare. To get here, walk about 1km downhill along the main road from the town centre, then take the slip road hairpinning to the right.

Hotel Arun Subansiri

HOTEL $$

( 0360-2212806; Zero Point Tinali; s/d from ₹1540/1760;  )

With an oversized foyer better suited to a car showroom, Hotel Arun Subansiri has comfortably large rooms with clean bathrooms, soft beds and in-room wireless connectivity. It's within walking distance of the museum.

Fire & Ice

MULTICUISINE $$

(Hotel SC Continental, Vivek Vihar; mains ₹120-180;  11am-10pm; )

Sporting tasteful woodwork and smart maroon-and-white table linen, this eatery serves a good range of Indian and Chinese fare and vies for the moniker of Itanagar's prime fine-dining spot. It doubles as a lounge bar in the evenings (beers ₹100).

Getting There & Away

The APST bus station (Ganga Market) has services to Guwahati (₹550, 11 hours, 6am), Bomdila (₹380, eight hours, 6am), Pashighat (₹320, 10 hours, 5.30am and 6am) and Shillong (₹450, 12 hours, 4.30pm). Most buses depart in the morning, and there may not be connections available every day.

Across the road from the bus station, shared jeeps depart for Ziro (₹350, four hours, 5.30am and 2.50pm), Along (₹700, 15 hours, 5.30am) and Pasighat (₹400, eight hours, 5.30am).

The 22411 Naharlagun–New Delhi Express (3AC/2AC ₹2005/2940, 38 hours, 9.35pm) departs Tuesday from a new railway station in Naharlagun, about 12km east of Itanagar. There's also the daily 15168 Intercity Express (sleeper/3AC ₹215/580, nine hours, 10pm), connecting Naharlagun to Guwahati.

Itanagar is serviced by the Naharlagun helipad, which has daily flights (except Sunday) to Guwahati (₹4000). Ask your hotel reception or tour operator about tickets.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

NAMDAPHA NATIONAL PARK

The staggering Namdapha National Park (☎03807-222249; www.changlang.nic.in/namdapha.html; Indian/foreigner ₹500/1000), spread over 1985 sq km of dense forest in far-eastern Arunachal Pradesh, is an ecological hot spot with a mind-boggling array of animal and plant species, and habitats ranging from warm tropical plains to icy Himalayan highlands. Namdapha is famous for being the only park in India to have four big-cat species (leopard, tiger, clouded leopard and snow leopard). It's also a birdwatcher's delight, with around 500 recorded species.

The park is a long haul from anywhere, and visiting can be a pain unless you're travelling with a tour operator.

The gateway to Namdapha is Dibrugarh in Assam, from where you need to travel about 150km to get to the small town of Miao. From here it's a 26km drive to Deban, where the park headquarters are located. Simple accommodation is available in Miao at the Eco-Tourist Guest House (☎03807-222296; Miao; per person Indian/foreigner ₹400/600), or in Deban at the Forest Rest House (☎03807-222249; Deban; d Indian/foreigner ₹300/500).

Central Arunachal Pradesh

For intrepid travellers, Central Arunachal Pradesh promises some great adventures, from tribal encounters in the picturesque Ziro Valley to rafting on the Siang River and thrilling excursions to remote settlements such as Mechuka.

Ziro Valley

 03788 / POP 32,000 / ELEV 1750M

One of the prettiest landscapes in all of India, the fertile Ziro Valley nestles within Arunachal's formidable mountains like a mythical kingdom. A layered landscape of rice fields, rivers and picture-postcard villages of the Apatani tribe, it is an undisputed high point of any trip to Arunachal.

Scenery and village architecture apart, the main attraction here is meeting the older Apatani people, who have the traditional ornamentation of facial tattoos and nose plugs. The most authentic Apatani villages are Hong (the biggest and best known), Hija (more atmospheric), Hari, Bamin and Duta, none of which are more than 10km apart. It's vital to have a local guide to take you to these villages, otherwise you won't see much and might even be made to feel quite unwelcome.

Sprawling Hapoli (New Ziro), about 6km south of the Ziro Valley, has basic urban infrastructure and road transport.

Sleeping & Eating

Homestays are the best way to experience traditional Apatani hospitality. At present, there are more than 30 registered homestays in all the villages combined, although standards vary widely. The best of the homestays are clustered in Siiro village, about 3km southeast of Hapoli. There are also a couple of hotels in the region.

Hibu Tatu's Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

( 9436224834; hibuatotatu@gmail.com; Siiro village; per person incl half-board ₹1500)

Hibu Tatu's Homestay offers superb access into the lives of local villagers, and also provides guides (₹1000) and bicycles (₹500) for village tours. The homestay is located at the far end of Siiro village.

Abasa Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(☎9402709164; abasahomestay@gmail.com; Siiro village; per person incl half-board ₹1500)

For a memorable homestay experience (and a sampling of superb home-cooked food), consider a night or two at the lovely Abasa Homestay. It's run by the friendly and hospitable Kago Kampu, who is known for her expertise in making fine fruit wine.

Siiro Homestay

HOMESTAY $$

(☎9856209494; punyochada@gmail.com; Siiro village; per person incl half-board ₹1500)

Siiro is one of the most popular homestays in the Ziro Valley, its operator, Punyo Chada, easily qualifying as India's most jovial host. The rooms here – featuring soft beds and large windows – are unmatched in the region in terms of quality.

Getting There & Away

Sumos depart from MG Rd in Hapoli, near the SBI ATM, for Itanagar (₹350, four hours, 5am and 11am), Lakhimpur (₹350, four hours, hourly 7am to 9am) and Daporijo (₹450, six hours, around 9.30am).

MEET THE APATANI

Numbering around 25,000 and native to the Ziro Valley, the Apatani are one of Northeast India's most intriguing tribes. Believed to have migrated to the valley from the less hospitable northern highlands, the Apatani are strongly rooted in their ancient culture. Most people are adherents of the animistic Donyi-Polo (sun-and-moon worship) religion, and continue to live in traditional houses fabricated out of bamboo and wood (the interiors are very modern, though). Apatani villages are immensely photogenic, with T-shaped totem poles called babohs towering over rows of huts that line every thoroughfare. Farmers by occupation, the Apatani practise a unique system of agriculture in which terraced rice fields are flooded with water to double as shallow fish farms. The Apatani also excel in arts such as weaving and wickerwork.

Historically famous for their beauty, Apatani women have elaborate facial tattoos as well as extraordinary cane plugs known as dat, fitted into holes cut in their upper nostrils. Elders say the practice derived from a tribal legend that pronounced the adornments to be the ultimate complement to the innate beauty of Apatani women. However, some others believe it was an act of defacement to prevent the women from being kidnapped by warriors of the neighbouring Nishi tribe. Peace with the Nishis in the 1960s ended the practice, and only a few locals from older generations can now be seen wearing dat. Photography is a sensitive issue, so always ask first.

Ziro to Pasighat

Daporijo

 03792 / POP 15,700 / ELEV 250M

A necessary stopover midway along the long drive from Ziro to Pasighat, Daporijo is dirty, characterless and unsophisticated. However, its location on the banks of the Subansiri River gives you the option of a few walks and hikes. Start early from Ziro, and you'll be here by lunch.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Singhik

HOTEL $$

( 03792-223103; singhikhotel@gmail.com; d from ₹1900;

The surprisingly comfortable Hotel Singhik, with colourful interiors, an excellent restaurant and free wi-fi, is the best place to stop for the night on the Ziro–Pasighat route.

Ligu Tourist Resort

RESORT $

( 03792-223114; Ligu village; d ₹1350)

This comfortable resort is located in the thatched village of Ligu (coming from Ziro, take the left turn just before the bridge at the entrance to Daporijo). The proprietor's family cooks up fantastic traditional meals, and you can spend the evening wandering in the shadows of trees, exploring the village and meeting the friendly locals.

Getting There & Away

Sumos leave New Market in Daporijo's town centre at 6am for Itanagar (₹600, 10 hours) and Ziro (₹450, six hours).

Along

 03783 / POP 20,500 / ELEV 600M

A nondescript highway town en route to Pasighat from Daporijo, Along (aa-low) is a dusty, scruffy settlement with little for travellers apart from a small, informative district museum (Main Rd;  10am-4pm Mon-Fri).

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel West

HOTEL $$

( 03783-222566; hotelwest@rediffmail.com; Medical Rd; d from ₹1650; )

The saving grace of Along is the well-kept Hotel West, which has spacious and comfortable rooms, good service and a central location, making it the perfect place to retire to after your day-long road journey.

Hotel Toshi Palace

HOTEL $

( 9436638196; Main Rd; d from ₹900; )

Hotel Toshi Palace, opposite the APST bus station, has clean rooms and a pleasant terrace restaurant where beers flow freely after sundown.

Getting There & Away

Sumos from the town centre head to Itanagar (₹700, 15 hours, 5.30am) and Pasighat (₹250, five hours, 5.30am and 11.30am).

Pasighat

 0368 / POP 25,000

Laid out along forested plains by the banks of the Siang River, Pasighat feels more like Assam than Arunachal Pradesh. In September the town hosts the Adi festival of Solung ( 1-5 Sep), but through the rest of the year the most interesting sight is the sunrise over the gorgeous Siang.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Serene Abode

HOTEL $$

( 0368-2222382; thesereneabode@gmail.com; NH52; d incl breakfast without/with AC ₹1650/2650;  )

The new and smart Hotel Serene Abode ups the hospitality ante in Pasighat, with modern rooms, stylish loos, flat-screen TVs and efficient service.

Hotel Aane

HOTEL $$

( 0368-2222777; MG Rd; d from ₹1650; )

Most tourists passing through Pasighat sleep at Hotel Aane, which has pastel shades adorning its walls, clean sheets, and a good in-house restaurant.

Siang Tea Garden Lodge

RESORT $$$

( 9436675824; Oyan village; per person incl full board ₹3000; )

Lounge amid lush tea gardens at the Siang Tea Garden Lodge, which has simple but comfy rooms with ethnic decor, garden-fresh tea and awesome food prepared by Babul, the in-house chef. Rates here are flexible; those willing to participate in community-development and welfare programs often get a rebate. Oyan is about 25km south of Pasighat.

Getting There & Away

Sumos run to Along (₹250, five hours, 6am and noon) and Itanagar (₹400, eight hours, 6am). Ferries (per person/vehicle ₹60/1000) drift lazily down the Brahmaputra to Dibrugarh in Assam from Bogibil Ghat (and from Oiram Ghat during the dry season). Sumos take two hours to reach Bogibil Ghat from Pasighat, departing at 6am. Combined Sumo-and-ferry tickets (₹200) are sold by agents at the Sumo stand in town.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK

FRONTIER ADVENTURES

Mechuka

The drive from Along to Mechuka – a remote outpost very close to the Tibetan border – is one of the most enthralling road trips in Arunachal Pradesh. Mechuka often goes by the moniker of 'forbidden valley' – indeed, until recently, the only way to reach the village was on foot. Populated by the Buddhist Memba tribe, this tiny settlement on the banks of the Siang River is notable for the 400-year-old Samten Yongcha Monastery and its stunning landscapes, which culminate in a massive hulk of snow-draped mountains running along the border.

Sumos ply the 180km road from Along (₹550, seven hours, 5.30am), but connections are contingent on the weather and vehicle availability, and rides may not be possible every day. Unless you're able to find accommodation with a local family, the only place to stay is the government Circuit House, which rents out rooms on an ad hoc basis (and tariff). Remember that bookings can be overridden by visiting government officials. Owing to security issues, most places here won't accommodate independent travellers without a reference, so it is strongly recommended that your Mechuka trip be arranged through a local tour operator.

Tuting & Pemako

In the far north of Arunachal Pradesh lies the isolated town of Tuting, visited yearly by a handful of pilgrims and hard-core adventure seekers. Accessible from Pasighat by a long, rough road, it sits near the Tibetan border, where the Tsang Po River, having left the Tibetan Plateau and burrowed through the Himalayas via a series of spectacular gorges, enters the Indian subcontinent and becomes the Siang (which in turn becomes the Brahmaputra in Assam). Steadily gaining a reputation as a thrilling whitewater-rafting destination, the perilous 180km route from Tuting to Pasighat is littered with grade IV to V rapids, strong eddies and inaccessible gorges. This is for pros only.

Tuting also serves as the launch pad for the fabulous land of Pemako, known in Buddhist legend as a hidden paradise and the earthly representation of Dorje Phangmo (a Tibetan goddess). This isolated mountain valley is populated by Mema Buddhists and most visitors here are Buddhist pilgrims travelling on foot. However, a sealed road due to be completed by 2018 will result in a surge in tourist numbers.

If you do manage to get here, consider kicking back for a few nights at Yamne Abor (☎9436053870; Damroh Village; per person incl full board ₹2500), a lovely resort comprising a mix of luxury tents and eco-cottages in the remote Yamne Valley amid pretty Adi villages, rice fields and verdant forests. On your way down, stay a night or two at the Aborcountry River Camp (☎9436053870; Rane Ghat; per person incl full board ₹3000), situated amid a bamboo grove on the banks of the Siang and offering eco-chic rooms in traditional thatched cottages. Book both properties through Abor Country Travels & Expeditions.

Western Arunachal Pradesh

Bomdila

☎03782 / ELEV 2680M

Halfway between Tezpur and Tawang, Bomdila is a tiny settlement incorporating administrative offices, hotels, markets and wayside eateries. If you're overnighing here, there isn't much to do apart from exploring the local market or visiting the large monastery in the town's higher reaches.

Sleeping & Eating

Doe-Gu-Khil Guest House

GUESTHOUSE $

(☎9402292774; yipe_bg@yahoo.com; Monastery Hill; d ₹900; )

The traditionally decorated Doe-Gu-Khil Guest House, located just below the large monastery, provides fabulous views of Bomdila town spread out below. Rooms are simply appointed but well kept, the food in the canteen is fresh and tasty, and there's free wireless connectivity in rooms.

Hotel Tsepal Yangjom

HOTEL $$

(📞 03782-223473; www.hoteltsepalyangjom.in; Main Bazaar; d from ₹2450; 📶)

With wood-panelled rooms and a busy restaurant screening cricket matches on a cricket-field-sized TV, this is the town's most popular inn. It's centrally located, and offers free wi-fi in its cosy lobby.

Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps plying the long route from Tezpur to Tawang break at Bomdila for the night. You'll find connections departing from the town centre for Tawang (₹400, eight hours, 7am).

Dirang

📞 03780 / ELEV 1620M

Dirang is the gateway to the Tawang Valley and serves as a useful overnight stop, especially for those travelling in their own vehicles. Tiny Old Dirang, located 5km south of New Dirang, is a picture-perfect Monpa stone village. The main road separates its rocky mini citadel from a huddle of pretty streamside houses, above which rises a steep ridge topped by a timeless gompa. Heading the other way, just north of New Dirang, the valley opens out and its floor becomes a patchwork of rice and crop fields, through which gushes the icy-blue Dirang River.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Pemaling

HOTEL $$

(📞 9402783255; www.hotelpemaling.com; d from ₹1500; 📶)

Hotel Pemaling, 2km south of New Dirang, is a wonderful family-run hotel with smart rooms, great service and a very pleasant garden where you can enjoy views of the river below and the mountains above.

Norphel Retreat

HOTEL $$

(📞) 7085499595; www.norphelretreat.in; d ₹2500)

On the left bank of the Dirang River, about 1km north of New Dirang, stands the gargantuan Norphel Retreat, boasting luxurious rooms, tasty finger food and river views.

i Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps leave for Tawang (₹350, six hours, 5.30am) and Tezpur (₹400, six hours, 6am) every morning from the central market area of New Dirang.

Dirang to Tawang Valley

Climbing from Dirang, Arunachal's most perilous road is a seemingly endless series of bombed-out zigzags, which cross several army camps and landslide zones to finally top off at Se La, an icy 4176m pass that breaches the mountains and provides access to Tawang. The pass is likely to be snowed under during winter and high monsoon months, so enquire in advance if the road is open.

From the pass, the road plummets down the mountainside into the Tawang Valley. En route, you will cross the beautiful Nuranang Falls, cascading down the steep cliffs and continuing as a streak of silvery rivulet down the gorge.

There are no sleeping options along the way, so complete the 140km stretch from Dirang to Tawang well before sundown. Indian Army cafeterias at Se La and Jaswantgarh War Memorial – 20km down the road – serve piping-hot samosas (₹10), veg momos (dumplings; ₹20) and noodles (₹40), along with cups of free tea.

Tawang Valley

(📞) 03794 / ELEV 3050M

A mighty gash in the earth fringed by hulking mountains, Tawang Valley works a special magic on the minds of travellers. The valley is a gorgeous patchwork of mountain ridges, vast fields and clusters of Buddhist monasteries and Monpa villages. Autumn is a particularly beautiful season for travelling this route, when waterfalls are in spate and cosmos shrubs lining the tarmac come alive in riotous reds and pinks. The setting is more beautiful than the town itself, but murals of auspicious Buddhist emblems and colourful prayer wheels add interest to the central Old Market area. The prayer wheels are turned by a stream of Monpa pilgrims, many of whom wear traditional black yak-wool gurdam (skullcaps that look like giant Rastafarian spiders).

Sights

★ Tawang Gompa

MONASTERY

(camera/video ₹20/100; 🕒 dawn-dusk)

Tawang's biggest attraction is the magical Tawang Gompa, founded in 1681. Reputedly the world's second-largest Buddhist-monastery complex after Drepung Monastery (in Lhasa, Tibet), Tawang is famed in Buddhist circles for its priceless library. Within its fortified walls, narrow alleys lead to the magnificently decorated prayer hall, containing an 8m-high Buddha statue. Come at dawn (4am to 5am) to see monks performing early-morning prayers. Spectacular masked chaam dances are held in the courtyard during the Torgya, Losar and Buddha Mahotsava festivals.

Urgeyling Gompa

MONASTERY

(🕒 dawn-dusk) FREE

The ancient if modest Urgeyling Gompa is where the sixth Dalai Lama was born. Before he left for Lhasa, it's said that he stuck his walking stick into the ground and it eventually grew into a giant oak tree that flanks the entrance to the monastery. Within the main hall are hand-painted portraits of all the Dalai Lamas, and imprints of the forehead and feet of the sixth Dalai Lama.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Gakyi Khang Zhang

HOTEL $$

( 03794-224647; www.gkztawang.com; Monastery Rd; d from ₹1650; )

A kilometre out of town on the road to Tawang Gumpa, this hotel offers by far the best rooms in Tawang: colourful pastel affairs with polished wood floors. There's power back-up, good wi-fi and a 1st-floor bar, and the distant views of the monastery (from most rooms) clinch the deal.

Hotel Tashi Ga-Tsel

HOTEL $$

( 03794-222351; www.hoteltashigatsel.com; d incl breakfast from ₹2500; )

Pleasantly removed from the din of town, yet within walking distance of the main drag (near the General Parade Ground), this large operation offers a range of comfortable rooms with tasteful furniture, large bathrooms, clean linen, large windows and prompt service. Some of the pricier rooms also have private sit-outs.

Hotel Nefa

HOTEL $

( 03794-222419; Nehru Market; d from ₹800)

Hotel Nefa has tidy, wood-panelled rooms and hot showers but lackadaisical service. It fills up very quickly with domestic tourists, especially over weekends and local holidays.

Dragon Restaurant

CHINESE $$

(Old Market; mains ₹100-180;  8am-8pm)

The cosy Dragon Restaurant is Tawang's best eatery, serving freshly made local dishes such as churpa (delicious fermented-cheese broth with fungi and vegetables), momos (Tibetan dumplings), fiery chilli chicken and salted Tibetan yak-butter tea.

Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps with kamikaze drivers ply the route from Tawang to Tezpur (₹750, 12 hours, 5.30am), calling at Dirang (₹400, six hours), Bomdila (₹550, eight hours) and Bhalukpong (₹700, 10 hours). Himalayan Holidays (📞9436291868; Old Market), a reliable tour agency at the old market, sells tickets and arranges local tours and hikes.

NAGALAND

The uncontested ‘wild east’ of India, Nagaland is probably one of the reasons you came to the Northeast in the first place. Rich in primeval beauty, Nagaland’s dazzling hills and valleys – right on the edge of the India–Myanmar border – are an other-worldly place where, until very recently, some 16-odd headhunting Naga tribes valiantly fought off intruders. Of course, Nagaland today is a shadow of its once fierce self, and much of the south of the state is fairly developed. In the north, however, you still stand a good chance of meeting tribespeople in exotic attire who continue to live a traditional lifestyle. Note that a number of insurgent groups are active in the state and you should check the political situation before you travel.

Dimapur

📞03862 / POP 122,800 / ELEV 260M

Dimapur, the flat, uninspiring commercial centre of Nagaland, has very little up its sleeve to draw international (or even domestic) tourists. However, thanks to its airport (4km from town), it serves as an important access point, especially during the ultra-busy Hornbill Festival in Kohima in December.

Sleeping & Eating

★ Longchen Homestay

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞9436160888; ajmynsong@yahoo.com; Airport Rd, Ao Yimti Village; d from ₹2000; ❄️📶)

A charming quasi-traditional home adorned with bamboo trimmings and hemmed by lush paddies and vegetable fields, Longchen is reason enough to visit Dimapur. Hosts Anne and Toshi (a colonel in the Indian Army) and their house dogs provide great company, and the deliciously spicy Naga food is to die for (meals ₹350). Ao Yimti village is 3.5km from Dimapur.

Hotel Acacia

HOTEL $$

(📞 8415935254; www.hotelacacia.co.in; d incl breakfast from ₹2530; 🌐 📶)

The impeccably maintained Hotel Acacia has clean, spacious rooms, comfy beds, spotless linen, speedy wi-fi, prompt service and good in-house food. You'll find it opposite East Police Station along the main drag. A couple of on-site travel kiosks can arrange bus and flight bookings at short notice.

Getting There & Away

From Dimapur's tiny airport, located 400m off the Kohima road, 3km out of town, Air India (📞 011-24624074; www.airindia.in) and Indigo (📞 9910383838; www.goindigo.in) fly daily to Kolkata. The NST bus station (Kohima Rd) runs services to Kohima (₹100, three hours, hourly) and Imphal (₹450, seven hours, 6am).

Kohima

📞 0370 / POP 268,000 / ELEV 1450M

If not for its crazy traffic and rampant urbanisation, Nagaland's agreeable capital – scattered across a series of forested ridges and hilltops – could easily rub shoulders with the best hill stations of India. That said, it's still a nice place to stop by on your tour of the Northeast, and the festive Christmas week is a particularly beautiful time to be in town. Avoid Kohima on a Sunday if you can: apart from hotels, virtually everything is shut.

Sights

★ War Cemetery

HISTORIC SITE

(🕒 9am-5pm Mar-Oct, to 4pm Nov-Feb) FREE

This immaculately maintained cemetery contains the graves of 1400 British, Commonwealth and Indian soldiers – killed in action during WWII – laid out across stepped and manicured lawns. It stands at the strategic junction of the Dimapur and Imphal roads, a site that saw intense fighting against the Japanese during the 64-day Battle of Kohima, now widely considered the bloodiest of all WWII battles.

Central Market

MARKET

(Stadium Approach; 🕒 6am-4pm)

In this fascinating market that supplies the bulk of Kohima's kitchen supplies, tribal people buy and sell local delicacies such as borol (wriggling hornet grubs), tadpoles, bullfrogs, silkworms, exotic condiments such as dried and fermented bamboo shoots, fiery Raja chili peppers, jabrang (hill peppercorns), fermented soybeans and a mind-boggling range of meat and vegetables. Ask for permission before taking photos, although if you buy something, vendors will usually let you snap pictures of their stalls.

State Museum

MUSEUM

(₹5, camera/video ₹20/100; 🕒 9.30am-3.30pm Mon-Sat)

This well-presented government museum, 3km north of Kohima's centre, has galleries on two floors featuring tribal artefacts, jewellery mannequin tableaux, and a display of headhunted skulls, curated from old village collections. It's a good place to acquaint yourself with the genealogy of different Naga tribes and their diverse customs, cultures and crafts.

WORTH A TRIP

VILLAGES AROUND KOHIMA

Cultural tours are slowly catching on in Nagaland, and it's now possible to take a day trip to remote villages, interact with villagers, and even stay with local families thanks to the establishment of homestays in places such as Khonoma and Kisama. Contact Explore Nagaland (📞9856343037; www.explorenagaland.com; per person per night incl full board from ₹1500).

Khonoma

This historic Angami-Naga village was the site of two major British–Angami siege battles in 1847 and 1879. Built on an easily defended ridge, Khonoma looks beautifully traditional, with emerald paddy patchworks carpeting valley floors between towering ridges. There are a few simple homestay options in the village, and tour guides can work out overnight arrangements with local proprietors if informed in advance.

Kisama Heritage Village

Kisama Heritage Village has a representative selection of traditional Naga houses and morungs (clubhouse-dormitories) with full-size log drums and architectural ornamentation specific to each of Nagaland's tribes. Nagaland's biggest annual jamboree, the Hornbill Festival, is celebrated here. Within the village is the WWII Museum (Kisama Heritage Village; ₹10; 🕒10am-4pm), which has a collection of memorabilia from WWII battles fought around Kohima. Kisama is 10km from central Kohima along the Imphal road.

Kigwema

A 10-minute drive past Kisama along Imphal Rd brings you to Kigwema, an Angami village of historic importance where Japanese forces arrived and set up camp before the final showdown with Allied forces in 1944. The modest valley-view home of General Saito, commanding officer of the Japanese troops, still stands within the village and bears bullet marks from the battle that raged here. Several households in the village welcome tourists (preferably accompanied by local guides), and you can get a peek into the daily lives of resident tribespeople if you stay a night.

Sleeping

Accommodation becomes many times pricier and extremely scarce during the Hornbill Festival (early December). Some hotels open reservations a year ahead, so book well in advance.

★ Heritage

GUESTHOUSE $$

(📞 9436215259; theheritagekohima@gmail.com; Old DC Bungalow, Raj Bhavan Rd; s/d ₹2000/2500; 📶)

This stately guesthouse was once the official residence of Kohima's serving deputy commissioners, and overlooks the town from the summit of Officer's Hill. With nostalgia reigning supreme in each of its four charming and luxurious rooms, the place preserves a slice of the high administrative life from a bygone era. Delicious meals (mains ₹120 to ₹180) are available with notice.

Razhu Pru

HERITAGE HOTEL $$

(📞 0370-2290291; razhupru@yahoo.co.in; Mission Compound; d incl breakfast from ₹2500; ❄️ 📶)

A family home thoughtfully converted into a heritage hotel, Razhu Pru packs a diverse array of heirlooms and artefacts into its wood-panelled living areas. Elegant cane furniture and potted ferns add to the appeal. Rooms sport comfy beds, ethnic upholstery and fireplaces for cold winter nights. The kitchen does a superb Naga meal (thalis ₹500) if you order in advance.

Blue Bayou

HOTEL $$

(📞 0370-2292008; thebluebayoukohima@gmail.com; s/d incl breakfast from ₹1600/2680; ❄️ 📶)

Across the road from the War Cemetery, this central hotel has spacious, well-kept rooms, many of which have gorgeous valley views to the rear. Its competitive tariff makes it one of the first hotels to be booked out during December's Hornbill Festival, so book well in advance if you're planning to come during the bash.

Hotel Vivor

HOTEL $$$

(📞 0370-2806243; contact@hotelvivor.in; NH61; s/d incl breakfast from ₹3600/4150; ❄️ 📶)

The upscale Vivor, 3km south of town, has rooms lavishly fitted with spongy beds, snow-white linen, ultra-clean bathrooms and large windows. Service is prompt, a cafe below squeezes out fresh espressos, and there's a souvenir shop by the main entrance that boasts a decent collection of reasonably priced handicrafts.

Eating

Dream Café

CAFE $

(cnr Dimapur & Imphal Rds; mains ₹80-120; 🕒 10am-6pm Mon-Sat)

The place to be for most of Kohima's youth, this busy, cheerful place offers daily lunch specials such as fried noodles or pizza, as well as fresh coffee and snacks. Great hill views can be taken in from the bay windows, and displays by local artists and lots of friendly diners make this a good place to linger.

Ozone Cafe

CAFE $

(Imphal Rd; mains ₹80-120; 🕒 noon-8pm; 📶)

Hip and happening, this central cafe opposite ICICI Bank has a sprawling gymnasium-style dining area, where Kohima's young guns spend hours catching up over a variety of dishes including momos (Tibetan dumplings), pizza, noodles and ginger ale. Free wi-fi.

Arudupa Spur Cafe

MULTICUISINE $$

(Arudupa Hotel; mains ₹120-160; 🕒 11am-9pm Mon-Sat)

Part of the Arudupa Hotel, this is one of Kohima's busiest restaurants, with youngsters relaxing on sofas and tucking into a pan-Asian menu. There's good music through the day, and lots of heaters for cold winter nights.

Getting There & Away

The NST bus station (Main Rd) has services to Dimapur (₹100, three hours, hourly), Mokokchung (₹200, six hours, 6am) and Imphal (₹220, seven hours, 7am). The taxi stand opposite has shared taxis to Dimapur (₹200, 2½ hours). A reserved car and driver for a day out to Kisama and Khonoma costs about ₹1500.

Northern Nagaland

Kohima to Mon

The scenic but insufferably bumpy road from Kohima to Mon passes through beautiful forested hills, at one point briefly entering Assam. Along the way, you will pass several tribal settlements inhabited by the dominant Ao, who once excelled in warfare and continue to weave spectacular clan shawls with elaborate animal motifs. Laid-back Mokokchung, with a spectacular hill setting, is the biggest town en route and is a great place to acquaint yourself with Nagaland life.

Sights

Rendikala Subong Museum

MUSEUM

(Town Hall Rd, Mokokchung; ₹10)

This tiny, privately run museum houses a number of tribal artefacts relating to the local Ao culture, along with what is touted to be the world's smallest Bible. It's usually shut, but the on-site caretaker will open the doors if you turn up at a reasonable time.

Sleeping & Eating

Hotel Metsuben

HOTEL $

( 8014587442; metsuben@yahoo.com; Mokokchung; d from ₹990;   )

The spiffy Hotel Metsuben is the best place in Mokokchung to look for a bed and a range of hearty and fiery Naga dishes. Its hilltop location – off Kohima Rd, near Town Park – also means that you're comfortably distanced from the din of the town centre.

Tuophema Tourist Village

HOMESTAY $$

(📞) 9436005002; Tuophema; d ₹2750)

Sleep in Naga thatched huts and eat traditional food in a glass-paned cafeteria (meals ₹250) at this tourist village 45km north of Kohima. Notify it of your arrival in advance or it will probably be closed.

A tiny museum (with erratic hours) within the tourist village has a small collection of tribal artefacts and animal parts.

i Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps leave Kohima's NST bus station early in the morning and inch along the 150km stretch to reach Mokokchung (₹200, six hours, 6am). From there, you'll find a few connections the following morning to Sonari (₹100, four hours, 7am), which in turn has jeeps going to Mon (₹150, three hours, 9am and noon).

HEADHUNTING

Long feared for their ferocity in war and their sense of independence, Naga tribes considered headhunting a sign of strength and machismo. Every inter-village war saw the victors lopping off the heads of the vanquished and instantly rising in social stature (as well as in the eyes of women). Among certain tribes such as the Konyaks of Mon, men who claimed heads were adorned with face tattoos and V-shaped marks on their torsos, in addition to being allowed to wear brass pendants called yanra denoting the number of heads they had taken.

Headhunting was outlawed in 1953 (the last recorded occurrence was in 1963). Much of the credit for the change, however, goes to Christian missionaries in the region who preached non-violence and peaceful coexistence over decades. Almost 90% of the Nagas now consider themselves Christian, their unshakeable faith marked by behemoth-like churches that are a prominent landmark in any settlement. Most hamlets have got rid of their grisly human trophies, which are now seen as immoral possessions.

Mon & Around

The haggard hill town of Mon serves as an access point for the many Konyak villages in the area. Note that local day-tripping taxis are difficult to book in Mon and many of the outlying villages are not served by regular public transport. Having a reserved car with guide certainly helps in getting around these remote parts.

Sights

Konyak Villages

The most popular among tourist-friendly hamlets is Longwa, about 35km from Mon, where the headman's longhouse spectacularly straddles the India–Myanmar border and contains a fascinating range of weapons, dinosaur-like totems and a WWII metal aircraft seat salvaged from debris scattered in nearby jungles. You can spend some time at a local house here and several tattooed former headhunters can be photographed for a fairly standard ₹100 fee. Tribal jewellery, carved masks and other collectibles (₹200 to ₹1000) can also be bought from many households. In high season, the village charges a per-person entry fee of ₹200.

Other villages that can be visited from Mon include Old Mon (5km), with countless animal skulls adorning the outer walls of the headman's house; Singha Chingnyu (20km), which has a huge longhouse decorated with animal skulls and three stuffed tigers; and Shangnyu (25km), with a friendly headman and a wooden shrine full of fertility references.

Sleeping & Eating

Helsa Resort

HUT $

(📞) 9436000028; Mon; d from ₹1200)

This place is located on the edge of town en route to Longwa village, and has six traditional thatched Konyak huts with springy bamboo floors, sparse furnishings and hot water by the bucket. Meals can be arranged by prior request.

Konyak Tea Retreat

FARMSTAY $$

(www.konyaktearetreat.com; Shiyong village; per person incl full board ₹2500)

Located 20km short of Mon along the main road in Shiyong village, this fantastic homestay is run by the friendly Phejin, descendant of a legendary Konyak headhunter, and she does an excellent job familiarising guests with her tribal roots. Accommodation is in charming eco-chic rooms overlooking a tea garden, and the traditional Naga meals are delicious to the last morsel.

Getting There & Away

Shared jeeps from Mon bounce painfully to Dimapur (₹450, 13 hours, 3pm) and Sonari in Assam (₹100, three hours, 6am and 9am), where you can change for Jorhat (₹100, two hours) and Mokokchung (₹150, four hours). No public transport leaves Mon on the weekend, so schedule your trip accordingly.

TRAVELLING SAFELY IN THE NORTHEAST STATES

